POLICE FINALLY GET ANDERSON

Husky Prisoner Escaped From Them Last December

Charles W. Anderson, whose spectacular jump from the speeding auto patrol last December had all the elements of moving picture action and resulted in his escape from the police, was arrested in Boston Friday night. This morning he was arraigned in the district court on three charges of assault and battery. The cases were continued to Thursday. Sureties were set at $300 and were immediately furnished.

Anderson is one of the huskiest men ever in the custody of the police. He is a machinist by trade and weighs 250 pounds. His arrest last December followed trouble in a boarding house at Quincy Point. He offered no resistance when put in the police auto.

As Chauffeur Cahill sped up Washington street, making it is thought about 45 miles an hour, Anderson who had been drowsing suddenly stood up and before Wagon Officer Halloran could prevent him dove out of the back entrance and landed on the street.

The auto was stopped as soon as possible and officer Halloran ran to the scene expecting to find an unconscious prisoner. Just as he reached him Anderson jumped to his feet and ran down Washington street, onto Chubbuck street and across the meadows. Both policemen gave chase but Anderson proved to be as speedy as he was heavy and he outdistanced

THE WEATHER.

No matter how badly rain may be needed there is one day in the year when it seems wholly out of place and that day is the first of May. It is a day of mirth and romance. And you, Old Grouch, who sit there sneering, don't you remember when you hung a may basket to the little miss across the way? Perhaps she is your wife today. Why not surprise her by bringing home some flowers or candy?

The W. M. is optimistic regarding Sunday and Monday, which he assures us will be pleasant and warmer. Here are figures:

SOME ARE SAD, SOME HAPPY

Mayor Witholds Three of 16 Licenses

There are some happy expressmen and drivers of wagons for the collection of junk this morning, and some that are not happy. Those that are happy are the ones who called upon the city clerk and found that the Mayor had signed the order granting their permit or license and returned them to the city clerk ,who had them ready for delivery. Those that were unhappy were those who, when they called at the office of the city clerk, were informed that their particular permit or license had not yet been returned to the clerks office as yet.

All parties whose permit to transport liquor or whose license to drive wagons for the collection of junk have not been signed by the mayor will be unable to do business today.

At Mondays meeting the council passed orders granting sixteen permits to transport liquor. Of this number thirteen have been returned signed to the City Clerk. The thirteen are as follows: Harry W. Love, W. F. Loud & Son, Bruce & Warner, J. Gilbert Miller, Thomas H. Farell, Carl Lilja, Adams Express Co., M. J. Connelly, G. Saltalamachie, Andrews Express, N. T. Murphy, F. Giglio & Son, and N. DiPanfilio.

The three which have not as yet been returned by the Mayor are those of Peter Gacicia, Antonio Petta, and Richard S. Gardner.

Of the three not returned to the City Clerk those of Antonio Petta and Richard S. Gardner, were reported adversely by the license committee but were passed by the council.

Of the twenty or more junk wagon licenses passed by the council all but two have been returned to the city clerk. The two not returned were those granted to Max Berstein and Samuel Kertzman. These were the two reported adversely upon by the license committee but granted by the council. Of course the Mayor can now sign them if he desires but the general impression seems to be that he will veto them.

If the permits or licenses are vetoed an interesting question arises as to the legal standing of the permits and licenses if passed over the veto. The statute says that they must be signed by the Mayor and councilmen, or licensing board, which would seem to mean that in order to become effective both the Mayor and council, who compose the licensing board in Quincy must sign them. If the Mayor refuses the law has not been complied with and the license is not in force.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR.

On May 12 the Fowler Chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood of the Hall Place M. E. church will hold a supper in the vestry, to be folowed by a reception to Rev. and Mrs. Willis H. Germany, at which time the challenge of the Ladies Aid to the Methodist Brotherhood will be answered by the presentation of "The Great Chicken Case."

MR. WILLMOTT'S LAST SUNDAY

Church Council Accept His Resignation

On Sunday Rev. Benj. A. Willmott, for three years pastor of Bethany Congregational church, will close his work in this city and will immediately take up his duties in his new pastorate in Roxbury. At the Sunday morning service he will administer the Holy Communion and receive new members into the church. Children will be baptised. In the evening the organ recital will begin at 7.15 P. M. Doors will be open at 7 P. M. The Pleasant Sunday evening service will begin at 7.30, Mr. Willmott's subject being "To Build You Up."

A meeting of the district church council was held Friday evening to take action on Mr. Willmott's resignation. The resignation was accepted with regret and it was voted that relations between the pastor and the church be dissolved. Resolutions of regret were passed at the pastor's leave taking.

Rev. Henry C. Alvord of South Weymouth was the moderator of the council and Rev. H. W. Boyd of East Bridgewater, was clerk.

Eleven persons were nominated by the council and from these a committee of five will be elected by the church meeting next Thursday evening. This committee will suggest the new pastor of the church and the church will vote upon the committee's suggestion. It is believed it will be several months before the new pastor is chosen.

WILL REPORT ALL UNLICENSED DOGS

Instructions have been issued to the police department by the mayor to report all owners of dogs who have not taken out the proper license for 1915. According to law the 1914 license expired automatically on March 31st. SECOND NIGHT OF FAIR.

Whist and dancing featured the second night of the fair of the Circle Daughters Viking, C. F. of A., in Electa and Protection halls Friday night. The attendance was small on account of the inclement weather.

The souvenirs for high scores in whist were awarded to Mrs. Gertrude Almquist and Miss Helen Peterson, J. Johnson and F. Almquist. The consolation prizes went to Mrs. Thure Olson and Sigrid Larson.

Dancing was enjoyed until midnight. The fair will come to a close this evening.

ANOTHER HONOR FOR HARDWICK

"Tack" Is Now Baseball Captain

Huntingon R. ("Tack) Hardwick of Quincy, Harvard's premier athlete, on Friday was elected captain of the Harvard base ball team for the rest of the season, to succeed Russell R. Ayres, '15, who resigned on account of illness.

Hardwick is unquestionably one of the best athletes at Harvard college and it is generally believed, in some parts of the college world, that the recognition of his ability as a captain comes later than is deserved.

Hardwick, as halfback and end on the football team, ranks as one of the fastest players of his time. He was the unanimous choice of the "war college" as all American end. He won his track insignia in the shotput when a sophomore.

This will be Hardwick's third season in the national game. Mediocre hitting marked his playing the first year but last season and so far this year he has been hitting with the best of them. As a base ball player he attained prominence two years ago when he made a home run drive and broke up the Harvard-Yale game on Soldiers field after it had gone 14 innings.

The new Harvard leader is in the senior class, is 22 years old, six feet tall and weights 175 pounds. On two occasions he has broken the strength test record of the college, and was only recently distanced in this regard by George Davis, the pitcher of the Braves. At the senior elections Hardwick was chosen a member of the Class Committee and he belongs to the Phoenix, Digamma, Hasty Pudding, D. K. E. and Institute Clubs.

R. B. Frye has been acting captain of the Harvard nine up to the election yesterday, which was given out as the unanimous choice of the men now playing on the team.

KNIGHTS HOLD LADIES NIGHT

Enjoy Entertainment and Dancing

There was a good attendance and a good time at the ladies' night held Friday evening in Court John Ericson hall by the Knights of Sherwood orrest. The affair was limited to the members of the order and their ladies. During the first part of the evening there was a pleasing entertainment which included selections by Mr. Scott a well known comedian, and vocal and instrumental music by the members of the order. At the conclusion of the entertainment, the several numbers of which were freely applauded, light refreshments were served and there was dancing. Two Sir Knights from Brockton in full uniform were guests.

SAYS HE WILL VETO 3 EXPRESS LICENSES

That he will veto three of the sixteen pony express licenses passed by the City Council at its last meeting was the declaration of Mayor Campbell in addressing the Wollaston Woman's Christian Temperance Union Friday night. The occasion was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the union and the meeting was held in the Wollaston M. E. church. There was a good attendance, despite the bad weather.

Mrs. Crothers in introducing Mayor Campbell said she was glad we had a W. C. T. U. mayor and for the stand the Ledger had taken in reference to places which had license around Quincy. Mayor Campbell said:

"I never pose as a temperance orator but I am interested in the subject and shall devote what time I can put to it in furthering the cause." He said that there were twenty-four men in our city alms house and that nearly every one of those men were brought to that condition because he drank. In an institution in the state which has two hundred feeble minded children, eighty per cent. are the children of drinking parents.

The city council on last Monday night granted eighteen pony licenses but Mayor Campbell said that on next Monday night three of those would go back to the council with his veto. There is a bill before the legislature now which will make it illegal to carry liquor into any no-license town so that in 1916 perhaps there will be no trouble about pony license. The clerks in Mr. Campbell's Boston office who are in touch with prominent men in Boston, have been asked to approach him and get him to withdraw his objection against the granting of two licenses near the Boston side of Neponset bridge.

Only Friday a prominent automobile dealer of Boston in company with a brewer visited Mr. Campbell with the same request but he told them if they could give him one good reason, why he should do so he would withdraw his opposition. They were not able to give a good reason. He said in closing that his instructions to the police were to clear up the corner gang and if they did not, men would be put in their places who would. He also said he would revoke the pony license of every expressman who did not live up to the law.

Thirty one of the Wollaston school children opened the program by marching into the church, taking their place at the front of the room singing one of their temperance songs, after which they gave a rallying cry. Rev. George M. Bailey, pastor of the church, led in prayer. Mrs. George Crotners, president of the local association, in a brief but cordial manner welcomed the members and their guests. She said the beginning of the organization in Wollaston had many difficulties to contend with because temperance was not so popular twenty-five years ago as it is today. She called upon Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, as one of the charter members, to tell a bit about these beginnings.

Mrs. Pinkham said in part:—

"We love to think of the members who have been in our midst, how they looked, worked and made friends. To change the well known poem—

We shall meet, but we shall miss them,
There will be some vacant chairs:
We shall linger to caress them
When we breathe our evening prayer.

"Not knowing positively the person first inspired to start our local union, I am ready to assume that Mrs. M. M. Manning, an intimate friend of Dr. and Mrs A. J. Gordan of Boston, who were believers and workers in a general movement throughout the State may have had a guiding hand in many of the preliminaries. Mrs. A. J. Gordan came from Boston and organized the society the sixth of February in the Congregational vestry. It was decided to have four vice-presidents, one from each of the churches. The following officers were elected,—

President, Mrs. George A. Litchfield.

Vice-presidents, Mrs. M. M. Manning from the Baptist church Mrs. R. H. Key, wife of the Unitarian minister. Mrs. Luther Freeman, wife of the Methodist minister. Mrs. J. K. Osgood, from the Congregational church.

Corresponding secretary Mrs. J. G. Witham.

Recording secretary, Mrs. E. S. McClintock.

Treasurer, Mrs. C. W. Sherman.

Only eight of the thirty two departments of work were taken up first as follows—Sabpath School, Mrs M. M. Manning. Juvenile, Mrs. J. W. Emmerson assisted by Miss Freeman. Press Work, Mrs. George F. Pinkham. Scripture Instruction, Mrs. S. B. Harrington, Union Signal and Our Message, Mrs. R. D. Wentworth. Literature, Mrs. Mary A. Ela. Evangelistic and Bible Study, Mrs. Josiah Sparrow. Flower Mission, Mrs. L. F. Corthell.

THE NEWSPAPER JURY.

At any rate, one seldom hears of newspapers brought to time in New York state for contempt of court in reporting trials. In Massachusetts court reporters continually are warned against taking liberties with evidence, and as a result trials in Massachusetts are seldom settled by the papers before the jury has given its decision.

Take, for instance, the most unusual trial at Syracuse in which two of the country's most conspicuous political figures are involved. One has to look long for a newspaper giving unbiased and fair treatment of the evidence offered daily. The news dispatches from Syracuse are intensely interesting but whether the day was a "Teddy" day or a "Barnes" day depends on the political complexion of the paper in which one reads the trial news.

New York papers delight in commenting editorially on the progress of the trial, which would not be countenanced during the course of a Massachusetts' trial.

Justice Andrews has two or three times warned the Syracuse jury against reading newspaper accounts of the trial. We would like to see him stand up in his robes and warn the reporters, instead.

What if a political party and political leaders are on trial? Let the jury of twelve make its verdict and let the jury of the American people have its evidence uncolored by comment before it renders its verdict.

CENSORING LOCAL NEWS.

The outbreak among striking clothing workers in Boston Friday morning was so serious that it couldn't be kept out of the city papers.

An Italian was chased up Hanover street by a gang of strikers armed with stout walking sticks (they carried sticks because their leaders suggested them as the only legal weapon); and the man was badly beaten up on the steps of the Hanover street police station before policemen rushed out from the guard room to make the usual arrests.

The strike at issue has been going on for weeks, with many minor disturbances and more threatening gatherings. But little has appeared in the Boston papers. Why? Because the strike is aimed against a large clothing store, and the large clothing store is a large advertiser in Boston papers.

This strike would likely be cleared up much sooner if the light of publicity was allowed to show up the situation clearly. It is not likely that giving the public all the facts would actually hurt the store's business. Recently, in another matter, one Boston store was given its lesson by a Boston paper with courage enough to assert its rights and the rights of the public to uncensored news columns.

Is another lesson necessary?

HISTORY MAKING.

A practical example of the stuff of which history is made is being afforded by the Barnes-Roosevelt suit now being tried at Syracuse, N. Y. Disillusioning it may be to many persons but history is likely to be disillusioning to those who knew the heroes in life. It affords a glimpse behind the scenes in political life, where the actors may be viewed stripped of their paint. Much of it may be distorted: it is for the historian to sift the facts, balance them with facts obtained from other sources, and weed out the unimportant and the prejudiced.

It must be the hope of good people everywhere that the illness of King Gustave of Sweden is not so serious as reported. The king is a man of ability, a wise ruler, who has done much to keep his people, and the people of Norway and Denmark, from becoming involved in the Great War.

Speaking of tax dodgers—Tax Collector H. A. Phipps of Hopkinton, Mass., according to the Framingham Evening News, has purchased a motorcycle for use on official business. He feels that the "dodger" will have difficulty in evading him.

BRYAN SCORES STRONG DRINK

LESSON FROM EUROPEAN WAR

Temperance Advocates Surprised at Ghastly Light Which Situation Has Thrown Upon Subject—Even Patriotism No Match For Appetite Cultivated by Use of Alcohol

New York, May 1.—Secretary Bryan declared in an address under auspices of the National Abstainers union here that the European war had developed that even patriotism was no match for the appetite which alcohol cultivates in its victims. The secretary was urging total abstinence and referred to restrictive measures which some of the belligerent nations have taken against intoxicants.

"There has been a growing disposition in this country and throughout the world to emphasize the evils of strong drink," he said, "but even the most enthusiastic advocates of temperance have been surprised at the ghastly light which the war in Europe has thrown upon the subject. It has been found that patriotism, that compelling force which throughout the ages has led men to offer their lives for their country, is no match for the appetite which alcohol cultivates in its victims.

"Loyalty to Bacchus, Gambrinus and Barleycorn is greater than loyalty to the king or kaiser or czar. The use of drink has been found to be so destructive of efficiency that the belligerent governments, not on moral grounds but purely on economic grounds have been compelled to resort to restrictive measures."

Bryan declared that drink led to idleness and that American business men were drawing the line more strictly against the use of alcohol by employes.

"No employer cares to put business in the hands of a tippler; the man who drinks cannot safely be trusted with the care of life and property."

Total abstinence, he remarked, was a virtue "even behind the bar."

"As for myself, while I have definite views as to the means that should be employed for solving the legislative problem presented by the liquor traffic, I shall confine myself to the first line of argument, and appeal to those present and to those whom I may reach through the press to take their position as individuals on the side of total abstinence; for whatever difference of opinion may exist as to the relative merits of different legislative remedies no one will deny that the total abstainer, to the extent of his influence, lessens the use of alcohol and by so doing both reduce the evils of intemperance and lightens the task of the legislator."

OBREGON QUITS CARRANZA

Notifies First Chief That He is Leading Own Party

El Paso, Tex., May 1.—General Obregon has repudiated Carranza and is now leading his own party, according to the report received here by Villa agents. It is said that after the battle of Celaya, in which Obregon troops severely defeated the Villa army, Obregon informed Carranza that he was leading his own party and that if Carranza wished to partake in the victories against Villa he must join his forces to those of Obregon. For this reason Villa authorities claim that no reinforcements have reached Obregon at Irapuato.

The advance guard of the army which Villa has been mobilizing at Aguascalientes for the last ten days began moving southward. Six thousand men under General Rodriguez, who commanded the Villa column which attacked Matamoros recently without success, left the concentration point in twelve trains for Irapuato, where Obregon is camped with his main army.

Thirty thousand Villa soldiers have been brought together in Aguascalientes and along the railway as far as Leon, it is reported. The remainder of Villa's army will move south as soon as transportation facilities are available. Obregon's strength is not known, but Carranza officials here claim he has as many men as Villa and is well prepared to engage the northern leader's forces.

Between 1200 and 1500 Villa soldiers are en route to Juarez from Torreon to reinforce the border town's garrison. This movement of troops was made because 1500 Carranza troops are marching from Sonora to attack Juarez under Colonel Samaniego.

K. OF K. A. HOLD MOCK TRIAL

Guy Shaw, charged with evading his fare on the train between Quincy and Brockton, was given a hearing Thursday evening at a mock trial held by Bethany Castle, Knights of King Arthur. Master Shaw was ably defended by John Willmott while William Crane, acting as the prosecuting attorney, presented the evidence that he hoped would convince the jury that the defendant was guilty of the offence with which he had been charged.

Merlin, Robert Wetherell, acted as Judge, and the jury was composed of the peers of the defendant. After a fair and impartial trial the court charged the jury, which after mature deliberation found the defendant not guilty.

Another interesting event at the meeting was the presentation, to the castle by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Sidelinger of a framed memorial inscription from Sir Gareth, one of the knights of King Arthur. The gift was in memoriam of their son Carl, and was presented to the castle in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Sidelinger, by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott.

PETITION DISMISSED.

Lemuel Pitts Falls To Collect Back Pay.

Lemuel Pitts of Quincy has lost in his effort to recover back pay from the state, his petition being dismissed by Chief Justice Aiken of the Superior Court on Friday.

Pitts, a veteran of the Civil War, sought to recover back pay from the state as an employee of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board. In his petition he alleged he had never been benefited by the increase granted to laborers by the board under an act of the legislature.

Pitts had charge of the reservoir and water tank on Third Hill Wollaston. The pay was $60 per month as an attendant and was later increased to $65. He says, however, that he served as a foreman and did other executive and police duties in taking care of the grounds. In his petition he set the amount alleged to be due him at $940.

Every year at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, in New York city, there is held a show of dogs, usually of the pet class. This year the show was held as usual, and it happened that a girl won one of the most coveted prizes with her pet animal. The girl, whose picture is shown above with her pet, is Miss Alice Beatrice Tainter. Her dog, a toy bull, was first in his class. The interesting thing about this event is that Alice did not dream that her dog would win a blue ribbon, (which means first prize), when she entered him for the contest. She of course believed that her pet was about the cutest and best that ever was seen, but she was also aware that amongst so many there might possibly be a dog which the judges would prefer over her pet. However, her hopes were realized, as it turned out, for to her dog was awarded the blue ribbon as the best of its breed. She was so overcome at the judges' decision that she was in a solemn mood when the photograph man took a snapshot.

Portrait In Words.

One of the company having gone out of the room, the rest agree upon a person (man or woman) whose identity the absentee is to guess from the answers to questions which he puts to the company one by one. The only answers allowed being either "yes" or "no," the task of recognizing the chosen person is not always easy.

The "portrait" may be that of a private person or a public character. In the former case he or she must be generally known and, of course, to the guesser.

At a signal the questioner enters the room and at once proceeds to business by general questions to settle sex ("Am I a man?") and distinction ("Does everybody know me?"), and then step by step, by a process of elimination, narrows the range of choice to such an extent that he may be enabled to "spot" the subject.

Sometimes the guesser himself is the chosen person, and it is a long time, as a rule, before this likelihood dawns upon him—if, indeed, it ever does. It simplifies answers and makes for clearness for the guesser to identify himself with the person selected. "Is it a woman?" is less pleasing and less businesslike than "Am I a woman?"—even if the questioner should be a man.

A Cat In a Trunk.

A Missouri housewife was cleaning up her garret when by some means the family cat got into an old trunk filled with clothing and was shut in. Just ten days later some one in the garret heard pussy's feeble cry, and when the lid was lifted it had barely strength enough to crawl out.

It had torn the clothing in the trunk all to pieces in its clawings and had gnawed the sides nearly through in several places. But perhaps the most singular circumstance was found in the manner in which the cat took care of itself after securing liberty.

Milk and meat and water were set before it in liberal quantitites, but the cat would not touch the meat and lapped the water and milk only a little, with frequent rests, and this proceeding it continued through the whole afternoon. If that cat had been a human being it would have swallowed all that was placed before it at one gulp and then died.

A Hint For Boy Scouts.

Practically everywhere in the United States can be found scenes and landmarks of interest and importance in the Indian lore of the region. This opens to every boy scout troop a wide field of valuable study and experience.

With a little effort it should be possible for a group of scouts to gather the whole Indian history of its territory. There are numerous sources. Maybe the public or some private library contains a county history or a history of the state which gives the more important general facts. Then from old inhabitants the local story can be pieced together.

A scout troop will find a lot of fun and excitement on hiking or camping expeditions by re-enacting the Indian stories of the country.—Chicago Tribune.

ITALIANS GIVE DANCING PARTY

The modern dances were given the preference at the first social dancing party of Loggio Roma, Figli d'Italia, in Alpha hall Friday evening. The order included 20 numbers.

Several "knocks" on the order created considerable amusement. A moon light waltz was dedicated to the Siamese Twins, Arnaldo De Nicola, floor director, and Louis Luciano, assistant floor director, two of the heaviest men in Quincy.

The attendance was somewhat lessened by the heavy storm which swept over Quincy. The music was by Mazzola's orchestra. Refreshments were served in Union hall.

Loggio Roma was organized several months ago and has a membership of 76. Its officers are some of the best known Italian residents of Quincy. Sig. De Nicola became prominent last fall when he recruited 65 reservists, all of whom sailed for Italy. He has seen service as a telegrapher in the Italian army and was a superior officer with the rank of sergeant. Pietro Moffola and Luigi Luciano are both popular barbers. The aids were also officers and were Orlando Pace and Damiano Pettinelli, local tailors, and Aniedeo Ghetti.

The committee of arrangements were Orlando Pace, Lorenzo Caravaglio, who was also chairman of the refreshment committee, Matteo Jacovilli, Alceste Casali, Alfonso Gregorio, Riccardo Jacobucci, Luigi Sansiani, Luigi Sandonato, Antonio Spadorci, Nasci Vito, Starte Letterio.

Reapers' Circle of Christ church meets next Friday evening at quarter of eight at the home of Miss Madeline Pollock, Bigelow street.

FACES THREE NEW CHARGES

Three new charges of breaking and entering were preferred against Joseph Henry, when his continued case, charging him with larceny of pneumatic tools from the granite sheds of Marini and Berelli, was called today. Judge Avery heard the continued case and said he would make no disposition of it, until he had heard the evidence on the other complaints on next Monday. Bail was set at $$900 on the new charges.

Two officers of Station 11, Boston, who arrested Henry testified that he was taken at his Boston home shortly after midnight and that he was hiding under the bed of a top floor room.

Inspector Goodhue, who brought the complaints, says that Henry has been identified by Boston pawn brokers as the person who disposed of tools stolen from Quincy sheds. The new complaints charge him with the larceny of bush hammers from the sheds of Cole and Cole Granite Co., Kavanaugh Bros., and Christie & Co. All of the tools stolen at those places have been recovered.

Inspector Goodhue also claims that Henry had two aliases and is known in Boston as McJones and Dolan.

Arthur L. Thomas, counsel for the defendant, this morning argued that identification of Henry as the man who sold one of the tools missing from the Marini and Berelli Co., did not prove a breaking and entering charge. Judge Avery decided to make no finding however.

FORE RIVER LOG READY

Joseph M. Larkin, editor of the Fore River Log, the paper to be published in the interests of the employees at the Fore River shipyard, put his official O. K. on the last piece of "copy" this morning and the paper will go to press on Monday.

The paper promises to be one of the most interesting published in metropolitan Boston and although an advance table of contents has not been secured it is understood that the contributing editors swamped Editor Larkin with copy on topics of vital interest to the employees.

DESCENDANTS OF NOTED FAMILIES

The fifth generations of two historic families which played a great part in the early history of the United States will be represented at the launching of the torpedo boat destroyer Tucker at the Fore River shipyard Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

They will be Mrs. Mary Hinds Garty of Brookline, sponsor of the ship and lineal descendant of Commodore Tucker, in whose memory the destroyer will be named, and Charles Francis Adams, 2d, of Boston, a direct descendant of Pres. John Adams. Mr. Adams has been invited because Commodore Tucker, then captain of the frigate "Boston," had the honor of taking John Adams across the Atlantic ocean as the minister to France in Feb. 1778.

Both will be prominent in the reception to follow the ceremonies.

POLICE FINALLY GET

The complaints of assault and battery were made the next day and since then the police have been searching for him. Inspector Goodhue located him in Boston Friday. The Boston police were requested to make the arrest and they did so, after surrounding the house to prevent him leaping from the windows.

Anderson pleaded not guilty to the charged this morning. He said he had no recollection of having assaulted anyone but that there had been a little trouble. He smiled broadly several times during his arraignment and appeared to be good natured over his capture.

MISSION FOR WOMEN.

Father Jones, C. SS. R., preached the sermon at the Friday evening services of the mission for women at St. John's church. He preached on the precepts of the church. The women's mission will close Sunday afternoon. On Sunday evening the mission for men will open.

PRESENT TWO ACT COMEDY

Epworth League Scores In Mirthful Play

"Sally Lunn" the two act comedy presented by the Epworth league of the Hall Place M. E. church, Friday evening, proved to be a winning card, as was evidenced by the large crowd that attended this pleasing entertainment. The play was well acted.

Bright and witty, yet with a baffling air of mystery throughout arising from the series of complications, it presents in turn the indignation, the consultation, the consternation and the revelation following the announcement of the marriage of John Randolph, father of three grown children, to a very attractive youg authoress, Shirley Morgan. Three weeks after his marriage he sends the announcement to his oldest son John, a Junior at Yale, and Marjorie, his daughter, then at Smiths' College and then leaves for New York.

Leo, the younger son, always credited by the family as being a "chump and a duffer" has already won his way into his stepmother's heart and she into his.

The first act opens with Leo returning from High school where he has had a very trying day and a heart-to-heart talk follows. This is where the first complication arises. Leo is informed over the phone that he is expected to take his cousin Vivian to the dance whereupon, Mrs. Randolph informs him that she will find some girl to go with him and goes out.

In her absence Marjorie and John return home and indignantly set forth their ideas on the subject. Mr. Randolph's sister, Penelope and "her daughter Vivian" also appear on the scene and add a little sarcastic fuel to the fire already burning.

Morton Glynn next appears and demands an explanation of the joke played upon him the day before by John's friends, in forcing him to keep an appointment for John at a cafe in New York, dressed in orange kid gloves, a green tie, a yellow daffodil and carrying a violet handkerchief, in answer to a matrimonial ad, written by John and answered by Marjorie.

"Sally Lunn" is introduced by Leo as the young lady he is to take to the dance he being the only one who knows that she is Mrs. Randolph.

In the general mixup that follows the evening papers announce the theft from Mr. Randolph of valuable papers and the descirption of the thief tallys with that of Morton Glynn who has the orange kids,the green tie, daffodil and violet handkerchief in his pocket.

More complications ensue but in the end everything comes out all right and the son and daughter welcome their stepmother with open arms.

The cast:

John Randolph.... Edward Newcomb
Leo Randolph .. Robert McCormick
Morton Glynn .....Arthur Williams
Marjorie Randolph .....
Miss Bessie Nicholls
Mrs. Randolph ..Miss Mary Williams
Mrs. Penelope Winslow, Hilda Francis
Vivian Winslow.....Rita Hunter
Coach ..... Mrs. D. H. McNeill

A musical program was presented before the comedy and between the acts; piano solos by Miss Mildred Landerholm and vocal solos by Wesley Williams.

After the entertainment candy and ice cream were disposed of.

The evening was in charge of the following committee: A. F. Williams, chairman, Mrs A. D. Stewart, Arthur Jordan, Miss Hilda Francis, Mrs. D. H. McNeill.

SIMMONS—JENKINS.

Miss Martha E. Jenkins, daughter of Frank Jenkins of Atlantic, and Ralph I. Simmons of Wollaston were married at the home of the bride on Billings street at 11 o'clock this morning.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. W. Davison, pastor of the Atlantic Memorial church, and was witnessed only by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

Miss Esther Jenkins was maid of honor and the double ring service was used. A short reception followed the ceremony after which Mr. and Mrs. Simmons left on a wedding trip to Pennsylvania. On their return they will live at 146 Billings street.

GRANITE NOTES.

EXPECT GOOD SUMMER.

Although business has been fairly rushed during the past month the local dealers expect a good summer and look forward to receiving a lot of orders after the holiday. One of the local manufacturers when interviewed on the question stated that it was his belief that business would be just as good after Memorial Day because he thought many people have given up the idea of having things done by the holiday and that later on in the season would be just as well. For the benefit of the local cutters we earnestly hope that this will be the case.

It is expected that the city crusher will be put in operation shortly. This will be a good thing as the yard round it is being cluttered with chips, and many of the yards in the neighborhood could stand a good cleaning out at the present time. These chips have been allowed to accumulate since last fall. Now that work has commenced on the highways it is hoped the crusher will start operations immediately.

H. Gerrior & Co. opened their new yard on the corner of Quarry and Garfield streets the past week. It reminded several of the older citizens of the time when there were more than fifty men employed on the spot by McDonpell and Sons. Although not in full swing as yet about ten men were at work this morning.

In passing through the Boston cemeteries one evening recently the writer noticed in one of the showyards two men cutting letters by electric light. This shows that business must be rushed at the showyards. Also in the papers we see ads for good letter cutters by our own local manufacturers.

Patrick Mannex, the West Quincy quarry owner, is erecting a garage at his home on Rogers street. He will soon be the possessor of a "buzz" wagon.

David McIntosh of the Quincy Column Turning Company has the best wishes for his success in regaining his health. He plans to sail for Scotland in a few days.

Omar LeClair of the firm of LeClair Bros. of Robertson street has purchased an automobile and has erected a garage in the rear of his residence on Copeland street.

Plans are being prepared for a memorial to be erected in the LaBrecque lot at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

MAY LEAVE CITY.

There are two building jobs being cut in the state of Maine, one at Redstone and the other at North Jay. It is reported that several cutters from this city are contemplating going to Maine after the busy season is over here. At the present time there are a few cutters idle in this city but it is expected that by the last of next week all cutters will be at work.

Several fine memorials have been erected in our local cemeteries of late. A very fine memorial has been erected in St. Mary's cemetery to the memory of Joseph Bruce, the former popular expressman.

TO HOLD MAY PARTY.

Quincy Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a may party and dance in Alpha hall Friday evening. The committee is headed by Miss Mildred L. Crowley, chairman, assisted by Miss Annie E. Rose, Miss Florence Hart, Miss Annie Laing, Miss Edith Barkalow, Mrs. Henry P. Furnald, Mrs. A. J. Bodbury, Mrs. Peterson, Dr. James Zwicker, Dr. Clayton Marston, Thomas Musgrave and Albert Rennie.

The PROBLEM of GOOD MILK

All persons do not understand what is meant by good, safe milk. Some believe that the milk with a deep cream line is desirable, whereas, the Doctor knows that Holstein Milk, although containing little cream is often more desirable for babies, partly for this reason, or perhaps because of the method of production.

The real criterion of a good milk is its wholesomeness. This depends upon the conditions at the dairy, and the special care given it until it reaches the consumer. Scrupulously clean and healthy cows, clean and healthy dairymen, rapid cooling, and protecting the milk, constant dairy and laboratory inspection are required. Furthermore safety is assured when the dealer pasteurizes his supply.

THE ELM FARM MILK COMPANY OF DORCHESTER offer pure Family Milk, and exceptional Nursery Milk at prices often charged for ordinary milk. Speak to the salesman, or call Dor. 2100.

AMATEUR GARDENS AND GARDENERS

Little Change in Prices In Local Stores From Last Week

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

Some amateur farmers have good luck with their back yard gardens and others do not. There is a tendency on the part of many such to get their seed into the ground too early, for with the changeable New England weather the tender shoots of early vegetables are likely to be killed unless great care is taken. Some farmers believe in starting corn and cucumbers in a hothouse, which is all right but great care must be exercised that the roots are not disturbed when transplanted or the plant will die.

Another thing that should be borne in mind by the home farmer is that all early or late plants and vegetables require the air to reach their roots, for this reason diligent hoeing, to loosen the soil is necersary Another essential point that should be borne in mind is that early vegetables require as much sun as possible and that shady places should be avoided.

In the late summer there is no more delicious vegetable than corn and the wise farmer will not neglect to include the golden bantum. It is the sweetest and most delicious for eating. The ears are small, less liable to harden and keep fresh longer than other varieties.

Market prices show but little change from what they have been for the past few weeks. Butter is a little firmer but eggs are reasonable, 26 and 27 cents being charged for the strictly fresh Quincy variety. Meats are a little easier in price, but there is still room for a much larger drop in prices. The only kind of meats that shows an increase in price is veal but the demand for that is not very large. Fancy dress northern fowl can be bought for 19 and 20 cents, western at 15 and 16 cents a pound native broiler chickens at 41 cents.

Flour is still high, yet people are not complaining much and but little is now heard, outside the European war zones, of flour substitutes. In those war zones black bread is the general rule. A recent letter received from Austria-Hungry says that black bread is all the inhabitants have in the way of bread now.

Fish is plentiful this week and the prices are fairly reasonable. For instance, lobsters can be bought for 20 cents unless one wants a chicken lobster when he must pay 25 cents. Halibut is selling from 15 to 18 cents a pound and steak cod from 12 1-2 to 15 cents a pound. Mackerel, of the large size, can be had for 25 cents and haddock at 7 cents a pound. Oysters have dropped a little and today the price is 25 cents a quart. Speaking of oysters, today is the last month with an R in it for several months and according to the old saying oysters are good only in months which have an R in them.

Green vegetables continue to be more plentiful and as the supply increases the prices are dropping. Strawberries, which a few weeks ago sold for 40 and 45 cents a box are selling today for 25 cents, and very good looking berries at that. In fact the local stores show a large variety of early spring vegetables which look very tempting and they are doubtless good.

A recent government bulletin gives the following receipts for the use of honey:

Honey and Nut Bran Muffins.

1 cup flour.
From ¼ to ½ teaspoon soda.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 cups bran.
1 tablespoon melted butter.
1½ cups milk.
¾ cup finely chopped English walnuts.

Sift together the flour, soda, and salt, and mix them with the bran. Add the other ingredients and bake for 25 or 30 minutes in a hot oven in gem tins. This will make about 20 muffins.

Butter Honey Cake.

3 egg yolks.
5 cups flour.
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon.
½ teaspoon salt.
1½ teaspoons soda.
2 tablespoons orange-flower water (water may be substituted.)
Whites of 3 eggs.

Rub together the honey and butter, add the unbeaten yolks and beat thoroughly. Add the flour sifted with the cinnamon and the salt and the soda dissolved in the orange-flower water. Beat the mixture thoroughly and add the well-beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in shallow tins and cover with frosting.

Nut Honey Cake.

2 cups brown sugar.
2 cups honey.
6 egg yolks.
3 cups flour.
Speck of salt.
1½ teaspoons soda.
3 teaspoons ground cinnamon..
½ teaspoon ground cloves.
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg.
½ teaspoon allspice.
1 cup chopped raisins.
½ ounce citron cut in small pieces.
White of 3 eggs.

Mix the sugar, honey and the yolks of the eggs and beat thoroughly. Sift together the flour, salt, spices, and soda. Combine all ingredients but the whites of the eggs. Beat the whites of the eggs till they are stiff and add them last. Pour the dough to the depth of about half an inch into well-buttered tins, and bake in a slow oven for one-half hour.

Hard Honey Cake.

½ cup sugar.
2½ cups flour.
1 egg.
¼ teaspoon ginger.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon ground cardamon seed.
½ teaspoon cloves.
Speck white pepper.
Speck salt.
½ teaspoon soda.
1 tablespoon water.
2 ounces blanched almonds cut into small pieces or chopped.

Sift together the flour and spices, dissolve the soda in the water, beat the egg, and combine all the ingredients. Beat or knead the mixture thoroughly. Cook a small sample. If it does not rise sufficiently, add a little more soda and honey; if it falls, add a little more flour. Roll out the dough to the thickness of about three-fourths of an inch and bake in a hot oven. When the cake is done, glaze it with a thick sirup of sugar and water, and allow it to dry in a slow oven or in some other warm place. While it is still warm cut it into long strips, or it may be left in one large cake to be cut into thin slices when served. This cake will become very hard on cooling and will not be soft enough to eat for several weeks, but will keep in good condition for an indefinite length of time.

Honey Charlotte Russe.

6 lady fingers.
½ cup delicately flavored honey.

Chill the honey by placing the dish containing it in a pan of ice water. Whip the cream and add it to the honey, mixing the two well. Line a dish with lady figers and fill it with the honey and cream. Serve very cold.

LOCAL QUINTETTE IN BIG TOURNEY

The quintette of Wardwells alleys made its Boston debut at the Atlantic Coast Bowling association matches in the Mechanics Building Friday evening and the stiff competition, coupled with new alleys, damp pins and balls, resulted in a light but well earned pinfall. The team total was 1391. the second highest to date.

Herb Smith was high man of the evening, his 295 being the nearest to a triple. His best single was 118. William McLean was next with a single of 106. Dell reached the century but once. The combination netted but nine spares during the roll-off. Local fans who accompanied the team say the All Stars had to work for every pin they got. The summary:

Ross	90	94	95	279
McLean	83	106	90	279
Dell	83	92	100	273
Morton	89	92	84	265
Smith	118	91	86	295

FOR HER SWEET SAKE

By FRANK EVANS.

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

Before Tom Graves had been in the teller's cage twenty-four hours he realized that something was wrong with Van Loeuw's methods. On the second day he was sure of it.

Van Loeuw and he had entered the bank within a week of each other. Van Loeuw was a college graduate, while Tom was only the son of a country storekeeper. That ought not to make any difference worth noticing in America, but everyone knows it does, especially in large country towns like Roxbury.

It made this difference in particular: Van Loeuw was privileged to call on Mildred Leeson, the president's daughter, to dine at her house and take her driving in the automobile he owned. Whereas, Tom Graves, who had, in his boyhood, often served Miss Mildred behind the counter of his father's store, could scarcely gather up his courage to look like an ordinary man when she bowed to him in the street; and then, seeing his confusion, Mildred would smile again, in a kindly way, which Tom usually missed, because his eyes were on the ground.

Everybody said that Tom was of the kind that are born to be drudges and to work for men like Van Loeuw.

Van Loeuw never doubted that he was destined to marry Mildred and step into her father's shoes. He told Tom about it.

"When I'm president of the bank I'll take care of you, Tom," he said. "I'll see that you get a better job."

Tom would swallow his feelings then and turn to his books.

Now, it was a fact that something was seriously wrong. Tom soon discovered that it was not a mistake, to be picked up and rectified with a few hours of extra work. After two weeks of night work he traced back the error to something that had begun two years before. In short, there was a defalcation of $12,000, and the man who was responsible for it had hidden his trail beneath the cleverest and most intricate system that any thief had ever devised.

Two years ago! That was when Van Loeuw bought his automobile!

But Tom did not think of that. He resolved to tell Van Loeuw of his discovery and ask his advice. He did so, and when he saw the ghastly pallor upon the man's face the hideous suspicion came home to him.

"Tom, I'll see you at your place tonight," said Van Loeuw. "I—I want to speak to you."

Van Loeuw came into Tom's room at eight o'clock and flung himself down in a chair.

"What did you want to meddle with the books for?" he began angrily. "It's no confounded business of yours."

"Perhaps not," admitted Tom. "But I know it now, and I've got to go to Leeson."

"I tell you I can pay it back," snarled Van Loeuw.

"No," answered Tom. "I'll have to go to Leeson—unless you do—"

Van Loeuw rose up, ashen white. "My God!" he cried, "what will become of Mildred? Don't you know she thinks the world of me?"

Tom sank down again, whiter than the other man. Yes, he knew she did. When at last he spoke there was an air of unusual decision about him.

"Van Loeuw," he said, "if I take the blame for this, will you swear always to run straight in future? It doesn't matter to me, you know. For Miss Leeson's sake—"

"You'll say you stole the money?" cried Van Loeuw, incredulously. "Tom, I always knew you were as true as steel. And I'll make it worth your while."

"Good night," said Tom, coldly.

He went into Mr. Leeson's office the following morning. Van Loeuw had not appeared at the bank, and he was forced to close the cage when he went out. Fortunately, depositors were few in the first hours of morning.

"Ah, Graves, I was going to send for you," said the bank president, rising. "We have made an unfortunate discovery—"

"Yes," answered Tom. "I wish to inform you, sir, that I have embezzled $12,000 of the bank's funds."

The door opened and a woman came in. Tom started as he saw Mildred. This made it doubly hard. But he was prepared to play his part to the end now.

"Mildred, will you come here a moment?" asked Mr. Leeson, to Tom's amazement. "Please sit down. Mr. Graves has just been informing me that a serious embezzlement of bank funds is to be placed to his discredit."

"Papa—" began the girl, and Tom saw that her face was drawn and white, and her eyes red.

"You are sure of your statements, Graves?" inquired Mr. Leeson, turning to Tom.

"I should hardly have come here if I were not," answered Tom angrily.

"It is very strange," said the banker, shaking his head. "You see, Mr. Van Loeuw, who is now being sought for, wrote me a letter informing me of the facts, assuming the responsibility, and stating that you proposed to bear the blame. I understand that he had a spasm of conscience after my daughter had brought him to his senses by refusing—"

"Papa!" cried Mildred, blushing furiously.

"Well, my dear," said the banker, rising, "perhaps when I am gone you yourself will be able to convince Mr. Graves that he is under a delusion."

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

(Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Company)

When Tremont, with great hesitation, took a few steps away from them and she stood face to face with the creature who had been with Sabron and seen him fall, she said earnestly:

"Now speak without reserve. Tell me everything."

The face of the man was transformed. He became human, devoted, ardent.

"Excellency," he said swiftly in his halting French, "I love Monsieur le Capitaine. He was so kind and such a brave soldier. I want to go to find Monsieur le Capitaine, but I am ill and too weak to walk. I believe I know where he is hid—I want to go."

The girl breathed:

"Oh, can it be possible that what you say is true, Hammet Abou? Would you really go if you could?"

The man made, with a graceful gesture of his hand, a map in the air.

"It was like this?" he said; "I think he drew himself up the bank. I followed the track of his blood. I was too weak to go any farther, Excellency."

"And how could you go now?" she asked.

"By caravan, like a merchant, secretly. I would find him."

Julia Redmond put out a slim hand, white as a gardenia. The native lifted it and touched his forehead with it.

"Hammet Abou," she said, "go away for tonight and come tomorrow—we will see you." And without waiting to speak again to Monsieur de Tremont, the native slid away out of the garden like a shadow, as though his limbs were not weak with disease and his breast shattered by shot.

When Monsieur de Tremont had walked once around the garden, keeping his eyes nevertheless on the group, he came back toward Julia Redmond, but not quickly enough, for she ran up the stairs and into the house with Sabron's packet in her hand.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Two Lovely Women.

There was music at the Villa des Bougainvilleas. Miss Redmond sang; not "Good-night, God Keep You Safe," but other things. Ever since her talk with Hammet Abou she had been, if not gay, in good spirits, more like her old self, and the Marquise d'Esclignac began to think that the image of Charles de Sabron had not been cut too deeply upon her mind. The marquise, from the lounge in the shadow of the room, enjoyed the picture (Sabron would not have added it to his collection) of her niece at the piano and the Duc de Tremont by her side. The Comtesse de la Maine sat in a little shadow of her own, musing and enjoying the picture of the Duc de Tremont and Miss Redmond very indifferently. She did not sing; she had no parlor accomplishments. She was poor, a widow, and had a child. She was not a brilliant match.

From where he stood, Tremont could see the Comtesse de la Maine in her little shadow, the oriental decorations a background to her slight Parisian figure, and a little out of the shadow, the bright aigret in her hair danced, shaking its sparkles of fire. She looked infinitely sad and infinitely appealing. One bare arm was along the back of her lounge. She leaned her head upon her hand.

After a few moments the Duc de Tremont quietly left the piano and Miss Redmond, and went and sat down beside the Comtesse de la Maine, who, in order to make a place for him, moved out of the shadow.

Julia, one after another, played songs she loved, keeping her fingers resolutely from the notes that wanted to run into a single song, the music, the song that linked her to the man whose life had become a mystery. She glanced at the Duc de Tremont and the Comtesse de la Maine. She glanced at her aunt, patting Mimi, who, freshly washed, adorned by pale blue ribbon, looked disdainful and princely, and with passion and feeling she began to sing the song that seemed to reach beyond the tawdry room of the villa in Algiers, and to go into the desert, trying in sweet intensity to speak and to comfort, and as she sat so singing to one man, Sabron would have adored adding that picture to his collection.

The servant came up to the marquise and gave her a message. The lady rose, beckoned Tremont to follow her, and went out on the veranda, followed by Mimi. Julia stopped playing and went over to the Comtesse de la Maine.

"Where have my aunt and Monsieur de Tremont gone, Madame?"

"To see someone who has come to suggest a camel excursion, I believe."

"He chooses a curious hour."

"Everything is curious in the East, Mademoiselle," returned the comtesse. "I feel as though my own life were turned upside down."

"We are not far enough in the East for that," smiled Julia Redmond. She regarded the comtesse with her frank girlish scrutiny. There was in it a fine truthfulness and utter disregard of all the barriers that long epochs of etiquette put between souls.

Julia Redmond knew nothing of French society and of the deference due to the arts of the old world. She knew, perhaps, very little of anything. She was young and unschooled. She knew, as some women know, how to feel, and how to be, and how to love. She was as honest as her ancestors, among whose traditions is the story that one of them could never tell a lie.

Julia Redmond sat beside the Comtesse de la Maine, whose elegance she admired enormously, and taking one of the lady's hands, with a frank liking she asked in her rich young voice:

"Why do you tolerate me, Madame?"

"Ma chere enfant," exclaimed the comtesse. "Why, you are adorable."

"It is terribly good of you to say so," murmured Julia Redmond. "It shows how generous you are."

"But you attribute qualities to me I do not deserve, Mademoiselle."

"You deserve them and much more, Madame. I loved you the first day I saw you; no one could help loving you."

Julia Redmond was irresistible. The Comtesse de la Maine had remarked her caprices, her moods, her sadness. She had seen that the good spirits were false and, as keen women do, she had attributed it to a love affair with the Duc de Tremont. The girl's frankness was contagious. The Comtesse de la Maine murmured:

"I think the same of you, ma chere, vous etes charmante."

Julia Redmond shook her head. She did not want compliments. The eyes of the two women met and read each other.

"Couldn't you be frank with me, Madame? It is so easy to be frank."

It was, indeed, impossible for Julia Redmond to be anything else. The comtesse, who was only a trifle older than the young girl, felt like her mother just then. She laughed.

"But be frank—about what?"

"You don't love him?" returned Madame de la Maine, with deep accentuation. "Is it possible?"

The girl smiled.

"Yes, quite possible. I think he is a perfect dear. He is a splendid friend and I am devoted to him, but I don't love him at all, not at all."

"Ah!" breathed Madame de la Maine, and she looked at the American girl guardedly.

For a moment it was like a passage of arms between a frank young Indian chief and a Jesuit. Julia, as it were, shook her feathers and her beads.

"And I don't care in the least about being a duchess! My father made his money in oil. I am not an aristocrat like my aunt," she said.

"Then," said the Comtesse de la Maine, forgetting that she was a Jesuit, "you will marry Robert de Tremont simply to please your aunt?"

"But nothing on earth would induce me to marry him!" cried Julia Redmond. "That's what I'm telling you, Madame. I don't love him!"

The Comtesse de la Maine looked at her companion and bit her lip. She blushed more warmly than is permitted in the Faubourg St.-Germain, but she was young and the western influence is pernicious.

"I saw at once that you loved him," said Julia Redmond frankly. "That's why I speak as I do."

The Comtesse de la Maine drew back and exclaimed.

"Oh," said Julia Redmond, "don't deny it. I shan't like you half so well if you do. There is no shame in being in love, is there?—especially when the man you love, loves you."

The Comtesse de la Maine broke down, or, rather, she rose high. She rose above all the smallness of convention and the rules of her French formal education.

"You are wonderful," she said, laughing softly, her eyes full of tears. "Will you tell me what makes you think that he is fond of me?"

"But you know it so well," said Julia. "Hasn't he cared for you for a long time?"

Madame de la Maine wondered just how much Julia Redmond had heard, and as there was no way of finding out, she said graciously:

"He has seemed to love me very dearly for many years; but I am poor; I have a child. He is ambitious and he is the Duc de Tremont."

"Nonsense," said Julia. "He loves you. That's all that counts. You will be awfully happy. You will marry the Duc de Tremont, won't you? There's a dear."

"Happy," murmured the other woman, "happy, my dear friend, I never dreamed of such a thing!"

"Dream of it now," said Julia Redmond swiftly, "for it will come true."

CHAPTER XIX.

The Man in Rags.

The Marquise d'Esclignac, under the stars, interviewed the native soldier, the beggar, the man in rags, at the foot of the veranda. There was a moon as well as stars, and the man was distinctly visible in all his squalor.

"What on earth is he talking about, Robert?"

ODD FELLOWS OBSERVE 96TH ANNIVERSARY

Varied Entertainment Delights Large Number

The 96th anniversary of Oddfellowship in America was jointly observed Friday evening in Wollaston School hall by John Hancock Lodge, I. O. O. F., and Reliance Rebekah lodge, when a fine entertainment with Boston theatrical talent was given.

That it takes more than rain to keep an Odd Fellow at home was amply demonstrated by the attendance of over 500. Neither was their spirit dampened by the rain, outside for all of the performers declared the audience to be one of the most appreciative in their experience.

The program was in charge of Senator Louis F. R. Langelier who was loudly applauded when he appeared to make a few introductory remarks. The first number was a singing and dancing sketch by Marie Daniels in dainty costume. She concluded with the song "You're the sweetest bunch of sweetness."

Next came Marion and Stanley in a slapstick comedy sketch introducing a lively dialogue and the song "Up At the Party." The act concluded with an assortment of Irish jigs to bagpipe and flute accompaniment.

Rosalie Rose in several changes of costume contributed "Hello Everybody," "Everyone Sings Tipperary," "I Feel So Lonely" and "I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier."

The only local talent was little Miss Doris Baker, who made a decided hit with her recitations and solo dancing. Her readings were: "The May Queen" "New Year's Eve" and "The Coming of the Morn." Her dance steps were pretty and graceful.

Next came Ward and Delano in a number of popular song parodies. These included "What'll You Do," "Cover Your Back, Carolina," "There's a Certain Part of Me Still Burning," That"s How I Need You" and "Itchy Too."

The final number was a musical act of Brown and Whyte. So insistent was the applause for the pair that they ran out of encores. Senator Langelier appeared again and presented bouquets to the noble grands of both lodges: Mrs. Emma L. Ela of Reliance Rebecca and Charles Cummings of John Hancock Lodge.

The flowers were in turn presented, with appropriate speeches and replies, to Mrs. Carrie E. Richardson of Somerville, deputy of Reliance Rebecca and Winfield B. Baker of South Weymouth, deputy of John Hancock Lodge. Refreshments of ice cream and cake brought the evening to a close. Music was enjoyed by the John Hancock orchestra.

The entertainment committee of the two lodges were as follows:

John Hancock Lodge—James Thomas, John Gordon, Louis F. R. Langelier, George Sallander, Albert N. Birse, John V. Leland.

HOLDS AUTOPSY ON McKEON DEATH

Dr. Fred E. Jones on Friday held an autopsy on the body of Joseph McKeon to determine the cause of his death. He will make his finding to the State Accident and Industrial Board, at whose request the autopsy was made. McKeon died as the result of a hemorrhage of the brain. Last Thursday he collapsed in the Fore River shipyard. In falling he struck a steel plate and suffered a gash in the head. The autopsy was to determine whether the fall caused the hemorrhage or the hemorrhage caused the fall.

JUDGE GIVES MAY BASKET

Judge Avery bestowed a May basket on the family of Albert McAdams this morning when he sentenced the latter to six months in the House of Correction on a non support charge and issued an order that the county pay his family 50 cents a day during that time.

So there would be no interference with the program, two complaints, made by Inspector Goodhue, charging McAdams with larceny of tools at Wollaston, were not preferred and Judge Avery reserved a finding on an old suspended sentence of three months in the House of Correction for larceny until Dec. 31.

McAdams was arrested in Dorchester early this week.

NO SOCCER GAME TODAY

No soccer game was played here today because manager Nelson of the Brockton team declined to reorganize his team so as to play ore River. Brockton, although disbanded for the balance of the season was requested to play an exhibition game here to keep the local boys in trim.

The Fore Rivers are leaders of the Southern division of the league of which Brockton is a member, and in order to decide the championship and the cup the Quincy team must meet the Boston Americans of the northern division, who are practically assured of leading that section of the league race. Brockton decided to play no more soccer games this spring.

SAYS HE WILL VETO

David Goodspeed, principal of the Wollaston school, was introduced and spoke of the work that is being done in the cause of temperance in the Wollaston school. He said that about a year and a half ago Mrs. Crothers had come to him to see if it would be feasible or possible to form a Loyal Temperance legion in the school. After talking with the school authorities it seemed better to devote one devotional exercise a month to the work. The morning work seemed as though it would amount to more because there would be the enthusiasm, therefore thirty minutes a month is spent under the direction of Mrs. Frisbee in singing, telling stories, recitations and rallying cries.

Mr. Goodspeed closed by sounding a note of warning to the fathers and mothers against allowing the boys to become members of the corner gang.

Mrs. Katherine Leat Stevenson, the state president, was introduced and spoke of the rapid advances temperance had made in the last twenty-five years. A quarter of a century ago we had three prohibition states, now we have eighteen and would have had nineteen had not the governor of Utah waited until the legislature had adjourned before he vetoed the bill and since there is not another session of the legislature for two years Utah will not be prohibition for some time. It is an easy thing to go into temperance work now but twenty five years ago it was quite a different matter. Mrs. Stevenson congratulated the Wollaston society on its work and invited those who were not already members to get into line.

Mrs. Crothers invited everyone to go to the vestry of the church where an informal reception was held for Mrs. Stevenson. Fruit punch and cake was served by the ladies of the society.

INSTITUTION OF REV. WILLIAM GRAINGER

Suffragan Bishop Babcock Conducts Services

Rt. Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, Suffragan Bishop of Massachusetts, instituted Rev. William Grainger as rector of Christ church parish, the oldest Episcopal parish in Massachusetts, on Sunday morning. There was an unusually large attendance.

Rev Mr. Grainger, as far as is known is the only rector instituted since the present edifice was consecrated 40 years ago. The service used was more than 100 years old, having been written into the prayer book in 1808.

Bishop Babcock preached on "The relations of minister and people." He said a minister is the watchman over the spiritual affairs of his people and that he is the shepherd over the flock to lead them to higher things.

His text was on the institution of the rector, drawn from scripture lessons from Ezekiel, 33rd verse, of the old testament, and from the 14th chapter of the gospel of St. John of the new testament.

There was special music by the choir during the services under the direction of Arthur H. Ryder, choir master.

Rev. Mr. Grainger became rector of Christ church on April 1st, succeeding Rev. Richard E. Armstrong. He was formerly rector of Trinity church at Canton. He makes his home in the parish house on the church grounds, with his wife and family.

COMPANY NOT TO COME HERE

Sometime ago one of the new industries that sought location in Quincy was a glass manufacturing company which made an appeal to the Board of Trade for assistance. The matter came before the Board in regular form but as the Board had no funds with which to assist any new industry in locating in Quincy and there appeared to be none forthcoming from any other source the project as several other new enterprises have done, sought a location elsewhere. The company had a patent glass bottle which could not be used a second time. The following letter received by Joseph A. Sedgwick, who was vice president of the board last year, tells how some other Board of Trades are successful in getting new business enterprises.

Boston, April 29th, 1915

Mr. Sedgwick.

Dear Sir:

As the Quincy people did not seem very enthusiastic over the glass enterprise I have decided to locate at Newburyport. After a careful investigation they furnish land and buildings and $25,000 cash against my $25,000. cash. We have five acres on water and rail—400 ft. wharfage.

Thanking you for your trouble and personal interest.

Very truly yours,
N. W. Blair.

MR. WILLMOTT'S LAST SUNDAY HERE

LEAVES CITY THURSDAY

Extra chairs were brought in but even then the large congregation which assembled at Bethany church Sunday evening to hear Rev. Benj. A. Willmott's closing address could not be accommodated and a large number stood at the rear of the church during the service. The pastor spoke on "To Build You Up," taking his text from Acts 20—32. And now, brethren, I commend you to God and the word of His Grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are satisfied."

The pastor pointed out that the teaching which he had given from the pulpit had been drawn from the supernatural gospel which had the divine authority as its source. He pleaded for an adherence to that gospel and showed if it were obeyed it would build up the individual, the home and the city. And further, he said, it was a power which would build up the Christian church.

Although Mr. Willmott had promised himself to deliver no farewell sermon, feeling that it would be out of place at the communion service in the morning and feeling that he could not trust himself to bid farewell when the last moment came at the evening service, he felt impelled to say a word of appreciation to the men who, although not members of his church or any other church, had attended the Pleasant Sunday Evening Services and had loyally co-operated in making them such a successs.

In the morning the pastor took for his subject "Our Supreme Confidence" delivering one of the most eloquent sermons in his all too brief pastorate here. He made no allusion at the service to his departure.

He took his text from Hebrews: "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever."

He said: "Hebrews was the most humanitarian and theological of all the books of the Bible. The argument is that Christian faith is not a distinct break from earlier teachings but a development therefrom. Therefore and better are the two keywords of the epistle.

"Many have been drawn to Jesus through his humanity. His sympathy and spiritual insight have appealed to them; they felt as he knew the depth of human weakness he was able to advise the questioning soul. They brought their doubts and difficulties to him until at last they came to accept him as the Saviour of men.

"But many still remain in the outer court, only recognizing Jesus as the wisest and best man that ever lived although it is their privilege to advance into the inner temple where it will be revealed to them that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself.

"A craving for certitude grips every human being. No Christian soul can long endure without the conviction that Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever.

"It is not enough that Christ dealt with sins two thousand years ago. If he is not a contemporary Christ he is of no service to me.

"All that Jesus was God is and more. Personality reveals itself from many angles. Jesus revealed God from the angle of redemption and compassion.

Jesus needs no mediator to induce him to compassionate us. He is not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities. He knows us through and through and with this understanding of our inner selves sympathizes with our sorrows and redeems us with his love."

MISSION FOR WOMEN CLOSES

Men's Mission Opens Sunday Evening

The mission for women at St. John's church was brought to a close with impressive services Sunday afternoon, and in the evening the mission for the men opened and will continue throughout the week. It is estimated that 1500 attended the afternoon service and 1200 the evening service.

In the afernoon there was a sermon by Fr. Kentzel, C. SS. R., on the lessons to be drawn from the mission, followed by a renewal of baptismal vows by those present. Three blessings were extended, the Papal Blessing, the Blessing of the Missionary and the Blessing of the Lord through the elevation of the Sacred Host. A solemn high Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament closed the services. Fr. M. J. Owens was celebrant with Fr. John J. Casey as deasonand Fr. Walter A. Quinlan as subdeacon. The Mission fathers were also on the altar.

There were so many men at the opening of their mission in the evening that several hundred stood in the rear of the church, although extra seats in the front of the church and in the sanctuary were filled. The instructions were given by Father Kenzel.

Father O'Leary preached the sermon on "Faith."

CHURCH NEWS TUESDAY.

Owing to the large amount of news received today some of the church notes were held over until Tuesday.

THE WEATHER.

Never were truer words spoken than those of one of the songs of the opera Mikado: "Things are seldom what they seem." To sit by the window on a pleasant day like Sunday and see the hundreds of automobiles pass and repass, with the faces of the occupants wreathed in smiles, one naturally says: "How nice it is to own an automobile." Sure it is. From outward appearances the occupants of all these automobiles are evidently care free even if their little home is held down by a heavy mortgage. In a few years the automobile is worn out but the mortgage still remains. It is cheaper in the end to hire a jitney bus.

The Weather Man said this morning that there would be rain, with easterly winds and no great change in temperature Tuesday, but that Wednesday would be fair.

At the banquet which started at 7 o'clock the following menu was served:

Grape Fruit
Chicken Salad Lobster Salad
Roast Turkey
Cold Meats Escalloped Oysters
Vegetable Salad Cream Puffs
Sherbets
Ice Cream Cake
Demi Tasse
Crackers Cheese

During the repast there was music in the air and a cabaret singer added to the jollity of the occasion.

At the head table were: Commodore Frank F. Taylor of the Wollaston Yacht club, Senator Louis F. R. Langelier, R. C. Goudey, of Winthrop, president of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Union; Ex Commodore F. E. Dawes of Wollaston, vice president of the M. Y. R. U; Commodore George H. Bean of Squantum Yacht club, Commodore John J. Tobin of South Boston, William L. Carlton, of Corinthian; Commodore Henry S. Crane of Quincy, Walter E. Stone of Annisquam and the following from Wollaston Yacht club: Vice Commodore Q. A. Lothrop, Ex-Commodore J. A. Fenno, Ex Commodore Frank Burgess, Secretary A. N. Potterton, Treasurer Carroll E. Bates, E. A. Bean and H. C. Seymour of the executive committee, Fred J. Schahrer of the entertainment committee and C. A. Pinkham.

In opening the program Commodore Taylor stated that this was positively his last appearance and that next year Vice Commodore Lothrop would have the reins.

The first speaker was Senator Langelier who touched briefly on the new dredging for the channel. He was followed by Commodore Bean of the Squantum club, who bespoke a closer affiliation and Commodore Tobin of South Boston.

Mayor Chester I. Campbell who had just arrived was next to speak. In introducing him Commodore Taylor referred to the bad condition of Bromfield street. In reply the mayor quoted a recent sermon of Rev. William B. Ayers, in which he said the streets of West Quincy needed attention more than those of Wollaston. The mayor gave assurance that both sections were receiving equal attention and everything possible was being done to relieve conditions.

Mayor Campbell raised a laugh by inquiring if there was anyone present who did not apply for a pony express license, although a few had been vetoed he thought there were still enough left to supply his friends if not his enemies.

Present Goudey of the Y. R. U. had several good stories and told of the improved method of handling race decisions and protests. Vice President Dawes followed and declared that the new rule in Class A. would work hardship on the centre board boats.

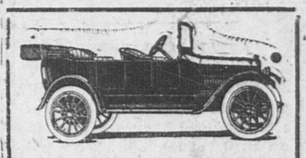

Commodore Crane extended the hospitality of the Quincy club, and Chairman Carlton of the Corinthian Y. C. regatta committee spoke briefly The last speaker was "Stoney" (Walter Stone) of Annisquam, who was in a jovial mood and kept everyone laughing.

The diners left the hall while the tables were cleared and returned to enjoy a top notch program of professional talent.

Among those present were: F. H. Devitt, L. I. Taylor, Joseph E. Tetre

SHORT FICTION OF 1914

In an interesting survey of "The Best Short Fiction of the Year" in Saturday's Transcript, Edward J. O. Brien finds that the American Short Story has maintained its high standard. There can be no question that many excellent short stories are appearing in the magazines every week and every month. Everyone read such stories during the year 1914. It is, therefore, interesting to have the fiction contents of six magazines and two weeklies analized and tabulated. Mr. O'Brien gives a list of the short stories of distinction which appeared in each of the eight magazines under consideration. At the end of this article he gives a list of what he considers the five best short stories of the year. They are:

Brothers of No Kin. By Conrad Richter. The Forum.

Addie Erb and H-- G-- Lottie. By Francis Buzzell. The Century.

A Simple Tale. By John Galsworthy. Scribner's.

The Bravest Son. By Mary Synon. Scribner's.

The Triumph of Night. By Edith Wharton. Scribner's

Of course the labor involved in a task of this sort is considerable and nobody will have the hardihood to blame Mr. O'Brien for not extending his work over a wider field. There are unquestionably many excellent short stories in a number of magazines outside of Mr. O'Brien's field of operations, so that the list can not properly lay claim to being one of the best short fiction of the year.

It is interesting to note that Mr. O'Brien's lists do not include the name of Rudyard Kipling. He states that the famous author of "Soldiers Three" and the rest produced nothing of merit in 1914. This reminds us that Davd Starr Jordan in speaking of Kipling's work always says: "When Kipling was alive.

APPLICABLE HERE.

Some of the surrounding towns are making rules that would be equally applicable in Quincy. The tree warden of Rockland has pronounced the death knell of the wild cherry tree. All trees of this kind along the highways of Rockland are to be cut down. He asks the public to assist by trimming out and cutting down what may be on private property. The wild cherry tree, for which nearly every boy has received more than one scolding for having spoiled his clothes on the sticky bark, is to be no more, it having been doomed as a breeder of caterpillars and other bugs which are detrimental to the growth of the more beautiful shade and fruit bearing trees.

This source of bug promulgation could be elimated from highways and private grounds in Quincy with good result.

A FUTILE COURSE.

Just before the adjournment of the International Congress of Women at the Hague Saturday a proposal was adopted to send delegations representing the Congress to the President of the United States and to the heads of all the European powers to demand immediate cessation of war.

If the Congress had adjourned without the adoption of this resolution the good accomplished would have been just as great and the harm perhaps less. Of course the President of the United States and the heads of the various European powers will give respectful hearing to the delegates and will then continue to pursue their policies precisely as if the audience had never been granted. Peace today would be little more than an armed truce. The matter might as well be settled once, and let us hope, for all. A peace at this time would be about as valuable as separating two bull dogs who were fighting in the back yard, then going away and leaving them there with peace resolutions to pursue.

IS REGARDED AS SERIOUS MATTER

Warning to Americans of Sea Danger Is Questioned

CONSIDERED AS BAD TASTE

Question Raises Whether German Embassy May Use This Means of Carrying on Campaign to Harm British Commercial Interests—May Be Attempt to Pick Quarrel

Washington, May 3.—The action of the German embassy in publishing broadcast over the United States paid advertisements warning Americans against taking passage on British vessels is regarded here as a serious matter when viewed in connection with other recent activities by the Kaiser's representatives.

This later move is considered as evidencing at least extremely bad taste. It is pointed out that the advertisements constitute the giving of advice to American citizens suggesting that they refrain from doing what may be to their own interest, and what their government has maintained they have a perfect right to do.

The question is also raised whether the embassy may properly use this means of carrying on a campaign, the effect of which might well be to result in harm to legitimate British commercial interests, especially the steamship companies.

While the matter has not yet been officially taken up by the state department, it is known that these considerations are being weighed in the minds of officials, and that it is not to be expected that the incident will be disregarded.

The matter is looked on here as one which may be construed either as a thoughtless offence against diplomatic proprieties or as another German attempt to irritate the government of the United States.

Officials here thought the displeasing activities of the embassy would come to an end with the adroit rebuke administered by the president in his reply to Bernstorff in regard to the shipment of arms from the United States to the allies. This was considered to be the culmination of attempts, charges and communications on the part of the German embassy which the state department found offensive to the dignity of government and lacking in the proper respect due in accredited diplomatic officers of other governments. The statement was made at the time the Bernstorff memorandum was answered that if further irritants emanated from German officials it might be impossible to escape the conclusion that attempts were being made to pick a quarrel with this government.

Inasmuch as Count von Bernstorff has been reckoned as one of the most accepted diplomats in Washington, officials find it difficult to attribute the questionable character of some of the embassy's communications and activities to him personally, but feel that they must be the result of a deliberate policy, dictated by the Berlin government. It was noted that the German ambassador particularly disclaimed personal responsibility for the arms memorandum, and scouted the suggestion as worse than ridiculous that he was seeking to get himself into the bad graces of the Washington government.

CHINA REBUFFS JAPAN

Definitely Refuses to Accede to Most Important Demands

Pekin, May 3.—China has replied to the Japanese demands in a note, which, while complying with some of the demands, definitely refuses to accede to others including the most important, embodied in what is known as group five.

China has also furnished to the Japanese minister, Eki Hioki, a list of further concessions which she is willing to grant; but after perusing the note and the list M. Hioki declared that it was far from complying with the twenty-four demands as presented by his government.

This action was taken after President Yuan Shi Kai had thoroughly discussed the entire situation with the members of his cabinet and his advisers since last Monday. The Chinese plenipotentiaries met the Japanese plenipotentiaries by arrangement on Saturday at the foreign office and presented China's reply, which, in substance, refused the so-called general demands of Japan.

Financial Review

Promises of general business improvement become more and more definite each day. Thus far progress in this direction has been much too slow to satisfy the impatient; nevertheless, there has been a steady forward movement which cannot be overlooked, and the turn for the better has really come. This is clearly expressed in the new spirit of confidence begotten by a reaction against political radicalism, by the more reasonable public attitude toward business, by the establishment of the Federal reserve banking system, by the adjustment of our finances to a war basis and by the unquestioned stimulus of big war contracts.

As usual, the spirit of confidence first manifested itself in the West, where the bulk of our $10,000,000,000 of agricultural wealth and a large portion of our $2,000,000,000 mineral wealth is annually produced. This vast section of our country possesses in the soil an unfailing source of prosperity every year, and this season that prospect is greatly enhanced by the certainty of securing good prices for all food and mineral products. Western bankers, though still wisely clinging to a large degree of caution, are daily becoming more and more candid in their expressions of optimism, and advices all the way from the Pacific Coast to the Alleghanies are almost uniformly hopeful. So, too, are the reports of travellers returning from the California expositions, impressed with the magnificent resources of their own country.

Not the least of benefits to the United States from the war, will be the spread of such knowledge among our own people. American travellers and American investors will become better acquainted with their own country, and for some time to come will distribute their spare funds at home instead of abroad; thus affording another new stimulus to home industry which cannot be indefinitely held back.

Our foreign trade continues active, the heavy orders for munitions of war tending to offset the declines in breadstuffs and cotton which are usual at this season of the year. There has been some recovery in imports, the result being that the excess in exports at this time is running less pronounced than several weeks ago. It is quite easy to attach too much importtance to our foreign trade, although it is a very vital factor in regulating prices and providing a market for our surplus products. Let us remember our imports and exports aggregate about $4,000,000,000 annually, compared with $12,000,000,000 of agricultural and mineral products and $3,000,000,000 in railroad earnings. A due sense of proportion is essential in reaching intelligent conclusions.

At the close of the service the pastor administered holy communion. Several new members were received into the church.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Willmott will attend one more church function before their departure, the annual meeting of the Bethany Women's union on Wednesday afternoon. Luncheon will be served at 12.30 P. M. Mrs. Amy Ford Everett will be the speaker. Mrs. Edith Cary Page will sing.

On Tuesday the furniture of the pastor will be moved to their new home at 142 Townsend street, Roxbury. Rev. and Mrs. Willmott will leave Thursday morning for their farm at Townsend, Mass., going to Roxbury, Saturday afternoon. Mr. Willmott will preach his first sermon at Roxbury on Sunday, conducting services morning and evening.

The Bethany church Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening was in the opinion of many the most impressive meeting of the year. The topic was "Joys of the Christian Life." C. Wesley Williams was leader. It being consecration meeting the roll was called by the secretary, Miss Alice Parker, and a large number responded. Charles Avery sang a bass solo, accompanied by Miss Edith Avery at the piano.

AMERICAN TANK STEAMER SUNK

Torpedoed Off Sicily Islands by German Submarine

CAPTAIN DIES FROM SHOCK

Two Seamen Jump Overboard and Are Drowned—Rest Are Picked Up By Patrol Boat and Landed—United States Will Hold Germany to Strict Account

London, May 3.—The American oil tank steamer Gulflight, which sailed from Port Arthur, Tex., April 10 for Rouen, France, was torpedoed off the Scilly islands, according to a dispatch received by the Central News Agency.

The captain of the Gulflight, according to the same advices, died of heart failure as a result of shock. Two seamen jumped overboard and were drowned.

The other members of the crew were taken off by a patrol boat and landed. The vessel was towed into Crow sound and beached.

The Gulflight was a steel vessel of 3202 tons and was built at Camden, N. J., in 1914. She was owned by the Gulf Refining company. The vessel was 383 feet long, 51 feet beam and 30 feet deep. She was equipped with wireless telegraphy.

If first reports are borne out, the attack on the Gulflight constitutes the first case of an American vessel struck by a torpedo with consequent loss of lives. Two American vessels have been sunk by mines, the responsibility for which never has been fixed, and an American, Leon O. Thresher, was drowned when the British ship Falaba was torpedoed. The United States government has just completed its investigation of the Thresher case, but in view of the direct attack on an American vessel now reported, it is probable that both incidents will be dealt with in whatever diplomatic action is taken.

It is generally recalled that, in the note sent by the United States to Germany in answer to Germany's proclamation of a war zone around the British Isles and Ireland, the Washington government stated that it would hold the German government "to a strict accountability" for the loss of any American lives or vessels, the phraseology being so drawn as to cover attacks on belligerent vessels on which Americans were traveling. Officials said that at the time the purpose of the document was to insist upon the right of Americans to voyage on the high seas even on belligerent merchantmen and on the observances of previous rules of international law which provide for the transfer to places of safety of noncombatants aboard unarmed merchantmen.

In diplomatic quarters the attack on the Gulflight recalled similar experiences of other neutral craft with German submarines. A Norwegian and a Dutch steamer were torpedoed recently, but so far as could be recalled by officials here no lives were lost. In these cases the German government, besides promising to pay damages for the vessels destroyed, expressed its regret at the occurrence.

SERIOUS LABOR SITUATION

Chicago Has Greatest Problem In Fifteen Years to Solve

Chicago, May 3.—The new fiscal year in labor circles was ushered in with the most serious labor situation that has existed in Chicago in the last fifteen years. By the strike of 1200 bridge and structural iron workers the number of striking workmen in Chicago was swelled to 34,000. Efforts at arbitration looking to a temporary truce continued without result.

There are on strike or locked out 16,000 union carpenters, 5000 mill men or inside carpenters, 10,400 painters, decorators and paper hangers, 1200 structural iron workers and 800 lathers. As a result of the strikes and lockouts fully 150,000 members of building trades unions are idle.

Employers and union leaders agreed that if a settlement of the carpenters' strike could be reached the other disputes could be settled.

Record Is Hard to Beat

Newburyport, Mass., May 3.—Albert F. Fowler, Jr., 17, a member of the senior class of the Newburyport high school, has a remarkable record in that, during fourteen years of school life, he has never been absent, tardy nor dismissed, and the same is said to be true as to his record for attendance at the Unitarian Sunday school.

Fitchburg Man Held For Murder

Fitchburg, Mass., May 3.—Raymond Henderson, charged with the murder of George Sweeney in this city last Tuesday evening waived examination in court, and was held for the grand jury. Three witnesses were held in bonds of $100.

Substitute For Picric Acid

London, May 3.—Military engineers announce the discovery of an explosive substance which, they assert, may be used as a substitute for picric acid. The price of picric acid has become prohibitive as a result of speculation.

SUFFRAGISTS HOLD MEETING

Large Number Attend Open Air Rally

Although the night was raw and threatening a large crowd had already gathered at the entrance to Furnace Brook Parkway at West Quincy when the automobile with the yellow and green banners arrived with the speakers for the suffrage open air meeting. Miss Florence Luscomb spoke first and said in brief:

"It is only twenty-six weeks to the second of November when you voters will be called upon to decide whether the vote shall be given to women. There is only one person we fear and that is the ignorant voter, and by the ignorant voter we do not mean the man who has not had a college education, or the man who works with his hands, or the man who is foreign born, but we mean the man who does not know the facts about woman suffrage. We want to remind you that we are not asking for anything new and untried. Women have been voting for 19, 22, and 46 years respectively in Utah, Colorado, and Wyoming, and in these states women have helped secure some of the best laws governing health, labor conditions, and morality that we have in the country.

"The question is not, 'Is manhood suffrage a failure?' but 'will not manhood suffrage plus woman suffrage be still more of a success?' You must remember that the argument that things are well enough as they are was made when you workingmen asked for the vote. But you argued that as the laws affected you, you had aright to a voice in the making of the laws. And so we are just asking to be allowed to attend to what concerns us. Nowadays polit ics affect us at every point. If I go into a store and buy a can of condensed milk I have to trust politics for its being pure, for politics decides who the pure food inspectors shall be. Do you think that if the inspectors had been doing their duty they would have passed a pail of molasses taffy for pure leaf lard as they did in Chicago when a public-spirited woman thought she would try out the system?

"When we do have the vote we shall have an advantage over you for we won't have to make any of the mistakes that you have made. But there will be this advantage for you—that we won't be able to blame you for any mistakes that will be made in the future."

Mrs. C. J. White then spoke and said among other things: "The laboring man is beginning to realize that he is being 'worked' through his women, because it is the laboring man's women who are forced into industry. He sees that if his daughter is forced to work for less than a living wage, he still must contribute toward her support, nothwithstanding that he has given her an education to fit her to earn her own living. He sees that if she works under conditions that undermine her health she is back on his hands for support. Let the women have the vote so that they can demand a living wage and wholesome working conditions. Moreover what is it that keeps down the wages of the working man? The low wages of women who find themselves forced to work for less wages than men, because they are without the political power of men.

"It is true that women without the vote have been able to accomplish much for the welfare of mankind, but it has taken years of hard work and intense persistency. Women spent a long time urging the government for a Bureau of Child Welfare and three weeks after one of their most earnest pleas, $15,000 was appropriated for the protection of the clam because on the clam depends the pearl button industry."

Mrs. Harriet Kennedy reminded her hearers that Abigail Adams was the first American suffragist and then recalled the protest that preceeded the opening of the lower schools to girls in 1789. "Nowadays a man prefers a woman who can read and write to one who is illiterate; before many years he will choose one who can vote to one who is unqualified to vote."

Many questions were asked by the people in the audience and Miss Luscomb was kept answering them until the moment for departure arrived.

ESTABLISH NEW POLICE ROUTE

West Quincy To Have More Protection

Acting Chief Daniel R. McKay, after a conference with Mayor Campbell, announced at roll call Saturday evening that a new police beat had been established in West Quincy and that for the present Reserve Officer Galvin had been assigned to it. It is probable, however, that Reserve Officer Shea will permanently cover it.

The beat will be known in police circles as the West and Willard streets beat and will include the territory on both sides of those streets. Patrolman Dahlberg will cover the other section of West Quincy, to the north of the new beat.

The matter was first brought to the attention of Mayor Campbell by Councilman John D. Smith of Ward four, who at the close of an urgent plea for better police protection in that part of the city, presented a long petition for the same which had been signed by West Quincy residents.

West Quincy has been without proper police protection for years one man being obliged to cover the entire section. The residents are much elated with the success of the efforts of Councilman Smith and the effect of their petition.

PARK AND DOWNS.

In the morning the pastor spoke on the 14th chapter of St Mark which was followed by the communion service.

He referred to Christ's constant giving of himself through the months of his ministry. Christ does not ask anything of us except the privilege of serving us. The whole spirit of Jesus was a spirit of self-giving, for that is the nature of God. There is not a breath we draw which does not represent the outgiving of the divine nature.

The moment the spirit of Christ becomes ours we become inspired by this same impulse to serve without thought of reward. When the hour of his supreme trial came Jesus was prepared to meet it, because he had already fought it out in prayer. In communion with his Father he gathered strength for the coming trial.

We live haphazard existences. We are governed by impulses. When dangers and temptations and trials o strength come we are confused. We can only depend upon the prompting of impulse and impulse is one of the most dangerous things in the world.

We ought to have our days planned out before hand. We ought to prepare ourselves by prayer for an eventuality. We ought to have a settled plan made up of a few great principles and convictions which in a broad way embrace any possible situation.

It was the quiet hour in that Gethsemane of prayer which prepared the mind of Jesus for the supreme test o Calvary. It was the neglect of this same opportunity on the part of the disciples, who slept through the event, which paved the way for their cowardly betrayal of their Master.

How many supreme opportunities to be great and good and to do good and add to the Master's service are we all unconscious of because we devote ourselves to the most trivial and petty needs and impulses. The Master is still in his Gethsemane, we have ours to face. The Master calls us to watch with Him, to guard his interests and to pray lest we too fall into the danger of betrayal. We are called to a sublime honor and privilege but many of us are sleeping away our best powers.

"Japan" was the subject of the evening service. Text: "Who gave himself." No man is in a position to serve the world without the spirit of Christ to guide and govern him.

The success of this piano sale is the talk of business circles throughout the country

Copyright, 1914. Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

Nothing has ever taken place in business circles that has occasioned so much favorable comment as has the success of this piano sale.

Here is a gigantic enterprise which was launched in the face of all sorts of pessimistic talk and war scares. A sale which was set in motion when business men generally were in a frame of mind to "sit tight." A sale which, for boldness and magnitude, has never before been equa'ed.

From the moment it was announced, it was an electrifying success. It is an inspiration to read the letters and telegrams from The Bacon Piano Co., who inaugurated this sale. We also have heard from other merchants, who, like ourselves, were called in to carry the sale to completion.

And their letters show the same spontaneous response.

From every section of the country where this sale is being held, comes the same enthusiastic reports of unprecedented success.

It is being commented upon in trade journals.

It is even the subject of editorials in daily papers throughout the country.

Why?

Because big men, the biggest in piano manufacturing and the biggest piano merchants in the world, had the nerve and foresight to show the people that the country never was so sound in finances, and never had a larger buying power, even if this sale is held at the expense of greatly reduced profits.

They inaugurated this sale, which, as business men say, is a wonder in the breadth and liberality of its policy, and the sweeping success with which it has met is another triumph for American nerve and enterprise.

The piano behind the success tells the story in few words

You hear of the "Man behind the gun"

We will tell you of the piano behind the success.

The success of this sale is undoubtedly due to the broad and liberal policy back of it. To anticipating many conditions that prospective buyers of pianos would like to have, and making them a part of the agreement.

But back of the policy, is the piano.

No policy, however liberal, would carry a big enterprise like this to the success that this sale has attained, without a piano worthy of that policy back of it.

The piano itself is the foundation of the success of this great sale—and it deserves to be.

These pianos deserve the approval with which they are meeting.

For they are certainly excellent instruments.

The case designs are beautiful. Of plain architecture. Straight lines. No ornamentation. No gewgaws. But beautifully hand polished until you can see yourself in them, or else of the new and most desirable Satin or Art finish, so popular now in furniture.

As to the materials—the wood, the strings, the felt, the ivory, the action—they will give the same identical satisfaction as that of the highest priced piano made.

These are pianos that will give a lifetime of satisfactory service.

They are the kind of pianos you have had pictured in your mind's eye as the kind of piano you would want for your home when you were ready to buy.

They are the kind of pianos you would point to with pride. No home contains a better piano in looks—in tone—or in lasting and durable qualities.

You may live to be a hundred and never have another opportunity like this

It is said that opportunity comes but once: That is the case with this piano sale.

You will never have another such an opportunity. You will never have another so good an opportunity.

This sale was called into being to meet a condition.

That condition was an unnecessary depression in the piano business due to pessimistic talk and war scares.

At a conference held in The Bacon Piano Co.'s. New York office, at which sixteen representative merchants were present by invitation, it was decided to go right ahead and make and sell pianos, even if the whole of Europe got into war.

At that conference it was determined—

To sell pianos for less than they were ever sold before.

To give easier terms of payment than were ever given before.

To make more liberal conditions of sale than were ever made before.

And that is what is being done

1—$350 pianos are being sold for $266.
2—$550 player-pianos are being sold for $413.
3—The first payment has been reduced to five dollars.
4—The first year's payments on pianos were placed at one dollar a week.
5—The first year's payments on player-pianos were placed at one dollar and 75 cents a week.
6—You do not have to pay interest on account of the long time you are given in which to make your payments.
7—Your money will be refunded after a thirty days' trial, if the instrument you select is not satisfactory.
8—You will be permitted to exchange your instrument if it is not satisfactory, at any time within one year, without incurring loss or extra expense.
9—You are given a five-year unconditional guarantee; the strongest ever placed upon any piano or player-piano.
10—And last, but not least, we are going to make it a practise to cancel the accounts of those purchasers who should be so unfortunate as to die before their payments have been paid in full, provided their accounts are up to date at the time of death.

Read these ten advantages over again. Let them burn themselves into your memory.

You will then know why we say that "you will never have another so good an opportunity" to procure a piano. You will at least not delay in investigating.

¶ All instruments sold during this sale will be delivered at once. Arrangements may be made, however, to have an instrument set aside, after being selected to be delivered later.

QUINCY, MASS

¶ During this sale, the Piano Department will be open evenings by appointment, arrangements for which may be made by calling phone No. 1200, and asking for Mr. Bates.

The PROBLEM of GOOD MILK

All persons do not understand what is meant by good, safe milk. Some believe that the milk with a deep cream line is desirable, whereas, the Doctor knows that Holstein Milk, although containing little cream is often more desirable for babies, partly for this reason, or perhaps because of the method of production

The real criterion of a good milk is its wholesomeness This depends upon the conditions at the dairy, and the special care given it until it reaches the consumer. Scrupulously clean and healthy cows, clean and healthy dairymen, rapid cooling, and protecting the milk, constant dairy and laboratory inspection are required. Furthermore safety is assured when the dealer pasteurizes his supply.

THE ELM FARM MILK COMPANY OF DORCHESTER offer pure Family Milk, and exceptional Nursery Milk at prices often charged for ordinary milk Speak to the salesman, or call Dor. 2100. 6-1 mo.

NEW TRIAL BEGINS

Mrs. Carman to Fight Murder Charge For Second Time

Mineola, L. I. May 3.—The second trial of Mrs. Florence Carman on the charge of murder, began today in the supreme court. Both the district attorney and counsel for the defence have announced their readiness to proceed and it is not expected that there will be any delay.

It is said that there are to be five new witnesses and that the prosecution will at this trial attack the testimony to be offered by Mrs. Carman's daughter and sister.

One of the most important witnesses for the prosecution is Cecelia Coleman, the negro maid, who was employed in the home of Dr. Edwin Carman, on the Merrick road, at Freeport, where Mrs. Louise Bailey was shot and killed on the evening of June 30, last year.

The maid, however, is asserted to be a self-confessed perjurer and the decision of the jury will rest upon her testimony as against that to be offered by Mrs. Carman. Persons who have followed the case closely are of the opinion that the prosecution has a weak case and an acquittal is looked for.

George M. Levy, counsel for Mrs. Carman, declared that the defense would be much stronger than that offered at the first trial which resulted in a disagreement.

WHAT LIQUOR WOULD DO

Secretary Bryan Gives Interesting Lecture at New York

New York, May 3.—Secretary of State Bryan, discussing drink before 2500 people in Carnegie hall, told his hearers that the amount of money the nation spends for drink would—

Buy three times as much wheat as the country raises in a year.

Buy all the corn the country raises in a year and a half as much over.

Build 300,000 miles of macadam road.

Build 1000 macadam roads clear across the country.

Build in two years macadam roads cutting the country like a gridiron and running north and south and east and west, twelve miles apart.

Duplicate the capital and surplus of all the national banks in the country with $700,000,000 left over for spending money.

Build six Panama canals in a year.

Pay the cost of our schools three times over.

OPERATION FATAL FOR LITTLEFIELD

Former Maine Congressman Dies In New York

New York, May 3.—Charles E. Littlefield, former representative in congress from Maine, died in a hospital here following an operation.

His funeral will be held at Rockland, Me., where he lived many years, on Wednesday.

Mr. Littlefield was born in Lebanon, Me., June 1, 1851, in the district he represented for nine years. He was the son of a Free Baptist minister, and under the tutelage of his father, with a common school education as a basis, he studied law until 1876, when he went to Rockland and was admitted to the bar.

In congress he was known as "the trust hunter." He introduced an anti-trust bill to amend the Sherman act in the Fifty-sixth congress. In many ways he showed himself a man of initiative. He once said that "if it were not for the newspapers represented at Washington, I would be afraid to trust myself with the members of the house, so dark and devious are the ways of some."

In many ways his career resembled that of Thomas B. Reed. He was at one time candidate for the speakership. After retiring from the house, Littlefield, like Reed, went into the practise of law in New York.

LUMBERMEN IN BATTLE

Probably Fatal Fight Between Men of Rival Camps

Sharon, Mass., May 3.—A fight between men from rival lumber camps may result in the death of John Wilder of Sharon Heights, who is under a physician's care with concussion of the brain, several broken ribs, a broken nose, deep gashes in his face and other injuries.

Joseph Pellering of Sharon has been arrested as his assailant and the police are seeking other men of the two lumber camps who escaped before the police arrived.

The fight took place at the H. O. Aldrich lumber camp at Vienna Crossing, Sharon Heights, between the men of that camp and those of the Lockwood camp. Pellering of the Aldrich camp says that Wilder was assaulting Thomas Doucette with an axe and that he interferred. A general mixup followed, during which Wilder was slashed and beaten.

HIS LAST TEA FIGHT

By HOPE AINSLEE.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Don't ask me to go to any more of these tea fights, Helen, I beg of you," protested Donald Moore as he anticipated his sister's invitation.

Helen's pretty face became clouded at once. "George! How rude! Tea fights!"

"Well, pink, blue or yellow teas—or anything you like to call them. I've escorted you this whole winter from one studio to another. I've imbibed gallons of sickly tea and eaten pounds of cake and tarts and jam, and I've listened to would-be artists rave for hours about their souls and their temperaments. I'm sick of it."

"Won't you go just this once—this afternoon? I promised you would be there and I believe you'll really like Caroline Becker. She has no temperament and of course I find her rather dull—"

"I'll go," interrupted her brother. "Any person living in a studio and having a tea and that you can find dull must be an oddity."

George turned away, whistling. He had a sincere hope that his sister would develop some common sense after she had a season or two of New York studio life. She was young.

As they walked briskly down Central park west toward the studio building in which Helen's "dull" artist friend lived, George Moore began to be curious about his hostess to be.

He was more than curious when he took her proffered hand and felt her warm, strong grip as she welcomed him and his sister to her studio. The girl was beautiful, in a simple, sweet way. She was like the girl he knew in the West, not a particle like the girls his sister "adored" and who lived in the studios he had been frequenting.

Neither was this studio like the others. It looked more like a real home than anything he had seen in New York. There was no oriental scent in the air; there were no dimly lighted candle lamps, no smoking table with "ladies' cigarettes" lying on it.

"This is so cheerful and homelike, Miss Becker," he found himself saying after he and his sister had admired the picture that had won the Academy prize.

"Oh, it is, really?" asked Caroline, earnestly.

"It is, indeed," George repeated.

"That's been one of my main objects in the furnishing of it and in all my little entertainments. I've tried to have the home atmosphere—the way mother does at home in Omaha—and, now don't laugh when I show you something." She ran behind a screen and returned with a stone crock in her arms.

"The cookie crock!" cried Helen.

"I can hardly believe my eyes," added George.

"And real, homemade cookies!" explained Caroline, removing the top of the crock. "Mother sends them every week and I always have some."

Each of the guests took a round sugar-covered cookie and ate it as if it were the best thing they had ever tasted.

"I wouldn't exchange this cookie for all the French tarts or pate-de-foie-gras tid-bits in all the studios in New York," said George Moore more enthusiastically than his sister had heard him express himself since he had left home.

"They are good," admitted Helen.

"It's just that—they remind me of home," said Caroline.

As George reached for a third cookie his sister frowned upon him.

"George Moore! You laugh so loud and eat so much. I'm ashamed of you," she admonished.

"Don't be, please, Miss Moore," pleaded Caroline, putting a friendly hand on Helen's arm. "It's so good to see and hear him. It's like home—itself."

And after that the guests began to arrive so that George and his sister could not monopolize their hostess. Helen had to drag her brother home and as she usually had to urge him to remain even a polite length of time she was more than amused.

"That is the first real girl I've met at these tea fights, sis," he said as they walked home.

"Yes?" replied Helen, raising her eyebrows. "She's very pleasant."

"Pleasant! I should think she was—she's a peach! She's a real genuine girl and I intend to see much of her. And I hope that cookie crock will not grow empty for I intend to make many a raid on it."

"I—I thought this was your last 'tea fight,'" suggested his sister.

George laughed. "I'll forgive you for taking me to this one, sis—honest I will."

"For you saw the handwriting on the wall of Caroline Becker's studio, didn't you?" she asked, teasingly.

He nodded. "I did; did you?"

And apparently the writing was there, for the girl with the stone cookie crock and the man who did not like studio teas went to housekeeping in a real home within twelve months from the day of their meeting.

Thick-Headed.

"You don't seem to think much of Gadson's intellectual powers."

"No, I don't."

"Well, why not?"

"Because I feel quite sure that if a section an inch square were cut from his skull it would make an exeellent paper weight."

COMMISSION MEN MUST FACE TRIAL

Charged With Violating Federal Anti-Trust Law

Washington, May 3.—Chief Justice Covington, of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, has overruled demurrers to the indictment charging thirty Washington commission merchants with conspiracy in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law to hold up the prices of foodstuffs.

Arrangements are in progress for an early trial of the merchants, who were indicted several months ago, soon after President Wilson directed the department of justice to learn if there was a conspiracy to boost the prices of foodstuffs and lay it to the war.

COLON IS FIRE SWEPT

Eleven Lives Lost In Blaze That Causes $3,500,000 Property Loss

Colon, May 3.—Complete reports from the fire swept section of the city show that property valued at more than $3,500,000 went up in smoke and that eleven lives were lost.

The fire completely destroyed 465 buildings, covering twenty-two blocks, and these will be almost entirely a loss as there was very little insurance.

Among the principal buildings destroyed are those of the Panama Banking company and the International Banking corporation, both of which have their offices in New York. The United States commissary, which was the largest on the isthmus, is also a total loss, and this makes it necessary to bring supplies to Colon for the homeless from other commissaries along the canal zone.

A Third Message

To the Business Men of Quincy

Prosperity and local pride are twins. They are born at the same time and grow up together. Enthusiasm for the home town is a great thing for local business men. Once developed, this feeling shows direct returns in more sales and bigger profits.

Have you ever seen a shabby town proud, or prosperous? Good paint is a powerful factor in keeping prosperity after a community has won it.

Amilda L. Andrew, Libellant, vs.
John Andrew, Libellee.
Libel for Divorce.

Respectfully represents Amilda L. Andrew of Quincy in our County of Norfolk, libellant, that she was lawfully married to John Andrew, of said Quincy, now of parts unknown, libellee, on the sixteenth day of May 1903, in said Quincy, and thereafter continued to live with said libellee in said Quincy, as husband and wife until on or about March 1, 1908; that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations but that the said libellee being wholly regardless of the same did on said date utterly desert your libellant, said utter desertion continuing for more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel; and furthermore being of sufficient ability he grossly, wantonly and cruelly refuses and neglects to provide suitable maintenance for her.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed her from said John Andrew libellee.

Dated this twenty-sixth day of April 1915.

AMILDA L. ANDREW.

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

(Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Company)

"About Sabron, marraine," said her godson laconically.

The Marquise d'Esclignac raised her lorgnon and said:

"Speak, man! What do you know about Monsieur de Sabron? See, he is covered with dirt—has leprosy, probably." But she did not withdraw. She was a great lady and stood her ground. She did not know what the word "squeamish" meant.

Listening to the man's jargon and putting many things together, Tremont at last turned to the Marquise d'Esclignac who was sternly fixing the beggar with her haughty condescension:

"Marraine, he says that Sabron is alive, in the hands of natives in certain district where there is no travel, in the heart of the seditious tribes. He says that he has friends in a caravan of merchants who once a year pass the spot where this native village is."

"The man's a lunatic," said the Marquise d'Esclignac calmly. "Get Abimelec and put him out of the garden, Robert. You must not let Julia hear of this."

"Marraine," said Tremont quietly, "Mademoiselle Redmond has already seen this man. He has come to see her tonight."

"How perfectly horrible!" said the Marquise d'Esclignac. Then she asked rather weakly of Tremont: "Don't you think so?"

"Well, I think," said Tremont, "that the only interesting thing is the truth there may be in what this man says. If Sabron is a captive, and he knows anything about it, we must use his information for all it is worth."

"Of course," said the Marquise d'Esclignac, "of course. The war department must be informed at once. Why hasn't he gone there?"

"He has explained," said Tremont, "that the only way Sabron can be saved is that he shall be found by outsiders. One hint to his captors would end his life."

"Oh!" said the Marquise d'Esclignac "I don't know what to do. Bob! What part can we take in this?"

Tremont pulled his mustache. Mimi had circled round the beggar, snuffing at his slippers and robe. The man made no objection to the little creature, to the fluffy ball surrounded by a huge bow, and Mimi sat peacefully down in the moonlight, at the beggar's feet.

"Mimi seems to like him," said the Marquise d'Esclignac helplessly, "she is very particular."

"She finds that he has a serious and convincing manner," said Tremont.

Now the man, who had been a silent listener to the conversation, said in fairly comprehensible English to the Marquise d'Esclignac:

"If the beautiful grandmother could have seen the Capitaine de Sabron on the night before the battle—"

"Grandmother, indeed!" exclaimed the marquise indignantly. "Come, Mimi! Robert, finish with this creature and get what satisfaction you can from him. I believe him to be an impostor; at any rate, he does not expect me to mount a camel or to lead a caravan to the rescue."

Tremont put Mimi in her arms; she folded her lorgnon and sailed majestically away, like a highly decorated pinnace with silk sails, and Tremont, in the moonlight, continued to talk with the sincere and convincing Hammet Abou.

"Nonsense," Said Julia.

CHAPTER XX.

Julia Decides.

Now the young girl had his letters and her own to read. They were sweet and sad companions and she laid them side by side. She did not weep, because she was not of the weeping type; she had hope.

Her spirits remained singularly even. Madame de la Maine had given her a great deal to live on.

"Julia, what have you done to Robert?"

"Nothing, ma tante."

"He has quite changed. This excursion to Africa has entirely altered him. He is naturally so gay," said the Marquise d'Esclignac. "Have you refused him, Julia?"

"Ma tante, he has not asked me to be the Duchess de Tremont."

Her aunt's voice was earnest.

"Julia, do you wish to spoil your life and your chances of happiness? Do you wish to mourn for a dead soldier who has never been more than an acquaintance? I won't even say a friend."

What she said sounded logical.

"Ma tante, I do not think of Monsieur de Sabron as dead, you know."

"Well, in the event that he may be, my dear Julia."

"Sometimes," said the girl, drawing near to her aunt and taking the older lady's hand quietly and looking in her eyes, "sometimes, ma tante, you are cruel."

The marquise kissed her and sighed: "Robert's mother will be so unhappy!"

"But she has never seen me, ma tante."

"She trusts my taste, Julia."

"There should be more than 'taste' in a matter of husband and wife, ma tante."

After a moment, in which the Marquise d'Esclignac gazed at the bougainvillea and wondered how anyone could admire its crude and vulgar color, Miss Redmond asked:

"Did you ever think that the Duc de Tremont was in love?"

Turning shortly about to her niece, her aunt stared at her.

"In love, my dear!"

"With Madame de la Maine."

The arrival of Madame de la Maine had been a bitter blow to the Marquise d'Esclignac. The young woman was, however, much loved in Paris and quite in the eye of the world. There was no possible reason why the Marquise d'Esclignac should avoid her.

"You have been hearing gossip, Julia."

"I have been watching a lovely woman," said the girl simply, "and a man. That's all. You wouldn't want me to marry a man who loves another woman, ma tante, when the woman loves him and when I love another man?"

She laughed and kissed her aunt's cheek.

"Let us think of the soldier," she murmured, "let us think just of him, ma tante, will you not?"

The Marquise d'Esclignac struck her colors.

In the hallway of the villa, in a snowy gibbeh (and his clean-washed appearance was much in his favor), Hammet Abou waited to talk with the "grandmother" and the excellency.

He pressed both his hands to his forehead and his breast as the ladies entered the vestibule. There was a stagnant odor of myrrh and sandalwood in the air. The marble vestibule was cool and dark, the walls hung with high-colored stuffs, the windows drawn to keep out the heat.

The Duc de Tremont and Madame de la Maine came out of the salon together. Tremont nodded to the Arab.

"I hope you are a little less—" and he touched his forehead smiling, "today, my friend."

"I am as God made me, Monsieur."

"What have you got today?" asked Julia Redmond anxiously, fixing her eager eyes upon Hammet.

It seemed terrible to her that this man should stand there with a vital secret and that they should not all be at his feet. He glanced boldly around at them.

"There are no soldiers here?"

"No, no, you may speak freely."

The man went forward to Tremont and put a paper in his hands, unfolding it like a chart.

"This is what monsieur asked me for—a plan of the battlefield. This is the battlefield, and this is the desert."

Tremont took the chart. On the page was simply a round circle, drawn in red ink, with a few Arabian characters and nothing else. Hammet Abou traced the circle with his fingers tipped with henna.

"That was the battle, Monsieur."

"But this is no chart, Hammet Abou."

The other continued, unmoved:

"And all the rest is a desert, like this."

SPRING MILLINERY MODES.

The Predominating Hat Is Tiny, With a Hint of Larger Shapes.

Styles in women's millinery have never been smarter nor of a more attractive type. The predominating hat is small, almost tiny, usually trimmed flat, yet we have it from good authority that the tendency is toward even smaller ones. There is some hint regarding larger shapes on the poke or picturesque order for midsummer. Particularly well liked are the small bonnet effects on the military order. Sailors, turbans and tricorns are leading shapes. High lustered straws and rough effects are seen, milan being very prominent. Flowers, fruits and ribbons are used for trimmings.

Turbans suggestive of the military and called Tipperary or Belgian are extremely popular. These turbans are small and soft and worn on the side of the head, showing the well dressed hair. The crowns of some are indented, simulating Harry Lauder's Scotch cap. To accentuate this idea many have ribbon bands about the brim, ending in the back with a bow and streamers of various lengths, nine inches being the maximum length, while some have ends which scarcely cover the edge of the back brim. Others are wired, the loops and ends standing away from the brim.

The brims of turbans many times are higher in the front and sides than in the back. This is usually the case when streamers are used. Some of the turbans are made with soft, puffed crowns with no indentation.

Sailors are both elongated and round. All hats should be worn well over on the right side and up on the head, showing the hair on the right side and back of the head.

Frequently the upper portion of a hat is of silk or satin in one of the new light shades, such as putty, sand or gray, and the underbrim of a darker color, such as tete de negre, green or blue.

Malines is much used on hats. It is used either in the making of the entire hat or just for the narrow brim. Sailor shapes are especially attractive with narrow brims, either of shirred or plain malines, with the edges bound with satin. The crowns are usually of milan or hemp. Lacquered flowers on the order of flat asters are arranged between the layers of malines. Sailor hats of kid in shades of putty or tan are faced on the underbrim with braid of color.

Ribbons and flowers are used in profusion in trimming. They are placed around the upper edge of the brim about an inch from the top in a wreath effect or are laid stiff and flat against the brim. Grosgrain and velvet ribbons are used in the making of smart little bows or for the banding of the brims of turbans, with streamers in the back. Little cockades of ribbon are used in the trimming of tailored modes. Small bows are used in combination with flowers. Small flowers in attractive colorings are used in combination and give a dainty touch to the light sand and putty shades or to the dark shades. Kid flowers made flat are appliqued to quills, presenting a novel effect. Lacquered flowers, with their shiny surfaces, are in attractive colors, and rubberized flowers are novel. Thistles combined with thorn apples, baby wheat in many colors and tiny apples and berries are all shown.

Keeping Hair Fluffy.

With the aid of wavers and other similar simple contrivances some girls are able to impart to their hair a charmingly fluffy appearance — until they go out in the damp or the wind; then the fluffiness disappears as though by magic, and the hair hangs in dank wisps over their brows.

Here is a remedy. Before putting in the wavers damp the strands of hair to be waved with a little slightly diluted eau de cologne. This will serve to keep the wave in for quite a long time. You must dilute the eau de cologne with water, though; otherwise the hair will frizz too stiffly. Just to what extent you will require to dilute it you will find by experience. A teaspoonful of each, however, will usually meet the case.

Fringe as Trimming.

Fringes of many sorts are still used. Some of the newest skirts show an edging of fringe at the bottom. There is a silk corded fringe that is often used with faille, and there is a fringe made of strands of beads that is used a good deal on evening frocks.

CLEANING HINTS.

Ribbons that are creased and wrinkled may be renovated by rolling them over a large bottle filled with hot water. To freshen black moire ribbon first brush thoroughly and then sponge with a solution made of a quart of coffee and a teaspoonful of ammonia. Roll the ribbon over a bottle and while still damp press it on the wrong side with a hot iron over a white muslin cloth.

To revive chiffon spread a wet cloth over a very hot iron and hold the chiffon over the steam until it is free from wrinkles. Renew both cloth and iron as soon as the steam flows feebly. Allow it to dry quickly. To wash use plenty of warm water with a little borax dissolved in it and pure castile soap. Do not rub the soap directly on the material, but make suds and rub the chiffon very softly between the hands until it is absolutely clean. Rinse in clear, cold water and shake out gently. To dry, pin to a sheet on the floor.

IRISH SHOULD KEEP OUT OF EUROPEAN STRUGGLE

National President of A. O. H. Speaks Here Sunday

Joseph McLaughlin of Philadelphia national president of the A. O. H., was greeted with deafening cheers and hand clapping at the Norfolk County reception given in his honor at Hibernian building, Sunday afternoon. The reception was well attended.

County Vice President Thomas Walsh of Quincy introduced the toastmaster, state treasurer Dennis J. Slattery, who presided during the reception.

Cornelius Duggan of Atlantic sang several songs in his own inimitable way, after which President McLaughlin was introduced.

Mr. McLaughlin roundly scored the Irish for risking their lives in the European war, declaring it a war for commercial supremacy. He also scored the American nation for praying for peace on Sunday and supplying the belligerent nations with munitions of war the other six days of the week.

President McLaughlin said in closing: "Speaking for myself alone I do not want to see Ireland divided. I was born in the north of Ireland and certainly I do not want to see any part of Ireland enjoy some sort of political freedom and another part be the same as before.

"Ireland should be united from north to south and from east to west. We are told we should sympathize with France as of old. True, but no Irishman and no Catholic can sympathize with a modern France, the first to banish the Jesuits and the first to expel the nuns and brothers and to confiscate their property. As good Catholics are the Irish called upon to fight for such a nation? Ireland's place in this great struggle is at home in Ireland, conserving its energy for the future."

The speaker further said that his mission during the tour he is taking was to increase the membership of the A. O. H. throughout the county. He said: "I hope that we will not receive any more Irish immigrants in this country and conditions in the old land will improve so the Irish will not be forced to seek other lands for a livelihood."

Treasurer Slattery then introduced Joseph White of Weymouth who contributed several songs.

National Vice President Patrick F. Cannon and State President John T. Donnelly and County President James L. White also urged the members of the various divisions in Norfolk County to make every effort to increase their membership and secure some of the prizes offered by the National President.

John Dillon, who was the personal representative of Mayor Curley of Boston, also gave a short address which though spoken in a serious view was nevertheless interspersed with considerable humor.

JUDGE FINDS PROBABLE CAUSE

Joseph M. Henry of Boston, who according to the police is responsible for the wholesale theft of tools from granite sheds in Quincy, was held for the grand jury on four complaints, charging him with breaking, entering and larceny, by Judge Avery this morning. Sureties were set at $500 in each complaint.

Henry was arrested in Boston Friday by officers of Station 11. The police say he stole tools at the plants of Marini and Bielli, Christie and Co., Coe and Coe and Kavanaugh Bros. The tools consisted of bush hammers and pneumatic tools. All but one of the latter have been recovered.

H. M. Siegel, a Pleasant street pawn broker, identified Henry as a man named McJones who sold him a bush hammer. The tool was recovered by Inspector Goodhue and claimed by a South Quincy Italian. The government witnesses included the owners of the stolen property and members of the firm whose sheds had been entered.

Arthur L. Thomas, attorney for the defense, contended in his arguments that the possession of the tool did not prove charges of breaking and entering. Judge Avery found probable cause however for holding Henry for the Grand Jury.

Wonderful Earthworms.

As Darwin long ago showed, the earthworm is the farmer's friend. Its burrows drain and aerate the soil, while the earth which has passed through its body is finely divided and is constantly being brought to the surface from lower levels. Its body is adapted to the burrowing habit. The pointed head end is devoid of feelers and eyes, and the foot stumps are only represented by rows of bristles, which can be felt if the finger be passed along the body from back to front. There are no jaws, but the muscular part of the digestive tube acts as a kind of pump for taking in food. This includes plants and animals. It has a small gizzard, which contains many stones, and these are used instead of teeth to grind the food.—Chicago Herald.

A Lesson In Politeness.

Armed with a subpoena a deputy sheriff went out to serve it on a wealthy and extremely snobbish manufacturer, whom he met at the gate of the manufacturer's country home. The great man was in an automobile, accompanied by two ladies, and as the process server handed over the papers he politely raised his hat. The other assumed a democratic manner. "You don't need to take off your hat to me, young man," he said. "I took off my hat not to you, sir," was the answer, "but to the ladies with you."—Argonaut.

LAUNCHING OF "TUCKER" AT FORE RIVER YARD

U. S. Boat Destroyer Named For Revolutionary Sea Man

One of the bravest officers of the Revolutionary War, Commodore Samuel Tucker was given a proper but long delayed recognition this afternoon when one of the fleetest torpedo boat destroyers of the navy was launched at the Fore River shipyard, bearing his name.

The sponsor was Mrs. Mary Hinds Garty of Beacon street, Brookline, one of the fifth generation of the Tucker family. She was selected by Sec. Daniels, who learned she was a direct descendant only a few days ago, after lengthy inquiries. This knowledge however became unearthed so slowly that tentative plans had been made for the wife of a prominent naval officer to act in that capacity.

The ceremonies were witnessed by a large number of invited guests and officials of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation. All gathered about Mrs. Garty as she swung the bottle of champagne against the bow as the severed sole piece released the ship and all joined their cheers with the tooting of whistles in the yards and aboard the boats in the river as another engine of war for our navy sped towards the waters.

The launching required less than a minute, and just before the bow settled in the stream, a cloud of smoke, caused by friction burning off the grease of the ways, all but hid it from the view of the sponsor and invited guests.

Mrs. Garty and her party arrived at the office of the company about two o'clock. She was immediately presented with a massive bouquet of Richmond roses by Pres. Powell and escorted to the launching stand.

The pint bottle of champagne, encased in gold wire mesh, hung from the bow, suspended with red, white and blue ribbons, while above it floated the Union Jack, and at the stern "Old Glory." A string of flags of the international signal code decorated the deck of the destroyer and flying from the peak was the blue and white flag of the company. The vessel had barely moved when Mrs. Garty shattered the bottle of christening liquid on the steel bow, spattering its contents on the workmen below.

The reception and luncheon in the office building, after the launching was the occasion for several presentations by Pres Joseph W. Powell toastmaster, and a reunion of members of the historic Adams and Tucker families.

Mrs. Garty was given the ribbons and enmeshed fragments of the christening bottle, encased in a silver mounted teakwood box, a gold bracelet watch and a pin tray, fashioned from copper plate used in the engraving of the invitations.

On the silver plate on the teakwood box, the watch and the ribbon of the christening bottle was the inscription, "Mary Hinds Garty, Sponsor, U. S. S. Tucker, Launched May 4, 1915" and the watch in addition bore the words,

GIRL BITTEN BY MAD DOG

Pet Spaniel Turns on Little Mistress

The examination of the body of a pet dog, bitten by a dog which ran wild through Quincy Point last week, has shown the animal suffered from a well developed case af rabies, and whether or not an epidemic of that disease may break out in that section at any minute is an open question.

The dog which created all the uncertainty appeared early in the week and was noticed because it passed the day fighting other dogs in its path. One of the animals bitten was a water spaniel, the pet of seven year old Virginia Richardson of 43 Edison park and on Saturday morning the pet suddenly turned on the little girl and bit her.

No time was lost in killing the dog and Dr. William J. Middleton sent its body to Boston for examination. The report this morning resulted in his commencing preparations to administer the Pasteur treatment to the little girl.

There is no knowing how many other dogs were bitten but an effort, it is understood, will be made to corral them all and keep them under observation to protect others from being bitten.

The dog which spread the disease, during his rampages created no end of excitement and its fourth day resulted in its being cornered on Quincy avenue by the police and shot.

Q. H. S. PLAYS REVERE TODAY

The game Friday with South Boston High will be a home game and it is expected that Mr. Campbell, former teacher of chemistry at Quincy High and now assistant master at South Boston will be at the game. SOUTH SHORE BRANCH MEETS

Teaching of Patriotism Is Subject

The annual meeting of the South Shore Branch of the Sunday School union of the Diocese of Massachusetts in the Protestant Episcopal church was held in St. Chrysostom's parish house Monday, opening at 4.15 with prayer by the president, Rev. Howard K. Bartow. The subject was "How Shall We Teach Patriotism in the Sunday School."

Vernon A. Field of Wollaston spoke on Patriotism from the point of view of a business man, saying in part:

"A patriot is one who loves his country and is actively interested in her welfare, when called on willing to make sacrifices. John Hancock was a good example of an American patriot. He emphasized the fact that war is not patriotism. He touched lightly on the war questions, his first anger had turned to sorrow."

Mrs. Asa Whitman of Hingham presented Patriotism from the point of view of a teacher. "Until this dreadful war came to horrify the world," she said, "many seemed to believe that by sympathy with the Hague Conference ideals, daily salute of the flag and patriotic songs we were making a stand for peace but we must teach our children to know, to believe, to truly live this. 'And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' We must teach them to think what sorrow even one home may hold on account of war.

"The soldiers of Christ's army must learn to fight in meekness, perhaps the hardest virtue human nature so prone to strike back has to learn. Teach them the new Patriotism by leading them to realize how wonderfully God has made them. Teach them to control but not to root out the fighting instinct, to see behind the so called glories of the victor the unspeakable anguish of the vanquished."

Rev. H Boyd Edward of St. Michaels Milton presented a clergyman's point of view—"Utilitarian and Idealistic views." "Patriotism, as we all know is not an unsullied virtue. It has been the cloak for as many sins as has religion. It presents not only the noble qualities of love, but also vices.

"The purpose of our national life as expressed in our law and public school system is to allow man to develop and express his own life. We love the spirit of freedom and idealism for which it stands. It is this patriotism that is the hope of the world. It does not believe that might is right, that its destiny is to rule the world but that a government of the people, by the people and for the people is the most fundamental, stable and satisfactory of good government a nation can have."

The Woman's Guild served supper to the delegates. The evening session was devoted to the subject "What have been our failures: what our successes in the Sunday school?" with interesting and instructive five minute papers by Mrs. George C. Fuller, Emmanuel church, Braintree; F. E. Staden, St. Stephen's, Cohasset; Mrs. A L. Sylvester, St. Andrews, Hanover; Miss Elizabeth B. Siders, St. Johns the Evangelists, Hingham; Miss Lucy Shaw, Christ church Plymouth, read by Miss Mildred Holmes; Miss Cynthia E. Curtis, Christ church, Quincy; Miss Ethel Vogler, St. Chrysostoms'; and Miss Alice L. Paul, All Saints, Whitman.

These officers were elected:

President, Rev. Howard K. Bartow of Cohasset.

Vice president, Rev. William Hyde of Weymouth.

Secretary and treasurer, Rev. William Granger of Quincy.

Delegate to the Board of Education, Rev. Frederick S. Steenstra of Wollaston.

Besides the officers the following were elected an advisory committee. Mrs. A. L. Sylvester of Hanover, Mrs. C. M. Chase of Quincy, Mrs. Asa Whitman of Hingham.

MAY BASKET PARTY.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Wollaston M. E. church met Monday afternoon in the ladies' parlors and made plans for the May basket party and entertainment to be held this evening at the church.

PASS PONY EXPRESS LICENSE OVER VETO

City Council Sustains Mayor on Two Vetos, However

There was a large attendance of citizens at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. It was common knowledge that Mayor Campbell would return to the council three of the permits granted to expressmen to transport liquor and it was anticipated that the receipt of these vetoes would start something. The vetoes were received all right but the discussion, which was thought would be started, did not materialize. Without debate President Whiton put the question on passing the orders notwithstanding the objection of the Mayor.

The first of these to be acted upon was that of Peter Graicia. In his communication returning the order without his approval the Mayor said "I believe that the laws should be lived up to. This man has violated the law and is not entitled to a license."

The order was passed over the veto, 17 yes and 4 no.

On the orders granting permits to Antonio Petta and Richard S. Gardner the Mayor in his veto said: "These applicants were fairly considered and were disapproved of by the committee and for that reason I returned them without my approval."

On roll call the veto was sustained by a vote of 14 yes and 8 no.

The Mayor also returned without his approval the orders granting junk licenses to Max Berstein and Samuel Kertzman, his reason being that they were disapproved of by the committee. The vote was 16 yes and 6 no.

The Mayor also called attention to the large number of Sunday Fruit licenses being granted. stating that he believed the number far in excess of the requirements.

In spite of this the council later in the evening passed orders granting 76 more Sunday Fruit licenses. Councilman Prescott moved that these orders be recommitted in view of the protest of the Mayor for further investigation.

Councilman Smith, chairman of the committee on licenses, opposed. He stated that the police department had investigated all of the applicants for which orders were reported and if returned to the committee no further light would be obtained. The motion of Councilman Prescott was defeated and the orders adopted.

The license committee also reported orders granting many other licenses to common victuallers, pool table and bowling alleys, hackney carriages, job wagons, etc., the total number of licenses reported being about 150, all of which were adopted.

Charles W. Fosdick and John J. Mahoney who were turned down by the council April 26 and refused permits to transport liquor filed new applications but the council refused to suspend the rules to receive them. Some of the junk men who were turned down a week ago also filed new applications and they were refused.

The Mayor called attention to the fact that the appropriation made a year ago to build Winthrop avenue had been found insufficient and recommended an additional appropriation of $2,000 An order for this amount was later offered by Councilman O'Dowd and referred to the street committee.

Edward E. McCabe was confirmed as a constable and Miss Selina Bellevieu was granted permission to have children appear on the stage at Colonial hall, May 27.

A petition was received for a sidewalk on Bedford street and a letter in opposition to the same was also received.

Hearings were held on a large number of applications for garage gasoline permits which were later granted.

Petitions for the acceptance of Bass street and Sixth avenue and for pole relocations were received and referred, also a large number of applications for minor licenses.

Many applications for gasoline permits were also received and a hearing ordered for May 17.

When the order of business relative to committee reports was reached, the members of fthe council began to sit up and take notice for it was generally understood that the street committee would make a clean sweep of the seventy odd matters which had been referred to them. True to the rumor the committee reported upon the larger part of the matters, as follows:

An order for a hearing June 7 on the widening of School street, accepting Briggs street, changing the grade of Beale and Greenwood streets, widening Sea street at Sea avenue, accepting Bellevue road, accepting Willow street, accepting Forest avenue, accepting Lunt street, taking land to widen Beach street, accepting Vassal street, accepting Linden street, Wollaston; and Lindon street, Atlantic, accepting Wassen avenue, accepting

THE WEATHER.

Weather and War: the two topics of conversation. Even the War has begun to pall a little and it is no longer always dependable. For one thing one never knows when one will violate neutrality. But the weather is with us always. Is there any sentence more witty and inspiring than the one Eve hurled at Adam when he threw himself wearily down under the shade of a palm tree after his conversation with the Serpent: "Well is this hot enough for you?"

The PROBLEM of GOOD MILK

All persons do not understand what is meant by good, safe milk. Some believe that the milk with a deep cream line is desirable, whereas, the Doctor knows that Holstein Milk, although containing little cream is often more desirable for babies, partly for this reason, or perhaps because of the method of production

The real criterion of a good milk is its wholesomeness This depends upon the conditions at the dairy, and the special care given it until it reaches the consumer. Scrupulously clean and healthy cows, clean and healthy dairymen, rapid cooling, and protecting the milk, constant dairy and laboratory inspection are required. Furthermore safety is assured when the dealer pasteurizes his supply.

THE ELM FARM MILK COMPANY OF DORCHESTER offer pure Family Milk, and exceptional Nursery Milk at prices often charged for ordinary milk Speak to the salesman, or call Dor. 2100. 6-1 mo.

THE CAUSE OF WAR.

Joseph McLaughlin of Philadelphia, national president of the A. O. H., speaking to members of the Norfolk county district of the organization in Quincy Sunday is reported to have scored the Irish for risking their lives in the European war, declaring it a war for commercial supremacy.

His words bring up an interesting question. Have there been many wars of modern times fought for any other reasons? We think not. We believe that the deep, underlying cause of almost all of them has been an economic cause, a desire for commercial advantage by one or other of the combatants. We refer to wars between nations, not to revolutions, although a case might be made out even for them along much the same lines. Even the American civil war was not wholly a great moral or political issue. The cotton raising South clung to slavery largely because the South believed the institution to be an economic necessity, because they believed their commercial advantages would be lost when the slaves were taken from them.

Perhaps the Spanish-American war was an exception. The United States certainly was not influenced by a desire for commercial supremacy, but of course, Spain wished to retain her hold on Cuba principally for commercial reasons.

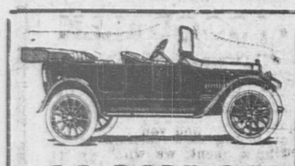

Assuredly the Russo-Japanese war was brought about by economic conditions, by a struggle for commercial supremacy in Manchuria.

The Great War, now cursing the world, is of course, as Mr. McLaughlin says, an economic war, a struggle for commercial supremacy. Nobody contends that the quarrel between Servia and Austria was anything more than an excuse. It was fairly apparent from the start that a great war was inevitable and that all the arts of diplomacy were powerless to avert it, just as all the peace congresses and resolutions and delegations will be powerless to stop the struggle today.

The Massachusetts House of Representatives on Monday passed to be engrossed a bill prohibiting the sale or delivery of milk produced under unsanitary conditions. It is highly desirable that some satisfactory state legislation should be enacted in this matter to supplement the many excellent city ordinances and town regulations of various communities throughout the state.

One of the members of the legislature contended that the bill would drive thousands of farmers out of milk producing business. Let them get out. If they cannot thrive in a legitimate way and without endangering the health of others it is time they withdrew from the business.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Milton High school base ball team showed that training counts, Monday afternoon, when it defeated the All Stars, 7-4. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning because of the chilly weather but it was long enough to give evidence of the High school boys' superiority at the national game. "Reggie" Nash, the High school coach, pitched the first two innings in Capt. Reiser's absence and made five strike outs. He showed that he still retains some of his former pep and skill at base ball. Robertson a former high school player, featured for the losers, making two runs. "Skeet" Morrissey the pitcher displayed some great speed, and with his "smoke" ball struck out six of the High school batters. Blake, first baseman for the Stars, was conspicuous by his five errors. Capt. Latham will be able to produce a speedy nine out of his men before the season is over, but they are at present sorely in need of practice. The score was:

Hundreds of townspeople attended the funeral services of Washington I. Tuckerman held Sunday afternoon from his late home, 24 Brackett street East Milton. The esteem with which Mr. Tuckerman was held in the minds of those who knew him was evidenced by the wonderful floral display.

Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which church Mr. Tuckerman was a member at the time of his death officiated. Mr. Tuckerman was fully deserving of the high tribute paid him by the pastor, which was expressed in these words: "He was a true Christian, a firm believer in God and in the Bible."

The Lotus quartet of Boston sang: "Abide With Me"; "Galilee" and "Tell me the Story of Jesus" the deceased's favorite hymns. Delegations from the Massachusetts Horse shoers, Bantist Social Union and Ladies Bethel Society were present. Burial took place at the Milton cemetery.

STRIKE LEADER GETS LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Lawson Was Charged With Killing Colorado Deputy

Trinidad, Col., May 4.—The jury returned a verdict pronouncing John R. Lawson guilty of murder in the first degree, fixing the penalty at life imprisonment, for the killing of John Nimmo, a deputy sheriff, in a battle with strkers Oct. 25, 1913.

Commenting on the verdict Lawson said:

"They may get me, but they can't defeat the cause of labor. I'm not worrying about myself—it's the fight I have been making for the workingmen that I am interested in, and that will go ahead. Even for me, it's a long way to the penitentiary. My attorneys will not give up until everything possible has been done to save me."

OSBORNE WAS THE MAN

Clerk Insists It Was He Who Registered at Hotel With Rae Tanzer

New York, May 4.—Frank D. Safford, the hotel clerk indicted on a charge of perjury in connection with his identification of James W. Osborne, a well known criminal lawyer, as the man who registered with Miss Rae Tanzer at the Plainfield, N. J., hotel last October, reiterated on the stand in his own defence, that Osborne was the man he had seen at the hotel with the girl.

Safford related with minute detail many of the incidents leading up to his previous identification. Then he said:

"I have looked at Mr. Osborne in court since, and the more I have looked at him the more I am convinced that he is the man, and I won't take it back. I didn't do it for pay and I have not committed any perjury."

GOLDEN STAR RECEIVE VISIT

Entertainment Follows Regular Meeting

Quincy commandery of the Order of the Golden Star was officially visited by District Deputy George Pettingill of Holbrook and suite in Electa hall on Monday evening. He installed three officers who were not present when the officers were installed two weeks ago.

Those who took office were Past Commander Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield, Chaplain Mrs. Carrie Gardner and Inside Warder George Erwin. Commander Mrs. Mary Cook presided at the meeting. Among those present were District Grand Commander Mrs. Jennie Norler of Wollaston, a member of Eagle commandery of South Boston. Several candidates were admitted to membership and several applications were received.

After the meeting an entertaining program was given. An old fashioned cake walk was held and the cake was awarded to Mrs. Beatrice Portorfield. A comedy sketch, "Parcel Post" was given by Fred Williams and Roger Perkins of Holbrook.

AT THE THEATRE

Dustin Farnum appears in the title role in the Southern dramatic romance "Cameo Kirby," at the Kincaide theatre the first three days of the week. It is a stirring drama in five parts, with many exciting incidents, a good plot, and some excellent acting. Incidentally there is a clever love story which despite many complications comes out all right in the end. For the rest of the bill there is a one reel comedy which is surely a mirth-producer. Then there is that comedy team, Burke & Walsh, with some dancing steps and singing. Paul Florus proves his ability as a premier Xylophone artist. The Hayden Sisters, "the four queens," make some quick comedy changes in song and talk. In the evening there is an extra feature; C. Raymond Perkins, assisted by Miss Flora McDonald of Weymouth, in the song hit, "My Marjorie."

NEW CAR TO WEST QUINCY

Belated West Quincyites who reached City square Sunday evening were informed that the late car which is to leave at 11.45 every Sunday night was about to make its first trip and they all got aboard. The arrival of an elevated car with a few more passengers gave the car quite a list when it left, shortly before midnight.

The need of a car was brought to the attention of the St. Ry. officials some months ago by Councilman John D. Smith of ward four. His original request for better service was not successful. He later again called the attention of the company to the necessity of it and a short time ago the latter promised the car when a new schedule went into effect.

The schedule became effective Sunday.

NEW ENGINE FOR FIRE AUTO

The new Kissel engine for the Atlantic Auto Combination arrived in Boston from the factory Monday night and this morning the Auto Chemical was taken to Boston to have the new engine installed. This work will be rushed and Chief Billings says that the apparatus will be back to its station at 5 o'clock tonight. A horse drawn apparatus will cover the district today.

Plans are maturing for an entertainment and dance to be given in Colonial hall May 19, under the direction of Daughters of John Adams L. L. O. L. A feature will be fancy dancing by pupils of James Kennedy, Annie Kennedy, Thelma Keay, Adelaide Lynch, Eleanor Phillips, Gladys Barclay, Margaret Phillips, Mary Lukman, Ruth Wilmore, Louise Vozilla and John Vosalick.

CHURCH AND CHOIR

FIRST PARISH.

In his sermon on "Workers and Kickers" Rev. A. L. Hudson recognized one great incentive to progress has always been a feeling of dissatisfaction with things as they are, and an earnest effort to correct existing evils. At the same time he made a sharp distinction between "Kickers" who are also workers, and that pernicious class of people who stand aloof and fined fault with the methods and motives of those who are doing the world's work. This latter class are worse than useless; for, just to the extent to which they have any influence at all they hinder healthy growth.

The two chief motives which actuate the chronic "Kicker," vanity and envy, are largely corrected when he becomes a worker. The self-complacent sense of superiority he indulges while criticising others fades away when he discovers how difficult it is to carry out effectively even the wisest plans for public betterment; while the mean envy he feels in contemplation of the glory which he supposes to be the end in view of the willing workers who are trying to meet the world's pressing needs, quite disappears when he learns from experience that those who honestly try to serve in any field are apt to reap more blame than praise.

Not a desire for glory, but a generous willingness to be of service is the motive power which underlies the world's best progress. That is the Spirit which has made New England great in the past. And thegreatest need today of our community and city is to arouse and foster such a spirit in the life of the present generation.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

A large congregation worshipped and observed the Communion of the Lord's Supper Sunday morning. Dr. Sneath, the pastor, preached upon the topic "Old Wells that Need Redigging." As in the Old Testament times the wells were filled up by indifference or by hostility, so today the wells of the spiritual life are in danger of being filled up by the rubbish of sin and selfishness. We are in the midst of the clean-up season and it is worth while to consider how much our lives need to be cleansed. There are the wells of generosity, of good cheer and of helpful service, all of which have been endangered by the modern materialistic trend. They must be reopened if there is to be lived a normal Christian life." Dr. Sneath quoted Sam Walter Foss's poem on "The Soul-Spring Cleaning," in which the suggestive lines are:—

"Yes, clean yer hous and clean yer shed
And clean yer barn in every part;
But brush the cobwebs from yer head,
An' sweep the snow banks from your heart."

The Intermediate Young People's society of Christian Endeavor assisted at the Sailor's Home on Sunday morning and Mrs. W. K. Embleton sang as soloist.

Mrs. Bessie D. Ducey was chosen president of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor and took her position on Sunday evening.

The Little Lights Mission Band held a meeting and rehearsal Monday afternoon at 3.45 at the home of Mrs. Murray, 395 Newport avenue.

The annual meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary, W. B. M., will be held in the church vestry on Wednesday at 2.30 P. M. Miss Annie L. Buckley will give a stereopticon lecture and a social and refreshments will follow.

On Thursday evening at the midweek service the members will give the religious current events.

EASTERN STAR HAS BIRTHDAY

Observes Its Eleventh Anniversary

The meeting of Quincy Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Monday evening was one of unusual interest. It was the eleventh anniversary of the institution of the chapter and the work of the evening was performed by Mrs. Susie Furnald, the worthy matron at the time of the institution, the other chairs also being filled by the officers who served with Mrs. Furnald.

Four candidates received the degree and although it is eleven years since these officers have worked together the work was performed in an admirable manner and showed that they had not forgotten their lines. At the conclusion of the work they were accorded many congratulations for the efficient manner in which they had performed the work of the degree.

During the social hour which followed the business session Mrs. Furnald, the first worthy matron of the chapter, was presented with a travelling bag in appreciation of her work in the interest of the chapter. Mrs. Furnald presented bouquets to the five points of the star, that is Martha, Esther, Ada, Ruth and Electa.

Other presentations included a souvenir of Quincy chapter which was presented to each member and pinks which were presented to the honorary members of the chapter.

At the close of the evening refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee was served. In the centre of the dining table was a large birthday cake upon which burned eleven candles, one for each year of usefulness of the chapter. The cutting of the cake was accomplished with much ceremony, each brother and sister receiving a piece.

"The results of this sale are astonishing; yet they are not. They are no larger than I expected, knowing the high character of the instruments as I do.

The big value in the pianos and players, themselves, undoubtedly made the sale the instantaneous success it has been. We hear this from all over—and taking this as a foundation and adding to it the remarkably low terms of payments we did, and the many other valuable privileges and conditions we did, it would have taken a war in this country itself to have hindered its success. * * * * It's a sale in which every person at interest; the maker, the seller and the buyer will benefit."

A lower price and easier payments, than ever before, are making history in piano selling

EUROPE IS MAKING HISTORY in war. We are making history in business.

Every day the report sheets of this memorable sale total higher and higher. This is not only true of Quincy but true of every section in which this sale is being held.

The ease and eagerness with which customers buy, after they have seen and heard these pianos, is the inspiring feature.

Not a day passes but we hear half a dozen expressions of surprise and amazement at the beauty of the instruments. As an instance, one lady told us the other day: "Why I am surprised! I had no idea that the pianos you are advertising were anything to compare with these. If your advertisements had not insisted, I should not have come in to see them; as I felt that they were merely pianos made to sell at a low price and upon small installments. I have a friend who just bought a piano a couple of months ago, and paid 400 dollars for it, and I would not begin to exchange the one I just selected, for it."

And so it goes every day—we hear expression after expression of a similar nature—the one general surprise being at the beauty of the pianos, and "How can you afford to sell such splendid instruments for only 266 dollars, and accept payments of only five dollars cash and one dollar a week for the first year?"

We can not afford it.

No retail house, no manufacturer, or no combination of manufacturers and retail houses, could afford to continue selling these instruments at such prices, indefinitely. This sale is a sale to meet a condition which was brought about, unnecessarily, by war scares.

And that is why we insist that everyone who has thought of procuring a piano for his home during this or the coming year, should seize this opportunity and seize it quickly.

By common approval these player-pianos are the big feature of the sale. It is these instruments upon which you make the largest saving—as you procure them at 137 dollars below their customary price.

From our viewpoint, this enormous saving does not alone make them the feature they are.

The thing which gives these player-pianos their popularity in this sale, is the instrument itself. Just picture in your mind, if you please, a beautiful piano of plain, refined case design, with beautiful straight lines throughout. Picture a deep and highly varnished surface, which gives off a reflection like a mirror. Or, if you prefer, picture in your mind a rich, dark mahogany, rubbed and rubbed until the surface is like a piece of satin, the style which is now so popular in high-grade furniture.

Now picture a means built within that piano which makes it possible for anyone to play it like an artist would play upon its keys.

And, then, consider that this means to play it is not going out of order or need repairs, and that it will play and play without the least attention, for years—as has been our own experience during the past 5 years with these same identical players.

You do these things, and you will then have some little idea of what a perfectly splendid player-piano will be placed in your home, wholly aside from any advantage you are getting in low price, in the extraordinary terms, or in the liberalities which do not go with every day piano selling.

Let us again insist upon the advantage it is to you to procure one of these player-pianos.

It was Mr. Bacon's idea that we would prove the value of these instruments to purchasers

It was Mr. Bacon's idea that every doubt should be removed from the minds of probable buyers, that could possibly creep into them, touching the reliability of these pianos and player-pianos.

In other words, he felt that because of the extremely low prices, and because of the unusually small payments, intending buyers might fall into the belief that these pianos were not the high grade pianos they are, but merely cheaply constructed instruments such as one sees offered every day on low installments. So he said, "We will furnish proof of the value of these instruments.

"We will give the buyer a graduated or progressive proof, covering:

First, a short time.
Second, a medium time.
Third, a long time.

which will satisfy any mind beyond a question of doubt as to the high character of these instruments.

And this he did, and this we are carrying out.

And this is how it is being done.

First: for the short time proof you are given a thirty days trial period. You are permitted to try any piano or player-piano offered during this sale for a period of thirty days in your own home. If you are not thoroughly satisfied at the end of the trial, you can have your money back and your agreement cancelled.

Second: for the medium time proof, you are given a one year's trial period. In case the piano or player-piano is not satisfactory at any time during the first year's trial, you are permitted to exchange it for any other new piano or player-piano in our stock, of equal or better grade. If you exchange it for an instrument of equal grade, it is an even exchange, and you are not put to one penny's expense. If you exchange it for a higher priced instrument, we will add the difference in price to your agreement.

Third: for the long time proof you are given a guarantee for 5 years from date of purchase. This guarantee is made and signed jointly by The Bacon Piano Co., and H. L. Kincaide Co. There is not a single condition or restriction in it. There is not an "if" nor an "and," nor a single loophole; just a broad guarantee, guaranteeing the instrument for 5 years, and agreeing to replace or repair it without cost to you, if it is found to be defective.

Under such conditions and such unimpeachable proof, you do not take the one-one thousandth part of a chance in purchasing. You are protected every minute for five whole years.

LARRY GARDNER SERIOUSLY ILL

Larry Gardner, third baseman of the Red Sox is seriously ill, acording to authentic information which reached this office today, and physicians believe he will not be able to rejoin the squad the balance of the season.

Gardner recently developed a kidney affection, which has forced him to take to his bed. The best available medical advice has been secured for the third sacker. Physicians feel that his condition is serious.

The loss of Gardner to the Red Sox will make a hole in that combination which it will be hard to fill. Efforts to sign up Baker, although unsuccessful to date, have not been given up.

Although the Monday game was called off on account of poor weather conditions the Red Sox squad indulged in four hours of the snappiest practice of the season. Wood showed the best form in practice he has shown this season. Not only did he demonstrate that he possessed his usual speed but he went it a bit better in some respects He will probably be used in the game Wednesday.

SPORTING COMMENT

Big league ball has taken a back seat in Milton and all because "Fletch" Long, pitcher of Troop 4 of the Boy Scouts of America, secured 20 strikeouts in the game with Troop 4 of Dedham at Milton Saturday. The game was a victory of the Milton team by a score of 16 to 2. When Milton comes to pitchers, they have the long end.

The seven boxers to be sent to Montreal to compete in the Canadian championships will be selected at the B. A. A. amateur bouts tonight.

The six early closing events opened by the Brockton Fair management have been closed with 215 entries, an average of 35 for each class.

Earl Hanson, the Thayer Academy pitcher, turned in a no-hit-no-run game Saturday against Country Day school. The game was called at the close of the eighth by agreement.

Although one of the schoolboy sport editors on a Boston paper picked Cambridge to beat Quincy High Friday, a game which was postponed because of rain, we notice that Weymouth High had no difficulty in beating the University City boys by a 5 to 0 score Saturday at Weymouth.

COE'S IDENTITY IS ESTABLISHED

Admits He Is Man Who Left Boston Last January

BLAMES WIFE FOR DECAMPING

Has Been Working as Machinist at Fairbanks, Alaska, For $150 a Month—Walked Nearly Four Hundred Miles to Reach Goal—Will Never Return to Family

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 4.—Henry C. Coe, Jr., the Boston Standard Oil salesman, cleared the mystery surrounding his disappearance, and in a dramatic statement to the local authorities admitted his identity and declared that the reason he left home was because his wife was too extravagant. He stated emphatically that he would never return to his family.

Posters, pasted to the rough bulletin board at the Fairbanks courthouse, announcing a reward for his identification, similar to those spread broadcast over the country when the young man left home last January, led to his discovery.

Faced with his likeness, and under examination by the local authorities, Coe, after a few questions, stated flatly that he was the man in question. He stated that he had wired his wife April 15, but had received no reply in return. He says he became tired of life in Boston, and failure to get ahead because of the extravagances of his wife led him to the determination to strike out for himself. He declared he wanted to win by merit and not by influence.

At Cordova he started to walk to Fairbanks, a distance of nearly 400 miles, arriving there Feb. 22.

Coe stated that he drew $200 from the bank and left $400 there for his wife. He said that he would never go back to his relatives, that his position here was unknown, and that he wished to keep his identity quiet as far as Alaska is concerned.

His present position pays him $150 a month.

The examination completed, Coe went back to work in the machine shop. This section of the country, which has afforded a refuge to men of many places starting life anew, has taken the news of the solving the Coe mystery without much show of excitement.

The posters, which request information of the young man, will be removed from public places and the community awaits what further action may be in store.

How Coe happened to select this place as the scene of his new start in life has not yet been asked of him, but it is probable that he was attracted here by the activities which have opened a great demand for labor.

It is said that frends of the Coe family are on their way here to make a further investigation of the reasons why the young man left his bride and landed in the northwest to start life anew.

GRANDMA STILL KNITS

BUT THE YARN TANGLES.

"Sometimes," said the strikingly handsome woman with the white hair, "I really wish I were my own grandmother. It must have been so restful to be a grandmother in her day.

"Yes, of course I'm one myself, but the styles in grandmothers have changed so greatly that I'm not in the least like the dear old lady in the black silk and real lace cap who used to sit placidly knitting by our fireside when I was a little girl. I can see her now, in the summer time, too, in a retired corner of the porch of our old home. Usually Young's 'Night Thoughts' lay open on her violet-sprigged muslin lap. It is a lovely picture of quiet and repose to recall in these busy times. She didn't have to read Bergson and Ellen Key or any of the modern philosophers that I have to gobble in large bites in order to keep up with my department in the Woman's league. She wasn't burdened, either, with a civic conscience. I don't suppose it would ever have occurred to her that it was her duty to leave her dinner half eaten and rush down to the city council on a Monday night to throw the moral weight of her presence against the passage of a nefarious ordinance.

"Oh, dear, there's the telephone. Friday forenoon, did you say? Please wait a moment until I consult my calendar. Yes, I can see you at ten. Please come promptly, as I have a committee meeting at 11.

"That's a young woman who wants me to hear her paper on eugenics before she reads it to the Mothers' council in the settlement where she works. I wonder what my grandmother would have thought about eugenics?

"Just excuse me a moment while I glance at these notes. Here's an invitation to the ball poudre the Hadsalls are giving Wednesday of next week. I certainly must squeeze in a dancing lesson or two before then. Billy—that's my younger grandson, you know—told me the other night at the club hop that I was really rusty on the waltz and two-step. You see, I've done the new dances so much the last two years that I've rather neglected the old ones, and now that they're coming in again, I certainly must brush up. I suppose I might take a private lesson early Monday afternoon before I go to the lecture on Chinese porcelain. That reminds me—I must refresh my memory on the comparative importance of the art of the successive dynasties. Dear old grandma, she wouldn't have known the difference between the Ming dynasty and a china teapot, and I believe it was a comfortable state of ignorance.

"No, I can't rest much Thursday afternoon, because I'm one of the patronesses at the play and the dansant that Adelaide—that's my granddaughter, you know—and the rest of her sorority are giving for the benefit of the Red Cross. But Saturday will be quite a free day. Just one short meeting in the morning, a musicale in the afternoon and the theater at night. I'll have the time to rest in the early morning, while the manicure is doing my nails. I always take that hour of the manicure's weekly visit to do a lot of quiet thinking. I suppose grandmother had all the time for thinking that she wished.

"My head fairly buzzes with projects for the new vacation camp I'm getting up, the movement for introducing household economics in workmen's homes, that I'm pushing, and plans for all my other various boards and committees. The change of fashions is bothering me just now also, for all my frocks, nearly, are too narrow skirted for the present mode, though they were only made last autumn. I'm trying to evolve a method of making them fuller which won't necessitate a complete remodeling.

"How pleasant it must have been for grandmother always to know that her waists were to be made surplice and her skirts plain gathered. It must have given her a peace of mind far exceeding that I gained from the course in artistic dress design that I took last year. She was free from all worries about harmony of tones and graceful lines. Her only care was for cleanliness and neatness, and her feeling for art was easily expressed in the pattern of knitted lace which finished the hem of her crisp white apron that she rarely mussed, for all she had to do was to knit.

"Yes, of course, I knit. I knit without ceasing almost. The only place I don't knit is at church or a dancing or bridge party, and I don't know how long I shall be exempt from knitting there. A woman whose needles aren't continually clicking for the sufferers across the sea is considered heartless. The family darning, which was a sacred rite with my grandmother, is sent out of our house to be done, so that we can have the time to knit, knit, knit. I keep a work bag in the dining room so that I can knit between courses, and I have another hanging in the limousine that there may be no time lost between engagements as I drive across town.

"Somebody to see me about the rural library extension? Yes, I know. Certainly, I'll go right down. Will you excuse me a few moments? I don't have to make company of such an old friend as you. Thank you, my ball is always rolling away and getting the yarn tangled, but I'll probably be able to knit several rows while the young college professor is giving me his views."

LAUNCHING OF "TUCKER"

"Presented by the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation."

The reunion of the two families took place in full view of the guests, and as Mrs. Garty, representing the Tucker family and Hon. Charles Francis Adams, 2d, of the fifth generation of the Adams family, formally greeted each other, there was an outburst of applause and cheers.

Mr. Adams was one of the special guests of the day and was invited because his great grandfather, John Adams, minister to France, was safely taken to a French port in the Frigate Boston, commanded by Samuel Tucker, then a captain of the navy, in 1778.

Minister Adams got aboard the Boston as she was anchored in Boston harbor. He was rowed out from the wharf at Merrymount to the frigate and Abigail Adams ,his wife watched the trip from shore. The Revolutionary war was not then over and it was only through superior seamanship that Captain Tucker negotiated the passage across the Atlantic among hostile English ships, and landed the man who later was to be the second President of the United State, on French soil.

Mrs. Garty and Mr. Adams both mentioned the growth and progress of the country in brief speeches, and there were remarks by other guests.

The Tucker is somewhat larger than the torpedo boat destroyer Cushing, recently launched at the shipyard, and which will be given her trials on May 18th. She is 315 feet long, 29 feet 10 in. beam and displaces 1090 tons.

Her engines are designed to develop a speed of 29 1-2 knots.

The Tuckers is considered the last word in torpedo boat construction. The armament comprises four rapid fire guns and four twin torpedo tubes. She has an electric plant with powerful searchlights, and a radio telegraph equipment.

Special attention has been paid to the living space for the six officers, eight petty officers and 86 men who will man her after she is put in commission about August 1st.

While the post-launching ceremonies were being carried out tugs towed the Tucker to a berth in the creek, alongside the dreadnought Nevada, and a short distance from the Cushing.

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST

Tremont, over the man's snowy turban, glanced at the others and shrugged. Every one but Julia Redmond thought he was insane. She came up to him where he stood close to Tremont. She said very slowly in French, compelling the man's dark eyes to meet hers:

Tremont Began to Ask a Dozen Questions.

"You don't wish to tell us, Hammet Abou, anything more. Am I not right? You don't wish us to know the truth."

Now it was the American pitted against the Oriental. The Arab, with deference, touched his forehead before her.

"If I made a true plan," he said coolly, "your excellency could give it tomorrow to the government."

"Just what should be done, Julia," said the Marquise d'Esclignac, in English. "This man should be arrested at once."

"Ma tante," pleaded Julia Redmond, She felt as though a slender thread was between her fingers, a thread which led her to the door of a labyrinth and which a rude touch might cause her to lose forever.

"If you had money would you start out to find Monsieur de Sabron at once?"

"It would cost a great deal, Excellency."

"You shall have all the money you need. Do you think you would be able to find your way?"

"Yes, Excellency."

The Duc de Tremont watched the American girl. She was bartering with an Arabian for the salvation of a poor officer. What an enthusiast! He had no idea she had ever seen Sabron more than once or twice in her life. He came forward.

"Let me talk to this man," he said with authority, and Julia Redmond did not dispute him.

In a tone different from the light and mocking one that he had hitherto used to the Arab, Tremont began to ask a dozen questions severely, and in his answers to the young Frenchman, Hammet Abou began to make a favorable impression on every one save the Marquise d'Esclignac, who did not understand him. There was a huge bamboo chair on a dais under a Chinese pagoda, and the Marquise d'Esclignac took the chair and sat upright as on a throne. Mimi, who had just been fed, came in tinkling her little bells and fawned at the sandals on Hammet Abou's bare feet. After talking with the native, Tremont said to his friends:

"This man says that if he joins a Jewish caravan, which leaves here tomorrow at sundown, he will be taken with these men and leave the city without suspicion, but he must share the expenses of the whole caravan. The expedition will not be without danger; it must be entered into with great subtlety. He is either," said Tremont, "an impostor or a remarkable man."

"He is an impostor, of course," murmured the Marquise d'Esclignac. "Come here, Mimi."

Tremont went on:

"Further he will not disclose to us. He has evidently some carefully laid plan for rescuing Sabron."

There was a pause. Hammet Abou, his hands folded peacefully across his breast, waited. Julia Redmond waited. The Comtesse de la Maine, in her pretty voice, asked quickly:

"But, mes amis, there is a man's life at stake! Why do we stand here talking in the antechamber? Evidently the war office has done all it can for the Capitaine de Sabron. But they have not found him. Whether this fellow is crazy or not, he has a wonderful hypothesis."

A brilliant look of gratitude crossed Julia Redmond's face. She glanced at the Comtesse de la Maine.

"Ah, she's got the heart!" she said to herself. "I knew it." She crossed the hall to the Comtesse de la Maine and slipped her arm in hers.

"Has Monsieur de Sabron no near family?"

"No," said the Marquise d'Esclignac from her throne. "He is one of those unfamilied beings who, when they are once taken into other hearts are all the dearer because of their orphaned state."

Her tone was not unkind. It was affectionate.

"Now, my good man," she said to Hammet Abou, in a language totally incomprehensible to him, "money is no object in this question, but what will you do with Monsieur de Sabron if you find him? He may be an invalid, and the ransom will be fabulous."

The Comtesse de la Maine felt the girl's arm in hers tremble. Hammet Abou answered none of these questions, for he did not understand them. He said quietly to Tremont:

"The caravan starts tomorrow at sundown and there is much to do."

Tremont stood pulling his mustache. He looked boyish and charming, withal serious beyond his usual habit. His eyes wandered over to the corner where the two women stood together.

"I intend to go with you, Hammet Abou," said he slowly, "if it can be arranged. Otherwise this expedition does not interest me."

Two women said:

"Oh, heavens!" at once.

Robert de Tremont heard the note of anxiety in the younger voice alone. He glanced at the Comtesse de la Maine.

"You are quite right, Madame," he said, "a man's life is at stake and we stand chaffing here. I know something of what the desert is and what the natives are. Sabron would be the first to go if it were a question of a brother officer."

The Marquise d'Esclignac got down from her throne, trembling. Her eyes were fixed upon her niece.

"Julia," she began, and stopped.

Madame de la Maine said nothing.

"Robert, you are my godson, and I forbid it. Your mother—"

"—is one of the bravest women I ever knew," said her godson. "My father was a soldier."

Julia withdrew her arm from the Comtesse de la Maine as though to leave her free.

"Then you two girls," said the Marquise d'Esclignac, thoroughly American for a moment, "must forbid him to go." She fixed her eyes sternly upon her niece, with a glance of entreaty and reproach. Miss Redmond said in a firm voice:

"In Monsieur de Tremont's case I should do exactly what he proposes."

"But he is risking his life," said the Marquise d'Esclignac. "He is not even an intimate friend of Monsieur de Sabron!"

Tremont said, smiling:

"You tell us that he has no brother, marraine. Eh bien, I will pass as his brother."

A thrill touched Julia Redmond's heart. She almost loved him. If, as her aunt had said, Sabron had been out of the question . . .

"Madame de la Maine," said the Marquise d'Esclignac, her hands shaking, "I appeal to you to divert this headstrong young man from his purpose."

CONSCIENCE IS NOT CONSIDERED

Barnes Told Hughes There Was No Common Ground

WITNESS SPRINGS SURPRISE

Arndt's Testimony Proves Boomerang to Roosevelt's Attorney—Some Information Concerning State Printing Is Given by General Manager of Albany Publishing Company

Syracuse, N. Y., May 4.—Heavy blows were exchanged on the trial of the $50,000 libel suit of William Barnes vs. Theodore Roosevelt, Major Dickinson of Washington, diplomatic representative of the Panama-Pacific exposition, testified to a conversation with Barnes on April 12, 1908, in which the state leader repeated the statement he had made previously to Governor Hughes: "If it is conscience and not votes you're thinking of there is no common ground on which we can stand."

Walter A. Arndt, secretary of the Municipal Government association of New York, testified to the following conversation with Barnes at Republican state headquarters in October, 1911:

"Mr. Barnes said to me that during the session of the legislature in 1911 he received word from Charles F. Murphy, chief of Tammany hall, to the effect that the direct primary legislation probably would pass because the up-state Democrats were disgruntled over the senatorial fight. Murphy suggested that if the primary legislation was to be defeated the Democratic and Republican organization would have to join forces.

"In reply Barnes said that was Murphy's own affair and he would have to take care of it himself. The Democrats had a safe majority in both houses of the legislature and should care for their own interests. He said he was not going to pull any of Murphy's chestnuts out of the fire. He declined to have any dealings with Tammany on that score."

It was apparent that Arndt's testimony was a complete surprise to Colonel Roosevelt's attorneys. They said after Arndt left the stand that they called him merely for the purpose of showing that Murphy and Barnes were in the habit of communicating with one another. To those in the court room, however, it looked as if Arndt's testimony was a boomerang.

Michael Dolan, general manager of The Argus company of Albany, told of the relations between his concern and The Journal company. Dolan was on the stand when a week-end recess was taken Friday. Dolan resumed the stand promptly upon the opening of court.

He was questioned at length by John M. Bowers, chief counsel for Roosevelt, upon contracts awarded by the common council of Albany.

Dolan explained in detail the repeated use of the same type composition. In some cases, he said, the company figured on a point of 25 cents a page for printing such documents as the proceedings of the common council. In others where the bid was $1.25 per page, and the same type composition was used, profit of $1.10 per page was figured upon.

In testifying about reports of the board of education, Dolan said the contract with the board was for the printing at $1.15 a page, its regular bi-monthly reports. An item in the books of The Argus company showed that one thousand copies of an annual report compiled from the weekly reports have been billed to The Journal company. These reports, said the witness, were furnished to the board of education for mailing. Dolan told how the type from which the bi-monthly reports were struck off was kept in forms until the order for the 1000 copies of the annual report was received.

OBREGON IS IN DANGER

Villa's Washington Agency Reports Zapata Has Captured Queretaro

Washington, May 4.—The Villa agency reported that Zapata forces from Mexico City had captured Queretaro, in the rear of Obregon's column, and that another force of Zapata troops was in position between Jenjano and Irapuato, threatening Obregon's line of retreat toward the west coast. Carranza forces now claim Villa troops lost 2000 in the battle at Navapoa.

Both the Mexican agencies here were claiming successes again in the fighting south of Aguascalientes, where Villa has begun a new offensive movement against the Carranza army under Obregon. The Carranza agency heard that Obregon had entered Leon Saturday and had resumed his march northward, while Gonzales had occupied the suburbs of Monterey, and the Zapata forces had been driven back to their base within twenty miles of Mexico City.

On larger jobs she finds her painter can get results in fewest coats and least time with Vitralite. He's glad to use Vitralite because it does him credit---will not crack, chip off nor turn yellow. Don't do your Spring painting until you know all about Vitralite. Ask us.

CLEAN UP MONTH.

The annual clean up period is at hand. In other years only the first week in May, has been known as "Clean Up Week" by the Board of Health department, but this year the Board has announced that it will continue through the whole month. During that period the ash teams in addition to removing barrels of ashes placed on the sidewalk edge, will also remove anything in the line of rubbish that is placed there.

PRATT'S BREAD—is best because more care is used in the making.

WILL MAYOR REFUSE TO SIGN?

Had the members of the City Council been aware Monday night, when it was voted to pass the order granting Peter Gacicia a liquor permit notwithstanding the objection of the Mayor that Gacicia had been defaulted in court that morning for non-payment of a fine imposed a year for violation of the liquor law some claim it might have made a difference in the vote. At the time Gacicia was convicted he was given time in which to pay his fine but it apepars that he failed to do so, with the result that Monday morning in court he was defaulted for non-payment.

Monday night however Gacicia visited the home of Probation Officer Fahey and settled his obligation and this morning the default was removed.

It was rumored about City Hall Monday night that Mayor Campbell had intimated that if the council passed the orders over his veto he would sign the permits, as the responsibility then rested with the council. The defaulting of Gacicia however may change the May or's attitude.

The order bearing the endorsement of the clerk of the city council "Passed notwithstanding the objection of the Mayor" wil be turned over to City Clerk Crane. The question then is what will become of it?

There is considerable interest manifested in the outcome of Peter's permit It is hard to see how the Mayor can be forced to sign the license, if he does not want to, and on the other hand it is hard to see of what use the license will be without the Mayor'ssignature for the statute governing the issue of the so-called Pony express permits provides that the license shall be signed by the Mayor and Council.

MR. GASKELL AT HIS DESK

New Sec etary of Y. M. C. A. At Work

Robert S. Gaskell, the new secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is one of the busiest men in the city today. He is passing the time conferring with Messrs. Humphrey, Melville and Robertson, his assistants, but has not as yet decided on what his program will include.

In conversation this morning he said that other associations with which he had been connected had always pursued a vigorous summer program and that he hoped something along that line could be carried out between now and fall.

Mr. Gaskell has formed a fine impression of the city, the result of motor trips to different sections with the view of leasing a house. At present he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Pierce of Greenleaf street.

He said today that Quincy appears to be a very pleasant place to cast his lines in and that he was very much pleased with the spirit of co-operation not only on the part of the members of the association but from those on the outside.

CASE AGAINST J. E. L. MILLER HEARD TODAY

Judge Intimates He Will Hold Him For Grand Jury

At the close of the lower court hearing on the charges preferred against Joseph E. L. Miller, operator of the automobile which caused the death of Chief Butler of Weymouth, Special Justice Lewis A. Cook this afternoon said he had found probable cause to hold him for the Grand Jury Owing to the absence of one of the sureties he continued the case to Saturday for a finding.

Judge Cook at the close of the testimony said these cases are most unfortunate and he thought that no one felt worse about it than Mr. Miller, but under the evidence presented he thought it his duty to hold him for the Grand Jury so they could make a thorough investigation.

Miller was charged with manslaughter and operating an auto wile under the influence of liquor. The bail on the former has been $1000 and $500 on the latter. Harry Quinn one of the sureties was the absent bondsman.

Dist. Atty Barker conducted the case for the government. He was assisted by the second assistant district attorney, George E. Adams of Quincy. M. J. Shugrue, former district attorney of Suffolk County, represented the defendant.

The witnesses were Medical Examiner Dr. J. E. Fraser, Edward F. and Alice Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Harrington, Herbert K. Cushing, Harry B .Torrey, Chief of Police Pratt Officer Lawrence Schofield, Lawrence H. Littlefield.

Many of the witnesses testified that in talking to Miller after the accident they detected a strong smell of liquor on his breath.

Dr. Fraser, medical examiner, said death was due to a fracture of the skull, hemmorrhages, crushed chest and shock.

Lawrence H. Littlefield said he examined the machine and found both brakes in good condition and that he believed the machine, Pierce-Arrow of the year 1907, capable of making no more speed than 15 miles per hour.

Chief Pratt said Miller told him he drank a bottle of ale which he purchased in Neponset and that three other bottles were found in the machine. He said Miller did not say where he purchased the liquor.

SUFFRAGISTS HOLD ELECTION

The Quincy members of the Political Equality Suffragists held a business meeting at the home of Mrs. N. S. Hunting Tuesday afternoon to elect officers and discuss methods of working. Mrs. H. Everett Crane was elected chairman pro tem and Mrs. Townshend secretary pro tem and Miss Edith Randall, Vice President, Mrs. Albert Parker, Secretary, and Treasurer, Miss Miriam Marsh. The selection of an executive committee was left in the hands of the three officers.

The speaker of the afternoon, John Daniels of New Zealand, was unable to be present but his paper which he had sent was read by Mrs Z. S. Arnold.

Several points were made by Mr. Daniels. In the first election after women had the ballot, 82 1-2 per cent of the women voted. At the election of 1911, nineteen years later, 83 per cent of the males and over 82 per cent of the women voted. These figures repute the claim, according to Mr. Daniels that women lose interest in the ballot.

Some of the laws for social betterment which the women's vote has materially assisted in passing are the law providing for a Board of Conciliation for labor disputes; an eight hour labor law; child labor laws; the land act subdividing great estates; local option laws, pure food laws. As for laws relating more particularly to the amelioration or abolishment of abuses against women and children, women were the leaders in drafting them, he contended.

ALEXANDRIA IN TIME OF WAR

Dr. Harold Curtis Writes Home

Mrs. Jesse F. Curtis of Upland road has received a recent letter from her son Dr. Harold Curtis, a dentist in Alexandria, Egypt, in which he writes of the city in war time. He says in part:

"Easter day passed quietly enough except with the troops. The Australians started to embark on that day. Ever since, there have been large numbers of transports leaving for some war zone, supposedly the Dardanelles. I have taken a few pictures of the French and English contingents in the last week, also a few of some of the Tennessee boys.

"Last week we must have had 100,000 troops in Alexandria alone. Their encampments along the seashore stretch over a territory of about 20 miles. Believe me, it is some sight. Alexandria has been made the base for operations around the Dardanelles. The harbor is a glorious sight with nearly a hundred transports in The Fatherland of the Red Star Line, the Cunarders, Alaunia and Anadnia, several Allan Line boats and the large trans-Atlantic French steamers are among them.

"Soldiers everywhere you look. Parades passing the house two or three times daily and best of all a parade of people flocking to our office for work. We were never so busy before. The war has not hurt us at any rate."

"GENE" O'CONNOR PASSES AWAY

Was Well Known So. Quincy Resident

Eugene W. O'Connor, one of the best known residents of South Quincy and for the past thirty years connected with the Boston custom house, passed away at his home on Pleasant street Tuesday afternoon after a long illness, aged 70 years.

Mr. O'Connor was taken ill several months ago and underwent a surgical operation for a stomach trouble. He apparently recovered from the operation and was able to be about for a time although not strong enough to resume his position at the custom house. Since then at times he has been able to be up and about the house but for the greater part of the time he has been kept to his bed.

Mr. O'Connor was born in St. John N. B., but came to Quincy when a small boy and has made this city his home ever since. He received his education in the public schools of the town. When the civil war broke out he was imbued with the spirit of patriotism and desired to enlist but was not allowed to do so on account of his youth. Determined however to do his part toward the preservation of the Union he went to the front with Col. Henry Walker of the 4th regiment as a mess boy. Before the war was over he became of age and was regularly enlisted. He continued to serve with Col. Walker, however, until the end of the war, and when Col. Walker died last December he bequeathed $1,000 to Mr. O'Connor his "faithful friend and comrade during the Civil war, and his faithful friend ever since."

After the war Mr. O'Connor returned to Quincy and became the the manager of the Peter Bulter estate until his appointment to the custom house in 1884.

He is survived by a widow, and one sister, Mrs. Michael Walsh of Quincy avenue. Two of his brothers died in California and a cousin was at one time Mayor of Silver City, New Mexico.

He was a member of Quincy council Knights of Columbus, and of the Granite City club.

WANT FORE RIVER TO BE BEST IN COUNTRY

Vice President of Bethlehem Co. Speaker at Launching

Positive assurances that the plant of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation is to be anything but the dead issue some people expect it to be wede made by Vice president H S Snyder of the Bethelem Steel Co. during his speech at the luncheon following the launching of the torpedo boat destroyer Tucker at the shipyard Tuesday afternoon.

"The Bethelem Steel Co. takes an interest in the oFre River Shipbuilding Corporation," said Mr. Snyder. "It was rather wished on us, but since we have it, we want to make it anything but the dead issue some people expect it is going to be. All President Powell has to do is to tell us how to spend the money to make it one of the best plants of its kind in the United States so that the people of this community will be as proud of it as we are to have it."

Cheers and handclapping greeted Mr. Snyder when he arose to speak at the after-launching exercises, President Powell, toastmaster, in presenting him said he was the sponsor of the company and was the first personal representative of the parent company to attend a launching luncheon. Other speakers were Mrs. Mary Hinds Garty, sponsor, William D. Treffrey, tax commissioner of Massachusetts, Rev. Dr. D. Addison, rector of All Saints church of Brookline. The luncheon was served in the office building.

The exercises opened with the toast, "Our Navy." President Powell said the navy is the bulwark which protects us against invasion. When the rest of the world is in the midst of an awful war we are not and when that war is over we will be the centre of envy of every other nation and the one thing that will stand between us and other nations then will be their knowledge that our country is powerful and able to take care of herself.

Mrs. Garty in acknowledging the presentation of the bracelet gold watch of the company spoke of the heroic deeds of her ancestor and presented Pres. Powell with a handsome leather bound volume of the life of Commodore Tucker to be given to the sailors of the destroyer afte rshe is commissioned.

Tax Commissioner Trefferey, representing the town of Marblehead, the native town of Commodore Tucker, said the house he was born in is still standing, in the centre of inspirational surroundings, Tucker he said, never ran from danger. He ran into it and did it intentionally. He was a man of iron mould, powerful physique and great endurance.

"Force," said Dr. Addison, "is justified from every point of view when it is a question of protecting our nation. We have always been proud of our navy and we believe in it. We also look forward somewhat to the future when there will be many another such launching as we have had today so that the American navy in its equipment and personel will be equal to the needs of our great nation. We have never been a weak people but are always ready to defend the things we love and it is the sentiment that the great American people shoul dbe properly represented in its navy to protect it from future aggression."

The launching of the Tucker was one of the speediest ever seen at the shipyard. Only a few seconds were required to send her down the ways and she was tied up to the fitting out dock in twenty minutes, ten minutes ahead of all previous records at the shipyard.

LEWIS PHILLIPS DIES AT HOME

Lewis Phillips, aged 70 years a brother of George L. and Hiram W. Phillips, three brothers with a national reputation as submarine divers, died Tuesday afternoon at the home of his brother Hiram, 734 Washington street.

Mr. Phillips was a veteran of the civil war and was a member of Joseph E. Simmons Post, G. A. R. of Pembroke.

During the active career of the three brothers they were engaged all over the country in building aqueducts, laying pipes under water and salvaging wrecked vessels. One of the notable feats of salvaging which the brothers undertook was that of the "City of Columbus" which foundered off Gay Head nearly 35 years ago Through their tireless work at this time many of the bodies of those lost when the steamship went down were recovered, Funeral services will be held from the home of his brother, Hiram, Thursday afternoon.

ON BOWLING.

"What did the young men of Quincy do with themselves evenings before the day of the poolrooms and bowling alleys?" was a query put to us the other day.

One does not have to go back very far to remember a day when bowling alleys were almost unknown in this city. A step farther back brings one to the day when even poolrooms were little heard of. The "movies," the evening mecca of so many millions throughout the world nowadays, is, of course, an institution which came into being during the easy memory of everyone old enough to read this paper.

It would be interesting to hear from some of our older readers, such as Mr. Lysander Richards, as to what were the amusements of Quincy boys on winter evenings half a century ago.

The "bowling craze" struck Quincy in earnest but a year or so ago. Before that time but a handful were devotees of the sport; today there are few young men who have not "hit the maple" with an earnest determination to get a strike or at least a spare. Nor do the young men have the game to themselves. Middle aged business and professional men as well as men well on toward their three score years and ten have frequented the alleys with as much enthusiasm as their sons and gradsons. Even the women are not exempt from the fascination of the sport. Quincy has many good women bowlers. At the Cochato club in Braintree even as late in the season as this there is an enthusiastic women's tournament in progress.

Let no one sneer at the "bowling craze" or at the enthusiasm of its devotees. It is a healthful sport and a distinct asset to any city. It teaches many things, self control, patience, the need of persistency and incidentally affords rest and recreation. It refreshes mind and body and cures insomnia. It is a foe to street loafing and immorality, for the true athlete is usually clean living. It makes for better citizenship.

FIVE BILLION DOLLARS.

The loss of war in dollars and cents is trifling compared with the loss in life and the development of civilization. It is difficult always to point out just what the loss is to the character of the individual and of the nation. It is not difficult to present figures of the loss in dollars and cents. All of us have read and heard many estimates of the financial cost of the war, estimates expressed in figures so huge as to force upon our comprehension some realization of what the Great War means.

In presenting the budget to the British House of Commons Tuesday David Lloyd George, the chancellor of the exchequer, estimated that if the war lasted during the whole of the fiscal year Great Britain's expenditure in that time would be $5,685,170,000. The first eight months of the war cost over $1,535,000,000. As a result of the war operations the British national debt is now $5,829,288,000

At the close of the Franco-Prussian war Germany imposed on France a war idemnity which it was believed would keep the French for years in the ranks of a second rate nation. And yet that amount, huge as it was, was less than a fifth as large as the cost to Great Britain of one year of warfare.

Robert S. Gaskell, the new general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is at his desk in charge of the activities of the institution. The Y. M. C. A. is an important organization, one of the most important in the city, especially in the work it can do, and is doing, among the younger boys. Such work requires efficient supervision. Mr. Gaskell comes well recommended and we believe will prove competent to carry on the work begun by Mr. Gay and Mr. Bromley. He is entitled to the fullest co-operation of the citizens of Quincy.

BRITAIN FACES GREAT BUDGET

Coming Year's Expenditures May Reach $5,682,170,000

OVER $4,000,000,000 DEFICIT

Estimates of Chancellor of Exchequer Based on Twelve Months More of Warfare—Says Allies Will Ultimately Win Conflict, Its Duration Being the Only Doubtful Question

London, May 5.—In presenting the budget to the house of commons Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George estimated that if the war lasted during the whole of the fiscal year, Great Britain's expenditure in that time would be $5,682,170,000.

The chancellor estimated that the total revenue for the year 1915-16 would be $1,250,910,000. This is an increase of $218,190,000 over the total of last year.

On the basis of a six months' war, the chancellor continued, expenditures for war, apart from advances to the allies of Great Britain, would rise to $10,560,000 daily and the net deficit would be $2,871,730,000. On the basis of a twelve months' war the net deficit would be $4,311,660,000.

"That is the sum the country will have to raise in additon to the government's revenue during the course of the present year," he said.

The chancellor gave an indication of the colossal expenditure he had to provide for in his opening sentence. "Up to the end of the financial year," he said, "the net cost of the war has been over $1,535,000,000."

He said he thought a review of the financial situation would help the public to understand the immensity of the task undertaken. "The ultimate issue of the war is not in doubt; only its duration," he said, and this it was which rendered his task difficult.

Much depended, the chancellor continued, upon the operations of the next two or three months. Experts gave various predictions as to the duration of the war, but the best of them could not tell how long it would last. The operations of the summer alone could give the government a dependable opinion.

One of the most important announcements made by the chancellor was that no fresh taxes were now contemplated. He said the income tax would be renewed in its present form, with a slight modification, but warned the house that if the war were prolonged it would be his duty to consider in what other form the general community could provide funds to enable the country to carry on the war.

As a result of the year's operations, the chancellor said, the national debt was now $5,829,285,000. He did not consider the time had arrived to frame the final policy for the whole year, as the character of the budget must depend upon the view of the government whether the war probably would last six months or throughout the financial year.

JEWS WANTND IN WEST

Schiff Says Welcome Is Awaiting Two Million Immigrants

New York, May 5.—Jacob H. Schiff's suggestion that at least 2,000,000 Jews from abroad should emigrate to the country beyond the Mississippi river created enthusiasm among those interested in the movement to aid Jewish sufferers from the war. He declared that the west was ready to welcome them and that a land of plenty awaited them there.

Schiff's proposal was made in an address to the Educational Alliance on his return from a trip to San Antonio, San Francisco, Kansas City and Chicago, undertaken in part to discover the sentiment toward the Jews in the west.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN ON WITNESS STAND

Son of "Easy Boss" Testifies in Behalf of the Defendant

Syracuse, N. Y., May 5.—Ex-President Roosevelt was on the witness stand in the $50,000 libel suit brought against him by William Barnes, but Barnes himself, contrary to general expectation, did not testify.

Roosevelt was called to show that he had no malice against Barnes, but a long time was spent in correcting errors in transcribing his previous testimony.

Edward T. Platt, son of the "easy boss," told of what seemed to be a mixture of politics, patronage and printing. He said that in letters to his father Barnes denounced Lemuel E. Quigg, who was interested in a printing contract; protested against the establishment of another printing plant in Albany and complained that he was to be deprived "of a legitimate piece of patronage" in printing for having supported Levi P. Morton for governor.

Barnes, in a letter, characterized as a lie a report that he had sublet a printing contract to a Democrat, Platt showed.

Thomas S. Huff, secretary of Senator Platt, said that Barnes once sought the senator's intercession at Albany regarding certain contracts.

Rochester, N. H., May 5.—The medical referee of Strafford county announced that Charles C. Goss of Dover, president of the Merchants National bank of that city, whose death was reported due to heart failure, was really a suicide.

The statement had been made that the banker, who was one of the richest men in the state, dropped dead at his home just after returning from a short walk.

This statement was not doubted, and it was not until the medical referee viewed the body that the fact became known that Goss had cut his throat.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

About 600 interested listeners heard Dr. Stephen Wise of New York City and Mrs. Susan Fitzgerald of Boston expound the arguments of women suffrage Monday evening in the town hall, under the auspices of the Milton Equal Suffrage league. The audience as a whole was a suffrage one but in the rear of the hall one could see about fifty of Milton's most ardent "antis" watching the speaker with knitted brows and never once allowing themselves to give any applause. Dr. Lord of Dover served as chairman of the meeting. He first introduced Mrs. Fitzgerald, the well known suffrage worker.

"The women do not mean to deprive men of their privilege of voting, they merely wish to share it with them," she said. "The vote is the tool with which we direct the machinery of our public affairs. Since public affairs are of interest to women then why shouldn't women be granted the tool with which they may direct these affairs. Woment do not wish to enter into a new field of activity by being allowed to vote, but they want to do the work which has been theirs for centuries past.

"One might say women can do this work without the vote. Many things can be done without the proper tools but that is no reason why one should dig a trench with a stick rather than with a pick and shovel. If women exert a greater influence without having the vote why does that not also apply to men?"

Rabbi Wise, the speaker of the evening, was then introduced to speak on: "Democracy and Equal Suffrage."

"Men who know what democracy is will certainly vote for women suffrage and end the denial to women of that which is rightly hers," he declared. "If you are anti-democratic vote against women suffrage. If you think it is a great mistake to trust mere people you ought to vote against it. The rough, cruel and bitter test of sex is no test whatever.

"If there weren't women in Massachusetts who wanted to vote nevertheless I would say women ought to vote. As Lincoln once said in regard to the slaves who did not wish to be free. 'It is all the more reason why they should be free.'

"In regard to feminism, when men revolt we have a human uprising but when women revolt it is merely feminism. One writer has said 'Women must remain behind the veil of mystery.' How about the 3,000,000 working women, women of misery and not mystery?

"No honest dollar need be afraid of women's vote. No surer defence for property rights can be found than women suffrage. The fear that there will be no babies when women vote is dispelled by facts from New Zealand, where women have voted the past 20 years. The birth rate of that country is the highest in the world.

"When women vote there will be no wars, for women hate war since they must bear the first, last and heaviest burden of it."

Woman's Relief Corps 103 will observe its 27th anniversary with a dinner at Thompson's restaurant at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

WOLLASTON CLUB ANNUAL.

The annual meeting of the Wollaston Woman's club was held in the Unitarian Parish house Tuesday at 2.30 o'clock with the president Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes in the chair. The polls were open for voting from 2 until 3 o'clock.

Notice was read of the meeting of the State Federation at Marion June 24 and 25 and four delegates, Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, Mrs. Anna K. Lee, Mrs. Charles Commins and the new president Mrs. William E. Rowe were elected to represent the club. An announcement of the annual dramatics of the Quincy Girls club was made, and Miss Harriet E. Turner gave a brief outline of the work accomplished by this club and asked the club to assist them in every way possible. It was voted to give the Quincy Girls club $25 following the payment of all expenses for the present club year.

The president spoke of the gift to the club of a beautiful portfolio of photographs of the officers and executive board, daintily gotten up and presented by Miss Sue Rice of Quincy.

Miss Ruth Hardy sang very delightfully "Sing, Sing, Birds on the Wing," accompanied by Mrs. Barry at the piano, and Miss Marion Hardy played the violin obligato and after the annual reports sang a group of Scotch songs and "A Perfect Day" with violin obligato.

At the close of the reports from standing committees the president expressed her appreciation for all the hearty co-operation of the club members and assured the club of the future interest and support. Miss Fanny L. Johnson then gave the toast to "our president" that she gave at the club luncheon which was held at Hotel Vendome Saturday May 1st in honor of the retiring president.

Mrs. Percival Thompson chairman of theHospitality committee presented the retiring president with a large bunch of yellow daisies and batchelor buttons, the buff and blue being the club colors. A beautiful bunch of pink sweet peas for the new president which in the absence of both the new president and first vice president, was received by Mrs. E. E. Jameson the new second vice president.

The club was presented with two very handsome silver cake plates and a roll of linen toweling from the Hospitality committee and two very beautiful table cloths embroidered with the club monogram and 30 dozen plates from the House Economics committee.

After giving these committees a rising vote of thanks and expressing the love and loyalty of the club to the retiring president, the meeting adjourned, and a pleasant social hour journed and a pleasant social hour was spent in the supper room where frappe and cake were served. Each club member has a feeling of regret in thinking of the retiring president as no longer conducting the meetings and surely the club has every reason to be proud of its first president. The same loyalty and co-operation which has marked the first two years of club is now waiting of the new president dent Mrs. William E. Rowe.

The officers elected were:

President—Mrs. William E. Rowe.

First Vice—Mrs. Harry N. Thomas.

Second Vice—Mrs. Edward E. Jameson.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Leonard W. Newell.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. F. Boyd Bowles.

Custodian—Mrs. Percy L. Davidson.

Directors—Mrs. Oscar A. Blaisdell, Mrs. Arthur P. Homer, Mrs. Helen M. Record, Mrs. Eugene H. Sprague and Miss Fanny L. Johnson.

The reports were interesting and showed in detail the work of the club for the year and are published in full below:

RECORDING SECRETARY'S REPORT

This second year of our club can be best described as one of steady progress. As we have learned to know each other better, more workers have come forward and we have been enabled to do our part in the work of the community at a time when help was much needed in many directions.

Our regular meetings however must be first spoken of; these have been fifteen in number and all but one (which came on an exceedingly stormy day) have been well attended. As these meetings will be spoken of by the chairman of the standing committees, we need not enter into detail respecting them here. One regular meeting was held in the evening, so at this gentlemen guests could be present.

The Executive Board has held 13 meetings, 9 being the regular monthly meeting and 4 called for special business. Our president, Mrs. Ropes has presided at every meeting of the club and the board.

At seven of our regular club afternoons, as well as on many of the special occasions, we have enjoyed a pleasant social half hour when tea, and light refreshments have been served.

Unlimited guest privilege has been twice voted for the regular club day. The first of these was on the evening of Nov. 3, when John Kendrick Bangs spoke in the Wollaston School hall to an exceedingly large audience, his subject being "Salubrities I have met." This delightful evening we owe to the Educational Committee of our club. The other very large meeting was in Quincy Music hall Feb. 16, the afternoon of the club dramatics when Josephine Preston Peabody's musical and beautiful play "The Piper" was presented. This afternoon was under the auspices of the Program committee with Miss Theo A. Luard in charge of the play. We have had one musical afternoon, and have enjoyed music at eight of our other regular meetings and for special events also this delightful part of the entertainment has been carefully planned by Miss Olney and her committee.

Among the most interesting speakers we have been privileged to hear in addition to those spoken of in other parts of this report, we would mention, Mrs. Gertrude Breslau Fuller, Arthur Rachel, Homer B. Halbert, His Honor Mayor Campbell, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney and our president Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, who gave us another of her delightful Travel Talks.

Our meetings have been held in the Wollaston School hall, Quincy Music hall, Park and Downs church, Unitarian church, Episcopal Parish house and Unitarian Parish house.

The Executive Board has met at the homes of its members with the exception of the regular November meeting when by special invitation we met at the rooms of the Hecker Cereal Co., 99 Summer street, Boston, where when business was over a very delicious lunch was served to us.

Our last Board meeting April 8, also ended in a pleasant social way. We were invited to meet with our treasurer, Mrs. Bryant, who opened all of her beautiful home to us and entertained us at luncheon and afterwards in a right royal way. The members of the board are anticipating one more social gathering as we are invited to the home of the president, Mrs. Ropes on the afternoon of May 10. Our term of office will then be over but it will be pleasant to be all together once more and to enjoy the hospitality of our leader who has guided us safely for two years over a path which to many of us was difficult as well as strange.

In June 1914 when the terrible fire in Salem broke out, the Industrial and Social committee of our club took prompt action and collected from club members a number of articles of clothing and of blankets which were at once sent to the sufferers. A little later a special board meeting was called and the sum of fifty dollars was voted and sent through the Quincy Relief committee to aid the unfortunate and destitute people of Salem.

During the winter the Massachu-

The PROBLEM of GOOD MILK

All persons do not understand what is meant by good, safe milk. Some believe that the milk with a deep cream line is desirable, whereas, the Doctor knows that Holstein Milk, although containing little cream is often more desirable for babies, partly for this reason, or perhaps because of the method of production.

The real criterion of a good milk is its wholesomeness. This depends upon the cleanliness at the dairy, and every special care given it until it reaches the consumer. Scrupulously clean and healthy cows, clean and healthy dairymen, rapid cooling, and protecting the milk, constant dairy and laboratory inspection are required. Furthermore safety is assured when the dealer pasteurizes his supply.

THE ELM FARM MILK COMPANY OF DORCHESTER offer pure Family Milk, and exceptional Nursery Milk at prices often charged for ordinary milk. Speak to the salesman, or call Dor. 2400. 6-1 mo.

Selling pianos against the tide

"Where there's a will there's a way," illustrated by such an every day occurence as buying and selling pianos

Copyright, 1914, Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

This sale goes to prove that anything can done, if you only go about doing it in the right way.

It proves that there is a right way to do everything.

It proves that "where there is a will," the way, and the right way, will invariably be found.

Here is the condition which was facing us when this sale was started: People were talking about hard times; manufacturers were shutting down, in whole or in part; merchants were retrenching; every other person you met had his own particular hard luck story to tell; and to "cap the climax," the European war had just broken out as suddenly as the proverbial "thunder from a clear sky."

Capital was timid, and the weak got more weak-kneed than ever.

But here and there were a lot of strong men and big institutions that knew that these things were unjustifiable. That knew that the affairs of this country were sound at the core. That crops were record breakers. That they were bringing record prices. That savings banks were fairly bulging with money. That the people owed less than ever before in the history of the country.

We knew these things and we believed these things.

Yet this unnecessary talk and war bugaboos were hurting the piano business. People would buy bread and shoes and clothing—but a piano was something they might get along without.

When up steps Mr. W. P. H. Bacon the head of one of the largest piano manufacturing industries in the world.

He was charged with a part of the responsibility of keeping nine large factories running.

He sensed the whole situation in an unusually longheaded way.

He said, "I know that this condition should not exist. I know that it is not founded on facts. I know that the condition is unwarranted and unnecessary—but the condition exists none the less, and we are going to meet it as we find it."

He said that merchants would have to sell pianos for less than they were ever sold before.

That they would have to take smaller payments than they ever took before. That they would have to sell pianos upon more liberal inducements than ever before, and that his company was willing to meet dealers half way to bring this condition about.

To that end, Mr. Bacon called a conference of sixteen representative mercantile houses, representing different sections of the country, to meet in his offices in New York.

We were among the sixteen invited to attend.

At that conference, the plan upon which this sale is conducted was adopted.

In brief the plan was this:

To sell player-pianos worth 550 dollars for 413 dollars.

To accept an initial cash payment of five dollars on either the piano or player-piano.

To give 3 years and 8 months time in which to pay the balance.

To divide the 3 years and 8 months time up into weekly payments, making the first year's payments very easy, the second year's payments 25 cents a week larger, etc.

Thus, the first year's payments on the piano were divided into 52 weekly payments of one dollar each

The first year's payments on the player-piano into 52 weekly payments of one dollar and 75 cents each.

There was to be no interest charged upon the payments.

All money was to be refunded in case a purchaser was dissatisfied after a thirty days' trial.

An arrangement was to be made with every purchaser, permitting him to exchange his instrument in case of dissatisfaction at any time up to one year from date of purchase.

A guarantee was to be given by the manufacturer and seller jointly, warranting the material and workmanship of the instrument for a period of 5 years—the guarantee to be free from every condition and restriction.

And, in order that no one should hesitate about accepting these advantageous conditions, it was determined to make it a practise during the sale, to cancel the accounts of those purchasers who should die before all their payments had been met, provided their accounts were up to date at the time of death.

This, in brief sentences is the plan upon which this sale is being held—which is, beyond question the most successful piano sale ever held in the history of the American piano industry.

It was the right way to sell pianos under stress of all these unnecessary scares. It was a "fitting in" of a plan to meet the condition as it existed—and the buying public is profiting by it—and you, the reader, should profit by it.

¶ During this sale, the Piano Department will be open evenings by appointment, arrangements for which may be made by calling phone No. 1200, and asking for Mr. Bates.

DARTMOUTH BOYS STICK TO CHAPEL

"Strike" Against Ancient Tradition Proves Flat Failure

Hanover, N. H., May 5.—That compulsory chapel will remain at Dartmouth for many more years was clearly demonstrated when there was called a strike on chapel for all those that were in favor of abolishing this ancient tradition here, and only about 100 men remained away.

For a long time the "Dartmouth," the college paper, has been advocating the abolishment of compulsory chapel, and before the spring recess set a day for a protest, in the order of a strike. No one was to go to chapel, but when the day arrived the chapel was filled as on every other day.

The "Dartmouth" took this as a sign that the college was in favor of compulsory chapel, but there arose a howl of protest that most of the men had forgotten the day and therefore another day should be set aside. May 4 was the day set, and again the chapel was nearly filled. The singing at chapel is not very good generally, but yesterday about every one joined in and made the chapel ring with a hymn such as has not been heard in a decade.

WITH STICK OF WOOD

Woman Said to Have Admitted Clubbing Husband to Death

Wiscasset, Me., May 5.—"I killed my husband. I had been playing on the organ and went out and picked up a stick of wood and struck him on the head. He never breathed or moved afterward."

Edwin and Byron French will testify that this statement was made voluntarily to them several days after the death of Fred T. Hisler at Somerville Feb. 7, by his wife, who was placed on trial here on the charge of murder, according to the opening address by County Attorney Perkins. Mrs. Hisler is past 50. Her husband was about 30.

AMONG THE CLUBS

setts Federation took up the work of making bandages to be sent to hospitals in northern France where large numbers of the wounded in the European war were congregated. The federated clubs were all asked to assist and a large amount of linen was collected in Wollaston and sent to the Federation headquarters for hospital aid in Tremont Temple. A number of our club members also went in to Tremont Temple and made bandages there. The clubs were also asked to contribute toward the expenses incident to the undertaking, and our quota of the desired amount was promptly voted by the club. A Hospital Relief committee had previously been appointed and it was decided to hold meetings in Wollaston for making these bandages. We also donated a sum of money to pay some of the unemployed women in our midst to work with us, thus giving aid in two directions at the same time. A great deal of credit for our share in this Hospital Relief work is due to the chairman of the committee Miss H. E. Turner, who not only worked herself with unflagging zeal but persuaded others to do likewise.

Other contributions for philanthropic purposes which we have made through the year have been to the Associated Charities of Quincy, the Quincy Visiting Nurse Committee, Massachusetts Field school playground Wollaston Free Kindergarten, Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, Massachusetts Child Labor committee (annual subscription) the payment of rent for a worthy family in our midst and a large amount of local aid given through the work of the Social and industrial committee

March 16, 1915 the club voted to establish a permanent college scholarship of $125 a year for the benefit of a Wollaston girl. Some other notable actions of our club should be mentioned.

April 20, 1915 it was voted to set aside the sum of $500 (a part of the amount earned by our "Special Edition") to be used with the interest accruing to it, as a permanent building fund.

April 6, Sec. 3 Art. 3, of our by-laws was amended to read "Active membership shall be limited to 350." This vote enabled us to admit 50 new members and thus to lessen in a small degree the very large waiting list. The same date a unanimous vote was passed to engage quarters for one year in the new Masonic Temple.

Early in the fall of 1914 we were requested by the Ministers Association of Quincy to appoint from the club a censor for the theatres of Quincy. Mrs. Charles R. Safford was appointed and she has filled this difficult position with tact and perservering endeavor.

The most notable event of the club year was the all-day civic conference of the Massachusetts Federation held in the Unitarian Parish house, April 15, 1915, our club acting as hostess on this occasion. The subjects discussed were "The Need of Women Police Officers" and "Community Welfare and Town Management," reports of clean-up campaigns were also given. Mrs. Hiram Fisher, chairmano f the Civics Department of the State Federation presided, and Edwin Mulready, Commissioner of Labor, Mrs. Frank Young of Boston and George F. Willett of Norwood were among the splendid speakers we were privileged to hear at that time.

During the noon recess the guests of honor were entertained at luncheon by our club and were afterwards taken in automobiles to see some of the historic houses for which Wollaston and Quincy are noted, going by way of the beautiful boulevard, skirting the Quincy Bay. Coffee was provided for the numerous guests from other clubs who attended the Conference and members of our club acted as guides to any of the places of interest their guests wished to visit. The committee in charge of the local arrangements for this conference consisted of Mrs. Ropes, Mrs. Badger and Mrs. Thompson and the delightful way in which all the arrangements for the guests were carried out was entirely due to the work of these ladies and their assistants.

Feb. 25 W. S. tf

A special meeting to which the public was invited was arranged by the Civic committee and was held in the Wollaston School hall on the evening of Feb. 5, at 8 o'clock. At this time a very large audience of men and women gathered to hear Jay Wm. Hudson M. D., of the University of Missouri speak on "America's Message to Europe." His Honor the Mayor of Quincy also spoke on this occasion.

A special afternoon meeting planned by the Home Economics committee was held in the Methodist vestry, March 29. Mrs. L. B. Miller of the Filene Co., was the speaker, her subject being "The Scientific buying of Outfits." A series of four conferences were held this spring under the auspices of the Associated Charities of Quincy, Quincy Women's Club and Wollaston Woman's club. The first two were held in Quincy, one on Mar. 22, when Mrs. W. H. Lothrop spoke on "Friendly Visiting," and on March 29 when Miss Josephine Blaikie took as her subject "Mothers' Aid." The others were held in the Wollaston School hall. April 5 "Free Medical Care of Children" was taken up by Miss McMahon, and "Milk and Baby Hygiene" by Mr. Bettinger on April 12.

We all look back with pride and pleasure to the evening of Jan. 22, 1915 when the opera "Priscilla" was presented in Quincy Music hall. Miss Olney and her committee undertook this task for the benefit of the philanthropic work of the club, but aside from the material profits, great prestige was gained as no one had supposed that such a truly fine performance could be given by our young inexperienced club. The Woman's club chorus was assisted at this time by some of the members of the Wollaston Glee club and a few other male voices. The fine "Opera Talks" given during the winter by Havrah Hubbard, two of these being in the evening have given great pleasure to large audiences, and the pleasure and profit has extended beyond the limit of the club, as many non-members from our town and other places attended these "Talks." The Current Events Class carried on by Mrs. Leila C. Pennock and the Parliamentary Law Class under the leadership of Mrs. Electa M. Sherman have been sources of interest and profit to all who have been able to attend them, while the Choral class conducted by Mr. John Crowley has been much valued by the music lovers in our midst.

We have been able to entertain a number of special guests during the club year. Reciprocity Day we had with us many clubs. Mrs. Leila C. Pennock, first Vice President of State Federation, being our specially honored guest. "Gentlemen's Night" the Hon. Chester I. Campbell, Mayor of Quincy, and Mrs. Campbell were guests of honor. The grammar school teachers of Wollaston were invited by the club to attend Mr. Bang's lecture and the High school teachers were our guests. March 16, when "The Music Master" was so ably given by Mr. Arthur Rachel. By obtaining the use of the school hall for our meeting April 6th we were able to have the children of the 7th and 8th grades and their teachers, accompany us on "A Trip to the Bottom of the Sea."

The social events of our club are still left to be recorded.

The Hallowe'en dance was as usual well attended and much enjoyed. "Gentlemen's night" March 19 was one of great interest when the husbands and friends of the members enjoyed with us the "High Places of South America" so vividly illustrated and described by Mr. Albert Edward Squires. The "Childrens party" gave about 200 children an afternoon of unmixed delight. Last but not least, there was our "Club luncheon" given to the retiring President Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, at Hotel Vendome, Boston, May 1st. Ninety-four of the club members and their friends sat down at one o'clock and partook of a delicious repast, followed by a "feast of reason and a flow of soul." The after-dinner speakers were Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes of Milton, chairman of the Massachusetts Branch of the Woman's Peace party and Mrs. George O. Jenkins, president of the Whitman Woman's club and State Regent of the D. A. R.

Mrs. Ropes spoke a few words of thanks and appreciation and introduced Mrs. Forbes who gave an interesting talk on "The Woman's Peace Party." Mrs. Jenkins followed with some bright and suggestive remarks relating to Club life and doings.

Mrs. Ropes in her usual charming way introduced the 2d Vice President Mrs. Nathan G. Nickerson who was to act as toastmistress. Mrs. Nickerson answered in rhyme and in that pleasant way introduced the five ladies who responded to the toasts. The toasts were given in the following order. The Club—Mrs. Safford; the president—Miss Johnson; Executive Board—Mrs. Adams; Waiting List—Mrs. Walter F. Jones; Our Husbands—Mrs. Keyes.

At the close all joined in singing the "Club Ode." An orchestra consisting of Miss Olney, pianist, Miss Marion Moorhouse, 'Cellist and Miss Augusta Talbot, violinist furnished most enjoyable music during the afternoon. Mrs. Charles R. Safford, chairman program committee made all the ararngements for the luncheon and its success is entirely due to her efforts.

Oct. 6, 1914, occurred the death of the Hon. John L. Miller, then Mayor of Quincy. At the meeting of the Executive Board October 8, a committee was appointed to draw up resolutions which were sent to Mrs. Miller and placed on the records of the club. The president and secretary attended Mr. Miller's funeral, Oct. 10 to represent the club. During the sumer of 1914 Mrs. Charles F. Wilde, passed away; Mrs. Wilde was for one year a member of the club. The deaths of two of our Charter members have also occurred during the year, Mrs. Amos T. Leavitt who died Feb. 6, 1915, and Mrs. Walter E. Simmons, April 6, 1915.

The club has now a full active membership of 350, 2 honorary members and 145 on the waiting list.

HER ABSENT BOY.

When a Mother's Lot Is One of Wistful, Weary Waiting.

It's mighty hard to be a mother of sons in Homeburg. I worked in the postoffice for a year once—handed out mail—and I got to know just exactly what most of the mothers in town wanted. I could please them with a new magazine and mystify them with a circular or a business letter.

But if I wanted to light them up until they took the shadows out of the corners as they went out I would give them a letter from a son way off somewhere making good. The best of them didn't write any too often. Once a week is pretty regular, I suppose, from the other end, but you should see the mother begin to come in hungry again the second day after her letter came.

And when a boy came home successful and prosperous and his proud mother towed him down Main street it used to go to my heart to see the wistful looks of the woman friends.

There is hardly a family in Homeburg of the right age which hasn't a grownup son off at war somewhere—fighting failure. It's grand when they win, but I hate to think of some boys who haven't come back.—George Fitch in American Magazine.

Just Like Eve's Apple.

A fruit supposed to bear the mark of Eve's teeth is one of the many botanical curiosities of Ceylon. The tree on which it grows is known by the significant name of "the forbidden fruit," or "Eve's apple tree." The blossom has a very pleasant scent, but the really remarkable feature of the tree, the one to which it owes its name, is the fruit. It is beautiful and hangs from the tree in a peculiar manner. Orange on the outside and deep crimson within, each fruit has the appearance of having had a piece bitten out of it. This fact, together with its poisonous quality, led the Mohammedans to represent it as the forbidden fruit of the garden of Eden and to warn men against its noxious properties. The mark upon the fruit is attributed to Eve.

The Elgin Marbles.

The adventures of the Elgin marbles, now in the British museum, began in 1803, when they were wrecked at Cerigo on their way from Greece to England. It took the divers three years and a vast sum of money to fish up the Parthenon relics. It is believed that Lord Elgin spent over £74,000 in procuring these priceless fragments left by Turkish vandals, who would probably have made an end of even these had the earl not rescued them in time. The house of commons voted £36,000 for their purchase, so that the enterprising peer lost heavily in cash and suffered from a public agitation against his alleged "vandalism, rapacity and dishonesty," as well as from Byron's "Curse of Minerva."—London Chronicle.

Grip of the Bulldog.

It is a commonly accepted belief that nothing short of being pried loose will induce a bulldog to give up his grip on another dog or on an intruder, but this is a mistake. A little household ammonia poured on him as near his nose as circumstances will allow will make him let go immediately. The fumes of ammonia are so overpowering that a dog cannot possibly maintain his grip and his breath at the same time.

Her Business.

"Why not?"

"She has a way of making every one show one's hand."—Atlanta Constitution.

A STORY THAT VARIES.

The Bride Who Got Into a Chest and Was Found Dead There.

There is a story more or less diffused of a young bride on her wedding day playing the game of hide and seek and concealing herself in one of those ancient carved chests of large size. After she had got in the lid closed, and she found herself unable to raise it again, for it fastened with a spring, and she was shut in. Search was made for her in every quarter but the right one, and great perplexity and dismay were caused by her disappearance. It was not till years after, when chance led to the opening of the chest, that the body of the young bride was discovered and the mystery of her disappearance solved.

The story is found in so many places that it may be questioned whether it is true of any one of them. Rogers tells it of a palace in Modena. The chest in which the poor bride was found is shown at Bramshill, in Hampshire, the residence of Sir John Cope. Another similar chest, with precisely the same story attached to it, was long shown at Marwell Old Hall, between Winchester and Bishop's Waltham.

The folk tale of Catskin or Peau d'Ane represents the girl flying with her bridal dresses from a marriage that is repugnant to her, and as this tale is found all over Europe it may have metamorphosed itself into that of the bride who got into a chest and died there.—Cornhill Magazine.

BLUNDERING REPORTERS.

Mistakes That Mangled the Speakers' Words and Feelings.

"Drunkenness is folly!" earnestly exclaimed Bishop Magee in the house of lords on a celebrated occasion. How horrified was the prelate to read in the papers next morning that he had given utterance to the very bacchanalian sentiment, "Drunkenness is jolly!"

Lord Salisbury was a master phrasemaker, but one of his best points was spoiled when a careless reporter turned his reference to "manacles and Manitoba" into the meaningless "manacles and men at the bar."

Sir William Harcourt was badly misquoted once. "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" he exclaimed upon the platform, but one paper had it: "Great Dinah! What a farce is this!"

Lack of knowledge of familiar quotations is a prolific source of misreporting. For instance, a speaker once made use of the well known lines from Milton's "L'Allegro:"

But come, thou goddess, fair and free,
In heaven yclept Euphrosyne.

The brilliant reporter deputed to "take him down" was in despair. He could not make head or tail of this mysterious utterance. But, following the sound as far as possible, he seized his pen and produced the following gem:

But corpe, thou goddess, fair and free,
In heaven she crept and froze her knee.

Golf In the Old Days.

Centuries back golf was a pastime of the royal family, though then usually played in Scotland. The Stuart family was very fond of the game, and the first English club was established at Blackheath in 1608 by James I. His eldest son, Henry, frequently played and on one occasion nearly struck by accident his tutor with a club, whereupon he coolly remarked, "Had I done so I had but paid my debts." Charles I. was playing golf when he received the news of the Irish rebellion. James, duke of York, afterward James II., was another ardent player. Golf is frequently mentioned in ancient Scottish records and in the fifteenth century was prohibited because it interfered with the practice of archery. Strutt considered it the most ancient game at ball requiring a bat.—London Standard.

Puss and the Weather.

The cat is an excellent barometer. When you see a cat wetting its paw in its mouth and then rubbing it energetically over the upper part of its ear you may feel pretty certain that rain is coming. This action is pussy's method of relieving the uncomfortable feeling in its ears caused by the change in the atmospheric pressure which precedes a storm. If the unpleasant feeling in the ear were due to a foreign substance then the cat would scratch the ear with its hind foot. But when pussy scrubs its ear with its saliva moistened paw it is when rain is impending.

He Knew Mrs. Meek.

Mrs. Gotham—I met Mr. Meek and his wife on the street today.

Mr. Gotham—Oh, did you? Meek is clever, isn't he?

"Clever! Why, he never opened his mouth!"

"That's why he's clever."—Yonkers Statesman.

Economy.

Mrs. Homespun—What'll we contribute to the minister's donation party? Farmer Homespun—Waal, I dunno, Hanner. Taters is way up, pork is way up, fowl is way up. We'll save money by giving him money.—St. Paul Dispatch.

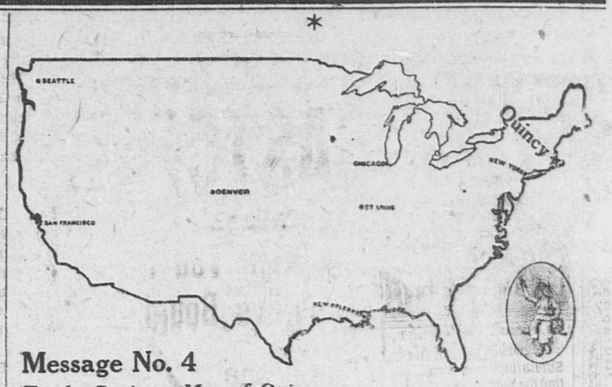

Unsettled.

"I hear that they belong to the early settlers."

"Well, you wouldn't think so if you could see the bill collectors climbing their front steps."—Judge.

Message No. 4

To the Business Men of Quincy

A young doctor, making a start in a small town, decided that to be prosperous he must look prosperous. He bought a new buggy and two good horses. Although he had only a few patients he always kept on the jump, attending to his patients' smallest needs. People began to notice this young doctor driving about town and they called him because he looked busy and prosperous. He got his start—a start that led to a comfortable practice.

Our town, like this doctor, must look prosperous to be prosperous.

Clean streets, attractive store windows, well-painted buildings and dwellings give the prosperous air. Well-painted buildings are greatest of these.

Beyer-Bauman White Lead

and pure linseed oil make a most durable and protective paint that keeps buildings well painted. These materials can be mixed to suit conditions and tinted any color desired. We sell these good-paint ingredients as well as other paint necessaries. Better get in touch with us in the interests of prosperity.

WILLIAM WESTLAND

CAN DO SOMETHING BETTER.

Miss Ida Tarbell, whose intelligence and whose knowledge of any subject of which she treats no suffragist will question, made the following statement in her testimony before the National Industrial Relations Commission:

"The best laws in regard to women and children have been passed in states where there is no woman suffrage. Women get low wages because they are not trained workers. I should not like to see our women get mixed up in politics, because they are just the same old partisan politics. Women can do something better."

Miss Tarbell, by the way, has never found the ballot necessary for "spiritual and intellectual expansion," and has found it quite easy to achieve "freedom," without promoting social revolution at the ballot box.

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

The Comtesse de la Maine was the palest of the three women. She had been quietly looking at Tremont and now a smile crossed her lips that had tears back of it—one of those beautiful smiles that mean so much on a woman's face. She was the only one of the three who had not yet spoken. Tremont was waiting for her. Hammet Abou, with whom he had been in earnest conversation, was answering his further questions. The Marquise d'Esclignac shrugged, threw up her hands as though she gave up all questions of romance, rescue and disappointed love and foolish girls, and walked out thoroughly wretched, Mimi tinkling at her heels. The Comtesse de la Maine said to Julia:

"Ma chere, what were the words of the English song you sang last night—the song you told me was a sort of prayer. Tell me the words slowly, will you?"

They walked out of the vestibule together, leaving Hammet Abou and Tremont alone.

CHAPTER XXI.

Master and Friend.

Pitchoune, who might have been considered as one of the infinitesimal atoms in the economy of the universe, ran over the sands away from his master. He was an infinitesimal dot on the desert's face. He was only a small Irish terrier in the heart of the Sahara. His little wiry body and his color seemed to blend with the dust. His eyes were dimmed by hunger and thirst and exhaustion, but there was the blood of a fighter in him and he was a thoroughbred. Nevertheless, he was running away. It looked very much like it. There was no one to comment on his treachery; had there been, Pitchoune would not have run far.

It was not an ordinary sight to see on the Sahara—a small Irish terrier going as fast as he could.

Pitchoune ran with his nose to the ground. There were several trails for a dog to follow on that apparently untrodden page of desert history. Which one would he choose? Without a scent a dog does nothing. His nostrils are his instinct. His devotion, his faithfulness, his intelligence, his heart—all come through his nose. A man's heart, they say, is in his stomach—or in his pocket. A dog's is in his nostrils. If Pitchoune had chosen the wrong direction, this story would never have been written. Michette did not give birth to the sixth puppy, in the stables of the garrison, for nothing. Nor had Sabron saved him on the night of the memorable dinner for nothing.

With his nose flat to the sands Pitchoune smelt to east and to west, to north and south, took a scent to the east, decided on it—for what reason will never be told—and followed it. Fatigue and hunger were forgotten as hour after hour Pitchoune ran across the Sahara. Mercifully, the sun had been clouded by the precursor of a windstorm. The air was almost cool. Mercifully, the wind did not arise until the little terrier had pursued his course to the end.

There are occasions when an animal's intelligence surpasses the human. When, toward evening of the twelve hours that it had taken him to reach a certain point, he came to a settlement of mud huts on the borders of an oasis, he was pretty nearly at the end of his strength. The oasis was the only sign of life in five hundred miles. There was very little left in his small body. He lay down, panting, but his bright spirit was unwilling just then to leave his form and hovered near him. In the religion of Tatman dogs alone have souls.

Pitchoune panted and dragged himself to a pool of water around which the green palms grew, and he drank and drank. Then the little desert wayfarer hid himself in the bushes and slept till morning. All night he was racked with convulsive twitches, but he slept and in his dreams he killed a young chicken and ate it. In the morning he took a bath in the pool, and the sun rose while he swam in the water.

If Sabron or Miss Redmond could have seen him he would have seemed the epitome of heartless egoism. He was the epitome of wisdom. Instinct and wisdom sometimes go closely together. Solomon was only instinctive when he asked for wisdom. The epicurean Lucullus, when dying, asked for a certain Nile fish cooked in wine.

Pitchoune shook out his short hairy body and came out of the oasis pool into the sunlight and trotted into the Arabian village.

* * * * * * *

Fatou Anni parched corn in a brazier before her house. Her house was a mud hut with yellow walls. It had no roof and was open to the sky. Fatou Anni was ninety years old, straight as a lance—straight as one of the lances the men of the village carried when they went to dispute with white people. These lances with which the young men had fought, had won them the last battle. They had been victorious on the field.

Fatou Anni was the grandmother of many men. She had been the mother of many men. Now she parched corn tranquilly, prayerfully.

"Allah! that the corn should not burn; Allah! that it should be sweet; Allah! that her men should be always successful."

She was the fetish of the settlement. In a single blue garment, her black scrawny breast uncovered, the thin veil that the Fellaheen wear pushed back from her face, her fine eyes were revealed and she might have been a priestess as she bent over her corn!

"Allah! Allah Akbar!"

Rather than anything should happen to Fatou Anni, the settlement would have roasted its enemies alive, torn them in shreds. Some of them said that she was two hundred years old. There was a charmed ring drawn around her house. People supposed that if any creature crossed it uninvited, it would fall dead.

The sun had risen for an hour and the air was still cool. Overhead, the sky, unstained by a single cloud, was blue as a turquoise floor, and against it, black and portentous, flew the vultures. Here and there the sun-touched pools gave life and reason to the oasis.

Fatou Anni parched her corn. Her barbaric chant was interrupted by a sharp bark and a low pleading whine.

She had never heard sounds just like that. The dogs of the village were great wolflike creatures. Pitchoune's bark was angelic compared with theirs. He crossed the charmed circle drawn around her house, and did not fall dead, and stood before her, whining. Fatou Anni left her corn, stood upright and looked at Pitchoune. To her the Irish terrier was an apparition. The fact that he had not fallen dead proved that he was beloved of Allah. He was, perhaps, a genie, an afrit.

Pitchoune fawned at her feet. She murmured a line of the Koran. It did not seem to affect his demonstrative affection. The woman bent down to him after making a pass against the Evil Eye, and touched him, and Pitchoune licked her hand.

Fatou Anni screamed, dropped him, went into the house and made her ablutions. When she came out Pitchoune sat patiently before the parched corn, and he again came crawling to her.

The Arabian woman lived in the last hut of the village. She could satisfy her curiosity without shocking her neighbors. She bent down to scrutinize Pitchoune's collar. There was a sacred medal on it with sacred inscriptions which she could not read. But as soon as she had freed him this time, Pitchoune tore himself away from her, flew out of the sacred ring and disappeared. The he ran back, barking appealingly; he took the hem of her dress in his mouth and pulled her. He repeatedly did this and the superstitious Arabian believed herself to be called divinely. She cautiously left the doorstep, her veil falling before her face, came out of the sacred ring, followed to the edge of the berry field. From there Pitchoune sped over the desert; when he stopped and looked back at her. Fatou Anni did not follow, and he returned to renew his entreaties. When she tried to touch him he escaped, keeping at a safe distance. The village began to stir. Blue and yellow garments fluttered in the streets.

Penny Wise and Pound Foolish

Hard times make every woman look to see where she can save money, which, of course, is sensible and proper if not carried too far.

In the case of food it would be foolish to attempt to substitute sawdust for a breakfast food because it is cheaper. Everyone knows sawdust has no food value and its use would be a positive detriment to the health.

Royal Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar, adds only healthful qualities to the food.

The difference in cost of a pan of biscuits or of a cake made with Royal Baking Powder as compared with cheap alum or phosphate of lime powders is about one cent, which is surely too small an amount to warrant the risk.

MISS HUSTON CHIEF SPEAKER

Miss Mildred Gray Huston, the overseer of the poor, gave an interesting talk on the work of this most important department of the city before Unity Circle of King's Daughters at its meeting Tuesday evening. Mrs. George Taylor presided at the meeting and the devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Charles W. Miller.

A short business session was held during the first of the evening at which reports were received from the several tens of the circle. Mrs. Sawtell of the Norfolk County King's Daughters gave a short talk on the Pond home at Plainville and the work it was doing, after which Miss Huston was introduced.

Miss Huston's talk was an informal one during which she enlightened the members of the circle on some of the multitude of matters that are continually before the poor department. She spoke of some of the special cases with which the department had to deal, speaking more especially of female cases. She also spoke of the employment bureau which is being conducted in connection with the office. She said that while the office had on file the names of a number of men seeking positions they were for the most part foreigners, who knew but little of the English language. She also said that the skilled laborer found no difficulty in obtaining positions and as far as her department knew there were few of this class unemployed.

Speaking of the unemployed females she said that there was a constant demand for servants and that there was a scarcity of this class of help.

Miss Huston then spoke of the work of the Young Women's club and the Associated Charities and besought the support of the members of the circle in these associations.

The store of C. F. Pettengill, the jeweler, in the Dr. Welch block which was gutted by fire several weeks ago, has been entirely refurnished and Tuesday Mr. Pettengill moved back to the store from his temporary quarters in the Kincaide block.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARY COTTER.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Cotter, widow of John oCtter was held this morning from her home. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Johns church by Fr. Michael J. Owens, pastor. The Gregorian chant was sung by the egulor choir, the soloists being Mrs. Eva Rive Restelli, Miss Margaret Gallagher, and Arthur Holmes. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery and the bearers were James, Thomas and John Walsh, Thomas Doyl, Daniel and John Fitzgerald.

About Mythology.

In very ancient times the people believed in many gods. Jupiter was the king of all the gods, but he was very human. He had a wife, Juno by name, and they had a son called Vulcan. Vulcan was very strong, and he was the blacksmith of the gods.

It is said that when he was a child he displeased his father, and Jupiter in his anger hurled him from Mount Olympus. This fall caused him to be lame, but he grew to be large and powerful. He forged thunderbolts for his father, and he built the magnificent palaces in which the gods lived on Olympus. For his mother, Juno, he built a golden throne and for the sun god, Apollo, he made a golden chariot, and all his works were very beautiful. Vulcan had servants who were called Cyclops. They were queer looking giants, each with but one eye, placed in the middle of his forehead.

Now, whenever you see a picture or statue of Vulcan you see him with his tools about him, standing at his anvil making a thunderbolt. He has muscular limbs and long hair and beard. Vulcan married Venus.

Venus was the goddess of beauty and their child was Cupid, the god of love. For Venus, his wife, he wrought a delicate girdle which contained this magic—whoever wore it inspired love in all she met. Venus treasured it, although many requests came from other goddesses for the loan of it.—Chicago News.

Two sturdy laddies, ready both to run,

PEKIN PREPARES FOR DEFENSE

Troops Concentrated In Environs of Chinese Capital

JAPANESE ATTACK EXPECTED

Defenders Will Be Able to Make Only Brief Resistance—Japanese Bank and Postoffice at Mukden Suspend Business—Missionaries and Other Americans Are In No Danger

Pekin, May 5.—Military preparations are being made for the defense of Pekin. According to Chinese officials, whose statements have been corroborated in other circles, the government is making no preparations elsewhere than at the capital for defense, considering that the Chinese will be unable to oppose the Japanese should they make an attack.

It is asserted in high Chinese quarters that 100,000 troops have been concentrated in the environs of Pekin, but with sufficient ammunition for only a brief resistance.

Special police and military precautions have been taken throughout Pekin, especially around the winter palace, where President Yuan Shi Kai resides. The officials declare they are suspicious that the Japanese may attempt repetition of the Korean coup d'etat.

The Japanese legation, it is said, notified the Japanese to prepare to leave Pekin, and it is stated that many women and children are getting ready to depart. Many of the Japanese men probably will take refuge in the legation quarter if hostilities break out.

The situation is considered awkward for some of the foreign legations, especially those whose countries sympathize with the Chinese, but none of them could oppose the entry of the Japanese into Pekin.

Telegrams reaching Pekin from Mukden say that the Japanese bank and postoffice there have suspended business, that the Japanese reservists have been called to the colors and that other civilians are concentrating in the railway zone.

Paul S. Reinsch, the United States minister at Pekin, expresses the opinion that the missionaries and other Americans in the interior are in no danger whatever. He says the Chinese government will preserve order in the regions over which the Chinese hold control.

THE CARMAN TRIAL

Dinstrict Attorney Says Mrs. Bailey Was Killed In Daylight

Mineola, N. Y., May 5.—Taking of testimony in the case of Mrs. Florence C. Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise D. Bailey in the office of Mrs. Carman's husband, began in the supreme court here. The jury disagreed at the first trial.

District Attorney Smith made his opening address to the jurors, after which the examination of witnesses was begun.

Throughout Smith's address Mrs. Carman sat unmoved except to give a slight start, as if surprised, when Smith said: "And we will show that Mrs. Bailey was killed in daylight."

This was an allusion to the new evidence he has indicated his intention to present, and which is to be furnished by detectives.

AWAITS WORD FROM COE

Wife Is Willing to Join Him If He Asks Her to Do So

Boston, May 5.—Unless Henry C. Coe, Jr., of his own accord relents in his avowed purpose never to return to his young wife and their baby, whom he has never yet seen, the young Standard Oil salesman will apparently be left free to pursue the life of his strange choice in far-off Alaska.

Mrs. Coe says that she will receive him again as her husband if he chooses to return, that she will even go to him in Alaska with the baby if he writes or wires asking her to do so, but she will not seek a reunion except upon his request.

ENJOY ANNUAL MAY FESTIVAL AT POINT

"My Aunt's Heiress" Receives Good Reception

The Washington St. Congregational church held its annual May Festival, Wednesday evening, in the vestry of the church. A supper was served which consisted of escalloped clams, potato salad, baked beans, rolls, coffee, and different kinds of pies. The supper was in charge of Mrs. B. G. Barnes, Mrs. C. H. Sherborn, and Mrs. T. W. Lincoln. Their assistants included Mrs. E. R. Stone, T. B. Thomas, C H. Oliver, H. F. Thayer, C. W. Newcomb and Miss Sheppard. Jeffray P. Newcomb of Winter street donated the clams.

The play followed the supper. It was a one act comedy entitled "My Aunts Heiress," given under the direction of Mrs. Marcus Wight. About one hundred and fifty persons witnessed the play, which at its close was enthusiastically applauded. The story of the play had something of a Cinderella effect, the prettiest and most generous daughter being treated like a servant by her ambitious mother. like a slave by her sisters, six in number. A rich aunt is expected, who is to adopt one of the daughters. The family mistakes the rich aunt for a poor aunt who is also expected and immediately attend to the supposedly rich aunt while they neglect the really rich aunt, all except Matilda, the little Cinderella. The rich aunt choses Matilda and forgives the selfish family, after some complications.

Mrs. William Hodgkinson had the most difficult part and she took it with ease, portraying the ambitious mother to perfection. Matilda was taken by Doris Peterson and she made a sweet, loving Good Samaritan. She had a slight tendency to bow her head when she spoke but she took the part well. Betsy Brown taken by Miss Helen Lincoln was exceptionally well done, and Sippets the servant to the ambitious mother took her part well, and kept the ball of fun rolling.

Miss Helen Lincoln capably took the part of the rich aunt and Mrs. A. B. Foster was the poor aunt masquerading as the wealthy one. Both played their parts well. Anna Marie, Jemima, Sophia, Arabella, Clementina and Jane, the favored daughters were well taken.

The cast:

Mrs. John Smith	Mrs. Wm. Hodgkinson
Jemima	Swea Wester
Anna Marie	Dorothy Hammond
Sophia	Viola Cross
Arabella	Eva Porter
Matilda	Doris Peterson
Clementina	Ruth Barnard
Jane	Marion Barr
Mrs. Alexander DeCourcy Smith	Mrs. A. B. Foster
Betsy Brown	Miss Helen Lincoln
Sippets	May MacKenzie

Fancy articles, aprons, candy, ice cream, cake and punch were sold at attractive booths.

THE WEATHER

Among the unmistakable signs of spring is the arrival by mail of the little package of seeds from the Congressman of the district. Has Mr. Gilmore remembered you? MINISTERS TO HAVE BANQUET

At a meeting of the Executive board of the Ministers association, held Wednesday at the office of the president, Rev. A. L. Hudson, in the First Parish study, plans were made for the annual banquet of the association to which the wives of the ministers are also invited. At three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, May 11, the ministers and their wives will meet in the assembly room of the Y. M. C. A. and will listen to an address by the new secretary, Mr. Robert S. Gaskell, on the relation between the churches of Quincy and the Y. M. C. A.

The ministers will then go into a short executive session while their wives will have the freedom of the bowling alleys.

Following this the ministers will take part in games on the gymnasium floor under charge of the physical director with the wives occupying seats as spectators in the gallery.

At about five o'clock the entire company will adjourn to the First Parish church for a tour of inspection of the Tablets and other historic features of the old "Stone Temple." At six o'clock they will be seated at tables in the social room of the church, where surrer will be served by a committee of the ministers wives.

BLACKMUR STARS.

Richard Blackmur of Elm street contributed his share to the stick work Wednesday which gave Thayer Academy a 9 to 3 victory over Stone school. Young Dick got a single and a double, two putouts at third base where he played and three assists. Earl Bates the former High school star got a single, a putout and an assist at second.

FARCE SCORES BIG SUCCESS

Maple Lodge Enjoys "Engaged By Wednesday"

The entertaining farce, "Engaged by Wednesday," was presented for the third time by members of the choir of the Church of St. John the Evangelist in Electa hall Wednesday night. The first two appearances were in Boston and last night's in this city, under the auspices of the Maple lodge, K. L. of H.

All of the characters did well in their respective parts. The story is the old one, where parents plan the marriage of their children without their consent with the result, an opposition develops. Friends of the children side against each other and a high old time follows. In the meantime the two engaged children meet and affection between them grows. To outwit their parents they plan an elopment and the story has the usual happy ending. Evelyn Lake and Fred Bowdige starred as the lovers. Helen Newell, as the laziest man in the country did exceptionally well and the performance was further enlivened with a Sailor's Hornpipe by Miss Bella Yates, with Miss Marion Hewson as the accompanist.

The others who participated were Roy Chase, Eliot Wyer and George Withington, friends of Arthur's; Miss Marjorie Newell, a woman of ideas; Miss Esther Buzzell, a gentle person; Miss Grace Yates, Miss Ruth Parker and Miss Helen Lake, friends of Lucille; Miss Helen Lockman, cook; Margaret Lindsay and Miss Bella Yates, gypsies.

The affair was presented under the chairmanship of a committee consisting of Mrs. Effie L. Rhines, Mrs. Audrey Rich and Miss M. Lizzie Furnald. Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis of this city, coached the cast in the final rehearsals, before the first performance.

The farce was enjoyed by the large audience present. Lack of a suitable stage was easily overcome by the enthusiasm of the young men and women during the entire performance.

ANDERSON IS STILL LUCKY

Charles Anderson, one of the huskiest Swedish men the police ever had in custody, was as lucky in court this morning when arraigned on four charges, three of them assault and battery as he was on the eventful morning he jumped from the speeding auto patrol last December while being taken to police headquarters, escaped injuries and made his getaway.

Anderson was arrested in Boston last week on Quincy warrants Patrolman Dhooge was complainant on the charge of drunkenness and Mary and John Monahan and Philomena Lilles, all of Quincy Point were complainants on the assault and battery charge.

The Monahans acknowledged satisfaction and the Lillies' complaint was continued to June 10, when it is probable satisfaction will also be acknowledged. Anderson paid a fine of $15 imposed for drunkenness.

Abigail Adams lodge, No 11, I. C. of A., will hold a memorial service Sunday, May 23, in Quincy Adams hall. Companions and friends are invited.

YEARLY DANCE OF HARMONY CLUB

At More Than 100 Enjoy Fourth Annual Ball in St. Mary's Hall

OUT OF TOWN GUESTS

The attendance at the Fourth Annual Dance of the Harmony club Wednesday evening in St. Mary's hall eclipsed all previous affairs in that section of the city. There were over 200 couples dancing in the small hall. Guests were present from Nantasket, Brockton, Holbrook, Weymouth, Dorchester and Mattapan. The club holds this affair every year to help defray the expenses of their summer cottage at Nantasket where they hold open house all season to their friends.

The hall was beautifully decorated with blue and white bunting and the stage was encased with a white lattice work, in the rear of which Hamilton's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing. All of the modern dances were allowed and the 22 dances on the order were greatly enjoyed by all present. The travelling bag which was awarded to the lucky ticket holder was won by John J. Joyce. During intermission a buffet lunch was served in the basement by the club members who have had quite a little experience in this line while at the ccttage in the summer. The floor director was Richard Knight and he was assisted by Frank O'Rourke. The chief of aids was Oswald Shea assisted by John Brunet, Michael Saville, Joseph O'Rourke, Robert Fitzgerald, George McDonald, James McDonald and Lawrence Donavon.

JULY FOURTH CELEBRATION

A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Ward Two July Fourth Celebration association was held Wednesday evening at Town River Yacht club, at which time an active organization was perfected to plan for a celebration to be held on the national holiday, which will give Ward Two such an awakening as it has not experienced for a long time.

Joesph Carruthers, commodore of the Town River Yacht club, presided and the executive committee of the yacht club was elected as the general committee in charge, to which was added a number of others,the whole forming one large committee. At later meetings sub-committees will be appointed for the different features of the celebration.

As outlined at the meeting Wednesday evening the fun will start at midnight the night before with a monster bonfire on Pin Cushion island, and of course the yacht club will keep open house all the evening.

On the morning of the Fourth there will be athletic sports on the Ward two playground. In the afternoon there will be water sports off the club house at the foot of Edison street and a band concert. There will also be an entertainment for the children.

On the night of the Fourth there will be a display of fire works off the club house and a band concert. The extent of the several events outlined will depend in a great measure on amount of money raised by popular subscription for the celebration.

The general committee in charge as appointed at the meeting Wednesday evening is as follows:

Commodore Joseph Carruthers, Chairman.

Vice Commodore, Allan McGeachie

Secretary—W. C. Luther.

Treasurer, George Jacques.

Herbert R. Holmes, C. W. Newcomb, William Caldwell, William H. Flynn, Charles B. Yule, Robert J. Williams, Jr., Edgar Pinel, James Brooks, Rev. Stephen C. Laing, Timothy J Collins, Peter M. Sullivan, D. E. MacDonald, Charles C. Foster.

Another meeting of the association will be held next Wednesday evening at which time further plans will be made.

ISSUE PERMIT FOR NEW BLOCK

Will Be on Sidewalk If Street Is Widened

The foundation for the new business block of five stores at the corner of Hancock and School streets is well along and this morning a permit for the building was issued to Dennis F. Crowley, the contractor. The permit calls for a brick building with a frontage of 105 feet, 55 feet deep and 43 feet wide on the rear, and 20 feet high. The building will contain five stores and the estimated cost is $9,000.

The foundation of the building is flush with the sidewalk line as it now exists. Steps have been taken by the city council looking toward the establishment of a building line on School street, incident eventually to making the street 60 feet wide. If the building line proposed is passed it will bring the new block, if erected as contemplated, onto the sidewalk with the result that the city will be put to quite an expense to move the building back. The Webb Realty Co. which is erecting the new block is anxious that it should be erected as soon as possible and it is a question if work commenced can be delayed even if city council is seeking to widen the street at this point. If it was absolutely certain that the city council would pass the order establishing the new building line some arrangement might be made where work could be held up a few weeks.

A hearing already has been ordered in relation to this matter but the hearing can not be held until June 7 and at least two weeks must elapse before an order can be put through city council after the hearing. This would necessitate holding up the work on the building until after the first of July.

It is doubtful if the contractor would be willing to delay his work until that time. On the other hand it is unfortunate that the council did not take up this matter earlier so that a building line could have been established before work was commenced on the foundation of the building.

PIGS HAVE VERY NARROW ESCAPE

One of the farm wagons of George Thayer, a Braintree farmer, came to grief on Chestnut street this morning and for a time it looked as though the half dozen full grown pigs being taken to market would have to be transferred to another wagon.

The wagon was driven down Cottage street, to avoid the Hancock street section which is being rebuilt and in turning on to Chestnut the front axle broke and the front of the wagon dropped down over a foot. The squealing of the pigs aroused the neighborhood and drew the nearby residents to the spot. Another set of front wheels were set after a short time and the pigs grunted their satisfaction.

TO SPEAK ON NEGRO

On next Sunday morning Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson will preach at the First Parish on "The Negro Problem in the South." For two years Mr. Hudson was the Billings lecturer in the South for the National association of his denomination, and had an opportunity to see and hear at first hand the facts of the case.

Such an opportunity coupled with his earlier training as a lawyer in hearng and weighing evidence, fit him to speak with considerable authority on this vexing and complicated problem in our national life.

MRS. MARY F. PERRY.

Mrs. Mary F. Perry, widow of Solon Perry, died Wednesday in Saxton River, Vermont, in her 75th year. The deceased was formerly Mrs. Richard W. Dexter of W. Quincy. One son survives her, Edward Dexter, of Ashmont formerly of Braintree. Her body will be brought to this city Friday for burial in West Quincy. Mrs. Perry was a charter member of Maple lodge K. YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB ENJOY MOCK TRIAL

Organization Votes to Join Federation of Women's Clubs

New members were voted into membership, several departures were made in the general program and a social hour during which a debate and a mock trial, featured the regular meeting of the Quincy Young Women's club at its Recreation Home in Adams Academy Wednesday evening.

President Minnie Packard presided at the meeting. The club voted to affiliate with the Quincy Federation of Womens club, and to join in the Federation's efforts to raise a fund to cover the cost of keeping the building open during the summer evenings for the benefit of members and friends It was also voted to keep the building open Sunday afternoons, commencing next Sunday. The lawn party, scheduled for June was postponed to early fall.

The Mock Trial, written by Miss Edith Mullen, was highly entertaining. The plot had to do with the far distant future. Women residents of an island who had never seen a man, until Miss Harriet Waterhouse, the only man in the case, was cast ashore with debris after a heavy storm The island council put the man on exhibition in a museum and passed a law forbidding any women to hold conversation with him. He had been imprisoned but a short time when Miss Maude Briggs was caught in the act and was immediately arrested.

Haled before the trial justice, Miss May Nyan, she was found not guilty, the government failing to prove its contentions. Miss Edith Mullen was counsel for the defendant. The plaintiff was Miss Ruth Dahl and the clerk of the court was Miss Blanche Hayden. The witnesses were the Misses Clara Hayden, Annie Lowe, Violet Spargo and May Opier. Many amusing situation developed.

Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann and Mrs. J. H. Emery, judges of the debate on the question, Resolved:—"A Woman Should Retain her Career after Marriage," made no decision. The affirmative was presented by Miss Helen Canty and Miss Blanche Hayden and the negative by Miss Hannah Litchfield and Miss Edith Mullen. All four made good points, both in presenting their conclusions and in their rebuttals.

McKay of the police department.

WHO WILL OPPOSE WILSON?

"Elihu Root as a Republican Presidential candidate would please me very much."

So spake William Howard Taft former President of the United States. Prof. Taft is not noted for his ability in picking winners and we have some doubt of Mr. Root's ability to win the election if he should be nominated. We have some doubt as to his ability as a vote getter, as a winner of popular support.

This is not to say that Mr. Root would not make an able President. Despite his advanced age we believe him to be the greatest statesman in the Republican party today. We believe he would make as good a President as any man living. We do not forget that the Colonel once made the remark that he would crawl up the steps of the White House on his hands and knees if Elihu Root or William Howard Taft could thereby be made President. Elihuu Root has served his country well but we feel that he considers his services ended, we do not believe he would be a candidate for the greatest office in the gift of the American people.

Who will be the Republican standard bearer? That is a question which only time can answer. That Woodrow Wilson will be the Democratic candidate seems to be practically certain. And further, it is certain that the Republicans must put up a strong man to beat him, a man who will be accepted by the detached Progressives.

Of all Republicans whose names have so far been mentioned none looms so tall as that of Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court. The G. O. P. would indeed be fortunate if he should consent to lead the fight in 1916. Other candidates have come and gone but Justice Hughes has steadily grown in the public estimation. He has lost nothing by the references made to him in the Barnes-Roosevelt trial at Syracuse.

But Hughes has firmly declined to be a candidate and it looks as if he meant it. He holds a position for which he is eminently fitted and in which he can do great service for the Republic. It will take an overwhelming demand to draw him from the calm grandeur of the greatest court in the world into the vortex of Presidential campaigning.

A DANGER SPOT.

The condition of Hancock street between Granite and School street is not conducive to safety. There is likely to be a bad accident some day unless great caution is observed. A police officer should be stationed at least on the Granite street end to regulate traffic and check speed maniacs before they dash through the narrow passage endangering their own lives and the lives of others. Automobiles and teams should not be permitted to stand near the curbing within the stretch of street under construction.

The declaration of Vice President Snyder of the Bethlehem Steel Co. that the owners of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation were ready and willing to make it one of the best plants of its kind in the United States must be good news to many in Quincy.

Nero's palace according to Prof. Coburn, had two elevators. Important if true. One perhaps was for going up and the other for coming down. Why did not the moderns think of that?

Man's delight at the thought of soon being able to shed his waistcoat is tempered by the prospective shortage of five pockets.

Philadelphia justifies its title of "The City of Brotherly Love" by ignoring the war long enough to seek the Olympic games for 1916.

Still, the children of Neptune would better be careful playing at marbles with the unexploded mines that come down.

Fighters of the dreadnought class in pugilism are also expensive to maintain.

As a mere physical task it should take Japan a century or two to swallow China.

"COPS" BADGE OF NO AVAIL

Free For All Fight At Base Ball Game

A free for all fight in which real blows were delivered, took place in the eighth inning of the base ball game between the Quincy and Campello street railway men at Merrymount Park. A truce was declared, several of the men who suffered bruised eyes went to see physicians, substitutes were put in and the game was finished with the best of feeling. The final score was Campello 10, Quincy 5.

The profanity of a visitor, after he was blocked sliding home by Cowe, the local catcher, is said to have been the cause of the rough house. Cowe, as soon as the fellow got to his feet, according to men who were in the game, landed a stiff punch on the visitor's jaw and was immediately attacked by other visitors. Local men went to his relief and for a minute Merrymount Park looked like a Belgian battlefield where the fight would be waged to a finish.

The umpire was a special police officer of Campello. He exhibited his badge when the fight started but was informed that even though Quincy was in the 14th congressional district his police powers were limited to his own city.

No one suffered severe injury during the melee but several black eyes are the souvenirs of the affray. The men parted in friendly spirit and another game will be played at Brockton.

FIRST GAME ON SATURDAY

The Fore River base ball team will open its schedule at Merrymount Park Saturday afternoon with the Norwood Civic club of Norwood as the opponents, and the local team is prepared to take a victory.

The first ball will be pitched by Pres. Joseph W. Powell of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation. The band of the company will also furnish a concert during the game, and will march from City Square to the park at the head of the local and visiting players.

Manager John S. Higgins of the team has not announced his lineup but is positive that his combination will be faster than the team of last season which was considered one of the best of the semi-professional organizations in the state. Joseph M. Larkin, president of the Manufacturers league with which the Fore River team is affiliated, within a few days will announce a complete schedule.

SISTERS SOCIETY PLANS PROGRAM

The Sisters' society of the Swedish Congregational church will give an entertainment at the church this evening. A program will be rendered by members of the society assisted by the church mixed choir and the male chorus. Refreshments will be served.

The affair is to raise money for the organ fund.

WILL CELEBRATE GLORIOUS FOURTH

An enthusiastic meeting of the chairmen of the different committies of the July Fourth Celebration association was held in the rooms of the Board of Trade, A. L. Whitman presiding in the absence of Mayor Campbell.

While the association much regrets that the City Council did not see its way clear to make an appropriation this year for the celebration it feels that the "Spirit of 76" is not dead in Quincy.

After an informal discussion it was voted to celebrate the Fourth this year. Details of the celebration will be more fully discussed in the near future. It is a safe bet to say that the association will hold a celebration this year although for financial reasons it will probably not be on as elaborate a scale as for the past few years.

It was voted to hold a general meeting Wednesday evening, May 12 at 8 o'clock and all interested in the celebration are invited to attend.

LIVELY TWO ACT COMEDY

"The Return of Deborah," presented Wednesday evening at Bethany chapel under the auspices of the Flower Ten of King's Daughters, proved to be a bright two act comedy with a laugh in nearly every line.

The cast:

Blossom Farrar — Mrs. Helena Diehl
Jane Thompkins — Gertrude Shaw
Sarah Thompkins — Jessie Pratt
Margaret Lawrence — Charlee Doble
Delia — Harriet Griffiths

The scene was laid in the sitting room of Jane Thompkins, a New England spinster. With her lived her sister Sarah, also a New England spinster but of a rather milder, more human sort than the strong minded head of the house and also their niece Margaret. Margaret promised her dying father to obey her aunts until she is of age. She is only eighteen and love, but the aunts, particularly the stern Aunt Jane, oppose the match. Therefore there are some tears in the first act.

Then arrives Blossom Farrar, possessed of a strong tendency to dramatics, a school girl chum of Margaret. Her breezy manner is decidedly unpleasing to the spinsters who refer to her as a "young person." Her slang is too fluent for them and they shun her company.

The household is ruled by Aunt Deborah, who has been dead 20 years but whose mode of life when she was among them is the rule and guide even now of the spinsters. A picture of Aunt Deborah looks down upon them from an easel against the wall.

Upon this situation Blossom bases her solution of the troubled romance of Margaret. Act two is laid in the same sitting room, the following night at eleven o'clock, the 20th anniversary of Aunt Deborah's death.

The spinsters hear a sigh, gaze toward the picture of Aunt Deborah, and to their horror the mouth moves and Aunt Deborah addresses them. Of course, in reality it is Blossom, but the spinsters are deeply impressed, particularly when Aunt Deborah comes down from the easel and talks to them. She tells them of her displeasure at their opposition to Margaret's marriage and orders them to consent, which they hasten to do. Margaret rushes out the door to her lover waiting with the license and the clock strikes twelve. Aunt Deborah returns to her easel and the play is over.

Miss Shaw was a strong minded Jane Thompkins, always stern and dignified. One quailed before her glance even in the safe refuge of the spectator's seats, toward which she looked now and then.

Miss Pratt gave a delightful impersonation of Sarah Thompkins, always easy, always natural, a spinster every bit of her but with more of the milk of human kindness in her makeup than her sister.

Miss Doble was an attractive and abused heroine. She would have melted any heart except the flinty one of her Aunt Jane. She took the part well.

Miss Griffiths was a great success in the part of Delia, the maid. Della was Irish, slangy, superstitious and devoted to the "poor lamb," Miss Margaret. She was good as Blossom Farrar, but portrait because the eyes rolled at her.

The principal role fell to Mrs. Diehl She was good as Blossom Farrar, but her best work was in the part of Aunt Deborah. Her voice, her manner, her expression were capital. She was easily the star of the piece.

The play was staged under the direction of Erastus Osgood. Mr. Osgood entertained with an original monologue which was decidedly clever and very amusing. He was a prime favorite with the audience and kept them in continual mirth. His "Visit to Mrs. Hawthorne's Musicale," was particularly enjoyed.

The program opened with a selection by the Nevin Quartette of Dorchester, composed of Mrs. Dorothy Baker, 'cello; Miss Gertude Tuttle, first violin; Miss Mildred Wheelwright, second violin; Miss Ruth H. Aborn, pianist. These talented young women entertained several times during the evening.

A delightful feature of the program was a solo by Miss Miriam Miller, who was so enthusiastically applauded that she had to respond with an encore.

MT. WOLLASTON CASTLE.

A regular meeting of Mt. Wollaston castle, Knights of King Arthur, was held Wednesday evening, at the Wollaston, M. E. church. After the routine business had been disposed of a social session was held by the Sir Knights. There was also a rehearsal of the degree work by the officers of the castle. There are several candidates waiting for initiation but the officers of the castle are delaying degree work until they have mastered the ritual. It is expected that initiations will be held in the very near future.

WILL RETURN TO WAR ZONE

Mr. and Mrs. Holden Leave For Paris

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Holden, who returned to Quincy from Paris, France, at the outbreak of the European war, are to return to Paris immediately. They have been staying in Quincy at the home of Mrs. Holden's mother, Mrs. Caroline A. Russell of Russell park and left today for New York from which port they sail on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Holden have been located in Paris for some years, where Mr. Holden has been in business. At the outbreak of the war he deemed it prudent to close up the business for a while and came to America to join Mrs. Holden who had been in this country for several months. When war was declared business in Paris fell off to nothing and there was much uncertainty as to the outcome. Many believed that the Germans would enter Paris and this in a great measure caused many to leave. Mr. Holden nailing an American flag across the door of his apartments set sail for America leaving everything behind.

After remaining a few weeks in Quincy Mr. and Mrs. Holden went to Chicago, where Mr. Holden was located before going to Paris. They returned from Chicago a few days ago.

Mr. Holden feels that the excitement over the possible entry of the Germans into Paris has subsided and now no one need have any fears in that respect. Advices from Paris are that business is assuming its normal condition and for this reason he feels that he should return and look after the interests of Spaulding & Co., of Chicago, as their representative in Paris.

HINKIES WIN

In the West Quincy Twilight League Wednesday evening the Hinkies defeated the Commons to the tune of 7 to 1. The battery for the winners was Egan and Gardiano and for the losers Gossekin and Saville. The feature of the game was the twirling of Egan the former Copeland star who fanned 16 of the Common batsmen. The game this evening will be between the Cubs and the Blue Hills.

HOLLY CLUB MEETS.

The Holly club, an organization of women of this city, met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Brown, 189 Whitwell street, Wednesday evening. A social hour followed the meeting, during which there was music and games. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lucy Brooks and Mrs. Mary McNiel. Refreshments were served.

MAY BASKET PARTY SUCCESS

A very successful May Basket party was held in the Wollaston Methodist church on Tuesday evening. Mrs. L. C. Merrill was in charge of the affair. Miss Maud Erickson of Cambridge sang "The Perfect Day" by Bond and "Goodbye, Summer" by Tosti, after which a sketch called "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" was given.

Mr. Charles Humphrey was "He." The first old sweetheart to appear in the window of his dreams was Betty, his little childhood chum, which part was taken by Miss Doris Lewis in sunbonnet and pinafore. There followed in succession Kate, the college girl who cheered for him and cried a bit when he was taken from the football field one day unconscious after a scrimage. Miss Florence Palmer was Kate.

Then there was Blanche whose part Miss Rose Anderson took. Blanche was the actress. Miss Marjorie Founds was Elizabeth, the Winter girl with whom "he" held hands for two hours on a piazza on a winter's night. Miss Marion Porter in the part of Clara was his summer girl. Jeanette, Miss Lucy Palmer, was the horsewoman. Miss Hilda Bailey was Helen, the Society girl who married another man and had difficulty in remembering "him" at her wedding. Miss Bessie Wilbur, Tegea, was the widow and finally there was Mary who had always lived on the same street with him and with whom he had always unconsciously compared these other sweethearts. Miss Beulah Collett in bridal finery took the person of Mary.

W. E. Robinson was the auctioneer. There was some objection made as to his having the position on the score that he had no license but with true auctioneer's wit he overcame the objection. At the end of the sale of baskets it was reported that the receipts had been $11.03. The maximum price of a basket was limited. After the luncheons had been eaten Miss Emma Walker of Norfolk Downs, played two violin selections. Miss Walker was accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Arvill Walker.

When he was unable to do so the officer arrested him. Mamdan pleaded guilty this morning.

William Stevenson, 47, brought his probation period to a close on the same offence by paying a fine og $10.

Judge Pratt, after hearing on the railing and brawling charges preferred against Mrs. Sadie Wood by Mrs. Tighe, both of Houghs Neck on Wednesday, continued the hearing to August 9.

AUXILIARY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Board of Foreign Mission of the Congregational church met in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. A. A. Lincoln, the president, called the meeting to order and called upon Mrs. Isaiah Sneath to lead the devotional service. Mrs. Sneath read a few words from the president of the Board of Foreign Missions and led in prayer.

As this was the annual meeting of the Auxiliary the reports of the year were read. In the secretary's report which was given by Mrs. George H. Murray it was stated that during the twenty seven years of the society it has had the same president and vice-president. The society has a membership of forty seven and an average attendance throughout the year of twenty-six.

Mrs. L. S. Bugbee gave the treasurer's report. The sum of $182.65 has been taken in during the year all of which has been turned over to the Norfolk and Pilgrim branch. Mrs. Murray reported for the junior missionary enterprises of the church all of which showed great activity and zeal for the work. Mrs. Charles Hutchinson told of the birthday pennies which had been brought in by the very little people of the Sunday School for the advancement of the cause.

The nominating committee brought in the following list of officers for the next year. For president, Mrs. A. A. Lincoln; for vice-president, Mrs. N. G. Nickerson; for secretary, Mrs. B. H. Bain; for treasurer, Mrs. L. S. Bugbee and for the advisory board, Mrs. Sneath, Mrs. Tenney and Mrs. Farwell.

Mrs. Lincoln spoke in glowing terms of the work of Mrs. George H. Murray who is soon to move to Milwaukee. A rising expression of appreciation was given Mrs. Murray.

Miss Buckley, the secretary of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, gave a lecture on the Golden Anniversary fund. The lecture was illustrated by some unusually beautiful stereopticon slides which showed the rich colors of the tropical lands where the gospel is being preached because of the work and devotion of those in Christian lands.

In 1917 the Board will be fifty years old and at that time it is expected that there will be a fund amounting to $250,000 to help further the work of God in heathen lands. Miss Buckley told of the consecrated life and service of Mrs. Edwards among the Zulu girls of Inanda. For forty seven years Mrs. Edwards has been mother, teacher, doctor, nurse, cook, housekeeper and gardener in her school and now she needs $20,000 to enlarge her school to meet the demands that are made upon it by changing conditions. This Golden Anniversary fund will supply it.

The work among the girls in Japan under the leadership of Miss Cornelia Judson was spoken of. There are centres of missionary work in both Northern and Southern China. It has been said and with truth that the future of China depends upon the American trained Chinese. Little girls sometimes walk thirty miles in a day to be at the opening of these missionary schools.

The work in poverty stricken Turkey is very important. The picture of the first and only school which has been built by Golden Anniversary money was thrown on the screen.

In India although the hospitals are doing a wonderful work with the facilities they have, it is said that nine tenths of the women and children are beyond medical help. The government of India has put its stamp of approval upon the work in India by offering Dr. Parker $16,000 for a new hospital.

The principle things which are taught in the schools are sewing and cooking and how to be good mothers and housekeepers.

At the close of the program a social hour was enjoyed. Tea and cake were served.

TENNIS TEAM IS PRACTICING

The members of the tennis team of Quincy High school are all tuned up for meeting the Melrose High team Friday on the courts of the Quincy Tennis club. The local team has showed up well in practice and appear to be stronger than a year ago.

Carl Pfaffman has been playing well and is a close rival to Arthur Favreau, junior interscholastic champion. Both will play in the singles and the third place lies between Lincoln Crosscup and Fred Rasmussen.

Capt. Willard Crocker, unless he shows a big improvement today, will not play in the singles but will probably play in the doubles with Favreau. Crocker has not entirely recovered from injuries suffered in the base ball and basket ball season. A match today between Crocker and Favreau vs Pfaffmann and Moore will determine which team will play first doubles. Thomas Barstow is not available at present because of an injury. Barstow stepped into a hole playing base ball and cut his head in falling against a rock.

Melrose is also said to be in fine condition and its palyers are eager for the fray. The final makeup of their team is undecided as yet, due to keen competition.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

The meetings held lately in Quincy by the people interested in woman suffrage and by those who are against this new movement, testify to the interest of our people in this burning question. One of the latest books on the subject is "Woman Suffrage, History, Arguments, and Results," edited by Frances M. Bjorkman and Annie G. Porritt, which the library has received as a gift from the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association. This book is divided into seven chapters, which are by various writers. The first chapter is a history of the movement in the United States, by Ida Husted Harper, in which she goes back as far as the year 1847. The fourth chapter by our well known social worker, Jane Addams, answers the question "Why women should vote?" Answers to objections to woman suffrage will be found in the sixth chapter, by Alice Stone Blackwell. The book "covers practically the entire field of suffrage claims and evidence" and is "designed especially for the convenience of suffrage speakers and writers and for the use of debaters and libraries."

Another book which has woman for its subject is "Woman Under the Law." by Alvah L. Stinson, a Quincy man. We have two copies, one of which was presented by the author. This book is a comprehensive study of the "rights, privileges, and disabilities of women under the law." Among the subjects considered are marriage settlements, breach of promise, separate property of married women, courtesy, divorce, separation by agreement, and alimony.

A third book about woman is that by Edith Abbott, called "Women in Industry." This is the result of an analysis of recent census statistics dealing with the employment of women. It is a study in American economic history, and deals with the five following industries: cotton, boots and shoes, cigar-making, clothing, and printing. The establishment of the factory system, the problem of women's wages, and public opinion inregard to the working woman are among the other important subjects discussed.

MEN'S MISSION AT ST. JOHN'S

Father Jones of the Redemptorist Mission Fathers, preached an eloquent sermon on "Judgment" at the services for the men at St. Johns church Wednesday evening. Fr. M. J. Owens, pastor, celebrated the Benediction. The musical portion was rendered by a men's choir, with Arthur Holmes and Adolph Restelli as soloists. Confessions were heard Wednesday and there were a large number of communicants at the masses at five and eight o'clock this morning. Confessions are being heard daily, morning, afternoon and evening. The services are commencing at 7.30, half an hour earlier than at the beginning of the mission.

The first quarterly conference of the Wollaston M. E. church will be held at the church Friday evening. On the occasion of the conference Rev George M. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey will give a reception to the governing board.

BETHANY UNION ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting and May breakfast of the Bethany Women's Union was held Wednesday in the lower vestry of the church and was the occasion of an unusually large attendance due in a measure to the fact that this was the last church function which Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Willmott will attend.

At 12.30 a lunch was served by the supper committee which was open to the public on the payment of a small fee and upwards of 150 partook of the very appetizing lunch which had been prepared by the members of the union.

The annual business meeting of the union at which officers were elected for the ensuing year was held immediately following the lunch. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. Franklin P. Horton.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. Ernest L. Collins and Mrs. John F. Welch.

Secretary—Mrs. George E. Adams.

Treasurer—Mrs. Charles W. Guy.

Committee Chairmen:—

Sewing—Mrs. George A. Sidelinger.

Missionary—Mrs. Charles W. Miller.

Membership—Mrs. A. L. Melcher

Welcoming—Mrs. H. Everett Crane.

Hospitality—Mrs. E. Livingston.

Boys' Work—Mrs. Jonathan S. Swingle.

Home Culture—Mrs. Edwin I. Beal.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers:—

Immediately following the election Rev. Mr. Willmott was introduced and spoke briefly in farewell. In opening he said that he desired to thank the members individually for the hearty co-operation which they had given him during his pastorate. He also paid a tribute to Mrs. H. Everett Crane who has filled the office of president for the past four years. He said that he felt sorry to break off the close friendships which he had formed during his pastorate of Bethany church and although going to a new field of labor he should always remember the happy years spent with Bethany church. Mrs. Willmott was also present at the meeting but did not speak.

Following the remarks of Rev. Mr. Willmott, reports of the retiring officers were read and accepted. These reports showed that the organization had been particularly active during the past year which has been most successful in every way.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Amy Ford Everall, superintendent of the Lancaster school for girls. Mrs. Everett spoke interestingly of the work of the school and what it was trying to do in the way of reforming wayward girls.

The luncheon which was served was in charge of Mrs. Frank F. Prescott, Mrs. Charles W. Guy and Mrs. A. L. Melcher.

The Wollaston Woman's Christian Temperance union is to hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank J. Collett of West Squantum street, Montclair. The subject is to be "Mother's Day."

Tree Notes

The Forestry committee of the Quincy Women's club has prepared the following article about trees, and tree pests and their treatment.

WHY PLANT TREES.

They add value to adjacent property; protect from the hot sun; add beauty and comfort to street and they cool the air in the summer and radiate warmth in winter.

WHERE TO PLANT TREES.

Plant 35 to 40 feet apart in good soil. Dig a pit three feet square by three and a half feet deep. Replace the sand and stones by good top soil mixed with well-rotted manure. See that the best soil is near the roots.

HOW TO PLANT TREES.

Dig the hole large enough to take the roots without crowding. Cut off broken and injured roots with a sharp knife. Make a clean cut. Trim back the top to counterbalance the loss of roots. See that the earth is pressed firmly around the roots to hold the tree in place. Water thoroughly.

TREES TO PLANT.

Trees for general street planting should be nursery grown. These have compact root system, straight stems and symmetrical tops, and are accustomed to transplanting. Only a few varieties of trees do well in the city. Among these the Norway Maple, American Elm, European Linden, Ash and Sycamore or Plane trees are easily the leaders. Do not plant Poplars or silver Maples. They are short-lived, clog the sewer pipes, raise the sidewalks and topple over in storms. The Silver Maples also harbor borers.

REMEMBER

That the tree is like a mill that runs itself.

The raw materials it uses are the minerals from the soil and the gases from the air.

The leaves are the machinery that take charge of the raw material and make it into the finished product, sap, that goes to feed every part of the tree.

The sunlight is the power that runs the machinery.

The waste products of this mill that the leaves send off into the air are the very things that we human beings need most, oxygen to breathe and moisture.

Do you know of any other manufactory that runs itself, furnishes its own materials and gives away its products to bless and brighten the world?

That trees are the oldest living inhabitants on the face of the globe? That there are trees living now in California that were already one thousand years old when Columbus discovered America?

That a full-grown tree sends out 187 gallons of water a day through its leaves into the air? Think what a difference that makes in hot, dry weather.

That Massachusetts is a Pine growing state.

That you can get Pine tree-lots from Amherst Agricultural College for six dollars a thousand? Land reforested in this way will in ten years' time yield good returns.

ART AND ARTS AND CRAFTS.

The Art and the Arts and Crafts committee have attempted much and accomplished little. We have been ready and willing to form the classes which were such a success financially and otherwise last year and early in the season announcements were frequently made that we were ready and anxious to begin work. The response was so small (only four sending in their names) that any class this year was impossible.

The Exchange has been a success under the able management of Mrs. Andrews and her efficient committee. At Christmas this committee purchased and prepared scrap-books for the amusement of little children convalescing at the Quincy Hospital at that time.

We have continued the annual subscription of $10 towards the running expenses of the Museum of Fine Arts. The tickets sent for the free use of club members have been a source of pleasure to many.

To the Free Kindergarten of Wollaston we have contributed two gifts, one of $10 and the other of $40 a total of $50.

Having an opportunity to purchase a loom for the weaving of rugs and portieres at a most attractive price we did so and have presented it to the club that any member may use it when she desires.

Jan. 5 was Art and Arts and Crafts day and Miss Martha Shannon talked on American Art, illustrating her talk by stereopticon slides. She was most pleasing and instructive.

A detailed report of the financial condition of the Art and this committee has been turned over to the treasurer.

May 1914 cash on hand	$55.58
Profit from Exchange	9.34
Club for Speaker	35.00
	$99.92
Expenses, Speaker, gifts, etc.,	$89.58
	$9.34

What success we have had is due to the hearty co-operation and willingness of the members of the Committee and good friends, and I take this opportunity of thanking you all.

Anna Whitman Homer, Chairman.

CIVIC COMMITTEE.

Owing to adverse conditions the Civic committee regrets that it has not accomplished much of real importance. Early in the fall four money prizes amounting to $10 were awarded to school children winning the contest for "best gardens." The happy winners were Newton Lodge $3; Victor Brown $3; Rachel Mastur $2; and Earl Cath $2.

Throughout the fall the efforts of the committee were turned toward cleaning up the sanitary conditions of the railroad station as in the previous year. Many interviews were held with various officials, but we succeeded only in having the toilet painted and varnished.

The committee wanted to hire a woman at its own expense who would daily clean up the station, but owing to certain rules and regulations of the road the request was refused. However through the investigation instigated by the committee means have been taken to keep the station in a much cleaner condition than formerly.

Through the efforts of this committee in February the public was given the pleasure of listening to Prof. William Jay Hudson of Missouri, who lectured on the peace question.

In April the Civic Conference held an all day session in Wollaston, the Civic committee taking charge. Many questions of vital interest and help to the clubs were brought up, thereby greatly benefiting the many delegates present as well as ourselves.

This committee also donated $25 to the Massachusetts Fields school for their playground and $25 to the Wollaston school.

Martha A. Badger, Chairman.

CUSTODIANS REPORT.

Number of guests during year ending May 4, 1915, 928; largest number, 346 at the dramatics at Music hall, Feb. 16; next, 312, at lecture by John Kendrick Bangs. At the musical, March 2, there were 67, with 62 attending the Hubbard opera talk Dec. 15.

Some of the states represented by guests, were, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Connecticut, Iowa, West Virginia, New York, and several from New Brunswick, and one from England.

The year's receipts were:

Guest tickets.	$161.55
Fines,	3.40
Year book,	.10
	$165.05

The receipts from the Bangs lecture went to the Education committee, so does not appear in this report.

Katherine S. Jameson, Chairman.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE

This committee has completed another interesting year. As last year, we again had a course of six wonderfully instructive talks on Current Events, conducted by Mrs. Leila C. Pennock. Mrs. Pennock makes the live topics of the day read like a romance and while the subject of war does not exactly seem a fitting one for romantic reading, Mrs. Pennock so clearly set before us the causes leading up to and precipitating the war, that her talks had really unusual educational value. So too, in reviewing ther affairs of the day, she always left us much enlightened.

Our other big event was the lecture by John Kendrick Bangs. You all know how entertaining that proved, and how the thought was left with us that there was no finer thing a person could be than a Salubrity.

The club as a whole has done such splendid work along educational lines that the achievements of this committee may perhaps seem small by comparison—but we have "blazed the trail" for our successors who will find a wide path opened to them.

The financial report of the committee is as follows:

Bangs lecture		$78.00
C. E. tickets		34.00
		$112.00
Mrs. Pennock	$50.00
Use of Vestry	18.00
Rent of chairs	1.75
		69.75
		$42.25

Kate B. Keyes, Chairman

HOUSE COMMITTEE

In the absence of the chairman of the House committee, I will say that we have had three meetings in the Unitarian church and two in the new parish house; 5 in the Park and Downs church; 1 in St. Chrysostoms new parish house; 2 in Wollaston School hall, and 1 at Music hall, Quincy. After the very enthusiastic vote by this club, to meet in the new Masonic Temple, this committee was authorized to confer with Mayor Campbell but the building not being near enough to completion he advised the committee to wait until we could get inside the building that we might talk more intelligently. We have planned to meet the Mayor in June, at which time we shall try and attend to every detail regarding the convenience for this club.

Rosa B. Nickerson for Mrs. W. E. Rowe, chairman

HOSPITALITY COMMITTEE

It hardly seems as though a year had gone by since the last report of the Hospitality committee was read, especially as our work has been just about the same as last year. We had $50 allowed us in the fall for the teas and decorations and have served six teas with a separate amount for Reciprocity day. We have tried to send flowers to those we knew were sick. Out of $50 we have returned $26.50 to the treasurer who will pay for today's tea. We prepared and served a luncheon for 25 guests at the Federation convention and coffee to as many more.

We held a committee meeting and decided to send for a case of chocolate and sell it among ourselves as we wanted to present the club with some small gift.

If the Hospitality committee has in any way been a success the past two years, it is because the club as a whole have so kindly helped, and we wish to thank you.

May Witham Thompson, Chairman

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics committee had charge of the club dance given October 30. The decorations were unusually attractive but unfortunately the orchestra failed to put in an appearance but late in the evening were able to obtain local musicians. Mr. Poole being willing to correct his mistake, the committee issued invitations to all who bought tickets, to attend a dance Nov. 20 for which Mr. Poole furnished an orchestra of ten pieces, the other expenses being paid by our committee. On March 29, the committee gave a special afternoon at which Mrs. Miller of the William Filene Company spoke on ""Planning the Budge." Members enjoyed not only the lecture but the social time following. Tea was served by the committee. In view of the fact that we enter our new quarters in the fall, we are today presenting the club with two tablecloths, embroidered with the club monogram, and 30 dozen gold band plates to match the cups and saucers. We hope the club will take as much pleasure in the use of these gifts as their first Home Economics committee have taken in earning and presenting them.

Bessie M. Short, Chairman

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

The Legislative report the following A class of 19 was organized for the study of parliamentary law under Mrs. Electa Sherman. They were also responsible for the program of April 20. The chairman presented the bills, which were endorsed by the Federation at Somerville to the Executive Board for endorsement and asked that they be recommended to the club for endorsement which plan was carried out. The committee has tried to do what it could by asking people to attend hearings and influence legislators to work for them.

M. H. Stevens, Chairman.

LITERATURE COMMITTEE.

In the month of October 1914 our committee joined with a committee from the Quincy Women's club, and officiated one afternoon as hostesses at the Food Fair in Mechanic building, Boston, and served tea to ladies from the Federated clubs who attended. April 6 we had charge of the regular meeting of the club and Elizabeth Helena Soule gave a very interesting lecture "A Trip to the Bottom of the Sea." As special guests we had the children from the seventh and eighth grades of both the Massachusetts Fields school and Wollaston. At the Civic conference in April our committee assisted the Hospitality committee. Although we havn't been able to get a branch library in Wollaston because of lack of funds, we believe the time is rapidly approaching when conditions will be changed and we will be the next district to receive a permanent branch.

Ada J. Barber, Chairman.

MUSIC COMMITTEE.

The work of the Music committee has this year progressed much on the same plan as that of last. Talent has been provided for nine regular meetings, also gentlemen's night; five new soloists having appeared during the season. Our aim has been to give good music each time. With the means at our disposal it was not always possible to secure the highest grade artists and the committee also deemed it wise to encourage younger artists needing experience.

March 2, the entire program was furnished by the Glee club with the assistance of Walter E. Loud. The work of the chorus has been very satisfactory. While fewer in numbers this year, yet the interest and enthusiasm of each member has kept up its high standard attained in 1914 and the treasurer's books showed a small balance on hand. In January the chorus gave the opera Priscilia assisted by well known artists, an orchestra, members of the Men's Glee club and others. Many lovely things were said about the performance which were greatly appreciated by the committee for oh!—the many weary rehearsals, when things would go wrong, should one kneel with the right foot or the left and how should one balance, and then the awful period of ticket selling. It's very strange how many people dislike to ask others to buy tickets. But we had a decided success musically and the small proceeds turned over to the club to be used for Charitable purposes.

The committee realized however that providing music for each meeting, a concert or two was onl ypartly fulfilling its mission. In a small village like Wollaston there are many lovers of music strangers to each other. We have endeavored to bring them together socially, thus getting ideas and neutral help.

One other line that club members in general may be unaware of is this—A list of musicians has been kept, who wish to either teach, sing or play and this list has been called upon by four different societies.

Early in the season an invitation to join classes in Listening to Music was given. Unfortunately either the enthusiasm of the committee was too lukewarm or the financial conditions induced by the war too serious—for not enough responded to form the class.

There is an urgent need for an orchestra of both men and women, capable of doing first class work. This in time we believe could be self supporting and we trust the incoming chairman will be able to do something in this direction.

Our committee has suffered a loss in the passing or of Mrs. Amos Leavitt. A thorough musician, she always gave generously of her strength, time and enthusiasm. Her last work was probably what she did for our opera.

We leave to the new committee a flourishing chorus and the earnest desire that they may enjoy the work as we have done.

Florence G. Olney, Chairman

PROGRAM COMMITTEE.

Article 2 of the by laws say, "The object of this club shall be to broaden and strengthen the moral, social and intellectual life of its members, and through them make itself a power for good in the community."

We look back over the year 1914-1915 and ask what progress has been made to promote the object for which we are organized. The work of the past year shows advancement along these lines, and we are proud of it.

We must count it first by the stimulus given by the year's program, which, while not a study program, covered those subjects which made for our development in music, art, drama, philosophy, literature, social science, conservation of child labor, beside many of the deep problems of the day.

To many of our club members the program is most important and as a whole it was satisfactory.

Our opening meeting in October was made up principally of State Federation reports from the Worcester Conference and a few words of greeting from our president.

An exceptional dramatic treat was enjoyed Tuesday, October 20, when Elizabeth Pooler Rice presented the historical old English play "Friend Hannah," the romance of a Prince and a Quaker maid, in which is set forth the tenderness and constancy of a great love.

The play in itself is most charming and when presented by such a skilful artist as Mrs. Rice, the dramatic possibilities of the production were accentuated.

Her portrayal of the heroine of the play, Hannah, was particularly dainty, while the other characters, many of whom are familiar to history, including King George III, were also strongly delineated.

At the request of the Program Committee Mrs. Ropes was persuaded to give one of her delightful travel talks. "Under Italian Skies," was ably presented, illustrated by many beautiful and unusual views most of which were the results of the artistic use of the speaker's own camera. Mrs. Ropes gave an interesting account of the trip across first stopping at the Azores, then Gibralter with its wonderful Fortress and signal station, Algiers with its narrow streets and peculiar houses and the old Arab quarters, the life and customs of the people.

The beautiful bay of Naples to which the worshippers of nature from all lands have come to render homage to its matchless shores; few spots on earth awaken such absorbing interest Not one surpasses it in beauty.

Venice the city of silence remains unique. Pomeii Capri and the blue Grotto, Sorento, and the wonderful drive to Amalfi, was all told in a charming manner and held the undivided attention of a large audience.

I feel that the club owes Mrs. Ropes a very large vote of thanks for giving two very delightful afternoons without expense to the club.

Dec. 15, Mr. Havrah Hubbard of the Boston Opera Co., assisted by Floyd Baxter at the piano gave a wonderful recital of the Opera Lohengrin the story of the Holy Grail. The entire program was one of unusual artistic beauty and the absolute sympathetic accord of the artists met the response of an appreciative audience.

April 19, the Annual President's day was celebrated.

The broadening influence of the work of the State Federation was touched upon in a few inspiring words by Mrs. Leila C. Pennock, Vice President of the Massachusetts State Federation and the guest of honor following Mrs. Pennock, Prof. Homer B. Hulbert for 20 years in the employ of the Korean government and a personal advisor of the Emperor of Korea, related the naked facts in regard to the extinction of Korea's national life as an eye witness of and participator in many of these events he has a story to tell which probes to the centre of the whole question of Japan's ambitions and the methods by which those ambitions are attained. The whole question as to the future of the Pacific basin comes under review, and he gave facts which enabled the listener to reach a definite conclusion to at least some of the points at issue. Mr. Hulbert is an ardent advocate of peace, and proposes to show how that end can best be attained.

The crowded house at the Club Dramatics on Feb. 16 attested to the interest in our own club talent.

"The Pied Piper of Hamlin," was splendidly given, with its attractive setting, its quaint and becoming costumes, the details of which were so carefully carried out by Miss Theodora Luard in charge of the play and Mrs. H. J. Gurney as coach.

On March 16, Mr. Arthur Kachel, a master of the platform art entertained a large audience by his exquisite and sympathetic rendering of "The Music Master," the distinctness of the various characters, each portrayed with an appreciative understanding of human nature and showing the finest touches of interpretation.

The beautiful central character, Herr Von Berwig lives before you struggling through the appealing vicissitudes of his career, pathetically concealed, of a proud spirit courageously hopeful, of a broken heart, forgetful of self and working for the comfort and pleasure of others, builds up a character so lovingly rich in human sympathy and strong with an understanding of human experience it makes one feel that the "Music Master," is living his triumphant life of sorrow and, no! not of failure but success, there on the platform before you.

Mr. Squires was the official photographer of the triumphal Pilgrimage to South America with the Boston Chamber of Commerce making what is probably the largest private collection of pictures yet brought from the land of the Southern Cross.

The delegation headed by Henry L Kincaide President, of Quincy traveled sixteen thousand miles, visiting seven South American Republics and three of the British West Indies.

With many, the desire to look into the obscure, the unexpected, and places difficult of access, this lecture penetrates the high barriers which nature has piled up against easy travel.

The picture of the Oroya R. R. 15,856 feet above sea level and the supreme achievment of engineering skill, the rich tin mines, precious metal deposits, and native life are pregnant with suggestion. This line of travel is over the high Andees, Borax Lakes, down to the coast.

Mayor and Mrs. Campbell, Col. and Mrs. Henry Kincaide were the guests of honor.

Children's day was happily observed April 24 and was a source of great delight to the parents as well as the children.

This is the merriest day of the year, when life turns backward in its flight and we all review with one accord the pleasures of youth.

The entertainment consisted of a story hour by Miss Edith Randall of Quincy illustrated by radiopticon. Ice cream and cake was served, after which dancing was enjoyed under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Corlew.

A course of five Opera talks by Mr. Hubbard, assisted by Floyd Baxter, pianist. The course included "La Boheme," "Mornna Vanna," "Die Meistersinger," Ototto and Parsifal.

These talks have become a strong factor in the musical education of our members, in addition to being most instructive and entertaining, netted the club treasury a substantial sum, beside $25. which was given the Mass. Field School to be used for supervising the summer playground.

So much for a varied program rounded out by the work of your program committee.

Great credit is due our president for the efficient and fair minded manner in which she has performed the exacting duties of her office and the loyal support given this committee.

To the members of my co-workers on the program committee, the chairman wishes to tender her sincere appreciation for their help and support cheerfully given at all times.

We may well feel proud of the work accomplished, the achievements won, the unity and loyalty of club members, and with satisfaction point to the word progress, inspiring us to greater mutual helpfulness.

D. A. Safford, Chairman.

PRESS COMMITTEE.

In making a final report for the year I would say there have been 54 notices sent to the Boston papers of regular meetings and coming events and 26 each to the Quincy Ledger and Telegram and 14 have been sent to the Third Hill Searchlight. This does not include innumerable telephone calls both to Boston and Quincy and 3 special reports sent to the Boston Sunday Herald and nine to each of the Quincy papers. When you have searched diligently through the papers and have found nothing relative to the last meeting, I hope you have not thought hard things about your press committee for I assure you notices have been sent each week and it as not been your committee's fault if they have not always appeared and many times it is hard to recognize them when they have appeared.

Besides reports which have been sent to the papers 5 copies of the Third Hill Searchlight, containing the account of the conference which Mr. Prescott kindly gave us have been sent to the speakers of the day. I have several copies which could be sent away if I had the addresses of the other speakers.

I wish to thank all my committee and all the chairmen of other committees who have assisted me. We are all deeply indebted to Mrs. Burrell for the report of the club luncheon which will be in the Searchlight on Friday. It will be a full account of the luncheon with the toasts and responses. I am sure every member will wish to purchase a Searchlight this week.

I wish to thank our president Mrs. Ropes for the great help and inspiration she has been to me. In the coming year I shall be very glad to assist the new Press chairman in any way that I can. I thank you all for the privilege of serving you.

Mrs. Oscar L. Baker, Chairman.

SOCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

In presenting my second report I wish to express my appreciation for the help given by members of my committee and the club, for without your co-operation it would have been impossible to have carried on the work.

In July 1914 clothing and shoes were collected and packed at the home of Mrs. A. L. Baher. Thirteen boxes and five barrels were sent to the Salem sufferers.

The rent for a worthy family in Wollaston was paid for 6 months from June until Dec. 1914, since then we were able to get the Mother's Aid which includes the rent.

Oct. 20 was Donation day when jellies, fruits, preserves and 75 cents in money were contributed by club members and sent to the Visiting Nurse and Miss Purchase for the sick and needy in our city.

In November the mother of the family on Safford street went to our City Hospital for an operation. During her illness the ladies sent cooked food and aided the children in various ways. At Thanksgiving a bountiful dinner was furnished them by a local girls club.

December 1 Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney gave us a delightful afternoon, her subject being "The Quest of Romance."

Dec. 21, the chairman of this committee had charge of the annual Christmas party at the city home. The Quincy Women's club, the Squantum and Riverside clubs co-operating in the work. We were given the use of the dining room and piano and were able to give the old people a delightful program, including vocal solos by Miss Carolyn Lewis, accompanied by Miss Helen Seavey, readings by Mrs. A. P. Thompson, whistling solos by Mrs. Aylmes Hatch and Miss Edith Randall entertained in a humorous manner. After the exercises, ice cream and home made cake were served and each inmate was presented a Christmas box of candy and the men were also given cigars.

Shoes and toys were provided for poor children in Wollaston at this time. A real Christmas, including a tree, turkey and many gifts was furnished a mother and her four children in our midst. During the winter months considerable coal was purchased for needy families. At the dramatics in February this committee cleared thirty dollars from the sale of candy.

In March there seemed to be much sickness among children a little boy six years old having pneumonia where we provided some nourishing food etc. A little eight year old girl who has no mother was very ill and required good nursing. She was taken to Mrs. Lydia Beaulieu in West Quincy where she received excellent care at $5 a week This committee paid the board for two weeks and bought necessary clothing, from a lady we received five dollars to pay the board for a third week. After this the child was returned to her home. The following letter from the father may be of interest to the club members.

Dear Madam:—I wish to thank you and the ladies of your club for the great kindness and generous help given my little girl during her sickness. The way American ladies care for children and old ladies is just splendid."

This committee worked on bandages and hospital supplies for the Belgians and much work was accomplished. Glasses have been provided for a worthy man in our vicinity and plans are being perfected to give a young girl a course in dressmaking thus fitting her for some useful work in life.

People having knowledge of the work we are trying to do have been most helpful and we gratefully acknowledge the following gifts:

King's Daughters Union from Mrs. Rope's lecture, $5.75; Club member for Visiting Nurse, $2.50; Thanksgiving dinner from girl's club; books, clothing and toys at Christmas, also sled for a little boy; turkey and large box of groceries from a gentleman in Wollaston; coal from Charitable society; 1 ton of furnace coal from Wollaston gentleman; $5.00 from a lady for 1 week's board for a little girl; $15 from friends for family on Safford street; Money earned and contributed, $118.00 Paid for Charity including rent 114.50

Cash on hand	$3.50

In conclusion, let each member of this club try to give the glad hand and the encouraging word to the downhearted. Leave a memory of your kindness behind you wherever you go. You may not know the result but rest assured it will do its work like a sunbeam that burns through a dismal cloud. Give and it shall be returned to you a hundred fold. This does not mean alms—but, the gift of self. Get busy and keep busy! "Surely they of

IS IT YOUR KIDNEYS?
Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Quincy Citizen Gives a Valuable Hint.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is where danger often lies. You should realize that these troubles often lead to dropsy or Bright's Disease. An effective remedy for weak or diseased kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the experience of a resident of Quincy who has tested Doan's.

C. P. Russell, 37 Washington street, Quincy, says: "My kidneys were weak and acted irregularly. I also suffered from pains in my back. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the first box relieved me. I intend to continue taking this medicine."

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Milton base ball fans never witnessed a better game than the one played Wednesday afternoon on the Academy field between the Academy and High school teams, which resulted in a victory for the private school by the score of 2-1.

The game was a pitcher's battle practically the whole way through and was undecided up to the very end. Neither team scored until the third inning when the High school team made its only run. Parsons was on second with "Jimmy" Parks at the bat. Jimmy cracked out a dandy single and knocked in Parsons for the sole and only run.

In the fifth inning Trainer, the Academy center fielder, knocked out a single. Faxon, the Quincy boy, was passed by Reiser. Trainer stole third and when "Jimmy" Parks tried to put him out at third he made a wild throw so that Trainer made the Academy's first run. Faxon attempted to steal home but was put out. In the sixth Lincoln, the smallest man on the winning team, made a dandy double which resulted in a home run. This wonderful play caused the stands to go wild and the small batter was lifted off his feet and carried to the bench.

In the final inning Capt. Reiser got to first on a single. Mitchell was put in as a pinch hitter with two down and Reiser on third. As fate would have poor "Mitch" fanned and the big game of the year resulted in a victory for the Academy.

The Belcher School association met Tuesday evening in the school hall with a small attendance. In the absence of president and vice president, Frank Fanning of the school board was elected temporary chairman. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Helen Holt and much enjoyed.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Mabel E. Turner, director of school gardening in the public schools. She gave a brief history of school gardens and said that even in 500 B. C. there were school gardens. In 1814 Germany estabiished school gardens in all her schools. Sweden and Austria then followed and today Austria is the leader. In France, since 1859, no school is recognized unless it has a garden. Every school in Russia has a school garden and in 1890 England first took an interest in this part of the pupils' education. But it was not until 1890 that Switzerland and Canada established these gardens for the sole purpose of education.

Although the United States did not actually engage in this work until 1891, in 1691 John Fox gave a plot of land to Philadelphia for this purpose. The first actual school garden in this country was established in Boston in 1891 and since that time rapid strides have been taken.

Miss Turner then presented 75 slides on the screen which were of much interest to the audience, especially those of the Milton gardens.

Following the lecture refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the Misses Ernesta Libby, Edith Cross, Marion Stocker and Mildred Hollidge.

The Woodsum class of the First Baptist church are to have as their guests Friday evening the Davis class of the Calvary Baptist church, South Quincy. Both clases have been engaging in a membership contest the last three months and the Quincy class came out far in the lead. The usual banquet will be served after which Ex-governor Eugene N. Foss will speak on "National Prohibition."

BUY IT NOW MOVEMENT

We print below the spirit of the times "Buy It Now," as recommended by the New York Evening Journal. The "Buy It Now" spirit, if practiced by everyone will keep every factory running every day, from coast to coast regardless of the European war.

TO THE MERCHANTS.

READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS—ACQUAINT YOURSELF WITH THE PRICE OF THE THING YOU NEED OR WANT AND BUY IT NOW.

(Copyright, 1915, Star Company.)

In the last eight months the merchants of this country have made extraordinary efforts to buy cheaply that they might sell cheaply. The fact that the demand for certain kinds of American-made goods is now confined to America, has enabled dealers to secure better prices and to make better prices. This is especially true of many high-priced articles—pianos, automobiles, furniture, carpets, silverware—things that in most households are regarded as luxuries, to be secured only after careful saving.

The time to buy things of this kind is now. You will be surprised when you talk to your dealer about them, at the saving you can effect. This kind of saving is real saving—scientific saving—the kind of saving that brings dividends to great and successful business corporations.

Money kept in a stocking or in a bank is useless money—useless because it is wholly non-productive. It can be employed now, when prices are low, to very good advantage. It is to encourage people to do this that the "Buy It Now" movement was set on foot. This movement is already making tremendous headway. People are beginning to realize that it is better to pay $100 for a $150 article today than to wait a year and pay $150 for it.

Buyers who visit the stores and compare the prices now quoted with those of a year ago are convinced that now is the time to buy intelligently. It is perfectly apparent to everyone that the trend of prices is now upward. In six months they will be considerably higher. In a year they will be very much higher. This is true of everything the householder needs, as well as of luxuries.

The piano that is so important to the enjoyment of the family and to the education of the children can be bought today for more cheaply than it could have been bought last year, or than it can be bought next year. How profitably you can buy other articles you will find in the advertisements. You can afford things today that you may not be able to afford in another year. If you are making a fair income, you cannot afford not to do your buying now.

Talk to your grocer, your provision dealer, the clerks in the department stores, to merchants in every line. Read carefully the advertisements. They tell a very remarkable story, one which it is to your interest to know. Help your own pocketbook. "Buy It Now."

The wheels of industry will soon be running overtime. Prices will advance rapidly. This country is at the beginning of an era of prosperity such as it has never known. All it needs to bring it immediately is confidence, and confidence ought to be universal in this country. It has made many fortunes. It will not fail to benefit you. Join the movement that will make prosperity immediate.

Buy It Now.

WOLLASTON CLUB ANNUAL.

many blessings should scatter blessings round, as laden boughs in Autumn fling their ripe fruit to the ground." Live to the fulness of today and tomorrow—well, tomorrow is another day and you can only live one day at a time.

Frances Gertrude Adams, Chairman

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE.

We have had the exchange open at ten meetings of the club and sold 176 dozen rolls, 31 cakes, cookies, tarts, pies, doughnuts, salted peanuts and a number of miscellaneous articles. Our expenses were $2.45 for bags, boxes, paper etc. We show a balance from last year of $9.74; our receipts were $72.79; paid consignors $64.81 leaving a balance which has been sent to the treasurer of $15.27.

I want to thank my committee for the effort they have made to make the exchange a success. To the incoming board I would like to recommend that the new chairman of the woman's exchange have charge also of selling the embroideries and fancy work.

Perhaps, the next year this committee might add to its duties a registry bureau, for the need of one seems great—for during the year I have been called up to see if I could furnish the members with nurse maids, wash women, waitresses and mother's helpers, as well as to supply recipes, menus and food for card parties and teas.

Now that we have made a small beginning in an experimental way, the committee hopes that at the end of the next two years, we may find the Woman's exchange a strong factor in the community.

Lillian K. Albee, Chairman.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Does it seem possible that two years have elapsed since there was such an enthusiastic response to the call to form a woman's club in Wollaston? Do you remember how it rained those first two days of organization. Yet no amount of rain dampened or has ever dampened the enthusiasm for our club as our membership and long waiting list testify. So well have our members endeavored to become acquainted with each other, carrying out the oft repeated request of the president to speak to at least two members unknown to them at each meeting, that visitors and members alike feel the friendly social atmosphere. The president would urge that each one continue to do the same friendly work. There will be many new members to greet. Let those who can go more than half way in meeting the more difficult ones. Seek out the shy ones and the strangers and make them welcome.

The thing that goes the farthest towards making life worth while that costs the least and does the most is just a pleasant smile. Knowing each other better, we can the better cooperate in doing the work for which our club stands.

As we look back over this second year of our club existence, certain events stand out so especially significant. Our Massachusetts State Federation Civics Conference was most important. It was not a small matter for a two year old club to attempt an all day conference, but the president hoped and felt that such a conference where we were hostesses, would prove of inestimable value in bringing to our members a knowledge of what is being done by the women of our state. Though our visitors and guests were so well pleased at their reception and the plans made for their enjoyment, yet we were the gainers by the help and inspiration of that meeting. Get the "Conference Fever." Attend the State Conferences and your own. There is no better way of realizing the tremendous power for good that women are today, and that trivial things are lost sight of in the great problems confronting us. It will broaden your horizon wonderfully.

The address by Dr. Jay William Hudson on "Peace" in the Wollaston School hall, under the auspices of our club, served to emphasize the wide popular interest in Peace, and our knowledge of what "Constructive Peace" means was further enlarged by the eloquent address of Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes at our club luncheon.

The establishment of our Scholarship Fund is a source of congratulation. The scholarship is an honor, to be won only by a credit scholar, and therefore a prize to be eagerly worked for, and a great honor when won.

It is also a source of gratification that, though the winter has been a hard one, our club has been enabled to help so generously in the work of the Associated Charities, the Visiting Nurse, the Massachusetts Fields school playground, and that our Philanthropic committee has done so much to help and aid others.

We were glad to help the work of the Massachusetts State Federation in making supplies for the hospitals of Northern France, and by hiring women to help we were able to give aid in two directions.

Yet tho' it is with pleasure and a feeling of pride that we think of these things done for the good of many, it remains with us still to remember "that it is not a question of how much we do but how it is done. It is not a question of doing more but of doing better." These are but stepping stones to the onward progres of the club.

The president would thank all the officers and chairmen of committees who, by their untiring efforts have made possible our successes. No one, unless a chairman, realizes the hours of thought and anxiety put into these undertakings. Let each member of every committee, every member of the club make an extra effort to help the chairmen and co-operate in every way she can to lighten the willingly assumed duties of the chairmen. Be ready to speak the word of praise where you truthfully can, encourage the workers, be ready with the friendly helpful criticism which we all need in order to grow; but avoid, as you would a pestilence, the fault finding criticism which simply tears down with no thought of building up.

Emerson says:—"Tho' we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us, or we find it not."

What better words can we choose than "Loyalty and Use?" Be loyal to your club, to your officers, to your fellow members and to yourselves. Be of use. "Today is your day as mine—the only day we have—the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the whole we may not understand, but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know it is a part of action."

Mrs. Pennock spoke of "Patience, Poise and Perseverance." To them may we add those words of Julia Ward Howe: "Strength, service, sweetness" these are ever to seek,, to combine, to maintain.

The president could not close without expressing to you all her sincerest thanks for the many words of appreciation and regard which have been given her. One cannot say much when the heart is full; but if in these two years she has been of help and service to you your loyalty to her, your willingness to help have placed her in your debt. Knowing only about twenty members when she assumed the presidency, her life has been made fuller and richer by coming to know you all.

It has been said that there is one reward all presidents are sure of—They learn a great deal and they can never go backward. They will always realize their development. After a couple of terms as president a member is just ready to enter upon her duties as a member of that organization. She has had the proper training and is now ready to be a member. Your president has served her apprentice ship and is ready and proud to become a member of the Wollaston Woman's club.

May our club, so dear to us all ever push onward. May it ever stand for what is good and true—a help and inspiration to all about us.

Alice G. Ropes.

Suppose We Pared These Tires

Suppose this All-Weather tread—now double-thick—was pared to the thinness of the usual anti-skid. Would it endure like this one? Or so resist puncture?

Suppose we used—as some do—one less fabric ply. Or made the whole tire lighter. Suppose we omitted our exclusive features:

Our No-Rim-Cut feature—
Our "On-Air" cure—
Our rubber rivets—
Our 126-piano-wire base.

All rivals do omit them. All of them are costly. Our "On-Air" cure alone costs us $450,000 yearly to save needless blowouts. But could Goodyear Fortified Tires retain top place if we did not give those extras?

Cost Added Prices Lowered

Instead of that, we all the time add costly betterments. We spend on experts $100,000 yearly to seek out new improvements.

Our All-Weather tread—always double-thick—is made still thicker in some sizes.

Our fabric has been strengthened.

Yet on February 1st we made our third big price reduction in two years, bringing the total to 45 per cent. Now you are getting in Goodyear Fortified Tires the best value ever known in tire making.

It is due to yourself that you this year join this army of contented tire users. It is by far the largest army in Tiredom. Any dealer will supply you. (2331)

Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Frances Curtin and Frank Townsend, while Miss Madden presided at the piano. Refreshments were served and games and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour.

Among those present were: Misses Lillian O'Brien, Margaret Kelliher, Gertrude Driscoll, Margaret Markham, Teresa Cahill, Helena Buckley, Mae Duffy, Alice Duffy, Anna Murphy, Dorothy Ferguson, Elizabeth Donahue, Helen Townsend, Anna Cremins, Margaret Clare, Elizabeth Cremins, Mary Curtin and Harry Nelson, Clifton Canniff, John Mitchell, John McNiel, Thomas Curry, Clarence Carson, Maurice Cahill, James Curtis, Edward Markham, Lawrence Curtin.

Quincy Loses Game By 4 to 2 Score

By bunching three hits with a base on balls and an error by Capt. Larkin Revere high was enabled to gain a lead that Quincy was unable to overcome and won the game at Revere by the score of 4 to 2.

Hoffses did the honors for Quincy and while quite effective was not up to form. This was brought about in a large measure by the umpire whose eyes seemed to be a bit off. Webb worked for Revere and did very good work but on the whole no better than Hoffses.

While the Quincy boys have no wish to try to establish an alibi this story would not be complete without a reference to the bonehead umpiring done by one Hagen who acted as umpire in chief. With a man on first, Hoffses made a balk, the umps immediately ordered the batsman to first thereby displaying his lack of knowledge of the game; but this is not all. When De Senso was at bat five balls were pitched in succession and two of them were called strikes that were at least a foot over his head and then De Senso fouled the next. The ball lodged in the clothing of the catcher and when he took it out the umps declared De Senso out.

The batting features of the game were carried off by Webb for Revere and Larkin of Quincy who poled out a homer in the ninth.

UNITY DRAMATIC CLUB DELIGHTS BIG AUDIENCE

Presents "Triss or Beyond the Rockies" At Music Hall

"Triss or Beyond the Rockies," a four act drama, was presented at Music hall, Thursday evening before a large and appreciative audience by the Unity Dramatic club, and at the outset it can well be said that for an amateur cast, it was one of the best seen in Quincy in a long time. The Unity Dramatic club is composed of well known South and West Quincy young people and was organized more than a year ago for the promotion of local amateur dramatics. Thursday evening was not the first appearance of the club but it can be said that the club maintained the reptuation it had already established.

The plot of the play was woven about Nat Webber, a hero against his will, and Triss, the angel of Blue Canyon, who in the last act turns out to be heiress to the sum of $50,000 and becomes the bride of Nat, who she has proved innocent of the crime of murder, with which he had been charged by Jack Hamlin, the real murderer of Zenis Grimes.

Zenis Grimes, owner of the Roost where the action of the first take place, loses her life in the first act, during a wordy war with Jack Hamlin who stabs her and succeeds in making his escape before being detected. Great excitement follows the finding of the body and Hamlin accuses Nat of having done the foul deed.

Acts two and three show the exterior of Nat's cabin. Nat wrongfully accused of murder is placed under arrest. He has a good friend in Triss who stands by him and is firm in her declaration of his innocence although circumstances point strongly to his guilt. She determines to prove his innocence and goes about it in a systematic way. The trial of Nat comes in the third act and true to her word she secures his exoneration and they promptly fall in love with each other. Hamlin who is an important witness at the trial forseeing what will happen quietly leaves the court room during the excitement and makes good his escape. Triss, who is supposed to be the foster daughter of Hank Jordan, a 49'er, turns out to be the daughter of Mrs. Robie and heiress to $50,000.

Of course a search is instituted for Hamlin and his apprehension comes in the last act at a female seminary where he is posing as a professor. He is of course arrested and pays the penalty of his crime.

The important parts were taken by Nat Webber, the hero, and Triss, the heroine. These two were impersonated by Charles Ross and Mary Williams. Too much in praise of their work can not be said. They had their lines well in mind and acted well their parts. Speaking especially of Miss Williams it can be well said that she is one of the best amateurs seen in Quincy in a long time.

The characters of Zenis Grimes and Mrs Robie were impersonated by Rita Gurney, and while not strictly im-

DINNEEN ARRESTS VERY TINY GIANT

Lieut. Bishop had to book a 4ft. 6in. prisoner brought in by Patrolman Dinneen, the 6ft. 5in. member of the force. The man claimed to be Patrick Smith, a 77 year old resident of Rockland who was arrested in the barn of the Abele estate on Adams street where he turned in after finishing the first lap of his walk from Boston to his home.

Patrolman Dinneen was in charge of the police auto sent to take the prisoner. When he walked into the station he towered several stories over him. Smith, short and gentle, was hidden from view by the back of the headquarters. "False alarm," queried Lieut. Bishop as Patrolman Dinneen stook in front of the desk.

"Almost but not quite," said the officer, and he marched his four footer behind the railing where he could answer questions.

Patrick was given the best room in the house.

"JAMES FIGHTER" IS FINED $50

Joachimo Guerra of Brockton, of "James Fighter" when given a free translation, was arrested in Braintree this morning by patrolman John Shay on a charge of carrying a revolver. He pleaded guilty in the District court and Judge Avery imposed a fine of $50 and suspended the sentence until Saturday so he could secure the money.

Guerra left a revolver on the seat of a Brockton car several days ago. He turned to claim the weapon but the conductor told him he had not seen it and later turned it over to the Brockton police and furnished them with a description. They required the assistance of patrolman Shay in locating the man and he learned Guerra worked on a Braintree farm. When he came over the line at six o'clock this morning he was arrested.

COMMITTEE TO SELECT PASTOR

A committee of five was selected at the adjourned church meeting of the Bethany Congregational church Wednesday evening to select a pastor to succeed Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott. Several members of the Harmony club journeyed to Brockton Thursday evening to attend the annual dance of the Delro Girls in Canton hall. The trip was made by auto and it was a merry party which arrived in Quincy in the small hours of the morning. Those who took the tirp were John Brunet, Joseph O'Rourke, Robert Fitzgerald, Bartholemew Flaherty aad Frank O'Rourke.

WOLLASTON CHILDREN PRESENT MAY PAGEANT

Delightful Entertainment Follows Crowning of Queen

The most successful entertainment held thus far in the new parish house of the Wollaston Unitarian church was the May Pageant given Thursday evening by the children of the Sunday school under direction of Miss M. V. McGrath.

The pageant was one of fourteen intervals and the different numbers brought into play a large number of the younger children in a variety of folk and fancy dancing.

An audience of 400, the largest yet accommodated, applauded the various acts and several encores were allowed. Mrs. A. W. P. Barber and Mrs. Chandler W. Smith were the accompanists.

The first number showed some of the little tots in a folk dance and choosing of the May queen. Those participating were: Louise Thomas, Nina Barnes, Evelyn Hicks, Doris Simmons, Dorothy Briggs, Hortense Fawcett, Bernadine Barker, Elinor Penniman, Dorothy Ricker, Bessie Thurber.

Next came the entrance of the queen in stately procession, followed by her crowning with proper ceremony. In the cast were:

Queen of May — Bernadine Barker
Crown Bearer — Bessie Thurber
Sceptre Bearer — Nina Barnes
Arch Bearers—Marian Ripley, Dorothy Briggs, Geraldine Olive, Doris Simmons.
Pages—Herbert Baker, Ashley Taber
Maid in Waiting — Eleanor Nourse

A gay May pole dance was next in order and its pretty intertwinings and accompanying gestures received much applause. Those taking part were: Edith Kraus, Sidney Simmons, Elizabeth Trumper, Priscilla Streeter, Eileen Massey, Sylvia Litchfield, Elsie Thurber, Bessie Thurber, Margaret Burke, Edna Snow, Madelaine Childs, Margaret Campbell, Elsa Hirtle, Florence Weeks, Celeste Ripley, Barbara Wells, Edna Brown

One of the most significant of the dances was the song of the robin. Accompanied by appropriate music it was perhaps one of the best interpretations of the evening. In this number were: Mary Polk, Julia Polk, Bessie Thurber, Marian Ripley, Celeste Ripley, Irene Shea, Emily Boshan, Agnes Rice, Elsie Hey.

Next came three butterflies, Sylvia Litchfield, Verna Carr and Florence Weeks in a light airy dance, attired in costumes of yellow.

An act that appealed to the juvenile element were the jumping jacks which came next. In this twelve youngsters in clown costume, went through all

SHOULD BE AN ISSUE.

The American people are coming more and more to take sides on the question of preparedness for war. So far the dispute has been confined principally to press, pulpit and public forum. It has not been brought into the voting booth except spasmodically and in a few localities here and there. The American people have not had an opportunity, or have not taken the opportunity, to express themselves on the question. It has not been made a national political issue.

We think it eminently fitting and proper that it should be made an issue at the polls. The Great War in Europe has brought the question fairly and squarely before the American people and they ought to decide what policy they wish to follow. The Philadelphia North American remarks: "The American League to Limit Armament is indignant because the question of preparedness may be made an issue at the polls. It would be outrageous, wouldn't it, to let the people declare whether they want the country to be adequately protected?"

We believe the American people should take the opportunity to express their opinion. We believe the issue should be incorporated in the platform of the national parties.

As the Providence Journal well asks: "Why not a military policy—as logically as a tariff policy, or a currency policy, a program for the development of our national resources, for the navigation of the Mississippi River, for harbor improvements, or any other public enterprise calculated to promote the national welfare? What compares in fundamental importance with intelligent preparation for the national defense?"

POPULARITY AND DEATH.

The question has been raised by the Hartford Post as to what effect the death of John Bunny will have upon the audiences who may view any pictures in he played a part. "Will motion picture devotees enjoy a comic Bunny film now when they know that the man who takes the leading part is in his grave?" inquires the Post.

This is an interesting question although difficult to answer. The motion picture is such a recent institution that the contingency has not arisen before, we believe. Although not by any means a parallel case it is interesting to put the same question regarding the books of popular story writers. The books of some have enjoyed greater popularity after th death of the author than when he was alive. And the reverse has been true—more frequently.

The late George A. Henty during his lifetime was one of the most popular writers of boys books of his time and yet after his death there was a decided falling off in the demand.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.

The Netherlands and China under a new treaty for arbitration of their differences have provided that one of the members of the joint commission of three, the one holding the balance of power, shall be named by the President of the United States. This is a high compliment to the American people in its assumption that the man whom they select to the Presidency will be a man of high ability and integrity. It is moreover, a recognition of the part which the United States is playing, and is going to play in greater measure, in the peaceful settlement of international disputes. We trust that the state department may see its way clear to accept the offer for it may be productive of much good in the advancement of the cause of peace on earth.

If the first robin would cultivate an appetite for the first fly arrangements might be made to subsidize the excellent bird.

Even at that the Mexican revolution has not yet lasted as long as did the revolution in which the late George Washington figured.

Wiseacres who have not yet decided how the war started need not be chagrined if little credence is given their predictions as to the time the war will end.

When a small boy in Haiti is told that he may be president the prediction is no idle compliment.

RAISE MONEY FOR ORGAN FUND

Quite a sum was added to the organ fund by the entertainment given Thursday evening by the Sisters society of the Swedish Congregational church. The entertainment was given at the church and was well attended.

The program, which was in charge of Rev. Mr. Sporrong, opened with a prayer by Mrs. Hannah Ekstrand. It was a very pleasing program that followed and included selections by the male choir and mixed choir, a poem by Miss Nora Fosberg, song by the society, a recitation in unison by the society, vocal trio by Mrs. A. G. Sporrong, Mrs. Anna B. Sutherland, and Mrs. John Goldbranson, duet by Mrs. Sporrong and Mrs. Sutherland. dialogue by Mrs. Emil Anderson, Mrs. C. O. Lindberg, Mrs. C. Andre and Miss Emma Johanson, and reading by Mrs. P. Gustafson. The program closed with a prayer by Mrs. E. Carlson.

The church was prettily decorated with cut flowers and potted plants which were much admired during the social hour which followed the entertainment, and during which light refreshments were served.

RUNAWAY KILLS VALUABLE HORSE

The shaft of one of the Old Colony Laundry wagons, drawn by a runaway horse, pierced the side of a horse owned by Harry Geddes on Revere road this morning and caused instant death.

The horse was one of a pair to a drag hauling stone off the Hodges lot at Revere road and Hancock street which had just swung onto the street when the runaway bolted in the stable yard, in the rear of Barnard's bakery and crossed Hancock street at terrific speed. The runaway, to avoid the corner of the Hodge's house which is being moved across Revere road, swung to the left and struck the Geddes horse.

The injured animal with a snort of pain lurched forward hard enough to break away, ran a short distance and dropped dead.

The runaway broke away from the laundry wagon and ran down Revere road where it was stopped. The runaway had been hired for the day. The horse that was killed was valued at $300.

FELT FRIENDLY TOWARD TOMATO

The loving care bestowed by an intoxicated man on a box of tomato plants in City Square Thursday evening was truly remarkable.

The comedy opened with the purchase in a local grocery of a choice box of plants with the man carefully putting them under his arm and heading toward an East Weymouth car.

In the scene the hero half way to the square tired and sat on the curbing, putting the plants on the sidewalk beside him.

In the third scene he was most affectionate, loving and petting the plants and calling them endearing terms.

In the next scene the man, angered because a blossom had not fully opened, pulled the plants from the box and strewed the dirt on the sidewalk.

The last and final scene closed with the unknown giving vent to a series of oaths and "beating" it down Washington street.

AT THE THEATRE

A large audience attended the Kincaide Theatre Thursday afteroon and enjoyed one of the strongest shows seen here in many days. The headliner was of course, the five reel drama "David Harum," after the book of that name. W. H. Crane, an actor of unusual ability, plays the leading role.

The action is laid in the village of Homeville, where David owns the bank and a good portion of the village. It is a real drama with plenty of acting, a pretty romance, some delightful humor, and best of all, David himself, eccentric and stout, the good genius of about all with whom he comes in contact. There is a near-lynching from which David rescues John Lennox in the nick of time. All comes out right in the end and David celebrates by giving back a mortgage to the widow Cullone and treating his horse to an extra pail of oats.

Running "David Harum" a close second is Winship's operatic dolls. There is no use trying to describe this act which is really something new. It is worth seeing.

"The Exploits of Elaine" is a serial in a class by itself. This week's episode maintains the standard of uncanny ingenuity on the part of the author and swift action on the part of the characters.

Billie Morse is a negro comedian who drew some applause from a portion of the audience. His act was far below the high standard set by the others.

"The Love Whip" is an entertaining, one reel comedy.

The show will be repeated today and Saturday.

COMMON VARIETY OF FISH SCARCE

Plenty of Fancy Kinds, However, And at Reasonable Prices

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

While local market reports last week showed that the more common varieties of fish were plenty and the fancy kinds scarce, this week the opposite is the case, that is the fancy kinds are plentiful and the common variety scarce. This is due to the fact that so many of the vessels usually employed in groundfishing have been hauled off to be made ready for other branches of the industry that the receipts have been smaller than usual

Then again the weather has not been any too good and the fishermen are finding that the haddock are not schooling as freely as usual. This variety of fish, therefore, is commanding a good price in the markets. Mackerel is fairly plentiful and reasonable this week. Bluefish and butterfish are also down to reasonable prices owing to increased receipts. Shad continues to be scarce and but few Eastern salmon are coming into the market.

There were but few lobsters on the Sunday boat from Nova Scotia, with the result that the prices of this luxury have mounted from the low ebb levels of last week. Owing to the low prices a week ago lobster was the piece de-resistance on many tables with the result that the market was soon cleaned up so that the first of the week few were available and away up in the air went the prices again. Owing to the stormy weather along the Nova Scotia coast the past few days Thursday's boat brought but few lobsters. However the indications are that unusually large shipments from Nova Scotia will prevail from now on owing to the shutting down of the canning industries, which probably means that the millions of lovers of lobster may be able to satisfy their appetites in this direction he coming summer months at a smaller cost than usual.

Scallops have gone by, but oysters are still running good although the letter R is not used in the spelling of the month of May. Clams dug in local waters are beginning to be plentiful although many people are somewhat skeptical in buying clams for fear that they were dug on flats contaminated by sewerage matter. Those that do buy are very careful.

Fine fresh butter is cleaning up fairly promptly in the local market and an attempt is being made by some dealers to secure a little better price. Buyers of butter however are not falling over each other to secure supplies and the present firmness of the market is due to the fact that the receipts have been good. It would not take much of an increase in receipts however to create a surplus and send the prices down. The cheese market holds firm and the small amount of cheese coming in is high-priced owing to the activity of foreign buyers. Fresh laid eggs are scarce and the prices are firm.

Meat prices are but little changed from what they have been for several weeks. Whatever change there has been is downward rather than upward. With the influx of fresh vegetables the demands for meats of all kinds will naturally fall off. Meat is almost necessary during the winter months owing to its heating qualities but in warm weather one does not eat too much meat for that same reason.

As the spring season advances the influx of vegetables is constantly increasing so that today the local markets are well supplied with about all kinds of vegetables. While largely raised in Southern climates and harvested in some cases before fully ripe they are nevertheless appetizing.

SAYS DENIAL OF HELL IS SINFUL

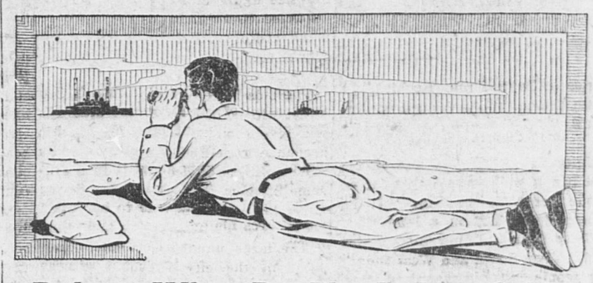

"It is as sinful to deny the existence of a hell as it is to deny the existence of God," said Father Kenzel, one of the Redemptorists mission fathers at the services for men at St. John's church Thursday evening.

"Hell is eternal and at the last judgment those who die in mortal sin will hear the sentence, depart from me ye cursed, into everlasting fire. The mercy of God must give way to justice when a damnable demon of a man dies without repenting."

Preceding the sermon there was a short instruction on devotion by Father Jones after which there was Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, the musical portion being rendered by the men's choir.

Several hundred confessions were heard Thursday and there was a large number at communion at the five and eight o'clock masses this morning The evening services commence at eight o'clock, 15 minutes earlier than in the beginning of the week.

News of Interest to Granite Manufacturers and Workers

Only 22 days remain before Memorial Day and the Granite Industry in Quincy is now at its height. Customers who have been putting off getting their orders in for Memorial Day setting have found that it is a hard proposition to get a manufacturer's promise to have the job set by the holiday. The manufacturers are getting rid of some of their stock work to customer who demand the work set by the 30th. The local cemeteries are being put in shape so that the memorials show up to better advantage now than at any other season. Several contracts for large Westerly jobs have been placed in this city the past week for delivery early in the summer. It looks as though business in this city will have a very good summer which will be welcome to the cutters who have almost given up hope of working at their trade more than six months in a year. Any good cutter need not be idle at the present time because there are a number of firms who want men to finish their rush orders.

This is the time of year several new granite firms start into business. Some of them live through the year and go out of existence when the winter months come. Some receive a contract for a single memorial from a friend and perhaps making good profit on the job, think that they can do better by setting up in business for themselves. The Italian residents especially are anxious to get started in the business and a look back 25 years will show that at that time there was hardly an Italian firm in the city. Today the industry is being carried on in this city and in many other granite centers largely by men who were born in foreign lands. The best cutters and carvers in our city today come from Italy and over 50 per cent. of our cutters today are foreign born. It is a very rare thing to see a native born Quincy young man take up the trade of stonecutter today and there are scarcely more than a score of them serving their apprenticeship in the city.

The Quincy Column Turning Company has received the contract for the columns of the St. Gregory's Catholic church at Brooklyn, N. Y. The contract calls for the work to be cut and delivered in the quickest possible time It consists of 2 polished columns 2-8 thick by 19-0 long. The stool is to be of Greens Landing, Stony Creek and Fall River. The work will take from three to four months. The company is shipping this week four bases and four columns for the Barnet Hospital building at Patterson, N. J. The columns are 2-8 by 19-0 long.

Shipping during the past week while not as brisk as in former weeks showed a decided gain over the same week last year. For the present the manufacturers are too busy setting up work in the local yards and in finishing this work to ship any stock. It will boom immediately after the holiday and the yards will be cleaned out in a short time. Several carloads of stock from Westerly are expected in the near future and several carloads are yet to be ordered by the local manufacturers for the summer months trade.

Truck load after truck load of memorials are leaving the city each day to be erected in the cemeteries. Some of the truck owners are making two trips a day to the Boston cemeteries with memorials and are returning early the following morning. This is surely a harvest time for the owners of trucks as they can get all the work they can handle and can work as many hours a day as they desire.

Ernest Bizzozero of Bates avenue has shipped the past week to a Western firm a large exedra cut from Westerly granite. The work was a very fine piece and a credit to the local firm. The exedra was twelve feet long and on the first step was a life size figure of Memory. The job attracted considerable attention and many visitors called to view it when it was set up in the yard.

The bids for the paving of Hancock street will be opened on Monday. This will give some of the paving cutters a chance to sell some of their paving which will be welcomed by them as some of them have not sold a paving since last November.

The large number of cellars being built in the city gives the quarry owners a chance to get rid of some of their grout and receive a small return for the same. It costs more to put the grout on the car and run it out to the dump than it does to load it on the team and this work is welcomed by them. There will also be several thousand tons needed if the order for the $3000.00 retaining wall at Houghs Neck is passed by the City Council.

WHIST AND DANCE.

A well attended whist and dancing party was given in Electa hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the degree team of the Skandinavian Brotherhood of America. There were 15 tables in play. The souvenirs were won by Mrs. O. Jacobson, Charles Moberg, Frank Driscoll, Otto Peterson. Sevan O. Nelson and Gustave Erickson. The committee was in charge of Axel Glant chairman and Albin W. Anderson, secretary. There were more men than women and two men, Messrs. Moberg and Driscoll, who played as women, qualified for the prizes.

Copyright, 1914, Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

This sale is now under such headway, you should come in tomorrow, if possible. If you have any idea of getting a piano, you should not put off another day. You could not possibly pick a better day to select a piano than Saturday. The store remains open until late at night, about 10 o'clock, and while the stock remains unbroken, you should come in and make your selection. You will have ample time to get waited upon properly, and an additional advantage tomorrow you will probably not have again, and that is, a full line of styles to select from.

This sale is literally running away from us. It is by far the most successful sale we have ever held. Up to date we have made two sales for every one expected, which means we will have to bring the sale to a close in half the time we expected it to run.

Tomorrow will undoubtedly be the biggest day of the sale. We are preparing for it, and would suggest that you do not delay any longer, if you can possibly avoid it.

The whole proposition gone over again, as we did in our advertisement of last Friday

We are again printing a summary of this whole proposition. Substantially as it was printed in our last Friday's ad.

This sale has so many sides and so many merits, they can't be gone over too many times.

It is a sale which was inaugurated by the Bacon Piano Company of New York City.

We are participating in it at their invitation, along with 15 other houses throughout the United States.

Out of 5000 instruments they are disposing of through this plan, we were allotted 125 pianos and 75 player-pianos.

When we have disposed of this allotment, we can get no more to sell upon the same terms and conditions.

Five dollars is your initial payment. Either upon the piano or the player-piano.

The instrument you select is delivered at once.

The balance is spread out over a period of 3 years and 8 months' time—without your having to pay additional interest for the accommodation.

This is so arranged that your easiest payments come during the first year of your agreement; your next easiest payments, during the second year, etc., etc.

Your first years payments, if you select a piano, are only one dollar a week. Your second year's, but one dollar and 25 cents a week, etc.

If you select a player-piano, your first year's payments are one dollar and 75 cents a week. The second year's payments, two dollars a week, etc., etc.

You have been given every protection that we, who are conducting this sale, could think of, which would be of benefit or assurance to you in making your purchase.

You can get your money back after a thirty days' trial of the piano or player-piano.

You may exchange at any time, up to within one year from the date of your purchase, without incurring any loss or expense. You are given an unconditional guarantee covering the first five years' life of the instrument.

And, as a crowning feature, we are going to make it a practise during this sale, to cancel the account of any purchaser who dies before all his payments have been made, provided only that his account is up to date at the time of death.

We ask you plainly, in your own interest, can you afford to ignore a sale which carries with it so many advantages?

Copyright, 1914, Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

A week longer and the player pianos will be gone. Why not select yours tomorrow

These player-pianos have gone like the proverbial "hot cakes." Everybody is buying player-pianos.

During the past week, three sales out of every five have been player- pianos, and you must bear in mind, that our ratio of player-pianos to pianos runs the other way.

We had 125 pianos, but only 75 player-pianos to begin with.

We are surprised at the proportion of player-piano sales to piano sales. Yet we are not surprised.

From our viewpoint, the wonder is that everybody does not buy the player-piano.

At 413 dollars it is the biggest player-piano bargain on the market.

At five dollars down and one dollar and 75 cents a week for the first year, it is the best player-piano "buy" ever offered in the history of player-piano selling.

Under the conditions of sale upon which it is sold, it proves its own bargain and its own merits.

You do not take the most insignificant part of a chance in purchasing these player-pianos.

Our own experience with them during the past five years convinces us that there is not a more desirable or all-round satisfactory player built.

There are dozens of them in the best homes in this section which have not had five minutes or five cents a year spent on them in repairs since they were sold.

That's the thing that tells the story.

¶ All instruments sold during this sale will be delivered at once. Arrangements may be made, however, to have an instrument set aside, after being selected to be delivered later.

Henry L. Kincaide & Co.
QUINCY, MASS

¶ During this sale, the Piano Department will be open evenings by appointment, arrangements for which may be made by calling phone No. 1200, and asking for Mr. Bates.

UNITY DRAMATIC CLUB

portant parts they were well carried out.

Although strictly a drama there was more or less comedy running throughout the whole evening. To this Miss Susie Smith, "all learning and good looks," impersonated by Maude Ellis, who acted well the part of a college bred girl who felt her importance and was not slow in showing it contributed much. The character was true to life, a counterpart of one often met in the real world.

George Ore, as Hank Jordan the foster father of Triss, was a typical 49'er He looked and acted well the part of one of these hardy gold miners

The villain was Jack Hamlin, impersonated by Hugh Williams, a handsome man but beneath the mask a man with a black heart. It was naturally a hard character to impersonate and one where frowns show approval better than does applause. So it was with him, the frowns on the faces of the audience as he tried to fasten his crime on another showed their appreciation of his work.

"Hallelujah Billie,' who thinks there is money in salvation and salvation in money," impersonated by James Williams, was one of the comedy parts of the drama and his wise(?) sayings served to keep the audience in good humor.

Thhe other characted was Judge Ananias Lovetoddy, who was all his name implied. Andrew Dinegan took his part. The play was given under his direction. As a director of plays and minstrel shows "Andy" Dinegan is too well known to Quincy audiences to need any introduction at this time. He not only acted well his part but to him is also due much of the credit for the smoothness with which the play moved. Miss Jones scored success as Penelope Prim, a deaf old maid.

Between the acts there were vocal selections by Miss Lucy Brooks, fancy dancing by Miss Irene Pitts and selections by Hugh Hamlin and cabaret singers.

The ushers were Miss Elizabeth Williams, Miss Caroline Reinhalter, Miss Violet Perry, Miss Helen Jones, Miss Mildred Gurney, Miss Agnes Mathewson, Miss Julia Tooher, and Miss Helen Lester.

To the Business Men of Quincy

The prosperity of a city is in direct proportion to the local pride. Where local pride runs high, prosperity has a firm foothold. Such a town is a good place to live and do business in.

Paint helps to a remarkable degree in spreading an impression of prosperity throughout a community. It gives a fresh, new, inviting look wherever it is used. Municipal buildings, stores and homes feel its good effects. Growing business is bound to be one of the direct results of a liberal use of paint, not from any magic in the paint, but because of the pride which is stimulated.

Carman Maid Says She Was Approached by Detective

NEW TESTIMONY INTRODUCED

Memorandum of Story Told by Celia Coleman Last July Admitted as Evidence—Defendant's Relatives Placed on Stand to Refute Prosecution's Charges of Sensational Nature

Mineola, N. Y., May 7.—The prosecution in the case of Mrs. Florence C. Carman, on trial for the second time for the murder of Mrs. Louise D. Bailey, brought forward new evidence in corroboration of the testimony of Celia Coleman, the negro maid in the Carman home, who has been the state's chief witness in the two trials, the first of which resulted in a disagreement.

Miss Coleman herself supplied new testimony in continuation of her examination as a witness against her former mistress, when she declared she had been offered $300 to change the story she had told at the first trial. She said the offer was made to her by a negro detective named Hicks. Mrs. Carman's lawyer admitted that Hicks was in the employ of the defense. Miss Coleman said Hicks told her Mrs. Carman would give her the money.

Following up this new development, District Attorney Smith put on the stand George Toomer, a negro, who not only corroborated Miss Coleman in regard to the alleged bribery offer, swearing he was present at the time, but was permitted to testify that she had told him on July 2 last of Mrs. Carman's alleged admissions to the maid regarding the killing of Mrs. Bailey. Toomer said he had written down the story she related as it was told. The memorandum was produced.

Smith, in his cross-examination of Mrs. Powell, sister of Mrs. Carman, put questions intending to show that the husband of the defendant knew that a woman who was in Carman's waiting room on the night of the shooting had gone to Canada.

Two young women were in the waiting room then and Carman and his family have maintained they did not know who they were or where they had gone. Smith had said he had been unable to find either of them.

To refute the testimony of Celia Coleman, the defense called Mrs. Helen Corby, niece of Mrs. Carman and her husband, Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Platt Conklin, Mrs. Carman's parents, and 10-year-old Elizabeth Carman. They testified that at the time of the shooting and subsequently Mrs. Carman was in her room.

Boston Dealers Expect to Make Shoes For European Soldiers

Boston, May 7.—Reports in the leather district are to the effect that there are big orders pending for army shoes from one of the countries engaged in war.

It is figured that the business pending aggregates over 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 pairs of shoes, or somewhat more than the agggregate already placed in this country since the war started.

SPORTING COMMENT

NEED MORE AGGRESSIVENESS.

It seems that there is a woeful lack of the spirit of aggressiveness among the players of the High school base ball team.

We learn that one of the most flaring cases of boneheaded sleeping by the coacher on the first base line at Revere Tuesday was one of the direct causes of defeat.

Whether such work, by an experienced player, is due to a lack of pepper or lack of driving by the coaches is a question. But the fact still remains and Q. H. S. will lose more games unless they come through with some real aggressive and offensive work.

George Barry who has been home recovering from injuries received playing the national game rejoined the Portland team of the New England league in good condition. Georgie's ankle was cut to the bone in two places, the result of his blocking a man sliding home.

The banquet which will bring the bowling season of the Quincy Social Clubs to a close is scheduled for a Boston hotel next Thursday evening and the committee in charge feels that there will be a large attendance. Several trophies and prizes will be awarded, among them the silver cup offered by Capt. George Wardwell to the tandem team which won the post season tandem series—Joseph Pinel and W. Wright, members of the Waseca Social Club of Quincy point. Louis Ross, manager of the Wardwell alleys, will make the presentation.

The silver cup won by the team of Capt. Ray Coyle of the Knights of Columbus league after a season of spirited competition at the Wardwell alleys, was placed on exhibition at the Thompson Cafe Thursday. The Coyle quintette jockeyed its way into first place in the last quarter and at the finish had outclassed the other combinations and held all of the second scores, except individual records.

A quartette of seasoned rollers are billed for Wardwell's Tuesday evening. Dell and Ross will compete with Gallagher of Boston and Olindy for a special prize.

Three better than a triple gave W. Keezer of Weymouth the top place in the weekly rolloffs at Wardwell's Tuesday evening. C. Carlson won the cigars for high single, with 122. The strings:

W. Keezer	117	87	106	303
Olindy	108	85	105	298
McPherson	108	98	84	290
E. Dowd	106	96	87	289

Another match has been arranged between Jim Olindy, the local star, and Greenaway of Boston, one of the fast men of that city. The first series was won by Greenaway by 42 pins and consisted of 40 strings, 20 rolled at the Arch street alleys, Boston, and 20 at Wardwells. The purse was for $100. The purse for the second clash is also $100. The first half will be rolled at Wardwell's next Thursday night and the second leg at Boston next Friday night.

Two school base ball games went 18 innings to a tie Wednesday afternoon. The Groton 2d and Fitchburg Business College ended 1 to 1, and the contest between Mitchell and Mildwood closed with the score 5 to 5.

"Link" Elcock the local ball player has again returned to Newburg, N. Y., where he played last season. Cards have bee nreceived from him this week stating the league season will open May 15th. "Link" has kept in the pink of condition the past winter and expects to cover the second sack as he never did before. In the meantinme previous to the season's opening his team is playing exhibition games through New Jersey.

AMUSEMENTS

CORT THEATRE.

Everyone is familiar with Mrs. Shelley's story of "Dr. Frankenstein." In this yarn a giant mummy is imbued with life, but lacks the moral instincts of a normal human being. Pursuing the same lines, Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard, authors of "The Ghost Breaker" and "The Misleading Lady," have written a three act farce called "The Last Laugh." Messrs. Shubert present Edward Abeles in this play at the Cort Theatre for a limited engagement. In "The Last Laugh" the authors do not attempt the weird, but treat their subject in a highly amusing manner. Dr. Bruce, an old surgeon, is trying to bring to life an unusual object which he claims to have created himself from bone and tissue. His daughter Eugenia and his assistant, Dr. Francis, think he is demented and in discussing the case they agree that if his experiment should fail, it might mean the complete loss of his reason. Therefore, they insert an ad in the newspapers offering one thousand dollars for a day's work to a clever able-bodied man. An unknown person called Jim answers the advertisement and is ready to claim the reward for a day's work, but when he is told what he has to go through he backs down. But Eugenia and Dr. Francis are not to be deterred and before Jim knows what is happening to him, they have removed the man-made object from the case and replaced it with Jim. Needless to say, old Dr. Bruce's experiment is a brilliant success. Jim comes to life and is the object of surprise, wonderment and congratulation. The authors introduce a complete surprise, not only for the characters in the play but for the audience as well, and to give this away would be robbing the playwrights of the "big idea" of the play.

WILBUR THEATRE.

"A Pair of Sixes" will be seen at Ye Wilbur Theatre for the twentieth and last week, starting May 10, when the inauguration of the very last week of the phenomenal run in Boston will be commemorated by the presentation of handsome Souvenirs consisting of beautiful silver frames fitted with photographs of Frank McIntyre and other members of the company. This farce has been such a huge success that there are now five companies. "A Pair of Sixes" has the distinction of having the longest run of a farce in Boston for several seasons and is the greatest laughing hit Boston has even known. If any further endorsement were needed beyond the enthusiastic words of praise from the leading Boston critics, it might in truth be said that Ye Wilbur Theatre is being taxed to its utmost capacity at every performance.

Matinee Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The last week of "Common Clay", the prize play whihh has had such a phenomenal run this winter at the Castle Square Theatre, began Monday. Saturday night it will have completed its seventeenth week and 204 performances.

"Maggie Pepper," the department store play in which Rose Stahl starred successfully, will be the bill for next week. Doris Olsson, an old favorite at the Castle Square, will return and open in the title role of the play. Theodore Friebus will also return to the company. "Maggie Pepper" is the story of a clever saleswoman, enmeshed in the politics of a big department store and with a whole drama of her own personal life to work out. It is a big, thrilling story of heart interest and of a love that is triumphant over all obstacles.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

One of the most sensational successes of the season is "The Revolt," at the Shubert Theatre, Boston. It comes direct from the successful engagement at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, New York City, with the original New York cast and production. The play is by Edward Locke, who is better known to Boston theatregoers through such powerful plays from his pen as "The Climax" and "The Case of Becky." When Ibsen sent Nora forth from the "Doll's House" he left her for a contentious world to puzzle over. Mr. Edward Locke in "The Revolt" has sent another Nora forth from her child and husband, but, recognizing the fact that the tragedies of life do not necessarily end in death or despair, he has brought her back again chastened by the taste of the life that was not for her. The salient feature of this new drama of Mr. Locke's is that it is intensely human. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

B. F. KEITH'S.

After an absence of over a year from Boston, Nora Bayes the famous musical comedy favorite will appear at B. F. Keith's Theatre for a positively limited engagement of one week only. Miss Bayes has just returned from an extensive tour abroad. She is now appearing alone, singing a series of songs written especially for her, and also such other favorites as the audience care to hear. No actress has popularized so many songs as Nora Bayes. During her starring tours in "The Jolly Bachelors," Ziegfield's "Follies," and with the vaudeville team of Bayes & Norworth, this clever comedienne made more sangs popular than any other singer upon the stage. The big comedy feature of the week will be Chick Sales and his unique country school entertainment, introducing graduation day in a country school, with all the various characters that appear in such an event in the rural districts, from the boy who stutters to the old rube constable and chairman of the school committee.

Edith Taliaferro & Co. in "A Breath of Old Virginia," will be the headliner the week of May 24 and on May 17, Carolina White, the famous prima donna of the Philadelphia and Chicago opera companies, will head the bill.

Russell Newall and family of Pawtucket, R. I., have taken up their residence in the Carey house on Hall place. Mr. Newall is foreman at the quarry of J. S. Swingle.

CHINESE VISITORS MAY COME HERE

There is now in America a commission of twenty Chinese studying business conditions. The commission is now in California but is expected to visit Boston later at which time they will be in charge of a committee from the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Mayor Campbell states that he has already taken steps to have the commission if possible visit Quincy, and if so he will try and arrange for it to visit the Fore River ship yard.

Some few years ago when the commission from Japan was in this country on the same kind of an errand, the members were entertained in Quincy paying a visit to the ship yard, and it is not unlikely that this visit was productive of contracts being received by the Fore River company.

The Pilgrim Publicity association is also to hold a convention in Boston during June and as Mayor Campbell will have a prominent part in that convention he has invited the members to pay Quincy a visit during the convention as his guests. There will be several hundred in this party and plans have already been started for them to visit the Fore River yard.

BLUE HILLS WIN.

In an exciting game played Thursday evening the Blue Hills defeated the Cubs to the tune of 9 to 8. The game was the fourth game of the Twilight league and was the second win for the Blue Hills. In the fifth inning the score was 9 to 4 in favor of the Blue Hills.

The Cubs got to Patriarch of the Blue Hills and hit him all over the lot and netted four runs. It looked bad for Patriarch but a high fly to the outfield settled the rally. Reardon of the Cubs played a fine game at shortstop, accepting very difficult chances without a miss. Patriarch and Carulla were in the points for the winners and Desmond and Drohan for the losers. The game this evening will be played between the Commons and the Blue Hills.

SERVICES FOR MR. PHILLIPS.

The funeral of Lewis Phillips, famous as a submarine diver, who died Tuesday, was held Thursday afternoon from the home of his brother Hiram W. Phillips, 734 Washington street. The services were of a simple nature and were conducted by Rev. Stephen B. Lang, of the Washington street Congregational church. The services were attended by a delegation from Joseph E. Simmons Post G. A. R. of Pembroke who brought a floral tribute. The burial was at the village cemetery, Weymouth, where the committal service was held.

State House News

The contractors who were to build a dry dock for the Commonwealth have won a victory in the Senate, by the refusal of that body to prevent the ratification of the illegal contract with the Directors of the Port of Boston.

Attorney-General Atwill ruled that the contract is illegal and void. Since the purported making of that contract, prices of building materials have declined to such an extent that a new contract could probably now be made at a cost of $130,000.00 less than the old one. The State will lose this $130,000.00 if the old contract is ratified.

The House has voted to appropriate $15,000 for an investigation of telephone rates by the public service commission.

The House has also passed the bill to establish four model forms of city charter and to permit any city to adopt any of these forms at will without recourse to the Legislature. The present system is for a city to petition the Legislature for special legislation every time that it wishes the least change in its charter.

A wholesome change has just been made in legislature procedure, by the adoption of a rule that discharged city employees must first resort to the courts before applying to the Legislature for reinstatement. This new rule will cut off the host of bills which every year invades Beacon Hill and which call for the use of the most pernicious kind of political influence.

QUINCY PEOPLE WERE ABOARD "LUSITANIA"

New York Tribune Says R. R. Freeman Is Among Survivors

(Special to the Ledger)

New York, Maq 8—A list of the rescued printed today by the New York Tribune includes the name of Richard R. Freeman as among the Lusitania survivors.

The office of the Cunard line in this city has not been as yet furnished with an official list of the rescued.

Quincy and Braintree people were aboard the fated Cunard liner Lusitania, torpedoed by a German submarine off the Irish Coast Friday, and as yet definite assurances of their safety have not been received. The Quincy passengers were:

Richard R. Freeman, Jr., of Wollaston, son of Richard E. Freeman, a Boston ship broker, former member of the House of Representatives from the Sixth Norfolk District and a prominent member of the Wollaston Golf club.

Thomas Sumner of Quincy Point, whose name appears in the passenger list but who has not as yet been located.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Chambers of 15 May stret, East Braintree were on their way home. Mr. Chambers is a riveter and was farmerly employed at the Fore River shipyard.

Richard R. Freeman, Jr., is a well known young man of the city. He graduated from Adams Academy and nEglish High schiol, Boston, and secured a degree of mining engineer at the Harvard Mining School in 1912.

He sailed from New York Saturday, on his way to Siberia. His father, because of his business was one of the first of the Boston men to learn of the disaster. He attempted to establish a communication with the survivors but has been unsuccessful. The entire family are at their home on Grand View avenue, anxiously awaiting some word. This morning Mrs. Freeman mother of the boy collapsed from the severe strain and is under the doctor's care.

The young man until recently has been in the employ of a mining company at Ishpeming, Mich., and was given his Siberian appointment last November. His reasons for not sailing immediately are said to have been on account of the danger on the sea and the severe winter in Siberia.

The sinking of the ship was a veritable slaughter for a majority of the passengers. The former queen of the seas disappeared twenty one minutes after the first sign of the impending catastrophe. The submarine was probably in waiting for its prey off the coast.

Previous to the sailing of the ship Saturday Germany had caused to be published in United States papers a warning of possible attack. Several of the passengers are known to have cancelled their passage because of it but the others remained, satisfied with the explanation of the Cunard company that the ship was too fast for submarines.

James Haldane, brother of William Haldane of the Fore River shipyard is reported among those saved. Haldane formerly lived at 113 South Walnut street, Quincy Point. He is employed by the Walworth Manufacturing Co.

Queenstown, May 8.—Between 1000 and 1500 men, women and children are believed to have perished when the Cunard liner Lusitania was torpedoed by a German submarine off the Irish coast yesterday afternoon.

Through the night boatload after boatload of survivors, wounded and dead, were landed here and at the nearby coast towns, Kinsdale and Clonakilty. Of the 1251 passengers on board the ship, 106 in the first cabin were Americans and 188 in the three classes. The crew numbered 816, practically all British subjects.

Today may add to the number of survivors, but the most searching inquiry does not hold out hope that more than 800 of the outside have been saved. This, the most optimistic estimate, indicates a death roll of 1267.

Many of the survivors who were landed were suffering from wounds, and already several have died at the hospitals which were quickly filled with patients.

Only the most fragmentary stories could be obtained from the rescued, as the majority were hysterical. The survivors are so widely scattered that it has been thus far impossible to get any names of those who were saved.

No Warning Was Given

From the few meagre accounts obtainable, it is apparent that the great steamer was torpedoed without warning. Between the first shock, when the torpedo tore into the side of the doomed liner and the instant when she disappeared, less than half an hour elapsed. The crew and officers worked expeditiously but there was no time to get off all the 1251 passengers.

MANET I. O. O. F. LADIES NIGHT

Old Fashioned Minstrels Is Feature Event

Manet Encampment, I. O. O. F., observed the 96th anniversary of Odd Fellowship with a ladies' night in Odd Fellows hall Thursday evening with an attendance of 225. There was a good representation of the fair sex present, most of them wives of the members of Mt. Wollaston and John Hancock lodges of Quincy, Puritan lodge of Braintree, and Reliance and George L. Gill Rebekah lodges of Quincy.

The feature event of the event was the minstrel show, given on the old fashioned lines, in which the end men sang the latest song hits and indulged in up to the minute jokes at the expense of those present. The performance was a snappy one.

Albert Wood was interlocutor of the show and the end men were Alfred Wood and Charles Prout. The number was programmed as the "Panama Minstrels" and included in the circle were William Richards, Archie Parsons, Alexander Marnock Oscar Hallquist and Charles Wood.

Opening with the old time favorite, "In the Evening with the Moonlight" the circle swung into the catchy melody "Mandy Lee" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," closing with "Now There was Jonah."

Alfred Wood then rendered the song hit, "When You Wore a Tulip" and was repeatedly encored. The jokes followed, after which there was a bone solo to the air "Tipperary," by the end men. Charles Wood closed the end men's contribution with another song hit, "There's a Little Spark of Love Still Burning," and was heartily encored, after which all joined in the singing of the "Old Flag Never Touched the Ground."

Supplementing the minstrels were other numbers, including vocal solos by John Green, violin solos by Elmer Noyes, readings by Mrs. Clara Cummings and George Houghton and cornet solos by G. H. Critchley, and selections by the orchestra of John Hancock lodge.

During the evening there were remarks by George S. Wardsworth, grand junior warden, who spoke on Odd Fellowship.

The evening came to a close with the serving of a luncheon, including salads and pies. The affair was in charge of a large committee of members of the encampment.

KNIGHTS OF KING ARTHUR.

Interesting Debate at Regular Meeting.

The most interesting event at the regular meeting of Bethany Castle Knights of King Arthur Friday evening was a debate on the following: "Resolved that Houghs Neck should be a separate town from Quincy."

The debate on the question was general and some good argumenis were made both pro and con. The judges were A. L. Melcher and Frank W. Crane. At the conclusion of the debate the judges after mature deliberation decided in favor of the negative. Following the debate there was a series of games.

MISSION SERVICE.

Fr. O'Leary of the Redemptorists preached on the "Catholic Church and its precepts" at the service for men Friday evening. Fr. John J. Casey celebrated the benediction. Several hundred received Holy Communion this morning.

ANNUAL MAY PARTY OF EASTERN STAR

Large Number Attend Dance in Alpha Hall Friday Night

STARLIGHT DANCE FEATURE

Quincy chapter, Order of Eastern Star, held its annual May Party in Alpha hall, Friday evening, in a setting of coral pink decorations, set off with masses of potted plants and palms. There was a large attendance.

Worthy Patron Elihu Spear and Associate Matron Mrs. Katherine MacDonald, special invited guests, headed the grand march. All present participated and a pretty novelty was the forming of the letters "O. E. S." by the marchers.

There were several favor dances during the evening. The men were given canes with bows of colored ribbons and the women were given golf sticks which opened into fans of many colors.

The feature number of the evening was the starlight waltz during which the only illumination was from the monster star set on the platform. The star was a duplicate of the emblem of the order and its centre and five points framed the six colors of the organization—green, white, yellow, red and blue.

The coral pink decorations were streamers and festoons of crepe paper. The streamers were draped from points on the wall, three feet apart to the centre chandelier. Hanging from that at the end of an eight foot paper chain was a massive basket of flowers.

All indulged in the modern dances during the evening and the music was furnished by Reed's banjo orchestra. Frappe was served.

The affair was in charge of a committee consisting of Miss Mildred L. Crowley, chairman; Miss Annie E. Rose, Mrs. H. P. Furnald, Mrs. Jacob Petersen, Miss Annie Laing, Miss Florence Hart, Dr. James Zwicker, Dr. C. R. Marston, Thomas Musgrave and Albert Rennie.

CALVIN D. COBB.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris D. Cobb of 116 Kemper street, Wollaston, have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the death Friday evening of their 8 year old son, Calvin D. Cobb, at the Homeopathic hospital, Brighton, where he was taken three weeks ago, ill with scarlet fever.

The boy was a pupil at the Massachusetts Fields school and was a prime favorite with his classmates who mourn his loss. Aside from his parents he leaves a brother George.

Funeral services will be held from his late home Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. Joseph Walther officiating. Following the services the body will be taken to South Portland, Me., for burial.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT CONDUCTS SEARCHING INVESTIGATION HERE

United States Authorities Believe City Has Many Delinquent Income Tax Payers

The Federal Government in investigating Quincy in connection with the income tax returns. It is understood that the government feels that there are many in this city who should have filed returns but who failed to do so. The U. S. authorities, it is understood, hold that the returns from Quincy have been less in proportion to population and assessed valuation than any other city or town in the vicinity and they are making a searching investigation.

Federal Inspector William L. V. Newton of the office of the internal revenue agent in Boston is conducting the investigation. He has been in the city several days. Most of the large stores have received a visit from him and the proprietor of each has been asked to whom he pays rent and how much. If the amount is large Inspector Newton telegraphs to Washington an inquiry whether that landlord has filed an income tax return. If he has not the inspector pays a visit to the delinquent in an effort to ascertain the reason for his neglect.

One local merchant who had failed to make a return is understood to have refused to show his books to the inspector until he was threatened with court proceedings. It is understood that Inspector Newton has discovered a number of persons who failed to obey the law requiring the filing of income tax returns. The Federal Government is determined to make a thorough investigation before it accepts the returns from this city as being complete.

HOLD MILLER FOR GRAND JURY

Joseph E. L. Miller, recognized sureties this morning and was held for the Grand Jury in connection with charges of manslaughter and operating a machine while under the influence of liquor. Miller is alleged to have caused the death of Chief Butler of Weymouth. The sureties were Mrs. J. E. L. Miller and Harry Quinn.

PRESENT PLAY.

An enjoyable entertainment was given by the Galahad club of Christ church Thursday evening. During the first part of the evening there was a little play entitled "A Little Tiff," those in the cast of characters being, James Moyle, Joseph Beale, Albert Read, Wilfred McCarthy, James Smith and Ernest Melhuish.

Following the play there was a variety entertainment which included readings by Miss Louise Moyle, vocal solos by Joseph Beale, Mr. Read and Miss Thompson; solo, James Moyle and violin solo Miss Perdu.

THE WEATHER.

The Spring Fever evidently has not attacked Fire Hazard Commissioner O'Keefe. This distinguished gentleman, seated in his office in the state house, is kept very busy these days making fire prevention rules, amending them, revoking them, and then making new ones. It seems now that seven days notice for applicants for permits to keep gasoline is not enough. Fourteen days says the commissioner.

The Commissioner has been negligent. He has not promulgated any rules regulating smoking of pipes, cigars, and cigarettes. The following might do for a start:

1. No person shall light a pipe with a common match without first securing a permit from the city engineer, said permit to be issued only after advertising in the local papers the fact that permit has been applied for and also holding a public hearing on the postoffice steps before the clergymen of the city

2. No person shall light a cigar on the public streets under any condition. Same may be lighted from an open grate in the home of a public accountant not later than 7 P. M. any day except Wednesday and on Wednesday not later than 6 P. M.

3. No person shall light a cigarette except on a paved street of said city and not without first securing a Sunday school diploma and a permit from the office of the Fire Hazard Commissioner. Said permit will be issued by the commissioner only after thorough physical test and thorough test on the rules of the commissioner.

4. Ladies are exempt from this provision upon payment of an annual fee of $1.63 to the clerk of said city, said fee to be devoted to the purchase of orange blossoms for the decoration of the street watering carts.

WOULD ROOT OUT ALL VANDALISM

Mayor Writes to Acting Chief of Police

Mayor Campbell sent the following letter to Capt. McKay of the police department this morning relative to the acts of vandalism in the granite yards at South Quincy.

May 8, 1915

Capt. Daniel R. McKay,
Acting Chief of Police,
Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir:—

My attention has been called to the acts of vandalism at the yards of the South Quincy Granite Company on Vernon street, where finished work was mutilated during the night of Thursday May 6th, or early in the morning of Friday May 7th.

I desire to say that it would be well to impress upon every officer the importance of the utmost diligence in ferreting out the guilty parties and when found to use every means to have them punished to the fullest extent of the law. It is important that we should protect our industries from such acts of lawlessness, and I request you to inform every officer that we expect them to do their full duty in bringing to justice these culprits.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) Chester I. Campbell
Mayor.

ENEMY TO REFORM.

One of the greatest enemies to reform is haste. Honest, well meaning men and woman perceive lamentable conditions which they know should be removed. Too often they remove them bodily without giving those who have lived so long under those conditions an opportunity to see the value of the change or to learn how to adapt themselves to the new manner of life. Great reforms come slowly, when the people have grown to meet them.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen and the other noble minded Chinese who instigated the recent revolution which dethroned the emperor failed to see the danger to reform which lies in undue haste. They drew up an elaborate constitution, providing among other things for the regulation of monoply in business which will reach China long after the name of Sun Yat Sen has faded into the dim archives of history. They drew up a constitution which was centuries ahead of China's comprehension. Result: a dictatorship under, fortunately, one of the ablest men of the age, President Yuan Shi Kai.

To come nearer home, observe the career of Fire Hazard Commissioner O'Keefe. An honest man and an able one, no doubt. He sees conditions which should be remedied. Forthwith he promulgates a conglomeration of rules and regulations which no one can understand. The rules are aimed to accomplish a desirable end but they are coming too fast.

They are based on theory rather than experience. Experience shows some of them unwise and inadequate. Forthwith, another set of rules supplants the old, half-baked rules, many of them without any basis in reason. The result is inevitable: a feeling of anger and of scorn toward the commissioner and his aims. And all because he forgot that reforms must come slowly and be based on experience. Then they will be sane and reasonable and the people will realize their value. Instead they are absurd and unreasonable and the people merely laugh at them.

THEORY AND EXPERIENCE.

Theorists are apt to scorn men of practical experience and men of practical experience are even more likely to scorn theorists. As a matter of fact both theory and practice are valuable, especially when yoked together.

The West Point graduate is not a first class officer until he has had the benefit of practical experience in the business of war, yet when he has secured that experience he is the better officer by reason of his training in the theory of warfare.

The best newspaperman is he who has had the best experience, other things being equal, and yet he is none the worse, perhaps, for theoretical training in a school of journalism. Such schools fully realize the value of experience and endeavor to incorporate actual newspaper work as much as practicable into their courses

Agricultural colleges also realize the value of a proper union of theory and experience. The Connecticut Agricultural College, for example requires a student to work six months on a real farm before he can be granted a degree. The Rhode Island Agricultural College will adopt the same rule. The right kind of theory is derived from the experience of others, a short cut to efficiency.

JAPAN DEMANDS ARE SOFTENED

Mikado Influenced by Attitude of Other Powers

TREATY RIGHTS OF AMERICA

Washington Gave Notice That They Must Be Strictly Enforced—Elder Statesmen Consistently Opposed Extremest Measures In Forcing Concessions From China

Tokio, May 8.—Peace between Japan and China was assured when article five of the Japanese demands, most obnoxious to China and other powers, was officially withdrawn.

Group five of the Japanese demands, according to the text handed the Chinese government in February, contained seven articles providing for Japanese advisers in Chinese political, financial and military affairs and other comprehensive concessions.

With this important concession on the part of Japan and the reported acceptance by China of Japan's other demands, peace seemes certain.

The demand on China which Japan retracts is:

Art. 5—The Chinese government agrees that in respect of the (two) cases mentioned below the Japanese government's consent shall be first obtained before action is taken.

(a) Whenever permission is granted to the subject of a third power to build a railway or to make a loan with a third power for the purpose of building a railway in south Manchuria and eastern inner Mongolia.

(b) Whenever a loan is to be made with a third power pledging the loan taxes of South Manchuria and eastern inner Mongolia as security.

Advices emanating from Pekin have intimated that before conceding to all of Japan's demands China would appeal to the other powers. This, coupled with the statement by the American state department that America will insist on the strictest enforcement of its treaty rights, may have influenced the mikado in softening his demands.

Whatever the cause the elder statesmen, who have consistently opposed extremest measures, apparently have prevailed.

A cessation of Japan's warlike preparations is expected to follow the official announcement.

Barnes Not to Blame For "Waste" Unless He Knew About It

Syracuse, N. Y., May 8.—Justice Andrews, presiding at the trial of William Barnes' suit for libel against Theodore Roosevelt, ruled that unless it was shown that Barnes actually knew of and profited by alleged extravagance and waste in the execution in Albany of orders for public printing, evidence upon that subject was incompetent.

The proof, according to the ruling of the court, must be either circumstantial or direct, and it must be shown that the waste and extravagance was brought about through his political influence.

What counsel for Roosevelt represented to be a list of the commissions paid by the J. B. Lyons company to The Journal company during the nine years from 1903 to 1912 was read to the jury. The total of the sums read from the list was slightly in excess of $37,000.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Editor of the Ledger:

In a recent issue of the Ledger Mrs Alice E. Comins accuses me of distorting facts and misrepresenting the cause of suffrage and the character of its adherents, especially in what I said at the Quincy anti-suffrage meeting respecting the alliance between Socialism, Feminism and the Woman Suffrage movement. Will you give me space for a brief reply?

There are undoubtedly many good suffragists, like Mrs. Comins, who close their eyes to the logical consequences of Woman Suffrage, and refuse to accept its Socialistic and Feministic allies as comrades in arms. But these speak only as individuals. They represent simply their own point of view, and not the point of view of the movement as a whole. They are the gentle parlor suffragists who have been lured into the movement by its promise of purer milk, cleaner streets, better politics and happier homes, and are so shocked when shown this bright child of their imagination arm in arm with immoral Feminism and destructive Socialism that they refuse to believe the evidence of their senses. It can't be true. It's a trick of the "Antis" to discredit their cause.

When we want to find out what a movement stands for, however, and who and what its allies are, we do not go to well-meaning but possibly deluded followers. We go to headquarters. And when we go to the headquarters of the Woman Suffrage movement and the Socialist movement and the Feminist movement, we find there not only no denial of the charge that an alliance exists between them but the most abundant and conclusive evidence that the charge is true. It was part of this evidence that I presented to my audience in Quincy and I will give some of it again, if I am permitted the space, in order that Mrs. Comins may be able to verify my statements. I do not ask her or any one else to take my unsupported word.

The president of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association is an avowed Socialist, having declared in an article published in the Boston Globe: "The same forces that are driving men into the Socialist ranks in fast growing numbers are bound to drive women there too * * * It is only a question of time when women as well as men will see that instead of having our industries run by a gigantic combination of forces for the enrichment of the few, it would be more sensible to have them run by co-operation for the benefit of all.

There has been a woman suffrage plank in the Socialist platform as long as they have had a platform, and a Socialist who is not a woman suffragist would be a rather rare exhibit. In the New York Call (Socialist) for January 21 of this year there was an appeal for funds for the Socialist suffrage campaign committee, which read: "Even the smallest contribution will serve its purpose by helping to win equal suffrage in New York state and to spread the gospel of Socialism among women."

In the big suffrage parade in Washington in 1913 Socialists marched in large numbers bearing an enormous banner inscribed: "One million Socialists Work for Woman Suffrage." In May, 1914, the Socialists marched with the suffragists in Washington again and carried a banner bearing a similar inscription. Meantime Miss Anna Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, answered comments on the suffrage-socialist alliance by declaring: "We welcome every Socialist vote."

Daniel De Leon, one of the most prominent American Socialists, said in an address on "Woman Suffrage": "All the facts, all the reasonings, focus to one conclusion. Woman's suffrage must take its place as an integral splinter in the torch that lights the path of the social revolution." In the one Woman Suffrage parade held in Boston, a large contingent was composed of Socialists, who did not hesitate to declare their desire for the social revolution; and for the last four years at the State House a portion of the time allotted to the petitioners for Woman Suffrage was given to the Socialists.

If there is no connection between Woman Suffrage, Socialism and Feminism, why does the National Woman Suffrage Association advertise and sell the bibliography entitled "The Case for Woman Suffrage" published by the College Equal Suffrage League? This book is a compilation of writings in favor of woman suffrage, and those which are deemed the best by the author, who is the president of Bryn Mawr college, are starred in accordance; and those receiving the highest head of praise are the arguments of Socialists, like Max Eastman, and radical Feminists, like Mrs. Charles Perkins Gilman, who pleads for what she calls the "man-wife" and says there is no such thing as mother love!

Max Eastman, editor of the "Masses," a rabid Socialist publication, in which appeared the blasphemous poem, "God's Blunder," is secretary of the New York Men's League for Woman Suffrage, and a prominent speaker on suffrage platforms. "Woman," says Eastman, "should be freed from all limitations of law, dogma and custom." Other suffrage-socialist-feminist writers and speakers whose radical utterances are indorsed by the National Woman Suffrage Association are:

Inez Milholland-Boissevain, who says "wedding rings are relics of barbarism"; Dora Marsden, author of "Bondswomen," a most unpleasant pamphlet in which wives and mothers are characterized as slaves; Eola La-Follette, who refuses to use her marriage name, because to do so would be contrary to the teachings of radical feminism; Winifred Harper Cooley, Mary Ware Dennette, Rheta Childe Dohrr and Miss Jessie Ashley, author of an unquotable article on "Who are the White Slaves." The list is too long to attempt to give it in full.

Does Mrs. Comins want further authority than I have given for my assertion that there is a connection between Woman Suffrage and Feminism? Let her purchase a copy of Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale's new book, "What Women Want." Mrs. Hale, who is a leading suffragist speaker and writer, well known to Massachusetts suffragists, calls her book "an interpretation of the Feminist movement." In her preface she says: "It is my conviction that the revolutionary growth known as the Feminist Movement is gradually supplying to women the things they most need." And on Page 184 she says: Enfranchisement is only a branch of the tree of Feminism."

"The average woman," says Mrs. Comins, "never will stand for any issue that is unwomanly, perverted or disastrous to the life of the family and the general good." Very true, and that is just the reason that less than ten per cent. of the women of Massachusetts are today demanding the ballot. And it is also the reason why the average suffrage adherent, if she studied the literature of the "cause," and understood thoroughly the tendency of modern suffragism would quickly cease to give it her support.

Mrs. Comins says "non-partisan influence" did not help the workingman. Why, if the laboring men of the United States found the ballot such an all-powerful instrument in securing legislation and bettering their condition, did they deem it necessary to form organizations and to strike for higher wages and shorter hours? And why, having formed their organizations, did they carefully keep them aloof from partisan politics? No, the weapon with which labor fought its battles for better conditions was not the ballot, but the non-partisan union.

I don't know where Mrs. Comins got her information about conditions in Woman Suffrage states, but the facts are all the other way. The National Child Labor Commission is authority for the statement that the best laws for women and children are not found in Woman Suffrage states. Infant mortality has decreased more rapidly in Boston and New York than in any other cities in the country, and here are some divorce figures which I believe Mrs. Comins will not be able to disprove:

Divorce rate per 100,000 of married population: In Woman suffrage Washington, 513; Idaho, 374; Colorado, 409; Oregon, 368; Wyoming, 361. In male suffrage Missouri, 281; South Dakota, 270, and North Dakota, 268. Moreover Nevada has just re-established itself as the nation's divorce colony and Nevada adopted votes for women in 1914.

Tree Notes

The Forestry committee of the Quincy Women's club has prepared the following article about trees, and tree pests and their treatment.

WHY PLANT TREES.

They add value to adjacent property; protect from the hot sun: add beauty and comfort to street and they cool the air in the summer and radiate warmth in winter.

WHERE TO PLANT TREES.

Plant 35 to 40 feet apart in good soil. Dig a pit three feet square by three and a half feet deep. Replace the sand and stones by good top soil mixed with well-rotted manure. See that the best soil is near the roots.

HOW TO PLANT TREES.

Dig the hole large enough to take the roots without crowding. Cut off broken and injured roots with a sharp knife. Make a clean cut. Trim back the top to counterbalance the loss of roots. See that the earth is pressed firmly around the roots to hold the tree in place. Water thoroughly.

TREES TO PLANT.

Trees for general street planting should be nursery grown. These have compact root system, straight stems and symmetrical tops, and are accustomed to transplanting. Only a few varieties of trees do well in the city. Among these the Norway Maple, American Elm, European Linden, Ash and Sycamore or Plane trees are easily the leaders. Do not plant Poplars or Silver Maples. They are short-lived, clog the sewer pipes, raise the sidewalks and topple over in storms. The Silver Maples also harbor borers.

DO YOU KNOW?

That the tree is like a mill that runs itself.

The raw materials it uses are the minerals from the soil and the gases from the air.

The leaves are the machinery that take charge of the raw material and make it into the finished product, sap, that goes to feed every part of the tree.

The sunlight is the power that runs the machinery.

The waste products of this mill that the leaves send off into the air are the very things that we human beings need most, oxygen to breathe and moisture.

Do you know of any other manufactory that runs itself, furnishes its own materials and gives away its products to bless and brighten the world?

That trees are the oldest living inhabitants on the face of the globe? That there are trees living now in California that were already one thousand years old when Columbus discovered America?

That a full-grown tree sends out 187 gallons of water a day through its leaves into the air? Think what a difference that makes in hot, dry weather.

That Massachusetts is a Pine growing state.

That you can get Pine tree-lots from Amherst Agricultural College for six dollars a thousand? Land reforested in this way will in ten years' time yield good returns.

PESTS AND REMEDIES.

Tent Caterpillar—Collect nests early in the spring, or spray with Arsenate of Lead.

Elm Leaf Beetle—Spray with Arsenate of Lead in May or June.

San Jose Scale—Best controlled by spraying with a contact poison such as Lime Sulphur or Soluble Oil. Apply when the tree is dormant, in late fall or early spring.

Aphis—Spray with a weak solution of Lime Sulphur, Soluble Oil, Kerosene Emulsion, or Whale Oil Soap.

Gypsy Moth—Cut off the portion of bark upon which the nest is made; burn this; apply creosote.

Brown-tailed Moths—Cut off the nests, if necessary portions of limbs and burn without scattering on the ground.

Leopard Moth—Probe into the hole made by borer and draw out worms. Fill cavity with carbon-bi-sulphide and fill with putty.

Vitralite... THE LONG-LIFE WHITE ENAMEL

She's no Different than you, THIS WOMAN.
Her skill is no greater than yours. She's merely discovered what to her was at first a revelation, Vitralite, the Long-Life White Enamel. She found that the enamel just swept over the surface producing a smooth, even, porcelain-like finish without a single brush mark or flaw.
On larger jobs she finds her painter can get results in fewest coats and least time with Vitralite. He's glad to use Vitralite because it does him credit—will not crack, chip off nor turn yellow. Don't do your Spring painting until you know all about Vitralite. Ask us.

GAME FRIDAY.
Brockton at Brockton, (South Shore League.)

Quincy High school lost its first extra inning game of the season to South Boston at Merrymount park Thursday afternoon, 5 to 4. A poor throw over third base by Desmond sent across the winning run.

The game was thrown away by both teams on three occasions, the break favoring the visitors in the first half of the 11th and a foul fly and two throw outs at first squelched the locals chance of tieing up.

The hitting of both teams sent across two runs apiece in the first inning. An inexcusable error by Hayes, the visiting left fielder gave Quincy two runs in the second.

The poorest exhibition of loose playing seen on the field in several seasons in the seventh gave South Boston two and enough to tie.

A serious accident took place as a final to Southies efforts to score another when Capt. Connors hit to Paul Larkin and in endeavoring to beat out the throw he slid to first and fractured his right ankle.

The snapping of the bone was plainly heard by the fans on the first base bleachers. Dr. Daniel B. Reardon and Dr. Charles S. Adams who were on the field went to Connor's relief and Patrolman Avery called the police ambulance and sent him to the Quincy City hospital. On Sunday he will be removed to the Carney hospital so as to be near his home

A slow throw home in that inning by Paul Larkin, who endeavored to hold a man at first gave South the third run. The runner in the meantime went to second and then to third on O'Donnell's oor throw to Bryan A passed ball by O'Donnell let him score.

The balance of the game was fast and snappy but was brought to a sudden close by the overthrow of Desmond.

Hamlin did not seem to be in any kind of form and if it was not for the support given him the score would have been run up close to the dozen mark. He fanned but three men and was hit to the outfield as well as the infield. Buck Reardon saved him four times, Simmons twice and DiSenso once. The infield brought about the retirement of 15 men at first and Larkin choked a man off at home in the third. Had he himself allowed Haye's slot hit grounder go through to Larkin instead of trying a one hand assist himself in the 7th two runs would easily have been avoided.

Bryan at third base was the star of the game for Quincy. He got a hit, four putouts and six assists Bryan stopped a sure hit in the sixth inning when he pulled a liner, dropped it, and recovered it soon enough to get a putout at first. The next bal hit was also a line drive but he handled it perfectly.

Captain Connors, who was injured, until that time starred for the visitors. Kennedy at short gave a pretty performance. Barry, the Southie pitcher was one of the coolest men durin gthe game. He accepted every chance and his attempt to throw out Larkin at first, who earned the right to run on a pretty bunt, resulted in his hitting Larkin in the back with the ball.

Hultin was sent in as a pinch hitter in the 11th, taking Desmond's place, but didn't reach first The summary:

HAVRAH HUBBARD DELIGHTS MANY

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith Is Hostess

Those who accept the hospitality of Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, president of the Quincy Women's club, Friday afternoon at the clubhouse enjoyed a most delightful afternoon.

Mrs. Smith invited members of the club and a few friends to be her guests at an opera talk to be given by Havrah W. L. Hubbard, assisted at the piano by William E. Weston of Wollaston, nephew of Mrs. Smith, who has become associated with Mr. Hubbard taking the place of Floyd Baxter.

Mrs. Smith received her guests in the main entrance hall and after all had assembled, in a few words of greeting introduced Mr. Hubbard, who took the tuneful and popular opera "La Boheme," by Pucinni as his subject.

He gave a brief sketch of Pucinni, his environment, early writings, etc., a life of much promise, who was less than forty years old at his death. He left behind works that speak for him; the operas, Madam Butterfly, The Girl of the Golden West and La Boheme.

Mr. Hubbard in reciting the story of La Boheme, with musical accompaniment by Mr. Weston was at his best. Although he has been heard here several times and in many operas never has he given a more pleasing rendering or to a more appreciative gathering.

Mr. Weston's accompaniments were a delight, his artistic interpretation, a running accompaniment with the right shading, never obtrusive, always adequate, so much a part of the whole that it was a distinct pleasure to his listeners.

Mr. Hubbard and Mr. Weston were given a hearty encore, which they graciously acknowledged.

Punch was served during the informal reception which followed the opera talk, the servers being Mrs. Frank A. Page and Mrs. George Weston. Mr. Chandler W. Smith and Rev. A. L. Hudson were among the guests of the afternoon.

Head master Warner of the Technical High school of Springfield is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mallows of Conant road.

QUINCY YOUTH SHOWS GENIUS

Bruce Saville's Bust of Father On Exhibition

Everyone in Quincy will be interested in the bust of George G. Saville now being exhibited at the Thomas Crane Public library. This bust was modelled by his son, Bruce Wilder Saville, a young sculptor just coming into prominence. The bust has been placed in the west side of the main hall of the library, that is the side nearest the court house. Here it is shown to such good advantage that one reader in the room said he "glanced up quickly and was about to bow to Mr. Saville" before he realized it was a bust.

Mr. Saville, upon graduating from Quincy High school spent a year at Normal Art school and then went into the studio of Mrs. Kitson, with whom he has been working for three years. Her studio is on Park Lane near Black's Creek, and here it was that Mr. Saville modelled the likeness of his father. This is the first time Mr. Saville has exhibited any of his work, and it is right that Quincy should be the first to recognize this young sculptor as a genius. It is right and proper, too, that the public library should be the place where such productions are exhibited.

The bust itself is of bronzed plaster and is life-size. It shows the head, shoulders, and hands. The pose, with the head bent slightly forward in a characteristic position, the set of the shoulders, the hands, and the perfect facial expression, are wonderfully portrayed. The likeness is perfect. The hands, with a pipe naturally held, are noticeably good.

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

(Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Company)

She gathered her robe around her and, statelily and impressively, started toward the huts of her grandsons. When she returned, eight young warriors, fully armed, accompanied her. Pitchoune sat beside the parched corn, watching the brazier and her meal. Fatou Anni pointed to the desert.

She said to the young men, "Go with this genie. There is something he wishes to show us. Allah is great. Go."

* * * * * * *

When the Capitaine de Sabron opened his eyes in consciousness, they encountered a square of blazing blue heaven. He weakly put up his hand to shade his sight, and a cotton awning, supported by four bamboo poles, was swiftly raised over his head. He saw objects and took cognizance of them. On the floor in the low doorway of a mud hut sat three little naked children covered with flies and dirt. He was the guest of Fatou Anni. These were three of her hundred great-great-grandchildren. The babies were playing with a little dog. Sabron knew the dog but could not articulate his name. By his side sat the woman to whom he owed his life. Her veil fell over her face. She was braiding straw. He looked at her intelligently. She brought him a drink of cool water in an earthen vessel, with the drops oozing from its porous sides. The hut reeked with odors which met his nostrils at every breath he drew. He asked in Arabic:

"Where am I?"

"In the hut of victory," said Fatou Anni.

Pitchoune overheard the voice and came to Sabron's side. His master murmured:

"Where are we, my friend?"

The dog leaped on his bed and licked his face. Fatou Anni, with a whisk of straw, swept the flies from him. A great weakness spread its wings above him and he fell asleep.

Days are all alike to those who lie in mortal sickness. The hours are intensely colorless and they slip and slip and slip into painful wakefulness, into fever, into drowsiness finally, and then into weakness.

The Capitaine de Sabron, although he had no family to speak of, did possess, unknown to the Marquise d'Esclignac, an old aunt in the provinces, and a handful of heartless cousins who were indifferent to him. Nevertheless he clung to life and in the hut of Fatou Anni fought for existence. Every time that he was conscious he struggled anew to hold to the thread of life. Whenever he grasped the thread he vanquished, and whenever he lost it, he went down, down.

Fatou Anni cherished him. He was a soldier who had fallen in the battle against her sons and grandsons. He was a man and a strong one, and she despised women. He was her prey and he was her reward and she cared for him; as she did so, she became maternal.

His eyes which, when he was conscious, thanked her; his thin hands that moved on the rough blue robe thrown over him, the devotion of the dog—found a responsive chord in the great-grandmother's heart. Once he smiled at one of the naked, big-bellied great-great-grandchildren. Beni Hassan, three years old, came up to Sabron with his fingers in his mouth and chattered like a bird. This proved to Fatou Anni that Sabron had not the Evil Eye. No one but the children were admitted to the hut, but the sun and the flies and the cries of the village came in without permission, and now and then, when the winds arose, he could hear the stirring of the palm trees.

Sabron was reduced to skin and bone. His nourishment was insufficient, and the absence of all decent care was slowly taking him to death. It will never be known why he did not die.

Pitchoune took to making long excursions. He would be absent for days, and in his clouded mind Sabron thought the dog was reconnoitering for him over the vast pink sea without there—which, if one could sail across as in a ship, one would sail to France, through the walls of mellow old Tarascon, to the chateau of good King Rene; one would sail as the moon sails, and through an open window one might hear the sound of a woman's voice singing. The song, ever illusive and irritating in its persistency, tantalized his sick ears.

Sabron did not know that he would have found the chateau shut had he sailed there in the moon. It was as well that he did not know, for his wandering thought would not have known where to follow, and there was repose in thinking of the Chateau d'Esclignac.

It grew terribly hot. Fatou Anni, by his side, fanned him with a fan she had woven. The great-great-grandchildren on the floor in the mud fought together. They quarreled over bits of colored glass. Sabron's breath came panting. Without, he heard the cries of the warriors, the lance-bearers—he heard the cries of Fatou Anni's sons who were going out to battle. The French soldiers were in a distant part of the Sahara and Fatou Anni's grandchildren were going out to pillage and destroy. The old woman by his side cried out and beat her breast. Now and then she looked at him curiously, as if she saw death on his pale face. Now that all her sons and grandsons had gone, he was the only man left in the village, as even boys of sixteen had joined the raid. She wiped his forehead and gave him a potion that had been pierced with arrows. It was all she could do for a captive.

Toward sundown, for the first time Sabron felt a little better, and after twenty-four hours' absence, Pitchoune whined at the hut door, but would not come in. Fatou Anni called on Allah, left her patient and went out to see what was the matter with the dog. At the door, in the shade of a palm, stood two Bedouins.

It was rare for the caravan to pass by Beni Medinet. The old woman's superstition foresaw danger in this visit. Her veil before her face, her gnarled old fingers held the fan with which she had been fanning Sabron. She went out to the strangers. Down by the well a group of girls in garments of blue and yellow, with earthen bottles on their heads, stood staring at Beni Medinet's unusual visitors.

"Peace be with you, Fatou Anni," said the older of the Bedouins.

"Are you a cousin or a brother that you know my name?" asked the ancient woman.

"Everyone knows the name of the oldest woman in the Sahara," said Hammet Abou, "and the victorious are always brothers."

"What do you want with me?" she asked, thinking of the helplessness of the village.

Hammet Abou pointed to the hut.

"You have a white captive in there. Is he alive?"

"What is that to you, son of a dog?"

"The mother of many sons is wise," said Hammet Abou portentously, "but she does not know that this man carries the Evil Eye. His dog carries the Evil Eye for his enemies. Your people have gone to battle. Unless this man is cast out from your village, your young men, your grandsons and your sons will be destroyed."

The old woman regarded him calmly.

"I do not fear it," she said tranquilly. "We have had corn and oil in plenty. He is sacred."

For the first time she looked at his companion, tall and slender and evidently younger.

"You favor the coward Franks," she said in a high voice. "You have come to fall upon us in our desolation."

She was about to raise the peculiar wail which would have summoned to her all the women of the village. The dogs of the place had already begun to show their noses, and the villagers were drawing near the people under the palms. Now the young man began to speak swiftly in a language that she did not understand, addressing his comrade. The language was so curious that the woman, with the cry arrested on her lips, stared at him. Pointing to his companion, Hammet Abou said:

"Fatou Anni, this great lord kisses your hand. He says that he wishes he could speak your beautiful language. He does not come from the enemy; he does not come from the French. He comes from two women of his people by whom the captive is beloved. He says that you are the mother of sons and grandsons, and that you will deliver this man up into our hands in peace."

W. G. YOUNG IS FIRST PRESIDENT

The first meeting of the Atlantic Improvement Association was held Friday evening and Welcome G. Young was elected as president.

Chief Faxon Billings of the fire department was the first speaker and he gave a brief description of the work of preventing fires. He told of the many improvements that had been made to prevent fires since the establishment of the Fire Hazard Commissioner's office for the prevention of fires and expressed his appreciation of the work of Commissioner O'Keefe.

Commissioner O'Keefe was the speaker of the evening and he spoke interestingly of the work of the Fire Hazard Commission, outlining the work which he was trying to carry out, with the children in the public schools stating that many came from the country where the danger of fire in houses is reduced to a minimum on account of buildings made of stone or brick.

He also said that he was trying to enlist the public school teachers to show the children the danger of leaving smouldering fires. Fires caused by foreign children he said was due largely to carelessness and ignorance. He then explained how gasoline, naphtha and kerosene was made from patroleum and spoke of the danger of handling gasoline, by people ignorant of its explosive power, stating that women often clean gloves and silk dresses with gasoline and then leave them in the house where the gas escapes and comes in contact with flame. He also explained the law relative to keeping gasoline.

After the address President Young outlined the policy of the association and explained what it would try to carry out in the way of improvements.

A petition was then introduced and adopted asking the street railway to give half hour service between Neponset bridge and Squantum.

QUINCY PEOPLE

For the majority it was slaughter. Germany had effectively massacred a regiment of non-combatants. The triumphs of the bombardment of English coast towns and of the bomb droppers who have wrecked homes and killed women and children have been eclipsed.

In the size and fame of the steamer and the catastrophe that followed hours of reassuring bulletins, the sinking of the Lusitania naturally recalled the loss of the Titanic.

But the scene could not have been more different. The sea could hardly have beeen more calm, the weather more delightful. The passengers, who had not taken seriously the advertisements of the German embassy when the steamer sailed from New York, had recovered from the slight feeling of uneasiness that had been apparent. Even the most timorous were completely reassured when the green coast of Ireland was sighted, especially as the swift steamer drew nearer and nearer to port.

Plans Carefully Laid

The German plans had been carefully laid, presumably weeks in advance. One submarine at least, and probably three or four, were patiently waiting for thier prey. They had been sent out to get the Lusitania. The smaller steamers that they torpedoed off the Irish coast were incidental and lucky accidents in the German scheme.

The Lusitania was noticed by observers at the Kinsale signal station, making her customary speed. From a mass of conflicting stories, the most reliable appears to be that furnished by the men at this station.

At 2:12 yesterday afternoon, it was noted by one of the observers that the liner seemed to be listing. A moment or two later the suspicion was made certain. So rapidly did the steamer sink that a 2:33, exactly twenty-one minutes after the first sign of the impending catastrophe, the gigantic liner had completely disappeared.

She went down bow first. Glasses could make out about twenty boats clustered in the neighborhood.

The quiet of Queenstown was electrified into the wildest excitement when the first bulletin reached here. Steamers and trawlers were hastily manned, and word sent to every nearby port to send any possible assistance.

News of Loss of Life

The first rescue steamer to reach Queenstown was the Storm Cook, which brought about 150 survivors, almost all of them passengers and several of them women. Until the Storm Cook arrived, reports were heard that not a life had been lost.

Then the real story of the tragedy flowed out from the fog of rumor. None of those who have been landed here believes that more than half the passengers escaped and the majority insist that only about one-third survived.

The few officers who were in the boats, the best judges of such a tragedy, believe that possibly 500 of the 1251 passengers had been put into the boats when the Lusitania went down. No trustworthy report sets the figure higher; the majority estimate the survivors at perhaps 400.

Just how many of the crew made their escape is also a matter of conjecture. Of the officers, very few are alive now. If 1000 of the 2067 on board have been saved, it will surpass expectations.

Two or three hundred survivors are believed to have been landed at Clonakilty. Two rescue steamers, believed to be the Warrior and Julia, bringing more survivors, are making Queenstown, and it is reported that a Greek steamer is steaming to Kinsale with boats of the Lusitania in tow. Only eleven survivors have been landed at Kinsale.

Hit by Two Torpedoes

Whether more than one submarine was responsible for the sinking of the steamer is as yet unknown. Wild rumors that an infernal mine caused the ship's destruction were at first credited, but this was proven untrue when the first survivors reached shore and were able to tell their stories.

According to the steward of the Lusitania, one of those who were landed here on the Storm Cook, one submarines which fired two torpedoes was the agent of destruction. The first torpedo ripped a huge hole forward, the second tore into the engine room. Both were accompanied by terrific explosions which shook the great steamer as a great building is rocked by an earthquake.

The passengers rushed from the dining room, where lunch was being served to those in the first cabin. Under Captain Turner's incisive orders the officers sprang to their posts, and the steamer had hardly begun to list before the boats were being made ready. After the first fright the passengers behaved admirably.

Twenty-Ninth Sunk In Week

The Lusitania is the twenty-ninth vessel to be sunk or damaged in the first week of May in the German war zone about the British Isles.

Most of these vessels were torpedoed by German submarines, although in some cases it has not been established whether the damage was inflicted by mines or submarines.

During the last fortnight, German submarines have been more active than ever before. Sixteen of the twenty-nine vessels were British trawlers. There were four British and one French merchantmen in the list.

The others were vessels of neutral nations. One of them was the American steamer Gulflight, which was torpedoed off the Scilly islands May 1, with a loss of three lives. There were three Norwegian, two Swedish and one Danish merchant vessels in this number.

MISSION SERVICES AT ST. JOHNS CONCLUDED

During Past Week Attendance Was 12,000

Solemn and impressive services brought to a close the mission for the men of St. John's parish at St. John's church on Sunday evening. The mission was held under the direction of priests of the Redemptorist order and during the week it is estimated that the attendance totaled 12,000.

The services opened with prayer, under the direction of Father Thomas Jones and was followed by a sermon on "Perseverance" by Fr. F. L. Kenzel.

Father Kenzel said that there is but one God, that God rewards the just in heaven and punishes the wicked in hell for all eternity, that there are three Divine persons in God—the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, and that the second person, the Son of God, became Man and died on the cross to redeem us from sin and hell.

He said the only thing necessary is to save one's soul and perseverance can be assisted through avoiding the occasions of sin, temperance in the use of intoxicants, fearlessness in the performance of Christian duties, the practice of holy prayer, frequent reception of the sacraments, attendance at Mass on Sundays and holy days of obligation, and the practice of constant devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary, and, if possible, the daily reciting of the Rosary.

Father Kenzel said there are thousands of men leading a perfect Christian life.

At the close of the sermon Father Kenzel bestowed the papal blessing and the blessing of the mission fathers on those assembled, after all had with hands stretched toward the altar, pledged themselves to try to lead a better Christian life.

Fr. M. J. Owens, pastor of the parish, celebrated the solemn high Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Fr. John J. Casey was deacon and Fr. Walter A. Quinlan was subdeacon. The musical portion was sung by the men's choir under the direction of John Mahan, organist. Arthur Holmes was the soloist.

The altar, illuminated by hundreds of burning candles, presented a beautious sight. The statue of the Blessed Virgin on the left towered above tiers of lighted candles and floral pieces. The flowers were contributed by the men of the parish and among the pieces were offerings from conductors and motormen of the Bay State St Ry., and organizations of the church. On Saturday evening all of the men were consecrated to the Blessed Virgin and during the consecration there was singing by a choir of 50 boys who were on the altar.

This morning Father Jones celebrated a high mass of requiem for the deceased of the parish and preached a sermon on "Purgatory." There was a large attendance of men and women.

SPEAKERS TELL OF BARRE STRIKE

About 125 members of the Granite Cutters Union were in attendance at a mass meeting held Sunday afternoon in Malnati's hall, South Quincy, to hear the two delegates from the Barre Branch explain the situation as they conceive it to exist in Barre. Although the strike has been settled the delegates did not seem to feel favorable to the agreement accepted and did not think that all the men would return to work. They believed it will be a long time before conditions will be satisfactory to both sides. Luigi Salvucci addressed the Italian residents in their own language and Guisseppe Orsala spoke in English and attacked President James Duncan of the Granite Cutters International association for the manner in which he handled the strike in the interest of the cutters.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY MEETS

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Mary's Holy Name society was held Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the church. Rev. Father Thomas R. McCoy, the spiritual director, gave an interesting talk to the members and chose for his subject "The Catholic church and the Family." Over 400 members of the society attended Holy Communion at the eight o'clock mass. The singing at both services was by the entire society. The next meeting will be held Sunday, June 13th, and will be the last one until September.

GERMANY PARIAH AMONG NATIONS

So Declared Major F. E. Jones

The news of the death of Harvey Page was received with sorrow in teh city this morning. Many expressions of sympathy were made and Major Fred L. Jones, 5th Regt, M. V. M., an intimate friend, paid a glowing tribute to the deceased and also expressed his views on the circumstances. He said:

"Germany is a pariah among nations. This is not instanced alone by the sinking of the Lusitania but by a great many other things such as the poisoning of wells and the use of chlorine and bromine gases. The war on the part of Germany has been a series of barbarous actions which not be even tolerated by the American Indian in his palmy days. All diplomatic creations with that country should be severed and a trade boycott declared without delay.

Misses Annie and Margaret Burns, teachers at the Willard school returned Sunday after spending the week with relatives at Lynchburg, Va.

RICHARD R. FREEMAN JR. BELIEVED TO BE LOST

J. Harvey Page, Formerly of Quincy, Also Among Missing

PROBABLY LOST.

Richard R. Freeman, Jr., 40 Grand View avenue, Wollaston.

J. Harvey Page of Boston, formerly of Quincy.

Mrs. Guy Chambers, 15 May street, East Braintree.

RESCUED.

James Haldane of New York, formerly of 113 South Walnut street, Quincy Point

Guy Chambers, 15 May street, East Braintree.

Thomas Sumner, 52 Broadway, Quincy Point.

Another day has passed since the torpedoed Lusitania sank beneath the waters off the Irish coast and carried part of its cargo of humanity to a watery grave, and although the heroic rescue work has continued and has resulted in the snatching of James Haldane, Thomas Sumner, both of Quincy and Guy W. Chambers of East Braintree, from the deep, but little hope is felt that Richard R. Freeman Jr., of Wollaston, Harvey Page of Boston, formerly of Quincy, and Mrs. Guy Chambers of East Braintree are among the survivors.

No assurances, direct or indirect, that either o fthese passengers were picked up and are now convalescent in the hastily improvised hospitals on the sea coast, have been received and all hope is being rapidly dispelled.

The strain of uncertainty felt at the Freeman home by the parents and sisters of the young man who was on his way to Siberia has extended to all parts of Wollaston. Mrs. Freeman, mother of the boy, is under the doctor's care, having suffered a complete collapse.

THOMAS SUMNER.

Thomas Sumner, of 52 Broadway, a boarding house operated by Mrs. George Smith, who was on the ill fated Lusitania is reported safe.

The Cunard officials sent a message to Mrs. Smith Sunday night which read "Thomas Sumner of 52 Broadway, Quincy Point safe."

Manager, Cunard Office, Boston.

Mr. Sumner is about 33 years old and a native of Lancashire, England. He has been in the United States but a short time being employed as an electrician by the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation. Previous to that he resided with his sister Mrs. George Williams in Sidney, Canada.

J. HARVEY PAGE.

Among those reported missing, was J. Harvey Page a former well known Quincy boy. Mr. Page was born in Quincy and was a son of John Page, for many years prominently identified with the tannery business.

He received his education in the public schools and when a young man entered the employ of the Mark Cross Company. His position was not one that paid a very large salary and although often tempted to give it up he was persuaded to remain. Gradually he climbed the ladder of success until he became the vice president of the company, which office he held at the time he sailed for England.

During the past few years he has made his home in England for the greater part of the time, although frequently coming to America to look after the business of the company in New York and Boston. He was returning to England from one of these business trips.

Mr. Page was about 45 years of age. His wife was a Cambridge woman and is in England at the present time. He also has two sisters one of whom resides in Weymouth and the other in the West.

Word was received from Boston this morning that Mr. Page had been in America about four months He had made several attempts to return but for various reasons had postponed his trip across and when he was able to secure passage on the Lusitania he was very much elated. At the store of Mark Cross Co. in Boston this morning it was given out that Mr. Page was believed to have been lost and out of respect to him the store was ordered closed.

MAYOR CHESTER I. CAMPBELL

ARTHUR W. STETSON, Secretary

SAYS SINKING OF LUSITANIA ONLY USUAL FORTUNES WAR

"Why Make So Much Fuss Over Loss of 1500 Lives Anyway?" Queries Rev. C. E. Campbell

"Realizing the tremenodus strain upon the American Government at this particular crisis, we assembled here in the First Presbyterian church of Quincy, Mass., wish to counsel caution and considerateness to the American people.

"We ask that our President be given our hearty support in his noble effort to weigh the facts in the case before taking any action.

"We suggest further that the Hon. W J. Bryan, Secretary of State, caution all American citizens to remain out of the present war zone; and especially to refuse to travel on vessels of any belligerent country."

The above resolution was adopted unanimously by a standing vote of more than 300 people who heard Rev. C. E. Campbell at the Water street church last evening in one of the most powerful addresses that he has given in the war series thus far.

"It is interesting to notice that some irate editors of the country are saying about the sinking of the Lusitania—'This is no civilized warfare, it is murder by assasination; 'Not Christian warfare but that of primitive savages'; 'It is the spirit of Attila, the Hun, translated into the twentieth century,' and so on. I deeply sympthize with the striken friends of the missing Americans but aside from the fact that such an act has brought the awfulness of war right home to us, I can't see that it is anything out of the usual 'fortunes' of war.

"The Americans who were lost on the boat were repeatedly cautioned not to sail on the ship of a belligerant nation. Disregarding the entreaty of the German embassy that the ship was liable to be torpedoed, they of their own free will accepted the fortunes of war with the result that we all know only too well. England is enforcing a blockade on Germany to keep food and munitions of war from the country. Germany in return seeks to dig her way out and open up the seas by sinking the ships of her enemies. The Lusitania was carrying ammunitions of war and was a belligerent ship and therefore subject to the fortunes of war.

"Aside form the cruelty of all phases of war we certainly have to admire the daring and cunning that would enable ac ountry to send submarines so far from the basis of operation into a sea fairly alive with ships and cruisers and destroyers and deliberately bag its game and successfully make its escape. And that, too, after this country has declared its intentions of destroying the ship to the whole world. I am almost forced to believe that some one in authority who is supposed to be wide awake is quietly sleeping—the English admiralty will have to show greater efficiency or most of the world will be fit subjects of 'kulture.' To my mind it is one of the most marvellous feats of the war thus far.

"But why make so much fuss over the loss of 1500 lives anyway? Thousands are meeting such a horrible death every day in the trenches and untold miseries are inundating all Europe. It is estimated that over 100,000 litle children are now starving to death. The morality and decencies of human life are being lost in this awful move to barbarism. During one week recently these headlints appeared in our dailies: 'Motion introduced into the French Chamber of Deputies to legitimatize the thousands of babies being born in the region where the armies are encamped' 'Brigades with baskets being sent by Germans to collect the many babies beginning to be born in Belgium of German fathers.' 'England debating the standing of the children that have been born in towns where the troops have been encamped' 'To become 'war-brides" being preached by ministers as well as statesmen as the patriotic duty of women.' 'Asylums of Europe filled with women crazed by war.' And still the dailies tell us that much of their news is so horrible that it is deemed unprintable.

"And in the face of all this we prate of the killing of a few non-combatants when that is one of the indispensable features of war. There never has been, and never will be, a war waged in which non-combants did not suffer and lose their lives. It may happen again this week for American citizens took passage last Saturday in an English boat from New York after they had learned of the Lusitania fate, jeapardizing the interests of their government by so doing. Possibly before this war is over most men will reach the conclusion that it is absurd to speak of 'civilized warfare.' and it is futile to attempt to draw a distinction between warfare of Christians and that of primitive savages. War is at the best a savage business; has been and always will be—trying to settle international differences by killing men and destroying property. If that is not barbaric, what is?

"And in times of peace we make rules and regulations after which nations are to conduct this barbaric business, and just so soon as the actual clash takes place and nations are in death throes all regulations are lost and rules disregarded. You can no more regulate the warfare of two great nations in a life and death struggle than you can stop a raging fire sweeping a big city by legislating against it. The Devil makes his own rules and war is a law unto itself. The militant has been asking us men of peace in recent days 'What have you done? All the world is athrill with war and the rumors of war—where is your beautiful peace?'

"We make answer, 'We are doing what we can to stop wars—what have you done?' And for answer we see European civilizations threatened, great empires tottering in decay and death, all life being robbed of its joys and burdened with sorrows—that is what the militant is doing and the end of the kingdom of force is not yet. As men become wiser in the uses of material things warfare becomes more cruel and hellish. The militant has led us for lo these many centuries and today I hang my head in very shame at man's inhumanity to man, at the cruelty and failure of the human race. One of two things must happen and the choice will be made within the next few years—We must either cut out by the roots this awful cancer of war from human civilizations, or revert to ths savagery from whence we have so laboriously come. Possibly by the time this war is ended we shall all be able to see that war is everywhere and always a foul thing, a savage slaughter, a barbaric massacre, a dastardly crime. And men who call it a necessity and who imagineit has glory should be shut up with the incurably insane."

CHANGING LAW OF NATIONS.

In the application of international law to any episode of the present war it should be borne in mind that there are two elements which are destined to work great changes in the code governing belligerents and neutrals in time of war. These two elements are the submarine with its torpedo and the airship. Just as the discovery of gunpowder overturned many of the old rules of warfare so will the submarine and the airship eventually alter many of the rules which came into being before the day of these marvelous achievements of science.

For example, Wilson & Tucker's work on "International Law," published in 1909, does not deal with the submarine and the torpedo. The question of aerial jurisdiction, likely to become of great importance, is disposed of in a paragraph. The fact that the submarine has been made a useful instrument of warfare is responsible for the awful tragedy of Friday and for the crisis which faces the American people today.

To reach full effectiveness the submarine comes into direct conflict with the heretofore generally accepted rules of international law. A submarine to be fully effective must attack without warning. It must strike in the dark. And after having struck its size and character prevents its playing the part of rescuer.

International law forbids an act such as that of last Friday when hundreds of innocent lives were sacrificed. International law forbids sinking a ship of the character of Lusitania even though contraband of war is on board and even though it is claimed as a prize of war, except in the last extremity when it becomes impossible to convey the prize to a port of the captor. And in that case international law forbids the destruction of the lives of neutral citizens or indeed of non-combants of the hostile nation.

Obviously the submarine could not convey the Lusitania to a port nor could it warn and remove the passengers. A wireless message from the Lusitania might have brought friendly warships to the rescue if there had been sufficient warning. According to the present status of international law, therefore, the submarine is powerless to act in circumstances such as those of Friday.

THE TRAGEDY.

The American people are stunned by the awful tragedy of last Friday Throughout the land there is almost universal condemnation of the act which sent the Lusitania beneath the waves carrying with her the most precious of cargoes, human lives. An act of such barbaric cruelty calls for protest by the government in accordance with the American note to Germany of some weeks ago when President Wilson stated that the U. S. would hold Germany to a strict accountability for the loss of American lives or goods through the action of German mines or torpedos.

The important question is, what form shall that protest take? Another dignified remonstrance would be worse than useless. What shall America say to Germany? What shall America do? For the present the answer to that question can be left with President Wilson. In the words of Bishop Lawrence, speaking at the ordination service Sunday in Trinity church: "How the protest of this nation will be made we may safely leave with good assurance to our President. Our duty is to be self restrained, calm and confident."

And when the President shall have decided upon his course it is the duty of all Americans of whatsoever party or creed to back him up with a loyal and patriotic ferver.

EMINENTLY SUCCESSFUL.

The two weeks mission at St. John's church which closed Sunday has been eminently successful. During last week, when services were held for men, the attendance totalled 12,000, it is estimated. This is a record which even Billy Sunday might envy and the Redemptorist Fathers do not resort to the sensational methods of the evangelist, either.

Somebody must have been making a great deal of money by selling habit forming drugs before the new federal law went into effect.

BARRE STRIKE FINALLY ENDED

Workers and Manufacturers Agree

After an idleness of more than two months in what is considered the rush season in the granite industry, the trouble among the granite workers at Barre, Vt., has been settled and the men will return to work immediately. Fully 5,000 men have been idle in Barre since March 1, and although the trouble with the cutters was adjusted several weeks ago after a strenuous few weeks, the tool sharpeners were unable to reach an agreement, and this of course prevented the cutters from returning to work.

The trouble with the tool sharpeners was relative to the use of tool sharpening machinery which greatly reduced the number of men required. The tool sharpeners wanted a settlement so that the wage received by the men operating the tool sharpening machinery would be such that it would be of no saving to the manufacturers to use machinery. An understanding was reached between the tool sharpeners and manufacturers Saturday. As soon as the men return to work 5,000 workers will receive increases in wages ranging from 16 to 75 cents in addition to better working conditions. Between the manufacturers and the granite cutters a five-year agreement with an eight-hour day, five days in the week and five hours on Saturday until March 1, 1916 after that, four hours on Saturday. The wage scale is 42 cents an hour to May 15, 1915; 45 cents from May 15 to March 1, 1916, and 50 cents from March 1, 1916, to March 1, 1920. The bill also provides that dust removers are to be installed in all plants before Nov. 1, 1915, and legal holidays are Jan. 1, May 30, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The same hour schedule and wage scale are to be retained between the manufacturers and the tool sharpeners and by the employers and the polishers.

Manufacturers and the lumpers, boxers and derrickmen have agreed that the hour schedule of the cutters shall govern. Wages are to be increased from 29 cents to 34 cents an hour till March 1, 1916, and 37 1-2 cents after that date.

Quarry employes are to work from 7 A. M. to noon and from 1 to 4 P. M. throughout the year. A wage increase of 16 cents a day is granted for the next two years, and an addional 10 cents a day after March 1, 1917.

STOP INSTALLING OF LIGHT POLES

In the list of street lights in various parts of the city ordered installed by Mayor Campbell were two on Ocean street, Squantum, which the residents on that street had petitioned for. The order was given to the Quincy Electric Light & Power Co., to install the lights. In order to do so it was found necessary to erect a line of poles on the street, which is a private way. The poles had arrived on the ground and work setting them had commenced when a strenuous protest was made by one of the abutters, with the result that work was stopped

What this abutter desired was that the Electric Light Company should erect a line of poles on the back of the property or private land instead of on the street and from this line of poles run the wires for the street lighting as well as for house lighting.

The Electric Light Company stating that its policy was to serve and not to antagonize gave orders to stop the work of erecting poles and the matter is now in the air.

The company objects to the erection of a line of poles on private land for the reason that such a location could not be considered as permanent for any abutter upon whose land the poles were located could order them removed on twenty-four hours notice. If the abutter who should order poles removed owned land at the end of the line from which the wires entered the street the result would be that not only the street lights but the house lighting as well would be stopped.

The game was closely contested and was not decided until the last of the ninth when "Buck" Woods knocked out a single which sent in "Art" Leary for the winning run.

Woods was the heavy hitter of the game, making two three baggers and two singles. Kerrigan's home run for the visitors in the fifth was the feature of the game. Langster, of the gym, pitched a fine game and made ten strike outs. The score was:

POLICE OFFICER IS REPRIMANDED

Harry Hathorne of the Metropolitan Park Police was publicly reprimanded Saturday night when a letter finding him guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and ordering him to perform nine hours extra duty was read at roll call.

Hathorne covers the Furnace Brook Parkway section at West Quincy and is alleged to have assaulted Walter Monahan of Crescent street. Charges were filed with the Metropolitan Park Commission and a hearing was held.

During the hearing it was brought out that the young man mistook the officer for a friend and spoke to him. Some argument arose during which Monahan claims he was struck by Hathorne. Monohan was accompanied by another young man when the alleged assault was committed.

The commission returned a finding of guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and ordered the finding to be read at roll call Saturday evening.

THROWN OFF MOTORCYCLE

A speeding motorcycle brought up against the curbing in front of the store of George W. Jones on Granite street Sunday afternoon and Russell Damon and his father, Edward Damon were both thrown to the street but escaped serious injury.

The machine was operated by Russell Damon. His father was riding on the rear seat. The start from the rear of the Greenleaf block, was made without incident. In turning onto Granite street the engine opened up in an unaccountable manner and the turn was negotiated with difficulty. The machine headed toward the curbing and Russell in endeavoring to avoid hitting it, turned to the left and the machine shot across the street and struck the opposite curbing.

Russell was thrown to the right and landed several feet ahead of the machine. His father was thrown to the left. Both escaped injury but suffered a few bruises. The front wheel of the machine was damaged.

EX-GOV FOSS IS SPEAKER

Pleads Cause of National Prohibition

The members of the Davis class of the Calvary Baptist church of South Quincy were royally entertained Friday evening by the Woodsum class of the First Baptist church of East Milton in the vestry of the church. Both classes have been engaging in a membership contest the past three months and since the Quincy class won it was up to the East Milton class to furnish a banquet. The latter was prepared by the Ladies' Aid society and was certainly relished by the 75 men present.

President Winifred Geddes of the hosts acted as toastmaster and after a brief welcome to the guests he introduced President Smith of the Davis class. Mr. Smith emphasized the fact that the class won by sticking together and even though the class was not as large, each member came practically every Sunday and thus carried away the honors.

Music was furnished by the "Bates Trio" of Dorchester and baritone solos were rendered by Mr. Ashland.

Rev. C. C. Tilley of the Calvary Baptist church and leader of the Davis class and Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum leader of the Woodsum class and founder of the same spoke briefly.

The principal speaker of the evening was ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss. His subject was: "National Prohibition from the Economic Standpoint." The ex-governor said in part:

"The question of prohibition is the greatest moral, social, economic and political question of the day. I believe that if women vote they will lend a helping hand in this great movement. From the discoveries of the past decade we have learned that liquor is not a stimulant but just the opposite.

"The abolition of intoxicating liquors has been made more forcible by the action taken in Russia, France, Germany and England. If liquor isn't a good thing to fight on it isn't a good thing to work on.

"The drink bill in the U. S. amounts to $2,500,000,000 a year. Three times the value of the wheat crop, one and a half times that of the corn crop and three times the cost of the public schools.

"The public will no longer stand for an engineer or motorman who is intoxicated nor will manufacturers stand for employees in the same condition. In the future there will be no more use for a saloon near our manufacturing establishments than near our churches. Temperance would solve the problem of unemployment for men who drink are the last to be hired and the first to be 'fired.'

"There is every reason in the world why we should fight this curse. The economic standpoint forces me to do my duty to my state and to myself to use all my power to correct this evil. The solution of the problem does not lie in local option or state prohibition, but only in nation wide prohibition. The country cannot exist half wet and half dry. We must be all dry."

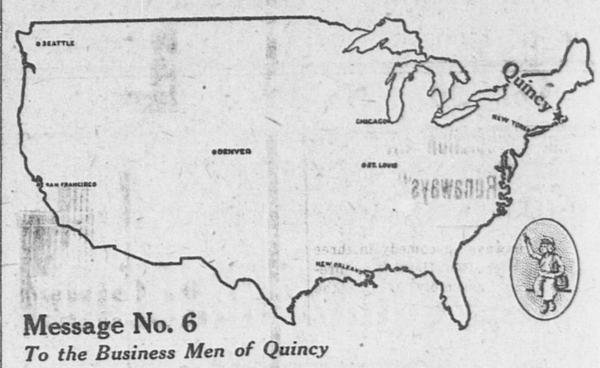

The speaker urged all to support any candidate for the gubernatorial nomination who adopted the national prohibition plank regardless of party.

An informal gathering of the "Fore River Leading Men" was held Saturday evening at the Quincy House, Boston. The speakers were J. B. Hill, John Russell and Frank Backman. The toastmaster was Fred Bauriess. James Newson and James Mitchell provided the entertainment.

To the Business Men of Quincy

When a run-down salesman calls on you, do you buy his goods? Aren't you afraid of his line because he looks as if no one ever gave him an order?

Same thing is true of a seedy town. To be prosperous we must look prosperous and show local pride.

Clean streets, nice stores and well-painted buildings pay because they bring business. Paint-hungry buildings are least excusable, for paint made of

UNLICENSED DOGS ARE TO BE SHOT

All unlicensed dogs must be shot and the owners if located must be prosecuted is the substance of the orders issued to members of the police department by Acting Chief McKay. The order, while an annual one, has been issued somewhat earlier this year, probably on account of the recent mad dog scare in Quincy Point when an animal went on a rampage, biting several dogs, one of which is known to have developed an aggravated case of rabies.

That dog was killed after it had bitten seven year old Virginia Richardson of Edison park. Its body was sent to the State Laboratory. As a result of their report the little girl is undergoing the Pasteur treatment.

The patrolmen of the city will have no difficulty in spotting unlicensed dogs since the new custom of distributing brass tags on the payment of license to City Clerk Crane was put into effect two years ago. The tag is attached to the collar of the dog. The absence of a tag is sufficient reason for the patrolman to kill the animal.

Many of the shorthand pupils of the Quincy High school attended the annual Chandler Shorthand Convention at the St. James Theatre Saturday. Miss Pearl Perry of the High school staff was in charge of the delegation. A number of the local representatives attended the theatre in the afternoon.

SCENES.

Act II. The same. The Great Diamond Robbery.

Act III. The same. The Thunderbolt.

The action of the play is continuous, each act beginning where the preceding act ended.

The play was produced under the direction of Mrs. Molly Brown Sheppard.

Music was furnished by the Weston Trio: Max O. Pinkham, violin; Edward Packard, 'cello; Ellis Weston, piano.

The word "comedy" in the subheading is no misnomer. There are plenty of humorous situations, lines and characters, which make their appearance during the unfolding of the plot. The plot is logical and well sustained. It has two chief angles:

Mr. and Mrs. Juniper are a young married couple living on their Texas ranch. Mrs. Juniper is unhappy because of the apparent indifferent and unloving attitude of her husband. Incidentally, it might be mentioned at this point that Mr. Hall was capital as the indifferent husband, wrapped up in his business cares, who speedily changed the subject when his wife began speaking in terms of endearment He did not have the sympathy of the audience, however, because Mrs. Juniper was such a pretty, affectionate little wife. Miss Metherall played this in a delightful manner. The scenes between the two were greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Of course, Mr. Juniper really does love his wife, but she thinks he dosen't, which makes her just as unhappy as if true. Visiting the couple is a friend of Mrs. Juniper, Jean MacLean, or Little Miss Fixit, the governor's daughter. She sees a way to bring back the husband's love. Make him jealous. Therefore, the wife writes an affectionate note to a mythical "Ted" and leave it on the table where her husband finds it. This is where the angle of the plot comes in.

In Huston dwells a writer of detective stories, a Mrs. Dawson. Perhaps she has brain fag; at any rate she determines to give her imagination a rest and let real life supply the plot and incidents of her next novel. Therefore, she notifies the police that her jewels have been stolen by a man and a woman who escaped in a large grey automobile. Thereupon, she adopts the name of Victoria, gets a chauffeur to drive her, and sets forth in the grey auto on her adventure. They are followed to the ranch of Mrs Juniper where the auto breaks down and they seek shelter for the night.

The above paragraph has been divulged to the reader a little quicker than it reached the ears of the auditors. In the play it is the denouement. The couple enter the Juniper house and Victoria proceeds to let Miss Fixit draw the conclusion that they are an eloping couple. Such is the situation.

Now the chauffeur's name is Ted Keegan. Does that suggest something, gentle reader? Ah, yes, the letter on the table from Mrs. Juniper to the mythical lover of that name.

Whereupon the action becomes fast and furious, and frequently side-splitting. The husband retires from the room with Ted and when they return Ted is badly battered. Everett Rhodes played this part with his usual ability. It is to be regreted that he did not have more to do and say.

Enter Sheriff Jim Larrabee and his deputy in search of the diamond thieves. They suspect Texana, the horsemaid and leading comedy artist of the piece. Miss Packard's work

Last week of great sale

This week closes the most remarkable sale of pianos ever held in this country

The passing of a sale which has raised a new standard of business enterprise and which has attracted nation-wide attention on account of its boldness and liberality

It has been determined to continue this sale up until and including Saturday. While the instruments which were apportioned to us, in all probability, will not last until Saturday, the sale will be continued until the close of business Saturday night.

Arrangements have been made with the Bacon Piano Company to this effect. In other words, we have arranged with the Bacon Piano Company to secure enough pianos, or player-pianos, or both, to fill all orders taken up to, and including Saturday, over and above what we still have in stock out of our original allotment.

By doing this, every person interested, gets a fair and equal opportunity.

No one can come in Wednesday, for instance, and go away disappointed, because all of a particular style of piano wanted, has been sold. Neither can someone come in Thursday, and find that we have just sold the last player-piano and be disappointed

Anyone can come in, up to Saturday night at 10 o'clock, and secure the identical style of piano or player-piano he or she may wish. If none remain in stock, unsold, it will be procured for them, which is only right and fair, as every one, in this way, gets an equal opportunity.

This has been the most successful piano sale ever held.

We are bringing our part of the sale to a close, two weeks sooner than expected.

Were we to close the sale, when our original allotment of instruments will have been sold, the sale would close Wednesday or Thursday. But under the arrangements made last week, all orders taken up to and including Saturday of this week, will be filled, at which time the offer will be withdrawn and will not be renewed.

$266

A new low price for high grade pianos, which ceases at the close of this sale Saturday evening

The 125 pianos which made up the main part of this sale, were indeed beautiful pianos. Not only were they pleasing to the eye, but better pianos have never been sold in this section.

These pianos will remain as that many standing advertisements to this house for 20 years to come.

At the price, 266 dollars, they established a new low price standard upon high-grade pianos, which will not be equalled again, in our opinion, in years to come, if ever.

This price will be withdrawn Saturday evening at the close of business.

These terms of payment will be discontinued at that time.

The present price, the present terms of payments, and these most unusual conditions of sale, will be continued throughout this entire week. Should our allotment of 125 pianos be entirely disposed of before the week is over, arrangements have been completed whereby you can get the piano you want, in the style you want, and in the wood you want, up until Saturday night.

Orders taken up until the close of business Saturday night—but no later—will be filled at these prices, these terms, and upon these conditions

This is a sale you should take advantage of. Come in and convince yourself.

¶ During this sale, the Piano Department will be open evenings by appointment, arrangements for which may be made by calling phone No. 1200, and asking for Mr. Bates.

¶ All instruments sold during this sale will be delivered at once. Arrangements may be made, however, to have an instrument set aside, after being selected to be delivered later.

Guarantees delivery of player-piano, even if it becomes necessary to order from the factory

At this writing, it is almost certain that it will be necessary to order player-pianos for those who come in during the last of the week.

The player-pianos have met with deserved but unusual approval. We were wholly unprepared to find the player-pianos selling "neck and neck" with the pianos.

Not that they did not deserve to do so, as we will say again, what we said in the early part of the sale, "The player-piano is the big feature of the sale."

It is the best "buy" of the sale. You get a 550 dollar value for 413 dollars—and what is most important, you are not buying trouble or dissatisfaction, for we know of our own previous experience with these identical players, that not one in a hundred will require as much as five minutes time or five cents expense in a year's use.

These player-pianos are the feature of the sale, and you should not lose a moment in procuring one, or placing your order AT ONCE.

Taking it all in all, you will never have another such an opportunity.

REDMEN PLAY AS IN OLD DAYS

The Redmen A. C. of South Quincy took the Goodrich B. B. C. into camp at the Ward Three playground Saturday by a score of 6 to 4. The team work of the winners indicated that they still retain a 90 per cent. hold on the claim to the championship of the city. The lineup was practically the same as last season, during which the Redmen played with marked success. The summary:

RULES PERMIT TO BE ILLEGAL

Commissioner O'Keefe Comes to Aid of Wollaston Men

CANNOT ERECT OIL TANKS

The residents of that part of Wollaston abutting the site upon which the A. B. C. Oil Co., desired to erect two 20,000 gallon tanks for gasoline and kerosene did not appear at the public hearing as it was rumored they intended to do, and did not really come to life until after the order granting the permit had reached the Mayor and received his approval after the Oil Co. had agreed to bury its tanks. Then it was apparently too late. An injunction was talked of. Then some wise man was seized with an idea. He hiked into the office of Fire Hazard Commissioner O'Keefe into whose sympathetic ear he poured his tale of woe. Was there any remedy?

The Commissioner scratched his head, asked a few questions, then declared the permit issued was no good. In the first place but seven days notice had been given of the hearing when fourteen days notice should have been given. Secondly it appeared that the city clerk had given notice of the hearing by publication in the local daily papers, whereas the direct abutters should have been personally notified in writing.

That was enough to "queer" the permit and the wise ones returned to Wollaston happy in the thought that for a time at least they had prevented the storage of a large amount of gasoline and kerosene in their immediate neighborhood.

The meaning is clear as mud. The proceedings have been illegal and must be done all over again, and it is safe to say these self same abutters will be found in evidence when the next hearing is held.

Other parties who have been granted permits to keep and sell gasoline are probably in the same box and the chances are that new hearings will have to be held on all of these. As for permits of the third class, that is private garages, in the future fourteen days notice will have to be given and abutters notified.

All of this entails a large amount of apparently useless work for the office force of the city clerk and the city council many contend. It may be perfectly right to have hearings where parties wish to keep and sell gasoline but in private garages they claim it seems like a lot of useless red tape to hold public hearings, as a matter of form at which no one appears either in favor or against.

A brand new ruling last week from the Fire Hazard Commissioner's office is in regard to garages. Under the city building laws all permits for buildings of any class are issued by the inspector of buildings. The ruling issued this week however is that hereafter if a man desires to build a little garage on his own premises for his own use he must get his permit from the Fire Hazard Commissioner.

FOR THIS MUCH THANKS.

EX-COUNCILMAN DIES IN FLORIDA

Stephen O. Mexon Succumbs To Heart Trouble

Word has been received in Quincy of the death in Jacksonville, Fla., May 1, of ex-Councilman Stephen O. Moxon, formerly of Atlantic. Mr. Moxon went South some fifteen years ago for his health and since his residence in Jacksonville he has been actively engaged as a builder. He has erected some of the finest buildings in Savannah and Jacksonville, including government and bank buildings, hospitals and residences. Last fall he underwent a serious surgical operation at the Rogers sanitarium, being attended by surgeons from the John Hopkins hospital. Apparently he made a remarkable recovery but recently he developed heart trouble. Word of the seriousness of his condition was telegraphed to his daughter in Quincy, Mrs. Lela O. Pierce, who left immediately for his bedside.

Mr. Moxon was born in Hants County, Nova Scotia, in 1848. He received his education in his native town, afterward mastering the building trade. He came to Quincy in 1876, settling in Atlantic where he remained until failing health compelled him to seek a warmer climate in the South.

While in Quincy he was actively engaged in the building business and was the contractor for many buildings throughout the state. He it was who furnished without cost to the city the plans from which the Lincoln school was built, as well as the plans for the original Woodward Institute building, which he also built in 1892-93. At the time this building was erected the time limit during which the school must be in operation was very short, and in order to prevent the legacy of Dr. Woodward going to Dartmouth college unusual haste was necessary. Although at that time Mr. Moxon was a member of the city council, he undertook to erect the building in record time, which he faithfully carried out and the legacy was saved to Quincy. The fact, however, that he as a member of the city council, had taken a city contract was used against him later when he became the Republican candidate for Mayor and his failure of election was due in a large measure to this.

He was a member of the City Council during the years 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1894 and during these years he served on all of the important committees of the council, being chairman at different times of the committees of finance, streets and public buildings. It was while serving as chairman of the public buildings committee that the Lincoln school was built, the plans for which were furnished by Mr. Moxon free of cost. While in the city council he was a ready and able debater and was one of those who strenuously advocated the purchase of the franchise of the Quincy Water Co. which was carried through. He also advocated the city owning its street lighting plant but this never materialized.

In December 1894 he was the Republican candidate for Mayor having as his opponant William A. Hodges. After a hard fought contest Mr. Hodges was elected by 28 votes.

Although he continued to expound the principles of Republicanism, Mr. Moxon did not again become a candidate for political honors. He gave his whole attention to business until fifteen years ago when he went South where he has since been actively engaged. With him went his family with the exception of his daughter, Mrs. Peirce.

He was a 32 degree Mason, and a member of the Mystic Shrine. He was also prominently identified with the Red Men and other fraternal organizations. Although affiliated with Masonic bodies in Boston, Masonic services were conducted at the grave in Evergreen cemetery, Jacksonville.

He is survived by a widow and four children, Mrs. Lela O. Peirce of the commissioners department at City Hall, R. S. Moxon, Fred S. Moxon and H. G. Moxon of Jacksonville.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Eliza Burns, Granite street. As the president, Mrs. Albert M. Thompson, was forced to be absent on account of illness, the meeting was conducted by her husband, pastor of Saint Andrew's Presbyterian church, Boston. In honor of Mr. Thompson, Mrs. Burns for the devotional services brought out her grandfathers Bible, dated 1776.

As the last number of the W. C. T. U. "Message" was a suffrage number suffrage was the subject of the afternoon. Miss Miriam Marsh gave a general talk on suffrage, dwelling more particularly on the relation between suffrage and temperance. Among other things she said:

"We have heard a great deal about the 'New Woman'; why haven't we noticed that there is also a 'New Mother',—a mother awake to new responsibilities and alert to find better ways of fulfilling old responsibilities; a mother who is not concerned alone with the welfare of her own family, but who cannot rest until the children of the whole country are given the protection that childhood and youth deserve. Among her newer responsibilities is the obligation resting on the mother to demand that all articles consumed by the family shall be healthful. This she cannot do unless those who make and carry out the laws pertaining to these things are answerable to her. The state has admitted the principle that women should have a voice in what concerns the children by giving to women the school franchise. But government controls more than the education of the child. It decides whether the community shall be a healthful, safe, and moral place for children to grow up in. These things certainly concern the mother."

The hostility of the liquor interests to woman suffrage was shown by editorials in the liquor dealers' organs of Wisconsin and Montana, and by circular letters urging resistance to suffrage which appeared when the amendment came up in those states. Fact were cited in these publications to show the increase of prohibition under woman suffrage and the same fate was prophesied for those states which should adopt woman suffrage.

In closing Miss Marsh said: "The enemies of equal suffrage are the liquor interests, commercialized vice, the unscrupulous employer, the machine politician. Doesn't that show that woman suffrage has meant better homes, better social conditions, better government in the states where it has been tried?"

POLICE HAVE NEW AUTO

The efficiency of the police department was decidedly improved Saturday by the delivery of the new automobile for the use of the superior officers. Provisions for the purchase of the machine were made by the city council which passed a special appropriation for that purpose.

The machine is a 45 horse power Jeffrey run-about and is of the latest design. Its equipment is complete and its appearance snappy.

The new uniform buttons to take the place of those now in use were delivered to the men on Sunday evening. The buttons are about as large as a 25 cent piece and are gold plated. They bear a replica of the seal of Quincy and the inscription "Quincy City Police."

The caps probably will be delivered this week.

F. R. BOYS OPEN WITH VICTORY

Defeat Norwood Civic Club By Big Score

The Fore River base ball team opened its season at Merrymount Park Saturday afternoon by defeating the Norwood Civic club by a score of 11 to 0 in the presence of more than five hundred fans.

Joseph W. Powell, president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation and one of the most enthusiastic fans in the city, pitched the first ball. It cut the plate clean and came as close to being a grooved ball as any delivered this season.

The presence of the Fore River band stimulated the fans to a high degree of enthusiasm. Its concert was given under the direction of Thomas Carter, the venerable director, and included popular hits and base ball songs. It came to a close with the national anthem, with all on the field standing with hat in hand.

The fine attendance, the music and the perfect day had an exhilerating effect on the Fore River team and exerted a somewhat depressing influence on the visitors. The locals demonstrated that they have one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the state. Although the score was one sided the game was not without its big league moments for the Fore River played snappy ball throughout the contest and secured the victory through fine team play and not through poor work by the Civic club.

Theo Galvin did his share to bring about the victory. One of his hits was a homer. The summary:

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST

The narrow ferm streets were beginning to fill with the figures of women, their beautifully colored robes fluttering in the light, and there were curious eager children who came running, naked save for the bangles upon their arms and ankles.

Pointing to them, Hammet Abou said to the old sage:

"See, you are only women here, Fatou Anni. Your men are twenty miles farther south. We have a caravan of fifty men all armed, Fatou Anni. They camp just there, at the edge of the oasis. They are waiting. We come in peace, old woman; we come to take away the Evil Eye from your door; but if you anger us and rave against us, the dogs and women of your town will fall upon you and destroy every breast among you."

She began to beat her palms together, murmuring:

"Allah! Allah!"

"Hush," said the Bedouin fiercely, "take us to the captive, Fatou Anni."

Fatou Anni did not stir. She pulled aside the veil from her withered face, so that her great eyes looked out at the two men. She saw her predicament, but she was a subtle Oriental. Victory had been in her camp and in her village; her sons and grandsons had never been vanquished. Perhaps the dying man in the hut would bring the Evil Eye! He was dying, anyway—he would not live twenty-four hours. She knew this, for her ninety years of life had seen many eyes close on the oasis under the hard blue skies.

To the taller of the two Bedouins she said in Arabic;

"Fatou Anni is nearly one hundred years old. She has borne twenty children, she has had fifty grandchildren; she has seen many wives, many brides and many mothers. She does not believe the sick man has the Evil Eye. She is not afraid of your fifty armed men. Fatou Anni is not afraid. Allah is great. She will not give up the Frenchman because of fear, nor will she give him up to any man. She gives him to the women of his people."

With dignity and majesty and with great beauty of carriage, the old woman turned and walked toward her hut and the Bedouins followed her.

CHAPTER XXII.

Into the Desert.

A week after the caravan of the Duc de Tremont left Algiers, Julia Redmond came unexpectedly to the villa of Madame de la Maine at an early morning hour. Madame de la Maine saw her standing on the threshold of her bedroom door.

"Chere Madame," Julia said, "I am leaving today with a dragoman and twenty servants to go into the desert."

Madame de la Maine was still in bed. At nine o'clock she read her papers and her correspondence.

"Into the desert—alone!"

Julia, with her cravache in her gloved hands, smiled sweetly though she was very pale. "I had not thought of going alone, Madame," she replied with charming assurance, "I knew you would go with me."

On a chair by her bed was a wrapper of blue silk and lace. The comtesse sprang up and then thrust her feet into her slippers and stared at Julia.

"What are you going to do in the desert?"

"Watch!"

"Yes, yes!" nodded Madame de la Maine. "And your aunt?"

"Deep in a bazaar for the hospital," smiled Miss Redmond.

Madame de la Maine regarded her slender friend with admiration and envy. "Why hadn't I thought of it?" She rang for her maid.

"Because your great-grandfather was not a pioneer!" Miss Redmond answered.

The sun which, all day long, held the desert in its burning embrace, went westward in his own brilliant caravan.

"The desert blossoms like a rose, Therese."

"Like a rose?" questioned Madame de la Maine.

She was sitting in the door of her tent; her white dress and her white hat gleamed like a touch of snow upon the desert's face. Julia Redmond, on a rug at her feet, and in her khaki riding-habit the color of the sand, blended with the desert as though part of it. She sat up as she spoke.

"How divine! See!" She pointed to the stretches of the Sahara before her. On every side they spread away as far as the eye could reach, suave, mellow, black, undulating finally to small hillocks with corrugated sides, as a group of little sandhills rose softly out of the sealike plain. "Look, Therese!"

Slowly, from ocher and gold the color changed; a faint wavelike blush crept over the sands, which reddened, paled, faded, warmed again, took depth and grew intense like flame.

"The heart of a rose! N'est-ce pas, Therese?"

"I understand now what you mean," said madame. The comtesse was not a dreamer. Parisian to the tips of her fingers, elegant, fine, she had lived a conventional life. Therese had been taught to conceal her emotions. She had been taught that our feelings matter very little to any one but ourselves. She had been taught to go lightly, to avoid serious things. Her great-grandmother had gone lightly to the scaffold, exquisitely courteous till the last.

"I ask your pardon if I jostled you in the tumbrel," the old comtesse had said to her companion on the way to the guillotine. "The springs of the cart are poor"—and she went up smiling.

In the companionship of the American girl, Therese de la Maine had thrown off restraint. If the Marquise d'Esclignac had felt Julia's influence, Therese de la Maine, being near her own age, echoed Julia's very feeling.

Except for their dragoman and their servants, the two women were alone in the desert.

Smiling at Julia, Madame de la Maine said: "I haven't been so far from the Rue de la Paix in my life."

"How can you speak of the Rue de la Paix, Therese?"

"Only to show you how completely I have left it behind."

Julia's eyes were fixed upon the limitless sands, a sea where a faint line

Julia's Eyes Were Fixed Upon the Limitless Sands.

lost itself in the red west and the horizon shut from her sight everything that she believed to be her life.

"This is the seventh day, Therese!"

"Already you are as brown as an Arab, Julia!"

"You as well, ma chere amie!"

"Robert does not like dark women," said the Comtesse de la Maine, and rubbed her cheek. "I must wear two veils."

"Look, Therese!"

Across the face of the desert the glow began to withdraw its curtain. The sands suffused an ineffable hue, a shell-like pink took possession, and the desert melted and then grew colder—it waned before their eyes, withered like a tea-rose.

"Like a rose!" Julia murmured, "smell its perfume!" She lifted her head, drinking in with delight the fragrance of the sands.

"Ma chere Julia," gently protested the comtesse, lifting her head, "perfume, Julia!" But she breathed with her friend, while a sweetly subtle, intoxicating odor, as of millions and millions of roses, gathered, warmed, kept, then scattered on the airs of heaven, intoxicating her.

To the left were the huddled tents of their attendants. No sooner had the sun gone down than the Arabs commenced to sing—a song that Julia had especially liked:

Love is like a sweet perfume,
It comes, it escapes.
When it's present, it intoxicates;
When it's a memory, it brings tears.
Love is like a sweet breath,
It comes and it escapes.

The weird music filled the silence of the silent place. It had the evanescent quality of the wind that brought the breath of the sand-flowers. The voices of the Arabs, not unmusical, though hoarse and appealing, cried out their love-song, and then the music turned to invocation and to prayer.

The two women listened silently as the night fell, their figures sharply outlined in the beautiful clarity of the eastern night.

Julia stood upright. In her severe riding dress, she was as slender as a boy. She remained looking toward the horizon, immovable, patient, a silent watcher over the uncommunicative waste.

REV. HUDSON APPROVES "BIRTH OF A NATION"

Speaks Upon "The Negro Problem In the South"

The sermon of Rev. A. L. Hudson on Sunday morning upon "The Negro Problem in the South" was a plea for fairmindedness in our attitude toward the white people in the South who pay the taxes and are responsible for social progress and enlightened self-government in that portion of our country. This, he pointed out, requires us to face facts unbiased by prejudice and influenced by former hostility. "It is perfectly right for us to feel a profound sympathy for the colored people in this country and to help them develop those most essential elements of progress, in which so many of them are now lacking—self sustaining industry and self-respecting home life. It is right for us to rejoice in whatever progress they are making and to stimulate them to further progress.

"It is not right for us, under guise of sympathy for the colored people in the South to strike at the vital interests of the white people of that section or to increase and complicate their heavy burdens. It is not right for us to idealize the negro ae a potential anglo-saxon in a black skin, fully capable of deciding all the problems of modern delocracy without the anglo-saxon's centuries of preparation for such responsibility—and then expect the people whose property and whosce social life is affected by the result to accept our ideal for the reality and take the consequences.

"For a short but disgraceful period in our national life we forced them to do this very thing. At the time of emancipation in 1864 more than one half of the 4,000,000 negroes in the U. S. had been imported from savage life in Africa during the preecding 50 years.

"In 1867 we put into the hands of these irresponsible people, just released from slavery and barely one generation removed from savage life, the ballot of sovereign citizenship. We placed in their hands, untrained and undisciplined as they were in th simplest rudiments of self-government absolute power over several Southern states, protected in their eexrcise of sovereign autohrity by the Federal army and directed by politicians of that class lho are always willing to make easy money at he expense of taxpayers. The result of coudse was social and financial anarchy.

"From this condition the white population rescued themselves first by force and fear, then by manipulation of ballot boxes and returns and finaliy by legal enactments. But such an experience has left upon their minds a feeling of dread of any influence which might, by any possibility, lead to a return of the chaos from which they have suffered. This dread dominates of necessity all other political issues and leads to an unnatural and unwholesome conditon which is bound to continue until the people of the North come to have a better understanding of the actual situation It is evident that a desire to bring about such an understanding and not to create prejudice against the negroes, or to revive past bitterness, is the underlying purpose of the picture play known as "The Birth of a Nation."

"It might be well for all of us to consider seriously this feature of the matter and seek to disabuse our minds of prejudice and distdust."

MIRTHFUL PLAY

was a source of enduring delight. Her makeup was a scream, her gestures mirthproducing. She was chief laugh compellor of all the participants in the comedy.

Mis Fixit gets her mind a' working and as a swift result the sheriff and officer are locked in the cellar, disappearing through a real trap door on the stage. Later a very angry sheriff escapes, after Victoria and Ted have fled. Result: Miss Fixit arrested as an accomplice. Declaration of her identity as daughter of governor. Deep apology by the baffled officer who rushes with his tried and true companion into the night.

The capture of Victoria and Ted follows. Then the revelation that it is all a joke and exit of unfortunate sheriff. Juniper discovers he loves his wife in the expressive way she desires. Kisses and happiness.

There is an interesting character, heretofore unmentioned: Alonzo Willing, a fortune hunter who proposes regularly to Miss Fixit and is as regularly refused. Maurice Blackmur scored in this part and kept the audience in merry mood. Miss Fixit had considerable to do and did it mighty well. Miss Arthur as Victoria played her part excellently. The sheriff was excellently played. Gordon Jameson had little to do but struck terror to the beholder as deputy sheriff.

The parts were all well taken and the play was certainly a decided success. Much credit should be accorded Mrs. Sheppard for the evidences of excellent coaching and the speed with which the play tripped merrily by.

600,000 TROOPS CONCENTRATED

Italy Thought to Have Decided to Enter European War

IMPORTANT HEIGHTS CAPTURED

Allies Expect Turkish Forces to Surrender In Neighborhood of Smyrna —Many Dardanelles Batteries Are Silenced — Franco-Belgian Battle Line Virtually Unchanged After Week of Hard Fighting—Russians' Brilliant Effort to Escape Enemy In the East Is Successful

London, May 10.—Italy has put her army in the field, and a declaration of war is considered near.

Authentic dispatches from northern Italy reaching London by way of Switzerland say that 600,000 Italian troops have been concentrated at Verona. They are fully equipped and ready for action at a moment's notice.

As Verona is only twenty-five miles south of the Austrian frontier, in the Tyrolese Alps, and is a fortified city of considerable strength, little doubt is felt that the movement is intended as a menace to the Viennese government.

Other warlike indications have continued to pour in from various sources, all tending to show that Italy has determined at last to enter the great conflict. It is felt in London that the widespread indignation against Germany caused by the Lusitania barbarity has had a big effect in influencing Italy's decision.

A private dispatch from Berlin by way of Copenhagen says that Italy issued a call to the colors for all the infantry classes from 1876.

After a fierce struggle the allies succeeded in capturing some important heights commanding Kalid Bahr. Battles are continuing furiously, and the capture of the remaining heights probably will entail the surrender of the Turkish forces in that neighborhood. Twelve warships are bombarding the forts at various points between Vouria and Smyrna to clear Turkish entrenchments.

Late dispatches bear out the early reports that Turkish batteries at the Dardanelles, as far up as the straits of Nagara, have been put out of action by the accurate shell fire of the Franco-English fleet. It is believed that the principal fortifications have been destroyed.

It is reported that conditions are exceedingly grave for the Greeks in Turkish Thrace and that they are fleeing by the thousands. The Turks, however, report that the situation is favorable for their troops and that the allies have suffered heavily, especially in officers.

Turks, however, say the allies did not succeed in advancing, but that on the contrary the Turks moved their lines toward the coast, and this despite the fact that the British and Frnch had every modern facility and made use of the heavy artillery of the fleet to assist the landing operations. The Turkish troops were unable to live within the range of the guns.

A captive balloon was of great aid to the allies in informing them of the range for inflammatory bombs, which burned the inner straits towns.

Little Change In West

Fierce fighting is in progress on the British front between the Ypres-Poelcapelle and the Ypres-Menin roads, according to an official announcement by the English press bureau, a terrific bombardment preceding the attacks and counter attacks. No details of the developments have yet come through.

French troops have repulsed three violent German attacks in the forest of Pe Pretre and also have gained two-thirds of a mile on the right bank of the Fecht river, in the direction of Metzeral. This latter advance against the strongholds of the Rhine is regarded as extremely important to the campaign in Alsace. Metzeral is about ten miles east of the great German river.

Berlin reports artillery engagements on the western front and the repulse of two attacks by the French.

After a week of unusually hard fighting the general situation in France and Belgium remains virtually unchanged. French and Belgian troops have at points made slight advances, while the British have held their reorganized lines in Flanders.

One of the most brilliant efforts of the Russians in the eastern theatre of the war is reported in dispatches received from Petrograd in which it is stated that during the recent disastrous campaign in Galicia, where the Russian forces were compelled to retreat, the Fifty-eighth division was completely surrounded by superior forces.

The enemy occupied the roads in all directions, but despite this the Russians, under the leadership of General Korniloff, made a desperate attempt to cut through and were successful. They suffered heavy losses.

The division afterward succeeded in rejoining the main army, where its appearance was hailed with delight. The fighting occurred on rough ground, which made the losses heavier than would have been otherwise.

CONDEMNS SINKING OF S. S. LUSITANIA

Rev. William B. Ayers Considers Situation

Rev. William B. Ayers at the Park and Downs Congregational church Sunday morning service spoke on "The Supreme Right of Motherhood". It was a message that lifted Motherhood up to a new and exalted sense of deep responsibility for the future. It gave the motive of motherhood as the passion to perpetuate personality and showed it as a type of that divine passion of the Heavenly Father who yearns to impress His life and His personality upon the life of man.

In the evening the minister spoke on the two most significant events of the past week: The virtual absorption of China by Japan and the Sinking of the Lusitania by the Germans.

He said that Japan has no more moral right to invade China at this time than a man has to raid his neighbor's house in the absence of its owner and help himself to his jewels. By bullying China into submission Japan is violating not only the laws of decency and morality but the terms of 44 international treaties. Under this highway robbery England is supine and America is prostrated with the idea of self preservation. The speaker said that Japan has for years been planning to press this issue: and with that in mind built up the California issue to divert us and cause us to say "Let Japan have China so that she will have room to expand and will not try to settle in the United States and bother us." And that is precisely what we are saying.

"Our relations with China were among the earliest of any of the international relations which China has sustained and we certainly are morally bound to protect her," he declared. "If we are not in a position to do so then we should at least withdraw from all friendly intercourse with Japan until she is willing to come in under the moral standards of civilized nations and be judged by them.

"The same thing holds true with regard to Germany. Our government has been repeatedly insulted by the conduct of German officialdom in this country. Not all the battles of the war, together with the unimaginable loss of life on battlefield and blood-washed sea, have had the disquieting effect and the sobering depression, which has been brought on by the sinking of this great ship and the loss of so many peaceful lives.

"The world has been trained through ages to look upon war as one of the hard inevitable things which must be faced bravely and borne with quiet uncomplaining fortitude. And while we have felt the bitterness of it all—seeming to us so useless, so terrible and so insane, our feelings were mitigated by the thought that it was to this that Europe has for years been steadily and consistently marching. But not so here.

"Here were men, women and children going peacefully about the pursuit of their daily vocations, quietly sailing for another shore in quest of business or health, in full confidence that the spirit of humanity, if not the laws of nations, would surely protect them, suddenly to find themselves sinking and dying in the cold waters of the sea.

"It is no dart of unthinking nature which has done this. No icy sword cut off from the frozen continents of the North and stretched treacherously across the path of human life on the seas. This is the work of man: premeditated. Man the civilized, man the cultured, man the powerful. This is his work and it is not war. It is not the fever and insanity of battle. It is heartless, unthinking, fiendish murder on the most colossal scale. Our just and moral indignation should be roused against all such transactions by whomsoever performed.

"Yet we should be very slow to counsel violence. If there ever was a time for calm, deliberate and prayerful meditation it is now. It is easy to demand armed vengeance. But once we become involved no one knows where this thing will end.

"We have Mexico to the South of us, Japan to the West and other nations not too friendly toward the East.

"One of the spokesmen for the German government made the statement recently that the United States would most surely be drawn into the conflict—It begins to look as if Germany was seeking to involve us.

"If that is true her very desire to do so must keep us out of the conflict. Perhaps Germany believes that if a state of war existed with this country we would not let arms and foodstuffs go out from this country to the Allies in such profusion. Our navy could not reach her and our army would not count against her. Therefore she would be the gainer by war.

"Let us be practical and consider every side of this thing. The very condition of the world makes it unsafe for us to go to war with any people. Yet morality demands that we declare a kind of moral war against the perpetrator of inhuman deeds. In the meantime let us uphold the hands of our President who is in the most difficult situation which has confronted any president since Lincoln.

"Let us be slow to anger, sane and just in our judgement and ask God to guide our decisions aright."

CAPT. McKAY GIVES WARNING

Stores Must Not Block Whole Street

Capt. McKay of the police department this morning got after those business men along Hancock street who seem to think simply because they happen to occupy a store on the street that the whole street should be given up to their use. Many of these men have been in the habit of leaving their teams in front of the store, effectually blocking up the street so that others have difficulty in passing.

This morning Capt. McKay called upon these parties and told them this practice must stop. One dealer rather resented the order and said that he should continue the practice. The reply of Capt. McKay was that it was in violation of the street ordinance of the city and if the teams were not moved the parties would be summoned into court. This had the desired effect.

Among those present were Anthony Buckley, Joseph Buckley, Vincent Buckley, Ernest Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Corcoran Mr. and Mrs. J. Buckley, John J. Feely Mrs. Alice Sims. Misses Mary Buckley, Barbara Buckley, Susan Buckley, and Mr. and Mrs. Carmondy of Dorchester.

Hold Services For Agnes McCarthy.

Six little girls dressed in white and wearing white veils, acted as pall bearers at the funeral this morning of Agnes G. McCarthy, daughter of James and Agnes McCarthy, and escorted the body from the home at 69 Appleton street to the Sacred Heart church where the services took place. They were classmates of Agnes at the Quincy school.

The burial was held from her late home at 8.30 and was followed at 9 o'clock by a high mass of requiem at the Sacred Heart church. Rev. John P. Cuffe, pastor of the church was the celebrant and the musical part of the mass was the Gregorian chant rendered by the regular choir under the direction of Rev. Fr. James McNiff. Miss Mary Stevens was the organist and the solo parts of the mass were sung by Miss Catherine Dolan. The burial was in the family lot at St. Mary's cemetery.

There were many beautiful flowers which included a pillow from her classmates at the Quincy school and a pillow from the class of 1917 of the Woodward Institute.

The six girls who acted as bearers were: Mary Gallagher, Martina Gallagher, Mary O'Doherty, Marion Hall, Estelle White and Helen White.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Margaret Adams of Grant street was very pleasantly surprised Monday evening by a number of her many friends. Miss Adams had been out during the early part of the evening and on her return was very much surprised to find that in her absence her friends had taken possession. After greetings the evening was passed with music by an orchestra, games and refreshments. During the evening Miss Adams was presented with a gold bracelet, the presentation being made by Rayhern Melendy.

MANY CHILDREN TO HAVE GARDENS

Committee Will Distribute Seeds For 2000 This Week

WORK GROWS STEADILY

Although the civics committee of the Quincy Women's club has not as yet selected the chairman of the children's garden work, the committee of last year, Mrs. John D. MacKay and Mrs. Theo Kitson, have started the preliminary work and the seeds have been ordered for the 2,000 or more children who are to take up summer gardening the coming season.

Early in the spring envelopes were sent to the different schools of the city to be distributed among the children who intended to take up summer gardening. Each child places in this envelope a list of the seeds desired and the money to pay for them. These envelopes have been collected and as near as can be estimated there were 2,000 who will take up the work this summer. The order for the seeds has been placed and they should arrive in Quincy this week, for distributon.

The work during the past few years has grown to such an extent that last year it was found necessary to employ an inspector to look after the work. This inspector visits the gardens during the early part of the season to see if they have been planted all right and a little later makes another visit. In the fall the best of the flowers and vegetables are selected for the exhibition. Last year something like $100 was given in prizes, the money being provided from the receipts of the Twelfth Night Revels and the Assembly.

Some idea to what extent this work has grown can be gained when it is known that last year many families were supplied with vegetables during the entire season from the gardens planted and taken care of by their children.

It is felt by many of the members of the Women's club that summer gardening has grown to such an extent that it has become too much of a burden for the committee and that it should be taken up by the city, which should make an appropriation every year to carry on the work.

This year for the first time the women are planning to take one of the boys and send him to a camp where he may obtain a practical working knowledge of gardening. It is proposed to take the boy who has shown the most promise in gardening the past few years. The expense will be shouldered by the civics committee.

COST $20 TO THROW APPLE

The throwing of an apple on Sunday evening resulted in the arrest of George Main 28 years, on charges of assault and battery and drunkenness. He was fined $20 in the district court Monday on the former charge and the latter was placed on file.

It was alleged that Main, while in the company of another South Quincy resident, threw apples at Charles E. Schofield, one of which struck him in the back. He complained to Patrolman Malone and the arrest followed. Schofield asked Judge Avery to be lenient in making his finding. Maine appealed.

DISTRICT COURT.

Ottis J. Harlow of 397 Main street, Charlestown, was arraigned on a charge of neglect of family this morning and was ordered to pay $8 a week to his wife. Annabel Harlow of 337 Washington street.

Peter Beaudoin, 28, of Lakeville, summoned to court for violation of the auto rules at Milton, did not appear and was defaulted.

There will be a parish meeting of the Quincy Universalist society, Wednesday, May 12.

QUINCY POET ASSAILS KAISER

Is Termed "Emperor of Hate"

Charles L. H. Wagner of Wollaston who is classed as a German-American artist, writer and poet has been aroused by the sinking of the Lusitania and inspired to write a poem entitled "Look to the End" in which he condemns the Kaiser as the "Emperor of Hate." The poem is as follows:

LOOK TO THE END!

The German Empire is no more.
The hand that struck unseen
An ocean's ruling queen,
Has stricken hearts of millions more
Than sank in waters green.
Cursed be that hand unseen!

The Emperor of Hate has smiled,
And in his smile he lost
What centuries have cost,
The reverence born to German child,
A people's love embossed
On Union's shield—yes, lost!

Oh, we whose veins prove Teuton sires,
Who heretofore were proud
Of German traits endowed,
Must grasp Hate's fagots from War's fires,
And hide its deeds with shroud.
O, God!—and we've been proud!

Mr. Wagner says:

"I wrote that poem because my whole being revolted against the diabolical murder of peaceable men and women, innocent babes in arms, whose lives were snuffed out when a German submarine sent the great ship Lusitania to the bottom!

"For the first time in my life I was ashamed of my German name! And I firmly believe that every sentiment I express in those verses is echoed in the hearts of the great mass of German-American citizens in America."

Charles L. H. Wagner of 141 South Central avenue, Wollaston, prominent German-American, artist, writer and poet, with indignation flashing from his eyes and clenched hand raised to emphasize his feelings, thus summed up last night the reasons which impelled him to pen the startling, condemnatory poem which has aroused widespread comment in Boston.

"All of German's good achievements, all that Germans and German-Americans have been proud of as a heritage from the land of their nativity, were negative by that one dastardly act," he exclaimed with mingled tones of regret and shame, as he arose from a lounge at the Boston Y. M. C. A., where his interviewer found him.

"The Kaiser and his war rulers are mad with the hydrophobia of war, like mad dogs run amuck, and somebody must step in and stop them, bring them to their senses," he declared "Someone will get bitten, perhaps but in the name of humanity such ruthless atrocities must be stopped.

"It is the duty of every German-American, who is true to the real ideals of the Vaterland, to take a stand now, openly and courageously, against such blood-mad leaders, who recognize no rules of law or humanity This country must speak, must take a position so strong and firm that there can be no misunderstanding it I don't believe in war, but if that means war, then let it come.

"And now it is the duty of every German-American and every other American, to back up this Government to the limit in a demand that further atrocities like that of the Lusitania shall cease. So long as I am able to write I shall condemn such outrageous deeds."

JAMES BISHOP.

James Bishop, father of Lieut. Ernest Bishop of the police department, died at Guilford, Me., this morning, in his 68th year. Lieut. Bishop will leave tonight to attend the funeral. The deceased gained many friends in this city during his annual vacaton which he always passed in Quincy.

On Thursday evening in the parish house of Christ church an entertainment and candy sale will be held by the members of the Junior auxiliary. The contributions by the children will include a short playlet which is bright and pleasing. Candy will be on sale throughout the evening.

MORE EXCITEMENT ON CITY BURIAL BOARD

Two Members Understood to Have Tendered Resignations

The Managers of the Board of Public Burial Places are reported to have had another stormy meeting Monday evening and the special guest was Mayor Campbell. It is understood that the resignations of Chairman Thomas Bishop and Clerk John Cudworth have been tendered.

Mayor Campbell has not accepted the resignations, and during the conference is said to have told the men to go home and think it over and that they might come to a new decision by tonight.

The discussion on the resignations bordered on the sensational.

Clerk Cudworth is said to have turned to Arthur Hultman, who has been accused of being the press agent of the board, and said, "If I get through you will have the nicest job on your hands you ever had."

Hultman is said to have retorted, "Are your records as bad as that?"

The explanation then offered was: "You know how sweet a job you had when you assumed a temporary job as probation officer some time ago?"

And Hultman, with some heat came back with the question: "You don't mean to say your records are as bad as that, do you?"

Clerk Cudworth is then said to have accused Hultman of costing the board $1000. He said "We have been working thoroughly on these records and if you had given us time everything would have come out all right."

"Well," responded Hultman, according to the report, "you have been working on them for eight or nine years now, and they are not right yet."

Cudworth is then said to have remarked, "If I get off now something terrible will happen," and then he spoke of his resignation being in the hands of the mayor.

Hultman renewed his contention that all money credited to the board should be a separate fund and in line with inquiries made on that score presented letters between himself and City Treasurer Curtis.

The first follows:

"Will you kindly let me know by return mail the amount of money you now hold in your office to the credit of the Burial Places Department, under ordinance No. 11, Sec. 3, which says that the money for the sale of lots shall be kept separate and apart from other funds.

The reply from Treasurer Curtis was—"Replying to yours of the 4th inst. below please find reports of the burial department for the year 1914:

Care of Lots	$2,007.50
Sale of Lots	3,460.
Sale of Graves	465.
Opening Graves	1,525.
Miscellaneous	121.
Removals	12.

"I beg to advise you that the above amount was turned in with the general receipts of the city and went to help reduce the tax levy as has been the custom of the past 15 years or more."

The acknowledgement of that letter contains the following inquiry:

"Can you rightfully hold all moneys paid for the sale of lots for 1915 until appropriated as provided for under ordinance No. 11, Sec. 3, which says that the money paid into the city treasury for the sale of lots shall be kept separate and apart from other funds?"

The reply of Mr. Curtis was "I beg to advise you that if you desire any further information other than that given in my letter of recent date, I refer you to the Mayor."

When it became known this morning that resignations had been tendered Arthur B. Hultman was interviewed as to his opinion on the present status. He said he regretted that these members saw fit to tender resignations. When pressed for his opinion of their views he finally remarked he thought they did not want to bring the method of business up to an efficient basis.

Mayor Campbell when seen this morning said that he had met the Board of Managers of Public Burial Places in his office Monday evening and that the session was harmonious. He said it was a meeting where each expressed their ideas freely. When asked if it was true that some of the members of the Board had resigned the Mayor said they had not as far as he knew.

It is understood that the Mayor told the Board that he was a believer in publicity but that it was hardly the right thing for the Board to be able to read in the newspapers what was to happen before the meeting was held. After the meeting it was all right to give out anything of a public nature.

In conclusion the Mayor said that he thought that everything was now all right on the Board.

THE WEATHER.

Straw hats are slowly making their appearance in this city. City Square has seen several courageous men striding about with the cool straw balanced diffidently on their heads.

Isn't it about time you donned yours, Mr. Timid Man?

Generally fair and warmer weather is indicated for Wednesday.

"FORTUNES OF WAR."

The position taken by Rev. Clarence E. Campbell of the First Presbyterian church, who declared in his Sunday evening sermon that he could not see that the sinking of the Lusitania was anything outside the usual fortunes of war, is at least almost unique. The report of his sermon given at length in Monday's Ledger deserves a reading.

We do not intend to comment at length on what he says, but there is one statement which should be noted. Mr. Campbell says:

"The Americans who were lost on the boat were repeatedly cautioned not to sail on the ship of a belligrant nation. Disregarding the entreaty of the German embassy that the ship was liable to be torpedoed, they of their own free will accepted the fortunes of war with the result that we all know only too well. England is enforcing a blockade on Germany to keep food and munitions of war from the country. Germany in return seeks to dig her way out and open up the seas by sinking the ships of her enemies. The Lusitania was carrying ammunitions of war and was a belligerent ship and therefore subject to the fortunes of war."

It seems to us that Mr. Campbell misses the point. Common sense as well as the law of nations forbids a blockade by warning. The Americans who sailed on the Lusitania, whether they happen to have acted wisely or unwisely in consideration of all the facts, were strictly within their rights. They had a right to set sail on the Lusitania and a right to disregard a warning by a belligerent.

We hold the firm conviction that it is wisest for Americans to stay at home and not test the question. But since the question has been tested we must assert that Mr. Campbell's words "The Lusitania was carrying ammunitions of war and was a belligerent ship and therefore subject to the fortunes of war," is only a half truth. The neutral persons on board are not subject to the fortunes of war in the form which the Lusitania incident took.

"They of their own free will accepted the fortunes of war," says Mr. Campbell. Yes, the fortunes of war, but the fortunes of war generally laid down for neutrals and not for belligerents.

THE JITNEY BUS.

So many jitney busses have been bobbing up in every city and town of the state, it has become evident that some regulations must be made in regard to them. At a meeting in Boston recently of the Massachusetts City Solicitors and Town Counsel club, at which City Solicitor Pinkham was present, the opinion expressed was that the jitney bus had come to stay and that some regulations should be made for the conduct of this business.

This provoked more or less informal discussion. No definite action was taken relative to uniform regulation as it was admitted that regulations that might be applicable to one city would not fit another. It is probable that City Solicitor Pinkham will take the matter up with the city council at an early date. The city council has thus far this year granted an unusual number of hackney carriage licenses, a larger part of which will doubtless be used to do a jitney bus business.

It is only fair to street railway companies, from which so much is demanded by the cities and towns which they serve, that they should not suffer unfair competition on the part of the new mode of travel.

CONDITION IS VERY SERIOUS

Matthew Bryan of West street, an 80 year old teaming contractor, suffered a shock on Adams street this morning and is at the Quincy City Hospital in a critical condition.

Bryan was unloading a tipcart of sand, to be used in recoating tarvia. He suffered the shock as he dumped the load. The front of the cart struck him on the forehead, inflicting a jagged cut. He was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and taken to the hospital in the police ambulance.

AUSTRO-ITALIAN BREACH NEAR

London Expects Definite Word at Almost Any Moment

BATTLE RAGING IN THE WEST

Known to Be of Desperate Character and Widespread Extent—No Proof of "Sweeping Victory" by Teutons In Western Galicia—Russians Admit Loss of Part of Libau

London, May 11.—According to unofficial advices received here the Italian government, with 600,000 fighting men entrenched on the frontier, with all classes called to the colors and with everything prepared for the aggressive war for which the nation is eager, awaits the final reply of Austria. Unless it arrives today, or if it is unfavorable, Italy will consider the negotiations terminated.

In the meantime the publication of important decrees which were signed at the last meeting of the Italian cabinet has been withheld.

The echoes of the Lusitania tragedy, the possibility of the United States becoming involved in the war as a result of the death of more than a hundred of her citizens and the Italy-Austria negotiations are being more widely discussed than the news from the front, although there has been a big battle along the whole line of the western front, from Arras to Lille.

That this battle has been of desperate character and widespread extent is made certain both by the Berlin and Paris official statements.

As yet the Teutons have failed to afford incontrovertible proof of their "sweeping victory" in western Galicia. Although it may be readily conceded that the Russian line between the Vistula and the Carpathians has been pushed back, there is no evidence of any wholesale disaster to the Russian arms, nor that the czar has been forced to yield his hold on the heights to the east of Dukla pass.

An indication of the slowing up of the Teutonic offensive may be read in the Berlin and Vienna reports. The German communication has the pursuit of the Russians continuing in the same spot in which the said pursuit was going on last Saturday, namely, across the Wisloka river, while the Austrian statement repeats the story of the driving of all Russians from Hungarian soil.

On the other hand, Petrograd says the Austrian attacks in the direction of Mezo Laborcz, which lies in northern Hungary, have been repulsed and that the German assaults in western Galicia are less frequent, although carried on with undiminished fury.

The German invasion of the Baltic provinces seems to have reached its height with the capture of the port of Libau, which Petrograd has conceded. Berlin admits that the German advance divisions to the south of Libau are avoiding the enemy, while the Russian report indicates that a serious reverse has been inflicted on the enemy in this region.

In all probability the German operations here were designed more or less as a diversion to tempt the Russians to withdraw heavy forces of troops from other and more vital points on the eastern battle line.

BROUGHT DOWN BY BULLET IN BACK

Police Think They Have Robber Who Terrorized Bostonians

Hartford, May 11.—John R. Meakin of this city, who is believed to be the lone bandit who held up dozens of liquor and other stores in Boston during the last four months, was arrested after a fierce fight and chase, during which he was shot in the back as he was running for the Park river with the intention of fording it.

Meakin lives in this city with his parents. When approached by a detective he caught the man and tossed him into the gutter.

Meakin is at the city hospital in a dangerous condition, but it is thought he will recover. To guard against any attempt of his to escape two policemen are stationed at his bedside. He is rated as a desperate character and has a state prison and naval prison record.

THE VANDERBILT ESTATE

Attorneys Refuse to Discuss Question of Its Probable Value

New York, May 11.—With Alfred G. Vanderbilt given up for lost, there is speculation as to the probable disposal of his vast estate, estimated at from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Vanderbilt leaves three sons, William H. Vanderbilt, born in 1901, to his first wife, Elsie F. Vanderbilt, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Jr., and George, born to his second wife, who was Mrs. Smith H. McKim.

Vanderbilt's attorneys refused to discuss the matter on the ground that they had not yet received legal proof of his death.

SPIRITUALISTS HOLD FAIR

The Quincy Spiritualist society held its first fair and entertainment in Electa hall Monday evening with a good attendance. The entertainment was preceded by a sale of useful articles from six to eight o'clock.

The program included greetings by Mrs. James J. Black, president of the society, a speech on its aims by James J. Black, and readings by Mrs. Etta Cobb.

One of the features of the evening was Scotch and Indian dancing by seven year old Elizabeth Goodwin of Boston. A comedy sketch was given by Miss Florence Duckworth and L. C Wililams.

The soloist of the evening was Miss Beatrice A. Medlin, a well known soprano. She was accompanied by Mrs Edith Carey Page. Her selections were "Come, For 'Tis June" and "A Wild Rose" by Dorothy Foster, and by Marvin H. Craxton.

The women of the society had charge of the tables and grab bag. Miss Lillian B. Sleep was the "parcel post man." She was dressed in a blue uniform and wore the cap in use by carriers before the Quincy Post Office was included in the Boston district.

The fancy table was in charge of Mrs. L. C. Williams and Mrs. William Sleep, Mrs. Harriet Charlesworth, Mrs Coy, and Mrs. Susie Harris.

Cake was sold by Mrs. Christina Raleigh, Mrs. Minnie Christie and Mrs Mary Sweeney. Mrs. Harriett Charlesworth also had charge of the candy.

POLICE SEEK TO CARE FOR TRAFFIC

A change in the policing of Washington street on Sundays has gone into effect as the result of complaints from people living along the street that several minor motor accidents had occured because of the congestion.

The street is closed to travel from Union street beyond Pond street, the only open space being the car tracks.

Patrolman Taylor who was guarding the crossing at Canal street was assigned to the unguarded section.

Auto travel on Washington street was the heaviest this year and from four to six o'clock so many were in line it had the appearance of a successful parade.

During the height of the congestion Sunday afternoon the autos of Herbert M. Federhan, 558 Columbus avenue, Boston, and Henry G. Perkins, 81 Monmouth street, Brookline, collided. The Federhan machine struck the Perkins auto in the rear and was so tightly wedged between the rear springs it had to be pried out with bars.

LARGE GIFT FOR SQUANTUM CHURCH

Announcement of the gift of memorial pews for the First Church of Squantum has been made by the Rev. T. W. Davison, pastor of the church. Miss Annie Richards of 294 Beacon street, Boston, is the donor of this handsome gift. The pews have been ordered from the American Seating Company and are of Gothic type. They are practically the same as recently placed in the Park and Downs Congregational church.

The amount of the present to the church is over $500 and this is additional to $1200 given by Mrs. Richards as a memorial to the church. The assembly hall of the church has been named Richards Memorial hall.

In recognition of the magnificent gift from Miss Richards a fine memorial tablet will be placed in the front of the church auditorium. The gift not only includes pews but handsome chairs for the vestry room and pulpit chairs and communion table.

The selection of the pews and other furnishings were made by the following members of the executive committee of the church assisted by the Rev. Mr. Davison, Herbert A. Smith, moderator; James H. Sumner, treasurer, and Carl E. Carlson, superintendent of the Sunday school. The order has been sent in and the pews will be delivered and set up by the first of July. A special service in honor of the event is being planned.

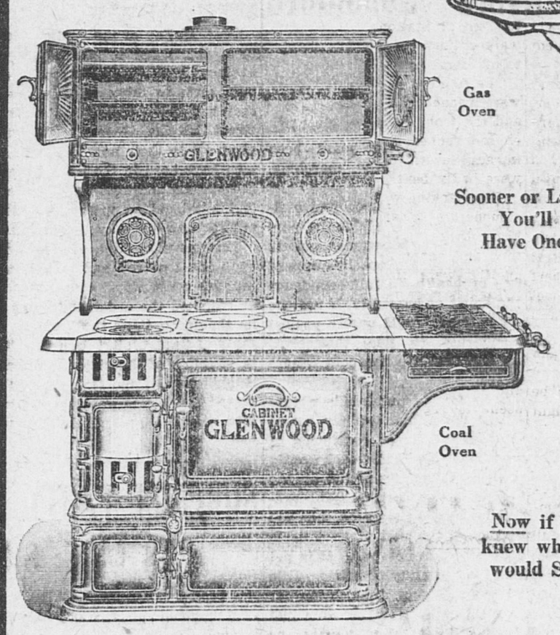

Miss Richards, donor of the pews, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richards who owned for many years the large estate at Squantum where the church is now located. It was the former Richards mansion that was remodeled after the first of last summer, into the present handsome church building. Mrs. Richards and her daughter, Miss Annie Richards, still retain a keen interest in Squantum and its upbuilding.

AUTO CHEMICAL GOES DOWN EMBANKMENT

Firemen Escape Serious Injury In 14 Foot Plunge

The auto chemical combination of the Central Fire station was wrecked this noon when it struck and broke off a 14 inch telephone pole on Quincy avenue, ran through a fence and plunged down a 14 foot embankment on the Keenan estate.

Richard Williams and Edward Barry who were in the machine at the time, marvellously escaped serious injury but suffered serious bruises and contusions.

The machine, which has not been working properly the past few days was undergoing a test run, with Barry at the wheel. While travelling up Quincy avenue toward the Central station Williams, who is an expert chauffeur, put his hand on the wheel to see how the gear was working and kept it there.

Suddenly he turned to Barry and said: "The gear has gone, Eddie," and before the emergency brake could be set the machine swung to hte right and struck the telephone pole. Williams was thrown out and landed on the street. Barry held the wheel as the machine plugged its way through the fence, down the steep embankment and as it buried its nose in the meadow was thrown forward.

Freeing himself from the broken shield and searchlight Barry climbed back just as Williams was getting on his feet.

"Are you hurt Dick?" brought the response. "No, are you Eddie?"

The plunge of the auto was witnessed by several people and they sent in an emergency call for physicians. Dr. George M. Sheahan and Dr. C. J. Lynch were the first to respond. They examined both men and found no bones broken. Barry was taken back to Central Station and shortly after walked home. Williams was taken to his home in the police ambulance.

The four wheels of the machine were smashed, the radiator punctured and the front of the chassis, near the engine bucked from the force of the impact. Several of the chemical tanks were badly bent.

The machine was being operated at a moderate speed at the time the gears borke. The truck weighs five tons and snapped the telephone pole as if it were kindling wood.

Tackles were rigged as soon as possible and the machine was pulled back to the street. The emergency crew of the telephone company was summoned and braced the broken pole and a police officer was sent to the scene to regulate the traffic by that spot.

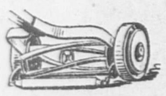

SAM REMMI GETS 6 MONTHS

Sam Remmi was arrested in Boston by Inspector Goodhue Monday evening as he was wining and dining a party of girls and this morning he pleaded guilty to the larceny of $200 and was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction.

Remmi is thought to be a New Hampshire jail breaker. He stole the money Monday noon from the room of John Rennie on Hillside street, West Quincy, where he was boarding.

The capture, one of the quickest on record in local police circles, was made on Fleet street. Remmi was wearing a brand new outfit when arrested and according to Inspector Goodhue was spending his money like a drunken sailor. He had $52 left when located and a new gold watch.

The girls in his party allowed it was a shame to arrest a good fellow and pleaded with the officer to release his prisoner.

AT THE THEATRE

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

A show full of life and vim was shown at Kincaide's theatre Monday. It will be repeated today and Wednesday. Heading the bill is a wonderful photo-play under the direction of Daniel Frohman, whose brother Charles Frohman, went down with the Lusitania.

The picture is one of Western life, depicting the struggle of the railroad men to run their railroad in a straight line between two cities. The ranchers refuse to let the rails be laid through their land and trouble ensues. One of the ranchers has a daughter who is in love with the R. R. superinendent, and the story of how she carries out his vow after his death make a strong and interesting plot. Many touches of Western law and humor, and especially good horses make the drama well worth seeing.

The vaudeville is the best seen at Kincaide's for some time. Sheild & Rodgers had the bill and they give a splendid exhibition of rope twirling. Dresesd as a cow-boy and an Indian they give realistic effect. Harry Crawford is a real comedian, his facial expression and his imitations are excellent. Port and DeLacy more than hold ther own in this good aggregation.

THE AUDITORIUM.

"The Dollar Mark," a photo-play in five acts will be the feature picture at the Auditorium theatre Wednesday and Thursday. Robert Warwick, who needs no introduction to motion picture devotees, will play the leading role. Jim Gresham, owner of the Nelly Davis mines, refuses to be frightened into selling his property to a scheming capitalist, Carson Baylis by name.

Baylis with his friend Martin and other friends visits the Cobalt district to look the property over. One of the party, Alice Chandler, is caught in a terrible storm and seeks shelter in Jim's hut. The storm increases and the two float down the cataract on a door torn from the hut. They are rescued by Martin on property. Later Martin becomes Jim's friend and partner in a bank.

Baylis attempts to break the bank. Jim hears of the attempt and starts in a yacht for the scene. He is pursued by Baylis in a larger boat and Jim's skipper is forced to put to sea. Eventually Baylis is defeated and Jim saves the bank and wins a bride, Alice Chandler.

The drama is replete with thrilling incidents and the characters are well taken. The acting of Robert Warwick is impressive.

CHURCH AND CHOIR

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

At the morning service the pastor Rev. Joseph Walther, gave a strong message from the subject: "God's Ultimate Triumph."

God's ultimate triumph is foreshadowed in many places in the bible. In connection with God's dealing with Pharoah and the children of Israel, and also in the story of Saul and David God's ultimate triumph is seen in Christ's parable of the wicked husbandman.

"We are assured of the triumphs already won, not only those mentioned in the bible, but those which have been accomplished since, and those especially more recent times for there are victories all along the line.

"'Faith is the victory that overcomes the world.' We are assured of God's ultimate Triumph because of the men and women in it. No greater heroes and heroines are to be found anywhere than are to be found in the Kingdom of God."

The Sunday school held its usual session at 12.15 with 312 present.

The Junior Endeavor meeting at 3.30 was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther. Subject: "Jesus and a Little Girl." Luke 8: 49-56. C. E. meeting at 6.00 was in charge of Elford L. Durgin. Copyright, 1914. Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

It is now almost a question of hours: Only four more selling days, and four days slip by very quickly.

When this store closes its doors Saturday night, your opportunity to procure one of these pianos for 266 dollars, or one of these player-pianos for 413 dollars is gone forever.

You will never again have the opportunity to have an instrument like one of these delivered to your home upon the payment of five dollars.

You will never again have the opportunity to take 3 years and 8 months time in which to pay for your instrument without having interest added to the price.

You will never get "fairer or squarer" conditions upon which to buy, because you yourself cannot conceive of "fairer or squarer" conditions, if you were naming them instead of us.

This sale was inaugurated to meet a condition and that condition was a gradual slumping off of the piano business owing to a lot of unnecessary scares and pessimistic talk.

The sale met this condition by doing more for the piano buyer than was ever done before. The result is, this sale has been a more successful sale than was ever held before.

You can't delay. You must come now or never.

You should come. No one can afford to let an unparalled opportunity like this slip through their fingers. You can well afford to make some little sacrifices in other directions to share in these advantages.

¶ During this sale, the Piano Department will be open evenings by appointment, arrangements for which may be made by calling phone No. 1200, and asking for Mr. Bates.

IS BACK WITH TAUNTON TEAM

George Barry have again become inmag was injured while blocking the "Little Commodore" of the Colonial league, having rejoined the Taunton team after several weeks with the Portland team of the New England league.

Barry was one of those hit by the reduction of the numbers of players a manager can carry to 13. He was pitted against Hayden, a veteran for the catcher's berth and would have remained if Lowe, the second baseman had not been available as the utility backstop.

Barry, unfortunately, caught but one full game, on April 19. The next day he was sent in and in the sixth inning was injured while blocking Jackson, the old Boston National star, at home. He was spiked in the performance, and received two deep cuts to the ankle bone.

Barry was to be transferred to another team and several managers were angling for him but at his own request he was released to Taunton.

The Colonial league this season is expected to be faster than ever and those on the inside who know the game are of the opinion it will be faster than the New England league. This was so in some respects last season.

TRIPLE TIE FOR LEAD.

Monday evening's game in the West Quincy Twilight League when the Hinkies defeated the Blue Hills resulted in a triple tie for first place in the league. The Hinkies, Blue Hills and Cubs have each won two and lost one game while the Commons have yet to secure their first victory. The score last evening was 4 to 3 and the game was an interesting one. The features of the game was the hitting of Decelle of the Hinkies who secured a double and triple. The battery for the winners were Gaudiano and Egan and for the losers McDonald and Reinhalter. The game this evening will be between the Hinkies and Cubs.

EXPECTED SHIP TO KEEP AFLOAT

Many of Lusitania's Passengers Trapped In Staterooms

CAPTAIN HAD BEEN WARNED

Not the Slightest Doubt That Liner Had Been Torpedoed—Kaiser and Government Included In Verdict of Coroner's Jury Charging Germans With Murder—Noted Americans Went to Their Deaths In Calm, Self-Sacrificing Manner—Vanderbilt, Hubbard, Frohman and Others Meet Fate Without Fear

Queenstown, May 11.—Mrs. Jessie T. Smith of Braceville, O., who was making the trip from New York, unaccompanied, was one of the coolest survivors of the Lusitania disaster. Recounting her experiences, she said:

"I was in my room writing when the torpedo hit the ship. I am satisfied that no warning was given. I have testified to this in an affidavit which I have supplied to the state department.

"It is a surprising fact how many people were caught in their staterooms. Evidently they shared my feelings that if struck the ship would stay up a long time. This probably accounts for the heavy losses among the first cabin passengers, many of whom went below to get their belongings.

CAPTAIN TURNER AND SALOON OF VESSEL.

"I had practised putting on my life belt and by the time I had reached the deck I had adjusted it. On my way to the deck the list was so great that I fell against some man, who expostulated with me. Asking his pardon, I hurried to the port side and was thrown into a boat by a steward and fell sprawling.

"Two-thirds of the people in this boat, the only one launched on the port side, were men. A fearful time was taken in lowering the boat, which was only about thirty feet away when the Lusitania disappeared beneath the waves, leaving a mass of wreckage, swimmers and bodies.

"After rowing for three hours we were picked up by a fishing boat. Later we were taken aboard a trawler and landed here."

BRAVERY OF AMERICANS

Men of Note Went to Their Doom Without a Sign of Fear

Meanwhile tales of the calm, smiling, self-sacrificing manner in which prominent Americans went to their deaths are becoming known, and lightened somewhat the sombre pall of horror which shrouds the catastrophe. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who was equipped with a life belt, gallantly took it off and placed it about a young woman. Then he went to seek another belt. He was not seen again.

"Vanderbilt was standing outside the grand entrance of the saloon, looking quite happy and perfectly composed," said Oliver F. Bernard, scenic artist of the Covent Garden. He was holding a jewel case for a lady for whom he apparently was waiting."

A moment later, after the ship had been torpedoed, Vanderbilt was seen by Thomas Slidell of New York city and an English passenger on the deck of the Lusitania. Vanderbilt, who could not swim, was adjusting a life belt. As he secured it in place a young woman, greatly flurried, passed him. He was seen to take off the belt and adjust it for the woman. "There was nothing in the way of heroics. The self-sacrifice was made as a matter of course," said the English passenger.

Others told of last seeing Charles Frohman standing near a rail calmly viewing the awful scenes about him as the ship sank.

"Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure in life," were the last words of Frohman before he went down with the Lusitania, according to Miss Rita Jolivet, an American actress, with whom he was talking calmly just before the end came.

Miss Jolivet, who was among the survivors taken to Queenstown, said she and Frohman were standing on deck as the Lusitania heeled over. They decided not to trust themselves to lifeboats, although Frohman believed the ship was doomed. It was after reaching this decision that he declared he had no fear of death.

The last days of Elbert Hubbard were days of cheerfulness for every one with whom he came in contact.

The great American philosopher and humorist probably was the most familiar figure on the decks of the Lusitania. Every hour of sunlight he spent on the deck of the Lusitania with Mrs. Hubbard at his side, taking part in the games, talking, chatting and endearing himself to scores of passengers. The one regret expressed by Hubbard and his wife was that they had been unable to bring their daughter, that she, too, might have enjoyed what to them had been a wonderful voyage.

R. J. Timmins of Gainesville, Tex., was accompanied by his chum, R. T. Moodie, also of Gainesville. Both men gave their life belts to steerage women just as the Lusitania sank. Timmis, who is a strong swimmer, remained in the water for nearly three hours. Then he was taken into a boat, which he still had strength enough to assist in rowing.

The boat began picking up all those who showed signs of life, and the first person rescued was the half-unconscious steerage woman to whom Timmis had given his life belt.

Moodie was ready to jump when Timmis, who had given his belt to a woman, said: "There is a steerage woman with a 6-months-old baby." Moodie stripped off his life belt, but it seems both he and the woman perished.

BLAME PLACED ON GERMANS

Coroner's Verdict Charges Wilful and Wholesale Murder

Kinsale, Ire., May 11.—That he had knowledge that an attempt was to be made to torpedo the Lusitania was the statement made by the commander of the ill-fated liner here.

Testifying at the inquest into the death of five victims of the disaster who were brought here, Captain Turner said that although the voyage was without incident up to the time the Lusitania was struck he had received information that an attempt would be made by submarines to sink him.

Turner declared that there was not the slightest doubt that the Lusitania was torpedoed, and said that she had been struck the first time forward between the first two funnels.

The jury returned the following verdict:

"The jury finds that this appalling crime was contrary to international law and the conventions of all civilized nations, and we, therefore, charge the officers of the submarine, and the German emperor and the government of Germany, under whose orders they acted, with the crime of wilful and wholesale murder."

FEARS FOR TRANSYLVANIA

Liner May Become Next Target For German Submarines

New York, May 11.—As the liner Transylvania draws nearer to the "war zone" anxiety for her safety increases. The fact that she is marked to be the next victim of the German submarine causes the offices of the Cunard and Anchor lines to be bombarded with telephone messages and calls from relatives of passengers, all desirous of obtaining some news of the steamer. The only answer given was that no ill news had been received and that the Transylvania was so far all right.

She is not due to enter the war zone for some time as yet, but the fact that W. S. Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty, announced in the house of commons that the navy would not supply convoys for merchant ships caused grave forebodings here. While there are many other steamers in or about to be in the war zone, the general feeling here is that the Transylvania is the special target, the one to which the warning of Germany specially applies. The remark of Dernburg and the text of Germany's note to her ambassador here serve to make the feeling more tense.

WILL SINK OTHER SHIPS

Germany Won't Stop War on Merchant Marine, Says Dernberg

New York, May 11.—Bernard Dernberg, formerly minister of colonies of the German empire, and recognized in this country as the kaiser's spokesman, declared that Germany has only begun her deadly crusade against Great Britain's commerce. The sinking of the Lusitania will be followed by the destruction of other British ships, whether Americans are aboard or not.

"The American flag will not afford the slightest protection for vessels which carry cargo that the Germans regard as contraband," he said.

"Any ship carrying goods to Great Britain is to be sunk. England has cut off Germany from the outside world and we intend to isolate her in like manner, so that all communication with other parts of the earth will be impossible."

Barred by British Cotton Men

Liverpool, May 11.—The board of directors of the Cotton association passed a resolution setting forth that no naturalized German or Austrian shall henceforth be permitted to enter the Cotton exchange.

FORE RIVER LOG IS OUT

The Fore River Log, published in the interests of the employees at the Fore River shipyard has been published and nearly 5000 copies distributed.

The Log contains 16 pages and in addition to short summaries of matters connected with shipyard it has a personal column.

The latter notes that "Steve Whorf had his auto out on its preliminary trial on Sunday, April 25." The foreword states that there will be no sermons in the Log and that the company desires happy, contended, intelligent and efficient workmen and that it is doing all it can to bring about such conditions.

The magazine was published under the direction of Joseph M. Larkin, editor. Its cover is of handsome design and has as a centrepiece an engine of war with smoke belching from its funnels. The cover was designed by William Kolvig, a designer at the yard, who was born in Alsace-Lorraine, educated in Germany and who lived a few years in Cochin, China.

SPORTING COMMENT

The Blue Hills topped the Twilight league of West Quincy last week. There are several things of interest to the hundred fans following the season. One is the umpiring of Sammy Gosselin. Crippled and able to walk only with the aid of crutches, Sammy fills the position with distinction. In fact none of his decisions have been questioned and he has had more than his share to make. The standing:

	won	lost	percent
Blue Hills	2	0	1000
Cubs	2	1	666
Hinkies	1	1	500
Commons	0	3	000

The Giants were buried in a landslide of Boston hits Monday afternoon. The revenge of the Braves on Tesreau resulted in a 14 to 9 victory.

Three thousands bluejackets from the battleship fleet in the Hudson rooted in vain the Yankees Monday. Their cheers only stimulated the Red Sox to faster playing and a 3 to 1 win.

The swimmers have taken to the briny deep and the past few days have witnessed plunges by the early ones. The first to take a dip this year was a Wollaston Park women, who never told who she was. She entered the water on April 19 and remained for several minutes.

There isn't a shine stand in the city that hasn't a filled rack of last season's straw hats already for this week's wear. Sunday saw many in the city and the usual josh games were pulled.

The 50-foot day cruising power boat built at Lawley's for Chester W Bliss was put overboard Monday. She is named "The Raccoon" and should prove fast, her two engines being 100-horse power. It is the largest "V" shaped bottom ever built and was designed by William Hand of New Bedford.

Battling Jim Johnson provided a surprise for the followers of the Canadian Athletic club of Montreal Monday night by shading Joe Jeanette. The latter started too late.

Newton High beat Somerville in the 10th innings Monday. Vachon's hit sent over the winner.

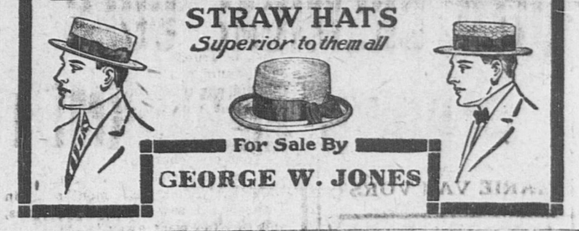

LEASE COTTAGE AT BEACH.

The Harmony club of West Quincy have leased "The Harvard Lawn," a new seven room cottage at Nantasket. The cottage is situated on Moreland avenue on the waterfront and just to the rear of Paragon. The club will hold open house Memorial Day. This is the club's third season at the beach.

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST

"Perhaps," she thought, "there is nothing really beyond that line, so fast blotting itself into night—and yet I seem to see them come!"

Madame de la Maine, in the door of her tent, immovable, her hands clasped around her knees, look affectionately at the young girl before her. Julia was a delight to her. She was carried away by her, by her frank simplicity, and drawn to her warm and generous heart. Madame de la Maine had her own story. She wondered whether ever, for any period of her conventional life, she could have thrown everything aside and stood out with the man she loved.

* * * * * * *

Julia watched, indeed. On the desert there is the brilliant day, a passionate glow, and the nightfall. They passed the nights sometimes listening for a cry that should hail an approaching caravan, sometimes hearing the wild cry of the hyenas, or of a passing vulture on his horrid flight. Otherwise, until the camp stirred with the dawn and the early prayer-call sounded "Allah! Allah! Akbar!" into the stillness, they were wrapped in complete silence.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Two Love Stories.

If it had not been for her absorbing thought of Sabron, Julia would have reveled in the desert and the new experiences. As it was, its charm and magic and the fact that he traveled over it helped her to endure the interval.

In the deep impenetrable silence she seemed to hear her future speak to her. She believed that it would either be a wonderfully happy one, or a hopelessly withered life.

"Julia, I cannot ride any farther!" exclaimed the comtesse.

She was an excellent horsewoman and had ridden all her life, but her riding of late had consisted of a canter in the Bois de Boulogne at noon, and it was sometimes hard to follow Julia's tireless gallops toward an ever-disappearing goal.

"Forgive me," said Miss Redmond, and brought her horse up to her friend's side.

It was the cool of the day, of the fourteenth day since Tremont had left Algiers and the seventh day of Julia's excursion. A fresh wind blew from the west, lifting their veils from their helmets and bringing the fragrance of the mimosa into whose scanty forest they had ridden. The sky paled toward sunset, and the evening star, second in glory only to the moon, hung over the west.

Although both women knew perfectly well the reason for this excursion and its importance, not one word had been spoken between them of Sabron and Tremont other than a natural interest and anxiety.

They might have been two hospital nurses awaiting their patients.

They halted their horses, looking over toward the western horizon and its mystery. "The star shines over their caravan," mused Madame de la Maine (Julia had not thought Therese poetical), "as though to lead them home."

Madame de la Maine turned her face and Julia saw tears in her eyes. The Frenchwoman's control was usually perfect, she treated most things with mocking gayety. The bright softness of her eyes touched Julia.

"Therese!" exclaimed the American girl. "It is only fourteen days!"

Madame de la Maine laughed. There was a break in her voice. "Only fourteen days," she repeated, "and any one of those days may mean death!"

She threw back her head, touched her stallion, and flew away like light, and it was Julia who first drew rein.

"Therese! Therese! We cannot go any farther!"

"Lady!" said Azrael. He drew his big black horse up beside them. "We must go back to the tents."

* * * * * * *

"Tell me, Julia, of Monsieur de Sabron," asked Madame de la Maine abruptly.

"There is nothing to tell, Therese."

"You don't trust me?"

"Do you think that, really?"

In the tent where Azrael served them their meal, under the ceiling of Turkish red with its Arabic characters in clear white, Julia and Madame de la Maine sat while their coffee was served them by a Syrian servant.

"A girl does not come into the Sahara and watch like a sentinel, does not suffer as you have suffered, ma chere, without there being something to tell."

"It is true," said Miss Redmond, "and would you be with me, Therese, if I did not trust you? And what do you want me to tell?" she added naively.

The comtesse laughed.

"Vous etes charmante, Julia!"

"I met Monsieur de Sabron," said Julia slowly, "not many months ago in Tarascon. I saw him several times, and then he went away."

"And then?" urged Madame de la Maine eagerly.

"He left his little dog, Pitchoune, with me, and Pitchoune ran after his master to Marseilles, flinging himself into the water, and was rescued by the sailors. I wrote about it to Monsieur de Sabron, and he answered me from the desert, the night before he went into battle."

"And that's all?" urged Madame de la Maine.

"That's all," said Miss Redmond. She drank her coffee.

"You tell a love story very badly, ma chere."

"Is it a love story?"

"Have you come to Africa for charity? Voyons!"

Julia was silent. A great reserve seemed to seize her heart, to stifle her as the poverty of her love story struck her. She sat turning her coffee-spoon between her fingers, her eyes downcast. She had very little to tell. She might never have any more to tell. Yet this was her love story. But the presence of Sabron was so real, and she saw his eyes clearly looking upon her as she had seen them often; heard the sound of his voice that meant but one thing—and the words of his letter came back to her. She remembered her letter to him, rescued from the field where he had fallen. She raised her eyes to the Comtesse de la Maine, and there was an appeal in them.

The Frenchwoman leaned over and kissed Julia. She asked nothing more. She had not learned her lessons in discretion to no purpose.

At night they sat out in the moonlight, white as day, and the radiance over the sands was like the snowflowers. Wrapped in their warm coverings, Julia and Therese de la Maine lay on the rugs before the door of their tent, and above their heads shone the stars so low that it seemed as though their hands could snatch them from the sky. At a little distance their servants sat around the dying fire, and there came to them the plaintive song of Azrael, as he led their singing:

And who can give again the love of yesterday?
Can a whirlwind replace the sand after it is scattered?
What can heal the heart that Allah has smitten?
Can the mirage form again when there are no eyes to see?

"I was married," said Madame de la Maine, "when I was sixteen."

Julia drew a little nearer and smiled to herself in the shadow.

This would be a real love story.

"I had just come out of the convent. We lived in an old chateau, older than the history of your country, ma chere, and I had no dot. Robert de Tremont and I used to play together in the alleeys of the park, on the terrace. When his mother brought him over when she called on my grandmother, he teased me horribly because the weeds grew between the stones of our terrace. He was very rude.

"Throughout our childhood, until I was sixteen, we teased each other and fought and quarreled."

"This is not a love-affair, Therese," said Miss Redmond.

"There are all kinds, ma chere, as there are all temperaments," said Madame de la Maine. "At Assumption—that is our great feast, Julia—the Feast of Mary—it comes in August—at Assumption, Monsieur de la Maine came to talk with my grandmother. He was forty years old, and bald—Bob and I made fun of his few hairs, like the children in the Holy Bible."

Julia put out her hand and took the hand of Madame de la Maine gently. She was getting so far from a love affair.

"I married Monsieur de la Maine in six weeks," said Therese.

"Oh," breathed Miss Redmond, "horrible!"

Madame de la Maine pressed Julia's hand.

"When it was decided between my grandmother and the comte, I escaped at night, after they thought I had gone to bed, and I went down to the lower terrace where the weeds grew in plenty, and told Robert. Somehow, I did not expect him to make fun, although we always joked about everything until this night. It was after nine o'clock."

The comtesse swept one hand toward the desert. "A moon like this—only not like this—ma chere. There was never but that moon to me for many years."

"I thought at first that Bob would kill me—he grew so white and terrible. He seemed suddenly to have aged ten years. I will never forget his cry as it rang out in the night. 'You will marry that old man when we love each other?' I had never known it until then.

"We were only children, but he grew suddenly old. I knew it then," said Madame de la Maine intensely, "I knew it then."

She waited for a long time. Over the face of the desert there seemed to be nothing but one veil of light. The silence grew so intense, so deep; the Arabs had stopped singing, but the heart fairly echoed, and Julia grew meditative—before her eyes the caravan she waited for seemed to come out of the moonlit mist, rocking, rocking—the camels and the huddled figures of the riders, their shadows cast upon the sand.

And now Tremont would be forever changed in her mind. A man who had suffered from his youth, a warm-hearted boy, defrauded of his early love. It seemed to her that he was a charming figure to lead Sabron.

"Therese," she murmured, "won't you tell me?"

"They thought I had gone to bed," said the Comtesse de la Maine, "and I went back to my room by a little staircase, seldom used, and I found myself alone, and I knew what life was and what it meant to be poor."

"But," interrupted Julia, horrified, "girls are not sold in the twentieth century."

"They are sometimes in France, my dear. Robert was only seventeen. His father laughed at him, threatened to send him to South America. We were victims."

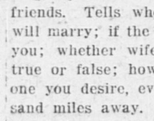

"It was the harvest moon," continued Madame de la Maine gently, "and it shone on us every night until my wedding day. Then the duke kept his threat and sent Robert out of France. He continued his studies in England and went into the army of Africa."

There was a silence again.

"I did not see him until last year," said Madame de la Maine, "after my husband died."

Tree Notes

The Forestry committee of the Quincy Women's club has prepared the following article about trees, and tree pests and their treatment.

WHY PLANT TREES.

They add value to adjacent property; protect from the hot sun; add beauty and comfort to street and they cool the air in the summer and radiate warmth in winter.

WHERE TO PLANT TREES.

Plant 35 to 40 feet apart in good soil. Dig a pit three feet square by three and a half feet deep. Replace the sand and stones by good top soil mixed with well-rotted manure. See that the best soil is near the roots.

HOW TO PLANT TREES.

Dig the hole large enough to take the roots without crowding. Cut off broken and injured roots with a sharp knife. Make a clean cut. Trim back the top to counterbalance the loss of roots. See that the earth is pressed firmly around the roots to hold the tree in place. Water thoroughly.

TREES TO PLANT.

Trees for general street planting should be nursery grown. These have compact root system, straight stems and symmetrical tops, and are accustomed to transplanting. Only a few varieties of trees do well in the city. Among these the Norway Maple, American Elm, European Linden, Ash and Sycamore or Plane trees are easily the leaders. Do not plant Poplars or silver Maples. They are short-lived, clog the sewer pipes, raise the sidewalks and topple over in storms. The Silver Maples also harbor borers.

DO YOU KNOW?

That the tree is like a mill that runs itself.

The raw materials it uses are the minerals from the soil and the gases from the air.

The leaves are the machinery that take charge of the raw material and make it into the finished product, sap, that goes to feed every part of the tree.

The sunlight is the power that runs the machinery.

The waste products of this mill that the leaves send off into the air are the very things that we human beings need most, oxygen to breathe and moisture.

Do you know of any other manufactory that runs itself, furnishes its own materials and gives away its products to bless and brighten the world?

That trees are the oldest living inhabitants on the face of the globe? That there are trees living now in California that were already one thousand years old when Columbus discovered America?

That a full-grown tree sends out 187 gallons of water a day through its leaves into the air? Think what a difference that makes in hot, dry weather.

That Massachusetts is a Pine growing state.

That you can get Pine tree-lots from Amherst Agricultural College for six dollars a thousand? Land reforested in this way will in ten years' time yield good returns.

PESTS AND REMEDIES.

Tent Caterpillar—Collect nests early in the spring, or spray with Arsenate of Lead.

Elm Leaf Beetle—Spray with Arsenate of Lead in May or June.

San Jose Scale—Best controlled by spraying with a contact poison such as Lime Sulphur or Soluble Oil. Apply when the tree is dormant, in late fall or early spring.

Aphis—Spray with a weak solution of Lime Sulphur, Soluble Oil, Kerosene Emulsion, or Whale Oil Soap.

Gypsy Moth—Cut off the portion of bark upon which the nest is made; burn this, apply creosote.

Brown-tailed Moths—Cut off the nests, if necessary portions of limbs and burn without scattering on the ground.

Leopard Moth—Probe into the hole made by borer and draw out worms. Fill cavity with carbon-bi-sulphide and fill with putty.

State House News

The Governor has called for still another investigation, this time of the sliding-scale gas rates. It is a great year for investigations on Beacon Hill. The agreement by President Coolidge of the Senate and Speaker Cox of the House to suppress all legislation that they can has apparently resulted in forcing government activities into other channels.

The conversion of Senator Wells, who up to a few days ago was a firm believer that a receivership was the only safe way out of the Boston & Maine muddle, makes things look a little easier for the trustee's bill.

Senator Tufts of the Fifth Middlesex District is following in the footsteps of former Senator Hoar of the same district in his heroic opposition to Boston & Maine legislation.

Republicans and Democrats joined hands in the House in passing Martin Lomasney's bill to extend the opportunity for admission to the bar. There was scant opposition. This bill does not lower the standards of legal knowledge required but merely requires less geenral education along other lines.

Legislative dignity is not allowed to interfere with comfort on Beacon Hill. Each year at this time more and more soft collars are seen in the corridors of the State House. Even the Governor occasionally indulges.

The bill to ratify the Boston Dry Dock contract was passed in spite of the opposition. It is generally agreed on the Hill that the opposition began too late. The contractors already had most of the legislature lined up before anyone discovered that ratification would lose the Commonwealth at least $18,000.00. The Governor is now being urged to veto the bill.

Attorney General Attwill has blocked the attempt of the street car lines to suppress the jitney bus business. He has declared their bill to be unconstitutional.

Of course, the overshadowing news of the week is the sinking of the Lusitania. Several legislators of the sort that are always seeking an opportunity of getting their names in the papers, are already contemplating urging the Legislature to memorialize the President in favor of war, peace etc.

Meanwhile the "third house" the insidious lobby gets active. This is not intended as a slam at any particular lobbyist or any particular measure. It is merely to call attention to the fact well known in political circles, that whenever public attention can be diverted, good legislation will be killed and bad legislation rushed through.

Our system of government, whereby the electorate are relieved of the burden of actually making their own laws, requires of them in return an eternal vigilance in seeing that their representatives truly represent them. Eternal vigilance is the price of clean and efficient government.

So, don't let the Lusitania distract your attention from the Legislature!

TO RESCUE IN CANOE

People at Adams Shore witnessed a daring rescue Sunday of two men who had been capsized in a sail boat off Half Moon Island. The sail boat which is thought to have come from Wollaston was sailing about when a sudden puff of wind capsized it.

The accident was seen from Adams Shore and two young men put off to the rescue in a canoe. There was a three foot sea running at the time and it was a very hazardous undertaking. The young men in the canoe however succeeded in pulling the men out of the water and bringing them safely to shore.

Several other boats also put out to the rescue, among whom were Frank W. Nightingale. Mr. Nightingale overtook the canoe returning toward shore and as they said they were all right he started out to tow the overturned boat inshore. Unfortunately however his boat struck an obstruction and he was obliged to turn about and come ashore as his boat was rapidly filling with water. The names of the two young men rescued or of the rescuers were unable to be obtained as they left Adams Shore immediately after making a landing.

HALL DIES IN WEST

Bank Wrecker Was Recently Pardoned by Governor and Council

Worcester, Mass., May 11.—Word was received here of the death at Stockton, Cal., of John A. Hall, the former cashier of the Southbridge Savings bank, who was recently pardoned from state prison by Governor Walsh and the executive council.

Shortly after Hall received his pardon he left Boston with his family for the west, where he was planning to start life anew. Hall's pardon was granted on the ground of ill health. He was troubled while in prison with kidney trouble, and it is believed this hastened his death.

CLEMENCY SHOWN SAFFORD

Short Sentence and a Fine of $1 Imposed Upon Perjurer

New York, May 11.—Frank D. Safford, the hotel clerk who was convicted of perjury because of testimony given in connection with the $50,000 breach of promise case of Miss Rae Tanzer against James W. Osborne, was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment in the New York county penitentiary and fined $1.

Judge Hough, in passing sentence, said he considered Safford but a small cog in a large wheel, and therefore concurred in the recommendation of the jury for clemency.

FALZONE DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Forgives All Those Connected With Albertson Murder

Boston, May 11.—Biagio Falzone of Wakefield, 28, died in the electric chair this morning for the murder of Maurice A. Albertson, the Lawrence jewelry pedler, in Wakefield, on Dec. 20 last. Falzone was calm to the end and went to his death bravely.

Albertson's body was found by the Wakefield police six feet below the dirt floor of the cellar of a deserted shack in Factory field.

The body was fully clothed, but the bag in which Albertson had carried $2000 worth of jewels on the day of he disappeared was absent, as was also $400 he had collected from customers in Wakefield.

Falzone made this statement before his execution::

"I, Biagio Falzone, about to die, wish to say that from the bottom of my heart I forgive all who have had any part in this case, especially those who testified against me. I earnestly ask my relatives and friends not to injure or molest in any way those who were associated with me. I ask God's forgiveness and beg my friends to pray for me."

FOUR MOTIONS DENIED

Barnes' Counsel Tries to Have Roosevelt Evidence Stricken Out

Syracuse, N. Y., May 11.—Four out of five motions to strike from the record parts of testimony offered in behalf of Theodore Roosevelt were denied in the supreme court here. The motions were made by counsel for William Barnes, who is suing Roosevelt for $50,000 damages for alleged libel, after the defense had rested its case.

The testimony which was stricken from the record was that of former State Senator Agnew, which had to do with the election of Jotham P. Allds as president pro tem of the senate. Agnew swore that a combination existed between the Republican and Democratic machines to elect Allds. The court ruled that there was nothing to show that Barnes was in any way concerned in the alleged combination.

THE RIGGS BANK SUIT

Government Officials Petition Court For Its Dismissal

Washington, May 11.—Secretary McAdoo, Comptroller Williams and Treasurer Burke petitioned the district supreme court to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction, the suit brought against them by the Riggs National bank, charging conspiracy to wreck the institution.

Counsel for the officials claimed that the suit is in effect against the United States, which may not be filed in equity without its consent, that the plaintiff has a plain and adequate remedy at law, and that no cause for action is stated to give jurisdiction to a court of equity. The point is also made that the suit is prematurely brought.

OUTLINE POLICY.

The church committee of Bethany church has drawn up the following regarding the selection of a new pastor. It appears in the weekly calendar of the church.

Our late beloved Pastor, Mr. Willmott, has responded to an urgent call to leadership in an exposed point of the Church battle front.

We bespeak for him the following and gathering of loyal allies and the successful upholding of the banner of the Kingdom, as well as the "well done" of the King.

Our Church and our City will greatly miss Mr. Willmott's brave, inspiring and spiritual leadership.

Let all remember that he aimed not for a "personal following" but for an increase in followers of Jesus Christ, who in home, church and city should live successfully and righteously.

At this parting of the ways let every friend of Bethany Church do his or her best to hold the ground gained.

Let none stand aside or decline in courage or zeal; rather let all hold fast and advance in personal, loyal service and support.

The Committee on Pulpit Supply will value assistance in the effort to provide preachers having strong "life messages."

No effort will be made toward offering our people that which is sensational or simply entertaining.

No candidates for the Pastorate will be secured for "Pulpit Supplies."

Your Special Committee, so carefully and fairly chosen, will also value suggestions and clues for their consideration in their effort to secure, as soon as possible, a worthy successor to Mr. Willmott.

"To every man his work." "The Lord is with you while ye be with Him."

BIRD DAY AT FRANKLIN PARK

It may be news to most people that some of the best localities for birds in their spring migration are situated in or near Franklin park, Boston. A few ornithologists and bird lovers know these places, and this may account for the fact that the State Grange committee on the Protection of Wild Birds chose the park as the place to celebrate Bird Day on Saturday, May 22nd, in cooperation with the State Board of Agriculture, and the Massachusetts Audubon society. The Boston Zoo, with its great flying cage and its bird tenants will be a revelation to those who have not seen it.

The formal exercises will take place near the refectory in the afternoon. At 10.30 A. M. an Audubon exhibition of bird houses, nesting boxes, bird feeding appliances and bird literature will be held. There will be a competition in bird houses, built by children open to members of Junior Audubon classes in Greater Boston, for which prizes, offered by the National Association of Audubon societies, will be awarded at noon by a committee of the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Audubon society.

At 2 o'clock the formal exercises begin, when the Mayor of Boston will give an address of welcome. He will be followed by Mrs. George S. Ladd, lecturer of the Massachusetts State grange, who is an enthusiast in bird work. The state ornithologist will speak of interesting and amusing phases of his work. Edward E. Chapman, master of the State Grange will tell of "The Grange as a Factor to Community Service." Wilfrid Wheeler, secretary of the state board of agriculture, will talk on "The Utility of Birds to Agriculture." Dr. Harry Kennedy, general manager of the Milton Bird club, will tell how to build a bird club, and Winthrop Packard, secretary of the Massachusetts Audubon society, will speak on Bird Study for Boys and Girls, referring particularly to the work of the Junior Audubon classes.

There will be bird walks through portions of the park and nearby lands, conducted by members of Bird clubs near Boston. This interesting program has been arranged by Mrs. George H. Mellen of Newton, a member of the State Grange committee on the protection of wild birds.

All who are interested are invited to attend. This will be the greatest meeting of the kind ever held in Massachusetts.

DROPS DEAD IN HIS GARAGE

Capt. James Campbell, 51 years, a well known mariner about Boston, collapsed in his garage at 112 Hollis avenue, Atlantic, this morning and died before a physician reached him. Death was probably due to heart disease.

Campbell, who is a bachelor, has made his home in the garage since renting his house This morning a woman called to collect his laundry and as he commenced to gather it he collapsed. The woman summoned Dr. Bruce, who notified Medical Examiner Jones.

Campbell, as far as could be learned was in comforable circumstances and is known to have a brother in New York. The police have notified him.

How long he followed the seas is not known but it is thought that he sailed before the mast in his younger days.

Nine Girls' Friendly society branches were represented at the Neighborhood conference at St. Chrysostom's church, Monday evening. The principal speaker of the evening was Miss Whipple. Following her talk there was a questionaire. A social hour followed during which light refreshments were served.

A meeting of the house committee of the Quincy Yacht club will be held at the club house Friday evening to arrange for the opening smoker next week Wednesday evening.

RANKS OF MACHINE GUN CO. MOST FILLED

Squad Has Interesting Program In Prospect

Quincy's new adjunct to the nation's first line of defense, known by War Department orders as the Machine Gun Co., 6th Regt. M. V. M., will ere long show what manner of stuff it is made of. Many plans are maturing to complete a campaign of efficiency designed to put the new command at the head of the five companies of the state so equipped.

Drill is being held every Tuesday evening and orders have been received to recruit ten men for the mounted scout detachment.

Primarily the company is happily situated in that it is located in the home city of the commanding officer of the 6th Regt., Col. Warren E. Sweetser, who lives in Wollaston, and it has his deepest consideration. Col. Sweetser who is noted for his perspicacity, picked the right man in Lieut. George M. Downes, to command the new organization. Lieut. Downes has the advantages of long training, and natural ability with initiative, and backed by Col. Sweetser, is getting results. Already, even before the city has provided necessary facilities for the outfit, the United States and State property is on hand.

Regulation blue (dress) and olive drab (woolen) service uniforms are being fitted to the members while later the company expects to secure the latest pattern olive drab cotton field uniforms, such as are worn by U. S. Troops.

Requisition has been forwarded for a complement of U. S. magazine rifles, calibre 30, with belts, bayonets, etc., which will place the company on a par with the ordinary infantry companies of the state.

When the command turns out on occasions of ceremonies the Machine Gun equipment will be housed and the organization paraded as foot troops with rifles.

Each member will qualify at the rifle range with the rifle as a marksman and with the new automatic pistol, calibre .45, in addition to becoming experienced in the use of the Benet-Mecier auto-machine gun.

On July 24 Lieut. Downes and ten members will proceed under War Department orders to Fort Ethan Allan, Vt., for special training in machine-gun drill, consisting mainly of assembling and dismounting the piece and rigging, packing and care of animals, range work, firing with dummy and ball ammunition at known and unknown distances, field problems and road work.

As details from the other M-G companies are to attend the school at the same date the Quincy men will receive the greatest benefit from the instructions from the fact that this specialized training will occur just prior to the annual tour of duty with the 6th Regt. at West Barnstable, Aug. 8 to 15. The other outfits all go to camp before July 24.

At West Barnstable the command is afforded ideal facilities for road marches and practice with the machine gun, using ball ammunition at targets on the "Great Marshes" on Cape Cod Bay.

The members have organized the Quincy M-G Co. association with the object of promoting the social side of the organization. Athletics and all up to date features will obtain.

Several new members have been accepted and mustered and the company now has about seven men with experience in the army or militia. Several others are expected to join. Only 14 men are now needed to fill the ranks.

MINISTERS PLAY FAST BASKETBALL

Association Enjoys Annual Fellowship Meeting With Social And Supper

WIVES ALSO ATTEND

The annual fellowship meeting of the Minister's association of Quincy Tuesday afternoon and evening brought out a large attendance of the ministers and their wives, and the occasion was in every way most successful.

At three o'clock the company met in the assembly room of the Y. M. C. A., with the president, Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson in the chair and the secretary, Rev. George M. Bailey, beside him at the table. After a brief opening service the president introduced the new secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Robert S. Gaskell, who gave a frank and very interesting talk upon the relation of the Young Men's Christian Association to the churches.

At the close of the address the ministers held a short business session and then adjourned to the gymnasium for a spirited game of ball under the leadership of the acting physical director, John Melville. Meanwhile the wives of the ministers were enjoying the freedom of the bowling alleys, stopping their play just in time to see the last period of the ball game.

At five o'clock the entire company assembled in the social rooms of the First Parish church and enjoyed a tour of the old church with Mr. Hudson acting as verger, and entertaining his guests with explanations of its interesting historical features, including tablets, tombs and pictures, and giving incidents which connected these with the life of town and parish.

At half after six with appetites sharpened by the varied exercises of the afternoon, the company sat down at a long table in the supper room of the basement of the church and enjoyed an excellent banquet served under charge of a committee consisting of Mrs. Carl G. Horst, Mrs. Isaih W. Sneath and Mrs. Joseph Walther.

There were no speeches, but a hearty vote of thanks was given to the First Parish and its minister for their delightful hospitality and many expressed the feeling that these annual fellowship meetings have a great value not only directly in the enjoyment they bring to the ministers and their wives, but also indirectly in the contribution thus made to the unity and efficiency of the work of our churches.

LECTURES ON YELLOWSTONE

Rev. Pollard Gives Interesting Talk

Rev. E. C. Pollard of Newton gave a lecture on "The Yellowstone National Park in the Wollaston Methodist church Tuesday evening. Mr. Pollard has been conducting educational parties over the country and so speaks from the fund of his own rich experience. He said that God had given us three books, first, the Divine Revelation second, the book of Providence, third, the book of Nature.

"It is a bit of the book of Nature that I am going to give you this evening" he said, "The first white man to visit this park was John Colter in 1806. John Colter was one of the soldiers who explored the great Northwest. He had a somewhat wonderful history. Upon returning from the Northwest he begged leave to withdraw from the army to do some trapping but was captured by the Indians and it was only by his wonderful wit that he escaped, hollowed a canoe cut by hand and paddled 3000 miles to St. Louis.

"In 1830 James Bridger made a visit to the park and sent marvelous reports to the government but since he sometimes exaggerated the government said, 'it is only Bridger's imagination.' In 1870 the government sent General Washburn and a party of nineteen men. Gen. Washburn sent back word that Bridger's reports were for the most part true. In 1890 the Wiley Camping company was allowed the privilege of conducting people through the park."

The trip is made over 140 miles of government roads and takes six days. Until recently only horse drawn vehicles were allowed in the park. Each person is allowed to take only one valise and upon starting must choose the team and guide for the whole journey. He may not change during the trip. The first thing that was seen to cause wonder was a pine tree with nine bears in it but our travelers were told that the park is full of bears.

Old Faithful geyser is the only geyser that plays regularly. Every fifty-five minutes it throws a stream of water for hundreds of feet in the air. It continues to play for fifteen minutes and during that time a quarter of a million gallons of water are thrown up although the basin is only about five feet by fourteen inches. As it plays the arc light of the big hotel is allowed to shine upon it. One theory is that there is a tube which goes down a mile, five miles, twenty-five miles, nobody knows how far and that the stream gathers and explodes through this pipe.

Punch Bowl geyser has every color in the rainbow in its cone. The water is boiling hot all the time.

Morning Glory geyser is so named because it has the colors of the flower of the Morning Glory. The edge of this geyser is very thin and accidents have occurred by people breaking through this thin crust.

The Chinaman's geyser is very small, being only five feet across. It was so called because a Chinaman thought it would be a good opportunity to wash his clothes and so threw them in. No sooner had he done so, however, than they disappeared but the poor Chinaman had not grieved long before they reappeared. The government now allows nothing except handkerchiefs to be thrown in to be washed.

Greater Oblong geyser is about sixty by forty feet across and about forty or fifty feet deep. It plays every twelve days and the great body of water which is thrown up runs into the Firestone river.

A. B. HULTMAN RESIGNS FROM CEMETERY BOARD

Merry War of Past Few Weeks Now Seems Ended

The merry war over publicity given the Board of Managers of Public Burial Places appears to have come to a close.

Arthur B. Hultman, a member of the board, this morning furnished a copy of a letter of resignation addressed to Mayor Campbell and its closing paragraph once again expresses his opinions

On being informed that Mr. Hultman has sent in a resignation Mayor Campbell said if he received it he would accept it. The letter follows:

Hon. Chester I. Campbell,
Mayor of Quincy,

Dear Sir: Judging from our telephone conversation of last night I judge the publicity for which I am responsible attending the meetings of the Board of Public Burial Places is objectionable to you.

Having a strong conviction that the public have a right to know through the press everything in any way affecting their own business and feeling that if I should be a member of a board whose records were not properly kept and whose funds might not be properly managed I should be accessory to such negligence I earnestly desire to relieve you of any embarrassment by tendering you my resignation as a member of the Board of Public Burial Places.

(Signed) Yours respectfully.
Arthur B. Hultman.

ARE BUILDING FOR FUTURE

Although there is a large amount of new building underway at the present time throughout the whole city, activity as far as new business blocks are concerned has quited down There are now in the process of building several blocks. The question has been asked how is it possible for the fourteen or more new stores in and near City square to find occupants.

When a prominent business man was asked this question he stated that they would probably not all be occupied immediately and that it was very doubtful if the builders expected that they would be. He said that the plan of real estate men was to build for the future. He said that the men who are investing their money in new business blocks are looking ahead five years.

GREENAWAY DECLINES.

Boston Bowler Refuses To Meet Olindy

Greenaway, the Boston bowler, who was to have rolled Olindy a special series of 40 strings has declined to carry out his part of the agreement. No reason has been given so far. Both men clashed recently in a 40 string go and Greenaway romped home the winner, taking $100 in cold cash, the purse which was hung up for the winner.

CITY REFUSES La FRANCE OFFER

When the American La France fire apparatus manufacturing company, the company which made the Auto Chemical at the Central Fire Station which has done such good service, heard of the accident it offered to place a new auto chemical engine, which has just been received from the manufacturers, in service in Quincy while the damaged apparatus was being repaired. The offer, however, for some reason was not accepted.

While the apparatus is undergoing repairs the Combination Hose and Chemical horse drawn wagon will answer local alarms and the auto chemical located at Atlantic which has just been fitted with a new engine will answer all alarms. It had its first run this morning when Box 73 was sounded and made the run in record time.

SCHOOL GARDENS.

Few ideas which are being given a practical working out in Quincy hold forth more promise than the children's gardens idea. Under the auspices of the civics committee of the Quincy Women's club there have been a large number of children's gardens for several years, and this year promises to eclipse all records, it being expected that there will be some 2000 amateur gardeners devoting themselves to the work.

Students of modern life are agreed that the basic trouble with modern social, political and economic conditions lies in the fact that the equilibrium between producer and consumer has not been maintained. There are too many consumers and too few producers. The greatest aim of constructive statesmen has been to restore the equilibrium, or in homely phrase, to make effective a "back to the farm movement." In greater degree than most people realize they are succeeding.

One of the contributory causes for such success as there has already been and of course the equilibrium is far from being restored, is the children's or school garden idea. Most children who have gardens do not become farmers, but some of them may and most of them will be likely to regard farming in a wholly different light than they would without the experience. That is something gained.

There are many other advantages of course. One of them indicated in the Ledger's story of Monday was the financial advantage. Some of the children raised enough vegetables to return them a real profit or to supply the family table.

It was indicated in Monday's story that many of the members of the Women's club felt the idea had grown to such dimensions that it has become too great a burden for the voluntary and that it should be taken over by the city. In this we concur. The gardens should be taken over by the school department. School gardens have proved a great success in other cities, Brockton, for example. Why not in Quincy?

TWO KINDS OF INVENTORS.

An event of national interest occured the other night in New York, when the Civic Forum presented a gold medal to Thomas A. Edison.

The world is full of inventors. But comparatively few of them are able to translate their scientific ideas into a thoroughly practical form. They are typically a tribe of creatures something like artists and poets. One thinks of them as wearing long hair, living in squalid tenements, dreaming over half made machines, while their families live on their relatives.

The inventor is not apt to be a practical business man. He may get his idea into a practicable and workable form. But he is as the babe in the woods when he gets down in the market among the business men. Wth childlike innocence he trusts the plausible promoter. With faith that humanity is as kindly as he has found the laws of nature, he subscribes to involved contracts. In later years he wakes up to find that the traders and the factories have gathered the cream, leaving him but meagre leavings of skim milk.

It is rare that diverse gifts are concentrated in one man. When nature gifts a person with genius for creating new appliances, she is apt to leave him bereft of common sense in every day relations. The world is full of instances of inventors who conferred inestimable benefits on mankind, yet who died amid scenes of poverty.

Mr. Edison is not of that kind. He has had the supreme gift of taking the scientific dreams of the age, and so realizing them that they fit into the kitchen and the picture theatre and the factory. His humming factory with 5000 people dependent on a regular pay roll from his steady product, shows the many sided nature of the man.

A MAN ON THE JOB

That was a wise move on the part of Acting Chief of Police McKay who ordered some of the Hancock street merchants to abandon the practice of leaving their teams in front of the stores, blocking the street.

Captain McKay is showing more and more that he is alive and "on to his job." He has made no startling changes and no sensational plays to the gallery. But in his attention to the little things, in his toning up of the department, backed by Mayor Campbell, the acting chief is making good. It seems to us that he is proving himself the right man in the right place.

through it. It resembles boiling mush. The Paint Pots cover about three fourths of an acre."

Mr. Pollard took his hearers through the Grand Canyon with him showing them Kepler Cascade which was named after the first boy who visited the park. Four of the largest rivers in the United States have their beginnings in this canyon.

Catch and Cook your Fish geyser is right on the edge of a fresh water lake. A man may stand on the edge of the geyser, catch his fish and by swinging his line around, cook it.

The Grand Canyon is made up of gold and yellow stone and is about three thousand feet at the top but narrows to thirty or forty feet at the bottom. At the Great Falls the water falls three hundred and forty feet. As the sun shines against the mist formed by the flying water no less than seven rainbows can be counted spanning the canyon. Just at the point where the Yellowstone river leaves the Yellowstone lake is the greatest fishing place in the world.

Among the Mammoth Hot Springs there are none that play but one may see there every color known to man in the cones of the springs.

Yellowstone Park is the greatest proof to the atheist that his theory is wrong. Of the nineteen men who went out with General Washburn not one was a Christian but after their visit every one of them embraced Christianity.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

For the closing meeting of the season, also the annual, and the ending of two years of service of the officers and committees, there was a large attendance of the faithful and interested members of the Quincy Women's Club Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse. The president Mrs. Chandler W. Smith presided. Monthly reports were given by the clerk, treasurer and corresponding secretary the latter giving the following report of the School Nurse for April:

1164 children examined; 169 cases referred to school physician; 111 home visits; 8 cases corrected vision; 28 children escorted to clinics; 1 trip to Boston Dispensary; 1 visit to Forsythe Infirmary; 3 trips to Eye and Ear Infirmary; 25 visits made to homes of children by District Nurses for surgical dressings Through the kindness of a Quincy dentist immediate dental attention was obtained for two children, who otherwise could not have had it. Through the kindness of the Katharyn Crane Memorial club, a pair of glasses was obtained for one child. One volunteer assisted in taking the children to the Boston Dispensary. One member of the club kindly gave the use of her automobile on two different occasions to take the children to and from Boston. This assisted greatly in the work, as quite a few of the children get car sick.

Marion Jackson, School Nurse.

Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham, Mrs. George L. Badger, Mrs. William F. Cummings and Mrs. W. W. Whitcher were elected delegates to the annual meeting of the State Federation at Marion on the Cape, June 24 and 25. Members were urged to attend, red tickets could be obtained of the new corresponding secretary Mrs. Ernest L. Collins.

Members were invited to attend the International Peace day meeting Tuesday, May 18 at 3 P. M. at Arlington street church, Boston, also to patronize a cabaret and dance May 26 at the Quincy Yacht club house for the benefit of the Associated Charities; to attend the annual meeting of the City Federation of Club May 20. at the Adams Academy building. The president also announced that there were still club penants for sale.

An enjoyable musical program was given by Miss Marion White, violinist of North Weymouth, accompanied at the piano by her mother. She gave two selections with pleasing technique and effect, receiving appreciative applause.

On the president's desk was a basket with three bunches of pansies in memory of Mrs. Alfred W. Jelinck, Mrs. Amos T. Leavitt and Mrs. Walter E. Simmons which were sent after the meeting to members of their families in memoriam from the club. The president spoke feelingly of the loss to the club giving fuller expression in the words of the hymn "Beloved Sleep" and as a tribute to their memory Mrs. Frank A. Page sang "The Lord is My Shepherd," Mrs. John F. Hunt accompanying at the piano.

In the reports for the year the treasurer Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham made a partial report and the announcement that copies of the full report would be published later in the newspapers and also copies mailed to each member. Mrs. Frank F. Prescott, auditor approved the report and spoke of the club's indebtedness to the treasurer for very efficient service.

The reports of the officers and chairmen of committees were comprehensive showing the club's accomplishments in its various lines of work and are given in full below:

CLERK'S REPORT.

Looking back over the records of the past year, we find the thought that seems to stand out preeminently, is that of co-operation. It seems a splendid sign, one indicating growth and activity, that co-operation is the keynote of the club.

In past ages woman's work was individualized because in the home and in the care of children there was no chance for co-operative work; but now the times have changed and women have proved to a skeptical world that they can discuss civic and moral problems intelligently and through co-operation bring about the much desired results.

We have been glad to give our assistance to the Associated Charities, which is doing such splendid work in our city. The Young Women's club, a child of the Quincy club, is still under our guidance and an account of the work being done by these young girls has been given at nearly every meeting. Now they are established in a home of their own and are full of enthusiasm and interest.

Last summer, when Salem was in such distress, because of the terrible fire, we sent clothing, $50 in money and paid the salary of Miss Purchase for one week, thus enabling her to give a week of her time at Salem where there was a great need of trained workers to assist in the Relief Work. This winter a specially appointed committee has done excellent work for the hospitals in France, co-operating with the Boston committee. The several chairmen will tell you of the Visiting Nurse work, Summer kindergarten, the children's gardens, the interest awakened in caring for the trees in Quincy, work along social and industrial lines, the Parliamentary law class and all the varying interests of our different departments, all working to maintain the position our Club has held from its beginning—a power working effectively for moral, intellectual and civic advancement.

A good example of co-operation, one that undoubtedly will be valuable in its influence, is the City Federation, the idea of formation originating with the Quincy Women's club. It brings together all the women's clubs in the city, as well as other organizations of women and already the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., the Hospital Aid Association and Unity Circle King's Daughters have joined. By this union much help can be given and received.

The club has been the recipient of beautiful gifts this year from different committees, which will be spoken of later and public recognition made.

The usual festivities and social affairs have taken place, including the assembly, the revels, the May festival children's party, teachers' reception and in February the Mikado was given under the direction of the music committee in a manner to reflect great credit on all concerned with it.

In April we held a Peace meeting at the Unitarian church to which the public was invited. Prof. W. Jay Hudson gave the address and music was contributed by the Choral Society.

Our tenth anniversary was fittingly celebrated Feb. 23, the regular meeting taking the form of a reception to out of town guests. In the evening our home friends were entertained. Among the many pleasant features of the affair was the original poem read by Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney which was exceedingly clever in conception and appropriate to the occasion.

Very careful consideration was given to the matter of a memorial to commemorate our tenth anniversary. The desire was to have something that would appeal to past and present members and minister to the general public, thus it was finally decided to inaugurate a nurse in the public schools for one year, this gift being a free will offering from past and present members of the club.

Friday afternoon, May 7, club members were the guests of the president Mrs. Smith at the clubhouse and had the pleasure of listening to an opera talk (La Boheme) with Mr. William Weston at the piano. This was the first public appearance of Mr. Hubbard and Mr. Weston together and the privilege of thus hearing them was greatly appreciated. Most hearty thanks are extended to Mrs. Smith for making this delightful afternoon possible.

And now as we come to the end of another club year, we feel we can say of our club women, when we remember the time, thought and sacrifice put into their work, "They truly serve."

Mabel S. Badger.

CORRESPONDING SECRETARY

The requirements of the corresponding secretary are not very clearly defined but the present incumbent, in so far as she could clearly interpret her duty, has tried to faithfully fill the position. The number of pieces of mail matter sent out, 1261, is in a measure indicative of the work done.

ART COMMITTEE.

Special season tickets were printed by the Boston Art club for the art committee to distribute to members of the Quincy Women's club for the year 1914-1915.

A talk on sculpture illustrated with clay and casting in plaster was given Oct. 27, by Roger Noble Burnham, instructor of modelling at Harvard University.

Two sales were held in December for the benefit of members wishing to sell their own handiwork.

March 9, an interesting conference on noted women of noted eras was given by Mrs Everett C. Bumpus.

A contribution of $2 was given by the Art committee to help in giving an art education to a talented Italian girl.

An exhibition and sale of work by the Indians of South Dakota, Arizona and Wyoming with a special exhibition of baskets loaned by Mrs. George W. Stone was given April 13, there being over $1,000 work of rugs, baskets and bead work on exhibition. The affair was a success as an exhibition and financially.

The Art committee has renewed the tour tickets of admission to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. These tickets will be held at the Art Museum and admission may be secured by presenting membership ticket of the Quincy Women's club.

Bessie V. Blanchard, Chairman

CIVICS COMMITTEE.

The committee work in this department has been delightful. It has been what may be called team work. Indeed, if it had not been done under such happy conditions it would have been a hardship because of the amount of hard and constant duties, however the comradeship of the members and the steady pull together made it possible to accomplish considerable work.

The Children's Garden work has grown until now it is an undertaking for the Women's club; and, since it is so well established, it would be a fair proposition for the city to maintain the work by a yearly appropriation for it. There is no question about the civic betterment of the work. Two thousand vegetable and flower gardens around the homes of thrifty working people in our city, means a large increase of happy homes and healthy children, besides some dollars saved during the summer to meet the winter's emergencies.

How have we carried on these gardens? A member of our committee goes to all the schools in Quincy and finds how many children want to undertake gardens. The orders and money have to be collected, seeds distributed at the different schools, and the records of each child filed for the guide of the person who inspects them. In order to save going over the same ground twice, the map of Quincy must be studied and the records arranged to save time for the inspector. Every garden was visited twice during the season. Late in August an exhibition of the vegetables from these gardens as well as the flowers was held in the council chamber at City hall, prizes were given for the best specimens and the best collections from the gardens. After this a tour of inspection had to be made of the best gardens of the city, so that first, second and third prizes might be awarded the children having the best gardens in the city. The day after the Quincy exhibit all the flowers and vegetables had to be transported to Boston and arranged for exhibition before noon of that day Then came the task of getting the prize money to the children. We have found it a good plan to carry the money to the schools and have the masters distribute it. It is usually late in October before the last of the garden work is over. It is then time to think about the Assembly which comes the latter part of November. This year we had the Christmas tree to plan for before the Assembly was quite out of the way, which made us unusually active. We felt, however, that the beauty of the tree and gratitude of the large number of citizens who witnessed the first Municipal Christmas Tree in Quincy, repaid us for the effort.

Plans for the Twelfth Night Revels were by this time underway and kept us on the jump for the two weeks before and after this entertainment. It was the last of February before the end of this business was finished, and we drew a breath and said, "a few weeks before it is time to begin the gardens." The money made at our entertainments has paid for running the gardens and the prizes for the children.

We have voted to give a scholarship to a deserving Quincy boy, which will enable him to have a short course in a summer camp on gardening. We have also voted to give money to the Norfolk Farm Bureau which will come back to all club members in the way of benefits.

We of the committee have had two happy years together, and now that the work is over, we have only pleasant memories of the joy of working together for the good of the city in which we live for the cause of Civic Betterment.

Theo R. Kitson, Chairman.

FORESTRY COMMITTEE.

The Forestry committee is a subdepartment of the Civics Committee. The first step of this committee was to get into touch with the Massachusetts Forestry Association and be guided by them in undertaking work in Quincy. Together we decided that the best service we could render to our city was to make what trees we had healthy, and to this end we bent all our efforts. As it turned out this was no small undertaking, for we found a great many trees which needed immediate treatment to keep them from swift decay

All of our work has been done under the direction of the Massachusetts Forestry Association, located at 9 Joy street, Boston. They sent their field foresters to Quincy to examine trees without charge. When they found out what the trees needed in the way of treatment they reported to the owners, and if these people desired to have the work which they suggested done upon their trees, then a business arrangement was entered upon between the forester and the owner. When the work was undertaken the trees in Quincy were in bad condition.

The city men had been doing excellent work, but they could not give the time to individual estates.

In the course of two years more than $2,000 worth of work has been done by property owners. The brown tailed moths as well as the gypsy moths have been fairly well cleaned out. Early last summer the leopold moth made its appearance and that was the signal for quick work in order to exterminate it.

To the trained eye the difference in the condition of the trees is very noticeable all along Adams street, Presidents hill, on some streets through the center, and parts of Wollaston. On the estates where this work has been done by these forestry men the scientific treatment will probably save for the city and for future generations these trees, while neglect of them meant certain and quick death.

At the present time the trees of the city are in fairly good condition as regards pests, but to keep them so means vigilance on the part of the owners.

Martha C Mackay, Chairman.

CUSTODIAN REPORT.

It would seem hardly necessary for the Custodian committee to make a report of their year's work for the results of their efforts have been evident at all club meetings throughout the year. This is the one department of club work that to the mind of its chairman needs your most careful consideration and co-operation.

Co-operation on the part of the member to help the Custodian to do her duty. Do not trouble her to ask you to show your membership ticket, or question when held up "Do I have to show my ticket?" Try to remember that this is one of the disagreeable duties of a Custodian which she is trying faithfully to perform.

An account of a number of open meetings, the tenth anniversary, and the omission of the annual musicale, we shall be able to add but $120.72 to the treasury this year.

To the members of the Custodian committee the chairman wishes to tender her sincere appreciation for their help and support.

Drusilla A. Safford, Chairman

EDUCATION COMMITTEE.

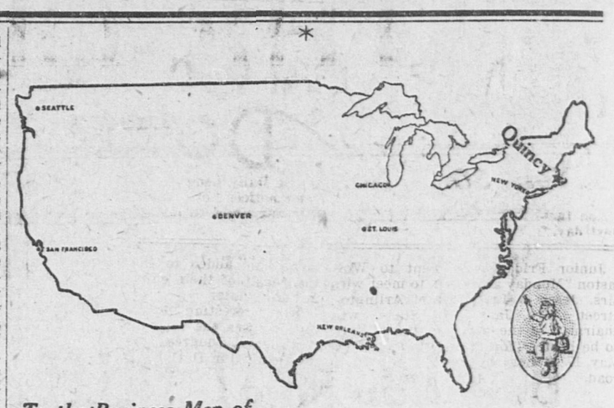

In accordance with established custom, it becomes my duty and I assure you a pleasure to present my report concerning the work of the Education Committee for the years 1913-14-15.

This committee has been responsible for two speakers for regular club meetings: Hon. Guy A. Ham for 1913 and Dr. Walter E. Fernald for 1914 and in each instance the speaker presented the check of $25 appropriated to the work of this committee.

The teachers' reception for 1915 being assigned to this committee we acknowledge the courtesy given and extend our thanks of appreciation.

The charitable work has been confined to the School Nurse and kindergarten for non-English speaking children of our city. This adventure proved successful and for two years

To the Business Men of

QUINCY

When a good salesman goes out after business, he first puts on a clean collar and gets his shoes shined. Then he looks like more business—and he's made a flying start toward getting it.

Likewise, a community can go after more business—and get it. The "clean collar and shiny shoes" of this town are the well-painted stores, the bright, cheery homes, the fresh, clean-looking buildings. The part paint plays in building up local pride cannot be put in figures—but its good effects are recorded on the local merchants' sales sheets. Buy good paint. We recommend and sell

She Knows What She Wants

The well informed housekeeper insists upon using only a baking powder which is made of cream of tartar. She might read in an advertisement or be told that alum and lime phosphate, which are used as inferior substitutes in cheap baking powders, were all right in the quantities used but she would not buy them or permit them to enter her kitchen. Why?

Because she knows that cream of tartar has always been accepted as the most wholesome agent, with soda, for raising cake and biscuit, and she wants a baking powder made of cream of tartar, like Royal.

This conclusion is the result of unconscious absorption, either her own or her mother's, of the opinions of the highest authorities on hygiene and home cooking.

The prudent housekeeper, when she uses baking powder, reads the names of the ingredients printed on the label. She knows what she wants.

SLIGHT FIRE AT WASECA CLUB

The alarm from Box 73 at 2.53 this morning was for a slight fire in the business block near the corner of Washington street and Germain avenue owned by ex-Mayor Eugene R. Stone and occupied on the street floor by stores and on the upper floor by the Waseca club. The fire started in the rooms of the Waseca club, evidently by a lighted cigar or cigarette that had been thrown into a sawdust cuspidor box. The fire burnt through the bottom of the box and a small hole in the floor. The damage will not exceed $5.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

has been carried on in the Lincoln school with Miss Frances Burke as the instructor. The membership being limited to children whose ages permitted them to enter the public school in September necessitated the refusal of many children from 3 to 5 years of age: however 88 children completed the six weeks session at an expense of $174.73.

The series of lectures for the public school children with Miss Edith Randall as the speaker were most successful, 2300 children being represented. The annual May Festival of 1914 consisted of a Pageant of Nations, 183 children represented in folk dancing and various characteristics of the several nations affording pleasure to the children and profit to the committee of $168.85. The May Festival of 1915 has been successfully given netting $114.73.

In all our undertakings we have been crowned with success, and we indeed feel grateful to Miss Randall for her special favor in the lectures for the benefit of the school children, also for her valuable service in aid of the School Nurse fund by which this committee profited financially $52.45.

The chairman will take this opportunity to thank Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools for advice and counsel, also the school board for the use of the many school halls which have been ours for the asking. We thank you for your co-operation in all of our school work.

The committee cheerfully acknowledges the gift of $25; from Delcevare King, $15 from Mrs. John W. Sanborn, $5 from Miss Elizabeth Johnson; all of which has been used to further the work of this committee in usefulness to the club and the city.

To the New Adams school was presented a picture of Mt. Shasta it being the first picture to be hung in this beautiful school building. A glance in the tea room will show you a beautiful drinking fountain, a gift to the girls from this committee.

Our term of service is ended; and to the members of the club I extend our sincere thanks for most generous support. I realize and appreciate the great kindness shown me and am deeply grateful for what the members of my committee have done. I wish I could have given them a better year's service and as I think and think there comes to me an inexpressible hope that after I have laid down the trust confided to me they may at least say of me "she tried."

To the club president I wish to express my appreciation of the many courtesies extended and in behalf of the Education committee I present to you this check of $150 which we desire placed to the credit of the School Nurse fund, trusting in the light of the labors of this "patient keeper" our children by adoption and birth may become bright and prosperous citizens of our commonwealth.

May the work of the Quincy Women's club continue to grow in strength and beauty.

Mrs. J. R. Mellen, chairman.

HOME ECONOMICS.

During the past year the Home Economics committee furnished two afternoon's entertainment for the club. Nov. 7, David J. Hickey, gave an instructive talk on "Pure Food." The clubhouse was well filled showing that our women are interested in the pure food movement which this committee agitated for the first time, last year. An excellent musical program, followed by light refreshments, added to the afternoon's pleasure.

Nov. 24, Mrs. Schuyler F. Herron, chairman of the State Home Economics department, gave a 20-minute talk on the work carried on by said department. Mrs. Herron strongly advised the forming of classes, under a competent teacher, for the study of home economics. Certainly everything that concerns the home is of vital importance. Miss Frances Stern then addressed the club, subject, "The Woman Who Spends." Economy in the home even unto the sort of dress women wear was recommended in this talk. Simplicity and harmony combined with a view to health and sensibility in dress, should be uppermost in women's minds regardless of fashion. More careful planning and buying of food was advised. Miss Stern's talk was bright and instructive. A pleasant musical program followed by refreshments made a fitting close to an enjoyable afternoon

Mrs Maurice P. Spillane, Chairman.

HOUSE COMMITTEE.

In addition to the regular routine of house management, the customary renovation of the club building has taken place. Early in the fall the interior was painted, the floors refinished and the windows supplied with fresh cords. New table linen has been furnished and the coffee urns have been repaired, so that burned fingers are now a thing of the past. Mrs. Zenas Arnold has presented the Club with a mirror for the coat room. The grounds have been cared for as usual, the trees pruned and scraped under the direction of the City Forester, and new bushes have ben added to the rose beds. An account of the year's expenditures will be found in the treasurer's report.

Jennie E. Sidelinger, Chairman.

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE.

The legislative committee in making its report is pleased to state that notwithstanding the frenzied condition of the public mind on the question of woman's relation to law and government, your committee is intact, harmonious and out of debt. Whatever measure of good that has come out of women's clubs is the result of associated effort. The civic and social betterment brought about by women's clubs are the result of calm deliberation, not frenzied agitation.

If the object of a legislative committee is to take an active part in making of laws to govern others the first essential is to demonstrate an ability to govern ourselves. Realizing this your committee deemed it wise to engage an instructor in parliamentary practice and discipline; in this we were fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Electa M. Sherman under whose able tuition has been conducted two successful classes. The opinion of public officials, whose duty it is to receive delegations from women's clubs, is our warrant for recommending a continuation of the classes.

The club has listened to Mrs. Maude Wood Park, who was able, instructive and entertaining in the treatment of her subject: "The Women Movement the World Around." We have had also the pleasure of a visit and talk by Mrs. Julius Andrews, chairman of the Legislative committee for the State Federation. From Mrs. Andrews the club learned much of the activities at the State House.

Our duty as a legislative committee required attendance at various hearings before legislative committees on Beacon hill, and while we do not report that all the measures favored became law, and that all opposed were defeated by reason of our being present, it is a gratification to feel that our personal attendance was an expression of our attitude, and gave to the State Federation the required moral support.

While women delegates are given courteous consideration at these hearings, our experience leads to the observation; that if women expect to take part in legislative work they should go to hearings prepared to consider both sides of the questions to be discussed, they should realize that an expression of personal opinion is not always good reason, that lack of knowledge of the other side is elemental weakness, that "I have no other but a woman's reason

I think him so because I think him so"

is not a good foundation for constructive legislation, and that whatever the future may have in store for women as legislators their success or failure wil depend upon knowledge and reason.

Our financial report is as follows:

LITERATURE COMMITTEE.

Your Literature committee conducted a story hour in February at the Public Library which was much enjoyed by 50 children from the 4th and 5th grades of the Coddington school. Miss Edith Randall entertained for an hour with personal reminiscences and with reading and story telling. Another story hour which had to be postponed is to be given in the West Quincy reading room May 21 in the evening. This will be attended by older children and will consist of a stereopticon lecture on America given by Mrs. Arthur Ropes of Wollaston.

The committee prepared two large packages which were sent to the Wayerly School for the Feebleminded which contained gaily colored worsteds, pretty cards and pictures, simple books and many paper dolls.

The program afternoon of the committee was on April 27 when Miss Caroline Ticknor spoke on "Hawthorne, his time and his contemporaries."

Alice Maud Arnold, Chairman.

MUSIC COMMITTEE.

The Music committee has furnished music for 13 meetings this year. It may be interesting to know that you have heard 3 violinists, 2 tenor soloists 2 sopranos, 1 contralto, 1 baritone, 2 pianists, an orchestra, consisting of piano, violin and cornet, and a sextet, composed of mandolins, guitars and pianos.

Feb. 10, we gave the opera "Mikado" at Music hall to a very appreciative audience. No expense was spared to make it a first class performance and the soloists, combined with a splendid chorus of 45 voices, gave to Quincy people something which will never be forgotten. With some of the proceeds we were able to present to the club 4 mahogany chairs and 2 mahogany tables, with leather coverings, to be used on the platform, and we are also to furnish some of the equipment for the Young Women's club gymnasium.

The members of the Music committee who have worked so untiringly, have been drawn together by a very close tie, and I wish to express to them my deep appreciation for their great thoughtfulness and service.

Jennie Hocking Hunt, Chairman.

PHILANTHROPIC COMMITTEE

This committee has tried to exemplify the principle of co-operation in its work this year, rather than undertaking any new work or attempting to open up fresh fields and pastures new. It has followed the same four lines as the previous year, almshouse visiting, support of Associated Charities, Philanthropic Council and Young Women's Club.

There has been made a beginning of co-operation with, art design, embroidering and sewing done in our schools to stimulate work in that department by giving orders and buying the products. Also $10 has been contributed toward the expenses of an Italian girl at the Normal Art school in co-operation with the Boston Association of Women Workers and the Art committee of our club.

In Almshouse visiting, we have had the co-operation of the Philanthropic committee of the Wollaston, Squantum and Riverside clubs, each committee visiting for two or three months and all combining for the Christmas party. Mrs. Percy L. Davidson has been in charge of this part of the work. Mrs. King of the Quincy club has given auto rides. Mrs. Nickerson of the Wollaston club gave a dinner for the women at her home and planned a birthday party for Ellen who had never had one. Mrs. Sprague of the Riverside club made the Thanksgiving visit. Mrs. Adams of the Wollaston club was in charge of the Christmas party and Mrs. McGrain of the Squantum club visited in February.

In support of the Associated Charities we contributed $20, saved by our speakers giving their services. Fred Johnson, secretary of the Boston A. C. spoke on "Unemployment." We gave $5 to help organize charity in other places which are trying to do what we did three or four years ago to secure a trained worker. The committee also, with Mrs. Frank J. Emery as chairman sold candy at the club dramatics netting $20 for the Associated Charities.

The committee joined with Miss Purchase in a series of conferences, two held in Quincy, and two in Wollaston. The first one was most enjoyable being in the nature of the annual reception to Miss Purchase with Mrs. Alice Higgins Lothrop as a most interesting speaker. The second conference was in co-operation with the Visiting Nurse committee in the Nurses' room, and in co-operation with the Legislative committee a brief joint session on the tuberculosis situation was held with Seymour H. Stone, speaker, and joined in the tea which closed the season, of Parliamentary Law.

In regard to the Young Women's club, Mrs. Pfaffmann, chairman of that special committee will tell you of that work, which is the greatest provoker of co-operation of all of our varied phases, as it has interested the Federation of Women's clubs, and is receiving the support of all, as the rest and recreation center is intended for the young women from all parts of the city.

It is thus that the Philanthropic committee has tried to be the helper in all good causes, and if instead of doing big things, it has helped the continuance of work already established, neighborliness and togetherness of committees, clubs, and the community, its work may not have been in vain.

Alice Haynes Marsh, Chairman.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB.

The Young Women's club opened its season as usual in October in the High school gymansium with an attendance of 75 girls. The generous gift of $100 from the Quincy Women's club made it possible for the girls to have the valuable assistance of Miss Clara Goodwin. She has spoken to the girls at the Tubular Rivet and other shops where girls are employed telling of the club and its work. She has been untiring in her efforts to make new members welcome and place them in the various classes. The social hour following classes is a difficult problem with some wishing to dance, others to play games and still more to play basket-ball. Miss Goodwin has charge of this hour and has endeavored to bring out the club spirit of working and playing together.

The club voted to meet an extra month, the club season closing May 1st, and Miss Goodwin has offered her services. She is also coming out each Thursday evenin, giving dancing lessons to the girls who wish them.

The Federation of Women's clubs as you know procured the free use of Adams Academy for a recreation centre for girls, and the announcement was hailed with delight from the girls, at a rally given in the High School hall in January, when we listened to a fine address from Miss Jean Hamilton, secretary of the National League of Women Workers.

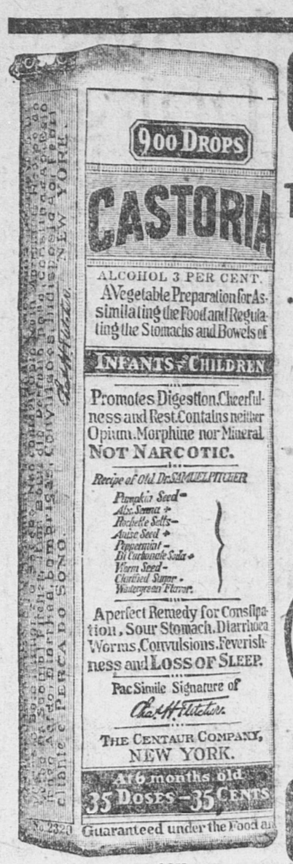

The fund for this recreation centre was started some three years ago with a Talk on Russia by a Russian lady who wished to give her services for some good philanthropic cause. "The Legend of Proserpine" a play by a Circle of King's Daughters, Unity Circle, and gifts from interested friends, increased the fund to over $500 and enabled the Federation committee to place the building in good condition and lay the foundation for a permanent recreation home for the girls of Quincy as the Y. M. C. A. is for the boys.

The academy with its central location is especially adapted to serve as a recreation center, and should be used oftener than one night each week to realize its full purpose. The opening night March 24 was an inspiring evening and points to a promising future for the club.

The gymnasium with its new floor basket ball frames and balls, given by the Kathryn Crane club, and its new gift from the retiring Music committee of this club makes it possible to equip it with wands and hoops and such other paraphernalia as Miss Furgerson thinks best. The girls will gladly share their gymnasium and I hope classes will be formed next winter from all our clubs. The gym. class gave a very successful meet in the High School gymnasium and netted over $20. The basket ball game was between the Atlantic and Quincy girls and the relay club, and passing the medicine ball games were quite exciting.

The dressmaking class use the small room and are planning to have a cutting table made for them by the boys of the Industrial School, by selling candy. They did so at the Gym meet and are planning to do so

A. P. Q. CHAPTER D. A. R.

The annual meeting of the Abigail Phillips Quincy chapter D. A. R. was held Monday afternoon with the regent Mrs. I. F. Waterhouse, Squantum street, Atlantic. The regent presided in her usual efficient manner.

Reports of the officers were read and proved most interesting. The Treasurer's report showed the finances to be in excellent condition with a decided gain over last year.

The various speakers and entertainments were recalled by the report of the secretary, also the many benevolences which the chapter has so materially assisted the past year.

The chairmen of all the committees made clear comprehensive statments showing that the work of each had been faithfully done.

The Entertainment committee, Mrs J. K. Barber chairman, reported a large sum added to the treasury as the result of their efforts during the fall and winter

The interesting feature of the afternoon was the report of the 24th Continental Congress of D. A. R. held in Washington D. C. in April. The regent, Mrs. Waterhouse, as delegate made the report which was really a very entertaining account of the session. Besides being present at all the business metings of the congress Mrs. Waterhouse attended the reception given to the D. A. R. by President Wilson. She was accompanied by Mrs. E. E. Jameson as alternate. Mrs. Charles J. O'Malley another member of the chapter was present at the opening of the congress

The afternon closed with a social half hour during which the hostess served cake, ice cream and candies assisted by Mrs. Cecil Marble and Mrs. Arthur Dittmer.

HOSPITAL REPORT.

Seventeen Babies Born In Last Three Months.

Seventeen babies were born at the City Hospital the last three months and arrangements have been made for the local nurses to receive practical experience in contagious cases at the Providence, R. I. hospital according to a report made to the Board of Trustees of the Quincy City Hospital by Miss Caroline Hill, matron. The hospital also showed a gain in the number of patients over the corresponding period last year.

Twenty-one of the 248 treated were accident cases. Surgical service was given to 166, medical service to 47 and there were 18 obstetrical cases Of the patients 107 were male. On May 1 there were 30 patients remaining. Of the number treated during the quarter 30 were discharged as cured, 164 relieved, seven not relieved. There were 15 deaths in the quarter.

The report states that 156 patients paid in full, 31 in part and that 61 were treated free. The net increase in money received was $3,976.12, a gain of $721.18 over the corresponding quarter of 1914.

During the last three months improvements to the interior of the building have been made and include the painting of the walls and ceilings of the side corridors and office of the clerk, the covering of floors with battleship linoleum, painting walls and ceiling in kitchen, pantry and help's dining room and part of the basement.

An unusual number of gifts have been tendered the hospital. Among them were many kinds of fruit and preserved fruit, flowers and magazines.

A string of 24 spruce trees were planted on the Whitwell street side of the grounds, the gift of Fred R. Rice and the medical library of the late Dr. John F. Welch was presented by Mrs. Welch. Mrs. W. P. Mitchell of Wollaston presented 43 volumes of current fiction for the use of patients and the report in speaking of the generous suport of the Hospital Aid society speaks of the members as the loyal friends of the institution.

A most interesting part of the report states that four probationers have been started and that 20 are now in training, and that the hospital school is affiliated with the Boston Dispensary as last year. A course in the training in care of contagious diseases has been arranged with the hospital of Providence, R. I., and each nurse will spend two months there and will receive theoretical and practical instruction in this important branch.

Miss McEwan, in charge of the visiting nurse department of the school, acording to the report states the present arrangements have been highly successful and that the nurses in field work have averaged four visits daily since November 1st.

Miss McCarthy, for two and a half years operating room nurse and second assistant has resigned to take up private nursing. Her place is filled for the present by Miss Holmes who for three months has had charge of the private ward.

MRS. ANNIE J. LEIGHTON.

Annie J. Leighton, widow of Frank W. Leighton, died at the Quincy City Hospital Tuesday night after a short illness. She is survived by four daughters, one of whom is Mrs. Georgianna Ciardi and three sons, Levi, Ellis and Richard Leighton. Her funeral will take place from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elrick at 202 School street, where she was visiting when she became ill. Burial will be in Ft. Wollaston cemetery.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Milton High—Rockland High baseball game proved to be a hitting fest Tuesday afternoon at Cunningham park. The final score was 14-3 in Milton's favor and was too one sided to be interesting.

In the very first inning after the visitors made their first run Luce of Milton knocked out a home run and sent in two men. The winners made two runs in the second inning, three in the fourth inning and six in the seventh. This inning was very long drawn out.

Parks, the Milton catcher, again proved the hero, when in the lucky seventh he sent in three men by a clean three base hit. Capt. Reiser of Milton made ten strikeouts, passed two men and allowed only three hits all singles. F. Osgood, the Rockland twirler was especially weak and allowed seven hits, one home run two three base and one two base hits.

Intense interest shown as sale nears the end

Copyright, 1914. Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

You have seen the ladies around a remnant table: That is the kind of interest being taken in this piano sale.

The only word which in any degree describes it is "intense" interest.

We wish we could print a one-tenth part of the good things we hear about this sale. We wish you could hear them for yourself.

But mighty well can piano buyers of this community afford to be intensely interested in this great sale.

It has given them an opportunity such as they never had before---and in all probability never will have again.

They have had an opportunity to procure a superb 350 dollar piano for 266 dollars. They have had an opportunity to procure a superb 550 dollar player piano for 413 dollars.

They have been given terms of payments, which they themselves would say were impossible to give.

They could pay as little as a $5 dollar bill when making their selections, and take 3 years and 8 months time, without interest, to pay the balance.

In the matter of affording the buyer protection, he has been loaded down with protective measures.

He can have his money back within 30 days.

He can make an exchange within a year.

He gets an unconditional guarantee for 5 years.

And, as a fitting climax to such a liberal policy, and to put his mind at perfect ease, we are going to make a voluntary practice to cancel all accounts, created throughout this sale, of those purchasers who die before their payments have been completed and turn the receipt in full over to the family of the deceased, conditional only upon the purchaser's account being up to date at time of death.

¶During this sale, the Piano Department will be open evenings by appointment, arrangements for which may be made by calling phone No. 1200, and asking for Mr. Bates.

Henry L. Kincaide & Co.
QUINCY, MASS

¶All instruments sold during this sale will be delivered at once. Arrangements may be made, however, to have an instrument set aside, after being selected, to be delivered later.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

again at the play Friday evening. The dramatic class use the other large room with its stage in the bay window.

Mrs. Gurney has kindly given another winter of her busy time to the club and is devoted to her girls. I hardly think the club could go on without her. They are hard at work upon their play "Engaged by Wednesday" to be given at Alpha hall this week. This is the third they have given this year.

The club is most fortunate in its president Miss Minnie Packard. She has served three years since its reorganization and one other year when the club was first formed and met here at this clubhouse. Her enthusiasm is boundless and she conducts the business of the club with ease and tact. Many of the girls are shy and we need more such leaders as Miss Packard.

The officers for next year are President, Minnie Packard; 1st Vice President Maude Briggs; 2nd Vice President, Harriet Waterhouse; Treasurer, Ruth Dahl; Corresponding Secretary, Mildren Bean; Recording Secretary Elsie Whitehead and the three other members of the executive board voted by the club are Annie Low, Mildred Huston and Edith Mullen. They have had 110 names this year but some have dropped out or not paid their dues and at present there are 60 paid members. At the monthly meeting held last week the treasury showed a balance of $95.43 and after the play should have a still larger balance.

The Massachusetts Association of Women Workers around Boston, of which this club is a member, are taking walks Sunday afternoons and Miss Mullen one of the club girls has been asked to lead three of these walks.

The Rockport Lodge at Rockport, Mass., is open to any of the club girls during July and August, and girls can get a week's rest and good time, or a week end visit, properly chaperoned, very reasonably.

The club has joined the Federation of Women's clubs and has voted $10 towards expenses for keeping the recreation center open one night a week this summer. The girls will have one or two of its members in charge so any girl of Quincy whether a member of the club or not, may enjoy their clubhouse. The girls have planned one speaker and we hope the Federation committee will use the building during the summer giving wholesome pleasure to the girls of Quincy.

Mabel A. Pfaffmann, chairman.

PRESS COMMITTEE.

At the opening of the club season last fall the work of the Press committee was systematized. Miss Prescott taking charge of the Ledger, as usual, Mrs. Cummings reporting the regular club meetings for the Telegram. Mrs. Prescott looking after the Searchlight later in the season while Mrs. Badger was available for extras and met demands on short notice. The chairman was responsible for weekly reports for the Boston Evening Transcript and semi-monthly announcements for the Boston Sunday Herald, besides preparing announcements and reports of special events. Through the courtesy of Mr Cobb of the Boston Herald and the Christian Science Monitor and Mr. Collins of the Boston Globe the activities of the Quincy Women's club have received generous notice in their respective papers.

The chairman feels greatly indebted to her committee for the loyal support given her and the personal interest and zeal in keeping publicity work up to the high standard established by her predecessors. She also wishes to thank the officers of the club and chairman of committees for their ready response to her expressed wish for advance information, which aided materially in her efforts to be prompt in sending news items to the press.

Emily T. Turner, Chairman.

PRINTING AND YEAR BOOK.

The work of the Printing committee is slight. There was $102.50 for the work and $99.95 expended, $2.55 being returned to the treasury.

The Year-book which has been before you for the past eight months speaks for itself. Has it been of value to you? Have you consulted it often? Has it not contained an answer to almost every question which has come to you concerning the year's work? It contains much valuable information and should be a constant companion to every club member. It is a silent reminder of the many activities of the club and is accurate in almost every detail. It is compiled from material gathered from the various committees, from the clerk and from the corresponding secretary. This year we have three additional pages with information concerning the Quincy Federation of Women's clubs, special committees and changes in the by-laws.

The chairman feels particularly pleased with the selection of the quotation which has been used on so many occasions and has served as an inspiration throughout the year. Having spent the year in conspiring with the many lines of new work which have come to us, may we continue to hope for a heart to resolve, a head to contrive and a hand to execute the work of the coming year.

Cordelia J. Cummings, Chairman.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE.

The Program committee submits the following report: Fifteen meetings have been held, four under the immediate auspices of the Program committee. The Reception committee has furnished six teas.

At the opening reception Oct. 13 the Program committee furnished the special speaker Mrs. J. Harry Poole director of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs, whose subject was "The Habit of the Creature."

Dec. 22 Haviah W. L. Hubbard gave an opera talk on "Tannhauser" in Alpha hall. Mrs. Julia Ritter McCormick sang two arias and Floyd M. Baxter presided at the piano.

Feb. 9, the annual dramatics took place in Music hall. The play "A Rose O'Plymouth Town" was given, the club cast being ably assisted by Mrs. Mollie Brown Sheppard and Miss Ella Packard. Members of the club lent antique and valuable furniture and furnishings for this occasion. Later the play was presented in Braintree by invitation of the Philergians; the latter club donating $25 to the visiting players, who in turn, presented the money to the Quincy club.

For March 9, a debate had been arranged, but circumstances obliging the committee to change the program Mrs. E C. Bumpus very kindly gave an illustrated lecture on "Noted Women of Noted Eras," speaking of Sappho, Aspasia, Judith, the Virgin Mary and Empress Theodosia. It was a most instructive and delightful talk.

March 23, Miss Irene Benley presented the play "The Prince Chap," impersonating the entire cast very enjoyably.

There were nine special events on the club program, one of which, the children's party was in charge of the Program committee. About 150 children assembled at the clubhouse on the afternoon of March 27 and enjoyed a varied program of songs, dances and a little play, given by a group of children, pupils of Miss Doris Horslen of Cambridge. Ice cream and cakes were served and dancing and games for the little ones ended a most successful party. The chairman extends thanks to all those, not on the committee who so ably assisted in making the afternoon such a great success.

In ending two years of service, the chairman feels that while she regrets the severing of pleasant relations, she is glad to be succeeded by one so competent to take up the work and carry it forward successfully.

Edith Randall, Chairman.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

The Reception committee has served at six teas. "Tea" is a form of speech which means hot chocolate and whipped cream, frappe, sherbet or ice cream with sandwiches or cake, as truly tea was served but once this year. Ushers for four entertainments have been provided. On the day of the tenth anniversary, refreshments for 300 or more were served in the afternoon, and for as many more in the evening. The committee has found that the spirit of willing helpfulness of the club extends even to the making of cake.

Clara C. Hunting, Chairman

The reports were accepted and placed on file with a vote of thanks in appreciation of the faithful work performed. Votes of thanks were also extended for gifts to the club of a marble drinking fountain for the tea room from the Education committee; two mahogany desks and four chairs from the Music committee; table cloth from the Hospitality committee and a large framed photograph of Mrs. Kitson's statue of Hope from the Art committee. Following the singing of the club hymn the president said farewell to the club in her official capacity as follows:

PRESIDENT'S FAREWELL

The club year is ending and our vacation is about to begin.

One class is graduating and others are being promoted as is customary in all the training schools of life. Honors of one kind or another have come to us all. To the president the kindly expressions of loyalty and esteem which she deeply appreciates, to the other graduates thanks and hearty recognition of faithful service rendered. To those who have been promoted we look for brilliant and effective service and feel that we shall not be disappointed.

The year just closing has been a busy one. We have endeavored, so far as possible to work along the lines suggested by the State Federation, but our prime object has ever been to institute and co-operate with philanthropic work in our community. You have heard through your chairmen of the activities of your committees and know that much has been accomplished along lines both old and new. The work of our Visiting Nurse —the oldest work of the club— has broadened and increased and a school nurse was installed as our Tenth Anniversary gift.

Our civic work is notable and the club is looked upon as a great factor in the community. I quote from an editorial in a recent number of a Boston paper:—"The social loss would be immeasurable, if by any means, the woman's club should pass out of existence, today or tomorrow." The time has gone by when men of business regarded woman's activity in civic affairs as an impertinent intrusion; the time has come when in the newer as well as in the older communities her civic activity is regarded as a necessity. This field of usefulness was not discovered or prepared for her. She had to find it and cultivate it for herself and she has proved beyond question her right to leadership in it."

Our club women have found their places and their right to leadership is already acceded. We have cooperated with all the leading organizations in our city and believe that by so doing we have gained in breadth and power. We have celebrated together our tenth anniversary and what a good time we had! How happy we were in making our beautiful club home ready for the reception and entertainment of our guests! How proud we were of our talented poet and historian and what praise we heard upon all sides for the achievements of our club during the ten years of its existence! The "well done" of our benefactor Dr. Brackett and the quiet approbation of our founder, Miss Johnson warmed our hearts and gave us fresh enthusiasm for our work.

We have worked for the French hospitals praying God to keep our country in peace and safety. We have held a mass Peace meeting with the end in view of informing ourselves and the public of the possibilities of constructive peace. Our cooperation with the Choral society at that time gave us great satisfaction. We have appointed a committee to increase the interest of club members in the suffrage which is already theirs—the right to vote for members of the School Board—and we have united forces with the city hospital, Associated Charities, Anti-tuberculosis society, Young Women's Club and City Federation. We must continue to do this and must co-operate with the Overseer of the Poor, the Norfolk County Farm Bureau, the Woman's Peace Party and other organizations which have asked our aid. Our interest in the work of the State Federation of Women's Clubs must never flag.

But the season of rest is before us now and we gladly welcome it. We are ready to lay down our work and enjoy a much needed respite. Lay down our work, did I say? There are some of our committees who will not be idle, for the children's gardens and the summer kindergarten must go on. The Program committee too must be industriously preparing the program which is to instruct and entertain us next year. The club work which is done during the summer is done so quietly that few realize that it is going on, but the results are apparent when the next season begins. It is necessary then to take our rest as Goethe describes it:

"Rest is not quitting
The busy career;
Rest is the fitting
Of self to one's sphere

'Tis the brook's motions,
Clear without strife,
Fleeting to ocean
After this life.

'Tis loving and serving
The highest and best;
'Tis onward, unswerving,
And this is true rest.

Before closing, the president wishes to thank the members of the club for their gracious courtesy and willingness to work wherever assigned. To the members of the Board she cannot find words to express her appreciation of their faithful discharge of their duties and readiness to carry extra burdens when required to do so.

To her capable secretaries and most conscientious treasurer she extends her hearty thanks and cordial recognition of splendid service cheerfully rendered. Believing that the women of the Quincy Women's club will always be "ideal" club women who, in the words of our State President "are only ideal women ready to play their part wherever they may find themselves," she signs herself for the last time Your President.

Alma Faunce Smith.

Before resigning the chair the president introduced the new officers, Mrs. George L. Badger as first vice president; Mrs. N. S. Hunting second vice president; Mrs. William F. Cummings clerk, who was duly sworn to office by City Clerk Emery L. Crane; Mrs. Ernest L. Collins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. L. Mitchell, Jr., treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Fenno, auditor and the president Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham.

As the new president stepped forward to assume the office large bunches of pink roses were presented from the club by the chairman of the Reception committee to the retiring and incoming presidents which were graciously acknowledged.

In presenting Mrs. Pinkham with the insignia of office, the president said the path of a president was not all rosy there were a few thorns. Humorously yet earnestly she told what was expected of a president, an ideal perfect officer and woman. In accepting the gavel Mrs. Pinkham said:

"What is the new president's ideal? The sisterhood of woman, usually stated the brotherhood of man, usually taken for granted that one includes the other Here women are not to be taken for granted; they are the principals. May we not live together in our club home like one family loving each other, sympathizing with each other and working together for the best good of the community in which we live.

By placing me at the head of this household you have conferred upon me a very great honor. In this world when we receive compliments we usually value them according to our estimate of the one who offers them. When I consider that I have been elected president by a club of women like you I considered it a very great honor indeed and I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

I wish I might please all, all the time. Impossibility. Shall be satisfied if I can please some of you all the time, and all of you some of the time.

These roses seem alike but they are very different, those presented to the retiring president mean 'things accomplished,' those to the new president 'things hoped for.' In the first bouquet one rose means a kind word, another a bit of advice, broad sympathy, optimism, gracious manner, impartial judgment, wisdom in club management. These flowers are light. The second bouquet expresses the hope that the new president will be a good parliamentarian, gracious to all, wise in management, hopeful to members. These flowers are heavy, yet if they express your pledge of loyalty, support, helpfulness, sympathy and co-operation, then they are light.

Although I succeed Mrs. Smith I shall not fill her place for her place is hers always. Admire her for what she has done; love her for what she is; may she be many years active, always honored and an honorary member."

The new president's first duty was to announce the chairmen of the committees as follows:

Civics—Mrs. Frank J. Moore.

Custodian—Mrs. Frank A. Emery.

Education—Mrs. Charles L. Griswold.

After a vote of thanks to the retiring officers and committees the president declared the meeting adjourned to meet Oct. 12.

A beautiful fragrant bunch of pink sweet peas was presented to Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, retiring treasurer by her associates in office in appreciation of her untiring efforts.

NEWSBOYS CLUB FRAME BY-LAWS

By-laws were framed at an enthusiastic and well attended meeting of the Quincy Newsboys club Tuesday evening and the dues were set at 10 cents per month.

GAME FRIDAY.
Brockton at Brockton (South Shore League.)

Hingham High school had no difficulty in bunching hits on O'Connor, taking advantage of the general errors of judgment and getting enough runs in six innings to defeat Quincy High school at Merrymount Park Tuesday afternoon by a score of 10 to 6.

O'Connor and Baker, the pony battery for Quincy, started the game. Baker, a juvenile, did fairly well behind the bat under the circumstances until replaced by O'Donnell in the latter part of the fifth.

O'Connor was yanked out after he had allowed seven hits, one a double and another a triple. Hingham was either a heavy hitting team in those six innings or else the young man from the West is not there in High school company.

The local team played with no kind of confidence behind O'Conpor, putting up one of the loosest games played at the park in several seasons. Errors of judgment real errors, wild pitches helped the men who had reached on hits cross home plate.

Hamlin held the team together in the last three innings, only one man getting by first, although he scored on errors.

Quincy had three men on in the fifth but two outfield flies killed their chances. In the sixth Larkin tripled and scored on Dorley's hit and in ninth they took a new lease of life and scored three runs. Had they demonstrated half the spirit in the early part of the game they exhibited then they would either have had a victory or a closer score.

The game was featured by three catches which bordered on the sensational, one by Wallace, the visiting shortstop who took a hard hit liner travelling toward left at tremendous speed, another by Hamlin who chased a high fly into the hollow in left field and another by DiSenso who copped a high fly back of first which the wind carried in. The only real misplay made by the visitors was the colliding of Connell of second and Downey of centre while after a skyrocket. The summary:

SPORTING COMMENT.

George Barry who is back with the Taunton team of the Colonial league was given a royal welcome when he reported. Last season Barry joined the Lowell team and the Board of Trade of Taunton went on record as being opposed to it. As a result Taunton got Barry back from Jimmie Gray, Lowell manager.

Art Favreau, junior interscholastic amateur champion, is in fine fettle for the Harvard matches Saturday and expects to better his showing of the other day. His stroke is working perfectly and, barring accidents, there is no reason why he should not come through a winner.

We notice that Daniel, O'Connell the former football player of the Milton A. A. championship team of some years ago, is boss of the concrete work on the Hancock street improvement. Outdoor work agrees with "Dan" whi is still as active on his feet as in the days when he held to the reputation of being a real player.

Whether Greenaway has declined to roll Olindy again because the purse is too small or because of cold feet is the question of the hour. Perhaps it is the latter but if he makes that known as a reason we believe the increase in the purse wil be easily arranged.

The opening of the Grammar School league is gratifying to the small boy fans of the city. Most of the teachers have developed an inside knowledge of the game which is surprising.

The Newsboys are to prepare a base ball schedule and six teams are expected to compete for the silver trophy offered by Mayor Campbell.

The Junior Auxiliary of Christ's church will give an entertainment in June. The auxiliary will not hold a candy sale Thursday as was erroneously reported.

CHARLES H. L. WAGNER GETS DEATH THREAT

Poem by Wollaston Man Arouses Bitter Anger

"Mr. Wagner, you are a traitor; look out for yourself; you will be caught very soon. You are going to be shot. You are a traitor so look out for yourself. Your family ought to be pitied for your time is short."

This is the striking threat which has come to Charles H. L. Wagner of Wollaston, whose poem "Emperor of Hate", was published in Tuesday's Ledger. The threat came in a letter to Mr. Wagner, which contained the clipping from the Boston Post, the warning being written across the face of the picture of Mr. Wagner and his family.

Mr. Wagner believes the message came from a pro-German and has turned it over to the postal authorities as well as the police. The letter which was postmarked "Uphams Corner" was mailed May 11, at 11 P. M.

Mr. Wagner, whose parents are German born, wrote verses condemning the Lusitania sinking, and referring to the Kaiser as "The Emperor of Hate." The publication of these verses has brought scores of letters from German people. Some approved the Wollaston poet's sentiments and others found fault. Among them came the anonymous death warning.

THE WEATHER

hTe warm weather the past few days, especially today has brought out quite a number of straw hats. In fact straw hats are becoming quite common. It will not be long before derby and felt hats will be an exception.

Another thing which the warm weather had brought out is the blossoms on the friut trees. Cherry, peach and apple trees are nearly in full blossom and grape vines are beginning to start up. Trees of all kinds are also quite leaved out. Soon people will be kicking because the weather is too warm.

The Weather Man says that showers are probable Friday although the chances are good for pleasant and cooler weather.

Showers are probable for Friday. Moderate southwest winds.

A. B. HULTMAN WANTS ANSWER

Renews Inquiry Made to Mayor

Arthur B. Hultman, who resigned Wednesday as a member of the Board of Managers of the Public Burial Places, has renewed through the press, his inquiry made by letter on Feb. 1. He says that Mayor Campbell has not taken a definite stand on it as yet. The letter follows:

My Dear Mr. Campbell:

I notice there is a law which was passed last year, Chap. 122, Acts of 1914, in regard to the care of graves of soldiers and sailors, and I enclose a copy of this act for your information.

It would probably simplify matters as well as save expense if you appoint a member of Public Burial places for this special work.

And, if you are going to appoint a member to do this work it is necessary that the board make provision for the expense to be incurred.

(signed) Arthur B. Hultman.

Mr. Hultman quotes as the reason for the renewal of his inquiry the following:

"Chap. 122 An act to provide that cities and towns shall care for the graves of soldiers and sailors. Sec. 1 In every city and town there shall annually be appointed by the mayor of the city, or by the selectmen of the town, a citizen of the city or town, preferably a veteran of the civil war or of the Spanish war, whose duty it shall be to see that the graves of all soldiers and sailors who served in the Civil war or in the Spanish war are are suitably kept and cared for. If the cost of such care and maintenance is not paid by private persons, or by the trustees of the cemetery where any such graves are situated, it shall be paid by the city or town; and cities and towns are hereby authorized to appropriate money for this purpose. Money so appropriated shall be expended directly by the city or town or may be paid over to the trustees or manager of any cemetery in which any such grave is situated; but the sum so paid over in any year shall not exceed for each grave the sum charged for the annual care and maintenance of like graves in the same cemetery, or, if no charge is made in that cemetery, then it shall not exceed the sum charged in other cemeteries, in the same city or town for the said service."

CITY FATHERS TO EAT CHOP SUEY

Mayor Campbell, a number of the city officials and members of the City council, will feast on chop suey and other savory Chinese dishes tonight for they have been invited to be the guests of Flat Wong, who has recently opened a Chinese restaurant at Houghs Neck. Wong is said to be an excellent cook and he promises to give the city fathers one of the best dinners they have tasted in a long time. Dinner is announced for 7 o'clock.

GOOD CHEER AT ROUND TABLE

Tender Luncheon to Mrs. C. W. Smith

In the days of the present as well as in the olden days the "round table" about which friends gather to feast makes for good cheer and cements the bond of friendship. This was certainly the case Wednesday when the retiring executive board of the Quincy Women's club gathered about a huge round table in the red room at Hotel Thorndike, Boston, at a luncheon arranged by them in honor of their retiring president, Mrs. Chandler W. Smith. The new president Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham arranged the details and Miss Edith Randall was toastmistress.

The way of the outgoing and incoming presidents is being made rosy by club members for at the annual meeting of the club on Tuesday, each was presented with large bunches of pink roses and again at the luncheon the same rose color predominated, the table being strewn with pink rose petals and there were vases of large pink roses, jonquils and narcissus.

During the feasting there were many pleasant interruptions in the way of telegrams, the first being a joke for which Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold was responsible, a telegram purporting to come from Mayor Chester I. Campbell reading as follows:

"Quincy Unites In Novel Congratulations, You Women Opportunely Meet Every New Situation.

City Lines Up Behind.
Chester I. Campbell, Mayor
Not a cross stick
but an acrostic."

Other telegrams were received from new officers which were very clever and full of witty hits and were read aloud by their recipients, one from Mrs. Victor E. Miller, chairman of the new Program committee read by the retiring chairman Miss Randall; from Mrs. Edward L. Mitchell, Jr., the new treasurer read by Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham; from Mrs. Arthur S. Townsend new Legislative committee read by Mrs. W. W. Whitcher; and Mrs. H. Everett Crane, new House committee read by Miss Randall.

Following the luncheon with Miss Randall presiding as toastmistress and cleverly introducing the speakers the following toasts were responded to

Our Four Hundred, Mrs. Edward S. Tenney.

Fallacies of the old board, Mrs. Chandler W. Smith.

Policies of the new board, Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham.

The Clubwoman's husband, Mrs. George L. Badger.

David J. Hickey and Pure Food, Mrs. Maurice P. Spillane.

Appeals, Mrs. Wilson Marsh.

All the hits and jokes were taken good naturedly and greeted with merriment and applause. They were clever, they were witty, and all thoroughly enjoyed.

The affair closed by all joining in singing popular songs with Mrs. John F. Hunt at the piano, closing with the "Star Spangled Banner," after which with many expressions of pleasure and good byes and greetings to the old and new the festivities came to an end.

FIVE HUNDRED LOSE LIVES AS SHIP SINKS

British Battleship Torpedoed off Dardanelles

(By United Press)

London, May 13—The British battleship Goliah was torpedoed off the Dardanelles, according to an official announcement of the Admiralty this afternoon. The loss of life is reported to have been 500.

The Goliah was a 12,500 ton battleship, 485 feet in length and had a beam of 74 foot. Its armament consisted of four 12 four inch and 12 six inch guns, and it was generally considered a very formidable warship.

RECEPTION TO REV. GERMANY

A bounteous and pleasing supper was served by the Ladies Aid in the vestry of the Hall Place M. E. church, Wednesday evening, to a large number of the parish and their friends.

At 8 o'clock the Ladies Aid tendered a reception to the new pastor and his wife Rev. and Mrs. Willis H. Germany.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. F. Wesley Fuller who said: "Let us turn back to the first page of our church Album, and look at the picture memory brings.

"Standing in the foreground, is the noble figure of Father Kelley. That title well describes the relation he held to both old and young of the parish. Not content with his service as chaplain of the National Sailors Home of Quincy, he desired to do more for his Master, and finding this section of the town without preaching services came here to labor, using a hall for Sababth services, and holding cottage prayer meetings. The interest grew and two years later in 1874 the church was built and the light of the Christian message has been shining forth from it ever since.

"In seeking to do what he could, little thought he of the far reaching effects of his work. We think the crown he now wears must have many stars. But he could not have occomplished this work, if he had not found a loyal willinghearted people here, who gave of their money, time and prayers and were glad to do it.

"It is true we have never been a large society but at our altars many have found Jesus Christ and gone away to carry Him with them.

"God has certainly been with us, and helped and blessed us and we expect great things for the future Father Kelley preached for us five years and has been followed by twenty pastors, Brothers Harlow, Trousdale, Westlake, Furber, Dorr, Pomfret, Lanford, Humphrey Baldwin, Brown, Virgin D. Martin, Wilder, Mayo, Petterson, Crosby, Tyler, Raupach, Martin and Neldon. In memory's album we see their faces yet. More than half have passed to the 'more abundant life.' They prayed for us, encouraged us, comforted us, and rejoiced with us. They gave us of their best, and we honor and love them for it.

"Dear pastor and wife, we now add your name to this roll of honor. We one and all, welcome you to our community, to our church to our homes, and to our hearts and in all your labors among us we desire you to feel that you have our sympathy and co-operation."

Miss Ethel Newcomb, presented Mrs. Germany with a beautiful bouquet of carnations.

Mr. Germany responded by thanking the church for their welcome and for the hearty co-operation and the response that he has already met with in his work here.

Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Stewart assisted Rev and Mrs. Germany in receiving.

YUAN THE PHILOSOPHER.

Yuan Shi Kai, President of the Republic China, to whom we have referred more than once in this column, is notable not only as a statesman and leader of men but also as a scholar and philosopher. Into the official records occasionally he inserts some philosophical remarks which are destined to become a very real part of Chinese literature. A recent official utterance in part is:

"The way to efficient administration of a nation is to place only capable men in official posts, and the most valuable form of loyalty in officials is to recommend worthy men to the government. The art of recommendation consists in finding competent men for official posts as against the condemnable practice of hunting lucrative posts for one's acquaintances. When base and incompetent persons scramble for offices, men of character turn away in dismay. True gentlemen who are clean and retiring in nature prefer to live in seclusion and shun the society of mean persons. When men of integrity and ability abandon the official realm, mediocre and worthless indiviiduals exercise unchecked their mischievous arts to attain selfish ends. Under such circumstances no official would attend conscientiously to his duties and all administrative affairs would lack proper supervision."

All this sounds very up-to-date and real. It might have been written by Woodrow Wilson.

WAR AND BASEBALL.

Of all blessings possessed by the American people well in the front is their love of baseball. Do not sneer, you who are not devotees of the national game. Fortunate, indeed, is a people who can become so absorbed in a pastime. It takes men's minds from serious things once in a while and sometimes it is a mighty good thing that is so.

Last August when most of the great nations of the world were war mad the Braves were making that sensational climb from cellar to roof which ever will be one of the brightest spots in baseball history. The Germans might be conquering Belgium and our hearts might be filled with pity for the unfortunate people but we could not quite forget that at the same time Rudolph and Tyler and Gowdy and the rest of them were conquering the top-notchers of the National League. And when the Braves took the world championship there was not a paper in the country in which this mighty feat did not take precedence over the news of the carnage in war-ridden Europe.

And it is well at this time of deep peril to the country, when the President is making a decision which will decide, perhaps, the destiny of more a mometn form the big news of the most patriotic of Americans stray for a moment from the big news of the day to that beloved box score on the sporting page.

The Baltimore American shows that it is a keen and accurate judge of human nature in its comment upon the recent bill introduced into the Kansas legislature which would prohibit women from wearing earrings. The American says: "Freak laws can induce people to do things they never thought of doing simply by arousing the suggestion of opposition by forbidding those things." why not pass a law forbidding men to wear straw hats before May 15? The law would prove much less effective than an absurd custom which compels men to swelter until it is fashionable to don the cool lid.

Those local clergyman, led by the kenial pastor of the First Parish church, in their fiery game of basketball at the Y. M. C. A. the other day showed that they had not altogether neglected the physical in contemplation of the spiritual

The presentation speech was made by Mrs. Annis Lincoln, the gift to Mrs. Murray being in appreciation of her earnest work in be half of the society and for the reason that she is soon to leave for Milwaukee, where she will make her home in the future.

GERMANY MUST MAKE AMENDS

Wilson Demands Strict Accounting For Killing Americans

REVIEWS SERIES OF ATTACKS

They Are Declared to Be Indefensible Under International Law—Money Cannot Restore Lives of Those Sacrificed In Sinking of Lusitania—Guarantee That Rights of Neutrals Will Be Respected Is Demanded—Firm but Friendly Message

Washington, May 13.—The United States, in a note to be sent to Germany today, demands a guarantee that there will be no further attacks by submarines on merchant ships carrying non-combatants. It serves notice also that full reparation will be sought for the loss of more than 100 American lives in the sinking of the Lusitania, and for other violations of American rights in the sea zones of war.

While no indication is given of the steps to be taken by the United States in the event of an unfavorable reply, the note informs the German government that the American government will leave nothing undone, either in diplomatic representation or other action, to obtain a compliance with its requests.

No changes were made in the essentials of the communication as formulated by the president and approved by the cabinet. The principal points in the note are substantially as follows:

Misdeeds of Germans

1—The United States government calls attention to the various incidents in the war zone proclaimed by Germany around the British Isles; the sinking of the British liner Fabala, with the loss of Leon C. Thresher, an American; the attack by German airmen on the American steamer Cushing; the torpedoing without warning of the American steamer Gulflight, flying the Stars and Stripes and, finally, the torpedoing without warning of the Lusitania, with its loss of more than a thousand lives of non-combatants, among them more than 100 Americans.

2—These acts are declared to be indefensible under international law. The United States points out that it never admitted Germany's right to do them and warned the imperial government that it would be held to a "strict accountability" for attacks on American vessels or lives. A strict accounting, therefore, is now asked from Germany.

3—The usual financial reparation will be sought, although Germany is, in effect, reminded that no reparation can restore the lives of those sacrificed in the sinking of the Lusitania and other ships.

4—Expressions of regret may comply with the legal precedents, but they are valueless unless accompanied by a cessation of the practises endangering lives of non-combatants.

5—The right of neutrals to travel to any point of the high seas on neutral or belligerent merchantmen is asserted.

Must Respect Rights of Neutrals

6—In the name of humanity and international law, the United States demands a guarantee that these rights will be respected and that there be no repetition of attacks on merchantmen carrying non-combatants.

7—The giving of warnings to the American public without officially communicating them to the United States government is commented on in connection with the German embassy's printed advertisement before the sailing of the Lusitania, but, irrespective of the failure to advise the American government of Germany's purpose, the point is made that notice of an intention to do an unlawful act neither justified nor legalized it.

8—The suggestion is conveyed that the German government, of course, could not have intended to destroy innocent lives, and that consequently the German submarine commanders must have misunderstood their instructions. The American government indicates its hope that this will be found true, and a cessation of the unlawful practises thereby will result.

9—In conclusion, Germany's attention is called to the earnestness of the government and people of the United States in this situation. It is made plain that the United States will leave nothing undone either in diplomatic representations or other action to obtain a compliance by Germany to the request made.

Germany Expected to Comply

The note throughout is couched in friendly tones, but is unmistakably firm. By the suggestion that German submarine commanders must have misunderstood their instructions or that the German government could not have intended to destroy innocent lives, room is given for a disavowal by Germany of the practises in the war zone and an assurance that future attacks will be prohibited.

Some international lawyers and diplomats, who have followed closely Germany's course since beginning the submarine warfare, are of the opinion that a compliance with the terms of the American note will not be surprising, and even that such a course would not be a departure from previous expressions.

If Germany should refuse the guarantee demanded by the United States, it is believed the next step would be the expulsion of the German ambassador and all German consuls and the recall of all American officials in Germany. This breaking off of diplomatic relations would be likely to bring conditions to such an acute stage that a hostile declaration could not be long delayed.

MANY SHOPS WRECKED

Enemy Subjects Attacked by Mobs In Several British Towns

London, May 13.—The sinking of the steamer Lusitania has aroused to a violent climax the smouldering hatred and suspicion of Germans living in England.

The animosity has found expression in attacks on Germans, principally upon their shops, in the poor quarters of London and Liverpool, while there have been minor disturbances in Manchester, Birkenhead, Glasgow and other places.

Many German shops had their windows smashed and some were pillaged. The proprietors of the shops generally were driven away by angry crowds.

None of the persons attacked is reported to have been seriously injured, but a considerable number were beaten and had their clothes torn. One or two shops have been set on fire by the rioters.

A spontaneous movement has developed in the London market to boycott subjects of enemy countries, and small dealers who appeared for supplies were refused them and a number were driven away by crowds.

HIT BY ONE TORPEDO

Lusitania Disappeared In Sixty Fathoms Eighteen Minutes Later

The following statement was issued at the American embassy at London:

"As to the sinking of the ship (Lusitania) it appears from all statements which have been secured that no warning was given. A torpedo hit amidships on the starboard side, and the ship listed because of the longitudinal character of the bulkheads, the port air spaces remaining intact. Later she righted.

"The sinking was in sixty fathoms, and the captain believes her nose touched the bottom before her stern disappeared, accounting for the slight suction.

"It seems from reports rather dubious whether a second torpedo struck the ship. The sinking took eighteen minutes, and occurred at 2:33 o'clock."

"SAVE THE KIDDIES"

Vanderbilt's Uppermost Thought When the Lusitania Went Down

London, May 13.—"There is one incident the world will remember in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania," said the bishop of London, while presiding at a meeting of the Waifs and Strays society.

"When Alfred G. Vanderbilt was face to face with death he said to his valet: 'Come and let us save the kiddies.'

"Those words will run around the world in a way no millionaire's millions could ever do."

Clergyman Fined For Assault

Boston, May 13.—Rev. J. F. Chase, secretary of the Watch and Ward society, was fined $25 in the municipal court after pleading guilty to assault and battery on John J. Cronin, an attorney, in the corridor of the courthouse.

SERVICES FOR COBB BOY.

The funeral of Master Calvin Douglass Cobb, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris D. Cobb of 116 Kemper street, Wollaston, who died at the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital, Brighton, Friday night where he was taken three weeks ago suffering from a severe illness, was held from the home of his parents.

Services were conducted by Rev. Joseph Walther of the First Baptist church of Wollaston whose words and prayers of comfort deeply impressed the many relatives and friends gathered to express their sympathy to the grief stricken family, and pay their last respects to the bright and promising young child that God had chosen to come to Him. Miss Ruth L. Hardy rendered two solos "Looking this Way" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

The remains were taken to South Portland, Maine, the birthplace of the boy's father, and burial was in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Mourn not for me, my parents dear
And do not say I'm dead
But call this sacred spot of earth
Your little Boy's bed.

I'm resting here a little while
My sufferings are all o'er
When I shall wake, we shall meet
Where parting is no more.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

An achievement of such world-wide significance as the completion of the Panama Canal deserves to be celebrated in a way to be remembered throughout the centuries. The war, of course, has made it impossible for the Panama Exposition in San Francisco to be the great international event which it promised to be. However, this exposition can not help being one of considerable importance and many people are planning to take the opportunity of seeing the country at excursion rates.

For this reason, the Library has posted on the bulletin board a list of the books on California, Panama, and the two great national parks, Yosemite and Yellowstone. The list accompanies views of the Exposition scenes and buildings in beautiful sepia tones. Among these is a long panoramic view of the coast line, including most of the principal buildings.

We hope that any who visit the Library will not fail to note the work on exhibition here by two young Quincy artists. The bust of his father by Bruce Saville is well worth seeing, as it has much artistic promise; and the photographs of libraries by Willis Garey, mentioned in last Thursday's "Notes," show exceedingly good work. These exhibits will remain for two weeks longer.

FIFTEEN DOCTORS WANTED.

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions needs at once fifteen surgeons and physicians for work in mission fields. Nine are wanted for China, four for Turkey, one for Africa and, most urgent of all, one at once for relief work in Serbia, with station at Monastir. This latter call is in the nature of "special" and may appeal to some doctor who wants to give two years or so to Humanitarian service. The need is tremendous; the Board has the money and the location. The man must be thoroughly first-class as to equipment and devotion.

For China, six men and three women are wanted to join hospitals already running which treat from ten thousand to thirty thousand cases a year. The new men and women will be associated with surgeons in charge

In four hospitals in Turkey physician-surgeons are wanted in association with doctors already on the ground. The American hospitals have increased their influence enormously during these months of war and the men on the ground must be re-inforced. In Durban, Africa, a physician-surgeon is urgently needed.

The board lays down no sectarian test but does insist on earnest Christian consecration on the part of physicians whom it sends out. The candidates should be not over thirty-five years of age. In equipment the Board requires a degree from a distinctly first-class institution and in addition an interneship or its equivalent. Specialization is not demanded though special preparation is welcomed. Details as to service may be secured from Dr. C. H. Patton, 14 Beacon Street, Boston.

A HUNDRED DOLLAR PRIZE.

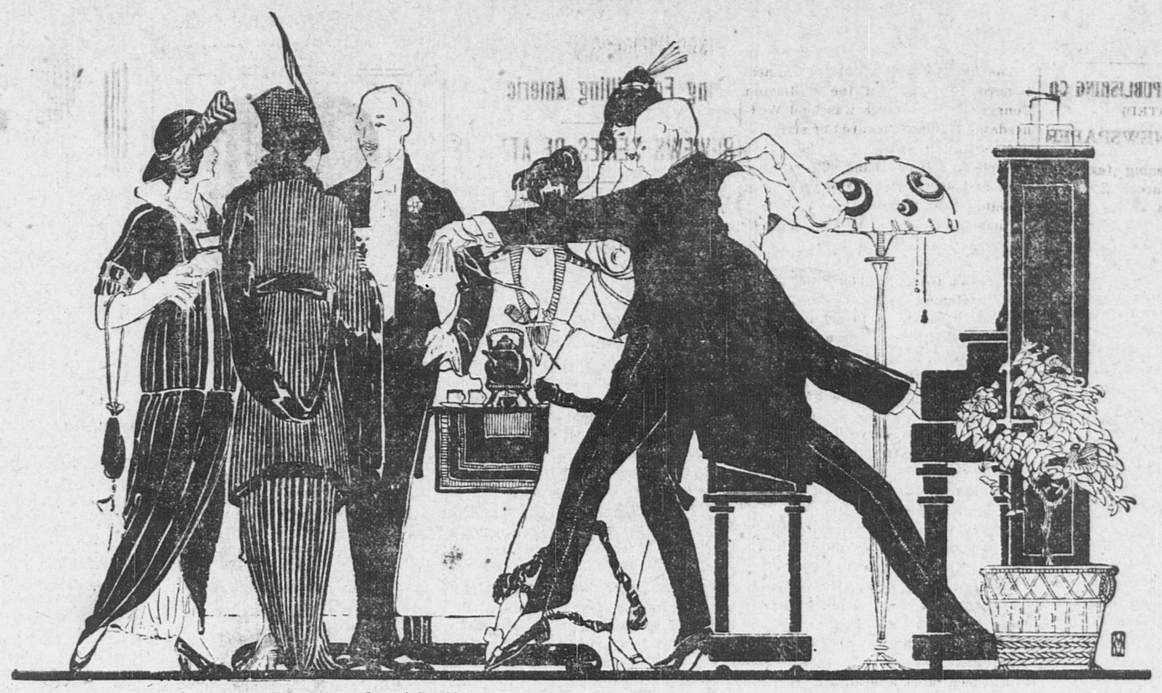

Literary people and peace advocates will be interested in the prize offered by the Christian Women's Peace Movement, which enlists Christian women of all denominations and claims a constituency for four millions. This prize of $100 is offered for a short story not to exceed 4,000 words setting forth Christian Ideals of Peace. The manuscript should be typwritten on one side of the sheet and must be in hand by June 15. Address Christian Women's Peace Movement, 705 Ford Building, Boston, Mass., enclosing stamps for return of manuscript, if not available.

The best opportunity you have ever had to supply your home with a good piano closes Saturday night

Copyright, 1914. Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

Friday; then Saturday; then Saturday night until 10 o'clock, and then the greatest piano sale this country has ever known, closes.

This sale was opened simultaneously in sixteen different cities in sixteen different sections of the United States.

It was planned by the Bacon Piano Company to offset a depression in trade due to the unnecessary scare produced by the European war and a lot of useless and unwise pessimistic talk produced at home.

Sixteen large distributors of which we were one, were invited by the Bacon Piano Company to co-operate with them, in order that their several factories might be kept running and the whole piano business be given a general "stiffening up."

That you may appreciate the magnitude of this big enterprise, we will tell again, what we told in our first advertisement, that there were 3000 pianos and 2000 player-pianos apportioned among these 16 firms—

All to be disposed of upon the same plan;
At the same price;
Upon the same terms of payment,
And upon the same conditions of sale.

From the moment the sale was announced, it was an electrifying success.

Piano buyers seemed to instinctively sense the advantages of the sale. Long-headed, thrifty buyers seemed to know intuitively, that here was an opportunity that stood out from the great mass of "inducements" which are exploited from time to time in an alluring manner.

And they came.

Some, only to see; some to purchase.

Then came the enthusiasm.

From enthusiasm, the sale swept to interest, and from interest, to intense interest.

Buyers brought in their friends and relatives.

Times without number a buyer of today would double his tracks tomorrow with a friend or acquaintance.

Everybody at interest seemed to be saturated with the idea of passing a good thing along, until the sale is closing two weeks earlier than we had expected—an overwhelming success.

But two days more remain in which to share its many advantages.

Every style of piano; every style of player-piano; every style of finish, and every wood are on the floor. It's true, many of them are sold. We have purposely held up several deliveries at the consent of the purchasers, so that every style can be seen tomorrow and Saturday, as well as they could on the day of the opening.

If you should happen to like one of these styles, it will be ordered for you—and every instrument ordered will be subject to the same identical conditions of those instruments right here on our floor.

Therefore, don't fail to come in tomorrow or Saturday. It would be a shame for anyone who should own a piano, to let an opportunity like this go by.

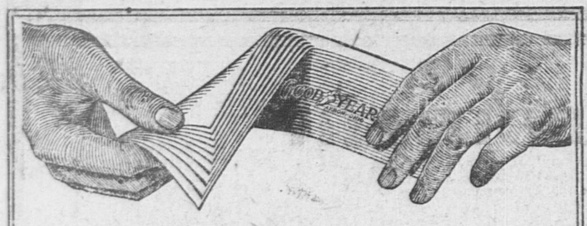

Ten reasons why we say that this is the best opportunity you have ever had to supply your home with a good piano.

2nd.—$550 player-pianos are being sold for $413.
3d.—The first payment has been reduced to five dollars.
4th.—The first year's payments on pianos have been placed at one dollar a week.
5th.—The first year's payments on player-pianos have been placed at one dollar and 75 cents a week.
6th.—You do not have to pay interest on account of the long time you are given in which to make your payments.
7th.—Your money will be refunded after a thirty days' trial, if the instrument you select is not satisfactory.
8th.—You will be permitted to exchange your instrument if it is not satisfactory, at any time within one year, without incurring loss or extra expense.
9th.—You are given a five-year unconditional guarantee; the strongest ever placed upon any piano or player-piano.
10th.—And last, but not least, we are going to make it a practise to cancel the accounts of those purchasers who should be so unfortunate as to die before their payments have been paid in full, provided their accounts are up to date at the time of death.

Read these ten advantages over again. Let them burn themselves into your memory.

You will then know why we say: that "This is the best opportunity you have ever had to supply your home with a good piano."

Leakless Inner Tubes

Goodyear Laminated Tubes
Built Layer on Layer—Extra Thick

Here is something every motorist should know.

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are built of many thin layers—each of pure rubber—vulcanized together. No flaw can be hidden as in a thick piece of rubber. It is seen and eliminated. Every layer is perfect.

Such a Tube can't leak. And our valve patch can't leak, because it is part of the Tube and not stuck on.

Remember that. Many a tire trouble is due to leaky Tubes.

14% Heavier

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are extra heavy. They have always outworn any tire. But this year we have added 14 per cent to their average thickness—all pure rubber. And our Tube prices this year are reduced 20 per cent. So these layer Tubes, extra-thick, now cost about the same as others.

Always Gray

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are not colored. They are gray—the natural pure rubber color. Color requires a large percentage of mineral adulteration. And minerals hold heat, a Tube's worst enemy.

Whatever tires you use, get Goodyear Tubes. They will outlast your tires, save you leaks and trouble. They will also convert you to Goodyear Fortified Tires, built by the same high standards.

A number of bowlers went over the 300 mark in the weekly rolloffs at the Wardwell alleys Wednesday evening but not by enough to figure in the prize money. Tested and Proven

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Quincy readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Richard W. Smith, painter, 14 Blake St., Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from a painful back and kidney trouble for a long time. I was so stiff on damp and rainy mornings that it was some time before I got limbered up enough to dress myself. I had a dull, heavy pain through the small of my back. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up all right. I have used this remedy off and on since whenever I have needed a kidney tonic. Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to put me in good shape. In my present work, painting, I find Doan's Kidney Pills to be just the medicine I need for keeping my kidneys in good working order. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before and am glad to do so again."

PLAY OPENING GAME SATURDAY

Ward Six Playground Scene of Battle

The North Quincy Men's Catholic club base ball team will play its opening game of the season at 3.30 P. M. Saturday on the Ward Six playground when it will play the St. Mary's of Charlestown. The members have been supplied with new uniforms this season and during the past few weeks have been putting in considerable practice and it is expected that they will put up a strong game.

Mayor Campbell has been invited to pitch the first ball and he has accepted the invitation, provided he is in the city. Senator Langelier has accepted an invitation to stand behind the batter and catch the first ball. Both Mayor Campbell and Senator Langelier are enthusiastic base ball fans and it is expected that they will show some class on this occasion.

The club has also extended an invitation to the members of the city council to be present at the opening game and doubtless many of the law makers of the city will be found on the side lines. The members of the Board of Trade and the Squantum Yacht club have also received invitations to witness the opening game. The park commissioners who have charge of the playground have promised the club that the diamond will be put in first class shape for this game.

BARK'S MATE THINKS WIFE IS A MASCOT

No Accidents to Ship When Better Half Is Aboard

Boston, May 13.—To be at the side of her husband so she may act not only as a companion but as a mascot as well, Mrs. Louise Williamson, wife of Frederick Williamson, first mate on the Boston owned bark Ruth Stark, sailed with him when that vessel left the harbor bound for Liverpool with the first load of lumber that has left here for twenty years for England in a sailing vessel.

On both sides of the vessel large American flags are painted to identify her in passing through the war zone.

Mrs. Williamson has accompanied her husband on every voyage he has made since their marriage, six years ago. Before that time he was in seven accidents and has figured in none since. The commander of the bark is James E. Rawling.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Meeting.

Under the sun, under the starry nights Tremont, with his burden, journeyed toward the north. The halts were distasteful to him, and although he was forced to rest he would rather have been cursed with sleeplessness and have journeyed on and on. He rode his camel like a Bedouin; he grew brown like the Bedouins and under the hot breezes, swaying on his desert ship, he sank into dreamy, moody and melancholy reveries, like the wandering men of the Sahara, and felt himself part of the desolation, as they were.

"What will be, will be!" Hammet Abou said to him a hundred times, and Tremont wondered: "Will Charles live to see Algiers?"

Sabron journeyed in a litter carried between six mules, and they traveled slowly, slowly. Tremont rode by the sick man's side day after day. Not once did the soldier for any length of time regain his reason. He would pass from coma to delirium, and many times Tremont thought he had ceased to breathe. Slender, emaciated under his covers, Sabron lay like the image of a soldier in wax—a wounded man carried as a votive offering to the altars of desert warfare.

At night as he lay in his bed in his tent, Tremont and Hammet Abou cooled his temples with water from the earthen bottles, where the sweet ooze stood out humid and refreshing on the damp clay. They gave him acid and cooling drinks, and now and then Sabron would smile on Tremont, calling him "petit frere," and Tremont heard the words with moisture in his eyes, remembering what he had said to the Marquise d'Esclignac about being Sabron's brother. Once or twice the soldier murmured a woman's name, but Tremont could not catch it, and once he said to the duke:

"Sing! Sing!"

The Frenchman obeyed docilely, humming in an agreeable barytone the snatches of song he could remember, "La Fille de Madame Angot," "Il Trovatore;" running them into more modern opera, "La Veuve Joyeuse." But the lines creased in Sabron's forehead indicated that the singer had not yet found the music which haunted the memory of the sick man.

"Sing!" he would repeat, fixing his hollow eyes on his companion, and Tremont complied faithfully. Finally, his own thoughts going back to early days, he hummed tunes that he and a certain little girl had sung at their games in the allees of an old chateau in the valley of the Indre.

"Sonnez les matines

and other children's melodies.

In those nights, on that desolate way, alone, in a traveling tent, at the side of a man he scarcely knew, Robert de Tremont learned serious lessons. He had been a soldier himself, but his life had been an inconsequent one. He had lived as he liked, behind him always the bitterness of an early deception. But he had been too young to break his heart at seventeen. He had lived through much since the day his father exiled him to Africa.

Therese had become a dream, a memory around which he did not always let his thoughts linger. When he had seen her again after her husband's death and found her free, he was already absorbed in the worldly life of an ambitious young man. He had not known how much he loved her until in the Villa des Bougainvilleas he had seen and contrasted her with Julia Redmond.

All the charm for him of the past returned, and he realized that, as money goes, he was poor—she was poorer.

The difficulties of the marriage made him all the more secure in his determination that nothing should separate him again from this woman.

By Sabron's bed he hummed his little insignificant tunes, and his heart longed for the woman. When once or twice on the return journey they had been threatened by the engulfing sand storm he had prayed not to die before he could again clasp her in his arms.

Sweet, tantalizing, exquisite with the passion of young love, there came to him the memories of the moonlight nights on the terrace of the old chateau. He saw her in the pretty girlish dresses of long ago, the melancholy droop of her quivering mouth, her bare young arms, and smelled the fragrance of her hair as he kissed her. So humming his soothing melodies to the sick man, with his voice softened by his memories, he soothed Sabron.

Sabron closed his eyes, the creases in his forehead disappeared as though brushed away by a tender hand. Perhaps the sleep was due to the fact that, unconsciously, Tremont slipped into humming a tune which Miss Redmond had sung in the Villa des Bougainvilleas, and of whose English words De Tremont was quite ignorant.

"Will he last until Algiers, Hammet Abou?"

"What will be will be, monsieur!" Abou replied.

"He must," De Tremont answered fiercely. "He shall."

He became serious and meditative on those silent days, and his blue eyes, where the very whites were burned, began to wear the far-away, mysterious look of the traveler across long distances. During the last sand storm he stood, with the camels, round Sabron's litter, a human shade and shield, and when the storm ceased he fell like one dead, and the Arabs pulled off his boots and put him to bed like a child.

One sundown, as they traveled into the afterglow with the East behind them, when Tremont thought he could not endure another day of the voyage, when the pallor and waxiness of Sabron's face were like death itself, Hammet Abou, who rode ahead, cried out and pulled up his camel short. He waved him arm.

"A caravan, monsieur."

In the distance they saw the tents, like lotus leaves, scattered on the pink sands, and the dark shadows of the Arabs and the couchant beasts, and the glow of the encampment fire.

"An encampment, monsieur!"

Tremont sighed. He drew the curtain of the litter and looked in upon Sabron, who was sleeping. His set features, the growth of his uncut beard, the long fringe of his eyes, his dark hair upon his forehead, his wan transparency—with the peace upon his face, he might have been a figure of Christ waiting for sepulture.

Tremont cried to him: "Sabron, mon vieux Charles, reveille-toi! We are in sight of human beings!"

But Sabron gave no sign that he heard or cared.

Throughout the journey across the desert, Pitchoune had ridden at his will and according to his taste, sometimes journeying for the entire day perched upon Tremont's camel. He sat like a little figurehead or a mascot, with ears pointed northward and his keen nose sniffing the desert air. Sometimes he would take the same position on one of the mules that carried Sabron's litter, at his master's feet. There he would lie hour after hour, with his soft eyes fixed with understanding sympathy upon Sabron's face.

He was, as he had been to Fatou Ami, a kind of fetish—the caravan adored him. Now from his position at Sabron's feet, he crawled up and licked his master's hand.

"Charles!" Tremont cried, and lifted the soldier's hand.

Sabron opened his eyes. He was sane. The glimmer of a smile touched his lips. He said Tremont's name, recognized him. "Are we home?" he asked weakly. "Is it France?"

Tremont turned and dashed away a tear.

He drew the curtains of the litter and now walked beside it, his legs feeling like cotton and his heart beating.

As they came up toward the encampment, two people rode out to meet them, two women in white riding habits, on stallions, and as the evening breeze fluttered the veils from their helmets, they seemed to be flags of welcome.

Under his helmet Tremont was red and burned. He had a short, rough growth of beard.

Therese de la Maine and Julia Redmond rode up. Tremont recognized them, and came forward, half staggering. He looked at Julia and smiled, and pointed with his left hand toward the litter; but he went directly up to Madame de la Maine, who sat immovable on her little stallion. Tremont seemed to gather her in his arms. He lifted her down to him.

Julia Redmond's eyes were on the litter, whose curtains were stirring in the breeze. Hammet Abou, with a profound salaam, came forward to her.

"Mademoiselle," he said, respectfully, "he lives. I have kept my word."

Pitchoune sprang from the litter and ran over the sands to Julia Redmond. She dismounted from her horse alone and called him: "Pitchoune! Pitchoune!" Kneeling down on the desert, she stooped to caress him, and he crouched at her feet, licking her hand.

PUTS POWER IN HANDS OF KING

Question of War Is Passed Up by Italian Cabinet

GAINS REPORTED BY RUSSIA

Claims Capture of Over Five Thousand Austrians and Much War Material In Bukowina—Germans Reported to Have Suffered Heavy Losses In Northern France

London, May 13.—Italy's war decision is to be put up to King Victor Emmanuel personally, according to authoritative dispatches reaching London.

It seems understood that the cabinet will shift responsibility in the crisis which now confronts the nation, and take advantage of the monarchical nature of the government to put all power temporarily into the hands of the king.

Italy's flat rejection of Austria's final offers of territorial and other concessions, together with the fact that the reopening of parliament is more than a week away, has put the supreme decision squarely up to the king and his advisers, and it is now apparent that the advisers are disposed to shift the issue to the head of the kingdom.

The arrival of the new Russian ambassador to Italy, M. de Giers, at Rome, is expected to add another element to the forces already urging the nation to enter the conflict.

It is understood de Giers will have an immediate interview with Baron Sonnino, the Italian foreign minister, and there is no doubt that he is the bearer of an important communication from the czar regarding the plans of the allies for Italy's future in the Mediterranean in case the Dardanelles are forced and the entente powers are finally triumphant.

This is the most important problem of the war so far as Italy is concerned, and that if sufficient guarantees are given her entry into the conflict on the side of the allies is assured.

A dispatch from Petrograd says that Russian troops have again taken the offensive in Bukowina on the Czernowitz-Obertyn line, and are pushing back the Austrians along a forty-mile front, capturing over 5000 prisoners and much war material. The Austrians hastily evacuated the whole left bank of the Dneister river.

In the Shavli region of the Baltic provinces the Russians continue to press the retreating Germans, who are fleeing to the southwest.

On the left bank of the Vistula, south of Sokhatchoff, in Poland, Russian infantry crossed the Bzura river and captured a group of German trenches.

In western Galicia the Russians continue to fall back in the direction of Lutowiska and the Austro-German offensive was checked by a counter-attack.

Austrian attacks were repulsed by the Russians in the direction of the Uzsok pass and Stry river, in the Carpathians, the Austrians fleeing in disorder, leaving many dead and prisoners.

Berlin reports that German pursuit of the Russians between the Carpathians and the Vistula continues, heavy damage being inflicted along the entire front.

The big battle north of Arras, in northern France, continues. The French have inflicted heavy losses on the Germans in repulsing counter-attacks. Progress was made by the French at Carency and Ablain, a new portion of the former village being captured, with 400 German prisoners, according to the French war office report.

The French have captured 4000 German prisoners since Sunday in the fighting around Arras.

The British repulsed another German attack east of Ypres, south of the Menin road, this being the third costly German failure at the same place.

Berlin says that east of Ypres the Germans took an important hill, location not stated.

Trenches taken by the French between Carency and Neuville, north of Arras, still remain in their possession, but otherwise all their attacks have been repulsed by the Germans.

CHURCH VOTES $2000.

Will Raise $2000 To Remodel Parsonage.

An adjourned parish meeting of the Universalist church was held Wednesday evening, at which time it was voted to raise the sum of $2,000 to remodel the parsonage.

Mrs. Emily Blake and Mrs. Harriet Lombard were elected auditors.

Mrs. Thomas A. Addison and Mrs. Robert G. Read were elected delegates to the state convention at Peabody, May 19 and 20.

It was voted to hold the annual parish supper for members of the church only on evening of May 27.

A TRADE SCHOOL IN CHINA.

One quarter of the great province of Shantung, whose name so frequently appears in telegraphic news from Orient nowadays, is governed by the city of Tung chang fu. The military, political and educational headquarters for the eight or nine million people in the district all center here, and the city is, therefore, an important religious center for work of the American Board's mission in Shantung. Rev. E. W. Ellis of the Board's staff at Lintsingchow describes a recent week's work in Tung chang fu in the course of which he studied some of the higher schools which the new China is trying so hard to maintain. Mr. Ellis says:—

"The normal school is one of the four of highest rank in the province, and has an attendance of one hundred and sixty. The middle school has one hundred and thirty and two other schools have a combined attendance of over a hundred. One of these is the Industrial School. Here from each of the twenty-nine districts governed by the city, five boys are allowed to come and study a trade.

The teaching includes Chinese printing, book making, and the making of military uniforms—the stitching being done on Singer Sewing Machines. We also visited the industrial prison where weaving and shoe making were being carried on by the inmates."

This story represents a tremendous change in the educational ideals of China and in methods of treating prisoners. No wonder an American president of a Chinese college declared not long ago that living in China just now is like being in the transformation of an Arabian Night's story.

SCISSOR PASTE

A TIMELY CRACK.

A microscopic examination of the Liberty bell has disclosed the presence of another small crack. It is not visible to the naked eye, but the expert examiners are fully persuaded that it will develop into something serious. The discovery is timely, because it demonstrates that the bell cannot be sent across the country with any assurance of its safety. There never was any good reason for carrying it around the country. The bell, separated from the hall where it rang for liberty, is of far less value as an historical relic than when seen within the walls of Independence hall. The bell has been used as an excuse for a junket by the Philadelphia City Council quite a number of times. Now that it has been shown that further traveling by the sacred bell will in all probability reduce it to fragments, those who are opposed to future journeyings should rally to the defence of the bell and emphatically veto its removal.—Lynn Item.

A WISE CHOICE.

There was a time when Charles E. Hughes, of New York, regarded the Presidency as a prize worth striving for He had made fame as a public prosecutor that helped him into the office of Governor, and he would have liked to be President but other influences than his own placed him on the bench of the Supreme court of the United States. Occasionally reference is made to him as a possible candidate for President, but he is wise enough to prefer his present station. He was born in 1862, and as associate justice his life work is planned. He has nothing to fear in the political changes that are constantly occurring Were he President there would be only four years of the honor before a renewal of the struggle to keep him in the place, and after two terms, at the most he would return to civil life. Former President Taft regarded a membership in the Supreme court as of greater value than the Presidency, and could he have had his own way he would have gone upon the bench rather than to the White House Judge Hughes has declared his unalterable determination to not permit the use of his name as a candidate for the high honor of President, because he considers that he holds a higher honor, an honor that will be his until the end of his life.—Lynn Item.

A. G. VANDERBILT.

The death of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt with the sinking of the Cunard liner on Friday afternoon has a close analogy with the death of John Jacob Astor in the sinking of the Titantic. Each was a man of great wealth and the scion of a family long prominent in the financial history of the United States; and, so far as the reports of each disaster permit one to know, there seems to have been nothing in the conduct of either during the moments of great stress which would tend to controvert the belief that each went to his death like a man. Of course, there was no occasion to single out one person more than another as giving evidence of courage; but the stories of the Titanic disaster seemed to coincide in the assertion that Astor denied himself the privilege of going into a lifeboat when his young wife stepped in, and the failure to find the name of Vanderbilt among the names of the survivors or even among those whose bodies were recovered after the Lusitania went down would lead to the belief that he, too, gave proof of self-denial at a time when the impulse for self-preservation was very strong The calling of particular attention to these two men does not mean that no others in either disaster displayed courage and fortitude, but it is merely because of the greater publicity which attached itself to these men on account of their wealth. In such crises the manhood comes out, whether the participants be the wealthiest or the poorest.

DRIVING WITHOUT LIGHTS.

Court Finds Three Guilty At Today's Session.

Three men were in court this morning on charges of driving vehicles at night without lights. The complaints were brought by Patrolman Broberg and were in keeping with the recent orders from Capt. McKay to bring violaters of the law to court.

The men gave their names as Henry Jacobs, F. A. Carey and Harvey Johnson. Pleas of nolo contendre were accepted in all cases and the complaints were placed on file on payment of costs.

PETER'S PATIENCE RICHLY REWARDED

The patience of Peter Gacicia has at last been rewarded and he will be permitted to transport liquor into Quincy this year. Ever since the City Council passed over the veto of the Mayor the order granting Gacicia a permit to transport liquor he has camped on the ground about City Hall, anxiously waiting until it should be decided if he was to get his permit. Almost everybody who entered or left city hall who was thought to have any knowledge or any influence was bottonholed.

Wednesday a war zone was established. Peter was strongly advised that if he ever expected to receive his permit he should keep at least 600 feet away from city hall. Evidently he heeded this adice for this morning he was amon gthe missing although the Mayor had in the meantime signed the license and it was ready to be issued by the City Clerk.

The information given out from the Mayor's office this morning was that the license of Peter Gacicia to transport liquor had been signed by the Mayor. The Mayor announced that he had not changed his mind in regard to the wisdom of granting this permit since sending his veto message to the City Council. He said he had simply signed the license in a ministerial capacity as required by the decision of the Supreme Court given below. By this decision the responsibility of granting the license is cast upon the City Council, he claimed.

The Century Dictionary defines ministerial acts in law to be those acts that are to be performed or exercised uniformly on a given state of acts, in a prescribed manner, in obedience to law or the mandate of legal authority, without dependence on the exercise of judgment as to the propriety of so doing.

The law governing the granting of permits and the decision of the Supreme Court in this matter are as follows:

Section 2 of Chap. 421 of the Acts of 906 provides that "The Mayor and aldermen in cities and the selectmen in towns in which said licenses of the first five classes are not granted hall annually grant and issue one or more permits under the provisions of thos act, etc"

A decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Braconier vs Packard, 136 Mass. 50 reads as follows:

"It is proveded by the Public Statutes ? 100, sec. 5, that, in cities, licenses to sell intoxicating liquor" may be granted annuallq by the Mayor and aldermen."

The Statute of 1882, c 164, provides that, "in all laws relating to cities, the words Mayor and Aldermen hall unless provision is or shall be other wise made, he construed to mean board of aldermen."

"By these statutes, "the responsibility of granting or refusing licenses, like the city clerk, performs a merely imnisterial duty. If the board of aldermen grant a license, and the license does what the statute requires of him, by paying the license fee and filing his bond, he is entitled to his license, and it is the duty of the Mayor to sign it; a duty which will be enforced by mandamus, unless the Mayor shows sufficient cause why such writ should not be issued."

CLERGYMEN DISCUSS WAR

Hold Regular Meeting at Squantum

Members of the Suffolk South association of Congregational Ministers, who held their regular meeting at the First Church of Squantum yesterday afternoon praised the attitude of President Wilson in the present strained relations with Germany and voiced their support of the administration at Washington in the crisis. Several of the younger members of the association even voiced their determination to enlist and fight if war should come between the United States and Germany.

The discussion of the war situation followed the reading of two very interesting papers as follows: "Panamericanism" by the Rev. Dr. Cady of Dorchester and "The Audacious War" by the Rev. E. H. Byington of West Roxbury. A general discussion brought out the fact that the majority of the clergymen did not favor war. They hoped that peace would prevail at any cost. They favored President Wilson's firm stand and believed that he might go so far as to end all diplomatic relations with Germany but did not favor this country entering into armed hostilities with Germany.

It was the opinion of the ministers that the situation would never reach in actual declaration of war either on the part of the United States or of Germany.

There followed a two minutes discussion by each minister of the work of his church. The report for the Squantum church was made by the Rev. T. W. Davison, its pastor. The ministers passed a resolution commending the work being done in Squantum and the resolution stated that "this work is a great thing for our denomination." Mr. Davis was highyl commended by the visitors for his community work and the fact that the church was being made a community house where practically all the social and improvement activities of the community are being carried on.

The ministers then sat down to a fine supper served by the members of the Ladies Aid of the church. After at least a dozen of the ministers had commented on the excellent spread a resolution was unanimously adopted stating that no finer repast had ever been served the association even in the largest churches of the district.

Great credit is due the Ladies Aid workers for their fine showing. The supper was handled by Mrs. James H Foster as chairman and she was assisted by Mrs. Matthew McGrain, Mrs. John R. Nelson, Mrs. Joseph Uppling Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Roger Mason, Mrs. Herman Berghaus Mrs. John Marden and Mrs. C. E Carlson.

The supper was prepared under the direction of Mrs. Berghaus whose reputation as an excellent cook is known throughout the community.

POLICE BREAK UP CAMPING

The Weymouth police arrested half a dozen men who were camping on Great Hill shore Wednesday afternoon and pulled down their makeshift quarters. The men were in court this morning on charges of trespassing and were fined $10. Sentences were suspended to June 30, 1915.

The men gave their names as Coleman, Dunlap, Lawrence O'Connell, Patrick Connolly, Cornelius Doyle and Jeremiah Murphy, and all at various times in the employ of the Bailey Fertilizer Plant at North Weymouth. It is said they were waiting for work.

The arresting squad was headed by Chief Pratt and included Patrolmen Schofield, Baker, Nash, Holmes. The police expected to corral nine men but three had left just before their arrival.

The raid according to Chief Pratt is the result of complaints made by people living in the Wessagussett section who objected to haying to pass the camp in walking along the beach. It is probable that the police will not permit any more camping out on the Great Hill Shore.

Washington, D. C., May 13—Anybody who is able to can vegetables can make grape juice, says a new publication of the United States Department of Agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin 644. The principle is the same in both cases—the sterilization of the product before it is stored away. In case of grape juice this sterilization prevents the fermentation which in making wine turns the grape sugar into alcohol.

Fermentation is caused by various fungi, yeasts, and bacteria, which adhere to the skins and stems of the grapes. IIf these are killed, no fermentation is possible. They can be killed in two ways, but one, the addition of antiseptics, is not possible in the case of any article intended for human consumption, because the antiseptics themselves are injurious. The other method, killing them by heat, is the one used in the pasteurization of milk, and is equally simple and practicable with grape juice. Practical tests indicate that grape juice is satisfactorily pasteurized without appreciable change of flavor when it is heated to a temperature varying from 165 degrees to 176 degrees F. If the temperature is allowed to reach 200 degrees F., the flavor of the juice is changed for the worse.

For home use there are a large number of varieties of grapes which will make a pleasant and healthful drink. No matter what the kind of grape, however, only clean, sound fruit should be used and it should be well ripened, but not overripe. The grapes should first be crushed and pressed in an ordinary cider-mill if the farm possesses one, or by hand if no mill is available. The subsequent procedure depends upon whether a white or a red juice is desired. For a light colored juice, the crushed grapes are put in a cloth sack and twisted until the greater part of the juice is extracted, one person holding each end of the sack. The juice is then put in some convenient form of double boiler in which it does not come into direct contact with the fire but is surrounded by hot water, and gradually heated to a temperature close of 200 degrees F. As has already been said, however, it should not be allowed to go over this point. If no thermometer is available, it is best to hvat the juice until it steams and then to take it from the fire before it is allowed to boil. It should then be poured into a glass or enamelled vessel and allowed to settle for 24 hours, after which it can be trained from the sediment and run through some form of cloth filter. The strained juice is then put into clean bottles and sterilized once more in a water bath. An ordinary wash boiler with a thin board on the bottom for the filled bottles to rest on is a convenient home device for this purpose. After sterilization the bottles should be corked immediately with new corks the corks having been previously soaked for about 30 minutes in hot water.

For red juice, the crushed grapes are first heated to the same temperature as before and then strained through a clean cloth or drip bag without pressure. Thereafter, the process is the same as for light colored juice.

Grape juice should be stored away in bottles or jars that are not too large, for after these have been opened the juice is likely to spoil. If properly made, however, the juice should keep indefinitely as long as it is kept in sealed bottles. In this respect it is, of course, like other canned goods, which should always be used as soon as possible after they have been opened.

Of the various varieties of grapes common in this country, the Deleware gives a juice of delicate aroma and excellent flavor. The Concord is darker with a sprightly taste and well known aroma. The Catawba, Isabella, and Salem grapes also yield an excellent product. The California varieties produce a very sweet juice, but in many cases there is little characteristic flavor. For home use, however, the kind of grape that is most abundant in the vicinity will, of course, be used.

BOARD OF TRADE IS SEEKING NEW LIFE

Considers Means of Making Meeting More Interesting

Construction and not destruction should be the aim of the Board of trade. This was the meat of the long discussion that followed the business session of the Board Thursday evening. Recommendations suggested by the board of directors, were adopted, which if carried out it was claimed should facilitate business and infuse new life into the organization.

During the first of the evening two were elected to membership; Robert E. Comins and Lorenzo Shields.

J. C. Mitchell representing the Copithorn Rim & Tire Co. which desires to locate its plant in Quincy and is seeking financial support, explained his product at length.

It was announced that the petition to the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners for cheaper electricity in Quincy was ready and those present who were users of electricity and dissatisfied with the present rates were asked to sign.

The building committee, which has been considering a Board of Trade building, reported progress. The railroad committee reported that it had held a conference with the officials of the New Haven railroad and that a greater part of its requests as to train service would be granted.

The recommendations of the directors were then read and were adopted. These were: first, that when the Board had a speaker at its meetings, his talk shall follow immediately the reading of the records, the regular business to be taken up later.

Second, when any new business or proposition is brought before the Board it shall immediately without discussion, be referred to its proper committee which shall report not later than the next meeting of the Board.

The Board voted to approve the plan of the directors to invite Chairman Merrill of the County Commissioners and City Engineer Sargent to explain to the directors the advantage of amending the city charter so as to provide that the county shall bear a part of the expense of maintaining main thoroughfares.

It was voted to endorse the bills recommended by the Public Service Commission which will enable the New Haven railroad to better finance its railroad.

An invitation from the North Quincy Catholic Men's club to attend its opening game Saturday was received and accepted and it was voted to attend.

John L. Hamilton, an ex-President of the Board read a poem entitled "Can Versus Can't." It was as follows:

CAN VERSUS CAN'T.

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied
That "Maybe it couldn't," but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he tried.
So he buckled right in, with a trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn' be done, and he did it.

Somebody scoffed: "Oh, you'll never do that;
At least no one ever has done it"
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat,

TO STOP LIQUOR "SMOKE TALKS"

Four Defendants Each Pay $25 Costs

Inspector Alfred W. Goodhue in closing the case in the district court against four men who conducted a smoke talk in John Ericson hall on School street at which intoxicants are alleged to have been said this morning that the aim of the police department was to stop all smoke talks in the future where liquors were served.

The members of the committee, Henry Sjolund, Andrew Johnson, Carl Johnson and Carl Bastin, were all charged with maintaining a liquor nuisance and their cases were dismissed on payment of $25 costs.

All four were members of a committee which held a benefit smoker for a well known resident of the city and according to the police the only form of entertainment provided was beer. Today was the first appearance in court for Sjolund in connection with this case. The others were arraigned last week and the hearings were continued today.

Inspector Goodhue asked for leniency because he said all four were respectable citizens and that he was satisfied that they unintentionally broke the law in trying to help a neighbor who has been confined to his bed with illness the past year. He said that all promised not to repeat the offense and that the only aim of the department was to stop smoke talks where liquor was being served.

Judge Avery said he didn't feel they should be treated as non offenders and in making his finding said that the owners of the hall must not allow it to be used for such purposes again, but that he was somewhat disposed to consider that all defendants were family man who broke the law in trying to assist a needy family.

The dismissal of the complaint with costs eliminates a criminal record which would have obtained otherwise.

THURSDAY'S COURT.

Joseph Mantia arraigned for violation of the Lord's Day and selling milk without a license. Fined $5 and costs on each complaint.

James P. King, arraigned on a charge of threat on complaint of Emily A. Cameron. Case continued to May 29.

Joseph Brault was fined $15 for drunkenness. Sentence suspended to June 30.

AUTOS CRASH IN HEAD ON COLLISION

Narrow Escape From Serious Injury By Occupants of Cars

ONE HAS STRAINED BACK

Two automobiles came together in a head-on collision Thursday evening on Independence avenue.

One side of the street is being rebuilt, making only one side for traffic. One of the cars was a Haynes touring car owned by Charles W. Jones of 299 Seaver street, Stoughton and contained besides Mr. Jones, his wife and son. It was coming toward Quincy. The other car was owned and driven by Victor Albinetti of 215 Washington street, Braintree. With him was his brother, Reo and was going toward Braintree.

The car of Mr. Jones was not badly injured but that of Albinetti was badly smashed. Mr. Albinetti had his back badly strained. Mr Jones is said to have been uninjured

TO DEAL WITH DRESS REFORM

Speaker Will Have Models To Illustrate

Hobble skirts and barbaric dressing will probably be given a "knock-out" next Wednesday evening when Miss Gutterson, chairman of the Dress Reform league of Massachusetts addresses the members of the Quincy Young Women's Club on that subject at the Recreation House at Adams Academy.

Miss Gutterson is one of the best informed women in the state on dress and many of the reforms she has advocated have been heartily received by young ladies in all parts of the state. Her address will be especially interesting since Miss Gutterson will be accompanied by models with the aid of whom she will illustrate her points.

The members are making an earnest effort to have the attendance larger than at any of the meetings of the year.

TENDER SHOWER TO MISS KEDDY

The girls of the Ledger composing room and their friends tendered Miss Lillian Keddy a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening at her home, 27 Brooks avenue. Miss Keddy within a few weeks will become the bride of Edwin J. Lenihan of the Walsh pharmacy.

Miss Keddy was visiting the home of her aunt nearby when the girls took possession of her home and her first intimation of their plans was on her return when miscellaneous articles were showered from all corners.

Singing, dancing and games were enjoyed the early part of the evening. Miss Phillis Collins presided at the piano, a duet was rendered by Miss Collins and R. Reed, and there was singing including the war song "Tipperary" by Miss Cynthia Curtis and Miss Annie Keddy. Miss Emma Adams and Miss Annie Keddy gave exhibitions of modern dancing.

The evening was brought to a close with the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Lavinia Reed, mother of the prospective bride and Miss Emma Adams.

CITY OFFICIALS GUESTS OF FLAT

His Honor Heads Chop Suey Party

Quincy"s newest business enterprise is a Chinese restaurant, which opened its doors to the public for the first time Thursday evening. It is located on the Midland hotel property at Houghs Neck, and its proprietor is Flat Wong, a diminutive smiling faced little Chinaman, who on this evening was the host at a dinner given to Mayor Campbell and a number of city officials and members of the city council.

To many Chinese food and cooking was an inovation and it was with a little shyness that they partook of the savory dishes placed before them. There were others in the party who previously had been initiated into the mysteries of Chinese food and partook of it like veterans. The menu was strictly a Chinese one, starting with chicken soup, followed by chicken omlette, chicken chop suey, Chinese preserved oranges, Chinese nuts, Chinese candy and Chinese tea, and closing with American cigars.

Wallace G. Higgins sat at the head of the table and officiated as toast master. At his right hand was Mayor Campbell, who coached him as to who should be called upon for remarks. Others in the party were City Clerk Emery L. Crane, Commissioner Moses L. Brown, city Engineer Ezekiel C. Sargent, Chief Engineer Faxon Billings, City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell, Capt. Daniel R. McKay and inspector Alfred W. Goodhue of the Police Department, Walter McKenzie of the Sewer Department, ex-Representative Michael T. Sullivan. From the city council there were Councilmen Bolster, Yule, Barnicoat, Craig, O'Dowd, Gallagher, Ross, Slade, Prescott, Griffin and Williams and Clerk of Council Magee. Others present were T. J. Collins of the Boston Globe, James E. Burke of the Ledger, James A. Keating, Robert Egan and Edward Desmond.

The speaking what there was of it was during the dinner between the courses and was started by Mayor Campbell, who thanked the proprietor for his kind invitation to be present He also told how much he enjoyed the novelty of Chinese cooking.

Following him all present were in turn called upon and each responded briefly.

Flat Wong, the proprietor, was also called upon and in quaint broken English extended his welcome and thanked the council for giving him his license. On the unanimous request of the guests he repeated his speech in the Chinese language.

The best of good humor prevailed during the dinner and not unfrequently would some remark about the burial board be hurled at the Mayor. His honor however took it good naturedly and shot back.

As several of those present were obliged to get back to City square early in order to attend committee meetings at city hall the dinner came to an end shortly after 8 o'clock.

SQUANTUMITES AGITATE FOR JITNEY BUS LINE

Are Dissatisfied With Street Car Service

A refusal on the part of the Bay State Street Railway to improve the Squantum car service is said to have resulted in an agitation for a jitney bus line to run from Squantum to Atlantic station. The matter came up at the meeting of the Squantum Improvement association and although the association did not take immediate action the sentiment of the community is being canvassed and action may be taken at the next meeting of the association.

President John R. Nelson reported that he had seen Supt. Gammons and General Manager Conway in regard to the turnout on Hancock street. For years, it is complained, people have been compelled to ride backwards from Neponset bridge to Atlantic because the company has neglected to make a turn at this corner For three years the Imp. Asso. has tried to get a curve at this point and avoid the nuisance of riding backwards for a mile. The company, it is claimed, made promise after promise and while appearing ready to take immediate steps to put in the curve no action has ever been taken. President Nelson reported that the company now refuses to take any action this year owing to the financial condition of the road.

A letter written by Secretary James H. Foster asking for early half hour service this year brought the reply from the company that the service would be started "when it was found necessary"

A number of members argued that it was time to drop the street railway company and for the association to start a jitney bus line A motion was made and passed that in a final effort to get action from the street railway a committee of three be appointed by the president to take the matter of car service before the railroad commissioners. The president has not yet appointed this committee.

It was reported by Chairman Frank Anderson of the police committee that a permanent officer had been appointed for Squantum and that he was now patrolling the beat daily. This announcement was received with applause.

The matter of gypsy moth and mosquito extermination was brought up and James H. Foster was made chairman of the mosquito committee. It was announced that the gypsy moth squad of Quincy was now spraying trees of the section. The matter of mosquito extermination will be worked jointly with the Quincy Board of Health.

It was announced that the City of Quincy would now take care of refuse and garbage collections in Squantum. Garbage collections will be made as follows: May 18, June 15, July 20, Aug 17 and Sept. 21. Residents are requested to put their rubbish out for collection on those dates.

The Parents and Teachers' Association of the Quincy school are to hold a meeting in the Assembly hall, Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. An entertainment has been under way for some time which promises to be worthy of attendance by every parent

The Adams school Parents and Teachers Association will meet this evening.

A SUPREME WORLD COURT

The "World Court Congress" convening in Cleveland May 12-14 may have no more immediate effect than the women's congress at The Hague, but it is worth while nevertheless. To reverse the old motto, "In time of war, prepare for peace."

We Americans are not so conceited and confident as we were a while ago. Still, there is little reason to doubt that the United States will have an important part to play in the restoration of peace and in the adjustment of the nation's future relations. At least, it is possible for us to play a fine, big part if we steer a wise course through the war and at the end have a definite plan, with the nation to back it. Such a gathering as that at Cleveland is calculated to do the preparatory work of clarifying opinion, forming a program and arousing public support.

The leaders of this congress propose a sort of supreme court of the world, before which all international disputes are to be taken, and whose verdict is to be as conclusive as that of our own supreme tribunal. Certainly something of the sort has to be instituted if the nations are ever to drop the crude method of settling diplomatic disputes by violence.

It must be recognized, however, that the mere establishment of such a body won't turn the trick. There is a Hague Tribunal now. Our own supreme court, which works so smoothly in settling our domestic quarrels, is effective because back of its decrees stands the chief executive, with the strong military arm of the United States to enforce them. A supreme court of the world will be powerless unless it is upheld similarly by armed force capable of compelling obedience on the part of any nation.

That does not necessarily mean the policing of the world by an army and navy greater than any existing armament. It does mean the disarmament of the world, so that a comparatively small international police force may be as effective in keeping the peace in any quarter of the earth as are our own federal or state troops in maintaining order among unarmed citizens.

It's a big task and a long journey that the World Court Congress faces; but it has at least the merit of facing in the right direction.

HELP POLAND.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, the world famous pianist, is in this country seeking to raise funds for the relief of his countrymen. Much has been written about Belgium, little about Poland, and yet Poland is just as innocent and nearly if not quite as miserable as King Albert's kingdom. Perhaps it is because Poland is not given to complaining, having suffered for centuries in war and in peace as a result of the greed of her stronger neighbors.

Paderewski gives the following concise but striking description of the conditions under which his countrymen are suffering:

"A total of 18,000,000 inhabitants, including nearly 2,000,000 Jews, are continuously enduring the horrors of this gigantic struggle. Very few only could flee to the places which are still holding their own against the aggressors The great majority, almost 11,000,000, helpless women and children, homeless peasants, unemployed workmen, the very essence and strength of a Nation, have been driven out into the open. Thousands and thousands are hiding among ruins, in woods or in hollows, feeding on roots and on the bark of trees."

The government is wise in setting aside certain western oil lands as a petroleum reserve for the navy. Until the millennium comes, we shall need fuel for warships, and the tendency is steadily toward the use of oil-burners for power and speed. It is as satisfying to realize that that item of conversation is taken care of as it is for the interior department to know that it has coal enough in its thousand acre reserve at Williston, N. D., to run its irrigation plant there for several hundred years.

Somehow the arms and ammunition factories do not seem to be worried about the war.

MAYOR PREPARES "KIDS" OUTING

Mayor Campbell announces that the annual outing to the crippled and orphaned children of Greater Boston which he has directed for the past eight years will take place on Wednesday, June 9th, at Nantasket Beach. He plans to entertain over 1800 of these unfortunate "kiddies" and it will require a fleet of over 500 motor cars to transport them to and from Nantasket.

"Outing Day" is the big day of the year for Mayor Campbell. No event in his business or social life during the year gives him greater pleasure and no event keeps him more on the jump, for it is some task to entertain 1800 children and bring them back to their "homes" safely.

A Ledger reporter happened in Mayor Campbell's office in Boston and there got a good idea of the job that Quincy's chief executive has on his hands. Every clerk in his office is busy preparing for the outing. In fact, the entire office force will be on the job for a month. In that time over 500 automobiles will have to be secured and something like $2000 in cash raised by subscription. In addition to the entertainment of the children there will be about five hundred drivers who will be entertained. A set of athletic games is usually the form of entertainment for the grown up males and these afford them a lot of fun. Valuable prizes are offered.

Almost a ton of candy, pop corn and peanuts are provided for the youngsters. Luncheon is served at one of the big dining rooms at Nantasket while rides on the roller coasters and merry go rounds form a part of the program.

Not a single detail is overlooked by Mayor Campbell and as a result the outings in the past have been a huge success and when the automobiles arrived back at their destination it was with a tired but happy crowd of "kiddies."

Eight years ago when automobiles were mightly scarce Mayor Campbell originated the children's outing. It was a huge success and each year it has grown. In many of the large cities the automobile associations have taken over the Campbell idea and conducted similar outings for these little shut-ins.

Mayor Campbell has sent out thousands of letters urging automobile owners to donate their car with a driver for this day. The Boston Automobile Dealers loan several hundred cars but as this is not sufficie to take care of the crowd an appeal is made to the private owner. In his letter he urges those who can't arrange to loan their car to send in donations to this office at 5 Park Square, Boston. Credit for the loan of cars or cash donations will be announced in the Boston and Quincy newspapers.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

"A Saturday Nighter" is in store for the senior members tomorrow evening. A number of the fellows are wondering what is going to happen so it is expected a good number will be out to find out. It is hoped that this will be a fore-runner of many good times this summer.

The president of the association is in receipt of a challenge from the employed officers of the association to a bowling match, the board to select any four men it chooses. It is hoped that the challenge will be accepted in the near future as the employed officers are confident of proving their right to a title of champions.

The meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the association will take place this afternoon. This will be the annual meeting with the election of officers for the ensuing year and a large number of friends as well as the regular members are expected to be present.

The pool tournament for the senior members is drawing to a close with but two more plays to play off the match. The prize for the winner is on exhibition and is drawing considerable attention.

Brockton association is to be visited by the members of the Bicycle club of the Boys' Division in the very near future. The boys have been looking forward to this trip for some time and are sure to be pleased with the new building the boys of Brockton enjoy. Many more such trips are to be planned during the summer with some possible over night trips.

Baseball is drawing the interest of all the members of the association. The men as well as the boys are to be seen out in the vacant lot in the rear of the association, warming up and having great fun in the national game. It is to be regretted that the Association has no large field adjoining the building which the members might use for tennis and other games.

MACHINISTS WIN 16 TO 1

The Fore River Sunset base ball league opened Thursday evening with the Machinists defeating the Blacksmiths to the good old Democratic score of 16 to 1. The winners found Remick a cinch and knocked him to all corners of the field while the best the Machinists could do was a hit off of each of the pitchers sent in against them.

The score by innings:

Machinists	4	2	3	3	4	x	—16	14	1
Blacksmiths	0	0	0	0	1	1	—1	2	5

Batteries—Peedle, McGoldrich and Gould; Remick and Buckley, Ward.

Talking of heavy hitting those Montclair boys in the National league of grammar school base ball are some hickory wielders. Seventeen runs against Cranch school Thursday is quite a mark on their trophy belt.

LITTLE CHANGE IN LOCAL MARKETS

Prices of Early Spring Vegetables Have Dropped A Bit

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

But little change is noted in the local markets, prices as a rule being practically the same as a week ago, so far as meats and fish are concerned. As for early spring vegetables the price has dropped a little. Today the prices are such as to be within the reach of most people. Strawberries of course have been rather high during the past few weeks but the price of this delicious dessert has not yet reached the lowest point by any means. Today fine, sound berries can be had for 18 cents a box, extra fine berries for 22 cents. Two for 25 cents is about as cheap as berries ever get.

Cucumbers are getting plentiful and good solid "cukes" can be bought today for seven cents although ten cents is being charged in some stores. The seven cent variety however are all right and one is perfectly safe in buying them.

Another delicious summer vegetable which is getting plentiful is asparagus and today this is probably as low as it will be. Good grass can be bought for 12 cents, a little better for 13 cents. The latter is claimed to be native grass and is selling two bunches for 25 cents.

Tomatoes are not very plentiful. The time is near at hand when good Southern tomatoes will be coming in more plentifully. Today there is but little demand for them.

There is plenty of fruit at reasonable prices. Oranges are not in much demand but there are bananas, pineapples, etc., in great abundance. Of course there are plenty of oranges in the market but the demand for them has fallen off considerably.

The reports from the big Boston markets show but little change. The weakness of the New York butter market continues to exert an unsettling effect and buyers are more cautious than they have been. Receipts of dairy butter have not been heavy but are expected to show a big increase the coming week so that dealers are trying to keep sold up with the anticipation that with the increase of receipts prices will drop. Supplies of eggs are plentiful and are probably as low as they will be for some time. The demand for eggs has fallen off steadily since the close of the Lenten season, yet there is always a healthy demand.

There is but little imported cheese coming in owing to the war conditions which is the reason why the price for fancy foreign cheese remains high. There seems but little prospect of prices dropping in the very near future.

Flour, owing to the demand of foreign countries, still continues high. The substitutes for flour which were so much talked of a few weeks ago are a thing of the past. Among the European armies black bread is the rule and while the soldiers in the field readily devour it the families at home find that it requires considerable exertion to get it down.

Taking the general market conditions as a whole things are a little quiet although local business men report business as being fairly brisk. One who visits any of the local stores will find special bargains every day. Careful buyers should also read carefully the advertisements of local dealers which always appear in the Friday and Saturday editions of the Ledger. It is the wise housekeeper who watches the advertising columns and takes advantage of the bargains offered.

Reports from the fish wharfs in Boston are to the effect that the supply of fresh fish is good this week and with one or two exceptions is reasonable. Receipts of mackerel are running larger than at any other time this season, the larger ones weighing in the vicinity of three pounds and in most cases selling at 22 and 23 cents. Bluefish and shad are also more plentiful and cheaper, salmon and butterfish being practically the only varieties that are not plentiful. Haddock is also a little scarce but fancy varieties are getting down to moderate figures.

Several smacks, loaded to the gunwales with lobsters, have arrived this week and the Nova Scotia steamers have also brought in a good supply. Most of the lobsters which came in by smacks however are not for immediate supply but will be used to stock cars of the various dealers in preparation for the summer demand, as the close season on lobster fishing in Nova Scotia is effective soon after June 1.

The latest issue of the Weekly News Letter of the United States Department of Agriculture contains the following on Strawberry distribution:—

A recent survey of the production and marketing of strawberries in the United States, made by the department, indicates that the eight most important commercial strawberry districts are central California, Tennessee, Maryland, Delaware, southern Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Virginia, and the Ozarks. In 1914, 1905 carloads of strawberries were shipped from central California. Lesser quantities were shipped from the other districts, which are named in the order of their importance. From the Ozarks came 748 carloads last year.

The authors of the survey, which is published in Bulletin 237 of the department, "Strawberry Supply a Distribution in 1914," point out, however, that the North plays a more important part in the strawberry industry than these figures might indicate. Great quantities of berries are grown in the North in small patches and shipped to market by trolley, express, or in the producer's own wagon. Only a very small portion of northern-grown berries are concentrated into carload lots, the basis for the Government survey. In the South, however, on the Pacific coast, where berries are shipped long distances, it is economical to arrange to have them sent by carloads.

The bulletin already mentioned contains a list of all shipping stations in the United States where carload shipments originate, together with the number of carloads sent out in 1914. From this list it appears that there was a grand total of 14,553.2 carloads of strawberries shipped commercially in 1914. Of these 2,312 came from California, the State's closest competitor being Tennessee with a total of 1,571.5.

Another chart in the bulletin shows the duration of the shipping seasons in the various sections. Strawberries begin to leave central Florida as early as December, and the movement continues until the end of March. By the first of March the first strawberries from southern Texas and southern California find their way to the market. About the middle of March the Louisiana crop begins to move, continuing about two months, or until the middle of May. May is, indeed, the great month for carload shipments. By far the greatest part of the Tennessee and Virginia crop is shipped at that time, as well as much of the Deleware, southern Illinois, and Maryland supply. By the end of June southern California is almost the only area from which carload shipments are being made. The strawberries then on the market are chiefly grown in small quantities in areas close to the great consuming sections.

SPORTING COMMENT.

Tomorrow the sale closes

But one day left in which to take advantage of what is generally conceded to be the most successful piano sale ever held.

Copyright, 1914. Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

Tomorrow, it's all over. Tomorrow night at 10 o'clock when the store closes, this sale closes.

One hundred and twenty-five pianos and seventy-five player-pianos will have been sold.

And more.

As, for two or three days, we have been taking orders for two or three styles which have been entirely sold.

But that was the understanding. That is what kept this sale open until Saturday night—so that we could appoint a definite time at which to close it and give every person a fair and equal opportunity to take advantage of it.

Had we closed the sale when the assortment of styles became broken, it would have been closed during the middle of the week.

But we arranged with the Bacon Piano Company to supply us with such additional instruments as we would need to fill all orders taken up to and including Saturday night at the close of business.

Thus, with this concession from the Bacon Piano Company, you are as well off tomorrow, the last day of the sale, as you were the first day, as far as the completeness of the stock is concerned.

You may have to wait three or four days upon the delivery of your instrument, if you select one of three or four styles---that is all.

But well can you afford to wait, to obtain the advantages of this sale. You could wait indefinitely, for advantages like these.

However, you will not have to wait but three or four days at the outside, and then only in event you select a style which has been entirely sold.

But you can come in here tomorrow and lay down a $5 bill, and share in the advantages of this unprecedented sale, just as well as you could on the opening day.

This sale is being conducted simultaneously in 16 of the largest mercantile establishments in the United States.

It was inaugurated by the largest piano industries in the country to counteract a lull in the piano business, due to the war in Europe and unnecessary pessimistic talk at home.

The central idea of the sale, was that pianos could be sold now in just as large numbers as they ever were---

If they were sold for less than they were ever sold before;

If smaller payments were taken than were ever taken before;

If more liberal conditions of sale were given than were ever given before

And with this as a starting point, the following plan was worked out, and became the basis of this sale:

First: $350 pianos would be sold for $266.

Second: $550 player-pianos would be sold for $413.

Third: The first payment would be reduced to five dollars.

Fourth: The first year's payments on pianos would be placed at one dollar a week.

Fifth: The first year's payments on player-pianos would be placed at one dollar and 75 cents a week.

Sixth: You would not have to pay interest on account of the long time you were given in which to make your payments.

Seventh: Your money would be refunded after a thirty days' trial if the instrument you selected was not satisfactory.

Eighth: You would be permitted to exchange your instrument if it was not satisfactory, at any time within one year, without incurring loss or extra expense.

Ninth: You would be given a five-year unconditional guarantee; the strongest ever placed upon any piano or player-piano.

Tenth: And last, but not least, we would make it a practice to cancel the accounts of those purchasers who should be so unfortunate as to die before their payments had been paid in full, provided their accounts were up to date at the time of death.

CAUSE OF FIRE IS NOT KNOWN

A telephone call was received at the central fire station at 9 o'clock Thursday night for a slight fire in the upper part of the cottage of William Andrews at 74 Palmer street.

The fire started from some unknown cause among the paper boarding with which the room was sheathed.

The fire was discoveerd by Mrs. Andrews when she went up stairs. She not only detected the odor of smoke but heard the crackling of flames. She immediately telephoned the central fire station. Chief Billings responded with the ladder truck and ordered the Atlantic chemical and Houghs Neck apparatus to respond. The department by quick and efficient work soon had the fire under control.

AT THE THEATRE

The Photo play attraction at Kinguide's last night was "A Gentleman of Leisure" in five reels. The whole bill will be repeated today and tomorrow. The gentleman in question makes a bet with some of his chums that he can burgle a house. Securing the aid of a notorious housebreaker, he proceeds to win. It seems he has fallen a victim to the charms of a fair unknown, and chance ordains it that it is her home they invade. Events and complications follow close upon one another, bringing in a good deal of fun, excitement, and love.

The other motion pictures were a comedy, "The Idle Rich," and another, "Exploits of Elaine." This last exploit is replete with clever devises and unusual scenery.

The vaudeville is good. Kelley and Kelley entertain with a comic song, and witty dialogue.

The two Fohns did some extremely clever juggling. They juggled everything from harmless bouncing balls to murderous looking hatchets. The jewelled instruments they used, with the colored lights thrown on them deserve special mention.

"The Girl in the Bungalow" was a musical skit, well sung, and well carried out.

"JUST FOR FUN" BIG SUCCESS

Merriment Reigns Supreme as Play Develops

"Just for Fun, a three act farce, presented in Colonial hall Thursday evening to a crowded house by the members of St. Margarets Guild did not belie its title. The amusing situations developed early in the first act, continued throughout the second and closed in an uproar of laughter and applause in the third act, with two couples who had loved each other gaining permission from a dignified but designing aunt to marry. The cast:

Time—The present—New York City.

The story is based on the visit of the girls, Lord Chelsea and Jack Earl to Mrs. De Smythe. The former couple, knowing the designs of the aunt, exchange places and in a spirit of fun the men do the same. The deception is kept up until the second act when the maid-servant, with the assistance of her friend "Dinnie" secures a photograph of the real Lord Chelsea and shows it to Mrs. De-Smythe. When she informs her niece the latter assures her that all will turn out right. From then on Aunt Mandeville attempts to thwart the progress of the love match between the real earl and real heiress so the hoir's friend will be the favored one.

The denouement i nthe last act was accompanied by hearty discomfiture of the designing aunt and her subsequent acceptance of what was inevitable.

The play was presented under the direction of Erastus Osgood to whom much credit should be accorded.

Mrs. Charles M. Chase, who played the roll of the would-be society leader was not only the dignified woman with social aspirations but also possessed the yearnings not infrequently found in the fair sex. She took the part in a most agreeable style.

Miss Annie McLean, the heiress who changed places with her friend simply to escape being a centre of attention because of her wealth, filled her part most capably and wore with becoming grace a natural modesty which illumined her character.

Miss Ethel Schools, whose part was more active because she posed as the heiress, gave a fine interpretation and with proper feminine insistence won her way from her aunt and to the hearts of her audience.

Violet Spargo, with a touch of the brogue and the assurance of a maid servant who knows all of the gossip and does not hesitate to advise even on family matters played a comedy part all of her own. Her work was much enjoyed.

James E. Smith, with all the characteristics reputed to belong to the English, carried his part so well the audience followed his movements most earnestly. He was a handsome and devoted lover of Miss McLean.

Stanley Ross, a 17 year old South Quincy boy, was the real comedian of the evening and was happy-go-lucky in every sense of the word. An American by birth, his exchange in life's station with Lord Chelsea brought him to many amusing situations because of frequent lapses into Americanisms and his ready assumption of the English ""dontcha know" when he realized it created no end of laughter. He was admirably fitted to the part.

All of the characters, excepting the men were given handsome bouquets of roses.

Dancing followed the performance, music being furnished by the Wollaston Cadet orchestra. The members of the guild sold candy, ushered and were the aids during the dancing. Those who assisted were the Misses Emily Moyle, Violet Malcolm, Cora Barnicoat, Helen Schools, Mildred Smith, Mary Hogan, Ethel Ball, Bertha Wallace, Florence Ford, Lena Allen, Olive Smith.

WHIST PARTY

A well attended whist party in Electa hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the degree team of Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., returned high scores. The souvenirs were awarded to Jeremo Gates, Albert Williams, Mrs. Edith Nelson, Miss May O'Neil, Mrs George Spooner and J. M. Ellison.

BOARD OF TRADE

And the first thing we knew he'd begun it;
With the lilt of his chin, and a bit of a grin,
Without any doubting or "quiddit";
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done,
There are thousands to prophesy failure;
There are thousands to point out to you, one by one,
The dangers that wait to asail you.
But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Then take off your coat and go to it;
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
That "cannot be done," and you'll do it.

He urged every man to get his neighbor to come to the meetings. The Board of Trade should be supported and made alive. "What we want is to put the spirit of can into it," he declared. "We should get together and do something."

Rev. Mr. Hudson said that the Board of Trade should represent the growth and progress of the city. "Quincy is a city of remarkable attractiveness but has one drawback, its high tax rate," he remarked. "It is a city of dignity that stands for something in the way of character, the only difficulty is the lack of energetic, hopeful optimism. We should lay aside that disposition to tear down and build up. We need to get together and help build up. The Board of Trade is a most important thing for Quincy, if it starts out with a fixed determination. It should be active, forcible and energetic.

"If each member tries to build the other up, to help other business enterprises, there is no reason why Quincy can not be one of the best cities in the state. I regret the little disposition there seems to be to tear down. If we will say that we will co-operate with every man who is trying to do something we will prosper. If we get that spirit of co-operation we will ffave no difficulty in filling this room. We want it to be understood that we are here to build up and not tear down. There are a number of things we should have. For one, I should like to see sessions of the higher court held here in Quincy. If we seek to construct rather than destroy we will find that men will work together."

President Fegan said that with a membership of 366 he was sorry not to see more present. He believed with the new rules of procedure that in the future more interest would result in the meetings. "We are all anxious to make the Board of Trade a help and force for the uplifting of Quincy." He said that he felt encouraged with the support which he had been given and believed that the Board would be appreciated for what it was doing and trying to accomplish. "We should be the nucleus of a movement that will make itself felt."

John F. Scott said that he believed there would be one good speaker at each meeting. This would create an interest and would bring out a good attendance.

Several others present offered suggestions on how to make the meetings more interesting and better attended. Later in the evening it was voted to appoint a committee of twenty to see each member of the Board and ask them why it was that they did not attend.

OUTHITTING BRINGS VICTORY.

Heavy hititng and base running gave the Montclairs a 17 to 4 victory over the Cranch school at Merrymount park Thursday afternoon. The Montclairs used three pitchers with marked effect, Pope, Mellenson and Miller. Olson, known as "senior" in grammar school circles, proved to be a wide mark for the heavy hitting Montclair boys. The score by innings:

Montclair	6	1	0	0	6	4	—17

PLAN OUTDOOR FETE.

The annual outdoor fete of the St. Chrysostom's church on June 17 will be "Paragon at Home" and plans are to turn the grounds into a brilliantly lighted festival scene. Supplementing the open air program will be a minstrel show which will be given in the parish house. Many of the societies of the church have appointed committees to co-operate and the vestry at its meeting Thursday evening took similar action.

To the Business Men of Quincy

Business fights shy of dead towns. A sure sign of a dead one is the lack of local pride. People who live in a live, prosperous town show it. Their stores are attractive, their streets clean, their homes are well painted.

Nothing shows a lack of pride, a lack of prosperity, like paint-hungry buildings.

Let's paint up. As the most durable and economical paint, we recommend

Beyer-Bauman White Lead
(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)

and pure linseed oil, mixed right on the job, to suit the job. Have your painter tint it any color you wish.

We carry all other paint necessaries also. Consult us on that job of painting you have in mind. Today's the day.

VISITING NURSING.

Through a misplacement of copy the report of the work of Visiting Nursing in Quincy carried on through the Visiting Nurse committee of the Quincy Women's club (its oldest and best official work) was omitted in Wednesday's Ledger in the report of the annual meeting of the club, only the financial report appearing.

A careful reading should be accorded the report as given below, prepared by Mrs. N. S. Hunting, chairman of the committee.

During the past year, the work of the Visiting Nurse has grown in many ways. Not only does the increase show in the number of visits made, but in the expenses, the receipts, and even in the number of nurses. The expenses increased over $300, the receipts $18, and we now have two and a half nurses, instead of two, for at last the time has come, when even Quincy Hospital can spare a nurse for half a day, every day but Sunday, for a six weeks training in district nursing. In this way we are getting the services of an extra nurse in the district work, and the Hospital courses, in their third year are getting some experience in home nursing. Thus the benefit is neutral.

We feel very grateful to Miss Hill, the superintendent of the Quincy Hospital for her interest in this good work, and her help in bringing it about. The first Hospital nurse began her service Nov. 1 under the supervision of our head nurse, Miss McEwan. The pupil nurses are not paid for their services by the club, but their car fare is paid and they are supplied with whatever they may need in their work. They make three or four visits each morning, at first with one of the regular nurses, and afterwards alone. During April the Hospital nurse made 96 visits. They turn in to the head nurse any fees they may secure for their work.

Last October a cabinet and cards were bought for keeping a card-catalogue of the patients and a history of the cases. This enables the nurses to keep a record of the work in a more systematic and efficient way. Weekly and monthly reports are made to the Visiting Nurse committee. On account of the increase in the work and responsibility, the salary of the head nurse was raised from 60 to 70 dollars a month, beginning last October.

During June and July, Miss Lyons, a graduate of the Instructive District Nursing Asso. of Boston, took the place of Miss McEwan, who was convalescing after an operation. Miss Perry did not return after her vacation in August, and Miss Lyons took her place until Oct. 1 when Miss Coleman came.

The Visiting Nurse afternoon at the club was held Dec. 8. The speakers were Miss Mary Brand, director of the Instructive District Nursing Asso. of Boston, and Miss Purchase of the Quincy Associated Charities. Miss Brand holds a position of great responsibility, and is deeply interested in Public Health Nursing, that being the subject of her talk. She spoke most interestingly and earnestly of the work under her supervision, giving particular attention to the prenatal work and its beneficial results in the crowded tenement districts of Boston. But little of this work has been done as yet by our Quincy nurses, but it is hoped, that there will be more of it in the future.

Miss Purchase spoke on Co-operation among the various philanthropies of Quincy. And her words have certainly borne fruit, for there has been most cordial co-operation between the Associated Charities, the district and school nurses. Since the school nurse began her work on February 1st our district nurses have made quite a number of calls for her. There were 18 in March and 25 in April.

This has been a most fortunate year financially in spite of the fact that the subscriptions were $200 dollars less than the amount of last year. Our old friends did not forget us and new ones were added to the list.

We are very grateful to the Wollaston Woman's club for a splendid gift of $100. To Mr. Theophilus King, who celebrated his birthday by placing in trust the sum of $1,000, the income of which, about $50, is to be paid yearly to the Visiting nurse fund. He also sent a check of $25 for our immediate use. And this was not the only Quincy Philanthropy to be aided by his generosity.

The first interest from the Morton fund has been received during the year, and this with the interest from the King fund will amount to almost a hundred dollars a year for the Visiting Nurse fund. Unity Circle King's Daughters again remembered us with a check for $50 which was greatly appreciated.

The little Katharyn Crane Memorial club deserves especial mention, not only giving $10, but later, in the Christmas vacation arranging a most successful dancing party, the proceeds of which, $57, were presented to ing Nurse fund. Unity Circle King's G. Saville's Music Talk given in November for our benefit, was a very interesting entertainment, and brought us $20.

Donations of old linen, gowns, infant clothing, fruit, jelly, malted milk and drugs have been received during the year, and are gratefully acknowledged. The Fragment Society of First Church contributed a large box of infant clothing beautifully made, which the nurses have found most useful in some of the needy families. Another very useful gift was a package of weekly reports, presented by the Misses Prescott. These were enough to last two years.

The total number of visits made by the nurses during the year is 4166. 68 First calls in obstetrics; the number of free and pay patients was about equally divided. The nurses collected over $600 in fees. $247. paid by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for visits to their policy holders and a check of $80.50 is now due from them for visits made in April.

Adding this to our balance we shall have $333.01 to turn over to the incoming committee with our best wishes.

SHORT CUT EQUALS VERY COLD BATH

While taking a short cut across the Dr. Everett estate on Miller Stile road Thursday evening a Boston young man, who calls once in awhile on a Quincy Point young woman fell headlong into the brook which runs through the property and took his first cold plunge of the season.

He left shortly after 11 o'clock and because of the fine night decided to disregard the advise of the young woman to take a car, and he started up Washington street, walking at a quick pace. Unfortunately he turned on to Elm street instead of continuing. He had gone but a short distance however when he realized he was on the wrong course and from a passerby he learned he could continue down Elm street and up Miller tSile road and that he had only a few minutes to spare. Breaking into a run ran along Elm street until he spotted the bend in the road. Figuring on a short cut he started across the estate.

Running between piles of lumber and stone being used in constructing houses on the estate he safely passed the skirmish line but the heavy shadows from trees hid the brook from view and he stepped into space.

He gave one shrill cry for help as he struck the water. On attempting to swim he discovered he was not in danger but he did not delay reaching the bank from which he had unwittingly jumped. Making his way down the wall he reached the sidewalk on Miller stile where he haled a passing auto and was taken to City Square. When the last train left Quincy station he was observed shivering on a seat in the smoker with the results of his adventure oozing on the floor.

BULLET WOUND IN HEAD CAUSES DEATH

Act of George A. Stearns Believed Suicidal

The dead body of George A. Stearns aged 50 years of 215 Granite street, was found shortly after 7 o'clock Friday night in an out building off Parker street, with a bullet wound in his head. On the floor near the body was a revolver with one chamber empty.

The building is one that is but little used and it was merely by accident that boys entered it Friday night. As they pushed open the door they were horrified to see the body of a man, evidently dead. The police were notified and Capt. McKay was soon on the spot. In the absence of Medical Examiner Jones Associate Medical Examiner Higgins of Randolph was summoned. After viewing the body he said that the man had evidently been dead a day or more.

Inquiry at the Stearns' home brought out the fact that he had left home Thursday morning and had not been seen since.

Stearns was a very conscientious man and every little thing worried him. Recently he took the agency for the sale of nursery stock, and it is supposed by the police that he worried over business and determined to end it all.

He was never married but resided with his step-mother Mrs. Nancy J. Stearns, who is 90 years of age. Mr. Stearns was a son of the late Levi Stearns and for many years was employed as a granite blacksmith. Of late years however he has not followed any regular business.

SURPRISE MR. & MRS. KNOWLES

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Knowles of Bedford street while calling on a neighbor Friday night were suddenly called home and on their arrival found their house in the posession of some forty of their friends. Before they had time to recover from their surprise George Forsythe in behalf of those who were there presented them with a beautiful brown leather chair in honor of the fifth aniversary of their wedding. Mr and Mrs. Knowles expressed their sincere appreciation.

During the evening Miss Edith Avery presided at the piano and gave many enjoyable selections. Charles Avery rendered some pleasing solos. Duets were sung by Miss Williamena Laing and Miss Edith Avery, a solo by little Jackie Knowles and singing by those present. Games were played and a general good time enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cowe, Mr. and Mrs. George Forsythe, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Knowles Mr. and Mrs. James Birnie, Mr. and Mrs. Van Reiswood, Mr. and Mrs. Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. McIntoch, Mr. and Mrs. Walker, Mr. Alexander Kemp, Mrs. Alexander Howie, Mrs. Tytler, Mrs. Scarbourgh, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Laing, Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Langdon, Misses Irma Moody, Annie Birnie, Ruth Tytler, Susan Tytler, Annie Laing, Katherine Laing and Edith Avery, Williaema Laing, Charles Avery, John Tytler, Verna Birnie, Jackie and Robert Knowles.

R. F. ANDREWS IS CANDIDATE

Richard F. Andrews, a prominent real estate dealer in Roxbury, has decided to become a candidate for the Governor's Council to take the place now filled by the Hon. Guy A. Ham, of Milton, and formerly held by the Hon. Charles W. Guy of this city. Mr. Andrews has been in the real estate and insurance business for twenty-seven years in this district and is therefore well known to the public. He was a member of the Boston Common Council from Ward 21 in 1893-4-5, a Member of the House of Representatives from this ward in 1897-8-9, was Chairman of the Republican Ward Committee in 1899 and 1900 and at present is a member of the Republican States Central Committee from the 8th Suffolk District which includes Ward 21 of Roxbury and Ward 20 of Dorchester.

Mr. Andrews has been prominently connected with many organizations and is a member of the Sons of Veterans, Republican Club of Massachusetts, Middlesex Club, Roxbury Historical Society, Roxbury Charitable Society, Boston Real Estate Exchange Algonquin Club, Institution for Savings in Roxbury and the Roxbury Board of Trade. He is also a director in the Joseph Warren Cooperative Bank.

The Councillor District in which Mr. Andrews is to be a candidate includes Wards 20-21-23-24 and 26 of Boston and also the first Bristol and first and second Norfolk Senatorial Districts in which latter district Quincy is included.

The supporters of Mr. Andrews in this section are already very active in his behalf and it is believed that he is going to carry on a very vigorous campaign.

RAID SHANTY.

Police Seize Small Quantity of Liquor

Patrolmen Farrell and Malone raided a shanty near the Quincy Adams station after midnight, seized a small quantity of liquor contained in seven bottles and arrested Tony Leon, 28 years, of Braintree, on a charge of drunkenness. Two South Quincy girls who were in the place were also taken. In court this morning Leon was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction. He appealed and sureties were set at $300. The girls were dismissed by Judge Avery.

The windows on the southerly side of city hall have been supplied with window flower boxes and look very attractive.

QUINCY MAN ON "TRANSYLVANIA"

Friends Anxiously Await Fate of Vessel Entering War Zone

WORKED AT FORE RIVER

Among the third class passengers on the steamship "Transylvania" which is expected to enter the war zone today where the steamship Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk last week was Hugh J. Jordan of Quincy.

Jordan was employed for some time at the Fore River shipyard and was one of the gang of men sent to Montreal, some months ago to work on submarines Recently he returned to Quincy from Montreal but being unable to obtain employment at the Fore River yards he determined to return to his former home in England. He therefore sailed on the "Transylvania." He has many friends at the Fore River yard who are anxiously waiting word from the vessel.

The steamship is expected to reach the war zone sometime this afternoon. No word has been received from her by the Boston office of the Cunard line but the London office expects to receive word by tonight.

THE WEATHER.

Dame fashion has decreed that today shall be the official straw hat day. What dame fashion decrees goes and it will be perfectly proper therefore to don the straw today. It will of course also be the proper thing to wear one of the 1915 models, which most people will evidently do although some straws of a vintage of ten years ago will doubtless make their appearance should the weather come out good and hot. The Weather Man has promised to come to the rescue and give us some delightful weather conditions with a clear sky and moderate temperature.

ARREST QUINCY AUTOMOBILIST ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Abraham Boutin Dies From Injuries Received When Struck By Auto

Abraham Boutin, aged 71 years, of 79 Adams street, was struck by an automobile driven by Thomas Skinner aged 28 years of 50 Stewart street, a portable garage manufacturer, on Hancock street near the corner of Dimmock sreet, and received injuries from which he died two hours later at the City Hospital.

Skinner was immediately placed under arrest by Capt. McKay on a technical charge of assault. This was later changed to manslaughter. Skinner was admited to bail by Frank A. Tirrell in the sum of $2,000 his bondsmen being Harold Brooks, his business partner, and Andrew S. Odem.

Thomas B. Davenport, employed at the jewelry store of C. F. Pettingill who was an eye witness to the accident, says that it took place on Hancock street nearly opposite Dimmock street. In speaking of it he says that he was walking up Hancock street just back of Mr. Boutin. An electric car pulled in from Wollaston and stopped at the switch. As it did so the conductor beckoned to Mr. Boutin to get on and ride to city quare. Mr. Boutin smiled but hesitated to accept the invitation.

The conductor again beckoned to Mr. Boutin who then stepped off of the sidewalk and started toward the car. He had gone but a few feet when he saw the approaching automobile. This apparently confused him for he stopped and seemed undecided whether to keep on or turn back. The automobile was then but a few feet away. Mr. Boutin then jumped up in the air and as he did so the automobile struck him in the stom ach throwing him over backward, his head striking the ground. When the automobile was stopped he was underneath the car.

Mr. Davenport, Francis M. Curtis and several street employees who were at work near by rushed to the spot and lifted the automobile from him. Mr. Davenport further says that he did not notice particularly about the speed of the automobile.

Several of the city employees were asked in regard to the accident but none of them claimed to have seen it as they were working on the opposite side of the street.

Dr. Gordon and Dr. Sheehan, the first physicians to arrive immediately ordered the injured man removed to the City Hospital where he was taken in Hall's ambulance. The police ambulance is out of commission at the present time and there was some little delay in getting an ambulance.

On his arrival at the City Hospital it was found that he had sustained a fracture of the skull and was probably internally injured. He was placed on the dangerous list and died shortly after noon.

Skinner says, according to the police, that he was going toward Boston in his automobile, at a speed of about 6 miles an hour. He says he was on the right side of the street but an electric car stopped directly in front of him and at the same time two automobiles came toward him on the wrong side of the street. For that reason, he says, he turned to the left side of the street to pass the electric car and did not see Mr. Boutin until he struck him.

Mr. Boutin was well known about City square. Up to the time that Fred French was taken to a sanitarium some months ago,, Mr. Boutin was his constant companion, living at that time at the Hancock house. Later he moved to 79 Adams street where he was now making his home. He was rather feeble and used a cane and it is thought that he was so intent on taking the electric car that he did not use his usual caution.

Mr. Boutin had two daughters, Ardelle who is said to reside in Lowell and Carrie who resides in Malden. He was also the father of Herbert Boutin, of East Milton, who died some two years ago as a result of injuries in an automobile accident.

COLUMBIA RIVER OPENED.

How many Americans were acquainted with the fact that the Columbia River is second only to the Mississippi in size? The facts brought to light in connection with the opening of the Dalles-Celilo canal remind us once more of the vastness and variety of our national domain.

The construction of this canal, after ten years of cutting through eight miles of solid rock around the rapids at Big Eddy, Oregon, has opened a country of 300,000 square miles to water traffic and added four hundred miles to our total of navigable streams This new waterway removes the last barrier to the navigation of the Columbia River and its main upper tributary, the Snake, from Lewiston, Idaho, to the Pacific oecan, a distance of five hundred miles, and opens the Columbia itself to transportation as far as Priest River rapids in Washington about four hundred and fifty miles from the sea

Thus is realized a hope that has found expression in the Northwest ever since the earliest pioneer times and the exploring expedition of Lewis and Clark in 1805. Such an achievement is well worth the cost, which is variously estimated as from five to six million dollars. If the Priest River and the Kettle Falls rapids are similarly dealt with, the Columbia River will be navigable as far as Revelstoke, British Columbia, a distance of nearly a thousand miles.

The completed Dalles-Celilo canal alone opens an empire to larger settlement and development. Hereafter the great Columbia River, until now navigable but little more than a hundred miles, will be famous for more than its myriad salmon which, after being netted and canned, are eaten in every hamlet of the United States and shiped to every part of the world.

Rev. and Mrs. Willis H. Germany were certainly made to feel at home in Quincy by the reception tendered them Wednesday evening by Mr. Germany's parishioners.

A soldier recently had his skull so badly injured by bullets that it was found necessary to remove one third of his brain. He recovered and is now just the same as before the operation. Is this a compliment to the man's thinking apparatus or otherwise?

Robert S. Gaskill new general secretary of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. is to address the men of the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday at 12.15. All men invited.

The Verdict
—convincingly and overwhelmingly for Goodrich.

This company alone through the daily press of January 31st gave to the consuming public the most sweeping reduction ever made in tire prices. This established the only genuine Fair-List in existence on non-skid tires today.

Goodrich prices were dated February 1st in ordinary course. Other tires were reduced in prices a few days later and the reduction dated back to February 1st.

Every real price-reduction on tires has followed the lead of Goodrich.

As always, Goodrich policy and Goodrich methods first gave the tire user the benefit of reduced prices.

We lowered tire cost for every tire user when we did that.

We were more than content to await the verdict

And that verdict is overwhelmingly and convincingly in favor of Goodrich Tires and of Goodrich Fair-List prices.

We knew that the tire user was buying mileage-service—he was buying what the tires would do for him, rather than so much bulk rubber and fabric.

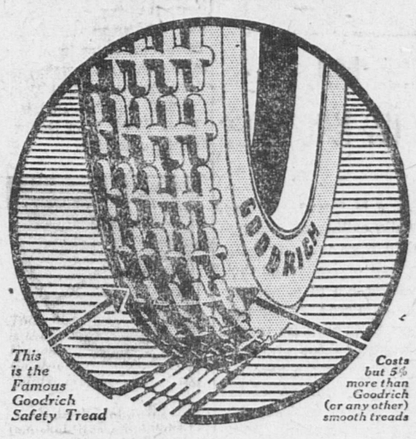

We knew what our long years of rubber manufacture and tire-making had taught us.

We knew we were making tires which had exactly the right amount of rubber and the right quantity of fabric to deliver exactly the right kind of service.

We knew that too much rubber and too much fabric would be as detrimental to the service of the tires as too little.

The tire user knows that Goodrich led in putting tire prices on their just and proper level.

Only 5% PLUS for the Best Non-Skid

This is the Famous Goodrich Safety Tread

Costs but 5% more than Goodrich (or any other) smooth treads

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columns headed "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly advertised tires and be sure to note Goodrich Safety Treads cost from 8% to 48% less than others shown below:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES "A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30x3	$ 9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$18.10
30x3½	12.20	13.35	14.20	21.70	23.60
32x3½	14.00	15.40	16.30	22.35	25.30
34x4	20.35	22.30	23.80	31.15	33.55
36x4½	26.70	32.15	33.60	41.85	41.40
37x5	33.90	39.80	41.30	49.85	52.05

You pay money for your tires. You want miles from your tires.

Goodrich Tires are built to deliver mileage at the least cost per mile, and to deliver it with the greatest ease, the greatest comfort and the greatest economy.

Every ounce of energy, every bit of intelligence, every flash of genius, every atom of efficiency in the whole Goodrich organization has been concentrated on this proposition of making tires which will surely give the greatest mileage at the least cost.

The Goodrich tire user knows that right now, today, with all the stampede to meet Goodrich prices, Goodrich quality is not met and that his dollar buys more tire service in Goodrich tires.

"As good as Goodrich" is today the plea.

Let us say to you, in all good faith and with every confidence in the fair-minded judgment of the tire user, that no other tire made has in it and of it the experience, the know-how and the know-why which govern the selection and the combination of the exact quality and quantity of rubber and fabric which constitute Goodrich Tires.

"Goodrich First" is the verdict of the motoring public, which knows that Goodrich first gave it the great benefit of Fair-List prices and which demands increasing thousands of

PERSONALITIES FLY AT MEETING

Wollaston Association Elects Officers

The old question of increased school accomodations came up once more at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Fields Parent-Teachers' association when residents of Wollaston Park took issue with a delegation from Norfolk Downs.

Those from Ward Six were strongly in favor of a new school building on Billings road while those of the Wollaston park section just as strongly preferred an addition to the present building.

The discussion was the most exciting in the history of the controversy and was not without personalities. After a protracted session the question was left where it had been taken up without any solution being reached.

The new school playground was given its final impetus when a committee was appointed to solicit further subscriptions and assume full charge of the installation of the apparatus.

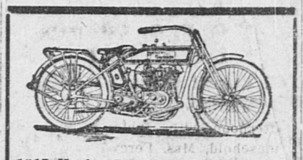

With $167 realized from the "Brownie ball" and a gift of $75 from the Wollaston Woman's club the additional subscriptions received should permit the purchase of adequate playground equipment.

During the evening a number of musical numbers by members of the Arenberg family were enjoyed. Those contributing were Nestor, Cecilia, Mark, Michael and Madame Arenberg.

Little Miss Doris Baker gave several readings which met with great applause. They included: "The Bald Headed Man," "The Poor Little Boy" and "Lousy."

The following officers were elected
President—S. J. Ripley.
Vice President—Nicholas Keppler.
Secretary—Mrs. Douglas Wetmore.
Treasurer—David H. Goodspeed.

The playground committee was appointed as follows: S. J. Ripley, David H. Goodspeed, Edward Palmer, Mrs. Joseph K. Barber, Charles E. Decker, Nicholas Keppler, Mr. Klingenhagen, Mrs. Douglas Wetmore, Herbert J. Polk, Charles Danforth.

POLICE GET BIKE RIDERS

Costs Each Victim $3 For Sidewalk Riding

The westerly sidewalk on Hancock street from Adams street toward Neponset has become a favorite path for bicycle riders, with the result that pedestrians often have to look sharp in order to escape being run down. The police have given warning that bicycle riding on sidewalks must stop, but the warning seemed to have no effect for the fellows kept at it.

This morning Capt. McKay detailed Officers Hebert and Galvin to stop it. The result was swift and rapid. Hardly had they arrived when a man came along headed toward work. He was on the sidewalk and making good speed when he was halted and pulled in. Then three more came along only to meet with the same fate. By this time the others had taken warning and as they passed they did not even so much as glance at the sidewalk, evidently trying to convey the impression that they never used it as a bicycle path.

In court this morning all four pleaded guilty to charges of violation of the city ordinances and the cases were filed on payment of $3 costs. The names given by the defendants were Daniel DiCroce, 36, 150 Sumner street; George Stevens, 26, Everett street; James Doherty, 312 School street; David Fuller, 61, Oxenbridge road.

NEW DANCE AT BIG MAY PARTY

Three Hundred Guests of S. M. T. A. Girls

The S. M. T. A. Girls entertained over 150 couples at their first grand May party held Friday evening at St. Mary's hall. The hall was gaily decorated in tri-colored bunting interningled with American flags. The stage represented a very pretty scene with a number of potted plants and a trellis work which hid Hamilton' orchestra from the dancers.

The dance order contained 20 dances which included all of the latest in the line of specialty dancing. The new dances were entered into very enthusiastically by the young people and caused much merriment. The special dances were Shingle dance, Doll dance, Sparkler dance and Rush dance. The latter is a new dance which was tried out for the first time in this city. The girls assembled at one end of the hall and at a given signal by the orchestra rushed the length of the hall after their partner. During intermission refreshments were served in the basement.

Miss Annie Hagerty was voted the most popular girl.

Miss Mary Joyce was in charge of the dance and she was assisted by Miss Julia Corcoran. Miss Eileen Fay was chief of aids. The following young women were aids: Misses Mary Doyle, Frances Daley, Mary Finn, Ella Mulligan, Marie Cormack, Annie Kelley, Elizabeth Schatzel, Rose Cormack, Dorothy Foley, Helen Little, Helen Ferriter, Margaret Knight, Hilda Crowley, Margaret Kelly, Theresa Buckley, Lillian Donavon, Annie Corcoran, Rita Collins Annie Hagerty, Esther Mulligan, Florence Shepard Helen Crowley.

MISS HAGGERTY MOST POPULAR

The first Popularity Party held in this city for some years was held Friday evening in Quincy Adams hall and was attended by about one hundred couples which included guests from all the towns on the South Shore. There was considerable enthusiasm over who was to be declared the most popular young woman in the city. When the votes were counted it was found that Miss Annie Hagerty of West Quincy was the winner.

Miss Florence Steele was second, and Miss Belle Rogers third. Miss Hagerty was presented with a ten dollar gold piece. Music was furnished for dancing by Goodwins orchestra. The dance order contained 15 dances which included all the latest and modern dances. During the evening Joseph Caravaglio the well known singer rendered several solos The committee in charge was Walter Curry and John McLean.

None of the local men are to exhibit at the Denver Convention of the National Retail Monument Dealers association in August Massachusetts has but one entry, Jones Bros. and Co., of Boston. This firm uses considerable Quincy granite and will no doubt have some Quincy memorials in its exhibit. The convention brings to mind the convention of two years ago which was held in Boston and of which the late John L. Miller had charge.

Robert McWilliams of New York City has taken over the showyard in that city of the late John L. Miller. The yard is situated on Jerome avenue and is a fine location. The new firm name is the Woodlawn Granite Co.

Even though the retailers are having a harvest the wholesalers still keep the freight station at South Quincy busy and the men are working early in the morning to clean up the waiting teams before seven o'clock. This year will surpass any yet in the amount of shipment of granite which shows that Quincy is still able to hold its own with the increasing demand. It is a rare treat to see a large monument requiring one car by itself leave Quincy in late years where formerly it was almost a weekly occurrence The day of the large memorial has passed and the local men recognizing that such is the case are installing machinery which will work quickly in preference to machinery possessing lifting capacity

The May issue of the Monument Retailer has a full page headed "What is the Matter With Massachusetts" devoted to an effort to induce the dealers to recognize and derive the benefits such organizations in the other states are getting

Although the Barre strike is settled there are several hundred Italian members who are still out. The meeting held last week in Quincy by two members of the Barre Conference committee at Malnati's hall, intimated that this would be what would happen.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of Memorial church had its annual meeting and election of officers Wednesday afternoon. The Society showed good progress during the year and over $300 in the treasury. The ladies are to work all summer and run their fair on a large scale in the fall so as to wholly wipe out the indebtedness on the church by January.

Words of sympathy were expressed for the president Mrs. L. T. Gurney who was ill and unable to be present.

Mrs. Harry Reed was elected president; Mrs. A. N. Hall, first vice president; Mrs. Fred Osgood, second vice president; Mrs. Herbert Beeman, secretary and Mrs. B. Frank Thomas, treasurer.

Mrs. Reed stated that she was glad to serve as president because of the importance she placed on church work and the desire to have the beautiful new church free from debt. There was also a possibility of a parish house within a few years so that the women had something in view that was worth working for.

Mrs. James Curtin and Mrs. Samuel Philbrook served refreshments.

Tree Notes

The Forestry committee of the Quincy Women's club has prepared the following article about trees, and tree pests and their treatment.

WHY PLANT TREES.

They add value to adjacent property; protect from the hot sun; add beauty and comfort to street and they cool the air in the summer and radiate warmth in winter.

WHERE TO PLANT TREES.

Plant 35 to 40 feet apart in good soil. Dig a pit three feet square by three and a half feet deep. Replace the sand and stones by good top soil mixed with well-rotted manure. See that the best soil is near the roots.

HOW TO PLANT TREES.

Dig the hole large enough to take the roots without crowding. Cut off broken and injured roots with a sharp knife. Make a clean cut. Trim back the top to counterbalance the loss of roots. See that the earth is pressed firmly around the roots to hold the tree in place. Water thoroughly.

TREES TO PLANT.

Trees for general street planting should be nursery grown. These have compact root system, straight stems and symmetrical tops, and are accustomed to transplanting. Only a few varieties of trees do well in the city. Among these the Norway Maple, American Elm, European Linden, Ash and Sycamore or Plane trees are easily the leaders. Do not plant Poplars or silver Maples. They are short-lived, clog the sewer pipes, raise the sidewalks and topple over in storms. The Silver Maples also harbor borers.

DO YOU KNOW?

That the tree is like a mill that runs itself.

The raw materials it uses are the minerals from the soil and the gases from the air.

The leaves are the machinery that take charge of the raw material and make it into the finished product, sap, that goes to feed every part of the tree.

The sunlight is the power that runs the machinery.

The waste products of this mill that the leaves send off into the air are the very things that we human beings need most, oxygen to breathe and moisture.

Do you know of any other manufactory that runs itself, furnishes its own materials and gives away its products to bless and brighten the world?

That trees are the oldest living inhabitants on the face of the globe? That there are trees living now in California that were already one thousand years old when Columbus discovered America?

That a full-grown tree sends out 187 gallons of water a day through its leaves into the air? Think what a difference that makes in hot, dry weather.

That Massachusetts is a Pine growing state.

That you can get Pine tree-lots from Amherst Agricultural College for six dollars a thousand? Land reforested in this way will in ten years' time yield good returns.

PESTS AND REMEDIES.

Tent Caterpillar—Collect nests early in the spring, or spray with Arsenate of Lead.

Elm Leaf Beetle—Spray with Arsenate of Lead in May or June.

San Jose Scale—Best controlled by spraying with a contact poison such as Lime Sulphur or Soluble Oil. Apply when the tree is dormant, in late fall or early spring.

Aphis—Spray with a weak solution of Lime Sulphur, Soluble Oil, Kerosene Emulsion, or Whale Oil Soap.

Gypsy Moth—Cut off the portion of bark upon which the nest is made; burn this, apply creosote.

Brown-tailed Moths—Cut off the nests, if necessary portions of limbs and burn without scattering on the ground.

Leopard Moth—Probe into the hole made by borer and draw out worms. Fill cavity with carbon-bi-sulphide and fill with putty,

AMUSEMENTS

THE WILBUR.

After all arrangements had been made for "A Pair of Sixes" to leave the Wilbur May 15 at the close of its remarkable run of 20 weeks in Boston, the demand for seats became so great that the management of the theatre realized it would be impossible to accommodate one-half of the people who desired to see this wonderful attraction before it left the city. "A Pair of Sixes" had already been announced for appearance in other cities who were clamoring for it; but by quick action all engagements were cancelled, and announcement is now made by the Wilbur Theatre that "A Pair of Sixes" would remain in Boston for two weeks more.

The wonderful cast of comedy stars remains unchanged, and those who have not already seen this play are advised to take advantage of the extended engagement not to miss the laughing treat of a lifetime

Matinees at the Wilbur are given Wednesday and Saturday.

BOSTON THEATRE.

A revolution in motion pictures is being offered at the famous Boston Theatre. This is nothing more or less than the most stupendous array of feature pictures and comedies ever offered on one bill, presented in a continuous performance from ten A. M. to ten-thirty P. M. It is the intention of the management to convert the Boston Theatre into a gigantic picture palace, presenting the biggest and longest show for the money ever offered. Three and one half hours of solid entertainment are promised, each week some prominent star appearing in a big multiple reel drama, the Edward A. Salisbury Wild Animal Life Motion Pictures, the greatest motion pictures ever made of animal life in Western America from Alaska to the Mexican border, with a complete change of subjects every week. Caroline B. Nichols and her Boston Fadettes, the most famous orchestra of the kind ever organized, fresh from a record-breaking continental tour, furnish the musical accompaniment for these great triumphs of the screen, a big multiple reel comedy, a Mary Pickford picture, a Charles K. Chaplin comedy and the New Exploits of Elaine, all these features are included in the Boston Theatre programme during the week.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The summer stock season at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, under the direction of Lester Lonergan & Co., Inc., presenting the Lonergan Players, will begin next week with Lily Cahill, late star of "Under Cover," in that famous play, "Bought and Paid For." Performances will be given every afternoon as well as evening, and the opening performance will be Monday afternoon, May 17th. Miss Cahill was a decided Boston favorite during the 27 weeks run of "Under Cover" at the Plymouth Theatre and this, her first return to Boston since that remarkable engagement, insures her of a warm welcome from her thousands of admirers among Boston theatregoers.

No new word of commendation is needed at this late date for "Bought and Paid For," a play that held the stage in New York continuously for two seasons and as now presented with Miss Cahill heading the cast of splendid Lonergan Players at the regular Majestic summer stock prices, the opening bill should be a highly successful one.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The celebrated Boston singer, Carolina White, prima donna of the Chicago and Philadelphia grand opera companies, will make her vaudeville debut at B. F. Keith's Theatre, Boston, Monday afternoon, May 17. Miss White will offer a splendid repertoire of operatic and popular selections. She comes to Boston from a most successful engagement at B. F. Keith's magnificent Palace Theatre in New York City, where she was held over for two weeks. Miss White has scored one of the biggest hits of any operatic artiste ever in vaudeville. Another strong attraction of the week, which has not been seen in Boston in years, is Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist and lariat expert. His line of comedy talk, together with his wonderful rope spinning, makes Rogers one of the biggest laugh makers of the year in vaudeville. Kajiyama, the great Japanese hand writing expert, who is another entertainer long absent from Boston, will offer a most unique novelty. Kajiyama writes upside down, backwards, and in various odd ways more skilfully than most penmen can sign their own name in the ordinary fashion.

CORT THEATRE.

There is a general impression that plays that are produced at this time of the year are either of little value, or are what is termed "try-outs" for the coming season, but in the present instance the merriest farce that has been seen in Boston for many a day is now at the Cort Theatre, entitled "The Last Laugh" with that sterling farceur Edward Abeles in the star part.

The authors are Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard whose names, through the excellence of their former plays that have been seen in Boston to excellent advantage namely "The Misleading Lady" and "The Ghost Breaker," command attention, have evolved from Mrs. Shelley's story of "Dr. Frankenstein," an unusual stage creation that bids fair to become even more popular than their previous efforts.

The theme of "The Last Laugh" is ingenious in construction, mystifying in ludicrous deception, and complication that compels hearty laughter. The story has to do with Dr. Bruce, a famous surgeon, who believes that he has discovered the means of creating life. His assistants and his daughter think he is losing his mind; so, on the night when the final test is to be made by the doctor, his assistants substitute a live man for the "monster" that the doctor has created, the substitute having accepted a bribe of $1000 to carry out the deception and save the surgeon from disappointment and insanity.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"Maggie Pepper," the play in which Rose Stahl scored a marked success opened Monday at the Castle Square Theatre following the end of the run of "Common Clay." The piece is a department store romance by Charles Klein, the successful author of 39 plays who was lost on the Lusitania. It tells the story of Maggie, a clever girl, who has worked her way up from a cash girl and who is due for promotion to the position of buyer.

About this time the young owner of the store returns from abroad and the manager tells Maggie that she may not have the position she has earned. Maggie is able to point out to the young owner the machinations of the manager and his assistants, and in so doing she saves him from ruin.

The friendship with him, however, causes her to be gossipped about and she leaves the store to go to another firm. At the same time she adopts her little niece, Zaza, to get away from her shoplifting mother and drunken father who are teaching the child to steal. The father of Zaza, coming to Maggie's apartment intoxicated one night, shoots Maggie's caller, the owner of the old store. Maggie hides him until he is well and in the end they are married.

Miss Doris Olsson cleverly portrayed the slangy, keen young woman Maggie Peper, and she was welcomed back to the cast. William Carleton played sympathetically the owner of the department store who had the good taste to fall in love with level-headed Maggie.

SHOULD TEACH FACTS OF WAR IN SCHOOLS

Acting Mayor Crane Says It is Not Violation of Neutrality

"The facts relating to the European war should be taught in the schools and this would not be a violation of neutrality. The policy of silence being pursued in the interests of neutrality make for ignorance on an important question in history."

So declared City Clerk Emery L. Crane, acting mayor during the absence of Mayor Campbell, at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers association of the Adams school Friday evening. At the close of the meeting, Alfred J. P. Pinel retired from the presidency and John E. Higgins took office as his successor.

John D. MacKay, chairman of the school committee and a well known attorney, took occasion to spicily comment on the location of the school building and Supt. A. L. Barbour spoke of the openings for ambitious boys.

Acting Mayor Crane said statistics show that more lumber is being delivered in Quincy for building purposes than in any of the other cities of the state and with the increase in population will come larger problems for the school committee to solve. Among the many laughs he created was his compliment to the present school committee when he said he believed the personnel to be high and the best yet with the exception of the one of which he was chairman some years ago. He paid a high compliment to Supt. Barbour for his energetic work.

Mr. Crane urged that the facts relating to the war be taught in the schools and said that it would not be a violation of neutrality. He said the policy of silence being pursued by the schools in the interests of neutrality made for ignorance on an important question in history.

Chairman MacKay after complimenting the association and ward on having a building which expressed the last word in school architecture said that if the location was all that could be desired the board disclaims credit for it because it had nothing to do with chosing the lot. If on the other hand it is not well placed and is unsatisfactory then the board can say as Macbeth did the ghost of Banquo, "You cannot say we did it," for the board favored another location, less expensive, in another locality and more accessible. He pleaded for more authority for teachers in the matter of discipline because of the growing disregard of authority on the part of the youth of today and because the school was the place to stop it.

Supt. Barbour said it was one of the pleasing diversions of a hard job to be permitted to talk face to face with parents on such occasions and he said he appreciated the privilege. Boys, he said, are now congesting a few of the well known occupations and there is a great deal of mediocrity. There are many openings for boys today and many of them are not generally known and it is the policy of the school department to direct attention to the new channels of employment. He mentioned a few of the openings and also advanced the practical idea that the boys be impressed with the ease with which they can pursue studies after leaving grammar school, even without money. It is the easiest thing in the world he said to get an education if one has the proper amount of energy.

A collation was served at the close of the meeting and an entertainment was rendered by Miss Fannie Weinhouse of the Adams school, Miss Julia Weinhouse of the Washington school, and David Weinhouse of Quincy High school. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Celina Beliveau. She was accompanying Miss Hartrey, one of her pupils.

GIRLS STAR IN MEN'S PARTS

Young Women's Club Give "Engaged By Wednesday"

With six girls dressed in men's costumes the dramatic class of the Quincy Young Women's club presented the three act farce, "Engaged by Wednesday" in Alpha hall Friday evening. The audience, while not as large as the farce deserved, was an enthusiastic one.

The cast:

Martin Henry, a lazy man, Sadie L. Abrams
Arthur Watson, Blanche B. Hayden
Arthur's friends
Jack Ruth C. Farmer
Ted Gertrude E. Bullock
Charlie Phoebe Buckley
Dick Hannah M. Sandberg
Miss Abigail Persons, a woman of ideas, Miss Lora Churchill.
Mrs. Watson, a gentle person, Hilda Taberner
Lucille Persons Lydia I. Djerf
Lucille's friends
Marie Ruth E. Dahl
Jane Edith Mullen
Mabel Bertha H. Polk
Alice, Sadie Berman
Mary, Henry's aunt and cook at Persons" Isabel Tarberner
First girl, Emma Bouchard
Second girl, Esther Boyson
First gypsy Ingrie J. Jacobson
Second gypsy Anna R. Grossman

The play takes place in a college town in the Middle West. It was produced under the direction of Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, instructor of the class, with Miss Blanche B. Hayden as stage manager. The farce was chosen because it had enough characters to allow practically every member of the class to participate. The presentation was decidedly pleasing to most of the audience. Some of the entrances were rather slow and now and then there would be a slight hesitancy in picking up the cues but on the whole the presentation was an excellent one.

The plot revolves around a scheming woman, Miss Persons, who insists on having Lucille and Arthur engaged and married as agreed to when both children were babies. Neither have seen each other since childhood and a home coming party is arranged. Both accept the conditions under protest.

The action from the time each girl and boy discovers each, firm in the belief that each has made the capture is filled with comedy. The farce ends with Lucille and Arthur marrying in spite of the assistance of Auntie Persons.

Miss Churchill, who played the part of Miss Persons, was in every way the capable, confident woman of ideas who planned, expecting her intentions carried out.

Miss Hilda Tarberner made a delightful mother, interested only in the happiness of her daughter, one who accepts the plan of the woman of ideas because she had an easy disposition.

Miss Sadie Abrams, the laziest man in town, tired to the last word and busy waiting quitting time, did well in her part, and was not always asleep when thought to be.

Miss Lydia Djerf, Lucille, not only did her part well but proved to be vivacious up to the minute girl, around whom the success of the performance depended.

Miss Blanche Hayden as little Arthur was a comely boy with enough of the dignity some young men carry to give her character plenty of the masculine quality.

His friends, were regular boys, filled with assurance and smiling and good natured.

The girls who were Lucille's friends provided many of the happy moments in the show and took their parts well.

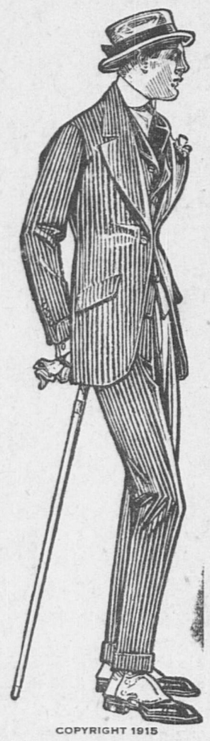

At the close of the performance dancing was enjoyed. The matrons were Mrs. Chandler Smith, retiring president of the Quincy Womans Club, parent of the girls association, President-elect Mrs. Walter Pinkham, and Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, honorary member of the Young Woman's club.

The committee of arrangements included Pres. Miss Minnie Packard, and the Misses Blanche Hayden, Clara Goodwin, Mary Nyhan. Helen Canty, Elsie Whitehead, Mabel Crocker, Evelyn Stewart and May Opie. Music during the performance and for dancing was by Pinkham's orchestra.

NO TRACE OF DIAMOND RINGS

Searching investigation has not uncovered the lost valuable diamond rings of Mrs. C. E. Sherman, wife of C. E. Sherman of the Daylight Store although ash heaps have been persistently combed. One of the two rings lost was her engagement ring. The rings were lost about five weeks ago. Both had been placed in the toe of a shoe for safety and were missed after the shoe had been taken to a repair shop. A visit to the shop had no results and the men who repaired the shoe said they might have fallen into scrap leather which was taken that day by employees of the Board of Health and dumped on Elm place.

Employees combed the spot where the load was dumped but were unsuccessful. The search has been continued daily by others who knew of the loss.

SINKING OF LUSITANIA WAS ACT OF ASSASSIN

Rev. Wm. Grainger Speaks Plainly at Memorial Service

Terming the sinking of the Lusitania the act of an assassin and the drawned as victims of murder, Rev. William Grainger rector of Christ church, took a pronounced anti-German attitude at the service in memory of the Lusitania dead on Sunday morning and incidently took issue with Rev. Clarence Campbell of the First Presbyterian church, who in a recent sermon justified the sinking of the Lusitania because it was an act of war.

The text of the sermon was "Responsibility for the Act." There was a large congregation.

"The responsibility for the act must be placed with the Germans, said Rev. Mr. Grainger. "This country has been prepared by an extensive pro-German propaganda ever since the war began in many ways, by Germans in America, by German newspapers and authorities, including Dr. Dernburg. The newspapers have been flooded with material and manufactured pictures in behalf of the propaganda moving picture films have been made and all were for the purpose of educating public opinion in the United States for the Germans.

"Official Germany has misinterpreted the temper of the American government. They began by thinking we were peaceful and did not want to go to war. Therefore, official Germany said, 'now is the time to test public opinion behind the government: will the American people support the government? The way to find that out is to make a test case.'

"The sinking of the Lusitania was the result. No other vessel has been sunk and no other vessel will be sunk. There is no question the Germans can reach any vessel they want but they have not and will not set out to do it.

"Inability of a submarine crew, because the size of the craft does not permit taking off women, children and non combatants, does not excuse the act. It is the act of an assassin.

"There are only two views to be taken of the message of President Wilson. Germany must either back down or the United States must fight. Germany must be aware that the people of this country are not in sympathy with such acts."

BALKS ATTEMPT TO DESERT BABY

Young Woman Pursued By Store Clerk

"Here you, come back and get your baby," was the cry of a young man in City square Saturday afternoon that caused pedestrians to stop and look about only to see a curly bare-headed young man, trying to get a woman from a street car. The young man was Chester French, a clerk in the store of Henry P. Kittredge. The woman hesitated a minute and then as the motorman, who had become interested, was looking back, and a crowd was collecting, she left the car and taking hold of the baby carriage started along Hancock street toward Wollaston.

It was evidently an attempt of the young woman to abandon the child, baby carriage and all, but the quickness of young French prevented the plan from being carried out. It was shortly after 3 o'clock when a young woman, apparently an American about 25 years of age, entered Kittredge's store wheeling a baby carriage. Standing in the middle of the store she began to look about, evidently admiring the goods on exhibition.

Suddenly turning she ran out of the store and jumped aboard a street car which was just leaving for Wollaston. Young French was in the store alone at the time and for a minute was at loss just what to do. Then realizing that Mr. Kittredge would not relish having a strange infant fostered onto him, French ran out to the car which had then stopped near the corner of Saville street.

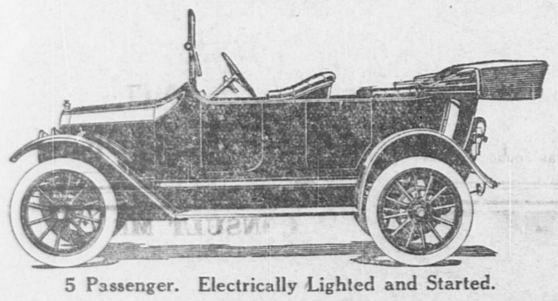

STUDENTS TAKE REAL MUD BATH

A party of about 200 law students from the Harvard Law school took a voluntary mud bath Saturday afternoon off the Fore River ship yard. The students came to the Maplewood on Weymouth Fore river to enjoy a shore dinner. The trip was made in the large power boat "Madeline." The boat made a sharp turn and immediately grounded on the flats. The tide was going out fast and rather than wait several hours for the returning tide the students pulled off shoes and stockings, and with rolled up trousers waded ashore in the mud. By the time they reached the shore the bare legs were black with mud and a scrubbing match followed.

THE WEATHER.

Straw hats and top coats, to one with an aesthetic eye do not harmonize. The man who wants to be comfortable however, probably does not care a hang whether they harmonize or not. Sunday the weather was delightful even if there was a chill in the air. Many of course did not wear top coats but internally they were probably kicking themselves because they did not, if appearances are any indication. Frost was predicted for Saturday night but while the air was cold there was no frost. Looking forward the Weather Man says that today it will rain. He promises that Tuesday will be clear and warmer but with increasing winds.

PULMOTOR FOILS ATTEMPT TO DIE

Braintree Man Hangs Self in Cell At Police Station

MADE NOOSE OF KERCHIEF

Artificial respiration and the pulmotor brought Thomas Welch of Braintree back to life Saturday night after he had apparently succeeded in his attempt to hang himself in the cell room at the police station. A timely inspection by House Officer Halloran and his prompt action thwarted Welch in carrying out his intention, probably planned during a spell of mental abberation.

Welch was sent to headquarters after he fell in City square and struck his head against a window of the Thompson Cafe, suffering a long gash. He had been leaning against the window when his feet slipped and the window struck was of thick glass and on a level with the sidewalk.

On receiving medical treatment he was put in cell four and before Officer Halloran reported for duty at seven o'clock he freely talked about himself and said that the sight in his only eye was poor and that he suffered from heart trouble and Bright's disease. After a word of encouragement Halloran reported at roll call.

Ten minutes later, during an inspection, Halloran found Welch hanging from the top bar of the cell door. He had made a noose of a handkerchief. When taken down he was carried out to the receiving room. There was no evidence of any heart action and it was thought that he was dead.

Halloran kneaded his chest, worked his arms and struck the soles of his shoes repeatedly with a club. His efforts were rewarded by the man taking a short, gasping breath.

Dr. George M. Sheahan who had been summoned arrived at that moment and promptly adjusted the pulmotor. Welch was finally revived and was put to bed in the women's cell, where he slept. On awakening he was given staple nourishment and Sunday morning had recovered and was released.

FORE RIVERS FALL ON HARDY

Capture Six Runs In 5th and Are Victors

The Fore Rivers discovered Hardy last year's Harvard varsity pitcher, in the fifth innings Saturday and scored enough runs off of the Gray and Davis team to turn defeat into victory and cap its opening game in the Manufacturers league. The final score was 12 to 7.

Over 600 fans lined the benches at Merrymount park to see the game and in the crowd were typical base ball fans who created many amusing situations by directing a torrent of poshing at visitors and local boys alike.

Hardy started the game with plenty of confidence and an error and a few hits easily gave him a clear vision of an easy victory. The locals seemed to be unable to fathom his delivery and on two occasions he pulled himself out of a hole by fanning the batsman, once with the bases filled.

The experience of the shipyard boys supported them in the face of an apparent disaster, however, and in the fifth inning they took the bull by the horns and went on an exploring expedition. Hardy was soon discovered and after five runs had been scored off him, two with the assistance of a wild throw from the outfield, he was withdrawn in favor of Walsh.

Knight did the boxwork for the local boys and was in good form throughout the game. He was touched up for a long drive to Hancock street and was occasionally hit but with the assistance of the team he had no difficulty in holding the lead. The timely hitting of Ford was responsible in many ways for the win.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	E
F. River	0	1	0	3	6	0	0	2	x	12	5
G. & D.	2	1	0	2	0	0	0	0	1	7	4

Batteries—Knight and Frahar; Hardy, Walsh and Shea.

CURIOUS COW ENTERS STORE

Refuses To Make Purchase And Departs

No one heretofore has accused cows of being inquisitive. Some animals are well known for their inquisitiveness, but a cow never. Yet it is said there are exceptions to all rules and the actions of one cow this morning proved this.

Her cowship was being driven peacefully down Granite street, when suddenly she turned and the next instant walked through the open door into the hardware store of Nathan Ames. Whether the cow was looking for a milk strainer or a hay cutter, is not known. However, the cow walked along the counters on the west side of the store and was gazing at the hardware goods displayed in the glass cases when Elbridge Porter put in an appearance.

Porter is one of those salesmen who always jump when a customer enters the store, and so it was in this case. At first he was unable to discern whether it was man, woman or child who had entered. Soon he saw his mistake and it was all off.

Now Elbridge has a little farm of his own down in Braintree and is an adept at shooing hens, which stood him in good stead this morning for he shooed that cow right out. With a look of contempt the one inquisitive cow continued her journey down Granite street.

TEN THOUSAND FIRE BELIEVED INCENDIARY

State Inspector Will Make Thorough Investigation

The granite cutting sheds and boiler house at the T. F. Mannix granite plant on Willard street, operated by Neil McDonald and Constant Tinkerman, were destroyed by what is believed to have been an incendiary fire at 11.20 Saturday night. Not only were the sheds destroyed but several valuable finished monuments as well as tools belonging to the workmen The explosion of a compressed air tank during the progress of the fire caused by the overheating of the pipes sent out a shower of sparks which threatened to start other fires.

The fire was discovered by Officer Dahlberg in the boiler room at the end of the cutting sheds. He immediately sent in an alarm from Box 45. When District Chief Louis K. Badger arrived he found that fire had also broken out at the opposite end of the sheds and realizing that it would be a bad fire to cope with sent in a general alarm. About this time the western sky became brightly illuminated giving the impression that a good fire was in progress. Many believed that the fire must be St. Mary's hall which is situated within a few feet of the fire alarm box pulled. The result was that hundreds of automobile parties hastened to the locality.

The general alarm brought all of the fire apparatus of the city with the exception of the combination company at Houghs Neck. Several lines of hose were laid and tons of water were soon being thrown onto the burning plant. At that time the boiler house, blacksmith ship, polishing mill, and cutting sheds, which are in a group, were all on fire and so fiercely did they burn that it was evident that they could not be saved. The fire was a very hot one and it was during the hottest of it that the explosion of the compressed air tank took place. This sent out a shower of sparks, but as there was but a small amount of air in the tanks at the time it did no other damage.

The fire was nearly under control when word was brought the firemen that the sheds of the Fuller, Foley Co. plant, situated half a mile away, near the West Quincy railroad station were on fire. Chief Billings dispatched part of the apparatus to this fire. On arriving the firemen found a fire on the edge of the office building, toward the Mannix plant. It was thought at first that this was a second incendiary fire but investigation showed that the fire had probably started from sparks from the Mannix plant. This fire was quickly extinguished with a chemical stream.

In the mean time the main fire had been brought unedr contorl although the plant had been practically destroyed.

Capt. McKay and several officers were on hand to rope off the street if necessary and an investigation was immediately started.

It was reported that two men were seen about the plant about 10 o'clock and it is thought that they may know something about it.

Inspector Kimball of the State Fire Marshal's office is coming to Quincy today to make an investigation. The loss on the building and contents is estimated at $10,000.

At 10.20 Sunday morning another alarm was sounded from Box 45 and many believed that another granite plant was on fire. The fire however proved to be the large chimney on the Badger house on Crescent street. The chimney an unusually large one was filled with soot and the firemen had quite a job getting it out.

Sunday afternoon at 1.20 the central station apparatus responded on a still alarm for a chimney fire in the house of Carl Lane at 205 Goffe street. There was no damage.

THE WOMEN'S PAGE.

An effort to improve the women's pages in newspapers is reported at the national convention of Young Women's Christian Associations, held the past week at Los Angeles, Cal. The National Board of this organization disapproves of the love and beauty copy which constitutes so large a share of the typical Woman's page. It proposes to offer in its place morally uplifting articles.

Any effort to improve the newspaper press of the country is always welcomed by newspaper men and the public. But it must be practical. Nothing would please the editor better than to fill his pages with articles on the True, the Good, and the Beautiful, if the public demanded it. But it is to be feared that a newspaper of that character would not be able to pay the salaries of its working force or the cost of its type.

It is the popular sentiment that a woman must make herself personally attractive. Her wealthy cousins leave it all to the dressmaker and the milliner and the beauty doctor, and need no newspaper advice. But the woman of moderate means must cut a great many corners to accomplish the feat. The newspaper gives the experience and advice of others

Also the newspaper is practically a school in domestic science. It prints a great many articles showing how women can make themselves more efficient in household tasks The old monk's proverb said, "To work is to pray." No labor is nobler, none better worth studying, than the processes of daily home life.

It is probably true that the average woman's page is rather below the average woman's intelligence. There ist plenty of room for improvement along the line where the National Y. W. C. A. is looking. Much less might be said about complexions, and much more about babies and food and sanitation and women's work as teachers and in business positions.

SELLING FOOD SUPPLIES.

The newspaper man who makes a practice of looking over his exchanges must be greatly impressed with the great amount of space given to advertising food products.

Formerly the bulk of newspaper advertising was done by about four classes of dealers: Dry goods, men's clothing and furnishings, furniture, millinery. These classes of retailers still furnish a big section of newspaper advertising. But there has been a great tendency for advertising to spread out into other lines of business, particularly into food products.

A good number of market men, provision stores, and groceries have advertised for years. Many of them have seen their trade grow large and permanent thereby. But in a great many cases their publicity work was confined to small and rather routine notices, with no detailed information about their goods. While this kind of notice helped fix their business in the public mind, it could have been made far more effective.

The typical food product advertising of today is a simple price list of special bargains. Markets focus attention on a few special values as a means of getting the public in the habit of visiting the place. This advertising must pay, or it would not be used so freely. In these high cost of living times, it would be read with closer attention by the average householder and his wife, than the biggest battle that has been reported for three months.

The small boy is earnestly hoping that the circuses coming to Quincy this year haven't journeyed from other states here. The department of agriculture has forbidden interstate transportation on account of the hoof and mouth disease of some of the small boys' favorite animals, familiar adjuncts of circuses since circuses were. They are the American bison, the zebra, the camel, the giraffe, the llama, and the peccary. What would a circus be without a camel?

With eight presidents since Diaz, Mexico must be fast clearing up her Presidential timber.

Unless the price of flour drops shortly a "baker's dozen" may be reduced from 13 to 11.

POLICE PROUDLY DON NEW CAPS

Bell Shaped Headgear Supplants Helmets

The entire police force of Quincy appeared Sunday for the first time in the new bell shaped military caps which take the place of the old-style helmet, the new buttons and new cap devices.

The caps and buttons were ordered a short time ago following a conference between Mayor Campbell and Acting Chief McKay and the change was a welcome one to the men. In all, 41 sets of buttons were issued, 31 to the regular patrolmen and ten to the reserve officers. The cap devices and buttons are the property of the city. No provision has as yet been made for special officers.

The numbers consist of two divisions the first signifying Station 1 and the next the order of appointment. All numbers are in the order of appointment. The numbers given the reserve officers commence with 151. In case of a vacancy there will be a swapping of numbers, each man moving up one.

John Halloran, house officer at headquarters nights, tops the list of regular men with 101. Daniel Shea is at the head of the reserve officers with 151.

ISN'T RUNNING HOTEL DE GINK

Chief of Police Won't House Weary Willies

Acting Chief McKay issued an order at roll call Sunday evening forbidding patrolmen sending people to police headquarters for overnight lodging and it is probable that tramps and other knights of the road will give the city a wide berth after dark when they learn the news.

While it has not been the general custom to extend such accommodations there have been cases where men who appeared to be respectable and hard up were allowed to sleep on a bunk in the cell room.

Application for such accommodation in the future will mean an arrest on a charge of vagrancy and a probable sentence to the state farm at Bridgewater.

The law regulating the housing of the unemployed and homeless over night requires that the men be given a bath. The lack of such facilities at headquarters was an important factor in Acting Chief McKay issuing the order.

SOCIETY RETURNS VISIT.

The Young People's society of the Ruggles street church, Boston, paid a return visit to the Young People's society of the Swedish Congregational church Sunday. The address at the meeting was by Rev. C. V. Bowman of the Ruggles street church. The meeting was largely attended and the address a most interesting one. During the service there was singing by the combined choirs and by the young people, a solo by Rev. A. G. Sporrong a duet by Mrs. Annie Sutherland and Mrs. A. G. Sporrong, and a duet by Miss Ruth Johnson and Miss Esther Danielson. At the close of the meeting light refreshments were served.

SERVICES FOR MR. BOUTIN

Funeral services for Abraham Boutin who died Saturday noon at the City Hospital as a result of an automobile accident earlier in the forenoon, will be held from the home of his niece, Mrs. Louis C. Sairais, 17 Stanford terrace, Somerville, Tuesday, at 8.15 A. M. followed by a requiem mass at the French church on Harvey street, North Cambridge.

GRANITE NEWS.

Notes of Interest to Dealers and Workers.

It is rumored around the granite district that the municipal crusher on Brook road will never be in operation again. The crusher is a very old one and it would cost considerable money to put it any kind of repair. The manufacturers will have to find some other way to clean up their yards now. We would suggest that they use their chips to help fill in Roberts street.

With repair and rebuilding work being started on the streets in every city in the Commonwealth the business at the Old Colony Broken Stone Co., on Vernon street is rushing as it never has before. In addition to the several carloads of crush stone which leaves the crusher every day two auto trucks are busy hauling to Quincy and nearby cities.

It is interesting to note that in the book recently published by Henry Welles Durhan, formerly chief engineer of the Bureau of Highways in New York City, it is stated that granite paving is recognized in Europe as the best substance with which to build a street. The city of Boston has three-fifths of its streets in macadam while most other cities have a larger percentage of granite paving With Boston so near the paving supplied and knowing that it is a fact that paving is the best it seems odd that more of her streets are not of the latter construction

---

Will the resignation of Arthur B. Hultman from the Board of Mansgers of Public Burial Grounds cast into oblivion the proposed chapel at Mount Wollaston Cemetery? Although Mr. Hultman has had his differences with the other members of the board and his honor it must be said that this movement was a good one and one from which the city would profit. It would seem too bad after what work has been done on this project already to have it abandoned. The manufacturers have shown their interest by the letters published in the Ledger a few weeks ago in which they offered to contribute a stone to the proposed chapel. It is hoped that the two granite men and also the other two members of the Board will follow up the good work already started and that by next spring the chapel will be a reality. There is hardly a cemetery of the size of Mount Wollaston in the suburbs of Boston which has not a chapel. When such a chance to erect one at such a nominal cost is offered how can the board fail to act on the matter at once.

Should some of the granite workers of ye olden time return to life and visit the granite cutting district, their eyes would certainly bulge in wonderment. In those days all work was cut by hand. There were no heated sheds in winter for the men to work in and it not unfrequently happened that the tool with which they were working froze to the hand. Then again the swift working pneumatic tools were not heard of and all carved work had to be done by the slow hand process. Now any cutting shed that is not fully equipped with pneumatic tools is not in condition to compete for business. Compressed air pipes run to all parts of the shed and all a workman has to do is to turn a valve and go to it. Letters and carved work are done not only quicker but much better.

Financial Review

Though unsettled on Friday, the stock market continued strong throughout the first portion of the week, presumably upon the hope that this country would not be involved to the extent of actual hostilities with Germany. President Wilson's calm but firm policy had an assuring effect and the country, though deeply stirred refused to become excited. Nevertheless, there is no concealing the fact that the country is facing a grave crisis, and no one can tell the outcome of the present controversy. A peaceful settlement, it is to be hoped, will be reached.

The effect of war upon the United States will be less serious than upon any other nation. We can at present probably do but little harm to Germany and she can certainly do still less to us. Some further derangement of international trade and finance may follow but nothing like the blow which fell so unexpectedly last July. In fact, the United States is exceedingly well prepared to meet any such shock, and no serious disturbance need be anticipated; besides, at this writing it is premature to indulge such fears, and better to hope for a peaceful outcome.

Unavoidably the war continues to outweigh all other considerations in financial circles. When the finances of all the great Powers in the world are under the greatest strain in history; when millions of men are engaged in destruction instead of production, and that by the most destructive methods which devilish ingenuity can invent; when the trade of several of the greatest commercial nations is demoralized; when international industries are being destroyed wholesale; only misguided optimism can talk about real prosperity.

The United States has one supreme advantage; its isolation from European politics. Our relations with Europe are becoming closer and closer every year as commerce and intercourse grow, but thus far our policy of avoiding entangling alliances has proved wise and safe. That policy should not be departed from except for strenuous reasons; and whatever our sympathies all efforts to support actively one interest or the other should be instantly suppressed.

President Wilson has acted in a manner that deserves the approval and support of the American people He has upheld the honor dignity and safety of Americans with a firm hand avoiding offense and insisting upon justice. The country is fortunate in having at its head a man of such firmness, temperateness, sound judgment and high purpose. This is one source for true self-congratulation Another source of satisfaction is the self-restraint manifested by the American people. Public self-control has been shown to a remarkable degree, and this is one of our best assurances for keeping out of the conflict.

Aside from the war, conditions in the United States are slowly but surely mending. We have now entered a period when agricultural conditions are a vital factor. Some of our crops are likely to be late and their condition is not always as high as the exceptional averages of a year ago The condition, however, is generally above the average and the acreage under cultivation is increased—the reduction in cotton being made up in other crops—and there is every assurance of a good export demand for all agricultural products at satisfactory prices. Already the outlook is for a record wheat crop.

Our industrial situation is slowly emerging from the extreme depression of a year ago.—Henry Clews, Banker.

W. H. DUNBAR BUYS FARM

Goes to Norwell After 20 Years as Printer

After a service of upwards of twenty years in the Ledger composing room Walter H. Dunbar at the close of busines today laid aside his black apron and with a parting look at the case at which he has so long been employed, bade good bye to his fellow employees. The reason is that Walter is going back to nature.

Long has he had a feeling that he would like to pass the mature years of his life on a farm. Now he is about to have that wish realized. Saturday the papers were passed conveying to him a pretty two acre farm in the town of Norwell, and here genial Walter will hereafter be found, tilling the soil, milking the cows, and feeding the hens and chicks.

Walter learned the printer's trade in Boston and came to Quincy about 21 years ago and soon after entered the Ledger office. For several years his particular line of work has been in the jobbing department of which he has been foreman. Although he has never had any experience on a large farm the practical knowledge needed will come from his son William, who has recently completed a special course in agriculture.

Walter's friends in the Ledger office unite in wishing him all kinds of good luck in his new venture and hope before the summer is out to have he pleasure of passing a holiday on the farm.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. As the time for receiving petitions and orders for street work, involving an appropriation of money, has expired, any such received at tonight's meeting will under the rules of the council, be referred immediately to the city council of 1916. The Co-operative Tire

Goodyear has always built co-operative tires. Every saving has gone to the user. The more men bought the better we built them, and the lower we sold them.

That is why Goodyear has held top place, outselling any other tire.

3 Reductions

Note that in two years we made three big price reductions. The last—on February 1st—brought the total to 45 per cent.

Yet in costly ways these tires have been bettered. In not one iota were they ever skimped.

Our Fortified Tire is still "On-Air" cured to save blowouts. Yet that one extra costs us $450,000 yearly.

It still has our No-Rim-Cut feature. It has in each base 126 braided piano wires to make the tire secure. It embodies hundreds of rubber rivets, formed to combat loose treads.

Our All-Weather tread is still double-thick. It still has the sharp, tough, resistless grips.

Those extras—all exclusive to Goodyear—are all retained, despite our price reductions. And we still spend $100,000 yearly to discover new ways to better them.

Your Ally

In all these ways, Goodyear is your ally. You do injustice to yourself when you fail to secure this advantage. Never in tire history was such value given as you get in Goodyear tires today.

No smaller makers can ever give so much.

Any dealer will supply you. [2327]

REMMI HAD ESCAPED JAIL

The belief of the police that John Remmi, who was arrested the other day as he was wining and dining half a dozen women in a Boston cafe with money stolen from the house he boarded at, was an escaped New Hampshire prisoner has been corroborated.

This morning Inspector Goodhue received information that Remmi some time ago was sentenced to six months in the Sullivan county jail and was fined $50 for larceny and escaped. When he completes his term of six months at the House of Correction at Dedham he will probably be turned over to the New Hampshire authorities.

A sale and supper will be given by the Woman's guild of St. Chrysostom's church Thursday afternoon and evening in the parish house. Supper will be served at 6.30 P. M. At nine o'clock the floor will be cleared for dancing.

At the morning service the pastor preached upon "The Value of Sentiment" from the text "And David longed and said O that one would give me water to drink of the well of Bethlehem which is by the gate," I Chronicles 11. 17.

Rev. Mr Horst said: "We have hearts as well as heads The controlling power in human life is not intellectual, but emotional. Therefore 'Keep thy heart with all diligence for out of it are the issues of life.' Sentiment is one of the most vital and persistent of human impulses. It is the foundation of the family, the defence of the nation, the power and heart of religion."

The meeting of the Young People's Religious Union in the evening was led by Fred M. Rollins and was most helpful.

Do not forget the meeting of the Parent-Teachers association in Wollaston School Hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

Dr. Sneath led his people out into the world of nature at the morning service yesterday. He declared that in the opening of the growing season we should get in close touch with nature and as John Fiske said come through nature to nature's God. "Nature is a great teacher to those who are willing to learn. It assures us of a Heavenly Father who keeps and provides. We should steadfastly trust in Him who watches over us with an eye that neither slumbers nor sleeps.

"Nature enforces the divine law of recompense, that whatsoever we sow we shall also reap. It most positively illustrates for us the beautiful life of loving service, constantly giving out itself in service and sacrifice to the end that life shall be preserved to us."

At six o'clock the three endeavor societies held a union meeting in charge of Alfred Clough, Elsie Broughton and Arthur Eastman. The Juniors sangs very effectively their rallying song, "Juniors all."

At the close of the morning service Dr. Sneath announced that the boys had organized a base ball team and that their committee would stand with their caps at the door of the church for contributions. They received ten dollars and more will follow.

Dr. Sneath will attend the General Conference of the Congregational churches of Massachusetts which will open at Pittsfield Tuesday afternoon.

At the regular mid-week service on Thursday evening the topic will be "Lessons from the Seven Marys of the New Testament."

On Friday evening the Y. P. S. C. E will hold a business meeting at the parsonage. On Saturday the society will conduct a food sale for the benefit of the Parish House fund at Gray's Grocery store

Next Sunday the Sunday School will observe "200 Day" being an effort to have present two hundred persons at the session of the school.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST

At the morning service the pastor Rev. Joseph Walther gave a helpful message, taikng the text from a part of Paul's beautiful prayer ofr the Philipians. Philip 1:10. That ye may distinguish the things that diqer.

"How little oftentimes we distinguish the things that differ: for instance in Christians. There is a sense in which they are alike. Their hopes, their submission to Christ, their baptism and church membership But in ways they differ. In their experience, growth, fruitage, consecration and sanctification.

"Distinguish then the things that differ: discriminate between Christians. Recognize a difference. Be careful whom you trust, be careful whom you jdge.

"The need to distingish those teachings in the bible meant for Israel and those meant for us today, also the times in which the scriptures were written and translated. We should also distinguish the difference in churches and in Faith. One thing seems evident and that is weneed in relation to God, to men and to ourselves. Where shall wisdom be found? James tells us, 'If any man lack wisdom let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally and upbraideth not: and it shall be given him.'"

After the morning service the Sunday School assembled for bible study 315 being present.

The Junior Endeavors united with the Senior C. E. society at 6.00. Harold Neal was the leader ofthemeeting Subject: "Why I Believe in Christian Endeavor." 2 Tim. 1: 1-14.

Points for Mothers

Moral Failings of Nervous Children.

Stealing is not as common as untruthfulness and usually takes the mild form of the pilfering of jellies or sweets. Thus frequently we find the physical basis right there in the demand of the system for more sugar. Some children will take from others what they consider trifles merely from a desire to possess and would not think of appropriating anything of great value. Such a child does not consider this a form of theft and if rudely awakened to the fact that it is will suffer marked nervous shock. In a hysterical desire to ingratiate themselves with parents or teachers some children will steal money and other valuables, but always with a desire to give it to others and reserve none for themselves.

Now, in dealing with any of these forms of theft the child must not be accused of being a thief; neither must his act be called theft. It must be clearly shown to him that the act is not right; that he has no right to anything which belongs to another, and then the promise may be exacted that he will respect these rights in the future. The child should not be impressed with the full gravity of the offense because he will then be in dread of the punishment which he sees meted out to ordinary thieves. But the parent must not overlook even apparently harmless pilfering of sweets. A continuance of such habits may lead to the taking of valuables, and it must be checked as soon as possible.

A Mother's Seven Commandments.

Make love to every one, including your own children. If you say pretty things to the kiddies they will say pretty things to you.

The larger number of children in a family the better are the opportunities for a natural education. Your youngest child is always the brightest, because one child learns from another quicker than from an older person.

Never say "don't" to a child. If he becomes mischievous try to interest him in something else.

Never force a child. There is no danger of overburdening his brain with knowledge as long as he is interested. When you see you are tiring him let him rest.

Keep your children cheerful and happy by being cheerful and happy yourself. A disposition can be made in youth.

Not every mother is adapted to educate her own children, but all who can should do it.

All mothers should believe in the fairies and should make their babies believe in them. As long as they are your friend you will be happy.

Give Children Plenty of Sleep.

Modern education imposes upon children who are industrious, but slow, an increasing mental strain, and such children require much time for sleep. But the matter of sleep can be overdone as well as underdone. "Early to bed" is always a good principle and applies to all children. "Early to rise" is also a good principle for most children, but not for all. The child who is drowsy and languid in the morning, who begins his day lacking freshness and spirit, should be allowed to sleep longer in the morning until it has been determined what the definite cause may be, and irrespective of the baneful effect of loss of sleep upon the health of the child a pupil suffering from such loss cannot be sent to its instructor except with the assurance that its best mental work cannot be accomplished.

Disturbed Sleep.

When a child wakens frequently this is generally due to nervous irritability. Not infrequently this depends upon poor or improper nourishment.

Careful consideration should be given to the question of diet, for it may be insufficient in amount or of such character that it is not easily digested. Fully half the instances of disturbed sleep are due to this one cause.

If the sleeping apartment is overheated or is poorly ventilated, so that the child is robbed during sleep of good fresh air or the bed coverings are insufficient or uncomfortable this will result in disturbed sleep. Naturally with these causes present any undue excitement will aggravate the trouble.

Moral Responsibility.

At seven a child should know clearly the difference between right and wrong. We do not hold him by this that he can then decide thier questions of duty and morals, but he will be able to discern what is right from what is not; and, having that power, he is accountable for his acts, if normally developed. If there is a failure at this age to discern these clearly the child should receive the benefit of a thorough physical examination to discover the fault.

Help For Mothers.

For sore throats beat the white of a fresh egg with half a teaspoonful of sugar. Then squeeze the juice of half a lemon into this. Give a teaspoonful every hour.

For a sprain beat the white of an egg with a teaspoonful of salt. Dip cloth into this, then bind on sprain. As soon as cloth dries saturate it again.

URGES NEED OF REAL SACRIFICE

Does Not Belisve, However, We Will Go to War

In his sermon on "Christian Personality," at the First Parish church Sunday, Rev. A. L. Hudson asserted that one essential feature was a willingness to make substantial sacrifices if necessary, in supporting our ideals of right.

"I am not unmindful," he said, "of the spirit of anxiety and apprehension which is in the air at the present time in view of our possible participation in the European war. Personally I do not believe we shall be drawn into that conflict. On the contrary I believe that the firm stand taken by our President with the certainty that the people, regardless of party, are behind him, will prevent us from drifting into a situation in which war would be inevitable. But the important thing for us, as a brave responsible, liberty-loving, justice-loving, Christian nation, is to be prepared for any contingency which may arise.

"Much is said today about the physical unpreparedness of the United States for war. But an even more important matter to be considered, either for peace or war, is our moral preparedness. And that invokes a willingness to make sacrifices if need be for the right. I realize fully what that means to you mothers and fathers of splendid sons whom we all love and admire. But I think I know you. I know the stock you came from. I know the spirit of loyal service and willing self-sacrifice which has been handed down in this old church for nearly three centuries, and which has furnished to our country worthy and useful citizens in every time of need.

"I understand the shrinking and the dread while all remains uncertain. But if the time shall come when you are forced to kneel in your garden of Gethsemane, while the heart will give out its anguished cry 'If it be possible let this cup pass from me,' I know that in the supreme test you would be strong enough to rise in the spirit of the Master with his words upon your lips. 'Nevertheless not my will but thine be done.' And our beloved city would show the world that it still has sons worthy to be brothers to those who in the past have brought great honor to its name through faithful service of their country."

GAME WEDNESDAY.
Weymouth at Quincy.

Quincy High school on Friday lost its first game in the South Shore Interscholastic league to Brockton High at Brockton by a score of 9 to 0. Ten base hits, six bases on balls, five wild pitches and five passed balls cost Quincy the game.

Quincy was outhit from the start. The game was virtually won in the second inning when a hit, an error another hit and two bases on balls, brought about Hoffses' retirement. The home teams welcomed Hamlin by getting two hits.

Riordan, who suffered a fractured ankle sliding home, previous to his accident was the star of the game. He got three hits, three stolen bases, scored two runs and made a sensational catch.

Larkin made the star play for Quincy when he dove into the air and knocked down a hard hit liner headed for the outfield. He did not recover it, however, in time to get an assist.

The Quincy boys failed to come across with the necessary stitchwork. Of the five hits made, two were by Reardon, two by Dorley and one by Bryan. Three of the five hits led off the innings but it seemed to be impossible to get a man by second base. Four of the local men fanned attempting to bunt.

Reardon made an unusual error in the second when in fielding a ball at centre he booted it to left field, giving Brockton a velvet tally. The summary:

TACK NETS FOUR RUNS BY HOMER

Capt. Tack Hardwick drove out a homer with the bases full and got a two bagger in the Harvard-Boston College game Friday and helped his team win 10 to 0. Capt. Hardwick not only led the way in stickwork but also led the team in fact no succesor having been appointed to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Sexton, the coach.

ONE WAY OUT.

Nine Get Abatement of Tax Valuations.

One way out for citizens who are victims of over valuation of property has been indicated by nine persons in Cambridge who petitioned the Middlesex county commissioners for abatement in Tax Valuations made by the Cambridge assessors in 1913 and 1914. The commissioners ordered abatement.

The assessed valuation of the combined property of the nine appellants, as made by the assessors, amounted to $2,875,500, while the county commissioners' decision set the total valuations at $1,892,578, making a reduction of $982,922.

In order to keep the tax rate down during the past two years, the Cambridge assessors made many raises in valuations, which brought forth many complaints. These nine petitions were filed last fall and several hearings were held.

This loss to the city will undoubtedly seriously affect the tax rate of Cambridge for the ensuing year.

THREE-MILE LIMIT.

When the jurisdiction of a marine nation was fixed at a line parallel to the shore extending three miles from mean low tide out to sea the intention was to keep hostile vessels at a distance from the land greater than the range of the guns then in use. Since then the advances made in gunnery make it necessary to carry the line farther out to sea. Just how that can be accomplished it is hard to say. When the present war is over the settlement made of some of the features of civilized warfare that need readjustment, possibly this three-mile limit may be given some attention. When a gun may be placed so that it can hit an object 20 miles distant, as was the case of the gun that bombarded Dunkirk, it is time to look after the defenses of important cities. It has been held that a range of 12 miles is the limit of a gun fired from a vessel, because the piece cannot be elevated to reach a longer range without endangering the ship. It is claimed that the guns in forts along our coast can throw projectiles at vessels farther off shore than 12 miles, by remounting them so that the guns can be fired with a 45-degree elevation. The experience of Dunkirk should open the eyes of the artillerists who have charge of our coast defences. —Lynn Item.

SPORTING COMMENT

The South Shore Interscholastic league opens today with Quincy and Brockton at Brockton.

The Machinists and Electricians play in a Fore River Sunset League game at the Point next Tuesday.

Dr. Frank J. Sexton has resigned as coach of the Harvard nine. He gives "persistent interference on the part of the advisory committee" as the reason. Graduate Treasurer Moore states the coach agreed to accept the aid of the committee. Captain Hardwick hopes to secure Percy Haughton of the football team for the finish of the season. Haughton played varsity ball and was captain in 1899 and Captain Hardwick believes he will be induced to succeed Dr Sexton and that he will have the assistance of the base ball committee and the former varsity players.

The Braves and Cardinals could not play on account of rain Thursday and spent the afternoon at the theatre. They didn't see a poor play.

John Henry is in a Chicago hospital with a badly spiked leg and will not play again with Washington for a fortnight.

Manager McGraw has released Fromme to the Jersey City team of the International league.

It has been decided that there will be no Colonial League team in Quincy reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

The nights may be warm and pleasant but the lure of the gleaming maples has by no means faded and the manipulators of the wooden spheres are still rolling strikes and spares.

The Massachusetts Fields school beat Lincoln in the Grammar school league Friday afternoon by a score of 4 to 1.

"Tack" Hardwick put the shot 440 ft. 1-2 in. in Harvard-Yale dual meet at New Haven Saturday. "Charlie" Brickley topped him by four inches. Whether they were second and third place men or first and second place men depends on whether or not Ross, of Yale, who made a distance of 45 ft. 1 1-2 in., is eligible. If he is ruled out Hardwick and Buckley will move up a place and garntr the points necessary for Harvard to win

Greenaway, the veteran Boston bowler, who it was reported declined to roll Olindy a second series of 40 strings, has consented to a return match. The first 20 strings will be rolled at the Wardwell alleys tonight and the second 20 at the Arch street alleys, Boston Tuesday night.

The purse is said to be $100, the same as the amount bet on the first match in which Greenaway was the winner by 116 pins. It is generally believed the veteran will be a victor for the second time but the fans would not be surprised to see Olindy finish in first place. In that event the final meeting will be the biggest post-season contest ever held in connection with local bowling, excepting the Poehler affairs

AMERICANS IN DANGER

Marines May Land In Mexico Because of Yaqui Uprising

Washington, May 17.—As the result of the killing of three Americans, marines from the United States cruisers New Orleans and Raleigh may be put ashore at Guaymas to march to the relief of fifty Americans reported surrounded by Yaqui Indians near Esperanza.

General Villa has sent troops to aid the Americans, but his men are Indians for the most part and cannot be relied upon to serve against the Yaquis. About 500 Yaquis are said to be on the warpath to regain some of their lost lands.

Prof. Jay William Hudson, of the University of Missouri, was the principal speaker Friday morning at the town hall at the observance of "Peace Day" among the upper grades and High school. The chairman of the meeting was Supt. of schools. Frank M. Marsh. On the platform Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes, president of the Massachusetts Women's Peace Party, Mrs. Dabney. Miss Dabney and Miss Hester Cunningham of the School committee were seated as guests of honor. Music was furnished by the three Fuller sisters of England who are making a tour over the country. They sang English and Scotch folk songs, two or three hundred years old. The program included: "I Would that the Wars were well Over," "The Flowers of the Forest," "The White Cockade," "The Roman Soldiers," "The Five Soldiers."

Prof. Hudson was greeted with great applause by the school body and he had spoken no more than five minutes when he had the entire audience of young people very much interested in his subject which was; "Why War Isn't Such a Glorious Thing."

The professor said in part: "The nations of the world have now become acquainted and are friends with one another. They have now become one great family and are beginning to accomplish things together. Just as soon as one nation dkes war on another nation she is making war on the very nation she needs as a friend We have no better proof of the interdependence of nations than the state of the U. S. at the present time. Although we are not engaged in this war we are hurt seriously by it. War is foolish and therefore must go!"

CHAPTER XXV.

As Handsome Does.

When Sabron next opened his eyes he fancied that he was at home in his old room in Rouen, in the house where he was born, in the little room in which, as a child, dressed in his dimity night gown, he had sat up in his bed by candle light to learn his letters from the cookery book.

The room was snowy white. Outside the window he heard a bird sing, and near by, he heard a dog's smothered bark. Then he knew that he was not at home or a child, for with the languor and weakness came his memory. A quiet nurse in a hospital dress was sitting by his bed, and Pitchoune rose from the foot of the bed and looked at him adoringly.

He was in a hospital in Algiers.

"Pitchoune," he murmured, not knowing the name of his other companion, "where are we, old fellow?"

The nurse replied in an agreeable Anglo-Saxon French:

"You are in a French hospital in Algiers, sir, and doing well."

Tremont came up to him.

"I remember you," Sabron said. "You have been near me a dozen times lately."

"You must not talk, mon vieux."

"But I feel as though I must talk a great deal. Didn't you come for me into the desert?"

Tremont, healthy, vigorous, tanned, gay and cheerful, seemed good looking to poor Sabron, who gazed up at him with touching gratitude.

"I think I remember everything. I think I shall never forget it," he said, and lifted his hand feebly. Robert de Tremont took it. "Haven't we traveled far together, Tremont?"

"Yes," nodded the other, affected, "but you must sleep now. We will talk about it over our cigars and liquors soon."

Sabron smiled faintly. His clear mind was regaining its balance, and thoughts began to sweep over it cruelly fast. He looked at his rescuer, and to him the other's radiance meant simply that he was engaged to Miss Redmond. Of course that was natural. Sabron tried to accept it and to be glad for the happiness of the man who had rescued him. But as he thought this, he wondered why he had been rescued and shut his eyes so that Tremont might not see his weakness. He said hesitatingly:

"I am haunted by a melody, a tune. Could you help me? It won't come."

"It's not the "Marseillaise?" asked the other, sitting down by his side and pulling Pitchoune's ears.

"Oh, no!"

"There will be singing in the ward shortly. A Red Cross nurse comes to sing to the patients. She may help you to remember."

Sabron renounced in despair. Haunting, tantalizing in his brain and illusive, the notes began and stopped, began and stopped. He wanted to ask his friend a thousand questions. How he had come to him, why he had come to him, how he knew. . . . He gave it all up and dozed, and while he slept the sweet sleep of those who are to recover, he heard the sound of a woman's voice in the distance, singing, one after another, familiar melodies, and finally he heard the "Kyrie Eleison," and to its music Sabron again fell asleep.

The next day he received a visitor. It was not an easy matter to introduce visitors to his bedside, for Pitchoune objected. Pitchoune received the Marquise d'Esclignac with great displeasure.

"Is he a thoroughbred?" asked the Marquise d'Esclignac.

"He has behaved like one," replied the officer.

There was a silence. The Marquise d'Esclignac was wondering what her niece saw in the pale man so near still to the borders of the other world.

"You will be leaving the army, of course," she murmured, looking at him interestedly.

"Madame!" said the Capitaine de Sabron, with his blood—all that was in him—rising to his cheeks.

"I mean that France has done nothing for you. France did not rescue you and you may feel like seeking a more—another career."

Sabron could not reply. Her ribbons and flowers and jewels shook in his eyes like a kaleidoscope. His flush had made him more natural. In his invalid state, with his hair brushed back from his fine brow, there was something spiritual and beautiful about him. The Marquise d'Esclignac looked on a man who had been far and who had determined of his own accord to come back. She said more gently, putting her hand affectionately over his:

"Get well, my boy—get well. Eat all the good things we are making for you. I dare say that the army cannot spare you. It needs brave hearts."

Sabron was so agitated after her departure that the nurse said he must receive no more visits for several days, and he meditated and longed and thought and wondered, and nearly cursed the life that had brought him back to a world which must be lonely for him henceforth.

When he sat up in bed he was a shadow. He had a book to read and read a few lines of it, but he put it down as the letters blurred. He was sitting so, dreaming and wondering how true or how false it was that he had seen Julia Redmond come several times to his bedside during the early days of his illness here in the hospital. Then across his troubled mind suddenly came the words that he had heard her sing, and he tried to recall them. The Red Cross nurse who so charitably sang in the hospital came to the wards and began her mission. One after another she sang familiar songs.

"How the poor devils must love it!" Sabron thought, and he blessed her for charity.

How familiar was her voice! But that was only because he was so ill. But he began to wonder and to doubt, and across the distance came the notes of the tune, the melody of the song that had haunted him for many months:

When He Sat Up in Bed He Was a Shadow.

God keep you safe, my love,
All through the night;
Rest close in his encircling arms
Until the light.
My heart is with you as I kneel to pray,
Good night! God keep you in his care alway.

Thick shadows creep like silent ghosts
About my head;
I lose myself in tender dreams
While overhead
The moon comes stealing through the window-bars,
A silver sickle gleaming 'mid the stars.

For I, though I am far away,
Feel safe and strong,
To trust you thus, dear love—and yet,
The night is long.
I say with sobbing breath the old fond prayer,
Good night! Sweet dreams! God keep you everywhere!"

When she had finished singing there were tears on the soldier's cheeks and he was not ashamed. Pitchoune, who remembered the tune as well, crept up to him and laid his head on his master's hand. Sabron had just time to wipe away the tears when the Due de Tremont came in.

"Old fellow, do you feel up to seeing Miss Redmond for a few moments?"

* * * * * * *

When she came in he did not know whether he most clearly saw her simple summer dress with the single jewel at her throat, her large hat that framed her face, or the gentle lovely face all sweetness and sympathy. He believed her to be the future Duchesse de Tremont.

"Monsieur de Sabron, we are all so glad you are getting well."

"Thank you, Mademoiselle."

He seemed to look at her from a great distance, from the distance to the end of which he had so wearily been traveling. She was lovelier than he had dreamed, more rarely sweet and adorable.

"Did you recognize the little song, Monsieur?"

"It was good of you to sing it."

"This is not the first time I have seen you, Monsieur de Sabron. I came when you were too ill to know of it."

"Then I did not dream," said the officer simply.

He was as proud as he was poor. He could only suppose her engaged to the Duc de Tremont. It explained her presence here. In his wildest dreams he could not suppose that she had followed him to Africa. Julia, on her part, having done an extraordinary and wonderful thing, like every brave woman, was seized with terror and a sudden cowardice. Sabron, after all, was a stranger. How could she know his feelings for her? She spent a miserable day. He was out of all danger; in a fortnight he might leave the hospital. She did not feel that she could see him again as things were. The Comtesse de la Maine had returned to Paris as soon as Tremont came in from the desert.

"Ma tante," said Julia Redmond to the Marquise d'Esclignac, "can we go back to France immediately?"

"My dear Julia!" exclaimed her aunt, in surprise and delight. "Robert will be enchanted, but he would not be able to leave his friend so soon."

"He need not," said the girl, "nor need you leave unless you wish."

The Marquise d'Esclignac entertained a thousand thoughts. She had not studied young girl's minds for a long time. She had heard that the modern American girl was very extreme and she held her in rather light esteem. Julia Redmond she had considered to be out of the general rule. "Was it possible," she wondered, "that Julia, in comparing Tremont with the invalid, found Robert more attractive?"

NEW YORK LABOR WARS

Criminal Band Leaders Confess Crimes to District Attorney

New York, May 17.—The stories which frightened band leaders are daily telling Assistant District Attorney Brackenridge as a result of the confession of "Dopey Benny" Fein are fast developing into a recital of professional terrorizing that has forced Fein's story into practical insignificance.

The throwing of bombs and the blinding of highly paid workers with sulphuric acid in the fierce labor wars of the past few years are only some of the things learned about through the now confessions.

The investigators learned that Fein with his boasted $10,000 a year in earnings was as nothing compared to other leaders willing to take more desperate chances and consequently capable of demanding higher prices. These were the men who conducted their operations in such a way as to throw suspicion toward the Black Hand and other such organizations.

JOLLY TARS ENJOY LIVELY "OPENER"

Members and Guests of Squantum Y. C. Hear Varied Program

BANQUET, SONGS SPEECHES

At its "opener" Saturday evening the Squantum Yacht club served out that brand of good time that the jolly tars of Wollaston Beach have learned to look forward to from year to year. This year the entire program was one of the liveliest and best in the history of the club.

From the time Sprague's orchestra first tuned up, a little after seven, until the last song was sung there was something doing every minute. Many visiting yachtsmen and public officials graced the head tables at the banquet which was served. Among them were:

Thomas F. Bruen, secretary South Boston Y. C., Vice Commodore G. Wesley Sargent, Ex-Commodore Eleazer F. Drew, J. J. Harland, ex-president of the Inter club, Commodore H. A. Vose of the Savin Hill Yacht club, Commodore Frank F. Taylor of the Wollaston Yacht club, Commodore George H. Bean, Commodore Henry S. Crane of the Quincy Yacht club, Dr. F. E. Dawes, vice president Massachusetts Y. R. U., Ralph Goudey, president Massachusetts Y. R. U., Commodore Fred K. Wells of the Winthrop Yacht club, Commodore John J. Tobin of the South Boston Yacht club, Senator Louis F. R. Langelier, Representative Edward J. Sandberg, Nathan Thummin.

The following menu was served by Caterer Seiler:

Bouillon en tasse Bread Sticks
Boiled Salmon Egg Sauce
Sweetbread Cutlets Green Peas
Cold Roast Chicken Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Potatoes
Lobster Salad
French Cream Puffs
Benedictine Sauce
Ice Creams
Fancy Harlequin Frozen Pudding
Assorted Sherbets
Assorted Cakes Rolls Coffee

During the banquet several cabaret singers wended their way among the diners. There was lively music by the orchestra and choruses of the popular songs were sung with a will. A flashlight photograph of those present was among the events of the evening.

In greeting the guests Commodore Bean urged a greater club loyalty and asked that all work for a larger membership. Much was said for reciprocity between the Wollaston and Squantum clubs.

Senator Langelier brought the greetings of the good old Commonwealth of Massachusetts for a prosperous season. He stated that work would be begun immediately on the channel to make life easy for those caught after the tide had gone out.

Speaking on good roads he referred to the revenue received from automobile owners. Out of the two million expended nearly a million is received from the sale of the little blue number plates. He urged that the spirit of getting together or the two clubs be agitated.

Speaking of the sentiment on Beacon hill regarding the war he said "The United States is facing the worst crisis since Sumter was fired upon. Regardless of party differences, every one of us proposes to stand by our president and our flag until this crisis is over." "Three cheers for President Wilson," shouted someone, and they were given with a will.

Commodore Taylor of the Wollaston club spoke strongly for amalgamation. He drew a vivid picture of the commodious club house with bowling alleys dining room etc., which could be built through the combined efforts of the two clubs united. He urged that Commodore Bean appoint a committee to meet his club and talk the matter over.

Commodore Bean read a letter from Lombard Williams, a Boston Port Director, regarding the channel and then introduced President Goudey of the Y. R. U. Goudey was in excellent humor and as usual, had a story to tell.

Ex-Commodore Drew told how his boat won the Bermuda cup race and Commodore Crane of the Quincy club made personal reference to Commodore Bean in the remarks. Commodore Wells of Winthrop followed.

Dr. F. E. Dawes, ex-commodore of the Wollaston club and vice president of the Y P. R. U. acknowledged it to be his first appearance at a Squantum opener. He declared this club to de indispensable to him as a large number of his racing crew was recruited from it.

Commodore Tobin of South Boston, Commodore Vose of Savin Hill and "Jack" Harland of South Boston followed. Representative Edward J. Sandberg in a witty speech said among other things:

"Commodore Bean and common sailors. My duty is to get more water. If Quincy boats get more water they will beat the world. What we need in Quincy is more water." "Beer" yelled a joker in the audience.

"Tommy" Bruen of South Boston spoke of the race at South Boston on May 31. This closed the speaking and then tables were cleared for the vaudeville that followed.

The show was a fine one and was given by a roupe of professionals from Boston. The numbers included singing and dancing acts character and comedy sketches and costume changes. The program was a varied and lively one and the audience pronounced it the best ever.

The "opener" was in charge of the house committee consisting of: J. M. Ellison, H. J. Walsh, H. A. Ward, G. L. Bean and G. H. Broadbent.

Among those present were:

J. W. Mellish, Arthur K. Manning, Arthur J. York, George H. Kendrick, Fred Waterhouse, W. A. Thompson, Jr., F. D. Field, Jr., Crawford G. York T. F. Larkin J. E. Fitzgerald, J. W. Jewell, J. V. CHORAL SOCIETY MAKES ITS BOW

The newly organized Choral society of Skandia lodge, Vasa Order, appeared in a public concert for the first time Saturday night in Electa hall.

The concert followed a whist party, conducted by Skandia lodge at which the winners were Miss Helen Peterson, Miss Almira Carlstrom, John Johnson and Carl Carlson.

A score of members participated in rendering the program which consisted of folk and national songs of Sweden. The society sang without its director. It was well received by those present.

The committee in charge of the evening included the members, headed by John Hedin, chairman; Fritz Olson, secretary and Charles Backman, treasurer.

RECORD IN SUBMARINE CONSTRUCTION IS MADE

Fore River Builds Ten For England In Four Months

All previous records in submarine construction in the United States have been surpassed at the Fore River shipyard where ten submarines for the British government have been built in four months from the time the keels were laid, and all, in the event of the United States becoming involved in war, can be taken over on payment of the cost of construction to the British government.

The previous average for submarine construction in this country has been from two to three years and the speed with which these have been made ready is taken in international circles as an intimation of what this country could do in case of emergency.

The United States has been considered far behind England, Germany and France in quick construction until the local shipyard demonstrated what could be done. The showing has been made without any of the employees working at night.

While there was need for hurrying the British submarines so the company could use the ways in completing other contracts on hand the British government is in no hurry to take them over, the agreement being made shortly after war was declared that delivery would not be made until treaties of peace had been signed.

The original contract called for a dozen underwater craft to be delivered in parts immediately. Because of protests Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Co., of which the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation is a subsidiary, secured a change in the contract.

Work was actually begun on all twelve but only ten of them have been assembled. The material for the two others are piled up alongside the ways.

This extra material has started a rumor the past few days that the completed craft are to be taken down and stored until the time of delivery. This rumor is groundless because the company plans to give the boats their trials within a few weeks.

These boats are of a type not in use on the Atlantic coast but employed by the American navy on the Pacific side. They resemble closely the H type boats, built under the act of Congress of March 3, 1909, H-1, H-2 and H-3 (formerly the Seawolf, Nautilus and Garfish), each of which cost $491,999. They are about 135 feet long. There are several boats building on the Pacific coast for the British Government and these also would be taken without a doubt should an emergency arise.

FIFTY FIVE BUT LIKED TO DANCE

Baby Plays Leading Role in Domestic Comedy

A two year old baby boy, bright and as active as most youngsters of its age, squirmed and kicked in the arms of Mrs. Michael Sefario his mother this morning as she testified before Judge Avery as to why she charged her husband with neglect.

A short distance away sat the father, the defendant, and when the little tot was not coaxing the mother for attention he cast his eyes in a most appealing way toward the father gently waving his tiny hands. Once the father moved as though to step to the stand and take the baby but he settled back in his seat, and the baby happy in the recognition quieted down and nestled on the mother's shoulder.

After his wife testified that he had been cruel and did not provide for her she took a seat near him but the baby's affections had changed entirely back to the mother.

Sefario told the judge he could not support his wife and that one of his objections was that she wanted to care for her mother who although claiming to be hungry and 55 years of age wanted continually to attend dances.

Judge Avery, Miran Sevasly of Boston, counsel for the defendant, and Chief Pratt of Weymouth, representing his wife, held a lengthy conference on the domestic relations of husband and wife and at its close his honor decreed that Sefario should pay his wife $4 per week and should make an effort to live with her. She said she was willing to try again.

Atty. Sevasly in pointing out how necessary it was to observe the advice given by Judge Avery severely lectured his client.

All connected with the court house were touched by the cute ways of the child. Court Officer Marden played papa once again and besides getting a "dink of wawer" patted the chubby cheeks. Others played with the boy in the corridors. The little fellow although apparently strong has weathered two attacks of pneumonia, and the need of proper nourishment for the wife and baby prompted Chief Pratt to bring the complaint.

PARENTS ENJOY ATHLETIC DRILL

Association Elects Officers For Next Year

A demonstration of the methods followed in the physical training of pupils in the Wollaston school was the interesting program enjoyed Monday evening at the closing meeting for the year of the Wollaston Parent Teachers' Association.

This practical demonstration was given by children from the higher grades under the special direction of Dr. J. Gardiner Smith, physical director of the Quincy public schools.

Various corrective drills and calisthenics were performed by five groups of children in charge of the following teachers; Miss Catherine Brown and Miss Ruth Stopp of Grade VI, Miss Ellen Shine and Miss Margaret Nuthill of Grade VII and Miss R. Grace Warshaw of Grade VIII.

Two sets of athletic events were indulged in by boys from Grade VI and VII. They were divided into two teams representing Yale and Harvard, under the respective leadership of Richard Moulton and John Tribou.

The first event consisted of passing the medicine ball down the line. This was won by Yale with a score of 2 to 1. Next came a relay race which Harvard won. Score: Harvard 2, Yale 2. The second relay race was won by Yale bringing the final total 3 to 2 in Yale's favor.

The contestants were loudly applauded by the parents in the audience and the events proved most exciting. The music for the drills was played by Miss Tuthill.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the singing of a number of songs by Miss Gladys Flieger, accompanied by Miss Tuthill. In the absence of President Bailey, the vice president Principal David H. Goodspeed presided.

A few brief words by Dr. Smith in which he urged co-operation of the parents in interesting the children in their physical training closed the evening's program.

An interesting situation developed at the business meeting when the report of the nominating committee was read by Willard E. Keyes. Mr. Keyes reported that his committee had been unable to secure anyone for president. After making twelve tries they had been forced to leave the matter with the Association.

Upon motion of Ex-Councilman Bailey, Mr. Keyes was nominated and elected to the presidency despite his strenuous protest. Upon his presenting his resignation it was loudly and unanimously declined and, as matters now stand Willard E. Keyes is the actual but unwilling president of the Wollaston Parent-Teachers association.

The following officers were elected:
President—Willard E. Keyes.
1st Vice—David H. Goodspeed.
2nd Vice—Mrs. Frank K. Linscott.
Secretary and Treasurer — Mrs. Arthur B. Hillman.
Executive Board — Mrs. William Couch, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Eric H. Ewertz and Mrs. Charles S. Adams.

An interesting report was received from the kindergartner, Miss Thomas, in which she reported an enrollment of 43 with 72 different names on the list during the year.

After the meeting refreshments were served by a committee consisting of: Mrs. W. C. Brady, Mrs. David H. Goodspeed, Mrs. G. Ernest Carr, Mrs. Walter E. Simmons, Mrs. O. A. Blaisdell, Mrs. Wyman Streeter, Mrs. John Burke, Mrs. George F. Perry, Mrs. Vernon Manning.

SOME LIVELY DEBATES ON FIRE DEPARTMENT

Smith Wants to Investigate Needs And Deficiencies

Monday night's meeting of the city council was sailing along smoothly and at 9 o'clock the end of the business had been nearly reached and it looked as though an adjournment would soon follow. Then a cloud arose in the horison indicating the approach of a storm. The storm broke when Councilman Smith offered an order for the appointment of a special committee of five, to include the president of the council, to investigate the needs, efficiency, conduct and condition of the fire department.

This started a lively debate in which fire department matters in general were gone into and before an adjournment was reached the hands of the clock, back of the president's desk was creeping along toward the hour of midnight.

In offering his order Councilman Smith said there had been more or less censuring of the fire department. If the stories were true the citizens should know it. If not the department should be exonerated. "Here is a department costing the city $40,000 a year and if it is entitled to credit, it should receive it," he declared.

This brought Chief Engineer Billings to his feet. He said that in regard to the offer of the auto chemical to take the place of that damaged by accident he was told by the company that it would be a sale. He had no money to buy new apparatus and therefore the offer had to be turned down. Speaking of the accident to the auto chemical he said that both men on the apparatus were experts and held licenses as chauffeurs. They were teaching one man the use of the levers when the steering gear went wrong. This was something that was likely to happen to any apparatus. The men on the machine were good men, who did not drink a drop and were faithful. The breaking of the steering gear could not be helped. All of the men of the department were faithful, willing if necessary to sacrifice their lives to duty. In conclusion he said he would welcome any investigation.

Mayor Campbell said that he was present when the matter of the offer of the La France Company was made. It was an offer that the city would buy the car and if delivered in Quincy it would mean a purchase. He had no objection to an investigation.

Councilman Beeman opposed the appointment of a special committee. "It looks like a lack of confidence in the fire department committee," he declared. "Unless there is some good reason which I have not heard there is no need of an investigation."

Councilman McDonald "It is hardly fair to take this out of the hands of the fire committee."

Councilman Ross: "I have investigated the accident and it could not be helped. I am only glad that the apparatus was not responding to a fire at the time. I have heard some talk about Saturday's fire. The fire committee have handled all matters referred to it. If the council wants the fire committee to go into the matter it will be only too glad to do so."

In reply to a question Chief Billings said that "At the West Quincy fire there were five lines of hose in use and plenty of pressure to throw over the derrick."

Councilman Craig asked the chief if he thought it would not be better to have the Atlantic chemical at the central station during the time the other was being repaired.

In reply Chief Billings said: "No That piece of apparatus has to cover Squantum, which is at the other end of the city, and should get there quickly."

Councilman Smith: "This is not a muckraking proposition. It is to get results. Such an investigation as was proposed could not help but do good." He then called attention to the provisions of the revised laws about investigations which permitted special committees appointed to investigate, to summons witnesses and administer the oath.

The motion was then put on adoption of the order and it was declared not a vote. Councilman Smith doubted the vote but before it was put to a verification there were tons of talk.

Councilman McGrath spoke of the condition of the fire alarm and horses. He favored an investigation in order that details might be gone into. "Until we get a survey of the department we can never work intelligently," he said. "In view of the financial condition of the city we should find out which is the most needed, new apparatus or a new alarm system. I favor the appointment of the committee proposed as the citizens have a right to know conditions. The reports of

THE ORIGIN OF SPORTS.

To the ordinary observer, the sight of a jolly crowd of people at a ball game is a pleasant one. The antics of humorous or enthusiastic coachers, the yells of the crowd and the air of a general good time makes the world seem like a very merry place. Scenes like those seem a wholesome offset to the toilsome sides of life. Many a workingman's week is brightened.

But there are some persons to whom this philosophy does not appeal Some Socialists argue that all this absorption in sports is worse than time wasted. It is a wicked device of Capital to divert the working people from interest in and attention to their wrongs.

According to this theory, popular sports were devised in medieval or ancient times, as a device to quell popular disorders. The leaven of democracy was beginning to work. The kings and emperors saw that they must have an outlet for growing unrest. So they devised popular festivals, holidays, and athletic competitions. These took up popular energy, which would otherwise have gone into rioting, revolution, and destruction of the established order.

Baseball and other spirts, it is argued, are but the present day perpetuation of this trick of the moneyed classes to keep the working people in order. Could the ball games and other sports but be abolished, our people would stay at home, meditate on their wrongs, and rise and overturn the classes that enslave them.

With this philosophy of gloom, the average man can have but little sympathy. As a matter of fact, the capitalist of today is not over friendly to baseball. The office boys and the stenographers have too many grandmothers' funerals during the season. Also it is mighty hard to run the plant after the hour when the game is called.

Probably nothing makes a man more normal, more better able to see things in a common sense way, than to get out into the open air and "holler" and forget his troubles.

A QUEER MESS.

Although the City Council spent several hours of its valuable time Monday night in debating the order of Councilman Smith to investigate the fire department and although the council adjourned with the impression that such a committee, consisting of the president of the council committee had been appointed the fact is that the committee has no authority.

With so much debate it was perfectly natural that everyone should lose track of just what was transpiring. The council meeting over and a calm review of just what took place being had, brings out some peculiar facts.

Councilman Smith introduced the original order for a special committee of five to include the president of the city council. After some debate Councilman Craig offered an amendment to the order that it should head "the committee on fire department with the president of the council."

The question was if such a committee would have the necessary power to summons witness and administer the oath and that inquiry was made of the city solicitor who decided that it would.

The question was then on accepting the amendment offered by Councilman Craig. This the council did but in the confusion the motion to accept the order as amended was not made.

The question is strictly a parliamentary one but it would seem that while Councilman Craig's amendment to the order of Councilman Smith was accepted the order as amended was not and therefore the special committee has no standing.

There are many kinds of thieves, the petty, the professional, the grafter, etc., but of all the miserable kinds, one of the most despicable, is that Chicago post office clerk who stole from letters, $1,500 intended for victims of the war in Belgium. We hope he is shown no leniency when his sentence is prononced.

Says the Albany Journal in commenting on the present war. "It is to be regretted that all those trenches could not be dug in a region that needs irrigation."

THOUGHT "COPS" WERE FIREMEN

Man Looking for Officers Fooled By Caps

A man looking for a policeman Monday evening passed three on Washington street because they wore the new style cap instead of the old fashioned helmet he thought they were firemen. He did not discover his mistake until he saw Patrolman Olson in City Square.

The man wanted to report that an unknown person was acting suspiciously in the vicinity of 43 Broadway His attention was attracted about 10 o'clock when the man walked around the house several times, acting as though he contemplated doing something with caution as a shield

The man started for Washington street where he knew he would find a patrolman When they were in sight he started walking toward City Square. He had gone a short distance when he passed the first one, and not knowing the change in the cap had gone into effect he continued on, passing two others. He reported the matter to Patrolman Olson. Headquarters were notified and Sergt. Larkin instructed all men in that district to keep an eye out for the stranger.

AT THE THEATRE

AUDITORIUM THEATRE

That decided dramatics success of the legitimate stage. "Alias Jimmy Valentine," has been adapted to the motion picture screen and the five reel photoplay which will be shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Auditorium is the result.

Lee Randall, alies Jimmy Valentine, is pardoned through the influence of the father of the girl he loves and he reforms. He gets a position in the fathers' bank.

Detectives are after "Jimmy" but he cleverly foils them. And then there arises a dramatic situation. The sister of his fiancee is locked in the safe by mistake and is suffocating. Nobody at hand knows the combination. Jimmy Valentine, skilled safe breaker, steps forward and opens it although he knows that it will direct suspicion toward him. He is arrested. The way it all works out makes a truly absorbing drama.

KINCAIDE'S.

A new serial picture, "A Diamond from the Sky," with Lottie Pickford, younger sister of Mary, taking the leading role was shown for the first time at the Kincaide theatre Monday. The first two reels introduced the different actors and actresses and also begin the story, showing how the diamond came from the sky and saved the life of an early American settler. Then starts the main story of the changing hands of the stone. This serial has many interesting possibilities and a large following is promised.

"Rule G" is an exciting picture showing the fight to put liquor out of the railroad. For five reels the interest is well sustained and the various tales of the fight to abolish liquor on the road and in the yard is illustrated in story form. A remarkable scene is pictured when two engines crash head on and another scene where two big streams of water subdue the strikers who demand their "booze." The forming of a club room for employees and a wild engine started by a striker is a thrilling picture. The encouragement of the officials to ambitious employees is clearly demonstrated and the hero invents a patent wreck preventor.

The vaudeville is headed by Al Rayno & Co. in a farce entitled "In Imagination." It is one continual laugh, in which a supposedly dead man plays a prominent part. Wallace & McDermate received many encores and The Panos sang, danced and played musical instruments to the enjoyment of the large audience. The show will be repeated today and Wednesday.

The strictest parliamentary procedure will govern the debate and at the close of the speeches the speakers will be open to questions. The affair will commence promptly at eight o'clock and only adults will be admitted.

The suffrage cause will be represented by Miss Edna Lawrence Spencer, an officer of the Political Equality league of Boston, and presenting the anti side will be Mrs. Henry Preston White of Brookline. Both are widely known throughout the state as exponents of the pros and cons of suffrage.

SOME LIVELY DEBATES

city officials are not entirely satisfactory to me. We should be told the exact condition of matters. Why not go into the matter thoroughly and put the department on a proper plane."

Councilman Boister: "The fire department committee is composed of five men all interested but it has not had the power to investigate. This matter should not be taken from their hands."

Councilman Barnicoat could not see the need of taking this matter from the hands of the regular committee. "Give them the same power you would give a special committee," he urged.

Councilman Ross felt that the fire committee would go into the matter thoroughly. The matter of repair of engine houses was in the hands of the Commissioner. The fire committee has had but a few orders this year and it has given them proper attention. No special committee can do any better than this committee can do. This committee went into the matter of fire alarm and apparatus and reported for two pieces. "We are fortunate in having a member of the council, Councilman Griffin, an expert electrician, who is investigating the fire alarm, and he will soon make his report on the system," he pointed out.

Councilman McGrath: "We should hold close to the purse strings. I do not think it material who makes the survey. If the department equipment is not in condition it should be remedied."

Councilman Craig move that the order be amended so as to make the investigating committee the regular fire committee with the president of the council.

Councilman Smith: "If any investigating is to be done it should be done right. The act, Chapter 175, provides that special committees may summons witnesses and administer the oath. I do not want to criticise. Here we have a department in which $150,000 is invested. If there is a lack of efficiency we should know it." Continuing Councilman Smith said that people had come to him with stories and whether they were right or wrong they should be looked into and if the department is all right it should be given credit.

A question arose at this point if the appointment of the fire committee with the president was a special committee within the meaning of the law and City Solicitor Pinkham was called

City Solicitor Pinkham said that appointing the president to a committee established by the rules of the council made it a special committee but he declined to give a ruling off hand as to the statute read as he had not consulted it.

This caused more debate, after which the order was laid on the table and a recess taken while the city solicitor went down stairs to consult the law. Upon his return he gave it as his opinion that it did comply with the law.

The amendment was then adopted.

The fire department question again came up for considerable discussion a few minutes later when the order appropriating $11,000 for an auto Hook & Ladder truck and an auto chemical came up on its final passage.

During this debate President Whiton called Councilman O'Dowd to the chair and taking the floor argued in favor of the purchase of two pieces of apparatus. Councilman McGrath favored the purchase of one piece and Councilman Smith wanted to lay the order on the table until later. Councilman Smith also began to question Chief Billings about the West Quincy fire of Saturday night but was called to order by the president who said that he was conducting an investigation delegated to the special committee.

During this debate Chief Billings said: "It would save the city money. The tractor purchased last year made a saving of $1,000 a year. The horses at the central station are in bad shape and unless the apparatus was motorized six new horses must be purchased. The ladders are not safe for a man to mount. They have been in use for 16 years and are worn out. If a new auto chemical is purchased I intend to locate it at the central station and send the Hose 1 combination to West Quincy."

President Whiton from the floor argued at length in favor of the purchase of two pieces of apparatus. Councilman Beeman also favored two pieces while Councilman Bolster favored one piece.

During this debate it was brought out that one of the horses at the central station was blind, another spavined and in fact all of them were worn out.

Councilman Richards hoped the order would pass. It had been gone into thoroughly by the finance committee.

Councilman Gallagher said that he had been familiar with fire department matters since boyhood as his father was a former Boston fireman. "Any man with half an eye should see the need of two pieces of apparatus. Much of our apparatus today is a joke. This city is building up fast and it is absolutely necessary that the department should be kept up."

The motion to lay on the table was then lost by a rising vote of 7 yes and 14 no and after a little more debate the order was passed to be ordained by a roll call vote of 14 yes and 8 no.

The money for the apparatus will be provided for in a supplementary budget.

Under communications the Mayor forwarded a letter from executors of the estate of William J. Williams bequeathing the city the sum of $400 for perpetual care of his cemetery lot and for flowers for the lot. Later Councilman Richards offered an order accepting the legacy which was referred to the finance committee.

An invitation was received from the Grand Army inviting the Aid society and members of the council to meet at G. A. R. headquarters tonight.

Petitions from the pole companies for locations and attachments were received.

The Mayor also sent a communication recommending the sum of $500 to equip the Ward Six playground and later an order was offered which was referred to a joint committee. This will be provided for in the supplementary budget.

Public hearings were held at 8 and 8.15 on petitions for pole locations on Squantum street and for the granting the Citizens Gas Light Co. a location for mains. Later orders for these matters were offered by Councilman O'Dowd.

A communication was received from the Republican city committee thanking the council for its favorable action on passing the Machine Gun Company order.

A large number of applications for gasoline permits were received and a hearing ordered for June 7. Also a large number of applications for minor licenses which were referred to the committee.

The finance committee recommended that the sidewalk order for $8,300 be recommitteed to the street committee. Later the street committee asked for a recess of five minutes after which it reported a new sidewalk order for $9,300. The new order eliminates the gravel sidewalks in the original order making some of them granolithic and cutting out others, notably Pleasant street and that part of Copeland street in front of the property of E. H. Doble. It also added East Squantum street to the schedule. The order was referred to the finance committee.

The sewers and drains committee reported an amendment to the order for surface drainage adding Sixth avenue and Sagamore street, also making the amount $6,900 instead of $3,000 Referred to finance committee.

The street committee reported orders granting the Street Railway Co. and the Electric Light Co., a relocation for poles. Adopted.

The finance committee reported ought to pass on the order for $5,000 for street oiling. Passed.

The committee on Streets reported no legislation necessary on the petitions and orders for surface drainage on Sixth avenue and Sagamore street, sidewalk Bedford street, rebuilding Broadway and resurfacing Edison street.

The joint ordinance and street committee reported no legislation necessary on the order for traffic regulations in City Square.

The street committee reported ought to pass on the order for $2,000 to complete the work of building Winthrop street. To finance committee.

The street committee reported an order for a public hearing June 7, on accepting Bass street and Sixth avenue.

The street committee reported orders as follows

$200 for building culvert over Town Brook.

$2,000 for rebuilding part of Liberty street.

$200 for culvert on East Squantum street.

$4,000 for rebuilding a part of Common street.

$4,000 for rebuilding Hall place.

$400 for rebuilding Badger's lane.

$2,000 for rebuilding a part of Atlantic street.

$6,000 for rebuilding Beale street near the Milton end.

$5,000 for rebuilding Rock Island road.

All referred to finance committee.

Councilman Craig offered an order for $600 to provide children's entertainment for July Fourth. To finance committee.

Councilman Craig offered an order for $300 to provide a covering for Sachem brook. To sewer committee.

Councilman Bolster offered an order for a light on Presidents avenue. To executive.

Councilman Prescott offered an order for $1,700 for the establishment of a dispensary for incipient tuberculosis patients. To committee on health.

Adjourned at 11 o'clock.

HAWAII AND U. S. COMMERCE.

Our insular territory of Hawaii, with an area of only 6,449 square miles and an estimated population in 1914 of 207,743, has increased its trade with the United States and foreign countries from $40,000,000 in 1914 to approximately $76,600,000 in 1914, making its per capita commerce $369.

The trade of Hawaii has rapidly increased in the period since the annexation of that territory to the United States in 1898. Shipments thereto from this country, according to official figures published by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, have grown from $6,800,000 in 1897, the year preceding annexation, to $21,800,000 in 1914 and imports from foreign countries from $900,000 to $6,000,000. The shipments from Hawaii to the United States during the same period grew from $16,000,000 to $48,300,000, while those to foreign countries are negligible, amounting to less than $60,000 in 1897 and only 495,000 in 1914.

Sugar, the leading Hawiian staple, has steadily increased in value of output and the product for the last ten years amounted to 10 billion pounds, with a value of 364 million of production according to the 1915 edition of the "Hawaiian Annual" are pineapples, coffee and rice. So rapidly has the canned pineapple industry grown that the leading share of our domestic consumption of pineapples is supplied by those from Hawaii, having supplanted those from Singapore and other countries. Stated in order of value Hawaii's shipments to the United States in the last calendar year included sugar to the value of $39,500,000; canned pineapples, 56,000,000; coffee, $500 000; hides and skins, $189,000; molasses and syrup, $158,000; rice, $133,000; bananas, $126,000 and fresh pineapples, $106,000.

Shipments to Hawaii from the United States comprise a large variety of articles, chiefly manufactures and foodstuffs. Representative items in last year's trade include iron and steel, $2,720,000; breadstuffs, $2,320,000; mineral oils, $1,963,000; cotton manufactures, $1,381,000; manufactures of wood, $1,253,000 automobiles, cars and other carriages, 1,186,000 and meat and dairy products, 1,107,000. Other items ranging from $700,000 downward include tobacco manufactures, spirits, wines and malt liquors, explosives, fertilizers, paper and manufactures thereof, electrical machinery and appliances, vegetables, automobile tires, fruits and nuts, chemicals, boots and shoes, fish, hay vegetable oils, paints and varnishes, cement, and butter.

The sugar crop of the current year, according to the "Hawaiian Annual", will approximate 620,000 tons, a record total; but owing to lower prices its value will be somewhat smaller than that of the preceding year. The coffee crop is also reported as being exceptionally heavy, estimated at 45,000 bags. Shipments during the calendar year 1914 amounted to 3,500,000 pounds. The canning industry was especially affected by low prices at the beginning of the year; nevertheless the shipments of canned pine apples to the United States during 1914 were the largest on record.

Mrs. Fred J. Howe, Jr., of Butler road entertained at an auction bridge party, Saturday afternoon in honor of a guest from Springfield. Miss Beatrice Morrison received a pretty cut glass dish for having the highest score There were three tables playing.

SPORTING COMMENT

Paul Poehler, the candle pin champion, was the winner of several trophies in the recent Atlantic Coast Bowling association tournament.

In confirmation of the claims of his many friends that he was the most accurate bowler in New England on single pins he won the 30-ball candle pin trophy by tipping 24 of the 30 set. The pins were the 1, 7 and 10.

In the individual candle pin class he was tied for 14th place with Harry Howard of Boston, total of 324 and in the two men class he and Martell finished first with 669. In the individual class in duckpins he finished third with 367 and in the all events he was second with a total of 1052.

WAS ON TRANSYLVANIA.

A postal has been received from a steamship agency in Boston asking that the friends of Hugh J. Jordan at the Greenleaf be notified of his safe arrival at Glasgow. He was a passenger on the steamship Transylvania.

WOLLASTON M. E.

Rev. George M. Bailey of the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church took as his theme of the Sunday morning service "Unfailing Power and Unerring Wisdom." He took for basis of his sermon the fortieth chapter of Isaiah. He showed how this was a chapter to cast out the darkness of life and to give hope and cheer and comfort. He compared the rest which man takes and the rest which God takes.

The quartette sang "Oh come to Me ye weary" by Florio, and "Gethsemane" by Barri was sung by Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook.

MEMORIAL WINDOW.

A beautiful memorial window is the latest gift of Mrs. Calvin A. Richards of Beacon street, Boston, to the First church of Squantum. A rose window, given in memory of her late husband, Calvin A. Richards, will be placed in the auditorium of the church at once and will be dedicated at the same time as the memorial pews given to the church by her daughter, Miss Annie Richards.

The contract for the memorial window has been placed with Spence, Bell & Co., of Boston and the work of installing the window will be done by Thomas Currie, a Squantum contractor. It will cost in the neighborhood of $250.

It will be the only memorial window placed in the church. The plans for the church did not include memorial windows but it was found that in the arch over the pulpit there was a fine place for one memorial window.

Charles Crooker has resumed day duty at Wollaston after a long illness.

Jeremiah Dineen, manager of the ball team, has issued a call for practice.

For the Children

Two Members of the Woodpecker Family.

Most children have seen and admired the woodpecker. Doubtless, too, they have heard him pecking away on trunk or limb of tree. What a lot of knocking he can do for such a small creature! There are five or six species of woodpeckers familiarly known in the eastern states. Above are shown pictures of two of them. The bird at the top is a hairy woodpecker, the other the downy woodpecker. They differ chiefly in size, their colors being practically the same. The males, like those of many other woodpeckers, are distinguished by a scarlet patch on the head. An examination of many stomachs of these two species shows that from two-thirds to three-fourths of the food consists of insects, chiefly noxious kinds. Wood boring beetles, both adults and larvae, are conspicuous, and with them are associated many caterpillars, mostly species that burrow into trees. Next in importance are the ants that live in decaying wood, all of which are sought by woodpeckers and eaten in great quantities. Many ants are particularly harmful to timber, for if they find a small spot of decay in the vacant burrow of a wood borer they enlarge the hole, and as their colony is always on the increase they continue to eat away the wood until the whole trunk is honeycombed. Moreover, they are not accessible to birds generally and could pursue their career of destruction unmolested were it not that the woodpeckers, with beaks and tongues especially fitted for such work, dig out and devour them. It is thus evident that woodpeckers are great conservators of forests.

A Boy Scout Is Thrifty.

The cashier of the savings bank is accustomed to see the boy scout at his window. He knows that when the khaki clad youth appears before him with a sum, no matter how small, he is living up to scout law No. 9—"a scout is thrifty."

A scout is thrifty. He does not wantonly destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his own way, be generous to those in need and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay, but must not receive tips for courtesies or good turns.

To become a second class scout a boy must earn and deposit at least $1 in a bank. To become a first class scout a boy must earn and deposit at least $2 in a bank.

Conundrums.

What herb is most injurious to a girl's beauty? Thyme.

Why are human eyes like persons remote from one another? Because, although they may correspond, they never meet.

Why is a schoolboy being whipped like your eye? Because he is a pupil under the lash.

Why are clouds like coachmen? Because they hold the rains (reins).

Why was the dumb waiter returned? Because it didn't answer.

Why is a fisherman's the most profitable business? It is all net profit.

Why It's Called Picnic.

The term "picnic" originated in the following manner: When what is now known as a picnic was being arranged for the custom originally was that those who intended to be present should supply the eatables and drinkables. A list of these necessities having been drawn up, it was passed round, and each person picked out the article of food or drink that he or she was willing to furnish, and the name of the article was "nicked," or ticked, off the list. The open air entertainment thus became known as "pick and nick." The custom is said to date from 1802.

The Rime of Porcus Prime.

There lived a pig
So fat and big
That hills he could not climb,
But used to lie
Inside his sty,
His name was Porcus Prime.

One summer day
He went away
Quite proudly in a van;
Poor Porcus, he
Had gone to tea
With Tom, the butcher's man!

DIMITY AND LACE NIGHTGOWN.

THE HOUSEWIVES' BATTLE.

The Buzzing Fly One of the Deadliest of Insects.

This is the time to begin your warfare upon the fly and precautions taken now are worth all sorts of preventives later on. Every fly that you see buzzing through your rooms and allow to live may breed millions, each one of which may in turn breed millions more. Very often a housewife will not take the bother to chase a single fly, whereas if her rooms were filled with any number of them she would start a clearance at once. If she could only realize that the numbers would never be there if she killed the single one perhaps she would exert herself more at the first glimpse of the dreaded pest.

The spring of the year is the breeding time for flies. In another month, for every single fly that you allow to live today you will find hundreds of thousands. Let that sink into your mind thoroughly. That first fly you just saw buzzing about in the sunshine—look through and beyond that single fly and see its thousands and thousands of progeny. Don't you think you will save time and trouble later on by killing that single fly now?

Swat the fly! Let this be your slogan if you wish to keep your household free of sickness and disease this summer. Teach your children to swat them too. They will do it gladly if you will just arm them each with a weapon which looks very much like a miniature tennis racket made out of flexible wire, and turn them loose in the rooms. They will make a game of it and will clear up all the flies in sight.

SWAT THE FLY.

To Remove Stains.

Blood Stains.—Use a tepid solution of a tablespoonful of kerosene to a gallon of water. Let stand a few minutes, then wash in cold water.

Egg Stains.—Table salt and a wet cloth will remove egg stains from silver.

Fruit Stains.—Put one heaping tablespoonful of gum camphor in a two ounce bottle of good whisky. Shake well before using and apply freely to stains when counting soiled clothes.

Grass Stains.—Wash the spot in alcohol, then in clear water.

Ink Stains.—Cover the spot with salt, squeeze lemon juice over it and expose to the sun.

Iron Rust.—Cover thickly with powdered alum and steam ten minutes over a teakettle of boiling water.

STARCHED COLLARS USED.

Starched linen and pique collars are attractive below round, youthful faces, but they are hopelessly trying on thin faced women and on women past the freshness of youth. With these childish collars are worn knotted ties of soft silk in striped black and white or dotted black and white effects, or of crepe de chine in sombre shadings. The effect with one of the new mannishly tailored suits is very smart, indeed, but women of mature years do best to confine themselves to a more formal type of collar of handkerchief lawn or batiste touched with a little hand embroidery or finished with hemstitching. A collar of some sort, however, must turn over on the dark tailored coat to give it the correct air.

POSTAL SAVINGS.

The United States Postal Savings System has had a remarkable growth during the past year. In the eight months prior to April 1st there was a net gain in deposits of $19,000,000, as against a net gain of $8,000,000 for the same months of the preceding year. Thousands of new accounts have been opened and millions of hidden savings have been turned back into the channels of trade just at a time when there was a pressing commercial demand for every available dollar. During the same eight months the seventy five depositories attached to the Boston Post Office have kept pace with the rest of the country, 11,000 new accounts were opened and $1,300,000 new deposits received. During the corresponding eight months of the preceding year only 7,000 new accounts were opened and $700,000 new deposits received.

The Postmaster General has issued a very instructive leaflet on the Postal Savings System which develops clearly the very simple requirements that have to be met in opening a postal savings account. The leaflet can be obtained on request from any of the local post offices connected with the Boston Postal District. Every person in the United States ten years old or ever may open an account by registering his or her signature with the local depository, and furnishing a few simple facts to assist in establishing identity whenever it is desired to make withdrawals. Married women open and maintain their deposits in their own names. Any amount in even dollars, from $1 to $100, may be deposited at any time. Interest accrues at two per cent per annum, beginning with the first day of the month following the date when the deposit is made.

The entertainment committee reported on the entertainment recently held, showing splendid work done and a good sum of money netted.

A rising vote of thanks was given those who helped make the entertainment a success. The chairman of the committee, Arthur Williams, reported that the cast had invitations to give the play "Sally Lunn" at the Wollaston M. E. church and at the Atlantic M. E. church and asked that permission be given that the cast go in the name of the league, which was granted.

After the business session a social hour was enjoyed and games were played. Ice cream and cake were served by the fourth vice president.

THINK WAR IS NOW CERTAINTY

Enthusiasm of People of Italy Knows No Bounds

ALL CLASSES ARE REJOICING

Rome Witnesses Greatest Demonstration Since Days of Revolution, While Similar Mood Prevails In Other Cities—French Troops Deliver Heavy Blows Against Germans—Russians Deny Decisive Defeat, While Germany and Austria Claim They Are Pursuing Enemy—Kurds and Turks Massacreing Armenians

London, May 18.—News that the Salandra ministry is to be retained has swept over Italy and united all factions in in a great cry for war.

A demonstration such as Rome has not seen since the days of the revolution lasted throughout the night. Contrary to former practices, there was no effort by the police or military to stop the popular enthusiasm, and the crowds surged through the city, acting very much as if war had been declared already and victory were being celebrated.

The same thing has occurred throughout the country. The one call is for Salandra, the war advocate, and for his ministers. The fact that King Victor Emmanuel has at last accepted Salandra is taken as proof that he has come at last to favor intervention and has given his consent to mobilization. Momentous events are expected momentarily.

When it became known that the cabinet was to meet for the first time since its resignation was handed to the king, the people made up their minds that war was at last a certainty and began a demonstration.

All Classes For War

Practically a third of Rome's population, 800,000 citizens of all classes, ranging from noblemen to peasantry and laborers, and even including priests, assembled in the Plazza Popolo. Everyone wore the tri-color.

Very soon a movement was made toward the Quirinal and the entire throng fell in, with bands playing and flags flying. As the mobs crossed the principal streets they were showered with flowers from crowded windows and balconies. Mingled with the Italian flags were the emblems of France, England and Belgium.

The enthusiasm knew no bounds, and along the entire line of march the men and women joined in singing national anthems, interspersed with cries of "Long live the king," "Long live Trent and Triest," and with an almost continual shouting of "War, war, war."

All troops were withdrawn from the streets, and guards were left only at the German and Austrian embassies and consulates. The occasional soldiers sighted by the crowd were cheered and cheered again. The officers shouted for the citizens, and in the general enthusiasm men threw their arms around each other's neck and kissed, after the Italian custom.

No Germans or Austrians were assaulted throughout the demonstration, which in reality was nothing more nor less than a bubbling over of patriotic good feeling at the prospect of immediate war.

Hard Fighting In West

After the successful onslaught of the French on the German lines in northern France the present seven-day period sems likely to witness a British effort in emulation.

At all events, the English have already made a start in that direction, with the dislodgment of the Germans from from their positions over a two-mile front and a depth of half that distance. The point selected for the attack by the British lies just to the northwest of La Bassee, between Richebourg l'Avoue and Festubert.

Meanwhile the French have not been idle, but have cleared up the remainder of the ground to the north of Arras in the operation known as "consolidating" their system of trenches on the ground already won.

Further to the east, in the Champagne region, the Germans are stated to have received a severe local repulse. Attacking at Ville sur Tourbe, they at first succeeded in penetrating a portion of the French lines, following the exploding of a mine. But two strong French counter-attacks accounted for the force of eight companies engaged in the assault almost to a man, the Germans losing 1000 dead and leaving some 300 prisoners behind them.

Claims Do Not Agree

A Russian official dispatch, delayed in transmission, still insists that there has been no decisive defeat of the czar's forces in the southeastern theatre of war.

It is stated that although the concentration of great numbers of German and Austrian forces compelled the Russians to withdraw to the east of the San in central Galicia, the Russian front has been broken at no point, and that constant counter-attacks during the retirement inflicted enormous losses on the enemy. A serious reverse for the Austrian army further to the east is also chronicled, it being stated that the foe has been forced back across the Pruth river with a loss of 30,000 prisoners.

Meanwhile Berlin and Vienna are still claiming a continuation of the "pursuit" of the fleeing Russians, not only in western and southern Galicia, but in southern Poland as well. It is stated that in the latter region the Teuton troops have cleared out the Russian defenders in the entire district between the lower Pilica and the Vistula.

The further claim is made that the Austro-German forces are advancing to the northward on Permysl from the Carpathians. It is conceded, however, that the Russians are offering resistance on the lower San.

Massacre of Armenians

The Russian consul in Van reports the wholesale massacre of Armenians by Kurds and Turks, the number killed being in excess of 5000.

News dispatches from Persia, Armenia and Transcaucasia, in Russia, have set forth for several weeks that the position of the Armenians in Turkey as well as in northwestern Persia was one of grave danger, but no message has conveyed any indication of such extensive massacreing as does this report to London. If it is true, the Armenian situation has entered upon a period which threatens to rival the conditions of 1895.

The city of Van normally has 30,000 inhabitants. It is the seat of an important American mission and the missionaries have taken an active part in the protection of Armenians from Turkish and Kurdish attacks.

Terrible massacres of Armenians in 1895 resulted in international action for enforcement of reforms. Something like 15,000 people were killed in two months. A London Times dispatch from the vicinity says that as a result of these new massacres the Armenians have risen in revolt.

DISARMAMENT OF WORLD

Kaiser Reported to Have Said He Is In Favor of It

A German diplomat who has arrived at Berne told Swiss officials that the kaiser recently said:

"From the outset my enemies have vehemently asserted that their one great aim in waging this war is not one to wipe out Germany as a commercial power and a great civilizing force, but to crush what they call Prussian militarism.

"Very well; if it is militarism—big armaments and the constant menace that the mere existence of big armaments constitutes—that offends them, I will show them a way to get rid of not only Prussian militarism but of every other kind of militarism at the same time.

"I must disarm, but so must they. What is good for me must be good for them. We will all disarm, and the sword shall be arbiter no longer. We will have universal disarmament. I will propose it—and then perhaps nations will fight one another no more on the battlefields."

REFUSAL IS EXPECTED

Gerard Reports Presentation of Demands Upon Germany

Germany is expected to answer the American note before the end of this week. Ambassador Gerard cabled the state department at Washington that he had read the document to Herr von Jagow, the foreign minister, and that an early reply would be forthcoming.

The ambassador was given no intimation of the feeling of the German government. He was assured merely that the subject would require consideration by the higher officials and that a reply would be ready soon.

Inasmuch as the German press had not been permitted to publish the text of the note, the ambassador also was unable to report on the state of public opinion toward it. Washington, however, expects a refusal of President Wilson's demands.

A confidential note from Berlin to the editors of German newspapers says that nothing regarding the American note may be printed for the time being.

SECOND TEAM WINS 11 TO 2

Isaacsen For Q. H. S. Allows But 5 Hits

The second team of the High school baseball squad went to Cohasset yesterday afternoon and administered a severe whipping to Cohasset High school's first team. The score was 11 to 2.

"Bill" Isaacsen, the freshman phenom, was in the box and gave a fine account of himself for Quincy allowing but five scattered hits and walking no one. He retired the side on strikes in the second.

Jenkins and Rhinehalter each secured two hits and scored six of Quincy's runs.

A fast double play, Rhinehalter to O'Connor to Barron featured in fielding.

It was a bad baseball day and the wet, slippery ball caused some wild throws but nothing resulted from them.

A walk, an error and a hit produced two runs for Quincy in the first. Two baggers by Isaacsen and Barron brought over another in the second. Two singles and and a put out sent Jenkins across with the fourth counter. A two base hit by Rhinehalter, an error and a walk sent in two more in the fifth. An error, two bases on balls, a hit batsman, and a two base clout by Baker accounts for four more in the seventh. Hits by Mecagni and Rhinehalter and a sacrifice fly by Simmons brought the total to eleven in the eighth.

Cohasset's two runs were scored in the third on three hits and an error. Neither team scored in the ninth.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Cunningham Gym base ball nine lost its game with the Mystic A. C. of Boston, at the park by the score of 12—8, Saturday afternoon. Both teams commenced with one run apiece. "Rog" Sangster, the Milton pitcher, looked well until that unfortunate fifth inning when the visitors got to him and batted the ball all round the lot. They made eleven runs in that one inning and through this they won the game.

The Milton boys came back stronger in an attempt to redeem themselves. They made two runs in the fifth, and in what looked like a "lucky seventh" they scored four more. At the end of the ninth, two men out with Latham at third, Parsons knocked out a single and Latham scored the final runs. The visitors were unable to get any runs from "Bob" Leary who was put in the box after the fatal fifth. The score was:

TO STAMP OUT ARSON.

Chief Billings, in common with all the fire chiefs of the Metropolitan district, has received the following letter from Fire Commissioner O'Keefe:

Friday, February 12, 1915, a fire occurred at 41 Charles street, Lynn. When Chief Chase reached the building he found it burning in four distinct places. Complaint was made against S. Horowitz and he was arrested on the charge of arson. Last Saturday in Salem, Horowitz was found guilty and sentenced to not less than three years and not more than four years in prison.

Arson is rampant in the metropolitan district. I am commencing a campaign to stamp it out. Will you make a special effort to bring to light and into the courts suspicious cases in your city or town? Let us all equal the splendid work done by Chief Chase in the Horowitz case. Where the cause of a fire is "Unknown" we should make keen search for a probable culprit.

TRIO'S FIRST APPEARANCE.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. society was held Monday evening. The entertainment committee reported that the dance held May 14th was the best ever. Plans were started to have some affair in West Quincy, July 4th, owing to the fact that the City of Quincy will not have any general celebration. After the meeting an entertainment was given by the "Comical Trio" consisting of sketches, recitations and vocal selections. The trio is composed of Philip Grady, Mortimer Murphy and Thomas McDonald. It was the trio's first appearance before a large audience and they were warmly received.

His Love Story

Julia," she said severely, as though her niece were a child, pointing to a chair, "sit down."

Slightly smiling, the young girl obeyed her aunt.

"My dear, I have followed your caprices from France to Africa. Only by pleading heart-failure and mortal illness could I dissuade you from going into the desert with the caravan. Now, without any apparent reason, you wish to return to France."

"The reason for coming here has been accomplished, ma tante. Monsieur de Sabron has been found."

"And now that you have found him," said the marquise reproachfully, "and you discover that he is not all your romantic fancy imagined, you are going to run away from him. In short, you mean to throw him over."

"Throw him over, ma tante!" murmured the girl. "I have never had the chance. Between Monsieur de Sabron and myself there is only friendship."

"Fiddlesticks!" said the Marquise d'Esclignac impatiently. "I have no understanding of the modern young girl. She makes her own marriages and her subsequent divorces. I am your aunt, my dear, your mother's sister, and a woman of at least twenty-five years' more experience than you have."

Julia was not following her aunt's train of thought, but her own. She felt the hint of authority and bondage in her aunt's tone and repeated:

"I wish to leave Algiers tomorrow."

"You shall do so," said her aunt. "I am rejoiced to get out of the Orient. It is late to order my dresses for Trouville, but I can manage. Before we go, however, my dear, I want you to make me a promise."

"A promise, ma tante?" The girl's tone implied that she did not think she would give it.

"You have played the part of fate in the life of this young man, who, I find, is a charming and brave man. Now you must stand by your guns, my dear Julia."

"Why, how do you mean, ma tante?"

"You will go to Paris and the Capitaine de Sabron will get well rapidly. He will follow you, and if it were not for Tremont, myself, your Red Cross Society and the presence here of Madame de la Maine, you would have been very much compromised. But never mind," said the Marquise d'Esclignac magnificently, "my name is sufficient protection for my niece. I am thinking solely of the poor young man."

"Of Monsieur de Sabron?"

"Of course," said the Marquise d'Esclignac tartly, "did you think I meant Robert? You have so well arranged his life for him, my dear."

"Ma tante," pleaded the girl.

The marquise was merciless.

"I want you to promise me, Julia, before you sail for home, that if Sabron follows us and makes you understand that he loves you, as he will, that you will accept him."

Julia Redmond looked at the Marquise d'Esclignac in astonishment. She half laughed and she half cried.

"You want me to promise?"

"I do," said her aunt firmly, regarding her niece through her lorgnon. "In the first place the affair is entirely unconventional and has been since we left France. It is I who should speak to the Capitaine de Sabron. You are so extremely rich that it will be a difficult matter for a poor and honorable young man. . . . Indeed, my dear, I may as well tell you that I shall do so when we reach home."

"Oh," said the girl, turning perfectly pale and stepping forward toward her aunt, "if you consider such a thing I shall leave for America at once."

The Marquise d'Esclignac gave a petulant sigh.

"How impossible you are, Julia. Understand me, my dear, I do not want a woman of my family to be a coquette. I do not want it said that you are an American flirt—it is in bad taste and entirely misunderstood in the Faubourg St.-Germain."

The girl, bewildered by her aunt's attitude and extremely troubled by the threat of the marriage convention, said:

"Don't you understand? In this case it is peculiarly delicate. He might ask me from a sense of honor."

"Not in any sense," said the Marquise d'Esclignac. "It has not occurred to the poor young officer to suppose for a moment that a young woman with millions, as you are so fortunate to be, would derange herself like this to follow him. If I thought so I would not have brought you, Julia. What I have done, I have done solely for your peace of mind, my child. This young man loves you. He believes that you love him, no doubt. You have given him sufficient reason, heaven knows! Now," said her aunt emphatically, "I do not intend that you should break his heart."

It was more than likely that the Marquise d'Esclignac was looking back twenty-five years to a time, when as a rich American, she had put aside her love for a penniless soldier with an insignificant title. She remembered how she had followed his campaign. She folded her lorgnon and looked at her niece. Julia Redmond saw a cloud pass over her aunt's tranquil face. She put her arms around her and kissed her tenderly.

"You really think then, ma tante, that he will come to Paris?"

"Without a doubt, my dear."

"You think he cares, ma tante?"

Her aunt kissed her and laughed.

"I think you will be happy to a bourgeois extent. He is a fine man."

"But do I need to promise you?" asked the girl. "Don't you know?"

"I shall be perfectly ashamed of you," said the Marquise d'Esclignac, "if you are anything but a woman of heart and decision in this matter."

Evidently she waited, and Julia Redmond, slightly bowing her lovely head in deference to the older lady who had not married her first love, said obediently:

"I promise to do as you wish, ma tante."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Congratulations.

The Duc de Tremont saw what splendid stuff the captain in the —— Cavalry was made of by the young man's quick convalescence. Sabron could not understand why Robert lingered after the departure of the Marquise d'Esclignac, the Comtesse de la Maine and Miss Redmond. The presence of the young man would have been agreeable if it had not been for his jealousy and his unhappiness.

They played piquet together. Sabron, in his right mind, thinner and paler, nevertheless very much of a man, now smoked his cigarettes and ate his three meals a day. He took a walk every day and was quite fit to leave the Orient. Tremont said:

"I think, Sabron, that we can sail this week."

Sabron looked at him questioningly.

"You are going, then, too—?"

"Of course," said the young nobleman heartily. "We are going together. You know I am going to take you back in my yacht."

Sabron hesitated and then said:

"No, mon vieux, if you will excuse me I think I shall remain faithful to the old line of travel. I have an idea that I am not in yachting trim."

Tremont was not too dull to have noticed his friend's change of attitude toward him. He smoked for a few moments and then said:

"When we get back to Paris I want to have the pleasure of introducing you to my fiancee."

Sabron dropped his cards.

"Introducing me!" he repeated. Then putting out his hand, said cordially: "I knew you were to be felicitated, old fellow."

Tremont shook his hand warmly.

"Yes, and the lady is very anxious to know you. It is Madame de la Maine."

A very warm color flushed the cheeks of the invalid. He remembered all he had heard and all he had known. He congratulated his friend with sincere warmth, and after a few moments said:

"If you really want me to go back with you on the yacht, old chap—"

"I really do," said Tremont serenely. "You see, when we came on the boat we scarcely hoped to be so fortunate as to bring back the distinguished captain."

Sabron smiled.

"But you have not told me yet," he said, "why you came down."

"No," said Tremont, "that is true. Well, it will make a story for the sea."

CHAPTER XXVII.

Valor in Retrospect.

In the month of May, when the chestnuts bloom in the green dells, where the delicate young foliage holds the light as in golden cups, a young man walked through one of the small allees of the Bois at the fashionable noon hour, a little reddish dog trotting at his heels. The young man walked with an imperceptible limp. He was thin, as men are who have lived hard and who have overcome tremendous obstacles. He was tanned as men are browned who have come from eastern and extreme southern countries.

The little dog had also an imperceptible limp occasioned by a bicycle running over him when he was a puppy.

The two companions seemed immensely to enjoy the spring day. Sabron every now and then stood for a few moments looking at the gay passers-by, pedestrians and equestrians, enjoying to the full the repose of civilization, the beauty of his own land.

Pitchoune looked with indifference upon the many dogs. He did not stir from his master's side. When Sabron was quiet, the little animal stood at attention; he was a soldier's dog. He could have told dog stories to those insignificant worldly dogs—could have told of really thrilling adventures. His brown eyes were pathetic with their appeal of affection as they looked up at his beloved master. He had a fund of experience such as the poodles and the terriers led by their owners could not understand. Therefore Pitchoune was indifferent to them. Not one of those petted, ridiculous house dogs could have run for miles in the dark across an African desert, could have found Beni Medinet and fetched relief to his master. Pitchoune was proud of it. He was very well satisfied with his career. He was still young; other deeds of valor perhaps lay before him—who can tell? At any rate he had been shown about at the ministry of war, been very much admired, and he was a proud animal.

When Sabron spoke to him he leaped upon him and wagged his tail. After a few moments, as the two stood near the exit of an allee leading to one of the grand avenues, Pitchoune slowly went in front of his master and toward two ladies sitting on a bench in the gentle warmth of the May sunlight. Pitchoune, moved from his usual indifference, gave a short bark, walked up to the ladies, and began to snuff about their feet. The younger lady exclaimed, and then Sabron, lifting his hat, came forward, the crimson color beating in his dark tanned cheeks.

The Marquise d'Esclignac held out both hands to the officer:

"It's nearly noon," she said, "and you don't forget that you have promised to lunch with us, do you, Monsieur le Capitaine?"

Sabron, bending over her hand, assured her that he had not forgotten. Then his eyes traveled to her companion. Miss Redmond wore a very simple dress, as was her fashion, but the young officer from Africa, who had not seen her near by until now and who had only caught a glimpse of her across the opera house, thought that he had never seen such a beautiful dress in all his life. It was made of soft gray cloth and fitted her closely, and in the lapel of her mannish little buttonhole she wore a few Parma violets. He recognized them. They had come from a bunch that he had sent her the night before. He kissed her hand, and they stood talking together,

"My Manhood and My Love Are My Fortune."

the three of them, for a few moments, Pitchoune stationing himself as a sentinel by Miss Redmond's side.

The Marquise d'Esclignac rose. The young girl rose as well, and they walked on together.

"Mes enfants," said the Marquise d'Esclignac, "don't go with your usual rush, Julia. Remember that Monsieur de Sabron is not as strong as Hercules yet. I will follow you with Pitchoune."

But she spoke without knowledge of the dog. Now feeling that some unwonted happiness had suddenly burst upon the horizon that he knew, Pitchoune seemed suddenly seized with a rollicking spirit such as had been his characteristic some years ago. He tore like mad down the path in front of Sabron and Miss Redmond. He whirled around like a dervish, he dashed across the road in front of automobiles, dashed back again, springing upon his master and whining at the girl's feet.

"See," said Sabron, "how happy he is."

"I should think he would be happy. He must have a knowledge of what an important animal he is. Just think! If he were a man they would give him a decoration."

And the two walked tranquilly side by side.

Pitchoune ran to the side of the road, disappeared into a little forest all shot through with light. He came back, bringing the remains of an old rubber ball lost there by some other dog, and laid it triumphantly in front of Miss Redmond.

"See," said Sabron, "he brings you his trophies."

Connecticut Farmer Suspected of Having Killed Wife

SKELETON FOUND IN SWAMP

Was Hanging From Tree and Taken In Charge by Man Who Thought Wife Had Committed Suicide—Mystery Deepened When He Was Found to Have Made Mistake

Bridgeport, Conn., May 18.—William F. Fair, prominent in the rural life of Glenbrook, occupies a cell in the county jail here, charged with the murder of his wife. He was arrested by state policemen after an investigation that was begun last August.

In an isolated copse of scrubby woodland, buried in the middle of a swamp that is scarcely ever penetrated, the remains of Mrs. William F. Fair were found last August, swinging from a low branch of a tree, the dried bones clanking with the disturbing wind.

Mrs. Fair had been missing many months, but always at her home a satisfactory explanation of her absence had been given. When farmers, searching for lost cattle, entered the swamp land, they came upon the skeleton. They found nothing that would identify it. Only a few shreds of what had been clothes remained beside the bones.

Nobody could identify the skeleton. For weeks a search was made and finally Joseph Kane, a New York resident, went to Darien, where the skeleton was, looked at it and became convinced it was that of his wife, who had beeen missing for months.

Kane instituted the funeral arrangements; he and his family grieved over the crime, and the police of two states were besought to locate the perpetrators. Then Kane learned that his wife had died a natural death somewhere else.

State police worked many weeks to find the persons who committed the crime, but not until recently was suspicion fastened upon Fair himself.

John Devereaux, an alleged user of narcotics, who has been living lately with Fair, is also held in connection with the case.

STRIKES IN ENGLAND

London Street Cars Tied Up and Mining Operations Halt

London, May 18.—With the exception of an occasional car, London is without a street car service, virtually all the drivers and conductors of the London county municipal railway system now on strike having taken a pledge not to return to work until a permanent increase in pay and not merely a war bonus is granted.

So many motor omnibuses have commandeered for war purposes that the strike throws undue strain on the electric and other railroads.

Some thousands of miners in the Black country went on strike in consequence of a dispute over the question of a war bonus. The Black country is a name applied to the mining and manufacturing district on the borders of Staffordshire and Warwickshire.

CONFIRMS MAYOR.

La France Co. Agent Says No Free Offer Made.

Joseph Webber, Boston representative of the La France Motor Fire Apparatus Co., on learning this morning that Mayor Campbell told the council Monday night that the company had not offered a free machine to do the work of the wrecked auto chemical, while it was being repaired confirmed the statement of the Mayor. The offer was the sale of a machine.

The statement clears up a story, published last week apparently on good authority, that such an offer had been made and refused.

Mr. Webber said his offer to the city was that a new machine had been received in Boston and if the city was ready to buy it only a few hours would elapse before it would be in commission and that Mayor Campbell said no money had been appropriated and therefore he could take no action.

BURGLAR GETS $200 IN CASH

A second story worker Monday night stole $400 in cash from the home of Henry Lowell, an expressman living at 256 Main street, South Weymouth. The robbery was one of the most daring and biggest that ever took place in that town.

Lowell left the money in his trousers pocket and discovered the loss at five o'clock this morning. It was promptly reported to the police

In their investigation the police found tracks about the house and on the roof of a small shed nearby, from which it is thought the burglar gained an entrance through an open window. The police believe they know who took the money. Chief Pratt and Inspector Fitzgerald are today making further investigations.

CAPTAIN BRACKETT DEAD

Was Dean of Fishermen and Originated Swampscott Dory

Swampscott, Mass., May 18.—Captain Theophilus W. Brackett, oldest active fisherman in the country and inventor of the famous Swampscott dory, died at the age of 95 at his home in this town.

Brackett was born in Wellfleet and had always gained his living from the sea. His outdoor life, though full of hardship, has kept him in the pink of physical condition. He followed his vocation until a short time ago and made regular trips to the fishing grounds.

It was his boast that he was better able to withstand rough weather than many men of half his years. It was said of him that he had pulled more fish from the sea than any man in the world.

IRREPRESSIBLE BRAVERY.

When the Germans finally entered Belgium a native of Liege made himself obnoxious to one troop by his constant loud talk about the brave defense. Finally the commander summoned him.

"Now you've boasted about enough" he said. "We can't listen to you any longer. I'm going to give you your choice: you will be shot, or you will swear allegiance to the German emperor."

Considerably subdued, the offender pondered. "Well," he decided, "I don't want to die, so I guess I'll swear allegiance." And he took the oath.

"All right," said the commander, "now you are one of us. You can come and go as you like."

MRS. JENNESS TO BE IN CHARGE

The executive committee of the Quincy Women's club has appointed Mrs. William W. Jenness chairman of children's garden work during the coming summer. The selection of Mrs. Jenness for this work was a wise one for she is particularly fitted. Not only is she deeply interested in garden work, being a member of the Pequawket grange of North Conway, N. H., but is also a member of the New Hampshire state grange. In fact she is a full fledged granger.

In speaking of the work this morning Mrs. Jenness said that she fully understood the importance of the appointment and the vast amount of work it involved but that she was prepared to take hold of it and give her time to it the coming summer.

As for her plans Mrs. Jenness said that she intended to appoint subcommittees in each ward of the city who would have general supervision of the gardens. In addition to this she intended personally to visit all of the summer gardens every week if possible, or at least every two weeks. With 2,000 gardens there would be some that would not amount to much and during the summer these would be weeded out and only the best selected. Mrs. Jenness has already taken up the work and is preparing to appoint her committees which will be announced in a few days.

Talks To Parent-Teachers Association of Montclair

The Parent-Teachers' association of the Montclair school held their May meeting in the school building on Tuesday evening. Theodore F. Parlee, the president, called the meeting to order and after the reading of the secretary's report by Mrs. Harding, Mr. Parlee announced that Mrs. Baker had been made chairman of the committee on reciprocity, Mr. Shay, chairman of the hospitality committee, Mr. McCabe, chairman of the entertainment committee and Mrs. Olson, chairman of the committee on benevolences.

Mayor Chester I. Campbell was then introduced and gave a clear, concise and straight forward address. Mr. Campbell said that he was not going to say as many have that the mayor's office was not a bed of roses because he did not altogether agree with that statement. While there are some things which are unpleasant, the office is a wonderful schooling for any man. The mayor said that he was going to give the city a non-partisan administration as he had said he would before he was elected to fill the office.

"There are always some people who disagree with a man but if we go through life agreeing with everyone we never get the other fellow's true opinions. The political family at city hall are trying to make Quincy the best possible city to live in. It is growing at a rate that no other city of its size has attained. In the last few months there have been four hundred and eighy permits for buildings issued and most of these have been for houses. A good class of people is coming in.

"Quincy in order to be a good place to live in must have good schools. Invariably the remark is heard among school boards all around that Quincy has excellent schools. No city has a better class of teachers than are found in Quincy. Principals and teachers have often said that they could do so much better work in the cases of some particular children if they could only have the opportunity of talking freely with the parents. This is what the Parent-Teachers' association will bring about."

The mayor said that a delegation from the Montclair Improvement association had waited upon him Monday evening and made certain requests and that rarely before had a committee of such a sort been so pleasing and convincing as this one. One of the needs brought forward by this delegation was that of a police officer for the Montclair section. As the expense budget had already gone in it seemed impossible to grant the request unless the need was very urgent. The committee, however, convinced the mayor of the need and a police officer was immediately placed on duty and will report from Montclair several times during the night. Mr. Campbell said he was sure he had made one round at least because he had met him when he was coming to the school. The Montclair delegation also requested that something be done about the tide gate which had been causing trouble. The commissioner will also attend to that and have the gate rehung. The mayor suggested that the city be requested to place a permanent police officer in Montclair another year.

Mr. Campbell had been criticised severely for appointing a woman as overseer of the poor but he said he had done so with a purpose and he believed he had been right for since eighty-five percent of the requests for aid come from women he believed the business should be handled by a woman because she could get into the heart of the home life. "Miss Huston has accomplished a great deal in this line because instead of pauperizing the petitioners she has helped them to help themselves, by securing work for them.

"There was one unusually sad case where the husband and father was serving time in jail for drunkenness, leaving a sick mother to care for nine children all of whom are tubercular. The children have been placed in the care of the state and the mother given medical treatment. When she is able to care for the children again she will have them back. Those who have had the charge of this work before have done the work as they thought it should be done but these people have not gotten at the heart of the matter.

"The council is a wonderful body of men who are doing all they can to make Quincy better and at their last meeting they passed an order for two new pieces of fire apparatus.

"There may be a slight increase in the water rate this year. Each year the water department has been running behind at the rate of about thirty thousand dollars. In past years this deficiency has been included in the tax rate. Past administrations have allowed this to go on, possibly because they have not known what the cost of the water has really been. About forty per cent of the water used is wasted on account of old or faulty construction. Another great cause of waste has been because the water used by particular departments has never been charged up to these departments. For instance, the sewer department used millions of gallons a

YEARLY PARTY MUCH ENJOYED

Quincy Catholic Club Entertains With Annual May Party

EXHIBITION DANCING

The annual May party of the Quincy Catholic club, one of the leading charitable organizations of St. John's parish, held Tuesday evening in Alpha hall was one of the most successful social affairs ever held under its auspices. The guests present included members and friends.

Fr. Michael J. Owens, pastor, and Fr. Walter A. Quinlan, curate, of the parish were the special guests of the evening.

The program opened with a German in which all participated and during which the dance orders were distributed by little Beatrice Deasey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Deasey, and little Catherine Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Griffin, who acted as pages.

One of the features of the evening was the exhibition dancing of Miss McShane of Somerville assisted by J. Mahoney of Boston. Both appeared in a Pavlowa Gavotte and the applause at the close of their exhibition was deafening.

The decorations were simple and consisted in the main of potted plants and palms which concealed Wilson's orchestra on the platform. Frappe was served during the evening.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of the Misses Emma Biganess, Gertrude Carroll, Lula T. Crowley, Nellie Desmond, Helen H. Gavin, Margaret Heaney, Josephine McCarthy, Anna J Welsh, Corinne LaBrecque, Mary R. Lyons.

FIRE AUTO IS BEING REPAIRED

The repairs to the auto chemical combination of the fire department are nearing completion and it is said that only a few days will elapse before the machine is back in commission.

The statement made during the debate Monday evening by Councilman Smith of Ward Four that up to five o'clock that day no contract for the work had been filed with the city auditor in compliance with the ordinance passed last year specifying that in the event of work costing over $200 a signed copy must be filed has started more or less discussion on the topic and may have an important bearing on the settlement of the bill.

The Council Monday passed an order to be ordained for the purchase of two new pieces of apparatus for $11,000.

The auto chemical of the American-LaFrance type has been in commission since May 25, 1911, and is a single tank combination chemical engine and hose motor car, and aside from the accidents it has had, which were not due to the fault of the machine has been a success.

Joseph A. Webber, in an interview this morning said that his company offered to drive out a new car from Boston and place it in service when they learned of the accident, providing Mayor Campbell would purchase it. The only advantage of this offer, he said was immediately delivery instead of having to wait to have a car built to order.

Mayor Campbell said at the time that no appropriation for the purpose had been made and would not be considered by the council until the next meeting and that the offer could not therefore be accepted.

The price quoted by the company for a car equally as good as the one at Central station, but of larger size, is $5,500. A ladder truck has been quoted at $5,700 and if two or more pieces are purchased at once the company will make a discount of $250.00 from each price. In the event of the purchase by the city of two pieces of LaFrance apparatus, the city will expend $10,700, $300 less than the amount which will be recommended in a supplementary budget.

G. A. R. AID SOCIETY WANT MEMORIAL HALL

In Meantime Favor Leasing Present Quarters For Three Years

The goal for which the G. A. R. Aid society and Grand Army are to strive is a memorial hall to be erected on the Edwards estate on School street. This was decided at a joint meeting of the Aid society and Grand Army held at the headquarters of the post Tuesday evening.

Commander Mark E. Hanson presided and in opening the meeting said that the post had considered the proposition to buy the Tarbox estate but had come to the conclusion that the expense to rip out the inside and remodel the building would be nearly as much as a new building would cost.

Councilman Joseph L. Whiton president of the Aid society, then explained that the society had experienced much difficulty in getting a quorum at its meetings and in collecting funds but had raised the sum of $500.

"There are plenty who are willing to come forward with their contributions," he said, "but the trouble is that it can not be learned just what the post wants. According to the talk some want one thing and some another. It is absolutely necessary if we are to do anything to know just what the post desires. If it desires to remain in this hall why we will go to work and fix it up. The uncertainty makes it very discouraging for the society. Just tell us what you want and that will give us something to work on. Last February a law was enacted which will allow the city to provide quarters for the Grand Army posts, but it must be remembered that if this is done the building can not be let to others than the kindred societies to the Grand Army."

Ex-Mayor Stone said the Aid society was ready to go ahead but must have some definite idea of what was wanted. He thought that it would be a good thing if the Adams Academy building could be used. There was no question but what the Aid society would take care of the rent and make what repairs were necessary.

Dr. John H. Ash did not favor laying out much money to repair the present building, especially when the post was a tenant at will.

President Whiton said that an order could be put in the council and a public hearing held. This council however can not bind future councils although it is fair to presume that no council would hesitate to provide the necessary money each year.

At this point Comrade Edward Lennon said that he had been appointed a committee to look into the matter of a site for a memorial hall on the Edward's estate. He then stated the size of the lot, next to the Dr. Pattee estate, and what he believed it could be purchased for.

This raised a question as to what such a memorial hall would cost as well as what accommodations were desired.

In an informal talk which followed it was expressed by members of the post that what was wanted was a one story building. In the basement there could be toilet rooms, kitchen and banquet room, and on the main floor a hall for meeting and necessary anti rooms.

Dr. Ash said this seemed to settle the question of what the post wanted and it was evident that it could be done. It was up to the city council to appropriate the money.

President Whiton said it would require sixteen votes to pass such an order. "I am willing," he said, "to start the movement for an appropriation but you of the Grand Army must do your part in getting in touch with the councilmen."

Ex-Mayor Stone said that if the Grand Army would give him an idea of the arrangement of the memorial hall proposed he would have plans made and get an estimate on the cost of the building.

At this time someone asked if a memorial hall was what the Grand Army wanted which caused Senior Vice Commander Thomas Ring to reply that he thought the gentlemen now knew what was wanted. "They have memorial halls in all towns about us but in Quincy there is none," he declared.

President Whiton in reply said that towns had a right to appropriate money to build memorial halls but it was not until last Feburary when the

IS TENNIS SISSIFIED?

A recent remark quoted from Rev. Billy Sunday was to the effect that lawn tennis is a little too "sissified" to please him. If Billy were to start in playing it this spring, he might soon find himself more winded than he ever got on the ball field.

Lawn tennis constantly grows in popularity, owing to its adaptability to limited spaces. It requires no costly grounds, running into the thousands or tens of thousands, like golf. The ordinary suburban back yard is apt to be big enough. While a good court may cost a hundred or two dollars or more, an inexpensive lay-out can be had for less. So although it used to be called the "dude game," it has the qualities of a very democratic sport.

The real objection to lawn tennis is quite the opposite of that stated by Billy Sunday. It is so very active that few men play it after they have reached middle age. The long rallies when a ball is kept seesawing back and forth over the net into different corners of the court, will run the breath out of any but a man who is well in training.

It is more fatiguing than running on a straight track could be. The player must first sprint in one direction, then pull himself up, recover balance and run back again. The irregular and intense activity calls for a high degree of nervous control and muscular endurance.

No game is more practical for physical development of young people. Played in groups of two, three, or four people, it calls for no elaborate machinery of organization. The athletic candidates that are disheartened by rejection from a school or college ball team can resort to the tennis court, and get a better physical development than they would have secured on the diamond. In most schools the number of tennis players is usually limited only by the number of courts, which are commonly too few. Probably the time will come when tennis will be the usual out-door adjunct to public high schools.

CITY SHOULD SUPERVISE.

The suggestion has been made that the city should appropriate the sum of $200 for supervision of the children's gardens during the coming summer months. The large number of children who are now interested in this work renders the employment of an inspector a necessity. Last year the expense of the inspector, who visited the gardens at the opening of the season, again in the middle of the season, and finally at its close, was borne by the civics committee of the Quincy Women's club.

As was suggested in an editorial in a recent issue, we believe that the work is an important one and that it would be advisable for the city to take it over. Many members of the Quincy Women's club are understood to hold this opinion and to feel that the city should appropriate $200 to be expended under the direction of the Park Commissioners.

We believe that the work more properly should come under the jurisdiction of the School Committee and should be carried on as school gardens.

This year the city is fortunate in that the executive committee of the Quincy Women's club has induced Mrs William W. Jenness to supervise the work. Mrs. Jenness is well fitted for the task and has declared that she will give liberally of her time.

All branches of the granite workers union in Quincy have passed votes endorsing James Duncan, the present secretary-treasurer for international president. One thing seems practically certain, the Quincy vote will be solid for Mr. Duncan.

That Quincy hardware dealer who induced a cow to enter his store and inspect his wares Monday must be a past master in the art of attracting customers.

FAVOR COUNTY HOSPITAL BILL

Mayor Campbell, City Solicitor Pinkham and Chairman Buchin of the Board of Health will attend the hearing at the state house Thursday morning to favor the enactment of what is known as House Bill No. 2160. This is a bill relative to the erection of tuberculosis hospitals throughout the state. Under the present law each city or town of over 10,000 inhabitants is obliged to erect a hospital and unless erected within a certain time the city will be penalized. Right here in Quincy the city council is considering a proposition which will call for an appropriation of $35,000.

Some weeks ago an attempt was made to admit a bill in the legislature which sought to put off the time when such hospitals shall be erected for two years. The admittance of this bill however was refused but a bill was admitted which provides that counties shall erect tuberculosis hospitals. This was in line with the suggestion contained in the Ledger recently.

The bill provides that counties may erect such hospitals and equip the same, the cost of construction to be net and the hospital to be maintained by taxation.

Cities and towns in the county may send their patients to the hospital, provided that such cities and towns do not now maintain tuberculosis hospitals, the cost of caring for these patients to be paid for by the city or town sending them, and shall be based on the actual cost.

The location of the hospital must be approved by the state board of health and shall have an unpaid board of five visitors, two of whom shall be women. The trustees of the hospital to be the county commissioners who are empowered to make regulations and to appoint a superintendent.

WATER RATES

year. The fire department and school department also use large amounts. Hereafter the water department will be credited with the water used by these departments. If after a little further consideration I decide that this is the right thing to do I shall eliminate thirty thousand dollars from the taxes and increase the water rate.

"The city debt has been reduced ninety-two thousand dollars so far and if the next administration follows out the policy of practical economy, not niggardly economy, but liberal economy, the debt can be reduced seventy-five thousand more next year and a hundred and fifty thousand dollars the year after that.

The Mayor is going to recommend that the new school buildings asked for by the Norfolk Downs district and by Ward Two shall each be sixteen room buildings. The purpose in this is that at least two of the rooms may be used as a preliminary high school, in this way relieving the congestion which is going to occur next fall. If the building in Ward Two were ready for occupancy next September there would be twelve rooms comfortably filled. It is not economy to construct too small buildings."

Mayor Campbell congratulated the association on the work already done in this section and assured them that if they deemed it wise to make any recommendations to the school committee or any other department he would help them in any way he considered right.

Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook sang "A Morning Wind" by Branscome and "The Swallows" by Cowen which were well received, especially her two Irish encores. She was accompanied by her pupil, Francis McCabe, who also played two piano solos with remarkable brilliance and execution.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served by Mrs. Olson, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Dineen.

Joseph McCabe auctioned off the cakes which were left over from the refreshments. Among other kinds of heretofore unheard of cakes he sold an angel cake with currants in it and a pound cake with all sorts of fruit. The sum of $1.57 was realized from the sale.

The next meeting of the association will be held on the third Tuesday in October.

Presiding Judge Has Not Yet Seen Any Evidence of Conspiracy

Washington, May 19.—Arguments on the motion of counsel for Secretary McAdoo, Comptroller of the Currency Williams and Treasurer Burke to dismiss the temporary injunction against the treasury officials, secured by the Riggs National bank, continued in the District supreme court.

Frank J. Hogan concluded a lengthy address against the motion on behalf of the bank, and Louis D. Brandeis outlined the government's contention that the injunction should be dismissed.

While Hogan was speaking, Justice McCoy remarked that he had seen in the case, as presented, no evidence of a conspiracy between the secretary and comptroller against the bank.

THAW TRANSFERRED FROM TOMBS PRISON

Jury Trial as to Prisoner's Sanity Postponed to June 7

New York, May 19.—Supreme Court Justice Hendrick signed an order transferring Harry K. Thaw from the Tombs to the custody of the sheriff in Ludlow street jail in response to a request from Thaw's counsel.

In signing the order, Hendrick said that inasmuch as Thaw is not a prisoner charged with any crime and the state does not wish to punish him, it would be better for Thaw's health for him to be in Ludlow street jail.

Thaw will be given a jury trial June 7. Hendrick postponed the case until that date in order that the appellate division may have time to render a decision on the new attempt of the state to prevent such a trial.

ALMOST READY FOR JURY

Edivence Is All Taken In Barnes' Suit Against Roosevelt

Syracuse, N. Y., May 19.—The presentation of evidence in William Barnes' suit for libel against Theodore Roosevelt was completed in the superior court after both principals had given additional testimony.

Roosevelt told what he represented to be the true details of an interview he had about a year ago with John W. Hutchinson, Jr., a New York lawyer, who swore on the witness stand last week that Roosevelt had told him that "the Republican party is not big enough to hold Mr. Barnes and myself." In regard to that quotation, Roosevelt almost shouted that it was false.

Roosevelt flatly contradicted Barnes' testimony about the talk in the White House over the Agnew-Hart racing bill, about a conversation after selection of the late James S. Sherman to be temporary chairman of the Republican state committee in 1910, and about many other things.

Barnes, under cross-examination, admitted that he had been presented with 750 shares of stock in the A. B. Lyon company of Albany. He said the stock was valueless at the time he received it.

one of the warmest campaigns of its kind for that office ever waged in the city.

The "live wire" states that Ward Two is entitled to the nomination this year and the district in nominating a Ward Two man will only be giving that section recognition which should have been accorded five years ago.

The remark that it was generally understood that there would be a dearth of candidates for that office this fall brought the rejoinder from Col. Whitman that never, as long as he remained a resident of the district, which he hopes will be the rest of his life, will the Republican party be without a candidate for that office

JOHN D. MACKAY.

How many men will jump into the affray is difficult to say at this stage of the game. John D. Mackay, whose term as a member of the School Committee and its present chairman expires this year will probably enter the field.

Councilman Charles A. Ross of Ward Three is known to be a candidate and the names of several others have been mentioned but nothing of a definite nature has been learned as yet because no official indication is forthcoming from these gentlemen.

A regular meeting of the Junior auxiliary of St. Chrysostom's church was held Tuesday afternoon. The business of the club for the season having been completed Tuesday's session was in the nature of a social session.

A largely attended meeting of the Young Men's club of the Swedish Congregational church was held Tuesday evening with Edwin Barsell of 167 Whitwell street. The special committee on a constitution and by-laws made its report which was laid on the table until the next meeting at which time the question of adoption will be considered. Following this there was an interesting program consisting of recitations and music.

During the meeting Rev. Mr. Sporrong asked the young men if they were interested in the movement to purchase a pipe organ for the church. The members were very enthusiastic over the project and were unanimous in pledging their support. Light refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. MORE MEN FOR NAVY.

Uncle Sam apparently is renewing his efforts to attract men to the navy and throughout the country he is supplementing the vari-colored posters which appear in the postoffices with more detailed and energetic work. In Quincy H. J. Matthews is in charge of a local campaign. Letters have been sent to promising young men setting forth the advantages of the navy.

The letter follows:

"HOW ARE YOU GETTING ON."

Have you or your parents investigated your present position and do they believe that you are learning a useful trade which insures you a good future?

Do you feel that your present occupation is giving you a good training, physical and mental, for your future; that you are getting on and earning good wages, being advanced regularly in pay and responsibility according to your ability?

Are you associating with the right kind of young men, ambitious young men who want to advance themselves in life? Are you improving yourself by study? Have you the opportunity to see the world, do you know the people of foreign climes as you know the people of this country?

The United States Navy offers you these advantages: good pay, steady promotion, healthful outdoor life, congenial companions and opportunity to travel; the choice to learn one of the fifty trades practiced in the Navy and to get the best of training, physical and mental, a training which will always enable you to make a good living even though you do not stay in the Navy. G. A. R. AID SOCIETY

Governor signed the bill that cities could do so.

It now having been settled just what the Post desired the question arose as to quarters, pending the action of the council and the erection of the building if put through.

After some consideration it was deemed advisable that the Post should lease the present quarters for a term of three years, make what little repairs were immediately necessary and provide new chairs in place of the seats now in use.

President Whiton agreed to have an order introduced at the next meeting of the council, making an appropriation for a building and also calling a public hearing on the project.

A vote of thanks was then extended to the members of the Aid society present and the meeting adjourned.

Now that the citizens have learned just what the members of the post desire and that they are unanimous in this desire it is believed that the public will readily come forward and support the movement.

John L. Hamilton voiced this sentiment and said that he believed that there would be no difficulty in carrying the program through.

TO PORTLAND, OREGON.

"The City of Roses," as Portland, Oregon is called, will extend its hospitality to thousands of club women from May 31 to June 3. Mrs. George Winslow Perkins, president of the Massachusetts State Federation, Mrs. Charles Mann, Mrs. James Tucker Cutler and Mrs. Eugene L. Buffington, all members of the Roxburghe Club are to be delegates.

The council coming the week before the annual Rose Festival will give the visitors an unusually fine opportunity to enjoy to the full Portland's incomparable roses before the festival begins. The hundreds of thousands that are cut for festival purposes seem to make little if any inroads into the beauty or abundance of the gardens and hedges. Five thousand is not an unusual number to be used in decorating one automobile.

While it would be impossible to count the roses raised in the city, experienced florists estimate them at from fifteen to twenty millions. One park alone has 14,000 plants and 700 varieties. Amidst this one forest of bloom the visitor can view the snow-capped peaks of Mount Adams, Mount St. Helena and Mount Rainier.

The Hotel Multnomah, with its 550 rooms, its magnificent rotunda, its Arcadian Garden, spacious ballroom and remarkable mezzanine floor, will all be at the service of the visiting club women, who will receive their introduction to Portland and their hostesses on the evening of May 31, at a reception tendered by the club women of the state. All the sessions will be held in the White Temple, one of the largest churches on the Pacific Coast. Tuesday evening, Dr. William J. Foster, president of Reed College will speak on the "Spirit of the Northwest" Thursday evening the address will be by David Starr Jordan on "Women and the Peace Movement."

Short Skirt With Us.

The return of the short skirt and the popularity of the modern dances have called the feet into prominence again. This means that the woman who cultivates beauty must pay particular attention to her feet. If the ankle is not slender it must be made so, and if the feet are not of a patrician mold their form must be corrected as much as possible.

Exercise and massage will do much for unshapely ankles if the bones are not misshapen. Remove shoes and stockings and sit with one knee crossed over the other. Move the foot about in a circle, using the ankle joint only. When you become tired move the foot up and down until fatigued and then change to the other foot. Another effective exercise is to stand on both feet and turn the feet from side to side at the ankle.

After exercising fill a foot bath with hot water, as hot as you can stand it with comfort, and plunge the feet in this bath. The ankles should be covered, and if a tablespoonful of bicarbonate of soda is added to the water it assists in the flesh melting process. Allow the ankles to remain in this bath fifteen or twenty minutes; then rub them dry and apply a strong solution of alum or camphorated oil. Use firm, vigorous strokes to rub the oil well into the flesh and as a final end of the treatment bind the ankles with strips of linen saturated with the oil. Do not draw these tight enough to hinder the circulation.

To improve the contour of the foot it is necessary to pay attention to the corns, callouses and enlarged joints. Be quite sure that you wear well fitted shoes, for there must be no pressure against any one part of the foot.

Do Not Use Grease on Hair.

Never use grease on the hair. After the shampoo use camomile lotion, rubbing it in carefully with the points of the fingers, and on no account permit it to touch the face, because it will make the face yellow.

This camomile lotion, which cleanses the hair and tones the scalp, promoting circulation, is made thus:

Two large handfuls of camomile; two quarts of water. Boil for fifteen minutes, or until it is as dark as black coffee, then shake and add two quarts of cold water. Put in a stone jar and keep in a cold place. Shake well before using.

Hair to be really beautiful should not lie in heavy, sticky bands, but should stand out hair by hair, as separate as the down of a little chicken. To acquire this use ten drops of ammonia sprinkled in the camomile. It must be added after the mixture has boiled and cooled, otherwise the ammonia will evaporate.

The Use of Soap.

Use soap, but let it be pure soap. There are soaps made from spermaceti, which is the oil taken from the head of the whale. It is very expensive, but one may not economize as to the complexion. This is a recipe for the care of the complexion every day:

On rising massage the face eight or ten minutes. Massage it with the two middle fingers—that is, the second and third—and with a round, not lengthwise, motion. The round motion removes lines. The lengthwise motion makes them. Remove what is left of the cold cream with a linen towel or an old handkerchief, then apply a little more cold cream, then powder.

In the evening take ten to twenty minutes for cleansing your face. First wash it in tepid water—never cold water, except in emergencies of great fatigue—then massage for eight or ten minutes. Remove the cream, then apply more cream, very little more, and so to sleep.

About Nervousness.

No woman can help feeling nervous at times in this age of rush and racket, but it is quite possible to put on the brake, as it were, and not let the nerves run away with us and spoil our beauty. Here are a few hints on the subject:

If people fret you it is not necessary to be rude to them. Try instead to avoid them. Don't read books that irritate you. Books are plentiful; therefore put away the offending volume and choose another. If noise at night worries you don't let it continue to do so. Get up and see to the matter and put it right.

Don't let yourself get into the habit of being bored. It is not worth while. When you feel it coming on plunge at once into some task that will take all your time and energy.

Fine Skin Tonic.

There is an excellent old skin tonic, used for generations, which will probably be of interest to the women readers of this page. It may be prepared at home and contains nothing that is in the least bit harmful to the face, which is more than can be said of so many of the so called skin tonics on the market. Make a bag of cheesecloth, double thickness, and fill it with bran, a teaspoonful of orris root and a half cake of castile soap chopped up fine. This bag may be used in the bath and on the face and makes the skin smooth, white and firm.

WOMAN'S PLACE.

How The Famous Russian, Metchnikoff, Answered the Suffragettes.

It was at the Naturalists' Congress in St. Petersburg. For an hour and a half, Elie Metchnikoff had entertained an audience largely composed of women psychologists, biologists and doctors of medicine and philosophy. Then close they pressed about him with clinging enthusiasm, and almost in a voice exclaimed: "Oh, professor, what is your opinion of the feministic movement?"

The professor looked gravely at the expectant faces surrounding him, sighed and turned away. "But, professor, you must tell us. We insist," and they cast meaning glances at one another.

"But, my dear ladies," he protested, "you know I am no politician. I—,"

"Yes, yes," they retorted, "but you must tell us. We want your personal opinion."

"Very well, dear ladies," he began softly. "Je suis chevalier. I obey, but only on condition," and his voice grew stronger, "that you do not interrupt me. Here is my idea: Your complaint, as I understand it, is that man has excluded women from all higher intellectual occupations by unnatural means, so that her mind has been atrophied, her capabilities blunted, her talents stagnant. You would remedy all this by being made man's equal in politics. You would then, you say, develop your slumbering abilities, overtake, and possibly surpass, your immemorial enslaver—man.

"But do you really need this political equality in order to attain this supremacy? Has the down-trodden among man ever needed it? His political equality has come as an effect not as a cause of his intellectual development. The mind that dominates in the artistic and scientific world ultimately arrives at political supremacy.

"But what art or science has man closed to you? You are here; but really, ladies, I have failed to discover a Bichat, a Louis, a Jenner, or a Pasteur among you. Have you personally been impeded in your careers more than individuals among men?

"Now let us take the arts. Is there a manmaster so unnatural, who ever forbade his female slave to express herself in music? But where are your Beethovens, your Wagners, your Verdis, your Brahms? I beg of you, dear ladies, if you remember one, tell me."

Metchnikoff paused and smiled. His auditors exchanged a few constrained whispers. After a moment he continued: "What brutal slave owner at any time forbade woman to beautify canvas with satisfying hues and lines depicting life or nature? As in music man has encouraged women to do things, yet where are your Raphaels, your Leonardos, your Rubenses? Has woman been forbidden to mould, carve or draw? Yet where is your Phidias, your Michelangelo, your Cellini? Did you ever hear of a woman architect of a great cathedral?"

The effect of these words was extraordinary. The women appeared abashed, then one high-spirited voice uttered the fatal word, "Home!"

Then it was that Metchnikoff began in a soft, caressing voice to carry the war into the enemy's country.

"Yes," he replied. "Home and motherhood. Then, of course, the most radical among you will not say that man has attempted to restrain you—you have had from time immemorial in all ages, in all places under every condition absolute and full freedom. Still is it not man, the enslaver, who teaches you domestic economy? Is it not from man that you have learned how to care for your offspring in illness, how to amuse them in health? Who discovered the laws of domestic hygiene? Was it a woman?

"Now, my dear ladies, has man ever excluded you from the kitchen? No, you say. You have been enslaved there. 'Cook, feed the brute!' is eternally dinned in your ears. It would seem reasonable that at least in this sphere woman should have reached a higher standard of perfection. And the actual result? Ah, dear ladies, I must confess. If I want a really good dinner, I must have a man to cook it, recourse to an accomplished chef."

Then the women psychologists, biologists and doctors of medicine and philosophy filed out, and Metchnikoff was left alone.—Fall River Globe.

SUMMER FROCK.

Handsome Frock of Lace and Embroidered Handkerchief Linen.

PRETTY SUMMER CREATION.

Hand embroidery is used lavishly this season in the creation of handsome summer robes. The bolero jacket lends itself to the scalloped edge, as do also the yoke and the bottom of the skirt. To give the touch of color the girdle is made of rose colored satin. A hat of white hemp is trimmed with pink roses, and the stockings are pink, worn with black and white pumps.

BEAUTIFUL DOGWOODS.

When This Shrub Blossoms Summer Is Again Here.

The magnificent magnolias spread their languid petals so early, while the trees are yet bare, that one fears it is all too good to be true. But with the delicious dogwoods it is another story. One knows summer is practically here. And the dogwoods are not only charming when their snowy sheets are spread; their foliage is vivid in the fall, a glorious crimson, and the berries are even more richly tinted. Unfortunately the hungry birds often descend upon a tree and devour every blossom. Like many other shrubs, its buds for the following year will be set this autumn. Even prettier than this dogwood is the pink flowering variety, but while the color is wonderful the form is not as characteristic.

The round topped, upward branching red maple is superb against a very blue sky. Then the dark gray bark looks black and the crimson blossoms, which grow on short pedicels, seem more than ever brilliant. In Georgia and Florida these blossoms are a superb sight in March and a delight to the northerner because they come so early.

One need not be forever looking aloft, however. Right down in the grass are floral riches a-plenty. The first favorite, no doubt, is the violet, the dear, modest little violet, which everybody loves and which blossoms everywhere.

The little blue hepatica was one of the floral early buds; likewise the pinky and exquisite arbutus, which some call the maydower. In April and May the bloodroot is found, its pure white golden hearted blossoms being as lovely as the juice of its root stock is surprising.

Put Salt In Milk.

Milk will not turn sour if a teaspoonful of fine salt be added to every quart.

When preparing onions, turnips and carrots for cooking, cut across the fiber, as this makes them more tender when cooked.

In warming a steamed pudding or in steaming a stale cake never put the article on a plate or flat dish. Place the pudding in a colander in the steamer, and you will be surprised to find how much lighter and more delicate the pudding will be than if a plate had been used for the moisture to settle on and make the pudding heavy.

CREAM BLOUSES MODISH.

Cream is the modish tone for the spring blouse, not pink. Rarely lovely as the pink blouse is in delicate flesh or shell tones, its day has passed, and these blouses are offered for sale on the bargain tables, while cream and sand colored models have the places of honor among exclusive new spring wearables. Hemstitched blouses of sand colored khaki fine for sport wear have buttoned down pockets and plaits at front and back. Cream lace and net blouses meet the requirements of formal spring tailleurs, and there are good looking blouses of tan shantung, cream tinted georgette crape and ecru pussy willow silk, all with the long sleeve and collar high at the back, whatever its cut may be at the front.

Better Cake and Biscuits

In all receipts calling for one teaspoonful of soda and two of cream of tartar, use instead two spoonfuls of Royal Baking Powder. You will get better and finer food and save much trouble and guesswork.

Look out for adulterated baking powders. Do not permit them to come into your house under any consideration. They may add an injurious substance to your food, destroying in part its digestibility. Doctors will tell you this and it is unquestionable.

Housewives are sometimes led to use inferior baking powders because of apparent lower cost, but there is very little difference in practical use, about one cent for a whole cake or pan of biscuits—a mere trifle when you consider the vast difference in healthfulness in favor of food made with Royal Baking Powder.

WOMEN CLERKS TO HAVE OUTING

The young women clerks at city hall are planning a pleasant outing the latter part of the month. Mayor Campbell owns a pretty camp on Lake Winnesaukee, near what is known as Melvin Village and he has given the use of this camp to the clerks for their outing. The plans call for the party to leave Saturday, May 29, on the 1 o'clock train from Boston. Arriving at the Lake station a small steamer will be taken for a delightful sail across the lake to the Wabeck landing, which is near Mayor Campbell's camp. They will remain here over Sunday and will probably leave for home on Monday on the afternoon boat arriving in Boston, Monday evening. Just who will chaperon the party has not as yet been decided.

Q. H. S. TO HAVE TRACK TEAM

Large Squad Answers Call Tuesday

A track team is at last formed at the Quincy High school. A call for candidates was issued Tuesday and a large squad reported. A challenge from Melrose High school's track team was discussed, and a meet is to be held in two weeks. The first practise is to be held Thursday afternoon at the Merrymount Oval. Mr. Paulson and Mr. Thompson of the High school faculty are to coach the boys and a good team is expected. A challenge from Brockton High school is also under consideration, and if the team makes a good showing against Melrose a meet will undoubtedly take place with the former school.

For the dashes Paul Larkin will be borrowed from the base ball team and he is a sure point winner. Crosby and Sears are also good men in the dashes. Stearns, MacDonald, "Wet" Brown, Sears, Erikson and Hammond are out for the longer runs. A larger squad will report Thursday.

In the high jump Crosscup, Roache, and Davis are all doing over 5 feet. These same men are to compete in the broad jump. In the shot put "Buck" Reardon, Eddie Foy and Link Crosscup, all football men, should make a good showing.

FAST GRAMMAR SCHOOL GAME

Gridley Bryants Win Third Victory

The Gridley Bryants won their third game of the season Tuesday afternoon in defeating the Massachusetts Field school at the Ward Three playground, 3 to 0 The game was scoreless until the last innings and was one of the fastest ever played in local grammar school base ball.

Both pitchers were in fine form and older people at the game said both appeared to be unusual grammar school twirlers.

The extra strength incorporated in the delivery of a ball in the last innings brought about the defeat of the Fields combination. With two strikes on a batter, Ganzel, anxious to pull himself out of a hole, heaved the pillet over the pan, actually dividing it The batter took it on his glove but was unable to hold it and it went through him and three runs scored. The score by innings:

Quincy, Mass., May 10, 1915.
GENERAL ORER NO. 1

In compliance with the laws of our order, our established custom and general rules from headquarters, the comrades of this Post will observe Monday, May 31st as Memorial Day. Let us reverence the solemnity of this occasion. Let us at this time gather around the sacred remains of our departed comrades and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of Springtime: let us raise above them the dear old flag they sated from dishonor. It is all we can do. It is our expression of loyalty to their memory.

"To the clouds and the mountains we breathe it
To the freedom of planet and star:
Let the tempest of ocean unwreath it:
Let the winds of night bear it far.

Our oath, that till manhood shall perish
And honor and virtue are sped
We are true to the cause that they cherished.
And eternally true to the dead."

On Sunday, May 30th, Comrades will assemble in full uniform at G. A. R. Hall at 9.30 A. M. for the purpose of attending Divine Service at the Congregational Church at Quincy Point. Rev. Mr. Lang, Pastor. A special car will leave Quincy Square at 10.05 o'clock to convey all who wish to attend, and will return at the conclusion of the service.

LOCAL RACQUET WIELDERS WIN

Q. H. S. Tennis Team Defeat Milton Academy

The Quincy High tennis team showed its superiority at that game Tuesday afternoon when it defeated the Milton Academy team, 3-2, on the latter's courts. In the doubles the Quincy team made one point and two in the singles. Crocker starred for the winners.

The Academy team is one of the best among the private schools and met its match for the first time at the hands of the local team.

The score was:

Favreau of Quincy defeated Tolle of Milton, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

Crocker of Quincy defeated Knox of Milton 6-2, 10-8.

SUCCESSOR OF L. F. LaROSE

The appointment of a physical director of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. to succeed Louis F. LaRose is expected within a few days. Special committees which have the matter in hand are known to have four men under consideration and it would not be surprising if they reported within a few days to the Board of Directors in whom the appointing power is vested.

It was at first understood that the directors felt inclined to delay the choice of a successor until fall but a program of summer activities which can be carried on only with the assistance of a director has hastened matters.

The men under consideration are all said to combine executive ability with the experience necessary to the position and although it is not known officially it is understood that one Quincy man is in line. The others are from cities in the metropolitan district and one is from the western part of the state.

SPORTING COMMENT

Congrats, cops. The Newton-Quincy game was a victory, even if the score was "agin ye."

The game between the Gridley and Massachusetts Field schools Tuesday had an unsatisfactory ending. Three runs scored when Morris let a ball go by him and didn't follow it up. He claims it was a foul ball. The batter claims it was a strike. Some on the field heard two sounds and the umpire said he heard none. The losers, however, are sporty and game and say they will recover their ground the next time they play Gridley.

Ganzel, pitcher of the Massachusetts Field grammar school, is probably the best boy pitcher the city has ever had in those circles. Not only does he possess an inside knowledge of base ball but he seldom makes an error of judgment.

Quincy High in defeating the strong Milton Academy team at tennis Tuesday achieved a victory to be proud of.

Greenaway's victory over Olindy in the special 40 string bowling match was not a surprise.

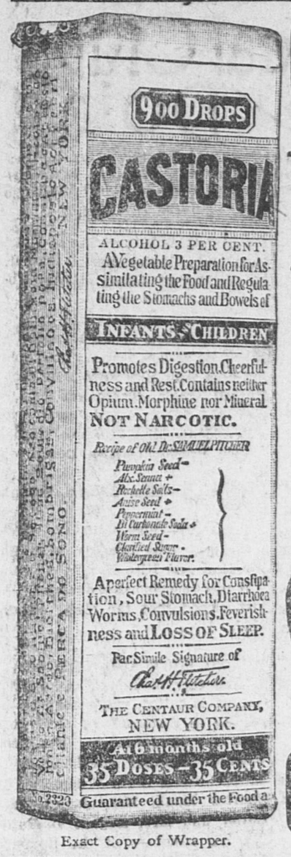

Quincy and Weymouth combat today in a South Shore Interscholastic league game at Merrymount Park.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Happiness.

Le Comte de Sabron finished his dressing.

Brunet surveyed his master from the tip of his shining boots to his sleek, fair head. His expressive eyes said: "Monsieur le Capitaine is looking well tonight."

Brunet had never before given his master a direct compliment. His eyes only had the habit of expressing admiration, and the manner in which he performed his duties, his devotion, were his forms of compliment. But Sabron's long illness and absence, the fact that he had been snatched from death and given back to the army again, leveled between servant and master the impassable wall of etiquette.

"There will be a grand dinner tonight, will there not, Monsieur le Capitaine? Doubtless Monsieur le Colonel and all the gentlemen will be there." Brunet made a comprehensive gesture as though he comprised the entire etat major.

Sabron, indeed, looked well. He was thin, deeply bronzed by the exposure on the yacht, for he and Tremont before returning to France had made a long cruise. Sabron wore the look of a man who has come back from a far country and is content.

"And never shall I forget to the end of my days how Monsieur le Capitaine looked when I met the yacht at Marseilles!"

Brunet spoke reverently, as though he were chronicling sacred souvenirs.

"I said to myself, you are about to welcome back a hero, Brunet! Monsieur le Capitaine will be as weak as a child. But I was determined that Monsieur le Capitaine should not read my feelings, however great my emotion."

Sabron smiled. At no time in his simple life did Brunet ever conceal the most trifling emotion—his simple face revealed all his simple thoughts. Sabron said heartily: "Your control was very fine, indeed."

"Instead of seeing a sick man, Monsieur le Capitaine, a splendid-looking figure, with red cheeks and bright eyes, came off the boat to the shore. I said to myself: 'Brunet, he has the air of one who comes back from a victory.' No one would have ever believed that Monsieur le Capitaine had been rescued from captivity."

Brunet's curiosity was very strong and as far as his master was concerned he had been obliged to crush it down. To himself he was saying: "Monsieur le Capitaine is on the eve of some great event. When will he announce it to me? I am sure my master is going to be married."

Pitchoune, from a chair near by, assisted at his master's toilet, one moment holding the razor-strop between his teeth, then taking the clothes brush in his little grip. He was saying to himself: "I hope in the name of rats and cats my master is not going out without me!"

Brunet was engaged to be married to the kitchen maid of the Marquise d'Esclignac. Ordonnances and scullions are not able to arrange their matrimonial affairs so easily as are the upper classes.

"Monsieur le Capitaine," said the servant, his simple face raised to his master's, "I am going to be married."

Sabron wheeled around: "Mon brave Brunet, when?"

Brunet grinned sheepishly.

"In five years, Monsieur le Capitaine," at which the superior officer laughed heartily.

"Is she an infant, are you educating her?"

"When one is the eldest of a widow," said Brunet with a sigh, "and the eldest of ten children—"

The clock struck the quarter. Sabron knew the story of the widow and ten children by heart.

"Is the taxi at the door?"

"Yes, Monsieur le Capitaine."

Pitchoune gave a sharp bark.

"You are not invited," said his master cruelly, and went gayly out, his sword hitting against the stairs.

* * * * * * *

The Marquise d'Esclignac gave a brilliant little dinner to the colonel of Sabron's squadron. There were present a general or two, several men of distinction, and among the guests were the Duc de Tremont and Madame de la Maine. Sabron, when he found himself at table, looked at everything as though in a dream. Julia Redmond sat opposite him. He had sent her flowers and she wore them in her bodice. Madame de la Maine bent upon the young officer benignant eyes, the Duc de Tremont glanced at him affectionately, but Sabron was only conscious that Julia's eyes did not meet his at all.

They talked of Sabron's captivity, of the engagement in Africa, of what the army was doing, would not do, or might do, and the fact that the Duc de Tremont was to receive the decoration of the Legion of Honor in July. Tremont toasted Sabron and the young officer rose to respond with flushing face. He looked affectionately at his friend who had brought him from death into life. The moment was intense, and the Marquise d'Esclignac lifted her glass:

"Now, gentlemen, you must drink to the health of Pitchoune."

There was a murmur of laughter, Madame de la Maine turned to Sabron:

"I have had a collar made for Pitchoune; it is of African leather set with real turquoise."

Sabron bowed: "Pitchoune will be perfectly enchanted, Madame; he will wear it at your wedding."

* * * * * * *

Later, when the others had left them to themselves in the music room, Sabron sat in a big chair by the open window and Julia Redmond played to him. The day was warm. There was a smell of spring flowers in the air and the vases were filled with girofles and sweet peas. But Sabron smelled only the violets in Julia's girdle. Her hands gently wandered over the keys, finding the tune that Sabron longed to hear. She played the air through, and it seemed as though she were about to sing the first verse. She could not do so, nor could she speak.

Sabron rose and came over to where she sat.

There was a low chair near the piano and he took it, leaning forward, his hands clasped about his knees. It had been the life-long dream of this simple-hearted officer that one day he would speak out his soul to the woman he loved. The time had come. She sat before him in her unpretentious dress. He was not worldly enough to know it cost a great price, nor to appreciate that she wore no jewels—nothing except the flowers he had sent. Her dark hair was clustered about her ears and her beautiful eyes lost their fire in tenderness.

"When a man has been very close to death, Mademoiselle, he looks about for the reason of his resurrection. When he returns to the world, he looks to see what there is in this life to make it worth living. I am young—at the beginning of my career. I may have before me a long life in which, with health and friends, I may find much happiness. These things certainly have their worth to a normal man—but I cannot make them real before my eyes just yet. As I look upon the world to which I have returned, I see nothing but a woman and her love. If I cannot win her for my wife, if I cannot have her love—" He made an expressive gesture which more impressively than words implied how completely he laid down everything else to her love and his.

He said, not without a certain dignity: "I am quite poor; I have only my soldier's pay. In Normandy I own a little property. It is upon a hill and looks over the sea, with apple orchards and wheat fields. There is a house. These are my landed estates. My manhood and my love are my fortune. If you cannot return my love I shall not thank Tremont for bringing me back from Africa."

The American girl listened to him with profound emotion. She discovered every second how well she understood him, and he had much to say, because it was the first time he had ever spoken to her of his love. She had put out both her hands and, looking at him fully, said simply:

"Why it seems to me you must know how I feel—how can you help knowing how I feel?"

* * * * * * *

After a little he told her of Normandy, and how he had spent his childhood and boyhood in the chateau overlooking the wide sea, told her how he had watched the ships and used to dream of the countries beyond the horizon, and how the apple blossoms filled the orchards in the spring. He told her how he longed to go back, and that his wandering life had made it impossible for years.

Julia whispered: "We shall go there in the spring, my friend."

He was charming as he sat there holding her hands closely, his fine eyes bent upon her. Sabron told her things that had been deep in his heart and mind, waiting for her here so many months. Finally, everything merged into his present life, and the beauty of what he said dazed her like an enchanted sea. He was a soldier, a man of action, yet a dreamer. The fact that his hopes were about to be realized made him tremble, and as he talked, everything took light from this victory. Even his house in Normandy began to seem a fitting setting for the beautiful American.

"It is only a Louis XIII chateau; it stands very high, surrounded by orchards, which in the spring are white as snow."

"We shall go there in the spring," she whispered.

Sabron stopped speaking, his reverie was done, and he was silent as the intensity of his love for her surged over him. He lifted her delicate hands to his lips. "It is April now," he said, and his voice shook, "it is spring now, my love."

* * * * * * *

At Julia's side was a slight touch. She cried: "Pitchoune!" He put his paws on her knees and looked up into her face.

"Brunet has brought him here," said Sabron, "and that means the good chap is attending to his own love-making."

Julia laid her hand on Pitchoune's head. "He will love the Normandy beach, Charles."

"He will love the forests," said Sabron; "there are rabbits there."

On the little dog's head the two hands met and clasped. "Pitchoune is the only one in the world who is not de trop," said Julia gently.

Sabron, lifting her hand again to his lips, kissed it long, looking into her eyes. Between that great mystery of the awakening to be fulfilled, they drew near to each other—nearer.

Pitchoune sat before them, waiting. He wagged his tail and waited. No one noticed him. He gave a short bark that apparently disturbed no one.

Pitchoune had become de trop.

He was discreet. With sympathetic eyes he gazed on his beloved master and new mistress, then turned and quietly trotted across the room to the hearth-rug, sitting there meditatively for a few minutes blinking at the empty grate, where on the warm spring day there was no fire.

Pitchoune lay down before the fireless hearth, his head forward on his paws, his beautiful eyes still discreetly turned away from the lovers. He drew a long contented breath as dogs do before settling into repose. His thrilling adventures had come to an end. Before fires on the friendly hearth of the Louis XIII chateau, where hunting dogs were carved in the stone above the chimney, Pitchoune might continue to dream in the days to come. He would hunt rabbits in the still forests above the wheat fields, and live again in the firelight his great adventures on the desert, the long runs across the sands on his journey back to France.

Now he closed his eyes. As a faithful friend he rested in the atmosphere of happiness about him. He had been the sole companion of a lonely man, now he had become part of a family.

THE END.

BOSTON BOWLER WINS MATCH

Greenaway, the veteran Boston bowler, defeated Olindy at the Arch street alleys, Boston, Tuesday evening by enough pins to overcome a lead of 33 and finish a special 40 string match by 22 pins to the good.

In upsetting the lead and finishing the veteran made a wonderful showing from a sporting standpoint. At the close of the 37th string he was seven up and in the last three picked up the 15 extra ones.

The first half of the match was rolled at the Wardwell alleys Monday evening and Olindy was returned a winner by 33 pins. Superior bowling by Greenaway gave him the match.

The match was said to have been rolled on the same arrangements governing the first one, held three weeks ago and it is reported that a purse of $100 had been hung up by both men. Olindy was not backed so extensively in the last match as in the first because Greenaway had demonstrated that he was able to squeeze out of tight corners with the advantage a little his way. Considerable money, placed by Boston fans, however, changed hands as a result of the match.

GERMAN REPLY TO UNCLE SAM

Considered Likely to Be Delayed For Another Week

ABSORBED IN ITALIAN CRISIS

Attention of Officials In Fatherland Now Focused on Events Transpiring at Rome—Notes Eventually to Be Sent Great Britain Also Held Up—Submarines Suspend Activities

Washington, May 19.—Two important factors are working to delay, for another week, Germany's reply to the American note of May 13, sent as a consequence of the Lusitania disaster.

First, the next few days are expected to decide whether Germany will be confronted with a new military situation by the entrance of Italy into the war and the cutting off of all supplies through the Mediterranean.

Second, interested diplomatists in Washington believe the interim of delay will reveal whether the United States, of its own initiative, will send a general protest to the allies with respect to their alleged violations of international law by interfering with commerce between American ports and neutral countries of Europe.

Officials generally think the Austro-Italian situation may absorb the attention of the German government during this week and delay the final composition of the reply. Such information as the United States government recently has received is of a positive nature indicating that Italy will soon enter the war.

It is realized that should Italy become a belligerent Germany would lose all hope of securing foodstuffs or other supplies through the Mediterranean, and if Roumania follows Italy's lead, as predicted, the wheat supply from southeastern Europe would be cut off. In such circumstances of almost complete isolation, it was explained in diplomatic quarters that Germany would find the submarine even more invaluable a weapon for destroying enemy supplies and commerce.

The idea that the United States will send a note to the allies seeking modifications of their order-in-council has its origin in quarters where the conviction is held that such a move at this time would demonstrate to Germany the intention of the United States to be equally vigorous in an insistence on the observance of neutral rights by Great Britain and her allies, making unnecessary an offer by Germany to return to the maritime rules of international law if the allies did likewise.

Although without definite information, there is a disposition in well-informed quarters to believe that President Wilson will withhold any contemplated representations to England until Germany's reply is received, because of a desire to obtain a frank understanding with the latter country on the points raised in the American note without complicating them with the situation as between the United States and the allies.

It is known that for several weeks there have been under preparation two notes eventually to be sent to Great Britain, one dealing with the general subject of contraband and the other embracing general representations on detentions of vessels plying between neutral ports carrying non-contraband American goods.

Secretary Bryan says that from twenty to thirty ships have been detained by the allies, most of them carrying cotton. He explained that the state department is not yet in possession of all the facts and is investigating.

In diplomatic quarters friendly to Germany it is confidently believed that the German reply to the United States will be conciliatory and make broad concessions in principle, if it is certain that strong efforts will be made to induce the allies to abandon their commercial embargo.

There is little fear now that any passenger ships will be torpedoed while the diplomatic discussions are in progress, for it is pointed out that since the suggestions of the Austrian and German embassies that the submarine program be suspended had reached Vienna and Berlin there have been no such attacks, although many opportunities apparently have presented themselves.

POLICE SEARCH CITY FOR BRUTAL ASSAILANT

Miss Munson Disfigured For Life In Fierce Struggle

Miss Alvira Munson, the 22 year old domestic who was brutally assaulted by a young man who accompanied her to her home on Tuesday evening according to Dr. W. H. Blanchard, will be disfigured for life. The police have run down several clews, have released from surveillance several young men who were under suspicion and are now working on definite lines which it is believed will result in the apprehension of the assailant.

The assault, one of the most brutal of its kind that ever took place in the city, occurred at 11 o'clock, near the home of Mrs. Warren G. Ogden on Munroe road. The facts did not become known until after the girl staggered to City square where she roamed about in dazed condition. The appearance of blood on her face aroused the suspicion of Patrolman Riley and while he questioned her she fainted away.

Carried to the Hancock house she was not revived for some time and her injuries were not known until an examination by Dr. Blanchard showed that she had been choked, three upper and a lower tooth knocked out and her clothing torn.

On her recovery she told the police a terrible story. She said a young man whose name she did not know but who was a speaking acquaintance met her in City square and accompanied her to her home. Just before arriving there she said he attempted to kiss her and in the struggle that followed she was choked and struck and as a result of the blows fell to the ground. Then according to the girl he looked at her as she lay on the ground at his feet and said: "Well, I might just as well kill you now," and with that he kicked her on the mouth. He then disappeared How long the girl lay there is not known.

On hearing her story all possible means to apprehend the assailant of the girl were taken without delay. Acting Chief McKay left his bed to assume personal charge of the case and worked all night. Several young men who answered somewhat the description furnished by the girl were interviewed, some on the street and one at police headquarters. The names of others who were in City square about the time the girl accepted the escort offer were secured and they were immediately questioned. All however accounted for their actions and have been absolved of complicity by the police.

This morning several who had not been located by the police called and denied they had any connection with the assault and they have likewise been relieved of suspicion after investigation.

The girl is today at the home of her employers, under the care of a physician. She is suffering from the severe shock but is in condition to view any suspect taken in connection with the assault.

REVIEWS SHIPS OFF STATUE OF LIBERTY

President Sees Armada Sail For Narragansett Bay

New York, May 19.—The big fleet of warships which has been at anchor in the Hudson river for ten days steamed out to sea with President President Wilson reviewing the five-mile line as it passed the Mayflower off the Statue of Liberty. Last night the president sailed for Washington on the Mayflower, convoyed by the cruiser Brooklyn.

Naval activity succeeded a week of social and naval functions on board the warships when the signal was flashed from Admiral Fletcher's flagship, the Wyoming, to prepare for the trip to Narragansett bay, where the fleet is to rendezvous.

Headed by the superdreadnought Wyoming, the sixteen battleships and their train of lesser fighting craft steamed past the presidential yacht at the smart speed of fourteen knots, each ship with its sailors and marines stationed at the rail at attention. Each craft, nearing the Mayflower, fired a presidential salute of twenty-one guns.

WOMAN IS AGAINST WAR

Vice President Marshall Says She Is the Deciding Element

Tallahassee, Fla., May 19.—"If war depended on my vote there would be no war," Vice President Marshall declared, in an address here.

"There is a new element in political life today, an element against war," he said. "It is woman. Whether she votes or not, she is in the political arena to stay and she is against war. She is not willing to give husband and son to please a few who desire to make a political issue."

It should be a penal offense to grind out "coming through the Rye" on a hand organ in a prohibition precinct.

THE FOUL BLOW.

The Germans declare that since the British are threatening to starve a whole people, they are justified in torpedoing British merchant ships. But naturally the world views the mere threat in one instance very differently from the horrible actuality in the other instance. No one has yet been starved to death. Moreover, the British campaign of starvation against Germany differs from the German submarine campaign against England in one very vital particular. In the last extremity, the Germans would at least have a chance to surrender and thereby save themselves.

But that chance was denied the helpless people aboard the Lusitania. There was no quarter for them and not even an opportunity to fight for their lives.

Nor did Baron von Schwarzenstein of the German Foreign Office meet the issue in his statement that "the newness of an instrument of warfare is no argument against using it." The world has not condemned Germany's submarines because they are a new weapon in warfare, but because they have been turned upon peaceable persons on a peaceable errand, subjects of neutral and enemy Nations alike. It would have been no more and no less heinous if a German dreadnought suddenly had opened a broadside out of a fog and with her 15-inch guns swept the decks of the Lusitania. Mankind is aghast, not because the deadly blow was delivered beneath the water, but because it was dealt beneath the belt.

International law is only fair play tempered with such mercy as humanity has been able to wring from the flinty heart of war. It has no superdreadnoughts and no 42-centimeter guns with which to enforce its provisions. Its surest and swiftest penalty has been inflicted when, as now, the whole neutral world cries "foul!"—James Morgan in the Boston Sunday Globe.

Prosperity is reported to be rapidly advancing everywhere and even those who found pleasure in a calamity howl may be relied on to give it a welcome.

SUFFS AND ANTIS COME NEAR HAVING DEBATE

Rev. Campbell, Presiding, Is Somewhat Perplexed

Suffrage was discussed at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening and all that put an end to a joint debate between men and women in the audience and the speakers was the necessity of the speakers leaving for a train.

The suffrage cause was represented by Miss Edna Lawrence Spencer, an officer in the Political Equality League, and Mrs. Henry Preston White represented the antis. Both live in Brookline.

No sooner had they consumed the 40 minutes allowed than several in the audience jumped to their feet with questions. Antis were arrayed against suffragettes and the questions flew thick and fast. Mrs. White seemed to be the chosen target but she held her own.

At one time the discussion became so animated that Rev. Clarence E. Campbell, pastor of the church and chairman, frankly admitted he was in doubt as to what to do.

Miss Spencer was asked two questions, one by a man, but the antis were not so vigorous in defending their cause as the suffragists.

On the whole the discussion was a practical one. Miss Spencer, the first speaker, argued that a woman had but little influence in civic affairs without the vote. Mrs. White remained in the vestry while her opponent spoke so that she would not have to refute the suffrage arguments but in her speech said the vote would entangle women.

And, when the meeting was at its height, a minx of a cat appeared on the sill of an open window behind the speakers, acted as though it was to jump on the platform and after three or four false moves jumped back into the darkness of the night and the audience tittered with glee.

Miss Spencer said that if our American flag means anything it means Democracy; if it means anything it stands for freedom, not for men alone but men and women together. Every star and stripe speaks freedom and liberty to the oppressed of every land but it was a woman who made that flag. "The women of America are governed by men from all nations and they have nothing to say about it. They should have the same voice in it as those men who have lived here but a short time. In giving women the vote we are enfranchising more women than all of the foreign men and women together. Legislation is more attracted by the glittering of gold and commercialism than by the soul cry."

In closing Miss Spencer said man knows a whole lot and so do women, and men and women together know all there is to know.

Mrs. White roundly scored the suffrage movement because it endorsed the feminist movement which requires women to be on an industrial level with men. The majority of women do not favor it she said, but the leaders do and anyone joining the cause "becomes personally responsible for the spread of this false doctrine."

She said, in speaking of states where suffrage exists, that area does not vote and pointed out the contrast in the number of votes between Western states where there is suffrage and Eastern states where it does not obtain. During her discussion of statistics she said: "Remember, figures do not lie but liars can figure." Mrs. White argued that Massachusetts leads in remedial legislation and it was brought about without suffrage. She charged that the ranks of indifferent voters would increase if suffrage was granted in this state. She said that only two per cent. of the women of the Commonwealth voted for school committee and the destination of 4,000,000 children was as important as the choice of a president.

Miss Spencer when questioned on the last point said it was because women have never heard a vote in primaries so they could choose the candidate. Mrs. White came back with the statement that they haven't voted where the primary law holds. Both speakers had more or less to offer in the shape of figures and quoted extensively.

The two opponents shook hands at the close of the discussion.

FOY INSTALLS SWITCHBOARD

Carpenters are at work making the necessary changes in the Adams Market in City square to enable R. E. Foy & Co. to install a telephone switchboard. The board will be set up in a separate room and there will be an operator on duty at all times. There will be six trunk lines running between the store and the central telephone exchange and there will be ten telephone stations in different parts of the store. It will therefore be possible for a customer to talk direct to any department of the store. In connection with the switchboard there also will be trunk lines running from the switchboard to the Quincy Adams store.

Q. Y. C. HOLDS ITS "OPENER"

Large Number Enjoy Varied Program

The season of 1915 of the Quincy Yacht club, which, by the way, is its 41st opening as the club was organized way back in 1874, was officially opened Wednesday evening at the club house with a smoker. As usual the event which opens the season was very largely attended and a grand good time was enjoyed by all. A special electric car leaving Quincy at 7.40 took many of the Quincy members and friends to the clubhouse, and it was but a little after 6 o'clock when they were called to order in the assembly hall by Commodore Harry S. Crane.

Commodore Crane extended a most cordial welcome to the members and their friends and predicted a most successful season He stated that some improvements had been made and that the members would find when they came to the club house that a new run had been built on the south side and that the floats had been lengthened. There were also other improvements which he hoped they would enjoy.

He also called attention to a circular issued by the Harbor Department relative to mufflers on boats. This law the notice stated, would be strictly enforced the coming season and said that any motor boat whose exhaust could be heard 1,000 feet away would be considered violating the law. He also called attention to the cabaret show to be held at the club house by the Associated Charities May 26.

Harry Winslow was then introduced as chief announcer of the entertainment, which was by some of his personal friends. The entertainment was of an interesting nature opening with a piano solo by Prof. Lambert, who also gave a talking song. L. J. Philben followed with a bass solo, which called for an encore.

The next number was William Crosby, German comedian, who kept the audience in a roar of laughter by his description of "What is War."

Miss Dorothy Curtis gave an imitation of a cornet, violin and French horn, and although how the feat was accomplished puzzled many, yet her contribution was much enjoyed. She was followed by Miss Agnes Chapple and Miss Molly Flynn in grand opera selections. Other pleasing numbers on the program were Hanley & Roberts, black face comedians, J. W. Hudson in songs and stories and Prof. Baker in sleight of hand tricks

While the entertainment was in progress "smokers" were passed and soon the room resembled the inner harbor on a foggy morning.

At the conclusion of the entertainment an adjournment was made to the lower floor where hot clam chowder, doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served

SERVICES FOR MISS HANNUM.

The funeral of Miss Katheryn Davis Hannum daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Morton Hannum, of 429 Codman street, Dorchester, who was well known in Quincy, where she was a frequent visitor at the home of her aunt, Mrs. George T. Magee, was held Wednesday afternoon from her late home. The services were conducted by Rev. Simon Blinn Blunt of All Saints church, Ashmont. The burial was at Cedar Grove cemetery. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers, the tribute of loving friends who mourn her loss.

LOOKS LIKE SNOW STORM.

Box 173 is For Fire In Mattress.

The alarm from Box 173 at 3.53 Wednesday afternoon was for a fire in a mattress in the house of Harry Levenson on Lindon street, Quincy Point. When the firemen arrived the mattress was thrown out of the window and as it fell to the ground the tick came apart, the wind sending the feathers flying through the air so that for a few minutes it resembled a snow storm. The Atlantic combination which responded to the box made a remarkably quick run covering the distance in about ten minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Adams have returned to Quincy for the summer, which they will pass at the Vassal House on Adams street.

GERMAN REPLY WILL BE POLITE

(By United Press)

Berlin, via the Hague, May 20—Germany's reply to the American note in all probability will be completed by Monday. Unless there is unforeseen delay it will be delivered in Washington early next week. Because of the length of the American note it requires careful drafting. Official assurance states there is no reason for apprehension. The reply it is said will be polite and that it will say that the last thing Germany is thinking of is severance of diplomatic relations.

GERMANS GIVE UNOFFICIAL REPLY

(By United Press.)

Washington, May 20—Germany has unofficially accepted the general principles that American citizens shall be protected and safeguarded by the United States under all circumstances They will, however, reject the suggestion that the United States can demand complete abandonment of German's submarine warfare. She holds American legal relations extend only to the protection of vessels of American registry and to the safety of Americans on board belligerent merchant vessels.

This is understood to be the general position as outlined by Ambassador Gerard in a series of unofficial conferences following the presentation of the Wilson note.

DISCOVERY PREVENTS MURDEROUS SCHEME

Derrick Cables in Granite Yard are Nearly Severed

The fortunate discovery of two sawed guys supporting the derrick in the granite cutting yard of Guido Serafineli of Quarry street, near the Ward four playground this morning, prevented the collapse of the derrick and its possible fall on the shed where seven men were at work.

The discovery was made by workmen who investigated a sagging of the guy and the vandal who has damaged monuments in South Quincy and set three fires in West Quincy, one of which caused a loss of $10,000, is thought to have been responsible.

The guys were sawed nearly all the way through, the only wire holding them being a thin strand of which the cable is made. The sawed guys were on the side opposite to the shed. Their parting would have resulted in the derrick falling on the shed.

The derrick is of the 15 ton variety and has been in constant use the past few days. It has been seen to tremble when light loads were lifted and it is thought that all that has saved it from falling was the fact that no heavy stones have been lifted.

Whether or not the guys have been sawed for several days is an open question but it is generally believed in West Quincy that the work was done Saturday night, after the fire broke out in the sheds of McDonald and Tinkamen on Willard street a short distance away.

The police who have been at work investigating the vandalism have not as yet uncovered anything that will lead to the apprehension of the man.

Vandalism has been rampant in the city the past few years and records show it has always been just before Memorial Day when manufactured granite is shipped to cemeteries.

TO INVESTIGATE SUSPICIOUS FIRE

An investigation will be made by the office of the state police of the fire Wednesday night in the granite sheds of Peter Zoir & Co. on Columbia street for the circumstances attending the fire lead Chief Billings to believe that the fire was the work of an incendiary. Coming so closely after the fire at the Mannix plant at West Quincy Saturday night there seems to be a prevailing opinion that some one is determined to destroy granite plants about the city.

The fire Tuesday night was discovered in the office part of the plant, which is located at one end of the building, by William Ripkie who sounded an alarm from Box 38 at 12.25 o'clock.

The fire was apparently on a shelf where a number of monumental designs and memorandum were kept. Mr. Zoir says that he has no enemy that he knows of and can not account for the fire, although he believes that it was set. The loss was slight but in view of the circumstances Chief Billings has reported it to the state police.

ADAMS MARKET TEAM LOSES

The base ball team of the Adams Market lost to the Braintree grocery clerks at Braintree Wednesday by a score of 5 to 4.

The local team was behind, 3 to 4, when McGrane drove out a two bagger in the ninth and sent home the tying run. Braintree came to the bat intent on obtaining the victory and during an argument as to whether or not McGrane had made a balk the winning run was scored. The score by innings:

Adams	0 1 1 0 0 0 2 0 1—5
Braintree	0 1 0 2 0 0 0 0 1—4

Batteries—Drinkwater and Torrey; McGrane and Taylor.

CITY IS OVERVALUED.

It is doubtful if the inspectors who have been looking over Quincy trying to find income tax dodgers, will find any. Quincy's wealthy or high salaried men could almost be counted on the fingers of one's hands they are so few and each year grow less.

With the city overvalued from one-half to one-third it is not to be wondered at that the inspectors expected to dig up more income returns here, but people with incomes enough to pay an income tax are not living in a city overvalued as Quincy is and also burdened with a high tax rate.

To be sure Quincy is growing but it is a natural growth not from any encouragement. It just cannot help growing, but each year the population is more shifting, not of the permanent character of years ago. The houses are less substantial, many being cheaply built to sell. Substantial houses and substantial people are not wanted. Money is diverted from Quincy by existing conditions.

Money is being poured into the grist mill at City Hall, and the tax payer pays. The Assessors have to dig up the money and each year the tax bill grows larger The trouble cannot be shouldered onto the assessors if their assessments are equable for they do nit spend the money, theirs is the unpleasant duty of assessing property for enough to pay the city's bills. To be sure enough they assess full value and a little more for full measure.

In this way Quincy is overvalued, and burdened with increased state taxes, etc., and the income tax men are here looking for money that only exists on paper or in the minds of a few.

What is the remedy? Business houses sometimes employ an efficiency man to inspect their plant. Perhaps Quincy needs professionals to assess its valuations. One can talk "Boom Quincy" but there will be no great boom as long as present conditions prevail, and it is well to realize it.

Perhaps as John R. Graham, a former resident, when interviewed on a recent visit to the city said, "Our present assessors may be equal to the task. If the tax rate must go to $30, let's have it, but let us also have a fair value in the city."

Live and let live. Encourage home industries, and investments. Money invested in real estate is entitled to reasonable dividends, the same as in stocks or bonds, more so for the city benefits by the real estate investment.

THE BRITISH CRISIS.

Reports from London indicate that the resignation of Lord Fisher, first sea lord of the admiralty, has not been accepted and that the quarrel between the great naval strategist and Churchill, the trouble maker, has resulted in a coalition cabinet for the British government and the transference of Churchill from first law of the admiralty to a position where he can cause less trouble, that of secretary of state for India.

It may be that the reports are incorrect but it seems quite clear that brilliant and powerful as Churchill is he will not be permitted to interfere with the man in whom Britian relies for the proper conduct of her great navy, the aged Lord Fisher. Churchill has his good qualities but he has serious defects which have become very apparent in Britain's hour of trial.

This reminds us that John Kendrick Bangs in his famous lecture on "Salubrities I Have Met," told of meeting Churchill, whom he termed a celebrity but not a "salubrity." Bangs paid tribute to Churchill's ability and said that he expected some day he would become premier. He declared he sincerely hoped so because he felt it was the "most disagreeable job on the face of the earth."

One thing which becomes more and more clear as the days go by, each recent one bringing its vexing problem to the British government, is that England has one source of strength who is not so much appreciated today as he will be when the passing of the years brings him into the proper perspective. That source of strength is Premier Asquith, who appears to be able to meet any contingency and must be termed the greatest statesman of the age.

ELEVENTH-HOUR EFFORT FAILS

Austria's Additional Concessions Not Acceptable to Italy

WAR PREPARATIONS COMPLETE

Decision of Government to Enter Great Conflict Seems Very Near—Military Authorities Commandeer Railroads and Mobilize Troops—Retreat of Russians Along Long Line, In One Instance Resembling a Collapse, Although at Heavy Cost to Germans and Austrians—Western Operations Delayed by Bad Weather—Allies on Gallipoli Peninsula Pay Fearful Price For Ground Won

London, May 20.—Italy's decision upon the momentous issues now confronting her is awaited with undisguised anxiety in all circles. It is expected the government will make known its decision today, and in some quarters close to the throne it is asserted that all evidences point to a decision to enter the war on the side of the allied powers, and this notwithstanding the announcement of Foreign Minister Gonnino that offers of additional territorial concessions had been received from Austria.

Dispatches from Rome continue to be somewhat contradictory, but the majority agree that the German and Austrian ambassadors are preparing to leave Rome and that the consul generals of those two countries have either already left their posts or will soon do so.

Significant of the government's intention to enter the war was the royal decree by which all railroad lines and stations in Italy are placed entirely under the supervision of the military authorities. It is also stated that the United States has consented to care for the diplomatic interests of Austria in Rome and of Italy in Vienna, in the event of a severance of diplomatic relations.

Troops Are Mobilizing

Dispatches from Basel, Swit., say that mobilization of troops is continuing rapidly in upper Italy. Many trains are leaving Milan, carrying soldiers in the direction of the front, and Lieutenant General Cadorna, Italian chief of staff, has arrived with his staff at Vicenza, near the Austrian frontier.

Reports from Geneva say that several servants, having in charge heavy baggage bearing the monogram of Prince von Buelow, German ambassador at Rome, arrived at Chasso, Swit. Freight traffic beween Italy and Germany by way of Switzerland has been stopped.

Apparently there are no factions in Italy now, all differences having been laid aside for the time being. Those who have been advocating intervention in the war and those who have been working in the interest of peace have ceased to express their views and are awaiting the action of the government.

The Republicans have published a manifesto declaring their readiness to go to the front "to fight for the glory of the country and the rights of nations." From all the provinces come offers from volunteers desiring to enlist.

Looks Bad For Russians

Information from various sources indicates that the retreat of the Russians in Galicia had reached serious proportions. British correspondents at Petrograd, who heretofore have been willing to concede little to the Austrians and Germans, admit that the Russians have been forced to retreat along a 200-mile line, and in one case it is said the situation on its face seems something like a collapse of the Russian forces.

The statement is made, however, that the Germans and Austrians have not thus far won a victory of decisive strategic significance and that their losses have been enormous.

Official Russia admits that the Russian retirement along the San river is still under way. At the same time the claim is made that the Russians have been able to resume the offensive on the left bank of the Vistula, a movement which may result, it is explained, in outflanking the Germans attacking Permysl.

The Russian offensive in east Galicia, while at the present stage it might be a defensive movement, made necessary by the fact that the Austrians constituted a serious menace to the left flank of the Russian armies in Galicia, yet may become a genuine offensive jeopardizing the right flank of the Austro-German armies.

While the Austrian rout in east Galicia is not yet complete, the impression is growing that the defeat of the Tentonic allies in this section has been severe enough to prevent the complete success of the wholesale offensive movement which they initiated along the eastern front.

Military experts in London are characterizing the retreat of the Russian Third army as a masterly feat which must have cost the victors dearly.

Operations Halt In West

In France and Belgium bad weather again is impeding operations, continuous rain and thick mists making vigorous action impossible. The British, north of La Bassee, and the French, north of Arras, have held their recent gains, but they have not been able to move forward.

Official announcement was made in London that the allies are improving daily their position on the Gallipoli peninsula. Their progress is slow, however.

A story published in London that the allied attack on Achi Baba, on the Gallipoli peninsula, indicates that the Turks were unexpectedly strong and that they had built marvellous entrenchments for themselves. It is evident that they made the attacking forces pay a fearful price for the ground won.

A dispatch from Mytilene says fresh troops have been landed by the allies on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles near the entrance to the straits. The Turks are now said to possess an abundant supply of shells, after having been threatened for some time with a shortage.

SENT TO PRIZE COURT

Germany Acted on Frye Case Before American Note Was Received

Germany has sent to a prize court the case of the American sailing ship William P. Frye, sunk in the south Atlantic by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, but it is understood the German admiralty took that action before it had received the American note insisting that the damages be adjusted directly through diplomatic negotiations in Washington.

It is said by officials in Washington that the reference of the case to a prize court will not necessarily prevent diplomatic adjustment.

SUNK BY SECCND SHOT

Liverpool Steamer Bound For Texas Is Torpedoed Off Cardiff

The big Liverpool steamer Drumcree was torpedoed and sunk off Cardiff. The Drumcree was bound for Texas ports but carried no cargo. Her crew was landed safely at Cardiff.

The first torpedo that struck the steamer did not sink her. She sent out a wireless call for aid and a Norwegian vessel responded and began towing her into Cardiff. The submarine returned to the attack and fired another torpedo that sent the Drumcree to the bottom.

AGAIN FOUND GUILTY

Verdict of Wilful Murder Returned Against Kaiser by Coroner's Jury

A coroner's jury at Ramsgate, Eng., returned a verdict of "wilful murder" against Emperor William, in the case of John Smith, who died as the result of shock following injuries sustained in the Zeppelin raid of May 17.

The coroner had suggested that the jury fix the responsibility on the persons whom it regarded as being to blame for war waged in this manner.

BIDDEN BY ANOTHER TO COMMIT MURDER

Man Under Death Sentence Testifies Against Pal

New York, May 20.—William Flack, 22 years old, under sentence of death for the murder of Giuseppe Marino, was put on the witness stand here and testified that Angelo Leggio, now on trial in connection with the same murder, was the man who prompted him to commit the crime.

Flack was brought from the death house in Sing Sing under a special law passed by the legislature to allow him to give such testimony.

Flack, in answer to a question from the judge, said Leggio wanted Marino killed because the latter stole the affections of his sweetheart.

HEAVY SEIZURE OF DRUGS

Doctor Admits Bringing $200,000 Worth to New York City

New York, May 20.—Fifty thousand dollars' worth of habit-forming drugs were seized by the police in an upper West Side apartment of Dr. James Kling of Pittsburg.

Kling confessed, the police say, to coming here from Pittsburg with more than $200,000 worth of the drugs and to disposing of all but what was seized. He was arrested at the point of a revolver as he drove up in a taxicab in front of his home.

Kling confessed, according to the police, that he had been selling the dope to schoolgirls. He concealed the drug in mechanical tops, the heads of which lifted out.

The police charge it was through his drug store in Pittsburg that he was able to buy huge quantities of various drugs.

It was charged he held up Nealon at the point of a revolver and robbed him of $186. He was held in $5000, and not being able to pay was remanded to jail.

WARD TWO CELEBRATION

Plan For Big Time at Point on Fourth

The Quincy Riverside club will be invited to participate in the arrangements for the Ward Two Fourth of July Celebration. This was voted at the weekly meeting of the Ward Two committee last night at the Town River Yacht club. It was left to Commodore Joseph Carruthers of the yacht club, chairman of the committee, to extend the invitation to the women.

The general committtee feels that there are many ways in which the women of the Point can assist the men in making the Ward Two celebration a notable one. Their efforts will be particularly valuable in arranging a program for the children, whose interests are going to receive more than passing attention from the committee, and also in preparing refreshments for the open house, which will begin at midnight the night before and last until 12 o'clock the next night.

Some of the collectors began making reports Wednesday night and indications point to a substantial fund to cover the expenses of the day. The subscription papers are being circulated throughout the ward and in other parts of the city as well, for this celebration is open to anyone in the city who wants to come to the Point and enjoy it. It is going to take considerable money to pay all the expenses, however, if the present extensive plans are carried out, and the committee hopes that it will get the earnest moral and financial support of all.

GOOD ROADS IDEA.

Individual and Private Concerns Donate Money and Services.

State, county and township governments in the United States spent nearly $250,000,000 for Good Roads in 1914 alone. In the past two years the single state of California has appropriated $18,000,000 for the improvement of her highways. All over the country the Good Roads movement has gripped the people—gripped them in a most unselfish and patriotic way.

The unprecedented growth of this movement within the past few months is not only encouraging—it is indicative of the foresightedness of the American public. For the money spent in betterment of roads will be returned a hundred fold. Farmers will be able to market their produce, cities will be brought into closer touch, the country will be united, land will increase in value, and over every road will pour a stream of trucks and pleasure cars that will surpass the dreams of the founders of the Good Roads movement.

So imbued with the Good Roads spirit are the people becoming that individuals and private concerns are appropriating time and money to the cause. And possibly one of the greatest contributions in point of actual benefit to those using the highways, is that of the B. F. Goodrich Company of Akron, Ohio.

During the past four years the B. F. Goodrich Company has maintained a National Touring Bureau which has marked nearly 70,000 miles of the best roads in America with permanent and attractive blue and white enamel guide posts. These markers point the way to nearest towns and warn of danger points, and are erected by three truck crews which are maintained during the greater part of the year. As a further service, the Goodrich Touring Bureau also furnishes motorists with accurate road logs between all points without charge or obligation.

Within a few years, with such concerted and constructive work as this, it is believed that American roads will outrival the best that Europe has boasted.

AMUSEMENTS

BOSTON THEATRE.

The trasformation of the historic Boston Theatre into a gigantic motion picture palace has been voted by all who have visited this great playhouse during the past two weeks, to be a complete and amazing success. Never before in the history of amusements in Boston has there been offered such a stupendous picture programme for one show in one theatre at any price. The very best motion picture features obtainable will be shown at the Boston Theatre each week, in line with the announced policy of giving the very best on the market. It is worth mentioning in this connection that the Boston Theatre was the only photo-play theatre in the city to show the motion pictures of the S. S. "Lusitania" sailing from New York on her last voyage. Caroline B. Nichols and her Boston Fadettes, the largest and finest ladies orchestra in the United States, familiar to Boston music lovers through their many summer engagements at B. F. Keith's Theatre, have scored a tremendous hit. They give a concert every afternoon and evening before the picture plays, besides accompanying the big features.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Edith Taliaferro, the charming star of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "Young Wisdom," and "Polly of the Circus," will head the bill announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre the week of May 24. Miss Taliaferro will appear in a one-act dramatic playlet of the days of '61 entitled "A Breath of Old Virginia." This sketch, written by Tom Barry, ecploys the visualization of a drear hade fascus in "On Trial" and "Romance." She is a delightful Southern girl who masquerades as a soldier boy, and narrowly escapes death at the hands of the Union soldiery. Miss Taliaferro is supported by a large and excellent company, and beautiful scenic equipment. Paul Morton, of the famous Four Mortons, and Naomi Glass, in their very latest miniature musical comedy, will be another big feature, and Doyle and Elech, the dancing experts from the New York Winter Garden, will also make their first appearance in Boston at B. F. Keith's Theatre.

CORT THEATRE.

The delightful laughing play "The Last Laugh" with that excellent and consistent actor, Edward Abeles as the star, will begin the third week of its limited engagement at the Cort Theatre Monday night. In this cleverly devised comedy, which has been built for laughing purposes only, there is an element of surprise that is continuous with the unfolding of the story, for the fate of a play is the unexpected that holds and causes the keenest enjoyment. The novel theme of "The Last Laugh" is most cleverly treated without resorting to trickery. Every possible angle of its whimsicalities being taken advantage of with unexpected turns and twists that are provocative of splendid comedy effects and continuous and convulsing laughter. If you find yourself getting blase by thinking that there is nothing new in theme and stagecraft you have an agreeable surprise waiting for you in this sparkling novelty. Mr. Abeles is one of the few actors who does quite as much with dumb action and facial expression as with the spoken line, which shows the keenness of his dramatic perception

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"Nearly Married," the merriest of farces, by Edgar Selwyn, is the bill this week at at Castle Square Theatre. The play roves swiftly through the troubles of people who decide to get a divorce and then try to re-marry again. Henry and Betty Linasaye have no sooner started on their second honeymoon than the lawyer-brother arrives with the news that her decree has been granted. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson start after the elopers to save Betty from the scandal of traveling with a man to whom she is no longer married. Mrs. Hattie King also chases the couple. She is a professional correspondent who is to have $1000 for her services upon the granting of the decree. All hands meet in a thunderstorm at a little roadside inn, whose landlord has adopte the ingenious plan of arresting trade with the aid of broken bottles strewn on the road. From that moment on it is entirely a matter of who gets into which bedroom. The Lindsays cannot remarry in New York state nor can they go to New Jersey in a thunderstorm. The garage is struck by lightening, and excruciatingly funny situations rise so fast that one can hardly recover from one laugh before he is ripped by the next.

"Nearly Married," is a very amusing farce which exhausts one with laughter. Miss Doris Olsson was charming in the part of the wife who changes her mind. William P. Carleton as the young husband was manly and lovable Others in the cast are Theodore Friebus, Betty Barnicoat, Mabel Colcord, James Seeley and Dudley Hawley.

WILBUR THEATRE.

"The Three of Hearts," a new play by Martha Morton, author of "The Senator Keeps House," "A Bachelor's Romance," "The Diplomat" and other well-known plays will be presented at the Wilbur Theatre next week. Miss Morton has written a play of love and adventure, which is unique not only as far as the story is concerned, but the manner in which she deploys the various characters. Harry Hamilton, a middle-aged man of great wealth, falls in love with Grace Maythorne from Virginia. He might succeed were it not for the presence of Dick Comstock, who professes to be madly infatuated with Miss Maythorne, who returns mildly the sentiment. Dick turns out to be a worthless character who robs anyone with whom he comes in contact. His mother is an estimable woman, and at one time had been courted by Hamilton, therefore, instead of exposing the boy or sending him to jail, which he could easily have done, he decides to save him not so much for himself, as to guard the feelings of his mother and Miss Maythorne. Hamilton has great difficulty in convincing Miss Maythorne of his good intentions and his innocence, and even after things seem to be coming his way, she stubbornly holds back but when she finally sees his true character, and realizes the sacrifice he has made to save her feelings and to prevent exposure and perhaps ruination for the boy as well as herself, she yields to his pleading importunities, and Miss Morton finishes her play with wedding bells not far distant.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The attraction to be presented beginning Monday, May 24, by the Lonergan Players, who have already so firmly entrenched themselves as a popular factor in Boston theatricals with their summer star stock season at the Majestic Theatre, will be H. B. Warner in his original stellar role of Jimmy Valentine in Paul Armstrong's notable success, "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

Many will remember Henry's story upon which the play is founded. Jimmy is a bank burglar able to solve safe combinations by his wonderful sensitiveness of touch. Convicted on the testimony of the revengeful pal, he is sent to Sing Sing. A pardon comes to him through the intercession of the girl he once defended on a train with her uncle, the state's lieutnant-governor. Further, she persuades her father, a bank president, to employ him. From the first it is clear that she loves him, has loved him since first sight. Menaced by a detective who has worked up an old case against him, Jimmy throws away protection secured through satisfying the detective that he is a dead cousin who resembled him by exercising his skill on the door of a vault which has swung to on a child. Life depends on a speedy rescue. But the detective's admiration for Jimmy's sacrifice constrains him to keep his discovery to himself. He unprofessionally departs, leaving the reformed one in the happiness of a lover adored.

IN WOLLASTON

Statements of Wollaston Citizens Are Always of Interest to Our Readers.

To many of our readers the streets of Wollaston are almost as familiar as those of our own town, and we are naturally interested to read of happenings there. The following report from a well-known and respected resident will be helpful to numbers of men and women here in Quincy.

P. J. Garrity, National Sailors' Home, Wollaston, Mass., says: "I was so badly troubled by kidney disease that I could hardly work. My back was very lame. It hurt me to stoop over or straighten. The pains never left me, even at night. I could find no position in bed that gave me any ease. I had to get up during the night as often as ten times to pass the kidney secretions. I could see that my health and strength were declining and was at a loss to know what to do, as the various remedies and different treatments I had tried had been useless. Doan's Kidney Pills were strongly recommended to me one day and I began using them. Before I had finished the fourth box, my old-time strength and health had returned."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Garrity had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

STORY HOUR.

"Most as good as the movies"

Considering the outside claims of a beautiful day a very good attendance of forty boys listened to a story hour in the Atlantic reading room between two and three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. The boys in the big circle were treated to regular boys stories and one of the children gave the unusual and rather dubious com—pliment that it was "most as good as the movies." Miss Packard gave a varied program and introduced Riley's poems with "Our Hired Girl;" Kipling's "Just So Stories" with "How the camel got his hump," and Mark Twain's stories with his famous "Golden Arm." That ghost story, and the bold escape of Private Washington from Meade's camp on the Rappahannock to the Confederate lines, with Lieutenant Wells' escape through the Libby prison tunnel to the Federal lines, as narrated in Booth's "Wonderful Escapes by Americans," seemed to be most enjoyed by the older boys. The hour closed with the ""Dwarfs' Tailor," and as a diversion to interest them in a special game book for boys, a "stunt" was tried, and one of the most successful of the library story hours was over.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The superintendent of schools has completed the work of talking to the members of the graduating classes in the several grammar schools with reference to the courses of study in the High school, Woodward Institute and Trade school. The results indicate that the High school enroiment will increase nearly 100 over last year, that the attendance at Woodward Institute will be about the same while every place in the Trade school will be filled with a waiting list of from 50 to 100 who cannot be accommodated at once. Present indications point to very large entering classes in those buildings which are at present overcrowded making conditions much worse than they are at present.

NORMAL SCHOOL.

While the young people in school are loking forward toward higher education, it seems to the school authorities of the city that there are two avenue of education that are apparently overlooked. One is the normal school system of the state leading toward teaching as a profession. While Quincy sends a good number of girls to normal school each year, it sends practically no young men. It is doubtful if more than one high school graduate has gone to the Bridgewater Normal school in the last six or eight years. Yet here is an education provided by the state absolutely without cost for tuition, books or any of the incidental expenses which colleges entail and leading into a profession where men are in great demand and where energy and ability are repaid by rapid advancement.

ANOTHER AVENUE.

The other opportunity for higher education is at the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst where tuition too is free. This college, while entitled Agricultural is much more inclusive than its name would indicate

Thus, the courses given there lead toward engineering in its various branches, toward forestry, landscape gardening, veterinary surgery, chemistry and other scientific callings. The attendance at this college, from among the ranks of Quincy young people, is so very small as to lead to the belief that its opportunities are not understood.

ANNUAL TESTS.

Some time next month, the grammar masters are planning to measure the average ability of their upper grades in writing and the fundamental operations of arithmetic for the purpose of establishing a series of annual tests in these lines. A great deal of work has been done in the experimental schools of the country in establishing standards of attainments by grades. It is planned to make use of the best of these findings.

FINAL MEETING.

The final meeting for the year of the School Masters club will be held on Saturday, June 12. It will take the form of an all day outing with the usual sports.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

May 28, 1915.

Loud; Quincy, Mark V. Hanson; Washington, George L. Phillips; Willard, David K. Gage; Wollaston, Stephen Otis and Comrade Murray.

K. C. MEMORIAL CLUB.

The Katharyn Crane Memorial club is closing its fifth season and the year has been marked by loyalty, earnestness of purpose, and enthusiasm.

There has not been an absence of any member that could have been avoided, and 3 members have not missed one of the seventeen meetings. The club has been greatly helped by the loving interest and sympathy of the new director, Mrs. Henry Faxon.

The club has given $10 to the Associated Charities, new shoes to four children, two turkey dinners at Thanksgiving and two at Christmas, bought glasses for two boys, contributed $2 to the Alliance Christmas party, baskets and ball to the Y. W. club for playing basket ball costing $6.50, a new coat to a crippled boy costing $5, $2 worth of malted milk and sweet chocolate to a little Southern girl who had been sick, $4 for Easter hair ribbons for the Children's hospital, $5 to the Salem Relief Fund, twelve new stockings filled with Christmas gifts for the Belgian children, a lawn swing to the Day Nursery at a cost of $15.75, $10 towards the work of the school nurse, and $25 for summer outings for Quincy children and mothers to be arranged for by Miss Purchase. Expenditures for the year total $161.

There have been four addresses, one by Miss Mabel Adams on the methods of teaching the deaf, by Mrs. Pfaffmann on the work of the Y. W. club, by Miss Jackson on the work of the School Nurse, and by Miss Purchase on philanthropic work. In December was held a very successful dancing party the proceeds of which, amounting to $57 was given to the visiting nurse committee. Just before Easter the annual sale was held which brought to the treasury $120. Each member put her shoulder to the wheel, assumed her share of the responsibility and worked with zeal for the success which exceeded all former years.

"Surely five years of such usefulness could not have failed to teach us that greater happiness is to be found in thoughtfulness for others than in our own selfish pleasures," observes Mrs. Crane.

SAMUEL L. BENHAM.

Samuel L. Benham, father of Dorothy Benham, who conducts the millinery store on Granite street, and husband of Mrs. Caroline E. Benham, manager of the Quincy store, passed away at his home, 124 Upland road, aged 69 years. Mr. Benham has not been in the best of health for some time but he has been confined to his bed but a few days. He has been a resident of Quincy for some six years. He is survived by a widow, four daughters and a son.

LOST CHILD CALL.

The lost child call from Box 42 at 7.57 Wednesday was to summons help to search for a little Finnish child, who had been missing some hours. The child was found soon after the alarm sounded.

SPEAKER URGES DRESS REFORM

Miss Gutterson Talks To Y. W. C.

Miss Constance Gutterson of Winchester addressed the Young Women's club at the Adams Academy Wednesday evening, having an attentive and interested audience, as she spoke of her solution of the problem of dress for women. Miss Gutterson is one of a group of women who last fall decided to adopt some universal costume for women standardizing it to some extent, and at the same time allowing each woman to use her own ideas and individuality. One of the women was a newspaper woman and gave the movement publicity. They raised money enough to hire a room in Boston at 98 Tyler street and started to make dresses on order, also to show women interested how to cut and make their own costumes.

Miss Gutterson spoke first of all of the reform from the standpoint of health Years ago women were not bound by conventionalities of dress and were not dictated to by some man or woman in Paris as to how they should dress, without regard for beauty or individuality The Japanese and Hindoo women, in fact all the Oriental countries, follow ideals in dress and combine comfort, simplicity and beauty.

Miss Gutterson gave examples of shoes which some women wear and the injury done to the body by the high heeled, pointed toe shoe. The natural lines of the foot require a round toe, low heel shoe, but any person who has been accustomed to wearing a high heel shoe and desiring to change to a common-sense shoe must make the change gradually or they will suffer a great deal of pain and discomfort. She then spoke of the corset and said that the past year or so the corset adocated had been the most sensible of any ever made, and with the coming summer styles, fashion decrees that women go back to the hour glass type of figure, but she thought that women had become so much better educated in the matter of healthful dressing that the fad would not be universally adopted. Miss Gutterson believes that the sooner women get accustomed to wearing simply a hip confiner and learning how to breath properly without confining the breathing apparatus, the healthier they will be, and the more freedom they will have in walking.

Clothes always interest and fascinate women of all ages, and Miss Gutterson had brought with her several costumes which she carefully explained to her audience, showing how with the same model for each dress, different ideas can be worked into each one and everybody has a chance to use their own individual ideas. The great secret of success in carrying out the new scheme of dress is to choose colors which are becoming to the individual, and in the combination of colors.

Every costume shown by Miss Gutterson was simple, beautiful and inexpensive. The street and house dresses comprised a skirt, put on over the head, and fitting closely to the hips. The tunic also is put on over the head, and in some cases a lacing is used to regulate the cut of the neck. The tunics were all different, although the same model had been used. What seemed to interest the girls most were the evening dresses. These can be folded into a very small space and yet be perfectly fresh when shaken out. They were made of soft silk with a chiffon tunic. The great feature of this dress is that with different tunics the same silk underdress can be used, giving one several evening dresses at a small cost. The best materials to use and the most adaptable are cotton crepes, silk crepes and soft silks. These can often be bought at a low price if one watches the sales. Miss Gutterson and Miss Edith Mullen, a member of the club, put on the dresses and the girls in the audience asked questions. The interest shown was so manifest that Miss Gutterson offered to come out some evening before the club closes for the summer and show the girls how to cut and make the dresses. She suggested that the dressmaking class of the club start a centre for the work here if the y found the dresses satisfactory for their own use.

H. WILLIAM McINTYRE.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. McIntyre of 111 Granite street have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the death of their son H. William McIntyre who died this morning of meningitis, aged 2 years and 9 months.

WOMEN SHOULD PLAY.

"People may talk of frivolity, but I believe that many business women and housewives should play more than they do," declared a woman who accomplishes many things through her energy and enthusiasm in her work.

"For myself, I have decided that is one thing I must change. I should not work every moment, either at the office, or home with the housework or sewing, and hereafter I shall take an afternoon off occasionally and do nothing but play."

Her listeners smiled. They knew well the happiness she derived from work, and they wondered how often the occasional afternoon would come. All agreed, however, that they should play more.

One listener, after a moment's thought, said, "It has come to where I almost feel guilty if I sit down for a moment without some work in my hands, and it shows me that I should play a little, too. I remember when I first began to read that I learned what an effect all work and no play had upon Jack, and there is no reason why it should not make Mollie and Susan just as dull."

There are those who contend that with many, work is play, for they are so happy in their work that they see much pleasure in it; but the opinion of this group was that a play of a different nature was sometimes required and the one who could play well would do her work better, as an occasional playtime would keep a worker from falling into a rut so that she could see nothing but work. A change gives a broader outlook, and enables one to catch an occasional glimpse of her work from a distance, where she can see opportunities for improving it better than is always possible when she is in the midst of it. It was brought out that the one who works well enters into it with enthusiasm and has no thought at the time for what is generally called play, and the one who plays well goes into it in the same way, abandoning all thought of work until time to take it up again.

With these workers the idea of play was that it should be used in moderation, only as a relaxation and change from the usual employment. It was acknowledged that it was often carried to an excess which interfered with important things, and this was as detrimental and possibly more so than the other extreme of omitting it entirely. The trip to the woods, the evening spent in skating, the ride or the afternoon or evening passed with a group of friends was thought to give one a broader vision and make one keener than ever to return to work where some of the ideas gained could be carried out and the work accomplished with greater success and enthusiasm. There is litle possibility of the playtime keeping those who really enjoy their work from it very long. It is noticeable that they are eager to return to it when their play is over, for to them the work is the thing of importance and the play only a small adjunct.—Christian Science Monitor.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Great Variety Of Styles—Opportunity For Wise Choice Or Easy Mistakes—Button Trimmings, Bead Embroideries On Hats and Dresses—the Daisy Motif.

Exceptional care is needed for a wise choice in the multiplicity of styles offered this year, but the woman who knows what she can wear becomingly finds an unusual number of models adapted to her taste and requirements.

A FEW PITFALLS.

Certain models are taboo except to the young and slender, and even to those who can qualify in this class if they are exceptionally tall or have not a neat well-turned ankle and shapely foot. I refer, of course, to the short wide skirts that are smart and becoming to those who can wear them, and most trying for everyone else. Diminutive turbans with nothing to break their outlines come in the same class, also all the very spectacular light shoes, that the slender young contingent carry off becomingly.

PLEATED MODELS.

Pleated skirts in a variety of models, and moderately circular types that are attractive in conservative clearing length are quite as fashionable as the very wide flares, and much more likely to stay in style. The narrow underskirt topped by a wide tunic, either circular or pleated, remains in excellent vogue. Also various flounced models which are becoming to many women that the ultra style would make ridiculous. Sartorial mistakes are painful alike to the woman who wastes $100 and to the one who wastes a tenth of this, but the first can probably give away her garment and the second has to wear it, becoming or not. This is the season for the ever-increasing demand for ready-to-wear clothes, since a woman can see the effect of these before she spends her money, and if she sacrifices something in individuality, she is at least sure of what she gets, as one seldom is with an order outfit.

BUTTON TRIMMINGS.

Buttons are responsible for some of the best trimming effects, especially in tailored street and outing costumes. A new set of buttons, especially in the white, and black and white, celluloid kinds, quite transforms a dark suit, while the same buttons used on coat and skirt in continuous lines usually make for height and style in any type of costume.

STRIKING GOLF RIG.

A youthful and becoming golf rig showed a short semi-circular skirt of red, laid in a wide box pleat at the front, held down by eight white buttons, four on either side beginning about six inches below the belt. A Norfolk jacket of red and white stripes, in the popular silk stockingette, closed with buttons to match those on the skirt. A girdle sash of the material, tied at the left side and finished with long red tassels, is a popular finish with such sweater coats, but the high flaring collar lined with black and the smaller "Dickey" collar of white vesting, was an odd and attractive conceit. Worn with this was a "mortar-board" turban, the overhanging crown weighted with long tassels at either side over the wide black velvet head band.

OVERHANGING CROWNS.

Overhanging crown effects are the newest thing in turbans. Some of the smartest models have a regular straw Tipperary as the basis, with an outstanding frill of bias net or velvet, encircling the crown of the hat. Beneath this, trimmings of crush roses, daisies, or embroidered bands encircle the coiffure. In many instances tassels of jet hang from the overset at either side as in the "mortar-board" described.

BEAD EMBROIDERY.

On wide sailors of black or white split straws, and on all the close turban shapes one sees great use of bead embroideries, usually in spider-web patterns a bit simplified by leaving out the cross-lines. These are easy to accomplish as the strings of white or black beads are used like a braid, to bring out the pattern. White on black, and black on white is the rule for these embroideries, and no other trimming is used except the season's odd little quill aigrettes which are marvelously effective in conjunction with beads or daisies.

THE DAISY CRAZE.

There is a veritable craze for the daisy in hat trimmings both in the natural form somewhat enlarged, and in conventionalized motifs appliqued embroidery fashion.

Quincy High school was spanked in public Wednesday afternoon by Weymouth who beat the localites in a South Shore Interscholastic league game by a score of 17 to 0.

The spanking took place in the second inning when the visitors rolled up only a dozen runs. Two were made in the third. O'Connor went in in the fifth and but three more were made the rest of the game the team tightening up a bit.

How best to describe the playing of Quincy High would mean such a discouraging story from a local standpoint that no attempt should be made. Sufficient to say that the visitors played only ordinary high school baseball, but they could hit Hoffses and Hamlin and did hit them for fare you well at the right time.

Blanked the first inning, Weymouth come to the bat in the second filled with confidence. They batted around twice. Hoffses was hit for four safeties, passed a man, hit another and two errors by his teammates added to the comedy. Then Hamlin went in and four more hits were made off him, and another error and a wild pitch sent over some more. When the third man was nalled only a dozen runs had been scored.

Hultin gave way to DiSenso behind the bat in the fifth inning and Whet Browne went in for the first time this season, in the third. He fozzled the first long clout to left field but got four more in the rest of the game and all were good catches.

Hamlin got two hits and Dorley one. The rest of the team batted like amateurs. O'Rourke, the visiting left fielder, made the feature catch of the game. The score:

AFTER BITTER FIGHT

"Labor Clean Milk" Bill Is Vetoed by Governor Walsh

Boston, May 20.—Governor Walsh last night vetoed the so-called "labor clean milk" bill, which would give to the state health department the power to prevent the sale and distribution within this state of milk produced under unsanitary conditions.

The bill for months was the object of a bitter fight in the legislature and was contested even up to time that the governor vetoed it.

It is understood the governor took the position that there is enough law on the statute books now to cover the provisions of this bill.

The bill was supported by milk consumers' associations all over the state, as well as by numerous labor organizations. It was opposed by the state grange on the grounds that it would mean additional and unnecessary inspections of their barns and dairies.

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum signed the order when Addicks asserted that after several days' effort he had been unable to raise the money.

Addicks was arrested here several days ago and has been in the custody of the sheriff, although allowed considerable liberties since his arrest.

RESULTS LAST NIGHT.

Montclair 7, Hancock 2

SEASON HALF OVER.

Practically one half of the Grammar School Base ball league games have been played and the Montclair and Gridley Bryant school teams head the leagues. Both teams have been developed under the direction of Mr. Johnson, principal of both schools, and at one time a base ball player of note. It would not be surprising to see post season series take place between these teams. If such was the case it will be the first time that a local master will see his own teams contesting for supremacy.

Massachusetts Fields, thought before the season to be in line for honors, have been practically eliminated and will not be able to get back in the battle line unless the unexpected happens. Washington is behind its schedule and may climb to a contender's position but Montclair is playing good ball and will probably hold its lead.

WILLARDS NOW SECOND.

Willard outhit Adams in the second inning in their game Wednesday and copped a 4 to 1 win. Tight base ball was played in the last four innings. Papnano, the Willard pitcher, got seven strikeouts, and Sanderson, the losing twirler, netted four. The score:

Willard	1	3	0	0	0	0	—	4

Batteries—Pagnano and DiBona; Sanderson and Higgins.

THIRD FOR MONTCLAIR.

Heavy hitting at the right time gave Montclair victory over Hancock Wednesday by a score of 7 to 2 and the team its third straight victory. The game was well played on both sides with but few errors. McKenzie's throwing to second, cutting off several men, was a feature. Pope pitched his high class game. The score by innings:

Hancock	0	0	0	2	0	0	—	2

Batteries—Pope and Melanson; Dahlberg and McKenzie.

SPORTING COMMENT

Louis Ross, manager of the Coliseum alleys has organized a team and has challenged the winners of the Coliseum tournament. He proposes three matches, the first to be rolled at the Wardwell alleys, the second at the Coliseum and the third to be decided by the toss of a coin. He is backing his team with a purse of $25. The match if arranged on his plans will be for points.

James Dell jumped into the limelight at the Wardwell alleys Wednesday evening after several weeks of inactivity and secured a total of 349 in the rolloffs. James Welsh was 11 behind and Olindy was six behind him. Billy DeNeil finished fourth with 306. J. Cox won the cigars with 113 and the booby went to R. Nathan who had 223. There were 26 men in the rolloff. The strings:

James Dell	97	128	124	349
James Welsh	116	119	103	338
James Olindy	122	100	110	332
Wm. DeNeil	106	99	101	306

The Cubs defeated the Hinkies Wednesday evening in a one-sided contest, featured by the twirling of Desmond of the Cubs who allowed but one hit The hinkies used four pitchers in their futile effort to stop the slaughter. The final score was 12 to 0. The batteries for the winners C. Desmond and Barron for the losers Egan, J. Desmond, Leary, Ash and Gardiano.

104,000 Men

In the jungles and fields, in our factories, etc., 104,000 men are employed to meet the demand for Goodyear tires.

No other tire commands anywhere near such favor. And this spring has shown, in sales to dealers, an increase of 52 per cent.

Extra Values

The reason is, we fortify our tires. We give the best that others give, plus five exclusive features. In costly ways, employed by no one else, we combat:

Rim-Cuts	Insecurity
Blowouts	Punctures
Loose Treads	Skidding

And we never skimp. Despite all price reductions, Goodyears are better than ever. Lately we have added three conspicuous improvements.

Some Goodyear supremacies can be seen at a glance. Compare size and thickness with the average tire. Compare number of fabric plies.

Prices Down

Goodyear has made in about two years three great price reductions, totaling 45 per cent. The last was on February 1st. Our matchless output enables a value which no other maker can duplicate.

Goodyears mean less trouble, less upkeep. That is proved by our exclusive features, our dominant place, and the swelling Goodyear tide. We urge you to join this army. Any dealer will supply you.

SMALL HOME OF COTTAGE DESIGN

New and Attractive Features Embodied in This Story-and-a-Half Abode.

IN STYLE OF SWISS CHALET

Coziness of the Inside Arrangements Matches the Picturesque Appearance of the Outside—Possibilities of Effective Decoration Are Many.

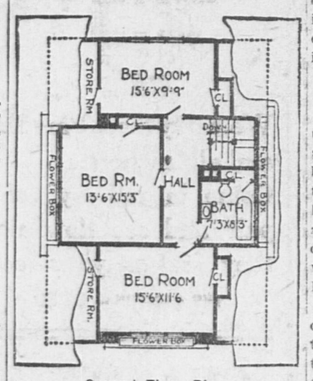

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

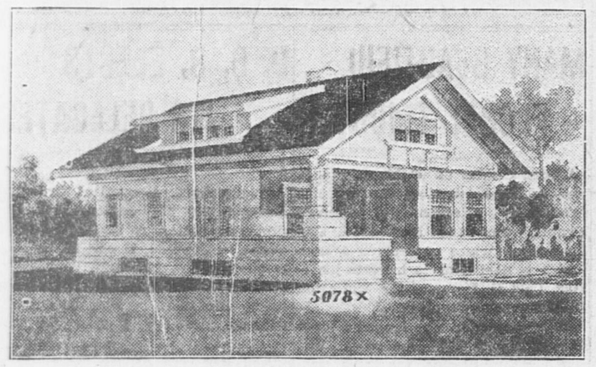

To one who desires a very artistic and attractive house, yet one of simple and unpretentious appearance, the design illustrated herewith will appeal strongly. It would be hard to design a more homelike-appearing cottage. It possesses all the elements which have made present day American home architecture world famous.

This neat and attractive residence design is that of a story-and-a-half cottage of almost square outline, being 30 feet in width and 40 feet 6 inches long. The feature which one notices first is the porch recessed back under the main roof; in fact, part of the second floor is over this porch. With this kind of an arrangement there is nothing to disturb the unity of the architectural composition. The porch is an intimate part of the structure, not something merely "tacked on," as seems so often to be the case. A heavy double pillar at the corner supports the roof.

This cottage is designed in the spirit of the Swiss chalets. The low, simple roof with wide extending cornice, Second Floor Plan.

the second story projecting slightly beyond the first, the supporting brackets, and the exposed rafters, are all characteristic of this style. The outside finish is also in harmony with it, and presents an extremely artistic appearance. Rough cypress boards 12 inches wide and separated by horizontal batten strips extend from the grade to the lower window sills, forming a foundation course. Above, ordinary siding is used up to the cornice line, where the heavy supporting beams are exposed to view. The bevel siding is continued again in the gable ends; or shingles may be used there if desired.

A beautiful effect is had with this bungalow by applying dark brown creosote stain to both rough boards and siding, and trimming with yellow paint. This trimming color might be applied to all the window and door casings, to the cornice, the brackets, etc., or it could be confined to the window sash alone. In either case, moss green stain for the shingled roof would be very appropriate and attractive.

The interior of this dwelling makes good the promise of the exterior. You would expect such a compact-appearing little cottage as this to be the acme of coziness within; and so it is.

Opening from the end of the porch is a reception hall quite different from the ordinary. It is 12 by 8 feet in size, and is partially divided through the middle by an attractive square arched opening with two wood columns. This gives a certain privacy to the part of this room away from the entrance door, shutting it off quite effectually from living room beyond.

The living room is 15 feet by 13 feet 2 inches in size. The broad-cased opening connects it on the left with the dining room of almost exactly the same dimensions. These two rooms are naturally used together, and will be found to be very comfortable and homelike. Directly back of the dining room is the kitchen, connected with it by means of the butler's pantry.

A door off the living room opens into a small rear hall. A bedroom of good size opens off this, as do also the bathroom and a large clothes closet. A bedroom on the first floor is always a great convenience, and is a feature very much to be desired, providing it can be secured without obtruding in any way on the rest of the first-floor rooms. The arrangement in this case is most successful in this regard.

From the hall at the rear of the house the stairway goes up to the second floor. It is rather surprising to find three such large, well-lighted rooms on the second floor of a small story-and-a-half cottage of this design. By the addition of a low, broad dormer window on the side a large bedroom in the middle is nicely lighted. A similar gable on the other side lights the stair hall and bathroom. The two other bedrooms are located one in each of the gable ends.

A very artistic touch is gained in the flower boxes outside of all the windows on the second floor. The artistic possibilities of these boxes, filled with brightly colored flowers and green-leafed plants, may easily be imagined.

This house should be finished with plain sawed red oak on the first floor, using the square-corner, mission-style moldings with natural wood stain. The second floor would be finished to advantage in birch, using mahogany and white enamel for the color scheme. The estimated cost of this seven-room story-and-a-half cottage, using high-grade materials, with cement basement under the entire structure, is about $3,000.

Charm of Ginger Beer.

Spies don't always have to sneak their information; it is sometimes presented to them. Major General Tulloch, who gave Lord Kitchener his first start in Egypt, relates a story told him by a German naval attache. The lords of the admiralty were to visit some forts in the Portsmouth district, and they thought they would dispense with the attache's company. He seemed very slightly distressed, and said that as a matter of fact he had gone over the most important part of the defenses. His method lacked method. Sailing one day near these works and feeling thirsty, he had landed and asked the first man he met where ginger beer could be obtained. Chance made this man the canteen contractor for the men erecting the fort, and he not only sold him some ginger beer, but conducted his customer all over the works. He was an excellent guide with a most interested visitor.—London Chronicle.

Dodging the Beaten Path.

Congressman Robert L. Dougherty of North Carolina smiled when the conversation turned to reversing the order of things. He said he was reminded of the case of Bowers.

Bowers met a benevolent party on a railroad train one day, and as the acquaintance ripened a bit he began to spread before the other the history of his life.

"When I was a clerk in a grocery store," remarked Bowers among other things, "I received only nine dollars a week, and, like many other young men, I fell in with bad companions and began to gamble. I—"

"I see," interrupted the benevolent party, sadly, "you were tempted and took money which did not belong to you."

"Oh, no," cheerily responded Bowers. "In less than a month I won enough money to buy the grocery."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS HERE.

General Superintendent C. M. Woodward and General Traffic Superintendent S. Hobbs of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. are coming to Quincy this afternoon and in company with Mayor Campbell and City Engineer Sargent are going about the city looking over the railroad situation in Quincy, in connection with some of the things that the Mayor has requested the railroad to do. Among the matters which will be looked into are the establishment of gates on the Granite Branch near Robertson street a foot path across the main line south of the Quincy Adams station, the condition of the different railroad stations in the city, the bridges and in fact everything that will have tendency to improve the facilities in this city.

WAR CONTRACTS IN U. S.

Prospering over another's misfortune is not exactly a pleasing way of getting ahead; but if the European belligerents will fight and must have the means to fight with, by all means let them come to the United States and to Vermont. The cartridge box contract that comes to Burlington will serve to fill out a dull interval.—Barre Times.

It is true that some parts of the country are profiting by the manufacture and sale of war munitions. On the other hand there are hundreds of thousands of dollars being sent from the United States for the aid of the Red Cross society and to the relief funds going to the Belgians. This money is taken from all over the country, east, west, north and south in cities and country villages; all are uniting to aid the sufferers in the war zone. This money is not being sent to Europe because the United States is so rich that it is superfluous wealth. We are sending these vast amounts of money, food and clothing away from our country without receiving any return or the thought of it, it is given by a generous people for the alleviation of suffering and aid of a stricken people. So while a small area and a few people are profiting by the manufacture of war materials, and rejoicing in the added prosperity, it is bringing the community, the countless numbers are denying themselves many comforts and making real sacrifices to send relief to those who have less than we. It is incongruous anyway for one part of the United States to be gloating over war orders, and making every effort to rush the manufacture of implements of war, while the other part is sending all the funds that can be secured to aid the sufferers.—Northfield, Vt. INTENDS TO BEGIN WITH THE PARSONS

Zion Overseer Plans to Chase Devil Out of Chicago

Chicago, May 20.—If Billy Sunday doesn't change his present plans he is likely to find Chicago a dwelling place of saints, a southerly suburb of Zion City, where there will be neither drinking of spirits, smoking of tobacco, nor chewing of gum.

Wilbur G. Voliva, general overseer of Zion, plans to beat Sunday to it. Out of the next year he intends to devote nine months to the purification of Chicago after the vitriolic manner of his predecessor, John A. Dowie.

At the Zion temple the overseer announced his nine-months' campaign against the Chicago devil.

"I will rip the city open and lay bare its sins," he cried. "Where Dowie gave the city buckshot I will fire cannon balls out of the gospel. I will start in with the parsons."

RICH MAN ASKS DIVORCE

New Yorker Names Long String of Men In Filing His Suit

New York, May 20.—Charging his wife, Clara Liebmann, with sharing her affections among eight men, whose names read like a page from the international Who's Who, Henry Liebmann, millionaire clubman and half owner in the Obermeyer & Liebmann Brewing company, filed suit for divorce.

Professor Curtis H. Page of Northwestern university, Chicago, heads the list. Dr. Ward Keator is next. The physician is alleged to have made Mrs. Liebmann's acquaintance in Griffin Corners, N. Y.

Of the other six co-respondents named by the brewer, one is said to be a secret service agent of the kaiser, another in the service of the French government, while still others are Hugo Frey of Chicago, Charles Day of Berlin, Ugo Nastrucci of Zurich and Henry Bargy, a Parisian.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 20.—John M. Bowers, chief counsel for Theodore Roosevelt in the trial of William Barnes' suit for libel, spent three hours in summing up for the benefit of the jury the case of the defense.

He asserted that the action brought by Barnes was "a purposed act of the machine to destroy Roosevelt's usefulness."

William M. Ivins, chief counsel for Barnes, summed up the case for his client this morning, and after the judge's charge the case was given to the jury. A verdict may be returned late today.

A general alarm has been sent out for the person for whom a warrant has been issued and the police of surrounding cities and towns are cooperating with the local department.

The warrant was issued Wednesday morning. Acting Chief McKay, after a few hours rest, renewed the search he commenced shortly after the assault but has been unable to locate his quarry.

The warrant is said to be for a person well known in this city. Several suspects were detained by the Boston police Wednesday evening but all were released when further description was wired.

HON. GUY HAM IS SPEAKER

Wollaston M. E. Club Has Meeting

At the meeting of the Wollaston Methodist club Wednesday evening in the vestry the slate of the nominating committee was overturned and Albert N. Murray re-elected as president. While H. B. L. Dimmick, the committee's candidate was not objected to, general sentiment favored a second term for Mr. Murray.

The officers elected were: President Albert N. Murray; vice president, S. N. Belcher; secretary, F. A. Cornell; treasurer, Howard Faulkner; editor Willard E. Keyes; executive committee George Crothers, L. C. Merrill, Walter Sutermeister.

With the usual bit of by-play found in the club meetings W. E. Robinson was proposed for lieutenant governor in opposition to Hon. Guy A. Ham, the speaker of the evening, Willard E. Keyes was also put forward as governor.

Mr. Ham, who is a member of the governor's council, spoke on "Institutions of Our State" and had many interesting facts and figures to relate. Delegations from other local mens clubs attended the meeting.

Mr. Ham roughly divided the institutions into three classes, those under the state board of insanity, those directed by the prison commission and those in charge of the state board of charities. For these from five to six millions of dollars is yearly expended. Some 25,000 individuals are cared for in addition to occasional inmates and those confined by municipalities. In all nearly one hundred thousand are dependant on able bodied citizens for their support.

The Massachusetts Hospital school at Canton, where 300 crippled children are housed, was described as a most magnificent institution and a place of joy and sunshine. Here wrecks are taken and made over into human beings. Each patient costs the state from three to three and a half dollars a week.

The Massachusetts State Infirmary at Tewksbury, where paupers are cared for, as well as that at Bridgewater was described. The tubercular centres at North Reading, Lakeville, Rutland and Westfield were also touched upon.

Mr. Ham told of the work that the state is doing at Norfolk for inebriates Here in colony houses they are taught trades and when they are cured it is the endeavor to have them as far removed from their former sources of temptation as possible.

The lepers, colony at Penikese Island and the correctional schools were mentioned. There are three of the latter; one for girls at Lancaster, the Lyman school for boys and another at Shirley.

For the treatment of insanity there are 16 state institutions and several private infimaries under state control. In all some 17 thousand inmates are cared for at Danvers and Medfield.

A vivid picture was drawn of the menace that the large number of feeble minded children in Massachusetts are to the able bodied children of the state. There are 2500 at Waverley and Wrentham and 1500 on the waiting list. There are 10,000 more that need attention.

The need for classification of prison inmates was voiced by the speaker who told of the present indiscriminate herdings. Population in the prisons, he said, is on the steady decrease owing to the extensive probation and parole systems now in force.

Mr. Ham defended the giving of pardons and said that there were many instances where the governor and council were justified in granting these on facts not before the general public.

"It is your duty as Christian citizenry," he said in conclusion, "to fight crime, vice and sin, and the more successful the fight, the fewer inmates in the institutions and the less expense to the Commonwealth."

BRITISH REPULSED.

(By United Press.)

Constantinople, May 20—Turkish batteries along the shore of the Dardanelles bombarded the English battleships so effectively in a hot Monday afternoon engagement that the British were obliged to withdraw, according to official information. Tuesday, French ships attacked but were driven off.

FALLS IN WATER PIPE.

Lynn, May 20—Charles Ross, working on a new water stand pipe on Baker Hill, Cliftondale today fell from the top to the bottom inside the pipe, 36 feet. He was lifted out by a derrick and rushed to the hospital.

LADIES' NIGHT.

The regular monthly meeting of the South Parish men's club of Braintree was held in the chapel, Wednesday evening. It was the last meeting of the season and was observed as the annual ladies' night the total number of members and their fair guests being 102 persons.

Supper was served at 6.45 o'clock by Westover and Foss, the menu comprising, cold meats, mashed potato, salads, coffee, rolls, cake and ices of various kinds.

The "White House" coffee with the napkins advertising its merits was furnished by the Dwinell-Wright company of Boston. The water was donated by Shelley A. Neal of Braintree and was from his famous Chickatawbut spring.

By the kindness of H. Waldecker the florist and the club's president, H. A. Simonds, the women received corsage bouquets of sweet peas and the men were remembered with boutonieres of the same flowers.

The young women who acted so efficiently as waitresses were the Misses Winifred Howland, Mary Schraut, Mabelle Borden, Mabel Campbell, Mildred Maxham, Louise Pennock and Ruth Torrey. After supper, all took seats in the upper hall and in behalf of the members, President Simonds in a brief but appropriate speech extended a hearty welcome to the guests.

An enjoyable program followed consisting of readings and vocal solos by Robert L. Van Buskirk, the well known elocutionist, and musical selections by the Philharmonic trio, Miss Ethel Raymond of Quincy, pianist, Frederick E. Lawis of Holbrook, 'cellist and Robert Colberg of Brockton, violinist.

Mr. Van Buskirk held the close attention of the audience and was very good, both in the serious selections and in those of lighter vein. The work of the trio was a delight, all their numbers being beautifully played. A popular feature was the song "Tipperary," solo part by Mr. Van Buskirk, accompanied by the trio and all hands joining in the chorus.

As a grand finale, the "Star Spangled Banner" was rendered as a solo by Mrs. Alice Bean with orchestra accompaniment and the audience coming in on the chorus with "Old Glory" waving in the background.

The affair was a most enjoyable one and was a fitting ending to the season which has been very successful under the able administration of the president, Harry A. Simonds. The arrangements were in charge of the executive committee, George E. Dunn, chairman.

MAY PARTY AND SALE.

A successful May party and sale under the auspices of Ladies' Auxiliary No. 13, A. O. H. was held in K. of C. hall Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance and the program of entertainment was very pleasing.

There was a piano solo by Ellis Condon and a reading by Miss Anna D'Arigo. Songs followed by pupils of Miss Leta Weston and Miss Helen Cuff and the same children executed a pretty litle maypole dance.

Other enjoyable numbers were vocal selections by Miss Ina Condon, piano solos by Miss Eileen Mulcahy and a vocal duet by Miss Marguerite and George Packard. The entertainment was in charge of Miss Helen Cuff.

The candy table was presided over by Miss Margaret Sullivan and Miss Kathleen Krohn. Ice cream was dispensed by Mrs. John H. Dennehy and Mrs. Patrick J. King. Aprons were sold by Mrs. Eliazbeth Barnes and Mrs. W. H Cuff and the "grabs" were managed by Mrs. Thomas E. Croke.

The whole affair was in charge of a committee of which Mrs Elizabeth Barnes was chairman.

MORE PALINDROMES.

Besides making puns, says the Boston Post, our English cousins are fond of composing palindromes—that is, combinations of words that read the same backward as forward. The most famous palindrome is that by Dr. Brewer, supposed to be the greeting of Adam to Eve:

"Madam, I'm Adam."

In the current number of an English magazine I discover some recent attempts of this sort, which are more ingenious than poetical:

"No, it is opposed. Art sees trade's opposition."

"No, it's a bar of gold, a bad log for a bastion."

Before turning up the nose in scorn at them, let the gentle reader try to improve on them.—Pathfinder.

THE ANTS, TOO.

"What's the trouble?"

"She says the red ants are holding an old home week in our pantry."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

COMPLAINANT IN PITIABLE STATE

Suffering from general exhaustion and lack of nourishment, Mrs. Charles J. Enos of Cohasset, collapsed in the district court this morning before she could testify against her husband whom she had charged with neglect of family. She was carried to the conference room and treated by Dr. Walter L. Sargent who said she suffered the above.

The case is one of the most deserving of sympathy according to court officials which has been brought to their attention in years.

On Wednesday Mrs. Enos appeared at the office of Probation Officer Fahy and appealed for relief. When she entered the office she was supported by two women. In telling her story she fainted. On being revived she said her husband had not supported her for a year and that although his father had furnished food there was just enough for her four children and she was obliged to stint herself.

She said she had appealed to the officials of Cohasset but that owing to political influence her plea had been overlooked.

Judge Pratt on learning the facts issued a warrant without delay. He ordered the police of Cohasset to have the man in court this morning.

On leaving the court house Mrs. Enos again collapsed and restoratives were administered by Dr. C. W. Garey Enos was arrested and pleaded not guilty this morning. Judge Avery ordered him to pay $5 per week to his wife and told Chief Bates to tell the Cohasset selectmen he would appreciate it if a nurse and nourishment were furnished the wife.

The four children were in the corridor of the court and after the short hearing Enos pointed to them as sturdy youngsters and as evidence that he had not neglected them. A woman in the corridor who overheard his statement turned and censured him.

Enos, through his father, made his first payment today. A hearing on the case will be held on June 27.

CAN'T BE TAKEN AWAY.

In view of the usually large number of licenses as common victuallers which have been granted this year by the City Council, coupled with the numerous complaints from business men that many of these places are doing a grocery business on Sundays under the guise of these licenses, the decision handed down by the full bench of the Supreme Court recently is of interest.

Mary H. Mackel, a storekeeper, sold a loaf of bread to a customer on Sunday, the latter who took the bread from the store was violating the law. The court said that any food sold on Sunday must be eaten on the premises. The defendant had appealed on the ground that she had a right to make the sale as she held a license as a innholder.

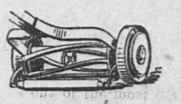

INITIATE FOUR.

Maple Lodge Again Sees Mystery Box.

Four candidates were initiated to membership in Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., in Protection hall, Wednesday evening and several applications were received. Protector Mrs. Annie Grignon presided. A social hour followed the meeting and the mystery box, formerly a feature at the meetings, was again brought out and Mrs. R. A. Robertson was the winner. Ice cream and cake was served at the close of the meeting.

The condition of Robert T. Johnson, who has been ill at his home on Maple street for many weeks, remains very serious.

A large number of neighbors, friends and relatives attended the funeral Wednesday afternoon of Edward Chapin Wales at the home of his son, Edward S. Wales on Warren avenue which is next door to his late home. Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Wollaston Unitarian church officiated.

Over the casket was draped a large United States flag. The room was one mass of blooms, the roses, carnations and sweet peas being silent messengers of love and esteem of one whose kindly face and genial manner will be sadly missed.

Besides many floral tributes from relatives and friends, there was a large wreath of galax leaves, pink roses and sweet peas from the department of the John Hancock Life Insurance Co. in Boston of which his son, Edward S. Wales, is in charge, also two pillows, one of white roses and sweet peas and one of red roses and pansies from Rebekah Wiswell Tent, Daughters of Veterans; two sprays of pink and white roses with sweet peas from Abner B. Packard Camp 95 Sons of Veterans; spray of pink snap dragons from Woman's Relief Corps 103; large spray of white roses and carnations from the immediate neighbors.

The delegates chosen were William L. Farrell, George H. Davey and Michael Lyons.

Plans were also made for the bazaar to be held in Quincy Adams hall on the evenings of June 17, 18 and 19. Assisting the herd will be its auxiliary, Quincy Band, Companions of the Prairie.

MAYOR URGES HONESTY ON PART OF TAXPAYERS

Speaks at Meeting of Wollaston Improvement Association

The regular monthly meeting of the Wollaston Improvement association was held Thursday evening in Brazee hall, Wollaston. About 75 members were present. William M. Chase in opening the meeting spoke of the decision of the association in changing the name from the Wollaston ark Improvement association to the Wollaston Improvement association, thus eliminating what might be looked upon as district work. He explained in a very interesting way that the work of the association should carry it to all sections of the ward and to better enable them to do it they thought it wise to change the name.

H. M. Watts, the secretary, gave a general account of the work of several of the committees and placed before the association the names of 20 applicants for membership, all of whom were elected.

Harry Stevens called the attention of the association to the applications for gasoline tanks near the station, and asked that the association go on record as opposing the same as being detrimental to the interests of the citizens and property owners of that section of the city. His request was complied with and it was decided that a committee should appear at the hearing before the City Council on June 7th. It was also voted that the sum of $10 be given the flower committee for the purpose of placing flowers or plants near the Wollaston depot.

After a discussion of general subjects the president introduced Mayor Campbell who received a very cordial reception. His remarks were made along general lines and no special subject was discussed. He called the attention of the members to the large number of building permits which had been granted for dwellings in that section of the city and urged them to advertise Quincy as a good place to live in, believing that if each of the improvement associations would work along those lines industrial life of the sort that would be good for the city would follow the home-seeker. The Mayor dweit at some length on the utter lack of interest for the welfare of the city exhibited by some citizens. He urged that everything be done to get the citizens to make an annual statement of their personal property as well as their real estate, believing that to be the only way that valuations and tax rate can be made to conform to the demands of the people.

"If every citizen of Quincy," said the Mayor, "would be honest and make a statement of his actual personal and real estate ownings, the result would be that an honest valuation would be given by the assessors and an honest tax rate would result, but just so long as the residents who are holders of large personal estates technically evade the law by moving to towns where the ax rate is very low, just so long will the citizens of Quincy suffer. The Board of Assessors in the past may have made mistakes, but for every mistake which may have occurred there are a hundred cases where the property was not over-valued.

"Every citizen must realize that the calling for improvements means an appropriation to carry these improvements into effect, and while I would not decry the benefit and necessity of these improvements, yet it is the policy of the administration to economize in every possible way without jeopardizing the interests of the community."

The Mayor called attention to the several delegations which had called on him at times from several sections of the city with a view to securing for the citizens a railroad rate of five cents to Boston.. He frankly said that he was very strongly opposed to any such reduction as he believed the present rates charged by the railroad were reasonable and for the right and proper growth of our city it would be far better to maintain approximately the same rate of fare than to lower to the five cent level. He said he would urge every improvement association to oppose any such move and he hoped that the Wollaston Improvement association would, if necessity required, go on record as opposed to a lower rate.

The Mayor also spoke briefly in reference to the New Haven Road stating that he believed it would be but a short time before work would be started on the grade plans. After several conferences with Mr. Elliott, President of the New Haen road and his assistants, the Mayor was convinced that if the Legislature would act promptly on the measure before them giving the railroad the opportunity properly to finance their holdings we would find that work would be started without delay and he urged the association to pass a resolution urging our Senator and Representatives to favor the bill now before the Legislature in reference to financing the New Haven road.

Upon the suggestion of the Mayor, Mr. Hingston moved that the bill before the Legislature be approved, which was accepted.

The next meeting of the association will be Ladies Night on May 28th, at the Wollaston Yacht club.

OPEN HOUSE ON IST ANNIVERSARY

Women's Federation Meets In Academy

Thursday saw the completion of one year of evistence of the Quincy Federation of Women's clubs and in observance of the anniversary open house was kept at the new recreation rooms in the Adams Academy building from half past two until five o'clock. The rooms were attractive with bunches of lilacs, wisteria and pink rose peonies and each guest was presented by the president, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, with a boutonniere of lilies of the valley.

The gymnasium was used for the informal reception which preceded the exercises of the afternoon, there being three groups to receive. In the first were the officers of the Federation, Mrs. Marsh, Miss Annie L. Prescott, Mrs. R. E. Trumper, Mrs Thompson B. Crane, Mrs. Charles E. Sweet and Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr. The second group was made up of present and recent presidents of clubs in the Federation: Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, Wollaston, Mrs: Walter S. Pinkham and Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, Quincy; Mrs. H. A. Morse, Squantum and Mrs. George F. Spooner, Riverside club. The third group was made up of representatives of clubs associated with the Federation, the representatives being Mrs. Victor E. Miller, Unity Circle King's Daughters; Mrs. S. I. Beal and Mrs. W. F. Hodgkinson, Woman's Auxiliary Y. M C. A.; Mrs. P. R. Blackmur and Miss Hill the Hospital Aid association; Mrs. Thomas Fenno, the Associated Charities and Miss Mildred Huston the young Women's club. The ushers were chairmen of committees.

Following the reception all gathered in the assembly room where the president after a few words of greeting introduced Prof. F. M. Gunn of the State Board of Health who spoke of the needs of a dispensary, also of preventive work.

Prof. Gunn believed health inspectors were all right in certain lines of work but thought a public health nurse of more account for prevention of disease. Simmons college was to establish a school for public health nursing. All boards of health should maintain a public health nurse. Every child born should be given a chance. Much time has been spent chasing microbes but not enough for prevention or following up other diseases.

Dr. Gunn spoke particularly of work to prevent deaths by cancer His slegan was "Live a little longer," to die of old age instead of by the giving out of the heart, the kidneys, etc., to do preventive work, to look after one's personal health. Many valuable to the community die in their prime who might have been classed as preventable if taken in time.

Prof. Gunn asked club women to spread the gospel of health.

Dr. Champion, who has recently come to Quincy to make his home while doing health inspection work in this section of the state, was the next speaker. He said the dispensaries to be established in cities and towns under the Board of Health were not so much for actual treatment as for advice and prevention. Deaths from tuberculosis were decreasing becaue of preventive work

Following the speakers a business meeting was held, the secretary reading the minutes of the last meeting. Committees reported on birth registration investigation and waiting room in City Square. Mrs. Townsend told most interestingly of vocational work showing the Quincy Industrial Day school to be an important part of school work. It solved the problem of boys working and going to school by dividing their time. The boys last year earned $12.000 The good work

Premier Salandra's cabinet has obtained a royal decree suspending diplomatic immunity for the Austrian and German ambassadors to the Vatican. Both will leave for Rome tomorrow. A later report says the council of war has been called for tonight and military circles expect orders within the next 24 hours.

WHO WILL BE MAYOR IN 1916?

Oracle Gives Some Facts And Fancies

In his address before the Montclair Parents-Teachers association Tuesday evening Mayor Campbell speaking of the reduction of the city debt said: "If the next administration follows out the policy of practical economy, not niggardly economy but liberal economy, the debt can be reduced seventy-five thousand more next year and a hundred and fifty thousand dollars the year after that."

His reference to "the next administration" immediately raised the question in the minds of some of his hearers, if it meant that he was not to be a candidate for re-election next December.

When asked if that was what he meant to convey Mayor Campbell laughed and said "I am not a politician. Honestly I do not know at the present time and shall probably not definitely announce my intentions until later in the year."

Continuing he said, "The work of the office of course requires a great deal of time, and one has to sacrifice to a certain extent his own private business, yet it is a great experience and schooling for any man. This is my first experience in a political office, I want to say right here, however, that I admit having made mistakes and no man is free from making them. I also want to emphasize the fact that not one of my appointments was made for political reasons. It has been a great experience to me, and I only wish that I had the time later to enter the council."

It appears therefore that the remark made by his honor in his Montclair address had no political significance. The possibility of Mayor Campbell's declining to be a candidate for the office again has prompted some to inquire as to a possible successor. President Whiton of the city council has frequently been mentioned but he has steadfastly refused unless the term was made a three or five year one and the salary of the office greatly increased. The reason was that he could not afford to give up his present business connections.

Changes are likely to come, however and it has been rumored round the corners that President Whiton would retire from active business before the present year was out.

When asked point blank if he was considering becoming a candidate for Mayor next fall President Whiton produced one of his wining smiles and said, "It depends." Getting right down to brass tacks this means that if he should retire from active business pursuits before the end of the year and Mayor Campbell should decline to accept the nomination for a second term, "Joe" might become the candidate, although Mr. Whiton knows full well from his three months experience last fall that the office of Mayor is no bed of roses. He had a taste of the work and would be willing it is believed to acept a full meal under certain conditions. It is understood, however, that should Mayor Campbell be a candidate next fall President Whiton will not oppose him for the nomination.

ELEVEN JURORS ARE FOR. COL. ROOSEVELT

Judge Sends Them Back For Further Deliberation

(By United Press)

Syracuse, May 21—An unparalled court mixup resulted today in an illegal verdict being returned in favor of Roosevelt in the $50,000 libel suit. The jury foreman reported a unanimous verdict reached in favor of Roosevelt but the jury wanted the Colonel to be forced to pay the costs of the case.

The court clerk called the roll. One juryman voted against the former president. The other 11 voted for him. Justice Andrews ruled that the request of the jury made the verdict illegal. He sent the 12 men back to deliberate further. There was no commotion in the court room though there was considerable suppressed excitement. Justice Andrews had warned the spectators and lawyers that any sort of a demonstration would be severely dealt with.

ANOTHER GIRL IS ASSAULTED

Miss Sadie Dutton Robbed And Injured

Sadie Dutton, a servant girl was assaulted and robbed within sight of the home of her employer, A. Granville Bowditch, 28 Quincy avenue, East Braintree, Thursday evening and as a result of her experience is under the care of a physician and on the verge of peritonitis.

Miss Dutton was going down Allan street and stopped to lace her shoe. Two men jumped from the side of the street and viciously asaulted her. One jumped on her shoulders and choked her and then while his pal pressed his knee against her stomach and pinned her to the ground he robbed her of a pocket book containing a small sum of money and also snatched a gold chain from her neck.

Collapsing from the rough treatment she was left lying in the street. She was found in a semi-conscious condition by a man who recognized her and carried her to the Bowditch home.

Dr. Giles was called and found she had suffered two fractured ribs and that the men had left the imprint of their finger nails in six places on her neck. Other bruises and contusions were found and as the result of the pounding her stomach received it is thought peritonitis may develop.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

That fascinating star of the "legitimate," Elsie Janis, has agreed to twinkle for the movie spectators and appears in a photo-play entitled "The Episodes of Kitty." Craig Kennedy and the rest have a startling adventure in the twentieth episode of "The Exploits of Elaine."

R. R. OFFICIALS ARE VISITORS

Unless the practice of crossing the railroad tracks, just south of the Quincy Adams station is abandoned and the fence which incloses the railroad tracks is left intact arrests are likely to follow, for the destruction of the fence is in violation of the law as is also the crossing of the tracks at this point.

This statement was brought out Thursday afternoon during the visit of General Superintendent Woodward, General Traffic Superintendent Hobbs, and Engineer Weever of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. to Quincy. The three railroad officials were met at city hall by Mayor Campbell and in company with City Engineer Sargent a tour of the city was made. The party visited Robertson street on the Granite branch where a gate is desired, looked over the freight yard at Quincy Adams, and the place north of the Quincy Adams station where a foot path is desired. Here it was found that the fence built by the railroad had been torn down and a well defined path made across the tracks. Mr. Woodward said that under the law the railroad was obliged to stop this and that unless the people stopped it an officer would be put on duty there to enforce the law.

A visit was also made to inspect the bridges at School street, Dimmock street, Adams street and Beale street with reference to conditions when the grades were eliminated. The party also examined the proposed change in the grade of Beale street at Greenwood avenue which was explained by City Engineer Sargent.

IN CASE OF WAR.

The chances that the United States will become involved in the war may not be large But until that conflict is ended, no American can feel safe.

If Germany should declare war against the United States, the fighting could reach our shores only in case the Teutonic allies should largely overpower their adversaries. This may be unlikely, but every possible contingency should be faced.

The United States has plenty of available material with which to make war The problem of organizing that material would tax the biggest intellect in the nation. The government at Washington in time of peace under all administrations is conducted by the class of men called politicians, rather than by business men. In case of a sudden outbreak of war, the politicians high and low of every party should feel their limitations

They ought to expect to call to their aid a sufficient force of the most capable business executives. Of course army and navy methods have been vastly improved since the confusion of the Spanish war. But the country is so far unprepared that the problem of developing military resources would be beyond the powers of any group of men that ever gathers at Washington.

In case of war there would be plenty of enlistments. While the avage citizen shivers at the thought of enlisting, there is plenty of young blood hot for battle. Every hint and threat of war always stimulates enlistments. The country has no aviation force worth speaking of. But it has a host of amusement flyers who could be mobilized. Its equipment for feeding an army would be only a fragment. But the streets are swarming with motor trucks that could be levied. Arms and ammunition are woefully inadequate. But the country is full of machine shops. To systematize resources for a sudden call is a problem far greater than anything that falls to any single group of our executives in time of peace. It is a time for the most detailed plans to be formulated.

PROBLEM OF MOSQUITO CONTROL

Efforts are reported all over the United States this spring to exterminate mosquitoes. California people estimate that doctors' bills can be cut down 50 per cent. by killing these germ carriers. This may be putting the mosquito's misdeeds rather high. For in many sections the time when the mosquito is most active is the healthiest part of the year. But the absence of mosquitoes is a positive asset to any community.

The idea frequently prevails that if a neighborhood has a high and dry location, yet has the "skeets," that they must come from a long distance, and that it can't be helped. But the scientists say that in most cases the bugs breed quite near the homes that they infest. Thus the Quincy problem is largely one for the individual householder.

Mosquitoes breed freely in such places as buckets kept for fire purposes, pans used for poultry, hogsheads, tanks kept for flushing purposes, water pitchers in unused guest rooms, mud puddles, hoof prints that fill with water, etc. They have been found even in urns used for holy water in churches.

Real estate men find that a neighborhood infested by mosquitoes suffers in public estimation. Sitting on the porch is the typical American manner of spending summer evenings. There the family gathers, and company is entertained. If people are driven inside a stuffy house by the attentions of the mosquitoes, much of the pleasure of the summer evening is gone. The men may not inquire if there are mosquitoes when they ask the real estate man about a house. But they are apt to find that the wife wants to know about it.

Killing mosquitoes does not seem to be very expensive It simply needs the draining of low spots in or near a town, and a persistent search by the householder for concealed breeding places about his premises.

Booth Tarkington is dropping into poetry, thus proving again that the freedom and personal liberty which are the proud boasts of our best spellbinders are no iridescent dream.

MARKETS STOCKED WITH VEGETABLES

Also is Good Supply at Reasonable Prices of Fish and Fruit

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

The markets are well stocked with fresh vegetables, both those raised in the South and some of the early vegetables that are raised under glass by New England farmers. While all kinds of meats have dropped considerable from what they were a year ago meat is still rather up toward the clouds. It was but a few years ago that the best cuts of sirloin or rump steaks could be had for 25 and 28 cents a pound. From that price they steadily advanced until it was not unusual to have to part with nearly fifty cents if one wanted a pound of steak.

There has been practically no change in prices of meats since last week. Some meats have dropped a cent or two but hardly anything worthy of mentioning. Still, most of the local dealers make special prices on some lines of meats for every Saturday and the way to get at these is to watch closely the advertising columns of the Ledger.

With fish however the story is different. There is a good supply of most kinds of fresh fish which are reasonable in price. Mackerel have not been coming in quite as freely as expected which has caused the prices to advance slightly, and the indications this morning were that the supply would be scarce for the remainder of the week. Catches of shad are also light but all of the other varieties are more plentiful and cheaper than they have been. All kinds of ground fish, save haddock, are plentiful and the price is low.

Lobsters are also plentiful and prices reasonable. Seldom has it been than one sees in City square men selling fresh boiled lobsters from sidewalk stands but that is what occurred the first of the week. A plentiful supply arrived last Sunday from Nova Scotia and as the weather was cool the demand fell off. The result was that the peddlers, who watch closely any opportunity to make a dollar, quickly took advantage of the falling off in demand. Lobster pounds all along the coast are now well filled, on account of the fact that the closed season in Nova Scotia is near at hand and but for the filling up of these pounds. The price of lobsters would be beyond all reason during the summer months.

Oysters are still in the market but the demand for them is so small that few local markets care to handle them. As for clams they are quite plentiful, although the price is higher than usual for under the present rules of the state Board of Health most of the flats in and about Quincy are in the district from which the taking of clams for food is prohibited.

Fruit of all kinds is plentiful and reasonable, oranges bananas, pineapples and the like are in abundance. Strawberries are also getting plentiful and nice berries can be had for 12 cents a box. The Dighton berries have not begun to arrive in the markets yet but it will not be long before they will be on sale.

As for vegetables the markets are supplied with all kinds and they are seasonable. Asparagus at the present time has reached rock bottom prices and anyone who is fond of this vegetable should improve the opportunity to have their fill for it will not be with us long.

The demand for butter is still slow and the result is that prices have been dropped off another half cent a pound, by the general receivers in the hopes of reaching a level that will enable the wholesalers to clear the market. The cheese market holds firm but there is no great demand. The market is not receiving much in the way of fresh supplies of cheese for the reason that prices are high. Eggs are very cheap at the present time owing to the lack of demand. This means that many thousands of eggs are going into cold storage to make their appearance later, possibly about Thanksgiving time, when they are in great demand.

There has been no change in the retail price of flour for some weeks, and here again the demand has fallen off somewhat owing to the spring weather.

Commissioner Brown has commenced work resurfacing the westerly side of Hancock street, from Adams street toward Neponset.

TUBERCULOSIS HEARING.

State House, Boston, May 21—While a new bill introduced into the legislature at the eleventh hour by Rep. George M. Worrall of Attleboro may save some of the smaller cities from the necessity of constructing tuberculosis hospitals of their own, D. Allan J. McLaughlin, state commissioner of health at a hearing before the legislative committee on public health Thursday, made it plain that the measure would not save the larger cities like Lowell from complying with the demands of his department.

The commissioner does not like the attitude of some of the city officials whom he accuses of trying to evade the law and whom he declares must live up to it or face prosecution at the hands of the attorney-general. An interested audience listened to Dr. McLaughlin state the stand of his department on the question of tuberculosis hospitals at the hearing and the language the commissioner used left no doubt in the minds of those present as to what he would do in case the larger cities did not meet the issue squarely.

Under the present law cities of 10,000 or more population must provide tuberculosis hospitals for the treatment of their own patients by September 1 of this year. Some of the smaller cities were given the alternative of constructing hospitals in conjunction with nearby cities or else providing for the care and treatment of their tuberculosis patients in institutions approved by the State Department of Health.

Situations have arisen in a few of the cities, however, which made it practically impossible for those communities to live up to the law and for that reason Rep. Worrall introduced his bill which provides for the construction and maintenance of tuberculosis hospitals by counties.

Scores of city and county officials from all over the state appeared at the hearing today in support of this bill. The main argument in favor of the measure was based on the fact that many of the smaller cities have so few tuberculosis patients that a hospital of that kind is not needed.

Dr. McLaughlin opposed the bill itself although he was in sympathy with the motive behind it. He said that if the bill became a law as it stood it would wipe out much of the health legislation now on the statute books which has no connection whatsoever with the treatment of tuberculosis. His principal objection to the bill, however, was that it was permissive instead of mandatory and that it did not state specifically when the hospitals should be constructed by the various county commissioners. It was agreed by both sides that those cities which now maintain tuberculosis hospitals of their own should not be compelled to contribute to the support of a county hospital. The counties of Suffolk, Hampshire, Barnstable and possibly Duke's and Nantucket, are exempted from the provisions of the Worrall bill as these counties already have county tuberculosis hospitals or are too small to be called upon to support one.

Dr. McLaughlin scored the city officials of Lowell for not making plans for a tuberculosis hospital in that city. Lowell, he said, has a population of more than 100,000 and he maintained there was no excuse for a city of that size not having a tuberculosis hospital of its own and particularly in view of the number of deaths due to consumption and the prevalence of the disease in that city. Rep. Fred O. Lewis of Lowell, who is a member of the committee on Public Health, shared the view of the commissioner. Rep. Lewis said it was high time the city officials of Lowell were doing something about the hospital and declared they would be doing more good by going ahead with a proposition like that instead of coming to the legislature with a petition to borrow $700,000 outside of the city debt limit for a school house which could wait. Dr. McLaughlin then declared that if the hospital is not built within the time prescribed the matter will be referred to the attorney-general and the city of Lowell will be prosecuted.

Many members of the House spoke before the Committee in favor of the Worrall bill besides the petitioner himself. Among them was Rep. Charles A. Ericson of Quincy. Others who urged favorable action on the bill were Former Mayor Sears and City Solicitor Pinkham of Quincy.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Editor of the Ledger

In view of the several recent attacks which opponents of equal suffrage have made on the much maligned subject of feminism, I think many readers of the Ledger would like to know just what is meant, and I know of no more representative nor fairer presentation of the matter than given in the Century Magazine for April 1914, as follows:

(From the Century Magazine for April, 1914) Published by permission

"The time has come to define feminism: it is no longer possible to ignore it. The germ is in the blood of our women. The principle is in the heart of our race. The word is daily in the pages of our newspapers. The doctrine and its corollaries are on every tongue. The hope of it, often unrecognized and denied, lies inherent in the soul of every woman. The dread of it rests heavily upon the ignorant, the timid, the unduly conservative, and those who have outlived the capacity for unfamiliar thinking.

"But what is feminism? Is it, as the superficial allege, the desire of some women to assume the work and the places and the power and the responsibilities and the rewards of men? Some women desire these things, no doubt. But this is not feminism.

"Is it the desire of a few experimental spirits to abolish marriage, and substitute for lifelong monogamy temporary relationships dissoluble at will? This is the dream of a scattered few, especially in Germany, where a small group is experimenting in public. But it is not feminism.

"Is it the suggestion of certain reckless ones to abolish the home and have the State bring up our children in order that women may be free to experiment variously with life unhampered by the schemes of mere nature? This has been seriously set forth by several daring writers, and is occasionally advocated by irresponsible orators at gatherings of the ultra-advanced. But it is not feminism.

"Nor can feminism be defined by any of the numerous other suggestions of impractical imaginations spurred to abnormal activity by sudden release from the thought conventions of the past.

"Granted that most of the so-called feminist writing and speaking so far have dealt with the schemes of visionaries. But visionaries and fanatics are always the first and the loudest in any public cause. The social deorganization now in slow orderly progress throughout the civilized world was heralded two decades ago by anarchists and nihilists.

"Granted that the opponents of feminism seem to have, in the silence of all others, authority for their assumption that the theories of these hasty irresponsibles are the theories of the movement itself. But the hastily terrified are as fatuous as the hastily enthused. Neither deserves credence of the seer.

"Let us, then, ignore these impractical doctrines of the hasty. Let us fish for our definition in the still waters beneath the troubled surface. Let us study the Revolt of the women not in the souls of the volatile few, but of the earnest millions of wives and mothers and workers who are thinking silently in their homes. Here alone shall we find the attitude upon which to base our substantial definition for these are the women who eventually will determine the fact.

"And here first of all we find that feminism does not mean the usurpation by women of the place and the power of men. Psychological sex differences absolutely must have their way in the end despite prophets and propaganda, and none but dreamers will deny it When women have all the rights they demand, together with the obligations that go with them, still they will be women They will no more compete then in departments of life unsuited to their strength and genius than they do today. None but a few enthusiastic theorists believe they will.

"There is this difference, though, and here somewhere lies our definition that then women's spirits will be freed For the first time in history, whether in competition with men or not, they will labor without the bond and the stigma of inferiority.

"To meet life untaunted; to labor, to succeed or to fail, as human individuals only; to feel handicapped by nature only, not by men; to seek their own success in self-chosen appropriate paths unhampered by laws or conventions from which men are exempt —these, we take it, constitute the ultimate object of the Revolt of the Women.

"And that sums up feminism, considered as a great, instinctive human movement. It is another and a very great step toward the realization of human freedom. Freeing the women follows naturally, and in civilization's own good time, upon freeing the slaves.

"Feminism, then, is in essence and fact a spiritual attitude. But it follows, as the night the day, that, to be effective, there is involved the power as well as the principle of freedom. Women must become the civil and the social equals of men. It makes little difference whether or not they shall use this power; the fact that they possess it, rather that they should not be forbidden its possession, is the magic that will break the shackles. The object of feminism is to make women ocual stockholders with men in the Business of life.

"Like every demand for human freedom, feminism will succeed; and, when it does come to pass, the human race will attain for the first time its full efficiency. Meantime let us possess our souls in peace so far as concerns those who are proclaiming creeds which civilization never will grant." Helen E. Comins.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Plans are well under way for an overland trip by auto truck through the White Mountains. The trip will be for the Seniors and will be some time in July, if such a trip can be arranged. Tents will be carried and the fellows will sleep where night overtakes them. The trip will last ten days starting from Quincy, going up through Concord to the Weirs, Bretton Woods, Mt. Washington, and other points of interest. The return trip will be by way of Berlin, Portland and Portsmouth. Several ball games are to be arranged with camp and town teams in New Hampshire and Maine. Already several fellows have said they would like such a trip and it is hoped that at least twenty-five will take it.

About thirty of the Senior members are planning an afternoon's fun at Elcock's Grove Saturday afternoon where a base-ball game will be played followed by eats.

President Frank Burgess accompanied by General Secretary R. S. Gaskell spent Thursday afternoon in an auto trip to South Hanson to look over a site for a camp for the boys. The boys will spend two weeks at camp during July under the charge of the boys work secretary.

The many friends of H. E. Dow will be glad to hear that he is recovering rapidly from his recent illness. Mr. Dow has been confined to his home in Lynn for the past month.

Fred Ward one of the Seniors has accepted a position as cost clerk with the Newell-Taylor Co.

Lee Brooks proved the winner of the pool tournament, having beaten out Harry Glover by a score of 100-96. The game was a well contested one from start to finish and created a great deal of interest among the onlookers.

CONFESSION SAVES INNOCENT MAN

Frank Warren, 53 years, New York City, now serving a sentence at Deer Island, came to court this morning of his own volition, pleaded guilty to larceny charged against John Gilford of Quincy, and as a reward his case was placed on file.

The action of Warren prevented beyond a doubt the conviction of Gilford who had been positively identified a few days ago as the man who stole $5 on March 27th at the home of Mrs. Alice Falceo of Phipp street.

Shortly after the theft was committed Inspector Goodhue learned that Warren had just been sent to Deer Island for a similar offense in Boston, committed while he traveled from house to house repairing locks. He obtained a warrant and sent it down there, pending the release.

Convinced that the identification of Gilford was a mistake Inspector Goodhue communicated with the prison authorities. When Warren learned the wrong man had been identified he offered to come to court and clear him. This morning he came in accompanied by Court Officer English. His case was placed on file on the recommendation of Inspector Goodhue.

The Ward One committee had charge of the entertainment program which followed the business meeting of Geo. L. Then there was the bean bag game, the prizes being awarded to Arthur W. Stetson and Mrs. Maria Hall. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The Gardner club of Christ church met Thursday evening with Rev. William Grainger in the rectory. The meeting was devoted to the discussion of plans for the coming year.

It was voted to join the State Federation which entitled the Quincy Federation to 5 delegates at meetings. For the annual meeting in June at Marion the following were elected: the president Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Pfaffmann, Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Hunting, Mrs. Trumper and Mrs. Sweet as Mrs. Trumper's alternate Several organizations were voted into associate membership, among them the Hospital Aid Association responded to by Mrs. Blackmur; Unity Circle of K. D. by Mrs. V E. Miller; Young Women's club by Miss Huston; Associated Charities by Mrs. Fenno. All expressed their pleasure and assurance of co-operation.

It was voted to make honorary members in recognition of their services in the community, the secretary of the Associated Charities, the Visiting Nurses, School Nurse, and Overseer of the Poor.

Reports of departments were given by Mrs. Hunting , Visiting Nursing; Mrs. Adams. Philanthropic; Mrs. Foster, Civic; Mrs. Spillane, Home Economics; Mrs. Keyes, Education. Mrs. Pinkham spoke briefly of the Quincy club.

The annual report of the secretary is given below to show what the Federation is and has done in its first year.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

April 16, 1914 a committee composed of representatives from the four women's clubs of Quincy met at the Quincy Women's club house. In the absence of the president of the Quincy Women's club, the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Wilson Marsh, who was elected temporary chairman with Mrs. William F. Cummings, temporary secretary. Mrs. Marsh stated the reasons why a federation of clubs would be a benefit, not only to the clubs represented and the different committees in those clubs, but also to the community at large After a general discussion it was voted to federate and the name be "The Quincy Federation of Women's Clubs." The four presidents were appointed to act as a committee to frame a constitution and by-laws. A committee composed of the four treasurers and one other was appointed to act as a nominating committee and these committees were asked to report at the next meeting.

At the next meeting May 22, called to order by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, Mrs. Ropes as chairman of the Committee to frame constitution and by-laws presented her report. A constitution was adopted and at the following meeting June 5 the by-laws were read and adopted, after minor changes. The nominating committee presented the ballot for officers as follows:—

President—Mrs. Wilson Marsh.

First Vice President—Mrs. H. A. Morse

Second Vice President—Miss A. L. Prescott.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. R. F. Trumper

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. F. B. Crane.

Treasurer—Mrs Charles Sweet.

Auditor—Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr

Since June 5, four executive board meetings have been held; three at the Quincy Women's club house and one at Adams Academy, the use of which has been obtained by the Federation as the first step toward making it a recreation centre for the young women of Quincy. Our president, at the first board meeting gave an outline of what the Federation hoped to accomplish for the betterment of the city. She spoke of the Hospital and Hospital Aid, antituberculosis work, library work and the work of establishing reading rooms where most needed. Mothers' meetings, and work to improve conditions of foreigners, the girls club, a Woman Probation Officer in Quincy, Home and School Gardens, also a School Visitor, the Clean-up Idea, the need of a waiting room at Quincy Center and a recreation center, truly a broad field of usefulness for our newly organized Club.

So broad was this field that it was thought best to direct efforts in two channels—one toward securing a suitable waiting room—the other toward securing Adams Academy as a recreation center. As to the former while the federation can not show appreciable results—still we feel that progress has been made and if there is in the future a comfort and rest station provided it will be because of the efforts put forth by this Federation.

As to the latter, we feel a big beginning has been made and the use of the Adams Academy by the Young Women's Club si a step toward the desired end. The work of refitting this old building was no small task andthe thanks of this federation is certainly due the committee, Mrs. Walter Pinkham, Mrs. Wilson Marsh and Mrs. George Pfaffmann, who have labored so zealously to make this old historical building of real value to this community.

The work of the Day Nursery and the Associated Charities has been presented to the Executive Board, also interesting statistics in rgard to Birth Registration, Pre Natal work and the work of the Visiting Nurse. Miss May Dickinson also gave an interesting address on the Tuberculosis Problem. It was voted to accept on the payment of $1.00 annually, Associate members and the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary has the honor of being our first Associate member It is the earnest hope that all Social, Literary or Philanthropic organizations may unite in this Federation—thus making this organization a power for good in our city.

Sylvia Trumper.

Owing to the length of the meeting the president did not give her report as fully as published below.

This is the first annual meeting of the Quincy Federation of Women's clubs. Beginning with four clubs the Quincy, Wollaston, Riverside and Squantum it has added five other organizations as associate members thus carrying forward its object as stated in the constitution, fo bring together for united action and service the various organizations of the city.

To serve the best interests of the city, "doing for others and doing it together," might well be our motto, working side by side for the common good. With this in mind it would seem fitting for the Federation to express its appreciation of those women who are daily giving trained service. The superintendent of the City Hospital, the Visiting Nurse, the School Nurse, the Secretary of the Associated Charities and the Overseer of the Poor. At the Civics Federation at Wollaston Mrs. Mulready, Probate Officer, called attention to the need of a woman to act with authority in the care of girls in danger of going wrong, a city matron to mother. The Overseer of Poor has suggested and the Mayor considered the same need also the secretary of the Associated Charities refers to the need of a police matron for the care of girls sent to the police station. This should be carefully worked out to properly care for and safeguard our young women.

The subjects considered by the Federation have been, the matter of a waiting room so much needed in city square. The securing of the use of Adams Academy as a rest and recreation centre for the young women of the city is an accomplished fact, due almost entirely to the patient persis-

WHY IS BAD AIR?

Air is bad, when it is overheated, when it contains an excess of moisture, and when it is chemically contaminated. This is the conclusion of the New York State Commission on Ventilation, as summarized by Professor C. E. A. Winslow, Chairman, in the official organ of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, the Journal of the Outdoor Life.

Professor Winslow shows that while it has been a matter of common belief for a long time that stagnant air was bad for the body, until recently no one knew why this was so. The New York State Commission on Ventilation has definitely proven two counts against bad air, one of them for the first time in history, and will probably prove others later on.

The first indictment against bad air shows that an increase in temperature beyond the normal seventy degrees produces serious derangement of the vaso-motor mechanism of the body, resulting in a rise of temperature, increased pulse, and a lowered blood pressure, with a corresponding decrease in efficiency, both physical and mental. In addition to this, overheating conduces to an undesirable congestion of the mucous membranes of the nose, thus, possibly paving the way for colds, sore throats, and attacks of various germ diseases.

The work of the Commission also proves that chemical accumulations in the air as a result of air stagnation, bring about a decreased appetite for food, which in turn must have an unfavorable effect on the entire body. In the Commission's experiments, the people living in fresh air ate 4 1-2 to 13 per cent. more than those living in stagnant air.

"These experiments," says Professor Winslow, "indicate that fresh air is needed at all times and in all places. While we have changed our ideas as to what causes bad air, ventilation is just as essential to remove the heat produced by human bodies as it was once thought to be to remove the carbon dioxide produced by human lungs, and it is now proved also to be essential for carrying away chemical products which exert a measurable effect upon the appetite for food. People who live and work in overheated and unventilated rooms are reducing their vitality and rendering themselves an easy prey to all sorts of diseases, such as tuberculosis, pneumonia, grippe, etc."

POLICE TAKE OUT WARRANT

The police today continued their search for the person they believe assaulted Elvira Munson, the 18 year old Swedish girl, on Presidents Hill Tuesday night. As yet their efforts have been unsuccessful.

A warrant has been obtained charging assault with intent to rape and the police of Boston and the surrounding cities and towns have been furnished with a description and have promised to cooperate with the local department in apprehending the man.

The police have declined to make known for publication the name of the person on the warrant they hold, but say it is for a well known person.

The girl has not been able to give them much assistance because she did not know the name of the person, having forgotten it shortly after her introduction at a party last winter.

Although she suffered a most brutal assault and is minus three teeth which were knocked out when she was kicked, she is steadily recuperating.

JAMES KESTER.

James Kester, father of Dr. Paul Kester of Boston, and well known in the Norfolk Downs district died Wednesday at his home, 13 Thatcher road, aged 76 years. He leaves a widow and several children.

Funeral services were held from his late residence Thursday afternoon, at which a clergyman from out of town officiated. The services were of a simple nature. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

BUNCHED HITS WIN.

The Coddington school out-batted the Lincolns at the Ward Three playground Thursday afternoon and beat them 7 to 6 in one of the best games of the grammar school season. Coddington, Willard and Massachusetts Fields are now in a triple tie for second place, each having won two apiece and lost one. Through the defeat the Lincolns were forced to a last place tie with Adams. The score was even until the Coddingtons started most effective stick work in the fifth and sent home two runs, overcoming a one run lead and copping the game. Canalli, the losing catcher, continued his fine work started at the beginning of the season. The score by innings:

Coddington	3	1	1	0	2	0	—	7

The Fore Rivers won the bowling tournament held at the Coliseum alleys for representatives of the various leagues of the city for a purse of $25. They have been challenged by L. Ross of the Wardwell alleys for a purse of the same size and in all probability will accept.

The Fore Rivers jumped into the lead in the second last match, passing the MacGregors who held it the first four matches. One of the surprises in the finals Wednesday evening was the establishing of a new single record for the series by Pinel who got 133, three pins better than Smith's total, made the night the Fore Rivers rolled 1532.

BASE BALL GAMES HERE SATURDAY

GAMES SATURDAY.

Quincy High and Milton High, (South Shore league) at Merrymount park at 3.15.

Fore River and Bird and Sons, (Manufacturers league) at Ward Three playground.

North Quincy Catholic club and North Quincy A. C. at Atlantic at Ward Six playground, 3.30 P. M.

Three games in the city Saturday will draw the attention of the fans.

One will be the annual contest between Milton and Quincy High school and the other will be between the old rivals, Fore Rivers and Bird & Sons.

How steady a game Quincy High will play cannot be promised with any degree of certainty. The team opened the season under best of conditions and gave every indication of finishing in first place in the South Shore league. They have badly slumped the last three games however. Nevertheless the student body feels that they have overcome the slump and are now prepared to deliver base ball in the original package.

The Fore River and Bird game will be a good one without any question. Both teams are in the best of shape and are playing wonderful ball. The fact that a brook runs through centre field away out, may occasion several long drives being turned to homers and on this happening may depend the final result.

On the Atlantic playground the North Quincy Catholic club will play the North Quincy A. C. Both are local teams and as each club has a large following a hard fought game is expected. Sullivan who showed such good form for the Catholic club last Saturday will again be on the mound. Johnson the former Revere pitcher will twirl for the North Quincy A. C.

SPORTING COMMENT

"Bootus" Chapman now at Williston Academy, is preparing to enter Syracuse. Coaches who have seen him play are much impressed and feel he will burn up the catcher's berth in quick style.

The way things have shaped up in the grammar school base ball this spring indicates that Quincy has many stars in the making. Crowley of Gridley Bryant and Ganzel of Massachusetts Fields are picked as the best pitchers, with the odds favoring the former. This year's final contest may be between the Montclair and Gridley Bryant schools and both are taught by J. Johnson, a former intercollegiate star.

The Colonial league opened its circuit Thursday. Brockton beat Fall River 5 to 2. Springfield beat Pawtucket 8 Sto 6 Hartford beat New Haven 3 to 2. and Taunton beat New Bedford 9 to 5.

Barry caught for the Taunton aggregation, although it was not expected that a twisted shoulder would allow him to start. He and Dean featured in a double play. He got two hits, 10 putouts and three assists.

tence and unflagging enthusiasm of one woman, known to all of you. To enlarge its usefulness and increase its opportunities as a rest and recreational centre for all young women is the work before us still.

Along the line of work carried on by the Industrial and Social Conditions committee of the State Federation we have considered the lack of prenatal work in our city; the Visiting Nurses and a few physicians doing a little. The subjects of birth registration as bearing on infant mortality and employment certificates, with a report on vocational and part time schools have recived some attention.

The result of the survey made of the Tuberculor situation in Quincy by Miss Mary Dickenson State Department of Health was presented by her to the executive board. Further information has been sought on the need of and assistance we might give to the prompt establishment and maintenance of a dispensary which should minister to the prevention and cure of this dread disease. We are encouraged that the city has moved forward in this much needed aid to the betterment of our public health.

In the future we hope to receive other organizations into fellowship for though the causes be many the end is one, making Quincy a better place in which to live.

GRANITE NEWS

The ballot boxes of the Granite Cutters International association of America were opened on Monday May 17th in every branch throughout the country for the election of the National officers for the ensuing four years. Quincy is particularly interested in this election as one of her own native sons is up again for re-election to the office of President. James Duncan has been president for the past twenty years and has handled all matters of the union in a very agreeable manner. He is opposed in this election by James Garvey of Salida, Colorado, who is said to be a very strong man and who is well liked among the cutters of the West. With a record such as Mr. Duncan has it seems hardly possible that he can be defeated. The ballot boxes will be closed Thursday evening, June 3rd. The result will probably be announced about June 15th. We hope Mr. Duncan will be returned a winner.

Shipping at South and West Quincy shows no let up and the granite men report that they have a large amount of orders to get out which will be shipped after Memorial Day. At the rate shipments have gone out during the spring this year will be a banner one in amount of granite shipped out. Should a cutter who had lived here twenty years ago return to this city and see the work which is now shipped he would be tempted to say "Who is going to finish cutting the work when it arrives at its destination?" In the past all stone was cut and finished here in Quincy but now slabs and square dies constitute the bulk of the work which leaves Quincy. These are finished and lettered at the destination in accordance with the wish of the customer.

Local manufacturers who had been using Field and Wilds stock previous to the closing of that quarry will be pleased to hear that it will soon be possible to secure some of the original Dark Blue. Steam was started in the boiler today and it is reported that a core is to be sunk in an effort to locate the best of the stock. In past years the demand for this stock was far in excess of the supply. A monument of this stock sets in a cemetery in Brockton, cut twenty years ago, and the letters can be read at ease today. Several large memorials have been erected in New York city and Brooklyn from this granite.

Reports from Barre say that the strike among the granite men has been settled there. This may be so as far as the officials of the union and the manufacturers are concerned but there still remains a lot of dissatisfaction among the Italian men of the union and it will be a long while before things will run smoothly. The manufacturers and cutters of Quincy showed fine judgement when they put into their last agreement the clause that any future differences should be settled by arbitration. This puts aside any chance of future strikes in Quincy.

What has become of the grade crossing question, the public dock and the Mount Wollaston cemetery chapel? Are these three to be consigned to oblivion as a good many other improvements have? It is time for the city to cut out the chatter and act.

He graduated from the Adams school in 1907 and from Quincy High school in 1911. He entered the college in the fall of that year.

He won the Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical association scholarship for 1914-15 and it was announced at the exercises that he had also won the "Materia Medica" scholarship.

Mr. Pratt was honored with a place on the program, delivering the class prophecy. He was vice president of the class in 1914 and this year was chairman of the executive committee, the central committee in charge of the other committees of the school. He is a member of the Gardner club of Christ church.

POLS GATHER AT SOCIAL BANQUET

A very enthusiastic and enjoyable banquet was held under the auspices of the Republican City Committee Thursday evening at the Quincy House, Boston. The banquet was not held to boom the candidacy of any one or to start any political booms. It was simply a sort of get together meeting in order that the members might become better acquainted and as such it was an unqualified success.

Ira M. Whittemore, president of the city committee, presided and the guests included: President Coolidge of the Senate, Edward T. Thurston, president of the Republican State Committee, Hon. Eugene C. Hultman of the Norfolk Republican club, Senator Louis F. R. Langelier, and Representatives Charles A. Ericson and Edward J. Sandberg. There were about thirty members present.

Ex-Senator Hultman spoke of the work of the Norfolk club and urged every member of the committee to affiliate himself with it.

President Coolidge spoke of the importance of the get together movement and Chairman Thurston on the work and organization of the state committee.

Senator Langelier said that while he was a strict party man he stood back of the President in the present war crisis. All of the speakers were enthusiastically received and the gathering from every point of view was a most succesful one.

FATHER AND CHILD PERISH IN FLAMES

Eleven-Year-Old Boy Receives Probably Fatal Injuries

Westfield, Mass., May 21.—William J. Gibbons and his 6-year-old daughter, Mildred, were burned to death, and William J. Gibbons, Jr., aged 11, was probably fatally injured in a fire that destroyed their home on the outskirts of this town. Mrs. Gibbons and her daughter, Ida, 18 years old, escaped.

Mrs. Gibbons, on returning from a neighbor's, discovered the flames. She tried unsuccessfully to arouse her husband, who was deaf, and the blaze spread so rapidly that she was unable to rescue Mildred from her bedroom on the second floor.

William, Jr., jumped from a second-story window with his nightclothes afire, just as the roof fell in.

ITALIANS PASS VOTE FOR WAR

Extraordinary Powers Are Conferred on the Government

SUBMITTED TO HUMILIATION

Premier Salandra Says Nation Did So For Love of Peace and Was Forced to Witness Attempts to Suppress Her Characteristics—Russia Suffers Heavily In Galicia and May Have to Give Up Fortress of Permysl Rather Than Risk Capture by Teutonic Allies—Lull In Western Fighting Continues—Spy Kuepferle Commits Suicide While on Trial

London, May 21.—Any remaining hope that Italy would maintain her neutrality was abandoned when the Italian chamber of deputies conferred upon the government extraordinary powers in the event of the outbreak of war. The vote was 407 to 74, one member not voting.

This was considered a vote in favor of war, for which the government has made all preparations, and the prospects of which have aroused the greatest enthusiasm throughout Italy.

The German and Austrian ambassadors are still in Rome, but, according to dispatches from Berlin, their care now is to arrange for the safety of their nationals remaining in Italy.

A formal declaration of war, or perhaps action without a formal declaration, is momentarily expected. At any rate, all preparations for naval and military action have been made on both sides, and it is quite possible that while the Italian premier, Sig. Salandra, was explaining to the chamber and the world the policy of his government, the troops on the frontier and the navies in the Adriatic had anticipated diplomatic action.

Italy, naturally, will have to look first to her frontier, but it is expected that her entrance into the war will compel Austria, and perhaps Germany also, to withdraw some troops from the Russian frontier, where they are hammering at the Russian lines, particularly to the northwest and south of Permysl, in middle Galicia.

Proceedings at Rome

Rome dispatches say that when Sig. Marbora, president of the chamber, took his place, all the members of the house and everybody in the galleries stood up to acclaim the old follower of Garibaldi.

Then Premier Salandra, followed by all the members of the cabinet, entered. A delirium of cries broke out. "Viva Salandra!" were the words, and the cheering lasted for five minutes. Salandra appeared to be much moved by the demonstration.

In an exposition of the situation of Italy before the opening of hostilities in Europe the premier declared that Italy had submitted to every humiliation from Austria-Hungary for the love of peace. By her ultimatum to Serbia, the premier said, Austria had annulled the equilibrium of the Balkans and prejudiced Italian interests there.

Notwithstanding this evident violation of the treaaty of the triple alliance, Italy endeavored during long months to avoid a conflict, but these efforts were bound to have a limit in time and dignity. "This is why the government felt forced to present its denunciation of the triple alliance on May 4," said Salandra.

Salandra continued: "Since Italy's resurrection as a state she has asserted herself in the world of nations as a factor of moderation, concord and peace, and she can proudly proclaim that she has accomplished this mission with a firmness which has not wavered before even the most painful sacrifices.

"In the last period, extending over thirty years, she maintained her system of alliance and friendships chiefly with the object of thus assuring European equilibrium and, at the same time, peace.

"In view of the nobility of this aim, Italy not only subordinated her most sacred aspirations, but has also been forced to look on, with sorrow, at the methodical attempts to suppress specifically the Italian characteristics which nature and history imprinted on these regions.

Austria Violated Pact

"The ultimatum which the Austro-Hungarian empire addressed last July to Serbia annulled at one blow the effects of a long-sustained effort by violating the pact which bound us to that state, violated the pact, in form, for it omitted to conclude a preliminary agreement with us or even give us notification, and violated it also in substance, for it sought to disturb, to our detriment, the delicate system of territorial possessions and spheres of influence which had been set up in the Balkan peninsula.

"But, more than any particular point, it was the whole spirit of the treaty which was wronged, and even suppressed, for by unloosing in the world a most terrible war, in direct contravention of our interests and sentiments, the balance which the triple alliance should have helped to assure was destroyed, and the problem of Italy's national integrity was virtually and irresistibly revived.

"Nevertheless, for long months the government has patiently striven to find a compromise, with the object of restoring to the agreement the reasonable being which it had lost. These negotiations, were, however, limited not only by time but by our national dignity. Beyond these limits the interests both of our honor and of our country would have been compromised."

Russians May Lose Permysl

Permysl is about to fall before the Austro-German armies under General Mackensen. Crushed by successive defeats, the Russians must either abandon the Galician fortress they captured two months ago or risk the danger of being surrounded and captured. Only the arrival of large bodies of Slav reinforcements, reported hurrying westward through Lemberg, can save the city.

This is the opinion of military critics, following admission by the Russian war office that the enemy had crossed the San in large force. The only reassuring note was the announcement that "we still retain both banks of the river between Jaroslau and Permysl."

Semi-official advices confirmed the report that the Austro-German enveloping movement is sweeping forward, having driven back the Russians at Sieniawa, ten miles north of Jaroslau.

Mackensen's left wing is moving down the right bank of the San to attack Permysl in the rear. In front of the fortress, the bombardment by Austrian siege howitzers continues, Petrograd reports.

Russians Hold Jaroslau

The fortress of Jaroslau, twenty miles north of Permysl, still remains in the hands of the Russians, according to best information available. The Austrian claim that Jaroslau has been stormed and captured by the Germans is not generally credited. It is believed the Germans hold only the bridgehead on the opposite side of the river.

To offset the admitted defeat in the Jaroslau district, the Russian war office announced successes in southeastern Poland.

"An intense battle continues in the region of Opatow," says the official statement. "We have defeated considerable columns of the enemy, pursuing them beyond Ivaniska.

"Along the entire Galician front fighting continues."

Fighting Suspended In West

Heavy rains have filled with water the trenches in northern France and have caused severe suffering among the soldiers. Hundreds crippled by rheumatism have been sent to the rear.

The rains continue without any indication of ceasing. The lull in the fighting due to the storm is unbroken.

Kuepferle Hangs Himself

The trial of C. A. Kuepferle, who claimed to be an American who once lived in Brooklyn, which promised to be as celebrated as a spy case as the arraignment, condemnation and execution in the Tower of London of Carl Lody, came to a dramatic end with the announcement in court that the defendant had committed suicide in his cell in Brixton jail by hanging.

It was charged, among other things, that he conveyed to Germany, by means of invisible ink, information as to the location and movements of the British fleet.

Before hanging himself Kuepferle admitted his guilt in a message written on a slate, found in his cell. He admitted that he was a German soldier and that he had had a fair trial, but that what he had done was for his country.

A Prisoner In Cuba

By MARTHA V. MONROE

Frank Dorrance was a private in an infantry regiment in the Spanish war. One day while he was on picket duty the sun was hot, the insects were buzzing about him, and there was absolutely nothing to interest him. He sat down on a stone. The hills, the blue sky with a fleecy cloud floating over it, a meadow directly before him, all became jumbled together.

The next thing Frank knew a Spaniard was kneeling over him holding a knife within an inch of his throat. As soon as his eyes were opened, for he had been asleep, the Spaniard, who had possessed himself of the American's muske made signs to him to get up. Wh he had obeyed the order his capto pointed down the hillside. The pickets were badly posted, and Frank's supports did not see him till he had gone some distance. It then took them some time longer to consider what their comrade was doing walking down the hill followed by a man, but supposed he was going down to the brook for a drink of water. By the time they understood that Frank was being marched away a prisoner his captor was directly between them and him, and they could not put a bullet into one without endangering the other. Then captive and captor disappeared in a wood.

Frank Dorrance was taken to a little village near by and lodged in a low building, or, rather, outhouse. It was not fitted for a jail, but a guard was posted about it, and Frank would be shot if he attempted to escape.

Frank was a handsome fellow, the very opposite of a Spaniard. His hair was very light and his eyes very blue.

The house in which he was confined was directly back of a little store where pins, needles, thread, cakes, candy and fruit were sold. The day after his capture, looking out through a window, he saw a Cuban girl at a desk in the back of the store evidently working on accounts. Presently she looked up, and their eyes met.

A handsome boy of nineteen, looking into the eyes of a pretty girl of fifteen at any time is liable to kindle a spark. This girl leoked away, but not for long.

She was the only daughter of a man who was fighting for Cuba against the Spaniards. She and her mother attended to the store, supporting a family of small children. One day their neighbors began to crowd the store, making purchases. There were not more than a hundred people in the village, and it seemed that at least a third of these were in constant need of something to be bought at the store. Many of these persons carried home their purchases, but the children of the storekeeper were constantly going out with bundles.

This was noticed by the only Spanish sympathizer in the town, who lived opposite the store, and he wondered how it could be that the sleepy little shop could so suddenly have wakened up. The villagers were no richer, nor was there any evidence that their necessities were any greater than before, and yet they were all buying, some of them many times a day. As for the soldiers, they were all Spaniards and strangers, and, being hated by the people as their enemies, they knew little and cared less what was going on in the town.

Meanwhile there were snatches of lovemaking between Frank Dorrance and the Cuban girl, though there was no means of communication between them. Frank had picked up a few words of Spanish and, having no ink, cut his finger with a knife brought him for meals, and with the blood made an apology for a small message. But the girl made signs for him to desist, evidently fearing that he would be seen by the guard.

One night Frank was awakened by a scratching sound under the floor. Thinking it was caused by rats, he turned over and went to sleep again. But the scratching continued and sounded like an animal burrowing. Frank listened awhile, then got up and put his ear down to the floor. He heard some one digging.

He sat on the side of his bed and tried to think out what it meant.

The floor was old and rotten. Suddenly he began to feel of it and found directly above the sound a board that he could pull up. This he did, and, though the noise he made was slight, the scratching ceased. But it soon began again, and Frank began to scoop up the dirt under the floor where he had removed the board. It was not long before some of the earth gave way and Frank's hand came in contact with another hand much softer and smaller than his own.

"Senor!"

"Senorita!"

It dawned on the soldier that the little Cuban girl had burrowed under the ground to come to him. She had prepared herself with enough English to tell him to crawl through the tunnel she had made for her exit. He put on his clothes and followed her into the store. There one of her mother's dresses was provided for him, and in the morning, clad as a woman, he walked away to freedom. And his liberator went with him.

The purchases that had been made by the villagers consisted of the earth taken from the tunnel. At the instigation of the little Cuban girl they had banded together to help the American soldier who had come to help them throw off the Spanish yoke.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT FOR COL. ROOSEVELT

Finds Against Barnes In Suit For $50,000

(By United Press)

Syracuse, May 22—William Barnes is a "Boss". A jury so decided today in awarding a verdict for Roosevelt in the $50,000 libel suit brought against the former President by Barnes because Roosevelt branded him a boss and linked him politically with crooked business and corruption. The verdict was brought in shortly after 10. A. M. today.

The jury had been deliberating since 3.45 P. M. Tuesday, a period of about 42 hours. The 12 men finally arrived at a unanimous decision after a legal mixup almost unparallelled in the history of New York state. The verdict was a blow to Barnes and a complete surprise to Roosevelt. It was the common belief around the court room that the jury would report its utter failure to agree and be discharged by Justice Andrews.

The first dress rehearsal of the degree team of Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., will be held in Protection hall Monday evening. The team is preparing to exemplify the initiatory degree on a class of candidates at the meeting on June 4. Past Warden Chester Brown is captain of the team.

LADIES NIGHT BIG SUCCESS

Large Number Attend Men's Assembly

At the first ladies night and annual meeting of the Men's Association held in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church Friday evening, the board of officers who have served the organization so well during the past year were unanimously re-elected:

President—Charles W. Bailey.
Vice President—J. Arthur Sparrow.
Secretary—Arthur H. Axberg.
Treasurer—Eben Hardy.

At 6.30 over 200 members and guests sat down to a fine supper, prepared by the ladies, which began with lobster salad and ended with strawberry shortcake. Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor, asked the blessing and during the meal all joined in several rousing choruses.

President Bailey presided over a brief business meeting at which the reports of the secretary and treasurer were given. Walter G. Thomas brought in the report of the nominating committee. President Bailey, who is rapidly developing into a humorist had several bright remarks about the stay-at-home-men and the attractiveness of the ladies.

The speaker of the evening was Alfred E. Bailey, a noted educator and traveler, brother of the president, who gave a most interesting account of travel in remote portions of India, under the title "Backwoods India." The lecture was accompanied by stereopticon views taken by the speaker.

Organ selections by Mrs. George K. Drew and vocal solos by Miss Ruth Hardy added to the evening's enjoyment. Among the numbers of the latter were "The Nightingale," "Too wet to woo," "The month of June," and "Perfect day."

Mr. Bailey's lecture opened with a topographical description of the country and a recounting of brief bits of its history. The first trip taken was to Cashmere, in the extreme North, a very difficult country to invade.

Not only is the country unsafe through the depredations of brigands and fierce tribesmen but the uneven surface makes travel burdensome. A portion of the trip was made on a house boat and a description of the primitive native methods of cookery and housekeeping was most illuminating.

Views of temples and other architecture held charm. One temple was almost covered with tin from Standard Oil cans. Native inuustries such as wood carving, the manufacture of shawls and rugs and the raising of silk were described.

A trip to the extreme South, on the island of Ceylon showed most abundant tropical scenery. Here were palms, giant ferns, bamboo and banyan trees in tropical luxuriance. The scenery was magnificent and the beautiful views scarce needed the description of the lecturer.

Customs and native modes of life and travel came in for their share of attention and one went away feeling that a comprehensive idea of India and its people had been gained.

DRILL FEATURES DANCING PARTY

Teams of Eagles and I. C. of A. Participate

Exhibition drills by the uniform degree teams of John Adams aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and the I. C. of A. provoked an unusual patriotic demonstration at the dancing party of the latter in Alpha hall Friday evening.

The demonstration came at the close of the exhibitions when both degree teams saluted the flag and sang the Star Spangled Banner. More than 500 men, women and children who were present joined in singing the chorus of the national anthem and heartily cheered.

The exhibitions were the snappiest seen in the city in years. The Eagles appeared in their military uniforms with George Mitchell, conductor, and the I. C. of A. wore for the first time, their regalia which consists of a Vassar College cap and gown of blue and white. The latter team, the second organized in the state, was coached by Conductor Mitchell. Remi Langelier presided at the piano during the exhibitions.

Four six year old girls, dressed in white and wearing sashes of blue, inscribed with the words "Liberty, Truth Justice and Equality," acted as stations for the Eagles. They were Isabella May Putnam, daughter of Mrs. I. Z. Putnam; Grace McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald; Viola McArthur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus McArthur and Marguerita Mellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Mellen.

Four members of the Eagles' staff were stations for the I. C. of A. team.

During the drill the teams formed the letters of their orgainzation and closed with the participants singing the "Star Spangled Banner" as they circled around the flag, each with one knee touching the floor.

Mrs. Mary M. Ford, conducted the drill of the I. C. of A. and was presented with a basket of roses from the members. Mrs. Belle Stronach made the presentation.

The dancing during the evening was in charge of the members of the team headed by Mrs. Ford as floor directress and Miss M. Belle Stronach. Y. P. R. U. GIVE SUPPER TO FIRST PARISH CHURCH

Large Number Enjoy Banquet And Speeches

A unique entertainment was given by the Young People's Religious Union of the First Parish church Friday evening, in the chapel of the church. Not only was the affair largely attended but it proved to be a most enjoyable evening for all. The entertainment took the form of a special parish supper, which was carried out along the lines of the monthly dinners of the First Parish club, only on this occasion the young women acted as waiters instead of the young men.

Those who held tickets for the evening's affair gathered in the social room down stairs at 6 o'clock and at 6.30 seats were taken at the long tables which had been attractively arranged in the chapel. On the platform was the head table at which were seated those who were to entertain later in the evening.

The decorations were very prettily arranged and consisted of baskets of flowers placed on each table, including the head table. On the front of the head table lilacs and wisteria was also draped in a tasteful manner and added to the attractiveness.

The menu included cold ham and tongue, orange salad, potatoes, macaroni, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake There was an abundance of food and the young women who acted as waitresses were most solicitous in their attention, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the dinner.

The dinner over there was a brief full in the festivities during which conversation became general. The entertainment program opened with a group of songs by Miss Catherine Saville, following which Miss Beatrice Morrison, president of the Young People's society, briefly welcomed the guests and referring to Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson as the best friend of the society, introduced him as toast master of the evening. Miss Morrison said:

"In behalf of the Young People's Union we welcome you most cordially to this, our initial appearance in parish suppers, realizing as we all do, how much we have to live up to, after the splendid reputation our church has always had in this respect. At this time, also we wish to thank the Parish for the interest they have always taken in our Union and for the financial suport they have given us when before we have wished to make money. As this attempt is our small share toward beautifying the grounds of this church we all so love, we thank you all most heartily for coming.

"Our best friend, in a new role to us tonight, will be our toastmaster—Mr. Hudson."

Rev. Hudson in accepting the office of toastmaster spoke briefly saying that the real strength of the church was the spirit of loyalty shown, especially by the young people. He had always found the young people most loyal and willing to take hold and do something for the church. He then

ARE THE VETERANS FORGOTTEN?

It has long been remarked that the exercises of the national Memorial day, May 30, do not attract anything like the interest that used to be manifested in them. Twenty years ago prominent citizens all through the Northern states used to attend these functions in large numbers. There was able oratory and the enthusiasm of a big crowd. It is a matter of keen regret to the remnant of veterans left today, that it is so difficult to get half as good a turn-out.

Various expedients have been tried to make these observances more popular. They have been held Sundays and in the evening, instead of on the holiday. Some such change may draw a crowd for once. But the American people are eager for a holiday. They flock to the ball grounds and the automobile road. The eloquence of patriotic speakers resounds in more or less empty halls.

All which leaves in the mind of the Civil war veteran the feeling that he is merely a forgotten relic of a day that has gone by. While he has been trying to keep alive the memories of the heroism of the war, the world current seems to have slipped by and left him stranded in a forgotten past.

Of course it would be better if the American people would give a more respectful attention to serious observances. Still one must take them as they are. They may leave the veterans alone with their memories at the burial ground. But that the old soldiers are not forgotten is suggested by the fact that this country has always maintained a pension system of a generosity that has been unheard of in other lands.

You can get out a hundred people to agitate for some future benefit, where you could not get ten to celebrate an event of history. That is our American temperament. It is irreverent to the past. But it is a part of the restless energy of our land, always forging ahead giving perhaps too little thought to the deeds and struggles of the past.

AFTER SCHOOL EDUCATION.

Graduates from school and college have always said a good deal about continuing education after they go to work. As a matter of fact few of them do so. They settle into habits of desultry reading, largely of magazines and novels.

The recent growth of summer schools and home courses of university education however is encouraging a vast number of young people to keep at it. Columbia University in announcing its summer schools for 1915, notes that last year 5590 students took these extra courses. And that is only one institution among scores that are doing this work.

Most active young people who have as yet no family ought to expect to take some additional courses of study after their regular education has been completed. Such work can always be done at home by correspondence. It would usually be so different from their daily tasks that it would be no added mental strain. It is simply a question whether they wish to give up time for amusements and sports for the broader equipment.

CARRYING CANES

One of the freaks of fashion that seems particularly amusing to the philosopher, is the new feminine fad for carrying canes. Reports from women's college towns say it has become a craze.

In most cases the fashions lead people to adopt things suggesting youth and agility. Canes on the other hand are the insignia of age and feebleness. They suggest rheumatism, lame backs, crippled feet or legs, and are inappropriate to youth.

It is true that many young men have always carried canes. Yet the habit on the masculine side seems declining. Formerly almost every man had his walking stick. They were so common that they furnished the principal means of chastising the bad boy, which was commonly referred to as "caning". In most homes today other implements have to be collected for this necessary purpose.

However, woman has a way of making the illogical seem attractive and charming.

Prof. Taft urges that the United States should adopt the budget system of spending his money, thus introducing a little business efficiency. This is a good idea even if it is not new.

The Liberty Bell is in such demand that we might adopt a European plan and provide duplicates. How many places contain the bones of Columbus?

See America on your vacation this year—it is worth seeing.

Early swimmers are doing a poor job of warming up the lake.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Make Careless Pay.

A state law in Pennsylvania may improve the situation there a bit as regards fires. The lawmakers in their wisdom have decided that if a property owner fails to obey the rules laid out for him by the firemen of the State, and if a fire breaks out in his place, he is to be assessed the expense undergone in putting that fire out. This hits the careless or worse in the pocket nerve, and there is likely to be a quick response to anything that lands heavily in that section. There is logic in such a law, and a heap of common sense. Some people leave inflammable materials where their common sense teaches them they should not be left; they permit piles of paper and light wood to lie in cellars not far from furnaces; they are reckless in their use of kerosene and gasolene; they leave kerosene lamps burning when little children are playing around the tables, and they take long chances every day hoping to get away with it. When they don't succeed, and the fire department has a job in consequence, it is no more than fair to the rest of the public to have the bill sent to the fellow who caused all the commotion by his carelessness. —Brockton Enterprise.

Protect Birds and Game.

A new law that goes into effect June 10 makes it unlawful for a foreign born unnaturalized resident, who does not own at lease $500 worth of real estate, to own, carry or have control of a shot gun or rifle, or to capture or kill any wild animal or bird whatsoever except in self defense.

The law gives the game commissioners, their deputies, game wardens, members of district police, and all other officers qualified to serve criminal processes the right, and imposes it as a duty, that they shall arrest without a warrant any such person with a shot gun or rifle in his possession or on his premises.

The law aims to protect the birds and small game which, without such protection, would soon disappear because of depredations of certain classes of foreigners who kill every edible bird or animal found in our fields or woods. Protect the song birds especially, and above all else the quail. —Mansfield News.

Everybody Save.

Every person in the United States ten years old or over may open an account in a postal savings bank after July 1 according to anouncement just made by the Postmaster General. Thus persons living in communities so sparsely settled as not to justify the designation of their local postoffices or regular postal savings banks, may open accounts by mail. Appeals from all parts of the country have come to do this and it has finally been decided upon. During the eight months prior to April 1 there was a net gain in deposits of $19,000,000 as against a gain of $8,000,000 for the same months the previous year.—Foxboro Reporter.

JAS. WHITING WRITES MAYOR

Mayor Campbells prediction at a recent meting of the Montclair Parent and Teachers association that it is possible there will be an increase in the water rates has called forth this letter to the Mayor from James S. Whiting:

I resepctfully offer for your consideration in regard to the revision of the water rates, the following suggestions:

The rescinding of the whole of the present rate schedule.

And that hereafter the minimum rate for water shall be $9.00 per annum for 4500 cu. ft. of 33750 gallons; except that with only one fixture, the minimum rate shall be $5.00 for 2500 cu. ft. of 18750 gallons.

All water consumed in excess of the respective amounts allowed for minimum fees, shall be charged at the rate of 20c per 100 cu. ft. up to 10,000 cu. ft.; all in excess of 10,000 cu. ft. and not exceeding 15,000 cu. ft. at the rate of 18c per 100 cu. ft. All in excess of 15,000 cu. ft. shall be 15c per 100 cu. ft.

In revising the water rates I believe that the small householder,— the owner of the five to seven room cottage, is deserving of more consideration than the well-to-do manufacturer In this city the small real estate owner is taxed on 100 per cent value of his property. I do not know of any reason why he should be continually having the burden of taxes and water rates thrown on to his shoulders while the city allows great corporations like the Fore River Co., to escape with minimum water rates and low valuations.

Other cities, like Brickton, Melrose and Malden, do everything to encourage individual property owners. Their water rates are made to favor the poor man, the laboring man and the small property owner; Quincy takes the opposite course and throws the burden of high rates on the individual and gives the Fore River and factories, rates below the cost of delivery. It has unquestionably been a costly experiment for Quincy and has undoubtedly been a large factor in her financial downfall. The commissioner of public works informs me that from January 1, 1906 to July 1, 1914, a period of eight years and six months, the oFre River Co., was charged with 587,696,000 gollons (78,359,466 cu. ft.) of water for which the city collected $49,673. If this water had been sold upon the Melrose basis of 15c per 100 cu. ft. to wholesale consumers, Quincy would have received $117,539, a gain of $67,866 over the Quincy tariff. On the other hand, Melrose offsets this seming high factory rate by charging house holders having over one fixture, a minimum water rate of $9 per annum for 4,500 cu. ft. In that city the factory assumes its due share of the water maintainence, in our city it is thrown on to the poor man.

I respectfully ask you to consider this phase of the water rate situation in your revision of the tariff.

The work by the officers of all the lodges was exceptionally well done and the grand lecturer had but little to criticise. At the conclusion of the work he addressed the brethren briefly thanking them for their attendance and complimenting the officers for their almost perfect rendition of the ritual.

Wor. Gardner R. P. Barker also spoke briefly, thanking Rural lodge for the courtesy in extending the use of its apartments, also the brothers for their attendance.

Now that "clean-up-week" has passed along with "house-cleaning-week" Wollastonites are preparing for "launch-your-boat-week." It is expected with the increasing popularity of boating that this season will see many new craft in the water. Many of the old boats have had extensive over-hauling done on them and look in fine shape. "A boat in the water is worth half a dozen on shore!"

TO WORK FOR PIPE ORGAN

The Young People's society of the Swedish Congregational church met at the church Friday evening and pledged themselves to work for the new pipe organ which it is desired to purchase. In order to further the movement of raising funds, it was voted to hold a contest. The committee appointed to take charge of this contest were Paul Palmgren, Carl Leander, Ruth Eckstrand, Olga Johnson and Hazel Johnson.

The society also voted to donate the sum of $35 toward the new hymn books if the society decides to purchase them.

OFFICER GETS $100 REWARD

T. Jfl Williams, Jeweler, is exhibiting in his show window a check for $100, which The Jewelers' Security alliance is paying to Officer Doran for the arrest and conviction of Servi Allio.

On the night of January 3rd Allio broke a window at Mr. Williams' store, and when he raised it to get into the store, he set off an alarm connected with a livery stable in the rear. The men there took it for granted that Mr. Williams was at the store and had notified their office, so paid no attention to the alarm. Fortunately Officer Doran soon came along, saw the broken window, and when he looked in could make out Allio's head, so he drew his revolver and ordered the burglar to come out.

The latter had about $200 worth of jewelry in his pockets, $400 worth more packed in a box ready to take away, and had not finished cleaning out the show cases. Allio was armed with a revolver and had already served time. He was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction for carrying a revolver and a year for breaking and entering.

DR. MIDDLETON LEAVES PANAMA

The Panama Star and Herald of Panama of recent issue contains an item of news of especial interest to Quincy people. It relates to Dr. and Mrs. Willis P. Middleton, formerly of this city. Dr. Middleton is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Willis J. Middleton of Quincy Point and his wife was Miss Ruth Merrill of Amesbury, daughter of Rev and Mr. Merrill, formerly of North Weymouth. The item reads.

"Dr. W. P. Middleton, chief of the surgical clinic in Colon hospital until his resignation on April 23, left for the States Saturday.

"Dr. Middleton was born in Waverley, Mass., took his academic coursein Adams Academy at Quincy, and his collegiate and medical courses at Tufts College. He had surgical service at Mount Sinai and St. Elizabeth hospitals in Boston before joining Dr. Herrick in his surgical work in Ancon hospital, whence he took over the surgical clinic in Colon hospital last year after the reorganization of the Health Department of the Panama Canal.

"Dr. Middleton graduated at Tufts "cum laudi," and is recognized as a surgeon and physician of ability. He was very popular with his patients here, while he and Mrs. Middleton were active and highly esteemed in the social life of the Isthmus.

"He goes to take some special clinics in the States and to rest up in the Maine woods, after which he means to settle down to practice his profession at Barranquilla, Colombia, with which place he became enamored during a recent vacation spent there. He is a young man who has faith in the countries adjacent to the canal, and he told a Star and Herald reporter that he meant to go there to stay and to devote himself both to private practice and to encourage the cause of sanitary progress." He leaves many warm friends here, who hope that he will drop in on them occasionally from his chosen city in our neighboring republic."

Mrs. Middleton's sister, Miss Maude Merrill, married Dr. Alfred W. Brown, well known here, who is at present medical supervisor of the Public Athletic league of Baltimore. Dr. and Mrs. Middleton visited them for three weeks and left for Philadelphia Monday. Dr. Middleton attended surgical clinics in Baltimore and will also visit hospitals in Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

BATTLE ROYAL IN HENHOUSE

Lawrence Curtin of 312 Hancock street gave battle to a man discovered in his hen house just before midnight and after administering a severe beating left to summon Patrolman Thorne. They returned to find the man among the missing.

During a search of the vicinity they found a man carrying a burlap bag who was badly cut about the face. When arrested he said he was Otto Patterson, 34, of Richmond street. Curtin's attention was drawn to his hen house by a disturbance there. He lost no time in finding the cause and discovered the man just inside the door. Without asking any questions he pitched into him. Patterson was treated by Dr. Bartlett at police headquarters.

In court this morning Patterson was arraigned on a chagre of drunkenness. He was esnt to the state farm. When arraigned he looked like a man from the European trenches, all of his head being practically swathed in bandages. Appilcation was made this morning for a warrant for breaking and entering but was not issued.

CABINET IS DECIDED ON

(By United Press)

London, May 22—The new coalition cabinet that is to unite all parties in England in furtherance of the war is virtually completed, following conferences with a number of leaders Premier Asquith went to the Buckingham Palace today. It was reported that he submitted a tenative list of ministers to King George. The newspapers today devoted columns to speculation concerning its makeup.

They agreed that Lloyd George is to be retained and that Bonar Law, unionist leader and Arthur Henderson, labor leader, are to be given portfolios. Newspapers announced positively that Lord Landsdowne will reenter the cabinet. A marked division of opinion holds whether or not Kitchener and Churchill are to be retained.

FIRST PARISH

introduced as the first speaker of the evening Frederick Mitchell Atwood, who responded to the toast "Our Loyal Young Men."

Mr. Atwood said that he deemed it a pleasure to be the first after dinner speaker before a such a large gathering as this and under such circumstances. "Before I speak of the loyal young men I want to thank you for your generous support. There were 160 tickets sold thus giving the Young People's Religious Union the privilege of starting the fund for the improvements of our church grounds with a donation of about $50.

"The fact that the young men are loyal is manifested in many ways. What young man could not be loyal to a church that had such a man at its head as Mr. Hudson. In him the young men have a constant inspiration who is always holding us up to the highest and truest ideals. We young men are doing our best to reach his anticipations."

Miss Marie Bass responded to the toast "Our Faithful Young Women." She said that she thought she was to speak on "Our Young Women," which would have been easy, but the subject she had was a difficult one because all of the young women had been faithful. It would take her a long time, she declared, to point out wherein they had proved faithful for the occasions were many. She then spoke of various young women individually, not naming them, but speaking so clearly and eloquently of what the work of each had been that her auditors were quite aware who was meant.

Miss Ella Packard responded to the toast "The Little Folks".

Miss Ella Packard said:

"Perhaps the toast to which I have the privilege of responding is one of the rarest and one of the most difficult to be given this evening. It is a rare occasion, that causes us publicly to toast the children, the littlest folks, who unconsciously represent to us the coming generation of this old church. It is difficult to express the emotion that we feel when we remember that these little boys and girls are like those of whom Christ said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me, forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven.' Why? Because the innocent heart of a child is the holiest of our earthly privileges. Charles Dickens has written that their smiles are halos of Heaven shedding the sunshine of joy. Not only smiles, can we say, but their very expression of responsive love, is enough to make us realize why Jesus could liken the kingdom of God to a child.

"Have you ever been the central figure of a group of active, even wriggling children, and tried, by example and gentle persuasion, to teach them to be quiet and respectful? You have then recognized the responsibility that rests on you to guide these little folks on their first years through life. Have you ever been the magnet to attract with your personality in presenting games or stories sometimes 30, 40 or even 100 electrically alive little folks? Then you must have thrilled with the admiring, responsive attitude of your little audience. It would not bother you in the least and would perhaps delight you, if, after some story, and this actually happened to me the other night, some little chap would say 'Hope you'll tell 'em again. 'Twas most as good as the movies.' Have you ever, when tired and doubtful whether you are doing your appointed work on earth as well as the next fellow could do it, been cheered by a flower picked specially for you, by a tiny tot, or by an impetuous, sincere caress from one of the little folk.

There is no quality in character more powerful in its appeal than sincerity and the little child is always sincere, until fear and neglect have changed him for the worse.

"Under the trees of Commonwealth avenue can be seen on any fine day, many children guarded by their nurses. Where are the mothers? Do they not want the love of their children that they prefer to have them be amused by nurses? Let us love them as they deserve to be loved, let us guide them as best we can, and let us be taught of them that we may, too, enter the Kingdom of Heaven."

George E. Pfaffmann, president of the First Parish club, responded to the toast, "The First Parish club."

Mr. Pfaffmann said:

"When His Eminence informed me that I was the victim selected to respond for the First Parish club, he stipulated that I should cut my remarks short. I present this stipulation, Exhibit A as further evidence of his close personal knowledge of his parishioners and their mental attainments. In my case the stipulation was entirely superfluous, as cutting a speech short is the very best thing I do and at the present moment I am painfully aware of the proximity of the finish.

"After sitting up several nights with this speech, it is my solemn opinion that facility of expression is a gift presented by nature to men named Hudson. Even nature has its limitations and the name of Pfaffmann was thrown into the discard. You are all aware of the graceful manner in which our toastmaster presides at meetings of every description, and you will realize the loss to the First Parish club, and the hopelessness of finding a successor to fill his shoes as president. It remains for me to rattle around in them as the most available candidates declined to risk their reputations as presiding officers after the brilliant performance of the first incumbent. Having no reputation to maintain in this respect, I beat the angels to it.

"I will not describe the activities of the club with which you are all familiar, but I may state this parish is the gainer on the material side by a first class cooking plant and a ventilating system that you will notice is working perfectly this evening.

"In past years we have seen various organizations for the promotion of civic betterment spring into life, Village Improvement societies, and Citizens associations and after a short existence of more or less activity exkeep them going. The impelling force keep them going. The impelling foce behind the First Parish club is its founder and so long as he retains his hold on the helm the club will continue its useful career and be a going concern. If you ask if this speech is a eulogy of the founder of the club or the club itself, I beg to state that it is intended to be both."

Mrs. A Isabelle Davis was to have responded to the toast "The Women's Societies." The toastmaster however announced that owing to unforseen circumstances Mrs. Davis was unable to be present. However, said Mr. Hudson, this is one of the societies of which little need be said for their work speaks for itself.

Miss Minnie Packard responded to the toast "Our Growing Sunday School."

Miss Minnie Packard, in speaking to the toast "Our Growing Sunday school said: "Behold our full grown tree. Has it grown rapidly? The little seed which started our big Sunday school tree is unknown to me. But there must have surely been a strong foundation, or how could we account for such a sturdy product in 1915. Let us call the main trunk our beloced minister and parish, because you all realize the hardest trees need the support of their straight sturdy trunks. The wonderful flowers of boys and girls adorning the branches complete teh picture. Out of 150 blossoms this year, many have been perfect in attendance and splendor, every Sunday always ready to help in the singing and the responses."

The last toast of the evening was that of Rupert F. Claflin, "The First Parish of 1820."

Mr. Claflin said:

"Mr. Toastmaster: It affords me infinite pleasure to be present on this occasion and partake in these proceedings. I had intended to give you a very careful account of the proceedings of this parish since its initiation 275 years ago. I was going to give you each year in detail what transpired, but unfortunately I was limited in time by the pastor so that I did not prepare the documents. They would have been exceedingly interesting to the elders and the children, I know, would have been delighted in hearing the statistics of the last 275 years in our church affairs.

"It is a little hard to determine what the next five years may accomplish for the First Parish, so that letting our fancies run a bit in the premises, I would say that it is among the human possibilities that within the next five years we may inaugurate a system of telephone connections with the church, which undoubtedly would afford some comfort and satisfaction to some who find it a little difficult perhaps in getting up as early as half-past ten Sunday morning and also enable the pastor, if he had a dictaphone, to prepare his sermon at his leisure and Sunday morning simply turn on the crank and dispense his wisdom to the various households.

"Also the church music could in the same way be transmitted by the same process, and would give us much better opportunity for free criticism than we could possibly have in the church itself. In the matter of the small collection that is taken up Sundays, it might be a little difficult to arrange that, but it is among the human possibilities that we could send in our contributions by mail, or drop them in a convenient pneumatic tube and shove them into the church. However, that may or may not happen. It is also perhaps on the cards that within the next five years we shall have some moving pictures exhibited in the church, as I understand has been done in some places, and those who happen to attend Sunday should find a pleasant variation in the services by the introduction of

SECOND TEAM TAKES ANOTHER

Q. H. S. Boys Easily Beat Holbrook

The High school second team added another scalp to its belt yesterday when it won from Holbrook by the score of 13 to 3.

Quincy	0	1	4	1	2	2	3	13	8	2

GRANITE NEWS

It will be of interest to the quarryworkers of this city to know that the quarryworkers of Cape Cod are using all their influence to have the work on the new Boston dry dock started at once. With the number of quarryworkers who are cutting paving owing to the fact that they cannot secure work at their trade this is some encouragement as many plan to go to the Cape when this work is started.

Several foundations are ready in Mount Wollaston and St. Mary's Cemeteries and the monuments will be erected possibly this week. The local manufacturers leave the local work till the last minute on account of the early closing of the Boston cemeteries.

A large amount of paving is leaving the city in the large four horse drays of the J. R. Lombard Company. Several thousand a day are being sent off.

Ten days remain before the holiday and they will be busy days for the local retailers who have work to set up. Horses and teams are at a premium in Quincy today and it is almost impossible to secure them. All the available trucks are in service and with all the hustle and bustle there will be many disappointed customers who will go to the cemetery Memorial Day and when they look at the lot will regret that they had not ordered the memorial a little sooner.

The Granite Railway ever solicitous to do work in the quickest and most beneficial way both to human and animal life has spent considerable money constructing a new road from the yard where the stone comes down from the quarry to the West Quincy depot, thus cutting off the long haul around by the Gridley Bryant school. This will be appreciated by the teamsters in the winter when the teams have often sunk to the hubs on the old road.

We are pleased to see that our enterprising quarryman, J. S. Swingle, will exhibit at the Denver convention of the N. R. M. D. Association. It would be too bad if Quincy with its hundreds of manufacturers and fine quality of granite should not be among the exhibitors. We hope that Mr. Swingle will be rewarded for his efforts to keep Quincy Granite before the trade by receiving a large number of new customers.

Patrick Mannex the West Quincy quarry owner has joined the army of auto fans, and can be seen on the boulevard every evening in his new car.

THALIA CLUB GIVES SHOW

The Thalia club of the Quincy High school gave a vaudeville show in the school hall Friday afternoon to which only girls could gain admittance. There was a long and varied program. The first number was a Japanese chorus which sang Japanese songs. The girls were: Margaret Atwood, Dorothy Stevens, Ethel Vaughn, Margaret Park, Elizabeth Sayward and Mary Casey.

The next number was a piano solo by Olga Verzarri. A clever sketch entitled "The Sane Man" was given by Lidia Keyes and Mildred Burke. The hit of the performance was an exhibition of modern dancing by Dorothy Stevens and Louise Churchill, Miss Churchill wearing a man's full dress suit. They danced the Castle-Polka.

A sketch, "A Strange Relation," in which the parts were taken by Anna Campbell and Mary Shine went well. Marion Hardy, accompanied by Margaret Hogan rendered a pleasing selection on the violin.

The closing chorus, consisted of six girls, three of the girls were dressed as boys. The girls who took the boys parts were Helen Day, Florence Crowell and Pauline Brogan. The girls were Beatrice Rogers, Hazel Livingston and Elizabeth Reed.

After the performance a reunion was held by the club members in honor of the members who graduated last year, who were the invited guests. Light refreshments were served.

FIRST PARISH

the screen of a few scenes from Nantasket beach and other shores, the pleasure therefrom being greatly enhanced if some of the worthy young people should take a coach in the middle of the week and go to the beach and disport themselves in the briny there and have a reproduction on the following Sunday at the church. However, that may or may not happen. It may be this is simply the possibility in the case and perhaps not within a range of probability.

"I would say that as our pastor seems continually to gain in popularity with his people and as he is very frank in his expression of things concerning the conduct of his parishioners, I am very frank to say that I have drawn a great deal of pleasure from an appreciation of his acumen in noting their many foibles, and I have felt that my neighbors and friends generally seem to bear up very well indeed. I appreciated the fact that there were only a very few of us who really did not come under his censure for shortcomings, but, still, that few might really be put down as a very insignificant minority of his attendants.

"The progress of Unitarianism has certainly been very great in all Protestant churches in the last few years and it would seem not unlikely that five years distant the grand body of Protestant churches would in practical affairs be regarded as on the basis of Unitarian faith.

"The Sunday school has been doing excellently well under its very skillful leadership, and while five years hence may see some changes in the teaching force, owing to the possibility of matrimony and alimony, still I have not any doubt it will be prosperous and a credit to the First Parish.

"The club of which Mr. Pfaffmann has spoken seems to be firmly established in our midst, and supplies a long-felt want, and I have no doubt but what the club and the other agencies or auxiliaries of the church will result in strengthening the intellectual and moral fibre of the congregation of today.

"I thank you very much for allowing me the opportunity of hearing myself talk so long. It is rather a rare privilege, but one that I enjoy very much."

Miss Beatrice Morrison was in general charge and the committees assisting were as follows:

Decorations, Miss Ethel Hersey.

Soliciting, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, Miss Catherine Saville, Miss Margaret Atwood, Miss Dorothy Edwards, Miss Dorothy Packard.

Tickets, Frederick M. Atwood.

Miss Dorothy Edwards had charge of the waitresses who were as follows: Misses Ruth Whiton, Josephine Smith, Laurice Penniman, Grace Miller, Marion Edwards, Margaret Atwood, Marjorie Penniman, Elizabeth Atwood, Edith Bixby, Dorothy Packard and Constance Fryer.

The young men waiters were Kenneth Edwards, Bruce Saville, Willard Crocker, Peveral Warriner, Edmund Whittemore, Rogers Burgin, Raymond Smith, Stanhope Ring, Lowell Reed, Albert Parker, William Edwards, Karl Pfaffmann, Osborne Rogers.

A class of more than 200 boys and girls of St. John's parish received first communion at St. John's church this morning. The mass at seven o'clock was celebrated by Fr. Michael J. Owens, pastor.

The class was prepared by Fr. John J. Casey and Fr. Walter A. Quinlan, priests of the parish. They were assisted by the Sisters of St. Joseph.

FOUND NOT GUILTY.

Robert E. Souden of the Adams building, charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale, was discharged by Judge Avery this morning. The principal witness was Mrs. Nettie Lennon, whose complaint to Mayor Campbell and then to the police resulted in the charge being preferred. She testified she purchased liquor frequently but only mentioned Jan. 2 and Feb. 14 as the dates. Other witnesses were Thomas Bowen, her brother, William Dewhurst, and Joseph Stewart, her son.

During her testimony she charged a man in the court room with having assaulted her in the corridor of the building. Atty. J. J. McAnarney represented the defendant.

EMPEROR SAYS ITALY IS VULTURE

(By United Press.)

Vienna, May 24—Emperor Franz Josef today issued a manifesto declaring Italy's declaration of war on Austria "The greatest act of perfidy the world has ever known." He called the Austrian armies to victory over "the treacherous army of the south." The emperor was stricken on news that Italy had actually mobilized and was enraged when shown a declaration. He called in his secreteries and advisers and personally supervised the drafting of the imperial manifesto. He wanted Italy held up to the scorn of the world, he said, "as that vulture that hovered over the Eurpoean battlefields for sheer greed."

19th ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock marked the beginning of the nineteenth annual commencement of the Quincy Mansion school, Wollaston Park. Rev. O. P. Gifford,, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist Church, Brookline, delivered the sermon before the graduating class. The exercises opened with singing "The King of glory standeth" Miss Newhall at the piano. After the reading of parts of 12th chapter of St. John and 14th chapter of St. Mark prayer was offered by Rev. George Mervyn Bailey of the Wollaston Methodist Church, and singing of "All glory laud and honor" followed.

Dr. Gifford took for his text part of the 8th verse of the 14th chapter of St. Mark, "She hath done what she could:" "Why was this waste of precious ointment made?" he queried "It might have been sold for more than three hundred pence and given to the poor, the finance man said, and then they all took up the murmer, Jesus said 'Let her alone, she hath wrought a good work on me.' The fragrance of her perfume has come down through the ages, Christ did not like covetousness. What had she done? Seized her opportunity. They succeed who use their opportunity."

Dr. Gifford mentioned names of those who embraced their opportunities. Opportunity comes once to every man and nation and the choice goes by forever. Use your opportunity.

To the class he said: "You are highly favored. Your chance, your youth, the future before you." Of his memory of Dr. Willard he said he was the living embodiment of the principals he wanted to leave with them.

SQUANTUM CLUB HAS GUEST DAY

Women's Clubs Officials of Quincy and Vicinity There

AFFAIR BIG SUCCESS

The first "quest day" held by the Squantum Women's club in the First Church of Squantum Saturday afternoon was a great success. At times it looked as if the rain might interfere with the attendance and keep some away but about seventy-five friends and members of the club enjoyed the afternoon's program.

At three o'clock President Mrs. Hiram A. Morse called order and extended greetings and a hearty welcome to the representatives of other clubs who were the special guests, and to members and friends of the Squantum club. Mrs. Morse then introduced Mrs. Herbert Gurney of Wollaston, vice president of the State Federation.

Mrs. Gurney hardly needed an introduction as she and her work was well known to everybody present. In her usual charming manner Mrs. Gurney gave an interesting outline of the work done by the Federation and few realized the broad field that it covers.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh was next introduced. Mrs. Marsh is president of the Quincy City Federation. She gave an instructive talk on the work carried on in Quincy. Mention was made of the federation's first birthday a short while ago in Adams Academy, of securing a building for a recreation center for young women, the girl's club branch, and of the work at present to secure a waiting room in Quincy center. The many other departments were explained and it was proved to the audience that this club had accomplished much during the past year.

Mrs. S. H. Adams, the first historian of the Squantum club, read a review of the club's work. In a humorous way Mrs. Adams made a very interesting report.

Vice-President Mrs. Stanley Purcell had charge of the entertainment. Madam Bottero, a noted singer of Boston, was to appear but because of illness was unable to come. Songs by Maria Estelle Walker with piano and guitar accompaniments were well rendered: Mrs. Anne Lennan of South Boston read, and little Andrina Steele Kenney of Arlington, a modest miss of seven, and a wonderful elocutionist recited "Who's Afraid," in such a charming manner that she had to respond to an encore and gave "In the Uusual Way." Miss Kenney appeared again on the program and recited "Teddy at the Dancing School"

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served and a social hour followed.

Mrs. John R. Nelson was head usher and had as her assistants Mrs. Francesco Cusumano and Mrs. Joseph Upling. A general committee of club members served and attended to the welfare of those present.

The special guests from other clubs were Mrs. Herbert Gurney, vice president of the Massachusetts Federation; Mrs. George R. Clark, Dorchester, secretary Massachusetts Federation; Mrs. Wilson Marsh, president; Quincy city Federation, Mrs. R. F. Trumper, secretary Quincy city Federation, Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, past president Wollaston Woman's club; Mrs. Edward E. Jameson of the Wollaston Woman's club; Mrs. William F. Cummings, secretary of the Quincy Women's club; Mrs. Spooner, president of the Riverside Women's club; and Mrs. Crane, secretary of the Riverside Women's club.

PRES. WELCOMES DELEGATES.

(By United Press.)

Washington, May 24.—With expressed hope that America may point the way to permanent World Peace by showing a commercially rivalry that does not involve aggression, President Wilson, welcomed the delegates to the Pan-American Financial Congress here today.

WILL DELAY REPLY.

Italy's Entering War Will Keep Kaiser Busy.

JOHN EDWARD NEVINS.

(United Press Correspondent.)

Washington, May 24—Italy's entrance into the European war will delay settlement of the American differences with the Teutonic and Anglo-French allies it was admited at the state department today. Consular Lansing said he did not expect an immediate reply to Pres. Wilson's last note to Germany, the Italian crisis being of so much greater importance to the Kaiser.

The administration has decided to withhold further protest to England and France against interference with American trade with neutral countries until Germany has been heard from. Attempts to smooth out misunderstandings with these two nations are also tied up. Officials are more concerned than they admit but feel the latest developments are unavoidable.

That the American position was rendered more difficult was practically realized with more than half the world at war and with everything promising the entrance of the Balkan states. The American determination to remain absolutely neutral it was pointed out daily grows harder to adhere to.

TAKE HILL OF DEATH.

(By United Press.)

Paris, May 24—An unnamed crest in the Loretta Hills, north of Arras, was designated as the Hill of Death in a statement of the war office today. Three thousand German bodies lay scattered about the slopes of the hill when the French by a bayonet charge which will go down in history captured it after three months attack. The captured crest removes the German menace against Arras, as the hills command the roads around there.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED.

(By United Press.)

Bordentown, N. J.—May 24— Five persons were killed here today when the sand dredge Delaware, owned by the Delaware River Dredging Co., blew up by the explosion of her boilers. Four others miracuously escaped injury.

The dead are Capt. Anthony Matti of Trenton, Engineer James Barley of Bordentown, Mrs. Harry Sout, wife of the dredger's cook of Gloucester and her two children, a boy and girl, age four and two years, respectively.

BAIL IS $15,000.

(By United Press.)

Joseph Schwartz of Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested early today after breaking into the saloon of John Madhus at 342 Broadway, South Boston, and captured after several revolver shots were fired while he was being chased by patrolmen. His record revealed that he has a prison record at Sing Sing and Elmira, N. Y. He was arraigned in court and held in $15,000 bail, pending developments on the case. This is an unusual amount in such cases but it was deemed advisable to make it so large as to be practically probihitive.

Rev. Dr. Isaiah W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church officiated. The burial was at Bath, Me., where the body was taken Sunday. Mrs. Cushman resided in Cambridge for many years but of late has made her home with her daughter. Her death Saturday was due largely to infirmities incident to old age, as she was in her 79th year.

The Saturday Evening Post Boys travelled five weeks undefeated and then it took Coddington's ten innings to do it.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT DECLARES WAR ON ITALY

Orders German Ambassador and Consuls to Leave

(By United Press.)

Berlin, by wireless to London, May 24—Germany has officially declared that "a state of war now exists between this country and Italy." Immediately after the announcement was issued telegraphic instructions were sent to the German ambassador at Rome to leave Italy. Similar messages were sent to the German consular representatives in Italy.

Rome, May 24—With Italy fairly at war with Austria the government today issued a drastic decree forbidding all civil and religious public meetings. The decree also suppressed the government parcels post, instituted a rigid censorship over mails and telegraph and fixed severe penalties for all violation. Gen. Cadorna en route to the front will assume direct charge of operations of the entire army, it was officially announced. Baron Von Macchio, the Austrian ambassador, left Rome early today. The German ambassador, Prince Von Buelow, received instructions from Berlin to leave Rome Immediately. Eighty Austrian and German vessels, in Italian ports, valued at $20,000,000 , were ordered seized.

LIGHT DAY IN DISTRICT COURT

Two tramps, two drunks and a case of violation of the city ordinance were all that required the attention of Judge Avery in the district court this morning. The session lasted but a few minutes. The tramps were dismissed, those charged with drunkenness were given probation and the ordinance case was not heard because the violator got mixed up in dates and did not appear. Saturday and Sunday were not busy days in police circles. There were but four local arrests. Two of the men were released this morning because they had no record.

George B. French was arrested in Wollaston Park, while he slept on the lawn of a dwelling. French was given a month in the house of correction and was placed on probation for a year.

William H. Mulligan, 59 years, pleaded guilty to being drunk and was fined $15. He was given the same probation period.

THREE ACCIDENTS IN THREE DAYS

The first of three accidents to happen within three days to three children who are neighbors and playmates occurred when Ruth Davis, ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis of Rawson road, broke her collar bone. The little girl while playing ball fell in such a way as to cause the fracture.

Wilson Barstow, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Barstow of Rawson road, met with the second accident while also playing ball. The Barstow boy in attempting to catch the ball was struck on the head with such impact as to splinter several of the bones.

The third accident happened on Friday when Dana Kaulback, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kaulback of Freeman street, fell from a hay rack at the Sailor's Home breaking his right arm and left leg.

The three children under medical treatment are getting along nicely.

Miss Eleanor Whittemore also announced that she would be the hostess of a gentlemen's night on June 11 at the Quincy Yacht club house.

POOR WAR GOODS.

A dispatch from a European correspondent reports that much complaint is being made abroad with the quality of war goods imported from this country. It is asserted that on a large order for socks, while the contract called for 70 per cent wool the goods were found to be 70 per cent cotton.

Now stories like these may be greatly magnified by foreign producers, who dislike to see American goods getting a foothold even in war time. But there may be some basis for them. "Tricks in every trade but ours," is a common proverb. Adulterations are common in this country, and sometimes seem necessary to get business.

The war ought to make increased markets for American goods. But if these goods vary from sample or agreement, the new business will never stick.

American manufacturers can't build up permanent trade, at home or abroad, except on honest goods. If inferior material has to be used to complete with rivals, the buyer should be told the fact. He is sure to find it out. If he buys with his eyes open, there is no come-back.

Very different standards prevail in different manufacturing communities, in this matter. In some factories the tradition of strictly first class material is handed on from the boss to the men, from father to son. There is a factory sentiment that inferior material hurts the business in the long run, and for the good of the seller and the workman as well as the buyer, should be rejected. In other places the idea of substituting inferior stock and loose standardization of quality is equally traditional. A temporary success may be reached on the latter basis. But it is impossible to see how it can become continuous and substantial.

WOMEN DRIVEN AUTOMOBILES.

It is being remarked in many places this spring, that a largely increased number of women are driving automobiles. In many cases one sees the woman of the house operating the machine, while the man is the passenger. Cautious persons have sometimes said that women could not be relied on to keep their heads in sudden emergencies. Yet the quick intuition that women are traditionally supposed to possess should be a valuable gift in a mix-up.

The woman driver is a natural outgrowth of an athletic age. The girl who plays lawn tennis and golf, and who bowls or swims, is not going to remain content with jouncing up and down in the back seat of an automobile. She many not know as much about tools as did her mother, who was more apt to have operated at least a sewing machine and could perform handy jobs of repairs about the house. But for that matter the average man is helpless on any job of tinkering. According to tradition women are supposed to be more polite than men. If they live up to their reputation, they will be popular on the road, where courtesy is far from being universal.

There is one thing the city cannot be too forehanded in and that is in establishing street lines o nthe main arteries of the city, to prevent street congestion in the future. With street cars, autos and the jitney, streets of the future must be much broader if they are to serve their purpose and be safe for travel. It is a wise move establishing a street line on School street but there is another street equally needing thought. Franklin street from School to Independence avenue is much too narrow for safety and should be widened both sides to the abutting houses. Already business blocks are being built with prospects of more as business grows that way. The Hibernian building built a few years ago should have been placed 10 to 15 feet further back. Before any more are built or stores erected in the front yards of the present dwellings a street line should be established even if it is not possible to widen the street for several years to come.

There are several other streets much too narrow but Franklin street seems to be the most important as it is a connecting link between Quincy and Braintree and much traveled.

After one has planted bulbs or plants and spent time and energy in bringing them to the stage where their blossoms give pleasure not only to themselves but to neighbors and passersby as well, words are not printable that will describe the feelings of the owner who wakes up some morning to find they have all been stolen in the night. Contemptible thieving.

"Pulmotor Foils Attempt to Die" says a heading in the Ledger Monday. The pulmotor is an achievement of modern science and ingenuity which is proving mighty handy to have round.

A citizen who knows offhand all the different kinds of taxes he pays is something of an expert on Government as well as a mathematician.

It is suggested by the "F. H. C." that Booker Washington be made Governor of Hayti. We are willing, but how about Booker and Hayti?

FORMERLY PASTOR IN LOCAL CHURCH

Rev. Morris H. Turk of Los Angeles has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Westminster Congregational church Kansas City. The past two years Dr. Turk has worked in co-pastorship with Rev. William Horace Day in the First Congregational church, Los Angeles, which has over two thousand communicants. The call of the Kansas City church was so insistent that Dr. Turk decided, not without considerable reluctance to leave the Pacific Coast for the pastorate of Westminster, which is one of the leading Congregational churches of the Middle West. Before going to Los Angeles in 1913 Dr. Turk was, for nine years, pastor of the First Congregational church, Natick and previous to going there he was pastor of the Quincy Point church.

DELAY EXCURSION.

Owing to the fact that the business men who are to make the tour to California to attend the convention of the National Real Estate association at Los Angeles and the California Exposition, desire to be at the exposition at the same time as Gov. Walsh and party, the excursion which was to leave Boston June 10, will probaby be delayed a few days. Mayor Campbell is the chairman of the joint committee of the Massachusetts and the Boston Real Estate Exchanges, under whose auspices the excursion is to be held and he hopes to be able to accompany the party It will probably be June 20 before the excursion leaves Boston. The cost of the trip including every necessary expense is $355.

Financial Review

Were it not for the ravages of the European war, the United States would certainly be experiencing decided business improvement. Home conditions are unquestionably more satisfactory than they have been for many months. Our banking situation is sound, and the operations of the new Federal reserve system are proving a potent factor in rebuilding confidence. Money is easy, and those in good credit have no difficulty in securing all reasonable accommodation.

Industry is improving, and while our mills are not running on full time, except when occupied with war contracts, their output is steadily expanding. Steel mills are daily add to their product, which is now estimated at nearly 80 per cent of capacity. Our railroads are placing orders for equipment rather more freely, and big foreign orders for shrapnel, ordnance, barbed wire, etc., are keeping a number of plants running day and night. Our cotton and woolen mills are also better occupied, although there is still much room for improvement. Fall River cotton mills are renewing dividends after a considerable period of suspension, and some of the New Bedford mills are exceptionally busy. Building operations, though not up to the average, are increasing. Railroad traffic is growing on some roads, but is unsatisfactory on others. Better returns are in prospect, and net figures show occasional gains.

Our crop outlook is naturally indefinite at this time, since planting is still incomplete. A large acreage is anticipated for all important crops, except cotton; good prices seem probable, and the agricultural districts of the West are still reflecting the beneficent effects of last year's rich harvest. Wheat is promising fairly well in spite of damage reports, which are probably exaggerated. This brief review of important factors shows that our home business situation is generally sound and promising.

There is only one influence preventing more positive recuperation, and that is less confidence in an early ending of the war. The outcome of the Lusitania incident is still a matter of suppressed concern. There is every reason to hope for a friendly understanding with Germany; but this problem is still unsettled; and is likely to be a source of uncertainty until adjustment is finally reached. War with Germany is unthinkable. Neither country can seriously injure the other, and every effort should be made to prevent such a catastrophe. Of course, if war did come, it would temporarily unsettle finances and trade on this side of the Atlantic. Our foreign commerce would be still more disturbed than it now is, since exports to Germany would cease entirely. At present we are shipping large quantities of merchandise to Germany via Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden. This trade would of course be stopped in event of hostilities. The financial disturbance would probably be limited to moderate liquidation, and to the effects of new taxation and the large Government loans. All indications, however, point toward a peaceful settlement. For many reasons the United States desires to preserve harmonious relations with Germany. chief of these being our policy of avoiding foreign alliances, and possibility of our being of valuable service as a peace intermediary.

FIGHT AGAINST GYPSY MOTHS

Many have doubtless noticed the little tin boxes that have been nailed to trees along the sides of the streets. These boxes should not be disturbed as they contain a colony of 1,000 immature parasites which will attack the gypsy moths when they colonize. In connection with these boxes the commisioner of public work requests publication of following letter from A. F. Burage who is in charge of the Gypsy Moth laboratory at Melrose Hills.

"Since April 1 one of the egg parasites of the gypsy moth Anastatus Bifasciatusm has been colonized throughout your town. The colonies have for the most part been placed in woodland along the roads, usually about one quarter mile apart. Each colony contains 1,000 immature parasites which are placed in a tin box which is nailed to an infested tree.

"I am writing to advise you in regard to the colonization so that you can notify the men who are working for you and the citizens of your town in regard to the matter.

"This box should not be disturbed until midsummer, otherwise the benefit derived from the colonizing is likely to be lost.

"Trusting that you will use your influence to prevent any of the colonies being disturbed, I am,

Very truly yours,
A. F. Burgess."

Commissioner Brown also advises people owning wild cherry trees to destroy them as they are a source of food supply to the gypsy moth.

HENRY W. EATON.

Henry W. Eaton, formerly of Quincy, died at the Newton Hospital Saturday, aged 60 years. Mr. Eaton was a son of the late Jacob F. and Ann J. (Newcomb) Eaton, former well known Quincy residents, and made his home in Quincy up to within a few years when he removed to Newton. He was engaged in the leather trade in Boston where he was well known. He never married.

He was perhaps best known through his brother, William N. Eaton, who during his life held many positions of trust in the City of Quincy. Not only did he serve the town as one of its board of selectmen for several years but he also served the first Norfolk district as Senator. He was commissioner of public works at one time under the administration of Mayor Hodges.

The Eatons for many years conducted an ice business their pond being located on Adams street, now controlled by M. L. Abbott.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday from the chapel at Forest Hills at 3 o'clock.

"CIVILIZED WARFARE."

Arthur Elliot Sproul of New York, formerly of this city, recently contributed the following letter to the New York World on the war:

Let us face the facts.

The name of a sunken ship is of no consequence. The names of dead people are of no consequence. Names of cities and of buildings and of rivers and of mountain ranges and of rulers and of generals and of citizens and of soldiers are of no consequence.

All these things accompany war, but they are not war and they are not even part of war.

For war is not forts or ships or writhing bodies or storms of shot or women in despair. War is an idea—a thought—mentality.

Whose idea?—whose thought?—whose mentality?

The barbarian's—his, and no other's.

As barbarians, the world smiles at the shimmer of sunlight on steel blades and rifle-barrels and gold braid. It cheers at flaunting bunting and at the tread of marching feet and at the music that is played thereabout. There is something fine about it all. The world (yet chiefly of barbarians) smiles at it all—is pleased at it all—laughs at it all, as an idiot holds his sides with ghastly merriment over that which is incomprehensible to the sane.

The barbaric world does not see guns and swords as instruments meant to kill and torture with and meant to do nothing else. It does not see the grotesque in the gaudy trappings. It does not see in the men marching in great columns, only men trained to take the lives of other men—men whose trade is to kill.

Very well, then being barbarians, let the world acknowledge it.

The sinking of a great ship—the devastation of a whole nation—every bad and evil thing that goes along with war and yet is not war—all these are but symptoms; they are not the disease.

"Civilized warfare!" Impossible to compress into two words a more abominable and grotesque crystillization of malevolent hypocrisy and contradiction.

Why is the world so afraid to face its own super-crime and acknowledge it for what it is? Why insist upon so befouling the good word "civilized" as to drag it into such a juxtaposition? War is but one thing—its own hideous self. It is all that is evil. Strip off its garment of "civilization." Look at it as it is—a naked horror.

Let us face the facts, then.

So long as the barbaric in mankind holds sway, so long there will be wars. Details will differ, but the crime will be there, always the same and always the utmost.

Barbarism always means two things: warfare and autocratic power—yet really not twin things but twin ideas. They stand or fall together. So far in the world's history they have stood. They stand today.

But are they tottering? Some people think so. We have yet to know that. The hope of the world is that democracy will rise on the ruins of the vastest debauch of evil that the world has ever looked upon.

Meanwhile, let no one prate of "civilization" at such an hour as this. What we shall be we do not know, though we are permitted to aspire. But what we are today is in this word: barbarians.

Let us face the facts.

FIRST PARISH

Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson took for his subject Sunday morning "The Joy and Power of Reawakening Life." He said: "A sense of joy and power comes from the reawakening of life that was dormant. In the spring the trees which have seemed dead shoot forth their branches and blossoms. It is well to remember that what may seem dead is only sleeping. There is a law of compensation. The present life must yield itself to feed the new life, so that the present sacrifices of life are not hopeless because they feed the new life.

"We are today witnessing in the war in Europe a parallell of the fall of Constantinople in the fifteenth century. In the fifteenth century it was the awakening of Christianity Today we are witnessing the collapse of materialism, and a new faith of Christianity and democracy must come, a new manhood and a new womanhood. All of this is coming from the graves of the dying in the foreign war, and will mean the birth of something newer and nobler than the world ever knew."

Rev. Mr. Hudson announced that next Sunday a memorial service would be in memory of a faithful citizen one who has exemplified its greatest idea through a long life, Charles Francis Adams.

PARK AND DOWNS.

At the morning service Rev. Wm. B. Ayres took for his text Luke 16: 10 "He that is faithful in the least is faithful also in much." The speaker said that people commonly divide their lives and their efforts according to the importance of the thing that absorbs their attention. "This is a distinction we have no right to make because commonly we have no way of knowing the significance of events on the consequences of our acts and words.

"We would have to know the future in order to judge the relationship which present things bear to it. Only the Divine Mind knows what is contained therein or what deep significance is involved in the present and if we study the work of this Divine Mind we shall see that its integrity covers the minutest detail of the universe. Some of the greatest and most significant events of life have been passed over at the time as of no consequence.

"So far as we can determine there is nothing insignificant in the judgment of the Divine Mind. It is only man who makes the mistake of superficial judgment. Our lives are made up of a multitude of petty duties and responsibilities and if we think only to test our virtues on some great act of faith or renumeration we wait for that which will never come.

"In detail our life seems mean and insignificant but in accumulation it is vast and the sum of our influence and our place in the world will be the product of a noble fidelity to the smallest duty and the most obscure detail of character.

"Christianity is as much the outgrowth of the quiet fidelity of Jesus to the apparently unimportant details of his ministry as the cross and the Resurrection."

In the evening the subject was Japan.

Next Sunday night it will be the Monroe Doctrine.

He said that Japan has been led up on to a high mountain and shown the kingdom of this world and offered kingdom and wealth if she will fall down and worship materialism. "She is facing those issues which every young life must face and making those choices which are to establish the principle of her whole future. Every man must decide for himself whether he is to live for principle or for metal and meat."

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. Willis H. Germany of the Hall Place M. E. church preached at the morning service on "The Fall of Simon Peter." He took for his text Luke 22: 31 and 32.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will continue this sermon with the thought of "The Restoration of Simon Peter."

Miss Maud Nicholls led the Epworth league Devotional service on the subject: "Are children in Our City Getting a Fair Chance, Physically, Mentally and Spiritually?"

At the evening service the Pastor drew a picture of the Christian

A meeting of the official board is called for Tuesday night at eight o'clock

Thursday evening Dr. Bronson will conduct the First Quarterly Conference.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN

The beautiful flowers, the anthems by the quartet, the poem entitled "Things that never die," the hymns which so finely expressed the thought of the sermon, all helped to make the morning service of worship helpful and inspiring. The minister's sermon was from the text "Present yourselves as a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God which is your spiritual worship"—Romans 12:1.

Mr. Horst said: "The disposition to make offerings and sacrifices to the deity is as old as the human race itself. These offerings included even human lives as we learn from the Old Testament. In the time of the prophets the people had come to believe that if they were punctual in their attendance upon the temple service and offered sacrifices it would matter little what their conduct might be, absolutely forgetting that God must be worshipped in faith and love and purity and righteousness of life. The only acceptable offering is ourselves at our best or as Paul says 'present yourselves as a living sacrifice.' Not sacrifices and offerings, not rites and ceremonies, but holiness of heart and life is what God desires."

Rev. Carl G. Horst will exchange pulpits with the Rev. William D. Wilkie of the Second Unitarian church in Athol, and will also officiate at the wedding of Mildred Howe Tyler of Athol and Robert Leslie Dawson of New York City, Tuesday, June first. Mr. Horst will be accompanied by Mrs. Horst.

The annual Field Day of the Boston Federation will be held at Houghton's Pond, Saturday afternoon, June 5, and will close the season's activities for the Federation. A large number of the Wollaston branch of the Young People's Religious Union will attend.

The annual anniversary meetings in Boston this week will be attended not only by the official delegates from our church but by many others.

The church has appointed the following delegates: Rev. Carl G. Horst, Mrs. William M. Burrell and Mrs. H. N. Thomas to the American Unitarian Association meetings. Mrs. Oscar Baker, Mrs. Carl G. Horst and Mrs. H. C. Needham to the Unitarian Sunday School Society meetings. Mrs. Albert B. Briggs, Mrs. John L. Merrill and Mrs. George F. Redlon to the meetings of the Alliance of Unitarian and other Liberal Christian Women. E. Horton Page, Miss Priscilla Robinson and Miss Almira Simmons to the Young People's Religious Union sessions.

The next regular meeting of the parish committee will be held Friday evening, June 4.

Children's Sunday will be observed with public baptism and a special service June 20.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will be in attendance upon the Unitarian anniversary meetings in Boston all the week He may be reached at the American Unitarian association, 25 Beacon street.

Owing to sickness the Rev. William L. Sullivan of New York City had to cancel his engagement as preacher at the Y. P. R. U. meeting in the Second Church, Boston, Thursday evening, May 27. The Rev. Abraham M. Rihbany has been secured in Mr. Sullivan's absence and will speak on "The Testimony of a Unitarian Pilgrim."

The annual Wollaston June Festival will be held on the grounds of Charles T. Baker's, 215 Safford street, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon and evening, June 18-19. It is planned to make this festival more extensive and entertaining than ever. Many new features will be added and the best of the old ones retained.

A moving picture machine is being installed in the parish house to assist in the educational work of the church. Both in the work of the Sunday school and in popular religious services it will be of great help. The Wollaston Unitarian church has always been a believer in progressive, up-to-date methods.

The summer meeting of the Norfolk Conference of Unitarian churches will be held with the First Parish in Walpole, June 9.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

At the morning service yesterday the pastor, Rev. Dr. Sneath, spoke up on the topic "The Day of Pentecost." This is Whitsunday and commemorates the day of Pentecost upon which the Holy Spirit came. Two results followed his coming. First there was ridicule and persecution. These have accompanied every great movement in science, literature and religion. A pamphlet was written to prove the absurdity of ever sailing across the ocean in a steamboat. Carlyle, Tennyson, Irving and all great literary men were subjects of ridicule. The terms Christian, Protestant, Puritan, Methodist, Independent were at first terms of mockery. The real persecution which the church of today is realizing is not from atheism or agnosticism, nor even the criticism of the magazine writer. It is the indifference of the thousands of men and women to God, sin, and the future. No appeals will cause the war to cease What is needed today more than anything else is the power of God in and under the efforts of the church The first prayer of today is for another Day of Pentecost with its power from on High

At the Sunday school there were 213 persons present in answer to the call for a "200 Day." As this week the improvements in the vestry are to begin in connection with the building of the parish house it was planned to have one more great day.

Miss Helen M. Richardson of Stoneham, state superintendent of intermediate work, addressed the Intermediates of this church upon the work, at 4 o'clock.

Thursday evening at the midweek meeting the topic will be "Joshua and the Lesson of Courage." It is expected that several soldiers of the Civil War will address the meeting.

The Y. P. S. C. E. realized $27 from its food sale on Saturday The meeting last evening, in charge of Mrs I. W. Sneath, considered the new era in India and in the Mohammedan world

CENSURE I. A. A. A. A. OFFICIALS.

By Hal Sheridan.
(United Press.)

New York, May 24—Athletes connected with the Amateur Athletic Union are discussing the recent action of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. in ignoring A. A. U. men in their selection of officials for the coming championship games to be held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Some of the comment is rather severe on the I. A. A. A. A. authorities, for the members of the A. A. U. Union are deeply stirred over the matter.

The reason given by the Intercollegiate Association for not inviting any Amateur Union officials is that the I. A. A. A. A. desires to bring back as many old college athletes as possible and therefore wants them to serve as officials to keep their interest alive, and they say it has been definitely decided that in the future only college men will be on the official intercollegiate list.

And unless some change is made in this announced policy the big games in the future will miss the old time amateur sportsmen, who have been conneced with every I. A. A. A. A. championship as far back as memory serves. To shut out these prominent sportsmen who are so closely identified with amateur sports in this country seems as if the Intercollegiate can not but lose by it.

Both the Intercollegiate and Amateur Athletic people deny there is any friction in the move, but it came as a sudden surprise to the Amateur men. They had not a whimper of it until after teh invitations for the coming games were sent out.

Naturally Amateur Athletic officials are silent. They say they will make no statements. But the unheralded strengthens the impression that the cordial feeling so long existing between them has shifted.

The "firing" of all outside sportsmen as officials in championship college games will mean the loss to intercollegiate meets of the services of men who have been identified with these games for many seasons .And it is somewhat difficult to see how the decision of the Intercollegiate authorities can benefit either it or the A. A. U.

In fact both will lose much. The Amateur Athletic men are the best informed officials in the country. They are expert athletic judges. The Intercollegiate championship meet is one of the most important events in the country's athletic history It needs expert officials and heretofore those men selected as officials have enjoyed their work.

SOUTH SHORE LEAGUE.
Quincy 0, Brockton 10.
Quincy 0, Weymouth 17.
Quincy 1, Milton 1.

Rain fell at Merrymount park Saturday afternoon and halted the Quincy and Milton High schools in a South Shore Interscholastic league game with the score 1 and 1. The interruption came in the visitor's half of the eighth inning, when they had two men on bases and none out.

A shower set in in the third inning but the 500 fans assembled remained and were rewarded with a little sunshine. In the 7th inning the drizzle again commenced and when the miniature cloudburst swept the field there was no delay in calling the game. The ball had become wet and heavy and because of it Bryan at third was unable to handle cleanly a ground ball hit to him and as a result Reiser and Mitchell had reached first.

Milton scored the first run when Parsons got on base on DiSenso's error. Park, the next man up drove out a homer and scored him. The ball rolled on to Hancock street but Park, although he had plenty of time, failed to touch third base and the run was not allowed. Reardon scored for Quincy in the second inning. He reached first on an error by Shand and went down on Park's error and scored on O'Donnell's hit.

The game settled down then to tight base ball. Reiser was left on base when Dorley threw out two men at first. Hamlin reached third on the fastest kind of base running but died there when DiSenso fanned at a high pitch for the third strike and retired Quincy. In most of the innings but three men faced the pitchers of both teams. Neither twirler allowed a base on balls and although there were few strikeouts the hit balls were chased and fielded well. The game was one of the best of the season, Quincy coming out of the slump in fighting fashion. The game by innings:

First Inning: Milton—Parsons out, Baker to Desmond; Luce reached when DiSenso dropped the third strike Park drove out a homer, scoring Luce. Park's run was disallowed when he didn't tag third; Robertson out, Hamlin to Desmond. One run.

Quincy—Browne flied to Luce and DiSenso to Paolucci; Bryan out, Shand to Driscoll. No runs.

Second Inning. Milton:— Driscoll flied to Browne who made a spectacular catch; Reiser reached when Reardon dropped an easy one; Mitchell flied out to Baker; Reiser caught off base, out by Hamlin to Dorley to Bryan. No runs.

Quincy:—Dorley fanned; O'Donnell hit, stole second and was caught off, Park to Luce; Reardon reached on Luce's error and scored. Baker fanned. One run.

Third Inning. Milton:—Parsons out, Baker to Desmond; Luce flied to Dorley; Shand fanned. No runs.

Quincy:—Desmond fanned; Hamlin hit and showed speed stealing second and third; Brownie flied to Shand; DiSenso fanned, reached for a high one. No runs.

Fourth Inning, Milton:—Park and Robertson out, Bryan to Desmond; Paolucci out, Dorley to Desmond. No runs.

Quincy—Bryan out, Reiser to Shand Dorley doubled and got to second; O'Donnell popped and Luce made a pretty catch and doubled O'Donnell, unassisted. No runs.

Fifth Inning, Milton:— Driscoll fanned and DiSenso dropped the ball and threw him out at first; Reiser hit and stole second; Mitchell and Shand out, Dorley to Desmond. No runs.

Quincy:—Reardon out, Reiser to Shand; Baker hit and stole second; Desmond out on foul fly; Hamlin hit to short and Baker over ran third and was thrown out. No runs.

Sixth Inning, Milton:—Parsons and Park fanned; Luce out Hamlin to Desmond. No runs.

Quincy —Browne and Di Senso thrown out at first by Luce and Reiser Bryant flied behind short and Luce made a pretty catch. No runs.

Seventh Inning, Milton:—Robertson filed out to Reardon; DiSenso, starting late for Paolucci's foul fly just reached it, fell to the ground, rolled over but didn't loose his catch. Driscoll reached on Bryan's slow handling of a ground ball and was thrown out at second by DiSenso who made a perfect throw. No runs.

Quincy—Dorley fanned; O'Donnell out, Driscoll to Shand; Reardon thrown out at first by Park who dropped the third strike. No runs.

Eighth Inning—Reiser and Mitchell got to first because rain had dampened the ball, making it difficult for Bryan to handle hard hit balls. Game called on account of rain.

SPORTING COMMENT

The Wollaston M. E. Sunday school has a baseball team composed of boys 15 years of age and under, that has not met defeat yet this season. Four games have been played and four victories stand to its credit. The boys would be glad to secure games with other Sunday school teams of the same grade. Write Helen Bailey, 52 Brook street, Wollaston, if interested.

Taunton heads the Colonial league. Its catcher George Barry had been a factor in the games won.

This week will be a busy one in the grammar school league. All teams winning a game spike a stronger claim to the championship. A triple tie for first place may develop before Saturday.

Quincy High, entirely recuperated from its sleeping sickness and very indignant because it was spanked in public last week, delivered genuine base ball Saturday in its game with Milton. Baker played short in place of Larkin who is suffering a slight injury to his hand.

WIRE FAILS TO REPLACE NUT

As Result Milk Bottles Come To Grief

A milk team containing several hundred empty bottles came to grief Sunday evening when the rear wheel came off and split the contents of the team on Copeland street near the West Quincy Depot. The team was owned by Joseph Goldstein of Douglas street and was driven by Micheal Levy. The nut had been lost and Michael endeavored to repair the difficulty with a few turns of hay wire. The scheme worked for about one hundred feet when the above accident occured and Michael is now nursing a broken arm and Goldstein is minus a few hundred bottles and the services of Michael.

QUINCY A. A. LOSE GAME

The Quincy A. A. lost to the Whitmans on the latter's grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 2 to 1. Quincy scored its lone tally in the ninth inning. The game from the outset was a pitcher's battle between Mann and H. Johnson. The score by innings

MAGAZINE BOYS LOSE AT LAST

The Coddingtons beat the Saturday Evening Post boys 10 to 9 at Merrymount Park Saturday in ten innings. The game was one of the most interesting of the season, and the first defeat for the Post boys in five weeks.

The magazine salesmen started with a seven run lead but Coddington sewed up the game in the fifth through costly decisions on bases. They won out in the tenth on a base on balls, a single and a stolen base. A better break on base decisions, the Post boys say, would have given them victory.

Gustafson was hit for six singles by Coddington, for a total of nine. The Posts got 11 hits for a total of 17. The score by innings:

BIG CONFERENCE BEGINS TODAY

(By United Press)

Washington, May 24—In the Hall of the Americas of the beautiful Pan American Union building, one of the most important gatherings ever held on this continent opened today. Delegates representing practically every nation in the Western Hemisphere met to discuss their financial relations and ways and means of assisting one another while the present European War lasts and after it has come to an end. More than half a hundred of leading finincial men—governmental and commercial—from the South and Central American countries are ready to take part in the discussions which begining today were expected to occupy the entire week, if not to continue into next.

The United States is host. Congress in authorizing Secretary McAdoo to carry out his idea, voted $50,000 expense money and a large part of this will be used in entertainment of the foreign guests, part of the program being a trip to certain important financial centers. The guests include also a large number of representative bankers of the United States, but they will defray their own expenses for the most part.

A thorough and comprehensive discussion of existing financial conditions of all the countries represented is anticipated. Time will be taken to deliberate on all the phases of the financial and commercial needs and problems of the American republic. Suggestions probably will be adopted for the common advancement and closer relationship of the republics.

The head of the Argentine delegation is a prominent figure of the meeting. Samuel Hale Pearson is one of the best known bankers in the world. He is a grandson of Samuel B. Hale of Boston, who founded the National Bank of Argentina in 1883. The capital of the banks and business corporations with which Mr. Hale is connected aggregates $700,000,000 it is said.

Salvador's delegation not only include that country's vice-president but a former president, as well.

One outcome of the conference is expected to be a better understanding on the part of American financiers of the methods and conditions of business in the Latin countries, particularly of the credit spstem in practice which differ materially from our own.

BRIEFS

The Twentieth Century Bridge club will enjoy an outing Wednesday evening, at Pantooset farm in Hanover.

Mrs. Edmund G. Thayer entertained a few friends at an informal tea at her home, 60 Willow street, Sunday afternoon.

Work was not started on the rebuilding of Hancock street bteween Granite and School streets this morning as was expected, although it is probable that work will be commenced tomorrow or Wednesday.

Mrs. Antoinette Paige of Davis street who is at the Boston Homoeopathic Hospital undergoing a slight operation is expected to return home in a few days. Friends of Mrs. Paige are pleased to learn that she is gaining in strength daily.

Miss Gertrude Florence Hughes, who has taken over the public stenographer business formerly conducted by Miss Mildred Gray Huston as well as the duties of stenographer at the office of the Board of Trade, began her new duties this morning. She will also do the stenography work at the district court.

WOMAN FALLS FROM TRAIN

Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, aged 40 years, employed as a cook at the Hampton House, Braintree, was found wandering on the railroad tracks at Braintree early Sunday morning by a searching party which went out to look for her as it had been reported that she had fallen from a train which left Boston at 11.35. She was missed when the train reached South Braintree and was found by Officer Shay and Carl P. Lathrop. When examined by a physician it could not be found that she was suffering from any injury although she appeared to be somewhat dazed. It is supposed that while on the train she attempted to pass from one car to another and was thrown off as the train rounded a curve.

CITY HAS REAL TRAFFIC PROBLEM

The traffic problem in the city Sunday was a complex one. Extra patrolmen were stationed at Hancock and Granite streets, and Elm, Quincy avenue and Hancock street, and diverted an unusually large number of autos from the stretch of Hancock street under repair. At Elm street and Miller Stile road an iron traffic sign somewhat regulated travel on that corner. No accidents were reported at police headquarters. A record number of autos passed through the city.

ELATED OVER HIS VICTORY

Roosevelt Taking Rest After Long Ordeal In Court

"DEATH KNELL OF BOSSISM"

Ex-President Says It Was Sounded by Jury Finding He Did Not Libel Barnes—Evidence Considered Forty-Two Hours Before Verdict Was Reached—Barnes Will Appeal

New York, May 24.—Happy over his triumph over William Barnes, but wearied by the ordeal of the legal fight at Syracuse, where his defense wrecked the charges brought against him by Barnes in his suit for $50,000 damages, Theodore Roosevelt passed Sunday with his family at his Oyster Bay home.

The verdict was returned after forty ballots and the jury had considered for forty-two hours the evidence presented during the five-weeks' trial.

Nineteen hours were consumed before eleven of the jurymen, who since the second ballot had stood together, persuaded Juror No. 11—Edward Burns, a Syracuse motorman, and a Republican—to join with them in returning a verdict which Roosevelt later declared to be "typically American."

For eleven of those nineteen hours the jurors in favor of an unconditional verdict for the defendant argued with Burns, who, while favoring the verdict, insisted that the costs should be divided.

The verdict was reached in the dormitory of the jail. Burns agreed to vote with his companions following their second night in custody.

The scenes in the supreme court which followed the recording of the verdict were probably without parallel in American court history. More than anything else, it resembled the headquarters of a successful candidate on election night.

Roosevelt, happier, he said, than he has ever been in his life, completely dominated the situation. He gathered the jurors and gave a typical Rooseveltian reception, making a speech in a voice that he controlled with difficulty.

Roosevelt told them all that his appreciation for what they had done was so great that he would be under obligations to them for life, and that he would always try to act in public and private so that they will have no cause to regret their verdict.

He told them the latch-string at Sagamore Hill was always out for them and promised to have the record of the case printed, bound and autographed and sent to each man. The ex-president considers the record to be a political document of vast importance to the American people. It sounds, he said, the death knell of political bossism in the nation.

In anouncing that Barnes would appeal from the verdict, his counsel William M. Ivens, stated that they were not satisfied with the proceedings, which, he said, did not conform to precedent.

Barnes said: "The jury declared that I had no cause of action against Mr. Roosevelt, who charged me with acts I did not commit, and, therefore, temporarily at least, the public may believe that I am guilty of what I did not do.

"However, the knowledge of the complete rectitude of my conduct must content me, which, after all, is the only important thing in life."

LOOT IS RETURNED

West Virginia Jeweler Was Robbed by Bandit Robinson

Boston, May 24.—The supreme court of Massachusetts handed down an opinion that the money and jewelry found on Lawrence Robinson and Joseph Duddy, who were arrested after Robinson had shot to death of Police Inspector Norton, should be turned over to Harry J. Homrich, jeweler, of Huntington, W. Va.

It was claimed by Homrich in his petition to the court that the money and jewelry formed part of the booty secured by Robinson when his store was robbed, presumably by them. Robinson committed suicide in his cell.

MOTIVE FOR CRIME UNKNOWN TO POLICE

Murder and Suicide of Most Mysterious Character

Methuen, Mass., May 24.—With her Bible and hymnbook clutched in her hands, as if seeking their protection, the murdered body of Miss Mary Closson, 24, assistant librarian of the Nevins Memorial library here, was found in the bedroom of Mrs. William White with three bullets in her body last evening.

On the floor beside the bed was the dead body of William Hubbard, 30, son of Mrs. White by her first husband, with two self-inflicted bullet wounds in his left breast.

The young man was never known to have had but a slight speaking acquaintance with Miss Closson, and the authorities and friends of the couple are puzzled to determine how Hubbard was able to entice the young woman into his mother's home.

According to the police, Hubbard, failing in an attempt to attack her, punched her in the face and then shot her. One of her teeth was loosened, but there were no other marks on her body of the attack, her clothes being in perfect order.

QUINCY PROVES PROMISED LAND

With but "two bits" or "five jitneys" to ward off starvation, John Sierra, 18 years, and older brother Peter, both Porto Ricans, reached Milton Sunday evening after walking from the great metropolis and asked patrolman James Travers to arrange lodging for them in the Milton police headquarters. He formally arrested them and charged them with being tramps.

When booked they told an interesting story of how, unable to secure employment in New Yory, Peter took charge of their small capital enough to buy food during a trip but not enough to pay railroad fares, and they statred to hike it toward Boston, the promised land.

During the seven days it took them to walk they made many applications for employment at various manufacturing plants but found them all working short shifts because of the business depression. When they reached Milton they were tired, footsore and weary. Their arrest as tramps was a welcome relief and this morning they appeared in court bright eyed and cheery. The complaints were dismissed.

John said he was a barber's helper and Peter claimed to be a cook. Tomorrow they start on a new job, secured through the efforts of Probation Officer Fahy.

U. S. UNPREPARED FOR WAR ASSERTS SPEAKER

Capt. Bauer Says We Could Not Meet Even Second Rate Nation

The members of Quincy commandery, Knights Templars, were most interestingly entertained Monday evening after the business session of the conclave by Capt. F. G. Bauer, adjutant of the 8th regiment, M. V. M., who gave an illustrated talk on the Massachusetts Militia, past and present. The talk was a very instructive one as the speaker was well informed as to the prominent part which the militia of Massachusetts took in the Revolution, in the Indian wars of colonial days, in the civil war and in the Spanish war.

While those present were more or less familiar with the history of these wars the speaker brought out many new facts. His talk was illustrated by a large number of photographs which added greatly to the interest of the talk. It had been planned to give these pictures in the moving picture style, but as the asylum of Quincy commandery is located on the third floor a license for a moving picture machine, could not be obtained. The speaker therefore contented himself with stereopticon views.

At the outset he said that the United State was unprepared to meet even a second rate nation. There was an absolute deficiency in trained troops, guns, and in fact of munitions of war of every description. The United States was one of three nations where military service was not compulsory and after the present European war was over it would be the only country where some military training was not compulsory.

The only training which the young men now had was voluntary, by enlisting in the regular army or in the militia. An enlistment in the militia was the greatest benefit to young men, he declared, for it gave them a training possible in no other way. It made better men of them both physically and morally. It taught them to respect authority. To obey the laws and thus become better citizens.

The speaker pointed out that England in the present war wasted much valuable time in training raw troops.

Commencing with the earliest known of the militia he showed several pictures of the Pipe men of the early ages, and from this he brought his hearers down to the time of Miles Standish who with his armed company of trained men won the first bloodless victory on American soil. From this he took his hearers through the Indian wars of King Phillip's time then to the Minute Men of the Revolutionary period and the volunteer troops of the Rebellion. Massachusetts was the first to respond to the call of President Lincoln and owing to the foresightedness of Gov. Andrew it was prepared. He recounted the memorable passage through Baltimore of the 6th Mass. regiment, and the arrival of the 6th, and 8th regiments at the national capital. He also followed the 4th regiment of which the Quincy company was a part, and the 5th regiment through the Rebellion, showing pictures of some of the battles in which they took part.

At the conclusion of his talk Capt. Bauer was asked a number of questions in regard to army corps, divisions, etc., the number of men composing them, which have puzzled many who are following the events in the European war. A rising vote of thanks was extended the speaker and an adjournment was made to the banquet hall where refreshments were served.

"ALMIRA" SKIMS OVER COURSE

Yachtsmen Have Theirs Out Sunday

Several of the skippers of the yachts of the famous Cape cat class of the Quincy Yacht club had their fliers out Sunday for a trial spin and incidentally there was quite an interesting race between the "Almira" and "Dartwell." Dr. H. A. Jones was at the stick of the "Almira," manipulating the barn door rudder with which she is at present fitted, and although the "Almira" is also fitted with an old sail the doctor smilingly showed the Dartwell his heels. Ex-Commodore Ira M. Whittemore held the stick of the "Dartwell" and while no time was taken the boats went over the course. At no time was there more than thirty seconds between the two boats and most of the time but fifteen seconds separated them.

Vice Commodore Edgar W. Emery had the "Mudjekeewis" out Saturday for the first time and she appeared to be tuning up well. Edgar says that he will show the bunch something this year.

Ex-Commodore Frank Fessenden Crane has put the "Iris" overboard for the season and she is not at her moorings. Her sails have not been bent on as yet but she will probably be in condition for the opening race of the club Saturday.

The members of the Quincy Yacht club are very much pleased with the manner in which the restaurant at the clubhouse is being run this year. Capt. Duffy of Brockton is to be in charge of the restaurant this year and those who have sampled his cooking say that it is all right. He got his initiation at the opening smoker last week when he furnished the chowder that was served following the entertainment.

The clubhouse is now in condition for the season. A number of minor improvements have been made which will be appreciated by the members. The coming season gives promise of being a successful one.

DISCUSS ITALY'S DECISION TO FIGHT

Local Italians Consider Their Country's Entrance Into Lists

READ LATEST REPORTS

The Italians of the city gathered in various parts of Quincy Monday evening to discuss the latest development in the European war,—the entrance of their country in the fists. Prospects were the main topics of conversation and copies of practically every Italian paper published in New York were read and reread.

Italy's army, a large percentage of which consists of troops especially trained in mountain climbing, has been re-organized within nine months. Reports are that it is a well equipped body of men and that there is no dearth of munitions of war.

An aeroplane fleet of 300 monoplanes and biplanes was completed previous to the declaration of war. The ministry has made no attempt to copy the German Zeppelin.

Quincy Italians to the number of 83 left here over six months ago to join the reserves and a large sum of money has been subscribed as a contribution to the war fund. Many members of the plasterers' local union and employees at the Fore River shipyard are undecided whether or not to return and cast their lot with their country.

Arnaldo DiNicola of Canal street, a well known Italian resident of the city, has been acting as recruiting officer the past winter. He was a telegrapher in the Italian army with the rank of sergeant and saw service in Abyssinia

BEGIN WORK ON HANCOCK STREET

Active work rebuilding that portion of Hancock street between Granite and School streets is now under way. The contractor commenced work at Cottage avenue and is at first working toward Granite street. This was done in order to save as much hauling as possible. Today a large automobile and plow is tearing up the westerly side of the street between the two points mentioned, getting the street ready for its concrete foundation upon which the paving blocks will be laid. The brick sidewalk on the westerly side of the street is to be relaid and a granolithic sidewalk is to be built on the easterly side of the street.

The contract calls for the completion of the street by July 15.

SUFFERS ATTACK OF TONSILITIS

Gov. Walsh Is Confined to His Room

(By United Press)

Boston, May 25—Gov. Walsh is confined to his rooms in the Hotel Lenox on account of a slight attack of tonsilitis which he thinks he contracted last Sunday in attending the out door Memorial held in Fenway Park in memory of those who died in the Spanish-American war.

The attending physicians say his illness is very slight but he will be confined for several days. He will conduct his routine business there.

This morning he signed the resolve which places the Suffrage amendment to the constitution on the ballot. His illness was a great disappointment to the suffragettes in view of the fact they had made elaborate plans for calling at the State House to witness his signature.

TO OBSERVE NEUTRALITY

Italy Defines Attitude in Conducting War

Washington, May 25—The Italian embassy today made public a copy of the official document that the Rome government prepared justifying the Italian participation in the war. It was substantially the same as that issued from Rome last Friday and cabled to the United States. The embassy denied that the Italian government would send a call to the colors of Italians who are naturalized Americans.

The terms of Pres. Wilson's neutrality proclamation will be strictly observed it was stated, though they admit that consuls were enlisting reservists who present themselves and that they will be furnished with transportation home to fight. To avoid criticism it is understood they will be assembled at Canadian ports.

EDDIE SAMMON ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Boxer is Arrested In Boston And Faces Serious Charge

Eddie Sammon, widely known in this city as a boxer, faced Judge Avery and a crowded court this morning to answer to a charge of statutory assault. In a clear voice he pleaded not guilty.

Atty. J. J. McAnarney, retained as his counsel, asked for a continuance until Thursday so he could familiarize himself with the case. His request was granted. Judge Avery asked if sureties of $1000 was sufficient and Acting Chief McKay said he thought not and the amount was placed at $2000. Sammon was ordered committed to the Quincy lockup.

Alvira Munson, the 18 year old Swedish girl, who it is alleged he viciously assaulted last Tuesday evening, was in court and was sworn in as a witness. This proceeding took place after most of the spectators had left the court room.

Sammon was arrested in Boston Monday evening by Sergt. Anderson of Station 4 who had nothing but a general description to work on. He was brought to Quincy by Acting Chief McKay.

On the way to the South Station he said he expetced his father to meet him but although Chief McKay and his prisoner left on the 8.04 train none of the Sammon family appeared.

During conversation, on the way to Quincy, Acting Chief McKay says Sammon talked freely of the charge lodged against him and asked to be taken up to the girl's house so he could "fix it up and marry her."

The arrest of Sammon closed a week of search by the police of Boston and Quincy. A warrant for his arrest was taken out Wednesday after Acting Chief McKay had spent the entire night investigating.

On the night of the assault according to the police Sammon was in West Quincy but so far as can be learned did not stay at the house on Bates avenue where he has been living since coming to Quincy a year ago, but at a friend's house, a short distance away. The police say he remained indoors Wednesday and went to Boston that night.

Thursday evening he was seen at Field's corner by local young men. They told the police of Station 11 he was wanted here and on request joined in a search of the surrounding territory. A police sergeant, several regular men and three reserve officers made up the squad and although they made a careful search were unsuccessful.

Sammon remained about Boston until his arrest Monday evening, it is said.

The Munson girl this morning appeared to be pale. She was brought to court by Dr. Blanchard. She has nearly recovered from her experience.

Acting Chief McKay stated today that before court the Munson girl identified Sammon as her assailant. He further states that Sammon does not deny the assault.

OFFICIAL TESTS FOR "CUSHING"

The torpedo boat destroyer Cushing, built at the Fore River shipyard for the United States government, is undergoing her official trials on the course off Rockland, Me., today. Aboard the destroyer are representatives of the company and the official trial board of the government.

The ship sailed from Quincy Sunday, in command of Capt. Joseph Kemp, official pilot of the company. The run was made in good time.

SERVICES FOR D. M. TWOHEY

The funeral of D. M. Twohey, the Atlantic fish dealer and the man who created more excitement in politics last fall than any other candidate because of his unique campaign methods, was held from his home on Safford street this morning.

A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart by Fr. J. P. Cuffe, pastor. The musical portion of the mass was rendered under the direction of Fr. J. P. McNiff. Miss Mae Stevens was organist and Miss Catherine Dolan was the soloist. There were many floral remembrances. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

MORE SMOKE THAN FIRE

The alarm from Box 52 at 3.10 Monday afternoon was for a slight fire in the house of H. D. Black on South Central avenue. The fire was caused by the boiling over of a can of varnish which had been set on the stove to warm. There was a lot of smoke but little fire.

FARM PRODUCTS AT FAIR.

San Francisco, May 25—Historians today were interested in the queer crops from James Bellwood's farm in Virginia which were on exhibition at the Panama Pacific Exposition. The products of this farm included several score Indian flint arrowheads, a round shot fired from the guns of the Merrimac, a three-inch soft nosed shell hurled by a Confederate cannon and imbedded in an oak tree, and several bayonets, sabres and bullets. Before George Washington was born Indians and settlers fought a battle on the site of Bellwood's farm—hence the arrowheads, and in 1864 the battle of Brewry's Bluff, waged there, caused the deposit of other missles. Numerous skulls and bones were also turned up by Bellwood's plow, but these were buried again in deeper graves than the shallow trenches in which they first reposed.

PROTECTION AGAINST QUACKS.

The full bench of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts handed down an eminently wise decision the other day. In the case of Alfred H. Flower the court held that the New England College of Chiropractic, Inc., had no right to grant a decree of D. C. (doctor of Chiropractic) and upheld the Superior Court which imposed a fine of $100 for granting a decree without authority.

In answer to the complaint the defendant corporation contended that the degree granted to Flower was not a degree in the legal sense. The ruling of the court along this line was:

"The word doctor used in connection with an unusual and high sounding word would be quite as likely to impose on the ignorant and credulous as the false use of the conventional Doctor of Medicine.

"The conferring of a title made up of the word doctor and a word relating to the healing art may be found to be the granting of a degree within the meaning of the statute."

We trust this finding of the highest court in the commonwealth will serve to discourage the awarding of a handsome, gilt lettered diploma conferring a degree, which was awarded for little work and much money. The state should protect the people against quacks and should protect those men and women who have won degrees honestly after long and faithful study.

FOR THE RED MEN.

"Charity begins at home," is an old saying, and while we are giving and sympathizing with the unfortunates across the water, it is well to notice that there is charity going on at home, where it is also sadly needed. The National Indian Association has been instrumental in founding the Good Samaritan Hospital in Arizona where in the two years of its existence 3500 treatments have been given the Indian population in its vicinity, and 100 Indian patients cared for in its wards.

Many people have the idea that charity at home means the giving to the poor, and wholly forget that within this country there is a sadly wronged and pitiful race, the original American—the Indian. Trachoma and tuberculosis, a fearful scourge among them, must be combated, or the race will slowly die out, and our great great grandchildren will view their skulls in National museums with the label "Extinct race, formerly inhabiting America."

The National Indian association with branches in many cities and towns all over the United States is doing a splendid work in looking out for the interest of the "Red Men."

Our neighbor, Jamaica Plain, has a branch, and is a material factor in welfare of Indians all over our country, for which it should feel proud.

AN UNWISE SCHEDULE.

We have found few who can see anything commendable in the closing of the public schools of this city at the late date called for by this year's schedule. The pupils the past year have enjoyed frequent vacations, probably too frequent for the development of the highest efficiency. To compensate in part for these frequent rests it has been decided to keep the schools open into July.

By the middle of June the hot weather will probably be upon us and the last two weeks of school will be practically thrown away so far as the accomplishment of any real work is concerned. The lure of the outdoors is too strong for grammar and high school students at that time of year.

It may be hoped that next year will see in force a schedule founded upon common sense.

THE MOVIE IN THE SCHOOL.

The installation of a motion picture machine in the Wollaston Unitarian church is an event of some significance. The "movie" has become a part of our modern every day life. It is going to stay. It has its faults, of course, but it has many good qualities, too. And it has possibilities.

It is a sign that the Wollaston Unitarian church is awake when it decides to utilize this achievement of modern science for entertainment and instruction. We believe the time is not far distant when the motion picture machine will be an essential part of the equipment of an up to date school. Its possibilities in teaching history, for example, are great. We believe the School Committee would do well to look into the matter. It does not do a city any harm to be a pioneer in a movement which promotes efficiency and to lead its more timid and backward neighbors in anticipating the line of progress.

Quincy proved to be in very truth the Promised Land to those two Porto Ricans who were in the district court Monday after a long and weary tramp from New York, vainly seeking work. Our energetic probation officer wasted no time in finding them work.

The Squantum Women's club showed that Squantum was emphatically on the map the other day when it held its annual guest day, to which came guests from far and near.

And now Mrs. Castor wants to cultivate shell fish in those flats down in Germantown.

Some people go through life looking as if they were sorry they had ever started.

VOTING.

As a mere question of right, every man who is entitled to vote can do so or let it alone. As one of the sovereign people who are supposed to rule the country, if he neglects to exercise the right of suffrage he is unfaithful to his trust. For this there is no penalty. Although efforts have been made to oblige the citizen to vote, and many plans have been proposed to compel a full expression of the popular will at the ballot box, they have never been successful, and the voter votes or not, just as he feels inclined. The fact that the women of Colorado failed to show their voting strength in a recent election is not a valid argument against woman suffrage. There are several millions of men in the United States who cannot be induced to go to the polls. A little more than one-half of them, only 55 per cent., voted for President in 1912, and the percentage is not likely to be increased next year. We may say what we will a bout duty of every citizen to exercise his right to vote, the average citizen cannot be made to consider going to the polls as a duty. He considers it a right which he can exercise or not, as inclination dictates. The voters stay away from the polls on various pretexts. Some of them are satisfied with things as they are. Some stay away on the ground that their vote will not affect the result; that, in fact, they are in a minority and it is useless to make any effort to change things. It will be the same with women. Where the right to vote has been won they have exercised it as a new thing, but the novelty soon wears off and the apathy of the male voters is shown by the sisterhood. On the question of right the women are solid. On the question of exercising it they will be no more faithful than the men.—Lynn Item.

WILSON'S POLICY.

Those who have maintained that the United States is below the point of safety in the matter of protection against invasion in war will grasp with avidity an utterance of President Wilson just after he had returned to Washington from a review of the Atlantic fleet. In commenting on the condition of the fleet the president expressed entire approval of the "quiet efficiency shown by the officers and men," together with approval over the appearance of the fleet; but he went considerably further and called into consideration the words of Admiral Dewey, who had expressed the opinion that the fleet never was in better condition and that there was every reason to go forward in the policy of steadily adding to its strength and equipment. President Wilson, in effect, voiced an opinion like unto that of Admiral Dewey; and he thereby virtually promised that he would lend the influence of the president's office toward the carrying out of the policy.—Barre Times.

LOOKING AFTER THE CHILD.

Every immigrant child arriving at a United States port of entry will henceforth be reported immediately to the school authorities in the locality to which he is destined, so that he may be placed in school without loss of time and without danger of being shunted off into unlawful employment. This is made possible by co-operation between two federal bureaus, the bureau of immigration of the department of labor and the bureau of education in the department of the interior. According to the plan agreed upon by the commissioners of the two bureaus concerned, the port officials will have the names of immigrant children between the ages of 5 and 16 copied from the manifest sheets submited by steam ship captains and forwarded, daily or weekly, to the county or city superintendent of schools.—Framingham News.

WOULD REGULATE JITNEY BUSSES

A bill in which Quincy will be directly interested was introduced in the legislature Monday by the Massachusetts Association of City and Town Solicitors, seeking to regulate the jitney bus.

Up to the present time there is but one jitney bus line in Quincy. That runs between City square and Wollaston but the fact that an unusual large number of hackney carriage licenses have been issued by the city council this year would seem to indicate that there will be many more lines established. The fee for a hackney carriage license is but a nominal one, $1 for each carriage, and any man who owns an automobile has little difficulty in getting the council to grant a hackney carriage license. In fact it is well known that jitney bus lines are comtemplated between City square and Houghs Neck, East Milton and Wollaston beach, City square and Nantasket, and other points. The bill introduced Monday provides:

"A city or town may make ordinances or bylaws, or the mayor and aldermen or the selectmen may make rules and orders, for the regulation of carriages and vehicles used therein, however propelled, with penalties for the violation thereof not exceeding $20 for one offence; and may annually receive $1 for each license granted to a person to set up and use any carriage or vehicle therein; and may require a bond in a reasonable amount with sureties, or an accident insurance policy, or other form of indemnity, running to the city or town, conditional in substances to pay any judgment obtained against the principal named in said bond, accident insurance policy or other form of indemnity, for any injury to person or property by reason of any careless, negligent or unlawful act on the part of the principal named in said bond, accident insurance policy or other form of indemnity, his, their or its agents or employes or the driver of such vehicle in the operation of any carriage or vehicle licensed for the carriage of passengers for hire within any city or town, except the city of Boston. Such rules shall not take effect until they have been published at least one week in a newspaper published in the city, town or county.

"Section 2—This act shall take effect upon its passage."

The bill was drafted by City Solicitor Vaughan and Assistant City Solicitor John W. Mawbey, of Worcester, and, while it does not regulate the jitney traffic as completely as that city's law department believes it should be regulated, Mr. Vaughan figures it is about as far as the Legislature would go this year.

PLAN TO STARVE GERMANY OUT

Causes American Exporters to Suffer Heavy Losses

MEAT AND COTTON HELD UP

Concerted Action Toward Securing Suspension of British Order-In-Council, Which Has Never Been Recognized by United States—German Case to Come First

Washington, May 25.—President Wilson will be asked to take steps to secure the British order-in-council's suspension, so far as it affects American exports to neutral countries contiguous to Germany.

The country's great packing industries are effecting a combination with the southern cotton interests. The aim is to secure concerted action, thus impressing the administration with an idea of the damage that is being done to American trade by the attempt of England and the allies to starve Germany out.

In order to do so, it is complained that England practically has stopped American shipments to the neutral Scandinavian countries, practically every vessel carrying either meat products or cotton to Scandinavia or Holland having been held up on the high seas by British or French warships and taken into port. The owners of vessels and cargoes have been compelled to fight for their rights in the British prize courts, and there have been delays that have caused them serious financial loss.

President Wilson is to be asked to demand, in the name of the United States, that this be stopped. Representatives of the big packing houses are here or on their way to appeal to him and will report first hand on the obstacles encountered in trying to get cargoes turned loose.

It developed that, in the negotiations between the state department's trade advisors and Sir Richard Crawford, the British embassy's representative, several attempts have been made to place the United States in the position of at least seeming to have accepted the order-in-council's provisions.

As the British original note offering free passage to all American goods bought in Germany and paid for before March 1 had no time limit in it, the British foreign office, on May 17, sent a peremptory cablegram to the embassy here fixing June 1 as the limit beyond which American owned goods, if purchased in Germany, would not be permitted free passage on the high seas even in neutral bottoms.

At the embassy's request, this time limit—which had never been asked for or recognized by the United States—was extended to June 15, but was coupled with a demand that the state department officially agree to it. Instead, the state department simply affirmed its original opposition to the order-in-council and broke off all unofficial negotiations.

What further American action will now be taken has not been determined. Ambassador Page has been instructed to tell the British foreign office that the facts in no way bear out its declaration that the United States has accepted the British admiralty's plan.

It is now deemed possible that, as a result of this the British government may now send forward its delayed reply to the American note refusing to agree to the order-in-council's restrictions.

There will be no further action, however, by the government until the German situation is cleared up. The Italian crisis is expected to result in further delay, but officials are hopeful that the reply will be in the president's hands by the latter part of this week.

It is taken for granted now that the reply will not be final, but unless it accepts the general principle that American lives must be respected anywhere, diplomats agreed, it is likely to precipitate a distinctly serious situation.

"STRAW BAIL" PLOT

Believed to Have Been Uncovered by Arrest of Boston Man

Boston, May 25.—With the arrest of Lyle G. Banks, 29, by Lieutenant Rooney of the district attorney's office, attaches announced that they had uncovered what they believed to be the biggest straw bail scheme since that of 1904.

Pickpockets and persons arrested during the recent garment workers' trouble are said to have been released in "bonds of straw."

According to the authorities Banks made a confession in which he bared the whole plot and told the police he was the tool of a gang of crooks, driven to crime through lack of money. He will be taken into the municipal court and charged with perjury.

District Attorney Pelletier said he considered the arrest an important one, for not only have Banks' operations been on a wide plane, but had he remained at liberty they would have been considerably more so.

BECOMES HUB COUNCILLOR

Storrow, Widely Known In Business Circles, to Fill Vacancy

Boston, May 25.—James J. Storrow was elected a member of the city council by that body to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William H. Woods. The vote was 6 to 2.

Storrow was a candidate against former Mayor Fitzgerald for the latter's second term in 1910. Two years ago he was president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He is widely known in business and banking circles. He is an active member of the banking firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., a director of the New England Trust company, First National bank and other corporations. He is an overseer of Harvard college.

Storrow has always been active in public affairs and achieved notable prominence as chairman of the Boston school committee.

THOUSANDS INVITED TO CLARK WEDDING

Bryan About the Only Notable Left Out In the Cold

Bowling Green, Mo., May 25.—William J. Bryan, secretary of state, will not witness the marriage of Genevieve Clark, only daughter of Speaker Champ Clark, to James M. Thompson of New Orleans in Bowling Green on June 12. The reason is that he will not be invited.

This was made known here and confirmed by a member of the speaker's official family. Bryan will be the only man prominent in official public life who will not receive an invitation to the wedding.

Every person of high and low degree in the Ninth congressional district, all members of the cabinet except Bryan, all members of congress except one, and nearly 5000 persons famed in national and international life will be asked to be present.

Clark more than once has resorted to the use of "blank invitations" and they have always brought crowds to "Honeyshuck," his Bowling Green home.

MAN-OF-WAR SUNK

Russian Ship Said to Have Gone Down and 1400 Lives Lost

Berlin, May 25.—The Overseas News agency gave out the following: "According to a Bucharest dispatch the Russian armored man-of-war Winterleimon has been sunk, with 1400 men, in the Black sea."

The foregoing evidently refers to the Russian battleship Panteleimon. This warship, whose destruction is said to have caused the loss of 1400 lives, is put down in naval reference books as having a complement of about 740 men. In time of war, however, this number might be increased considerably.

The Panteleimon was built in 1897. She was 378 feet long.

POLICE CHIEF BEST SHOT

Shoots and Kills Politician Who Wounded Him In Leg

Logan, W. Va., May 25.—E. C. Lewis, a politician, was shot and killed here by A. H. Sutphin, chief of police.

Lewis quarrelled with E. E. White, a member of the town council, and drew his revolver, but when Sutphin approached he turned the weapon on him and shot him in the leg. As he fell the officer fired, killing Lewis instantly.

Boy Prevents Mother's Suicide

Lawrence, Mass., May 25.—Prompt action by 8-year-old Ralph Heifitz in breaking a window, crawling through a gas-filled room and shutting off the deadly fumes, prevented his mother, Mrs. Ida Heifitz, who was despondent over the death of a relative, from committing suicide. Physicians said she would have been dead in a few more minutes but for the boy's act.

Homing Pigeon's Great Record

Boston, May 25.—Flying at the rate of a mile a minute for the entire distance, a homing pigeon belonging to Robert Huddy was the winner of the 200-mile old-bird race of the Greater Boston Concourse association. The fly was from Herkimer, N. Y.

CLUB ORGANIZES BASEBALL TEAM

James Moyle was chosen captain of the base ball team of the Galahad club of Christ church, organized at a meeting in the parish house Monday evening. The team was organized to meet the representation of St. Chrysostoms church and the game will probably be played at the joint picnic contemplated by the parishes.

AT THE THEATRE

Owing to the necessity of using two heavy drops, the large screen is being used at Kincaide's theatre for the pictures this week. The program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is an exceptionally good one. The feature picture is "Sunshine Molly" a tense and gripping drama from the oil fields in five reels. The other picture is the second chapter in "A Diamond from the Sky," claimed to be one of the best photo plays ever produced.

Leading the vaudeville numbers are the Great Richards in their electrical spectacular dancing act. One of the Richards appears dressed as a young woman. Another act that is certain to please is a novelty animal act by Camille's poodles. It is one of the most attractive features that has appeared at this theatre for a long time. The other vaudeville act is given by Thomas and Shapiro, black face comedians that sing, talk and act.

A WORTHY CAUSE

Editor of the Ledger:—

"For the Benefit of the Associated Charities," we read, with a side long glance, and our attention wanders on to something of seemingly more importance. But stop a minute and think! You are asked to buy a ticket for an entertainment to raise money for the benefit of the Associated Charities, and you give as an excuse, you have an engagement, or you can't buy a ticket to everything.

Are you able to go into the homes of the needy and suffering? Would the unfortunates want you to if you could? There is one who by her keen insight into human nature, her tender sympathy, her splendid business instinct can go into those homes, make the occupants feel a friend has come to see them, draw from them their woes, and leave hope and cheer behind with substantial assistance.

On whose shoulders does the heaviest part of the burden lie? And will you shrink from your minor share of the burden, forgetting that Jesus said "Ye do it unto the least of these ye do it unto me."?

Let us rally to the assistance of the faithful group of workers, and buy a ticket even if we can't go.

It will be worth ten times the price to you to know that you have helped to send a friend to some despairing soul who has been cheered and helped to a better living.

Fighting Forces of Austria and Italy Get Down to Business

BOMBARDING ALREADY BEGUN

Italian Coast of Adriatic Sea Raided, While Small Town Is Destroyed by Guns of Italian Destroyer—Russians Make Counter-Attack on Enemy and Regain Lost Ground—"Hill of Death" Charge by French Troops Costs the Lives of Three Thousand Germans—Kaiser's Troops Repulse Two Drives of Allies, Causing Them to Lose Heavily

London, May 25.—Little or no time has been allowed to elapse between the declaration of war and actual fighting between Italy and Austria. The first act of the new war was by Austria, when Austrian aeroplanes, destroyers and torpedo boats descended on the Italian coast of the Adriatic and bombarded towns, including Venice.

The official report from Vienna says: "Our fleet on the night following the declaration of war undertook action against the Italian east coast, between Venice and Bartletta, and successfully bombarded at several points objects of military importance.

"At the same point our aeroplanes threw bombs on a balloon shed at Thiarvalla, military buildings at Ancona and the arsenal at Venice, causing visible damage and fires."

The Italians, on their part, made an attack on Porto Pusco, a small island at the head of the Adriatic, where the Austrians lost two killed and forty-seven prisoners. The guns of the Italians destroyer wrecked the town on the island, sank all the craft in the harbor and destroyed the quay, landing stage and military barracks.

According to reports from Rome, a German ship was sunk at Ancona by the fire of the Italian ships.

Of the Austro-German force that is being massed on the Austro-Italian frontier, Germans constitute the larger part. The force is made up of thirty-four divisions of approximately 20,000 men each. Only ten of these divisions are Austrians.

Strategic positions have been occupied, either to meet an attack or to attempt to strike the first blow in an endeavor to dishearten the new combatants at the beginning of the campaign.

It is reported that in the Tyrol and on the eastern frontier Italian and Austrian advance guards are already in touch and have fired the first shots of the land war.

Rapid Blows Looked For

German troops, with heavy guns, aeroplanes and Zeppelins, are already passing through the valley of the Adige river in the direction of Verona, and it is expected that rapid and fierce blows will be delivered almost immediately at the Italian centre.

This, the Germans doubtless believe, would serve to hold off an Italian advance from the province of Venice, where the flat nature of the country would give the Italians a greater chance of success.

The general plan of campaign has not yet been disclosed.

The first big battle of the war, however, is more than likely to be on the sea. Italy may decide to strike directly at Trieste, massing her fleet to clear the way for a crossing of the Adriatic by transports, and an attack on the coveted seaport by land and sea. This makes it probable that the first big naval engagement of the European war will be fought in the Adriatic.

Throughout Italy and Austria the outbreak of war has been made the occasion for demonstrations of patriotic loyalty. In London, Paris and Petrograd, the Italian residents have held processions, with banners flying, and many of them are making ready to join the colors.

Throughout Austria and Germany there is bitter denunciation of Italy, which for the moment has replaced England as the most hated enemy. In the allied countries, on the other hand, Italian intervention is hailed with delight, and in the Italian quarters of London and Paris there have been enthusiastic demonstrations and cheering farewells to the Italians leaving for home to join the colors.

Roumania, Greece and Bulgaria have made no move yet. The government of Bulgaria has reiterated that it will continue to observe an attitude of neutrality so long as Bulgarian interests are not directly affected, and it sees no reason why they should be.

The opposition, however, is voicing the opinion that Bulgaria should at once seize the opportunity to join with the allies.

Along the Eastern Front

Beaten back in their attempt to descend upon Permysl from the north, the Austro-Germans are smashing vigorously against the Russian lines to the south.

An official statement from the Russian war office admits that General Mackensen's right wing drove back the Russian line twenty-two miles south of Permysl in a bloody engagement. The Russians hurled reinforcements into a counter-attack, regaining the lost ground and taking several hundred prisoners.

The position of the Austro-German force on the right bank of the San, north of Jaroslau, is rapidly becoming more dangerous.

For seventy-two hours the Austrian batteries that opened a long range bombardment of the western foot of Permysl have been silent.

In the Russian province of Kovno the Germans are making new efforts to cross the Dubissa, but each attempt has been beaten back. In southeastern Galicia the artillery battles, begun several days ago, are continuing.

Menace Against Arras Removed

An unnamed crest in the Lorette hills, north of Arras, is designated the "hill of death" in an eye-witness statement given out at the French war office.

Three thousand German bodies lay scattered about the slopes when the French, by a bayonet charge that will go down in history, captured the heights. Fragments of bodies, blood-spattered rocks and mangled corpses greeted the victorious French troops when they swept to the top of the hill, after an almost ceaseless three months' attack.

Capture of this crest, though accomplished at a great loss to the French arms, removed a German menace against Arras. The hill commanded the roads leading to Arras.

"Every day we have been finding arms, mitrailleuses and all sorts of guns buried in the trenches on the heights," said the statement.

Defeat for the allies with extremely heavy losses in two distinct drives against the German lines in the last twenty-four hours was reported in official dispatches.

Between Neuve Chappelle and Givenchy the British launched several attacks. German machine guns raked the highways and the fields. The enemy retired, leaving the ground between the trenches strewn with dead and wounded.

The French are making reckless attempts to capture the northern slopes of the Lorette hills. In the fighting here near Ablain and south of Neuville the French losses have been exceptionally heavy.

A Book That Wasn't Published.

A singular plan for honoring heroes was proposed in 1832, if we may credit the following footnote to "La Typographie," a poem by Le Pelletier, published in that year at Geneva: "In February last several newspapers announced that the largest book ever printed will shortly appear in London under the title 'The Pantheon of English Heroes.' The pages of this book will be twelve feet long and two feet wide and the letters six inches high. It has been found necessary to erect special machinery for the manufacture of the paper required. This gigantic work will be printed by steam in characters of gold, no ordinary printing ink being used in the process. Only a hundred copies will be issued, and these will serve to adorn the principal libraries in England." You will not find that book in any public or private library.

Pearls.

The use and popularity of pearls date back to about 300 B. C., but they were known to yet older peoples, and especially to those of the east. The Chinese records go still farther back, and oyster pearls were received as tribute in the twenty-third century B. C. It is probable that they were found in the waters of Ceylon and India 2,000 years ago, and the Greeks of course both knew and recognized the value of the pearl. But it was not until the Roman empire was beginning to rise that the knowledge of the value of the pearl became general.

BE FIT!

Life's First Command!

A large proportion of human inefficiency must be charged to the train of ills resulting from a disordered digestive tract. Weakened by rich foods and over-eating, it becomes clogged and, if neglected, it poisons the blood and throws the entire system out of harmony. Blotches appear on the skin, a dull, grouchy feeling develops, often accompanied by sick headache. The enjoyment of pleasure and the accomplishment of good work become equally difficult. Of greater importance still, the foundation for a severe illness is often laid.

Avoid all these effects. Take Beecham's Pills at the first symptom of indigestion, biliousness or constipation. They are a safe and sure remedy that has stood the test of over 60 years. Made entirely of medicinal herbs—absolutely free from habit-forming drugs.

CUT RATE TICKET WAR CONTINUES

BY CARLTON TEN EYCK.

(United Press.)

New York, May 24—A bitter struggle between the standpat theatre managers and the progressive leaders of the Great White Way over the cut rate ticket "war" still occupies the New York theatrical population.

Everywhere along the broad and winding path in the heart of Manhattan the talk is all of the latest move on the part of either side. Each faction has its followers and they spend many an hour wrangling over the "war."

It started somewhere back early in this year, but little attention was paid to it until the shot began to get hot enough for the general public to recognize that a war was in progress. As soon as the dear old public heard that there might be a reduction in theatre tickets it quickly mobilized. Ever since it has been shouting loudly for the cut-raters.

When the theatres attempted to stamp out the ticket speculators some few back-slided and secretly hired men to peddle tickets on the streets or in doorways near the theatre.

There was no way to prevent this practice and many of the managers decided to take drastic action. They did. They cut ticket prices in half. And then the hot shot began to fly.

The method of working it was to issue printed slips entitling the holder to purchase two seats for the price of one. These slips were distributed by drug stores, ice cream parlors and by other petty tradesmen to thousands of New Yorkers. The idea took like wildfire and houses that had been playing to empty seats soon began to dust the gallery chairs more frequently.

But the indirect cut rate method of selling tickets did not meet the approval of some of New York's biggest managers and producers and a campaign committee organized to combat it.

They contended that it was unfair for the theatres to charge one person $2 for a seat while another person could secure two seats for that amount.—If he knew how to go about it. But most every one knew about the cheaper way and it was his fault alone if he did not buy his tickets via the cut rate channel.

These managers opposed to the cut rate method of selling tickets did not enlighten a long suffering public how they could escape the price of the ticket scalper and still get a seat from which anything but the ceiling of the theatre could be seen. For years New Yorkers have paid double prices to see any kind of a show that was worth seeing and often paid double for seeing many that were mighty poor stuff.

Neither did these big fellows who objected to the two-seat-for-one-price plan tell the theatre going public how it happened that a speculator could get the best seats in the house, peddle his wares right in front of the theatre door and then have the ticket taker refuse to admit a man who bought a ticket from a speculator. That has happened many times in recent weeks and the police will arrest neither the ticket "scalper," nor the ticket seller, saying it is a civil case. It may be that, but it's hardly civil treatment toward theatre patrons.

Even the "movie" houses that began to get ambitions in the high price line have come down a peg. One Broadway house that is playing "big" stuff charged 75 cents for the best seats. That is, they did charge that. Now those seats are fifty cents. And the most popular movie house in the city is the Strand, which was built to produce fifteen cent motion pictures and has had sense enough to remain so.

Our Laugh Column

GRATIFIED.

One of the officials of the Metropolitan Museum of Art tells of a visit made to that institution by a Kentucky lady who was accompanied by her servant, an old-fashioned black mammy.

Now the aged servant had never visited an art gallery, and the nudes startled her in the highest degree. During their tour through the sculpture hall, the old mammy continued to murmur to herself:

"Sakes alive! Land sakes alive!" With dubious shakes of the head she passed before the white beauty of the Venus de Medici, the Apollo Belvidere, the Venus de Milo.

"Land sakes alive!" she repeated.

"Don't you like 'em Maria?" asked the mistress.

"Yas'm, I likes 'em," said Maria, "but I is powerful glad dat dere ain't none o' my color heah."—New York American.

POLITICS AT HOME.

Little Millie's father and grandfather were Republicans; and, as election drew near, they spoke of their opponents with increasing warmth, never heeding Millie's attentive ears and wondering eyes. One night, however, as the little maid was preparing for bed, she whispered in a frightened voice: "Oh, mamma, I don't dare to go upstairs. I'm afraid there's a Democrat under the bed."—The Woman's Journal.

COSTLY JUSTICE.

A colored gentleman, on trial for his life in a remote Tennessee town, was asked by the judge if he had anything to say, whereupon he replied:

"All I has to say is this, Judge: if you hangs me, you hangs the best bass singer in Tennessee."—Everybody's.

TWENTIETH CENTURY WAY.

Miss Varney was trying to illustrate to her youthful Sunday school class the lesson, "Return good for evil." To make it practical she said:

"Now, suppose, children, one of your schoolmates should strike you, and the next day you should bring him an apple, that would be one way of returning good for evil."

A little girl, sitting in one of the front seats, raised her hand.

"Well, Elizabeth," said the teacher, "what is it?"

"Then," said Elizabeth firmly, "he would strike you again to get another apple."—Ladies' Home Journal.

ONLY ONE THING.

Sylvia, supple and slender, and Aunt Belle, bulky and benign, had returned from a shopping tour. Each had been trying to buy a ready-made suit.

When they returned home, Sylvia was asked what success each had in her efforts to be fitted. "Well," and Sylvia, "I got along pretty well, but Aunt Belle is geting so fat that about all she can get, ready-made, is an umbrella."—Youth' Companion.

No Runs Made Off Adams School Twirler

McDonald, the twirler of the Adams school pitched a no-hit-no-run game at Merrymount Park Monday afternoon and returned the Adams school a winner over the Lincolns by a score of 6 to 0. The game was replete with sensation, particularly in the last two innings when a slip by any of the fielders would have been a welcome error. Several hundred cheered the teams.

The score by innings:

Adams	1 0 5 0 1 x 6 4 0
Lincoln	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

Batteries—McDonald and Higgins; Bagoli and Pantelli.

LODGE ROMA HAS MEETING

Lodge Roma, Figli d'Italia, met in Protection hall Monday evening with an unusually large attendance. Applications for membership were received and several were initiated. The committee in charge of the recent dance in Alpha hall made its report. The affair was a success socially and financially.

BITTEN BY COLLIE DOG

John Revenni, agent of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., was bitten by a dog on Wilson street, Monday afternoon. A portion of his clothing was torn and the teeth of the dog left their mark on him.

The dog, a handsome collie, is owned by Charles H. Guilhop of 85 Wilson avenue. When Revenni started down Wilson avenue it was chasing a team. As he passed the dog suddenly turned and flew at him, fastening his teeth in his trousers, he declares.

TOAD HIS WORST ENEMY AT FRONT

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris on Riviera Express, May 15: (By Mail to New York)—Private Leopold Buzancy, in the seat opposite was grumbling. His grouch had nothing to do with the wound in his foot which had just reopened and was giving him serious pain for because of that foot he was to have a two weeks' furlough away from the trenches. Nor was it because he feared the German bullets; for dating from yesterday he had lived within 30 meters of the enemy swapping shots daily for the past two months. He was kicking because toadfrogs and mice kept him from enjoying life at the front.

Psychologists will have a lot to think about after this war is over and one of the least of their problems will be to find out why a soldier will bounce out of his trench at the first words command and charge bayonets like a demon only to yell like a Commanche Indian a little later when a beetle crawls up his sleeve.

"What is the worst thing you have to put up with living in the trenches?" he had been asked out of curiosity.

"Toads," Buzancy replied in comic-opera-Frenchman-English, "the sacre toads!

"If you remember I told you about the mouse that nearly bit me the day we took the German trenches and I got the bullet in the foot. I put my knapsack on his tail by accident and he almost hit me every time I come near to him to turn him loose. Sale petite bete!

"Well when I went back to the trenches after my foot was well, the field mice had nearly all gone. Bien merci! and I began to think I live in peace and have nothing to worry me while we fight the German. But it was not so. The toad he come one day and sit on the cadavre of the boche which is right in front of my place in the trench."

"On the body of a German soldier?"

"Right on his face. And once in a while he come to see me; the toadfrog, not the German.

"Wait a minute. Tell me about the German. How did he get there and what did you leave him there for after he came?"

"One night so black you could see nothing, not even your hand before your face, while the drizzle kept coming down, Felix, who share the niche in the trench with me, hear a noise. 'Snip, snip, snip!' it say. We know what it mean. We have heard that 'snip, snip, snip' before. It is a boche come to cut the barbed-wire entanglements in front of our trenches. Felix he fire. I fire. Everybody in our trench fire and we hear the 'snip snip' no more.

"We pay no more attention for a while then Felix grab me by the arm. The toad has come back! This time though he sit on the German's chest. But he stare just the same and never move. By and by another toad came and another and a dozen and they sit around the cadavre and on it until it is near covered.

"When night came I almost got scared to death for suddenly I see a toad sitting on the lodge by me in the trench. After the toads got through visiting the German they come and visit me. I couldn't stand that and I smash him and fling him out with my bayonet. Oh how I hate the little beasts!

"I think I go crazy for three or four days because of those toads. Then my wound open and I can't do my work so they give me this furlough. My captain tell me when I leave he take the German trench before I come back so we won't have the toads on the cadavre always in front of us. He is a sensitive, fine captain. He will do anything before he see his men suffer.

"Charging trenches is our trade—it's what we are for. But we are not supposed to share our beds, so to speak with toads who consort the rest of the time with cadavres. Quoi?"

The express crawled into Dijon and the soldier, shaggy as a bearcat, limped out and disappeared in the gloom of the station.

SPECIAL MATCH.

Ross and Dixon to Compete On Maples

The first bottle, duck and candle pin match in this city has been arranged for this week with Louis Ross and C. Dixon as the competitors. The match will be ten strings and for totals. The bowlers of the city for some reason or other have fallen in love with the candles and there has been little duck and bottle pin bowling. Olindy holds the Wardwell alley record at bottle pins.

DEATH AND DIVORCE DERANGED HIS MIND

Cause Assigned For William Hubbard's Double Crime

Methuen, Mass., May 25.—There will be no autopsy on the body of Miss Mary H. Closson, assistant librarian in the Nevins public library, Medical Examiner Dow being satisfied she was murdered by William Hubbard, who afterward killed himself.

The police have accepted the examiner's opinion and have dropped inquiry in the case. Friends speak in the highest praise of the young woman, who was the sole support of a widowed mother.

That Hubbard was temporarily deranged by the recent death of his baby and believed the girl to be his wife, who recently received a divorce, is the theory held by the man's parents.

Both funerals will be private. Miss Closson will be buried in Walnut Grove cemetery, beside her father, who died a few months ago. Hubbard's burial will be in the same cemetery.

SUNDAY IS CRITICISED

Unitarians Do Not Believe In Methods of the Evangelist

Boston, May 25.—Billy Sunday's method of evangelism received severe criticism at the hands of two speakers at the Unitarian conference yesterday. Rev. Addison Moore, D. D., of Schenectady, N. Y., said: "Revivalists like Jonathan Edwards could get results without tactics that drip with slang. It is the idioms of the saloon and the gutter that sway the multitude today."

Rev. Charles W. Casson of Roslindale said: "Many men have been saved by Unitarians that Billy Sunday's slime hooks will never save."

MANUFACTURERS CONVENTION.

New York, May 25—The twentieth annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers opened today at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Prominent manufacturers from all parts of the United States were assembled to discuss the effects of the year's political and economic developments, internal and international, on their business. William Howard Taft, former President of the United States; Senator Warren C. Harding, of Ohio; and other speakers of national reputation will address the manufacturers.

The subject of Mt. Taft's address is announced to be "Clayton Act and Other Things." It is expected that the former President will avail himself of this opportunity to express to business men from all parts of the country his view on the present political situation. The Clayton Act, which was vigorously opposed by many of the prominent organizations of business men, opens a field for discussion of great interest to manufacturers, the business legislation passed by the last Congress. James A. Emery, of the National Council for Industrial defense, will outline the work of the newly created Federal Trade Commission, which is vested with plenary powers over corporate business interests, and there will be a general discussion of the effect of the activities of this body on the manufacturing industry.

A special train carrying delegates from eastern states arrived here last night. The visitors went immediately to the Exposition grounds, where they were invited to inspect the exhibits of iron, steel and hardware products.

An excursion around San Francisco Bay, banquets, luncheons and receptions will keep the iron-masters busy during their week's stay here.

BIG BELL TO CALIFORNIA.

Troy, N. Shipment was made via the all water route, and this chime will enjoy the two fold distinction of being the first set of bells to pass through the Panama Canal and the largest in any building on the Pacific Coast. A new chiming system, similar to the one used in connection with the famous chime in Trinity Church, New York, will be employed for ringing the Los Angeles bells.

His Salutatory Oration

By EUNICE BLAKE

To the collegian the time of his graduation is critical, especially if he has been prominent in college and much is expected of him. The question has been asked, What becomes of all the valedictorians? This is a story of what became of a young man who stood next to head in his class, but who bade fair to take a more important stand in life than any other member.

It was a few days before commencement. Eliot Ayres, who was expecting his mother and sister to hear him speak at graduation, went to the station to meet them. Having missed the train, they failed to arrive, but some one else arrived whose coming made a considerable difference to Mr. Ayres.

He was slowly walking away from the train when he felt a pair of arms with extremely light covering thrown around his neck, an uplifted face was thrust against his, and he was kissed by a very pretty girl he had never seen before. Discovering that she had made a mistake, she shrank from the man she had kissed, covering her face with her hands.

The first impression made upon Ayres by this sudden clasping was that it was done for the purpose of robbing him. Involuntarily he put his hand on the inside pocket of his coat, where he kept his pocketbook, and it was not there.

"Give me my pocketbook," he said in a no very deferential tone.

The girl uncovered her face and looked at him, the hot blood mounting to her cheeks.

"What do you mean?" she asked indignantly.

There was a refinement about her that seemed to preclude the possibility of her being a thief. Besides, her indignation bore the stamp of being genuine. Ayres felt again in his pocket and on looking down on the sleeve of his coat remembered that he had changed it before leaving his room. Then it occurred to him that he had not changed his pocketbook as well.

"I beg your pardon," he said quite meekly. "I have made a mistake as well as you. I left my pocketbook at home."

Now, why in the name of justice was not this a fair standoff between the two? Each had been mistaken; therefore there was nothing further to do but for the girl to say, "You are quite excusable," and for the man to say, "Good morning," and, lifting his hat, deferentially pass on. But what must the girl do but shoot fire from her eyes and say:

"Give me your name and address. My brother will call upon you to avenge this insult!"

"But I have explained. I beg a thousand pardons!"

"You may beg a million if you like!"

"But"—

"Never mind. Since you refuse me your name and address, I shall have to locate you. I can point you out."

And, turning on her heel, she swept out of the station.

The next day about 10 in the morning a military band gathered on the college campus. Positions for the various classes and alumni were marked. Young men in caps and gowns began to pour out of the dormitories, the commencement procession was formed and marched to the chapel for the graduating exercises. The salutatory oration was delivered by Ayres. His place was second in rank, but the valedictorian was a grind, while Ayres was considered a genius, of whom great things were expected when he got into the battle of life.

Ayres, being the first man to speak, stepped on the rostrum and made his bow to the audience, most of whom, knowing his caliber, awaited expectantly the power of his eloquence.

Mr. Ayres, looking down on the benches before him, saw sitting in the front row the girl whom he had the day before accused of robbing him and whose brother was to settle with him for the insult. No such revenge was necessary. The young lady looked up at the salutatorian at the critical moment of his life and slew him.

The first sentence of Ayres' oration had been written to arrest the attention of the audience. It was a vigorous sentence of two words. As Ayres spoke it it was like bringing down a feather instead of a sledgehammer. And this would apply to his whole oration. The girl in the audience sat looking up at him with a pair of beautiful liquid eyes filled with contempt. The most telling utterances she received with a curl of the lip; at those parts which were intended to express great feeling she gave him a look of levity.

The oration was a failure. When Ayres stepped down from the rostrum he knew that his audience had been greatly disappointed in him. His mother and sister joined him and asked him what in the world had been the matter with him. He put them off. If he had told them the truth he would have said that a career had been ruined.

Ayres never recovered from that failure. He had intended to study law, and his classmates had averred that he would turn out a statesman. He went back to the farm from which he had gone to college and never left it. He is now an old man, who has never done any more important work than raising corn and potatoes.

And the girl who slew him? She is now prominent socially and a leader among women.

MISS ALICE PAUL.

Miss Alice Paul of New Jersey is chairman of the Congressional Union For Woman Suffrage.

Miss Paul is a graduate of Swarthmore college and has an M. A. and Ph. D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. She is also a graduate of the New York school of philanthropy and studied at the Universities of Birmingham and London. She was formerly chairman of the congressional committee of the National American Woman Suffrage association and formerly a member of the board of the Pennsylvania State Woman Suffrage association.

The Congressional Union For Woman Suffrage is an organization which has as its basic work the establishment of a national suffrage amendment.

The women most interested in the suffrage movement felt that during the incoming of a new administration was the psychological moment for reviving interest or, rather, creating a new interest in the demand by women for an amendment to the national constitution embracing the enfranchisement of women. It was to this end that the Congressional union was formed, with Miss Alice Paul at its head, and which demonstrated in no unmistakable terms to President Wilson's administration the great strength of the movement for a national suffrage amendment.

Suffrage history was made that day preceding the inauguration of President Wilson, when approximately 8,000 women marched from the capitol at Washington up Pennsylvania avenue, past the White House and invaded the Hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

This demonstration was so beautiful in its pageantry and allegorical features that it very nearly overshadowed the interest excited in the minds of the people by the inaugural ceremonies themselves, and the Sixty-third congress entered upon its term of office fully informed upon one point at any rate—that many women were demanding the amendment.

DETROIT TO BUY STREET RAILWAY

(By United Press.)

Detroit, Mich., May 25—Complete municipal ownership and operation of the Detroit street railway system before the end of the present summer is in prospect. After more than a decade of bickering between the city and the Detroit United Railway Company, terms for the actual transfer of the property to the city have been practically decided upon and there is every indication that by July the municipality will be in actual control of the system.

Sale of the property to the city will give to Detroit the largest municipality controlled street railway system in the world. Value of the company's property has been variously appraised at from $18,000,000 to $35,000,000.

At a special election, to be held probably during the latter part of June, voters of the city will be asked to give their final approval to the purchase plan. Three-fifths of the voters must approve the proposition, but, if previous popular decisions of the municipal ownership question may be accepted as a criterion, the vote will be a mere formality. At previous elections when the question has been submitted, it has carried by overwhelming majorities—by an eight to one vote at the last election on the question—but each time legal obstacles have been interposed to prevent the actual transfer of the property to the city. These now have been removed, and the June election is expected to be the final step necessary for the taking over the lines by the municipality.

Negotiations between the city and the company reached a climax several weeks ago when the street railway commissioners submitted to the Detriot United Railway stockholders a tenative proposition providing for the transfer of the property to the city at a sale price of "not to exceed $24,900,000." In executive session, the stockholders voted to accept the proposition at the price named. The railway commissioners' then entered their real bid for the property, offering to assume the entire bonded indebtedness on the city lines—namely $23,250,000—in return for a clear title to the property, free from mortgage. Refusing to accept this latest offer, the company made the counter-proposition that the circuit court be permitted to fix the sale price. To this, the railway commissioners agreed.

Not a single dollar will be paid down by the city for the company's property. The contract will provide that the property be paid for out of the earnings of the system, on long time and very easy payments. The city will not bind itself for any amount nor render itself liable in any way except to operate the system, and out of the earnings, to keep it in good condition and gradually to pay off the bonded indebtedness.

ARRIVAL OF FUNERAL SHIP

Victims and Survivors of Lusitania Disaster Brought to New York

New York, May 25.—The "funeral ship" New York of the American line, bearing the bodies of nine of the Americans who were lost in the Lusitania disaster, and three of the survivors, arrived here.

Lying side by side in the darkened second cabin smoking room, the nine caskets were draped in the Stars and Stripes, and over the body of Charles Frohman, the theatrical manager, was a huge mound of wreaths and cut flowers that had been placed there in Liverpool just before the liner started for home with the first of the Lusitania's living and dead.

Boston, May 25.—John Kirby, who shot and killed his chum, Antone Yunitz, as the two were standing on a street corner, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the superior criminal court and was given a state prison term of from three to five years by Judge Irwin.

The shooting was a mystery, as Kirby insisted he had no quarrel with Yunitz and didn't know why he had acted on an impulse.

Yunitz in his dying statement begged the officers not to press any charge against his murderer.

BOXING DOPE.

By Hal Sheridan
(United Press)

New York, May 25:—One bout will clear up the middleweight boxing muddle in the minds of N. Y. fans The battle needed to establish a recognized champion of class will bring together Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul flash, and Young Ahearn, he who was formerly dubbed the Dancing Master.

There use dto be considerable talk about Jimmy Clabby, Eddie McGoorty and some other mingling in the select circle at the top of the heap, but that is all past. Clabby recently came to New York to show his wares. Since he did, he isn't even conceded an outside chance of grabbing off any championship honors. As he had decisively beaten McGoorty on several occasions the latter battler is also eliminated from the chances.

Clabby's showings left a distinctly bad odor in the nostrils of New York fight fans. The Hammond, Ind., boxer first tangled up with Al McCoy, the "joke" champion. He may have had a shade but there was so little fighting done in the whole bout that very few writers cared to give a verdict. "No fight" was the unanimous opinion.

The Westerner and his manager howled long and loud. McCoy, they said, wouldn't fight, and necessarily Clabby couldn't. It took two to make a fight, they said. So Clabby was given another chance. He was sent against hard-hitting George Chip from Newcastle, Pa. The exhibition they put up was sickening. After seven and a half rounds of it Referee Billy Roche stepped in and declared it no contest. Both men were disqualified for "stalling." That ended Clabby's career in New York and no one here will ever seriously consider him for championship purposes.

Harry Pollock is figuring strongly on bringing Gibbons and Ahearn together this summer at his Brighton A. C. This would be over the ten round, no decision route and considerable doubt exists that such an affair would bring out a clear cut winner. Gibbons is willing to take Ahearn on over either ten or twenty. He once stopped Ahearn in four rounds a few years back and is confident of being able to do it again. Ahearn has admittedly improved, however, since that first meeting and Gibbons would meet an entirely new man.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE.

Blue Hills Give Cubs Severe Trouncing

The Cubs, leaders of the West Quincy Twilight league, received a severe trouncing at the hands of the Blue Hills Monday evening at the Ward Four Playgrounds. The feature of the game was the fine fielding of "Honus" Sullivan of the Cubs.

The score

Cubs	0 0 0 0 3 0— 3

AUTOMOBILES IN COLLISION

The delivery truck of W. A. Bradford, the local plumber, and the automobile of Henry Griffiths of 66 Kemper street, Wollaston, collided at Brooks corner Wollaston, this morning. In the truck were Lester Andrews and Harry Sweeney. Mrs. Griffiths was operating the runabout and carried a passenger.

The accident took place when the Bradford machine came up Newport avenue, travelling in a westerly direction. Mrs. Griffiths drove over the bridge on Beale street. The cars struck each other at the corner. The passengers were shaken up but not injured.

ANTIS START WORK.

(By United Press)

Boston, May 25—Six women of the Massachusetts association opposed to suffrage left Boston for Springfield yesterday afternoon and this morning started a house to house canvas for an endeavor to interest women in the western part of the state in the big convention to be held at Springfield, June 9. Twenty towns and cities including Holyoke, Northhampton, Greenfield, Westfield and Southbridge have been selected for the "pave the way" work.

TEMPORARY INSANITY.

(By United Press.)

Methuen, May 25—Temporary insanity is believed to have led William Hubbard to entice Miss Mary Clossen into his mother's home Sunday, murder her and then commit suicide. The mother said today she believed worrying over his wife's divorce suit and loss of his baby, unsettled his mind.

ITALY DEALS FIRST BLOWS

(By United Press)

Rome, May 25—Italy has delivered her first aggressive strokes, both on the land and sea. Italian cavalry crossed the Austrian border in the Isonzo district, attacked strong enemy outposts and forced the Austrians to retire after a sharp engagement. Official repors said an Italian destroyer shelled the Austrian harbor of Portozuso, sinking an Austrian motorboat flotilla, destroying the quay and landing stage and military barracks.

King Victor Emmanuel has left for the front today with his staff.

Sleep Without Drugs.

"Doc, how can I get to sleep without using dope?" asked a man troubled with insomnia of a noted physician.

"On going to bed assume a comfortable attitude in which every muscle is relaxed," said the doctor, "but not the attitude in which you are accustomed to go to sleep, though something resembling it. Every movement, even coughing and yawning, must be strictly repressed, especially the desire to turn over. Maintain the same attitude without change, constantly resisting the longing to move or turn over. As a rule, by the end of fifteen or twenty minutes of this you will find yourself growing very drowsy and then, just as the desire to roll over becomes absolutely uncontrollable turn with the least possible effort and assume the position in which you habitually go to sleep. Natural sleep should follow at once. This method seldom fails. Give it a thorough trial at least before resorting to a drug to bring sleep."—Buffalo Express.

Heated Bearings.

Sometimes when a bearing becomes heated and requires oil it will be found that the oil will not flow down in the oil hole. Either the hole is clogged with dirt or the heat may cause the air to rise and prevent the oil from entering. Where a wire cannot be used effectively the following remedy, although it is not infallible, is almost sure to make the oil reach the bearing.

Fill the hole with oil and quickly place the thumb over it to prevent the air from escaping, and if the oil cup does not leak the heated air inside will rise above the oil, and in two or three minutes it will be forced into the bearing, even if it has to pass considerable dirt.

When a bearing cannot be reached in this way and when light oils, such as kerosene, are ineffective, try placing a little mercury in the oil hole and allow it to remain a few minutes, then use oil.—World's Advance.

After All His Trouble.

Two men were hurrying along Park row when the wind seemed to be blowing from all directions to the peril of umbrellas and anything not firmly anchored. One of them noticed the handle of a wrecked umbrella which had been thrown into the street along with many others and, stopping to pick it up, remarked to his companion that it was too good to pass. As he stooped a gust of wind captured his hat, and it went spinning along toward St. Paul's chapel, he after it. He ran into a man, slipped, fell in the mud and arose in time to see his hat run over by a truck. At a nearby restaurant, where he was drying his clothes, he said: "I lost a five dollar hat and spoiled a suit of clothes for the handle of a thirty cent umbrella. That would not be so bad, but I see the handle is broken."—New York Tribune.

A Painting.

What is a painting? It is the language of the artist in which he expresses his thought, conception of mind or emotion of heart. Where a writer expresses himself in words, the artist expresses himself in colors, light and shadows. An author's description of a place, person or object is but a word picture, while the artist's canvas stares us in the face, so to speak, flashing the subject continually before our eyes until we can grasp its every meaning without so much as turning a page. Thanks to our own Gilbert Stuart and his wonderful conception of the portrait of George Washington, it would take a paragraph or more to describe George Washington's mouth or nose, where Gilbert Stuart tells it to us in a few strokes of his masterful brush. —Elliot A. Haaseman in National Magazine.

Ideal Politics.

What I wish first to insist upon is the essential worth, nobility, primary indeed, of the liberal pursuit of politics. It is simply the highest, the most dignified, the most important of all earthly objects of human study. Next to the relations of man with his maker there is nothing so deserving his best attention as his relation to his fellow men. The welfare of the community is always more important than the welfare of any individual or number of individuals, and the welfare of the community is the highest object of the study of politics.—Whitelaw Reid.

Two Master Writers.

It was an odd coincidence, but a striking one, that the greatest genius of England and the most masterful mind in Spain passed from earth on the same day. Shakespeare and Cervantes both died April 23, 1616, the former being only fifty-two years old, and the latter sixty-nine.

The Ladder.

"Yes, he's one of our leading citizens. He certainly has climbed high in a few years. Why, he holds our best federal job."

"Indeed! How did he get it?"

"His brother-in-law is our leading politician."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fine Distinction.

"There are some things about life that I don't understand."

"What now?"

"A man is looked up to if he moves in a circle and frowned down on if he belongs to a ring."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Extinguished.

"He was positively burning with love for her."

"Oh, it was all right. Her father put him out."

It is an everlasting duty, the duty of being brave. Valor is still value.

POLL TAX PAYERS TOTAL 12,088

Is Gain of 429 Over Last Year

The Assistant Assessors have completed their work for this year and have made their returns to the Assessors and it is expected that the poll tax bills will go out in a few days. Usually the only poll tax bills sent out at this time are to those who pay a poll tax only, the poll tax of those paying a property tax going out in September with the property tax bills. This year however it is announced that all poll tax bills will go out at once. This means that the receipts of the tax collector's office for polls will be much larger than usual at this season of the year. The total number of persons assessed a poll tax this year is 12,088 against 11,659 returned in May 1914, an increase of 429.

The table below gives the number of assessed polls in May 1914 in comparison with that of this year. By this table it will be seen that every ward of the city made a gain with the exception of Ward Three, the South Quincy ward. Precinct One of this ward shows a loss of 40 and Precinct Two a loss of 39; for all that, however, the ward is the third in the number of assessed polls.

Ward Two, the Fore River district, is the largest ward in the city with a total of 2384, while Ward One, the centre ward is a good second with 2237, Ward Six with a total of 1702 and Ward Four with 1797 are fighting for the bottom position.

The smallest gain by any one precinct, was Precinct One of Ward Six, with 5 while next in line with a small gain was Precinct One of Ward Five with a gain 11.

	1915	1914	Gain

BERNHARD DERNBERG.

Dr. Dernberg has been a thorn in the flesh of the American people for some time. His speeches and writings have been of a character that were intended to arouse an anti-American feeling among those of the Teutonic race. He had no official standing, but his utterances have been so distasteful that the administration had been urged to send him out of the country. It is announced that he intends to leave the United States of his own volition, but he desires to return to Europe armed with a British safe-conduct for his voyage. The United States will not ask Great Britain to consent to it unless assured that the request would be granted, and it is more than likely that Great Britain will decline to extend any courtesies to Dr. Dernberg. He was not invited to visit the United States and, during his stay, he has made himself very offensive by his utterances as a semi-official mouthpiece for the kaiser. Convinced that his further presence here is most unwelcome and that it is not at all certain that he can cross the Atlantic unmolested, he goes to the government he has maligned and asks for safe conduct. Our government should not humiliate itself to the extent of asking for Dernberg's protection. He wants to go, we want him to go and now let him take his own risks of a safe passage.

An important meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday all members being present with the exception of Dr. Curtis.

The contract to furnish the schools with fuel was awarded to the City Fuel Co. of Dorchester. The amount of coal needed was about 2000 tons of soft coal and 200 tons of hard coal. There were two bidders, the City Fuel Co. and J. F. Shepperd & Sons. The bids were as follows.

CITY FUEL CO.
Soft coal, $4.35 per ton.
Lehigh, $7 per ton.
Egg coal, $7.40 per ton.

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS.
Soft coal $4.37 per ton.
Lehigh, $7 per ton.
Egg coal, $7.40 per ton.

In addition to the lower price for soft coal the contract of the City Fuel Co., calls for a higher B. T. U., less sulphur and less ash, making a difference of about 5 cents a ton.

London, May 26. The American liner Nebraskan, Capt. G. B. Knight which left Liverpool May 24, for the Delaware Breakwater was torpedoed off the west coast of Ireland. Latest reports say no lives were lost.

Additional reports says that her forward hole is full of water. Although leaking badly it is thought that she may be able to reach shore or some neighboring port.

JOLLY PARTY BY HEATHER CIRCLE

It was a jolly party of twenty young ladies who occupied a private dining room at the Quincy House, Boston, Tuesday evening. The young ladies composed the members of the Heather circle, the occasion being the annual meeting and banquet, which closed a most successful and enjoyable year. There were no guests.

At each plate was a handsome hand painted place card, the design being violets and heather. The cover of the menu card was also hand painted, the design being violet blossoms while in the lower corner were the letters "H C" in the form of a monogram. The place cards and menu covers were the work of Miss Jessie Shirley and Miss Sarah Howes.

The dinner was served at 8.30 o'clock and was followed by a business session at which the following officers were elected for the coming year.

President—Miss Margaret I. Shirley.
Vice President—Miss Helen J. Smith.
Recording Secretary—Miss Bessie Miller.
Financial Secretary—Miss Jessie O. Shirley.

A social hour followed the business session during which Miss Minnie Miller rendered solos and there was chorus singing by the circle. It was also decided to hold a picnic in the near future, the arrangements of which were left in the hands of the executive committee.

The circle will resume its meetings in the fall and the members are looking forward to an interesting season of study and social enjoyment.

QUINCY'S OPPORTUNITY.

Mayor Curley of Boston made a mighty good move in inviting Romulo S. Naon, Ambassador of Argentine to Washington, to serve as orator of the day in the city observances of July 4. It is a source of pleasure to note that the ambassador accepted the invitation.

Not only is Mr. Naon an orator of ability, equipped with an unusually brilliant mind, but he did great service to this country in the crisis with the Huerta government in Mexico. There is every reason why the United States should cultivate friendly relations with the other republics of this hemisphere, and of all the countries of South America Argentine leads in progressiveness and energy. The commercial relations of the United States with the South American countries are being developed and there is every indication that there will be a parallel development of political relations. The time may not be far distant when the Monroe Doctrine will be replaced by a doctrine of wider scope, a Pan-American Doctrine.

There is reason for genuine pleasure, therefore, that Mr. Naon is to speak in Boston. Boston has paid him a compliment in the invitation and he has paid her a compliment in the acceptance. This makes for the healthy growth of cordial friendship between the two republics.

There may be a suggestion for Quincy in Boston's action. The city wherein was built Argentina's greatest battleship might well select a citizen of that country as a Fourth of July orator. Quincy people came to know well and to have a genuine regard for the representatives of the Argentine government who have resided here. It would be a fitting recognition of that friendship to choose our speaker of the day from among the citizens of the greatest country of South Amernca.

A WORTHY LEADER.

The government of the Netherlands has sent a note to Germany protesting against the sinking on May 7 of the Cunard line steamer Lusitania by a German submarine. The contents of the note are reported to be very much the same as those of the American note.

Of course Germany will give the same careful consideration to her answer to the note of the little Dutch government as she has to the note of the president of one hundred million people. Do you doubt it? Why, of course it's true, for do not the Pacificists so declare? When the Queen of the Netherlands gives expression to her indignation at the loss of several Dutch subjects the Kaiser will be deeply moved, no doubt. Because, you see, the Pacificists have assured us that the might and influence of governments has nothing whatever to do with navies and armies.

Let us take example from the Dutch Let us try to make our country, as powerless as that country would be on the battlefield of Europe. Let us destroy our battleships and disband our armies. Then let us send a note to Germany asking the Kaiser to stop the war, which without doubt he, deeply impressed by our Christian action, will hasten to do.

WASTE OF LIFE.

In the last three years the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., tells us that 442 persons have been killed and 394 injured, many maimed for life, while trespassing on the company's tracks. This is an appalling waste of human life, and an utterly needless one. Each death should be a warning to everyone who hears of it, but each individual thinks he will be the one lucky one to get out of the way of the engine.

In the majority of cases the accidents have been to men or boys using the railroad as a convenient highway, generally making a short cut. Factory operatives and farm hands, lives that can ill be spared, most often yield to this pernicious temptation.

Experience is surely a great teacher and it is a shame that we must qualify that remark by saying "personal experience." The other fellow's experience may impress us for the moment but is soon forgotten or disregarded. Experience after experience in railroad trespassing has proved fatal and we all know it, yet with no avail does the New Haven road try to curb this trespassing evil. There must be either a lack of laws on this subject or a non-enforcement of existing laws, as the Jamaica Plain News points out.

Little Switzerland right in the centre of the Great War, must be extremely thankful she's so small that fighting is not expected from her.

A good idea from one of our contemporaries. "The next thing, after spending two weeks in a clean-up, paint-up campaign, is to keep it up."

COMPARISON OF SUBMARINES.

The United States Navy now has nominally ready for service eighteen submarines. According to the comment of an officer of one of the American ships, which the New York Tribune quotes in a published interview without giving the name of the officer, the submarine flotilla that is with the Atlantic fleet is the best equipped unit in the Navy for immediate service. This same unmentioned officer is accredited with another remark calculated to arouse interested attention.

The remark was, "but we can't hold a candle to the Germans in submarine construction. I understand they are building and shoving into the water two of these big U-type boats every week." As to the German U boats he said: "They are twice as large as those K boats of ours which have just come up from Pensacola." That the German under-sea boat of the U class is a terribly effective instrument of destruction has been sufficiently demonstrated.

The part of the comment just quoted, which will specially fix attention, is that which mentions that two of these terrible submarines are being added weekly to the German under-sea naval outfit. Is this a mere guess or is it based upon reliable information? Of one thing we may be sure—these under-sea torpedo boats are being built and equipped with all the high pressure speed that German shipyards can make available. It is so far as known outside official circles all in the guessing as to how many of this U-type of submarine is now in service in the German navy, or as to how many may be in process of construction.—Baltimore American.

RELIGION AND BUSINESS.

Some two years ago. J. P. Morgan testified that to him character was the bottom fact in business; that he trusted a man and dealt with him primarily on that basis. This aroused a great deal of carping comment, but it always seemed plain to us that Morgan knew what he was saying. And now we find the Wall Street Journal predicting the coming of a great religious revival as one result of the European war, and insisting that this possibility is of infinite concern to business men. The Journal believes that nine-tenths of the evils from which business suffers can be ended by religious feeling, though beyond the reach of law. Religious faith is a "better remedy and a better promise for future business managed under the best standards of honor and humanity than anything Congress can enact or the Department of Justice enforce." This is the final truth about our trade and industry, and it is most clearly seen and surely held by those who know most about business.—Collier's Weekly.

GUN SQUAD HOLDS DRILL

Make Plans For Memorial Day

Light sidearms,—bolos and automatic pistols, will be carried by the Machine Gun Co. when it appears Monday afternoon as one of the escorts to Paul Revere post, G. A. R., to Mt. Wollaston cemetery, where Memorial services will be held, according to the announcement read at the drill Tuesday evening. The rifles to be issued by the state have not yet been delivered.

The men drilled under the direction of the instructor, Sergt. Charles Starbird, and ponchos and slickers were distributed. These weather proof garments are of rubber, the ponchos being for mounted men. Shelter tents and olive drab wool blankets have also been received.

Lieut. Sydney C. Hardwick, surgeon, lectured on personal and camp hygiene, and first aid. He also inoculated most of those present against typhoid. The prophylactic administered consisted of several millions of sterilized typhoid germs which cause a reaction the same as follows an attack of typhoid and makes the person immune from that disease. The innoculation is not compulsory.

Further arrangements for camp in August were discussed and Lieut. George M. Downes in telling of the plans said he would requnre the services of a dozen mules which he will hire from local men if they are available.

There are still a few vacancies in the company for good men, applications for which can be filed at drill next Tuesday evening in the Union hall armory.

S. S. RYNDAM IS RAMMED

New York, May 26—The American steamship Ryndam was rammed by the Norwegian steamship Joseph J. Cuna off Ambrose Light at 4 A. M. this morning. The Ryndam had 76 passengers and a crew of 16. The passengers were taken from the rammed steamship by the battleship South Carolina which is conveying the disabled vessel to New York harbor.

AN UNFAIR ATTACK.

J. A. Eslow, one of the early pioneers of motion pictures and at present head of the New England branch of the Universal Films, declares that the recent agitation caused by the presentation in Boston of "The Birth of a Nation," has momentarily been responsible for an unjust condemnation of the movies in general.

"It is unfair," says Mr. Eslow, "to attack an industry that in the past few years has forged ahead with leaps and bounds that it stands today fifth in the ling list of the nation's leading industries. Moreover the public should realize the social and educational advantage derived from motion pictures. First you have the world's news at a glance, and its wonders are mirrored before your eyes. You get a glimpse of every important happening in the universe. I hope, for the sake of all concerned, that no unnecessary haste may cause this state to adopt legislation that will prove harmful and an unpleasant reflection of its integrity not to mention the inevitable hardship it would bring to a large number of working people.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

Only 5% PLUS for the Best "Non-Skid"

PRACTICALLY all Non-Skid Tires that make serious claims to non-skid efficiency cost you 10% to 30% more than Plain Tread Tires of same brand and material.

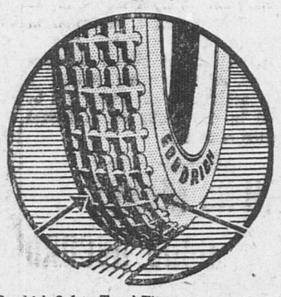

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our plain tread tires.

Here's how and Why!

FORTY-FIVE years of Rubber working (in what is now the World's largest Rubber Factory) has taught us a few Kinks and Short-cuts that are not common to the Trade.

One of these now comes to the help of your Pocket-book.

Through the simple process of Thinking Hard (and being Candid with ourselves) we have found a Short-Cut to make the best Safety Tread ever put on a Tire cost us only about 5% more than it costs to make the Plain-Tread of similar quality.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our own or any other plain tread tires.

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columns headed "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly advertised tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES "A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30 x 3	$9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$18.10
30 x 3½	12.20	13.35	14.20	21.70	23.60
32 x 3½	14.00	15.40	16.30	22.85	25.30
34 x 4	20.35	22.30	23.80	31.15	33.55
36 x 4½	28.70	32.15	33.60	41.85	41.40
37 x 5	33.90	39.80	41.80	49.85	52.05

By testing out these Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires on a large number of Taxicabs (where they could be competitively observed and carefully checked up at the end of each day's use) and by comparing their actual performance with that of our own, and other Plain-Treads, of much higher price, we have had this fact forced upon us—

Viz:

—That there is SURPRISINGLY more Mileage, in Goodrich Safety Tread Tires, than in our own, or any other, make of Plain-Tread Tires.

So MUCH more Mileage, for only 5% more Cost looked so good to us that we decided to give Car Owners the benefit.

Here's what we now offer you!

The best Non-Skid Safety Tread ever put on the market, and it costs you only 5% more than our best plain tread tire.

Real Worth vs. Low Cost

If you asked your butcher for a porterhouse steak and he handed you a cut of the flank and said, "This doesn't cost as much and is just as good," you wouldn't believe him, would you?

Yet the butcher's statement is just as truthful as the assertion that inferior baking powders made of alum or phosphate of lime are as good as Royal, which is made from cream of tartar.

Alum is a mineral acid salt, declared by many medical authorities unsafe to use in food.

Royal Baking Powder is as pure and wholesome as the vineyard grapes from which its cream of tartar is derived.

The only reason for using such substitutes as alum and lime phosphate is because their cost is less to the manufacturer.

CATS COST $1 TAX.

Houston, Tex., May 26—Being a cat in Houston isn't nearly as much as it used to be. Finance Commissioner Pastoriza took the most fun out of it, when he announced it'd cost $1 tax hereafter, under a court ruling that everything of value must be taxed. "They're valuable"- he said, "to catch rats and mice."

SOIL-PRODUCTS EXPOSITION

Denver, Colo., May 26—The war is not interfering with arrangements for the International Soil-Products Exposition and the International Dry-Farming Congress to be held in this city from September 27 to October 9 inclusive. From present plans it appears that the local Exposition will vie with the Fairs in California at least in agricultural interest.

MANY BABIES COMPETE FOR PRIZES AT SHOW

Thirty Very Young Infants Repose In G. A. R. Hall

That well known picture, a series of poses of "bawling" infants in six different positions, applied in no way to the Baby Show at Grand Army hall Tuesday afternon under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps.

Thirty babies were entered and one and all quietly rested in the arms of their mothers or sat beside them and not once was a wail raised to the rafters. The whole affair was anything but what an unmarried reporter would expect from a hall filled with "kids."

Perhaps the most difficult part of the program was the selecting of the winners by Mrs. Minnie Glover and Mrs. Ethel French, the judges on whom the responsibility rested.

They had to choose the darkest and lightest babies and even hold the scales while the heaviest baby was determined.

The competition among the twins was the keenest. Three pairs were entered. Preston H. and Archibald J. Grassick, children of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald J. Grassick of 31 Richie road, were awarded the prize in that class. The twins were 21 months old Tuesday. They were adjudged winners over Louis and Louise White two years and a half old. Harold and Lincoln Olson were not eligible for the prize because they were four years of age and thought to be a little out of the baby class.

Dorothy E. Ruggles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ruggles of Washington street, was given the prize for being the darkest baby and Harold Pottle, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Pottle of Cottage street, was declared the lightest baby. The youngest entered, Richard Rowe, was an even two months and weighed 11 1-2 pounds and the heaviest baby was Corrine Peterson of Cranch hill. Both were given prizes.

At the close of the judging all of the babies were presented with small American flags. Some of them waved them wildly and smiled but the majority clenched their tiny hands around the flagstick and remained in repose.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. C. Alice Litchfield. Ice cream was served by Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher and home made candy was distributed by Mrs. George Spooner.

COMMONS LOSE AGAIN.

Despite the addition of McPherson and McTiernan the Commons received a trouncing from the Cubs in the West Quincy Twilight league Tuesday evening. The Commons have lost seven straight games and have yet to secure a victory. The final score was 11 to 3. The batteries for the winners were Desmond and Barron and for the losers Jolly and Gosselin.

HOWL BECAUSE NOT GRANOLITHIC

Business Men Object to Brick Sidewalk

Workmen started in this morning to relay a portion of the brick sidewalk on the westerly side of Hancock street betwen Granite street and Tirrell court and immediately there went up a howl of protest on the part of the business men on that side of the street, who had supposed that a granolithic walk was to be laid.

There seems however to be some misunderstanding on the part of the business men as to just what is to be done. Going back to the year 1912 or 1913 it will be found that the city council passed an order for between $200 and $300 to rebuild the brick sidewalk on the westerly side of Hancock street between Granite and School streets. Last year the city council passed another order calling for an appropriation of $957 for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk on the westerly side of the stret from Tirrell court a distance of 485 feet southerly, which will take the granolithic walk up as far as the walk in front of Kincaide's theatre, and when the granolithic walk is finished on the easterly side this will also be built. The balance of the brick sidewalk however will be relaid under the order passed previous to that for the granolithic walk.

While this explanation will doubtless settle the question it will by no means satisfy the abutters who believe that now the street is being rebuilt that the whole walk should be of granolithic and that the amount appropriated for the relaying of the brick walk should be applied toward the expense of a granolithic walk.

The 485 feet to be laid will be done under the betterment act. If the abutters have already been assessed half the cost of the brick walk, which they doubtless have, they can only be assessed on the granolithic walk one half the cost of the difference between the brick and granolithic walks.

RECEPTION TO BRIDE AND GROOM

Miss Florence Hughes and P. H. Maloney, prominent Rockland residents, were married in that town Tuesday evening by Fr. Edward Fegan and were tendered a wedding reception at the home of the bridesmaid, Miss Gertrude F. Hughes of Miller Stile road, Quincy.

The ceremony took place at 7.30 at the parish house. The couple had planned a quiet affair but as they entered autos to come to Quincy several dozen machines arrived, filled with friends, and the start of their honeymoon was made with the sounding of auto horns, throwing of old shoes, showers of confetti and cheers. In addition there were other friends who thronged the sidewalk and joined in the impromptu reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Maloney, accompanied by Miss Hughes the bridesmaid and Herbert S. Lyons of Rockland the best man, and trailed by several autos, started for this city. They made the trip in record time and managed to evade their pursuers.

A score of friends attended the reception . The bridal party were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Ellen Hughes, mother of the bride and Mrs. Mary Carroll and Miss Gertrude F. Carroll, aunt and cousin of the bride. A collation was served and many presents were given Mr. and Mrs. Maloney.

Late in the evening they left for St. Thomas, Ontario, where the groom is in business.

MILTON A PLAYS TO TIE SCORE

The Milton Academy base ball team played another extra inning game Tuesday afternoon on the Academy field when the annual game with St. Marks was waged for fourteen long innings, resulting in a 4 to 4 tie. The game was called because the visitors had such a distance to travel and had to leave early.

The most remarkable part of this battle royal was the superb pitching of Capt. Feiton of the Milton nine. He worked the full number of innings allowing only five hits and fanning nineteen men. The visitors were forced to take Bradford from the box at the end of the fourth and send Post in to take his place. The latter pitched excellently. He did not allow a single hit.

The Milton team commenced to score in the first inning when Trainer gained home on an error. In the second inning they made their three final runs. The game looked safe for the Milton boys up to the seventh, a lucky one for St. Mark's, when the visiting team made most of their hits and brought in four runs. In the last of the tenth the Academy had three men on base with two down. Wolverton hit the ball and was put out at first, thus depriving the Academy team of victory.

Both teams were exceptionally evenly matched and both played a fine game. With the exception of one or two costly errors the game was very clean and a most interesting one to witness. The score was:

ATTACKS PORK BARREL SYSTEM

By BURTON K. STANDISH
(United Press.)

Washington, May 26—"Regardless of politics," said Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Bryon R. Newton and he grinned when he said it, for he knows it's punk politics he's playing—"regardless of politics, the way this country of ours builds its postoffices is absolutely indefensible!"

The former newspaper man, whose present job places him in charge of the public building program, didn't grin much during the interview. Most of the time he was mad and didn't take pains to conceal it. The reason for this was that he had just completed the disagreeable task of ordering 4753 employes to take eight days off without pay before June 30.

"A big part of these employes are charwomen and janitors," he said. "The women get $320 a year, the janitors, $660. They can't afford to lose that eight day's pay. But what are you going to do? In the face of our exact estimate of the amount of money needed for salaries Congress appropriated just $150,000 less than is needed. The law forbids our creating a deficiency—makes it a penal offense, in fact—and all we can do is to take eight days' work away from every employe in the department.

"Every Congress that ever met, probably, has urged more employes and higher salaries in the public building department and every one that ever met has ordered the construction of buildings that ought never have been built. It is thinking of the waste of money in this respect that makes me sore when I have to slash into the meager pay of the women who scrub out the postoffices in the various cities of the United States."

Newton has been making something of a record as a scrapper since he took office. He is bucking up against a game that nobody has ever yet beaten, but it may be said that nobody ever put a bigger dent in it than he has. Time and again he has succeeded in cutting the cost of public buildings enough to save his salary and the salary of his office force. Already it is figured he has saved his own four years' salary half a hundred times over. His method has been simply that of letting contracts for smaller sums than the appropriations of Congress provided whenever it seemed clear that as good a building could be had for the lesser amount.

This hasn't made him friends among the Congressmen. And of course it's rotten politics. The Congressmen, many of them in turn, are somewhat helpless. They feel the clamor from home for new postoffices; every town wants a fine stone postoffice building and they are apt to judge their Congressman's statemanship by his ability to squeeze the money out of the public treasury. So it happens that a town of less than 1,000 population, with postal receipts of less than $5,000 a year and able to rent suitable postoffice quarters for $150 a year, has $5,000 appropriated for a postoffice site and $50,000 or so for a building. And the upkeep of the handsome stone edifice so obtained costs the department a great deal more than the rent formerly paid!

"It's hard to see any business judgment back of such a policy," said Newton. "We plant beautiful buildings amid the sagebrush and along mountain trails, where there is no business to justify their existence, and a howl goes up if this department tries to save money in the construction.

"I am not saying every postoffice building appropriation is without excuse. Many cities, particularly some of the larger cities, are actually cramped for room, having to take care of many federal departments in addition to the postoffice and having a rapidly increasing volume of business.

"But so long as the principle is, 'You vote a postoffice for Squedunk in my district and I'll vote one for Punkin Center in your district; there's small hope of economy. I'd like to see a photograph of the man that invented the game and I'd like a lot better to shake hands with the man that'll break it up."

Isn't it worth a few minutes of your time to come up to this 2nd Floor Shop to save $10 cash?

We merely want you to see for yourself that for $15.00 you will get here precisely the same values, the same styles, the same fabrics and the same tailoring, for which the ground floors ask $25, and they are worth $25. They were made to sell at that price everywhere—but just the same, every man who pays $25 is losing that $10—which the ground floors are compelled to tack on to the actual cost of the garments—in order to get the money to pay their own big running expenses—their enormous rents, floor walkers, office force, expensive deliveries, and for the goods sold on credit and never paid for.

But we haven't any of these expenses---and instead of adding $10 to your cost---we take off $10---and you save more by getting guaranteed $25 clothes for only $15.00.

Q. M. S. HOLDS CLASS DAY

Be utiful Ceremony Delights Large Number

Clas day exercises at the Quincy Mansion school took place Tuesday afternoon. The first part of the program was given in Livermore hall which was filled.

At 3 o'clock in marched the pupils singing the school song and as the dignified Seniors marched forward, upraised hands formed an archway through which they passed to the platform. The class of 1915 numbers eight graduates.

The "Class Will" by Miss Holland was a well executed document, bright and clever and the gifts distributed which accompanied the reading caused many smiles among the pupils who fully appreciated their appropriateness.

The "Class Prophecy" by Miss Kendall gave a delightful visionary account of a train of thoughts passing through her mind during sleep, foretelling future events in the lives of the seniors. Her dreams were appreciated. Miss Richards prophesied Miss Holland's future.

After singing the class song all adjourned to the lawn where the class planted a white pine.

"Ye May Day revels on Ye greene", under the direction of Miss Newhall was given on the spacious lawn back of the mansion, an ideal setting for such a spectacle. The day was ideal; everything was beautiful, the green turf, the noble trees, shrubbery and hedges making a perfect setting. The seniors as Greek maidens playing ball in their class colors, white and yellow, gave a graceful classic interpretative dance and holding above their heads their yellow inflated balls, with measured step and rhythmic motion they made a picture long to be remembered. The appreciative applause was merited.

The maidens were Claire Collings, Eva Cornish, Irene Holland, Dorothy Kendall, Ruth Morton, Marion Orcutt, Evelyn Richards and Mabel Roy.

The Kate Greenway "Laddes and Lasses" gave a village folk dance and as they came on the green rolling hoops looked like children creating a dainty picture.

They were: Virginia Blackmur, Helen Collings, Caroline Ellis, Ruth Jones Virginia Knowlton, Josephine Smith, Anna Witham, Emma Gouch, Elizabeth Haslett, Katharine Kimball, Florence Mead, Barbara Sears, Gertude Williams, Agnes Wrigley.

The seniors as milkmaids in peasant costumes with their tin milk pails made a rustic appearance as they danced.

The participants who danced around the Maypole were in pink and green skirts with laced black velvet bodices and white guimps. They were:—Claire Collings, Elizabeth Couch, Darthea Heald, Dorothy Kendall, Madeline Lewis, Barbara Johnson, Winnifred Marshall, Elsie McWilliams, Isabel Owen, Evelyn Richards, Constance Sears, Margaret Stein, Ruth Whitney, Mary Williams, Anna Witham and their measured steps as they moved merrily around the pole to the rhythmical music of an orchestra called forth hearty applause. The guests were served refreshments on the lawn.

RAND CLASS HOLD SOCIAL

On Tuesday evening the Rand class of the Baptist church in Wollaston had as their guests the Walther class of the same church. There was a fine attendance, there being over 50 men present. The program opened with vocal duets, which were rendered by Edward E. Bullock and William E. Bullock assisted at the piano by Edward C. Bullock. Needless to say that these singers received thunderous applause. The class wish to thank Mr. Bullock, Sr., for helping in the fine manner he did knowing as they do of the constant demands to which he has to respond.

The next number was rendered by Leon Biganess, who played a piano solo. This number also received a hearty applause. The real "hit" of the evening was furnished by Guy D. Gold secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in the city of Brockton. His address was on "Our Neighbors, The New Americans." Mr. Gold spoke of the many wonderful things that we were bound to get from these "New Americans" if we would only give them a chance.

Mr. Gold is doing a large work among the foreign element, in the city of Brockton and demonstrated that he had a thorough knowledge of his subject.

After this number Leon Biganess gave more piano solos, which were well received and William E. Bullock sang a bass solo entitled "Any Old Port in a Storm." The singing of William E. Bullock who is president of the Rand class always deserves honorable mention. The class is particularly glad that they have such a fine singer as one of their members.

In conclusion the men all joined in a glad time while they were being served with ice cream and cake.

WRITES OF SINKING OF S. S. LUSITANIA

Former Quincy Man, Who Was Rescued, Tells His Experience

James Haldane who lived in Quincy until a short time ago has written his experiences and story of his rescue from the Lusitania, torpedoed off the Irish Coast and as a result of which Richard R. Freeman lost his life. Haldane happened to be among the rescued.

Haldane was manager of the New York export department of the Walworth Manufacturing Co. His letter was to Joseph H. McPherson, school committeeman from Ward Four, and associated with the Boston office of the company. Haldane's version of the sinking of the ship and the rescue follows:

"I was at lunch in the second cabin when the crash came and I immediately made my way up to the deck. There was not what you would call a panic, although there was some commotion among the passengers. However, we soon got busy with the women and children. The ship was going down by the bow and she had a big list. Two boats were launched. The first capsized and the second crashed down on top of it—both being destroyed. The passengers were hurled into the water—it was truly a heart rending sight; like the rest of the men I began putting lifebelts on the women and children—such bonny wee kiddies there were too. Onewater. After being almost an hour little girlie thanked me sweetly; poor in the water I noticed an upturned little mite—when next I saw her she collapsible boat about four hundred was lying in the Queenstown morgue.

The steamer seemed to steady a little, "her water tight bulkheads will keep her afloat"—I heard a man shout, but a second crash, whether from a torpedo or an internal explosion, I can't say settled it. As the Lusitania went down by the head, we made our way aft. Just as she made her final plunge I saw the water swirling and breaking along the deck just like on a rocky shore. Men, women and children were caught by the vortex. I jumped then but was caught by the suction and pulled under; I thought my time had come sure but struck out with all my strength and when I returned to the surface I saw a sight I will never forget to my dying day—drowning women and children shrieking for help and no help near. Corpses began to float past me; I touched faces of dead bodies as I swam out of that death zone. The most of the bodies were women and children.

I noticed one mother clutching her child and the little one had its arms around its mother's neck—both were dead.

A number had lifebelts fastened around the waist instead of under the armpit and so lost their lives. They couldn't keep their heads above the yards away, it was crowded with people but I saw a small unoccupied corner and I made for it. I saw a father striving to save his child—a tiny little mite. He had hold of a hatch cover and had placed the child on it, he, himself, was in the water and holding on with one hand while he held the baby with the other, every wave that dashed over the frail raft lashed the poor infant and weakened the father. I turned on my back for a rest ere going over the 200 yards that separated us to their assistance, but when I looked around both had vanished.

QUARRIES GUARDED BY SHERIFF'S POSSE

Vermont Governor Will Call Out Militia If Necessary

Barre, Vt., May 26.—Because of the continued refusal of nearly half of the granite cutters to return to work under a wage agreement signed by representatives of the labor unions and the quarry owners, and in view of reported theats of intimidation in the quarries, Sheriff Tracy swore in 175 deputies and sent them to patrol the quarries and store sheds.

The sheriff acted under orders from Governor Gates, who has kept in close touch with the situation in this city. The governor stated that if the deputies were not able to keep the peace he would order out the national guard.

SHAW QUESTIONS FOSS

Wants to Know Where Ex-Governor Stands on State Prohibition

Boston, May 26.—William Shaw, Prohibition nominee for governor, issued a statement commending former Governor Foss for the latter's stand for national prohibition, but suggested that Foss should speak out on the question of state prohibition as well.

Impartial wishes of success were extended by Shaw to Foss, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor on a prohibition platform, and Frederick S. Deitrick, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination on a prohibition platform.

Shaw renews his declaration that he will withdraw if the Republican and Democratic parties will indorse state and national prohibition in their platforms this year.

SHOCKING LANGUAGE.

Unobserved and unannounced the president of a church society entered the composing room just in time to hear these words issue from the mouth of the boss printer:

"Billy, go to the devil and tell him to finish that 'murder' he began this morning. Then kill 'William J. Bryan's Youngest Granchild,' and dump the 'Sweet Angel of Mercy' into the 'Hell Box.' Then make up that 'Naughty Parisian Actress' and lock up 'The Lady in Her Boudoir'"—Clay County Clarion.

ROBERT T. JOHNSON DIES AT HIS HOME

Well Known Citizen Passes Away This Noon

Robert T. Johnson, known familiarly and affectionately throughout the city as "Bob," died this noon at his home on Maple street after a long illness. He was in his 56th year.

Few men in Quincy are so well known or so well liked as was Mr. Johnson, warm hearted, generous, sympathetic, always ready to assist friend or stranger in distress. Respected as a merchant and as a man his passing will bring sorrow to a circle of friends and acquaintances whose bounds are broader than the bonds of the community within which he has dwelt so long.

Good natured, plain spoken but always kindly, "Bob" Johnson contributed much to his city and his memory will ever be reverenced by those who knew him. Frequently urged to accept public office Mr. Johnson preferred to serve as a private citizen and except for a term as meat inspector his connection with the city has been unofficial.

Mr. Johnson was fifty five years old last February, coming to Quincy 29 years ago to take up his permanent residence in the city of his birthplace. In young boyhood his parents moved to Woburn and there he passed his youth.

Mr. Johnson and his brother, Joseph W. Johnson of Russell park, entered the employ of W H. Doble shortly after they came to Quincy. Mr. Doble at that time conducted a grocery store. Twenty three years ago the young men went into business for themselves under the firm name of Johnson Brothers. Some years ago Joseph Johnson retired from the firm and Robert Johnson continued it under the old name. For many years Johnson Brother's Market has been one of the leading business houses of the city.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his widow, six children, three sisters, Mrs. D. M. McFall of Mattoon, Ill., Mrs Henry W. Sprague of Auburndale, Mrs Wallace T. Davis of Quincy and a brother, ex-Councilman Joseph W. Johnson of Quincy.

He was a member of Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M., and of the Quincy lodge of Elks.

FAVORS JULY 4th CELEBRATION

A meeting of the July Fourth Celebration association was held Wednesday evening in the rooms of the Board of Trade. The meeting was devoted to a general discussion of the matter of celebrating the Fourth this year. The association is favorable to a celebration of some kind but not on as elaborate scale as during the past few years.

No definite plan of celebration was adopted, however, as it was deemed advisable to await the action of the city council on the order for $600 to provide entertainment for the children on the Fourth. This order is now before the finance committee who will probably report at the council meeting of June 7. The meeting adjourned until Wednesday evening June 9, at which time definite action will be taken in regard to a celebration.

NO BON-FIRES ON FOURTH OF JULY

Young America, which takes particular delight in accumulating old barrels and boxes which are piled up in vacant lots only to be lighted in a huge bon-fire at midnight the night before the Fourth, is to receive a body blow this year for orders have gone out from the office of the Fire Hazard Commissioner that no bon-fires are to be allowed this year and the chief of the fire department and the chief of the police department have orders to stop them.

In Quincy one exception has been made to this order. One bon-fire permit will be issued and this has already been done. The people who have been granted this coveted prize are members of the Town River Yacht club. Their permit allows them to have a bon-fire the night before the Fourth on an island in Town river nearly opposite the Yacht clubhouse.

Usually on the night before the Fourth mammoth bon-fires are lighted on Third Hill, on the Atlantic playground and on the hills back of the depot at West Quincy.

BROTHERHOOD HAS UNUSUAL TREAT

The South Quincy Brotherhood Wednesday evening held its last open meeting before taking a vacation for the summer and had as its guests about 250 friends of the Water Street Presbyterian church—all adults.

The social committee, composed of Alexander Clark, James Marr and Rev. Clarence E. Campbell, were fortunate in securing the services of The Conservatory Play-Singers of Boston as entertainers of the evening. If one can judge by applause and great enthusiasm of the audience that completely filled the lecture hall one is safe in saying that never has South Quincy been more royally entertained.

There was not a dull moment in the entire program and when the last musical number was given—a vocal trio with harp accompaniment that ended a two hours program the entire audience unconsciously exclaimed, "Is that all?" and was indeed surprised to find they had been listening for two hours, so short did the time seem. There was a wonderful variety—vocal solos, duets, trios; negro melodies with banjo accompaniment; readings with and without musical setting; harp solos; and musical skits. The ensemble work was very harmonious indeed and the blending of voices was especially noticeable — each voice found its place and filled it admirably. Miss Pauline Barnes, soloist, sang exceptionally well. A very fine voice well trained and under splendid control. Her solos were artistic gems. Miss Gladys Belle Fredericks handled the harp with wonderful dexterity and her solos were highly applauded. Miss Grace Alden Copeland, aside from being a piano soloist of great ability, delighted the audience with negro melodies, accompanied by herself with the banjo. This was such a novel musical feature that if completely captivated the enthusiastic audience. And last but far from being least in ability was the fine effective readings of Miss Dorothy Tremble.

A regular meeting of the Riverside club was held Wednesday afternoon at the clubhouse, Mrs. George F. Spooner, president, presiding. It was a regular business session.

QUINCY Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL MEETING

Frank Burgess Is Re-elected President By Directors Last Night

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The annual meeting of Quincy Y. M. C. A. was held at the building Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock and the nominating committee presented the following names for election and the votes were unanimous for their election.

Board of Directors to serve three years:—T. King, R. D. Chase, C. P. Hutchins, W. F. Cummings, Roy Prout, A. L. Walker.

Advisory Board—Frank Hobart, Dr. C. E. Monroe, Charles C. Hearn, H. L. Kincaide and Amos T. Leavitt.

At the close of the meeting of the association the annual meeting of the Board of Directors was held and the following officers were elected President—Frank Burgess.

Vice President—Curtis W. Pierce.
Treasurer—William G. Shaw.
Clerk—John F. Hunt.

The resignation of Amos D. Albee as a member of the Board for 23 years and president for a number of years was accepted. It was voted to elect him an honorary life director. It was further voted that resolutions expressing the appreciation of the board of his faithful services should be prepared engrossed and presented to him and that they be spread upon the records of this body and he given the Quincy Press.

The annual report read by the President contained the following report:

To the Membership and the Board of Directors of the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

In presenting this paper as the usual annual report of the president, there will naturally be expected a complete report of all the work performed during the last year under the auspices of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. In order, however, to give this in detail, would take a great deal of time, which I would consider unnecessary for an occasion of this kind, but will outline as far as possible in a general way what has been accomplished There is no one particular period that we can point to in which there has been any great advance in the work performed in the various departments. From the numerous reports that will be given from the different committees and departments, you will no doubt receive more in detail what has been accomplished. In regard to the executive end of the association, I have been pleased with the assistance received from all, and their real co-operation in this difficult work, and have found all the meetings to have been very harmonious, and believe this is one main reason why the work of the Y. M. C. A. has been more or less successful.

Regarding the finances, we have had the usual difficulty that has been experienced by the various business concerns throughout the country, and therefore do not feel that we should complain, and believe that with a change in business conditions we are encouraged to believe that finances will be reasonably taken care of. The religious department has shown activity in various ways, particularly at the meetings held at the theatre building during the winter season, and there has been more or less activity particularly in the boys' department. The educational department has not been as well developed as would be desired, but owing to the competition in the evening schools, and the well equipped department of the Boston Y. M. C. A. we were handicapped in this department. However, there was something done in the way of salesmanship for a limited period. The physical department has been about normal, compared with the last few years. The business men have received more or less benefit from the opportunity of exercising under competent instruction, and the junior and senior departments have received the proper attention in regard to the development of their physical make up.

The social work has been reasonably good, and entertainments such as

CABARET AT Y. C. IS BIG SUCCESS

Large Number Enjoy Delightful Affair

Within the spacious hall of the Quincy Yacht clubhouse Wednesday evening there gathered a merry company which proceeded to enjoy to the utmost the "Clever, Catchy Cabaret" (illiterative description being the work of D. King, master of ceremonies,) which was furnished them by amateur but not amateurish talent. The company were dispersed about the hall at small tables where they enjoyed the excellent refreshments served by the "Winsome Waitresses" and viewed at the same time what was in progress on the stage. Between mouthfuls the company joined, really tunefully into the popular songs thoughtfully set down on typewritten pages and distributed to all the tables

The affair was under the auspices of the Associated Charities of Quincy and his organizzation will net a goodly sum for the carrying on of its work among Quincy's poor. Financially it was a decided success. Socially it was an even greater success and the whole city was well represented by a company unusually large, despite the decidedly disagreable weather.

Miss Catherine Saville, a well-known and talented local soloist, had the honor of opening the program with "Carolina," which was greatly enjoyed by the audience which joined enthusiastically into the chorus. Miss Dorothy Packard delighted with "Over the Hills to Mary."

A humorous sketch (and it was really humorous) was then presented by Miss Beatrice Morrison and Bruce Saville, well-known local young people who are acquiring quite a reputation in amateur theatrical circles. Their work was a genuine treat and was much enjoyed. Miss Morrison took the part of a chorus girl and Mr. Saville that of an elderly man, none too wise in the ways of the gay world but equipped with an abundance of coin of the realm. He bestowed his blessing upon, and a check for $500 to, the aforementioned gay chorus girl, who departed with expedition, leaving a note which informed him tersely but comprehensively that he had been "Stung."

Mrs. James H. Slade delighted the audience with two solos, beautifully rendered, after which Mrs. Slade and John Greene sang a duet, "Iole." Mr. Greene also sang "Apple Blossom Time in Normandy," scoring a decided hit. Miss McCarthy sang "Mandalay," a distinct treat. Mrs. Laurance Sturgevant, who of late has not sung much in public, received a warm welcome and was accorded enthusiastic applause when she concluded "Listen to the Band," the audience joining in the chorus. William Everett sang a solo which was received with applause

And then there was "the only Emery," as Mr. King termed him in his introduction, known throughout the city as City Clerk Emery L. Crane. Mr. Crane was billed as a monologuist and after a clever original poem setting forth why he chanced to be facing them at that moment he told some more of the adventures of his noted, not to say notorious, "Brother Bill." Mr. Crane was loudly applauded as he always is.

There were two unusually interesting feautures of the evening; Miss Bertha Godfrey in Neapolitan songs and Sam Sears and his trio in his original musical sketch, "Frisco Bound." Samuel P. Sears is the son of ex-Mayor and Mrs. Russel A. Sears and he has become so successful in musical work that he can no longer be classed as an amateur. Sam is not only a first class pianist but he has composed a number of songs contributing both words and music, which have been very successful. One has already been published and has attained considerable popularity. "Frisco Bound" will be taken over by the Universal Film Co., and will make the rounds of the movie theatres, where, judging by its success Wednesday night, it is due to attain great popularity The tria assisting Sam were John Pfaffmann Maurice Blackmur and Richard Blackmur. The latter was most unusually attired and was introduced as "The Neponset Coal Heaver." The song and the sketch as a whole received enthusiastic and merited applause

Miss Bertha Godfrey was one of the hits, perhaps the hit, of the evening.

HOLDS EDDIE SAMMON TODAY FOR GRAND JURY

New York Police Say They Want Him on Another Charge

Positively identified by Alvira Munson, the pretty 18 year old Swedish girl, as her assailant, Eddie Sammon of West Quincy and New York was held for the Grand Jury today by Judge Avery. He is charged with felonious assault. Sureties were set at $2,000.

The courtroom was crowded with spectators. Little testimony was taken, however. More than an hour was consumed in conference at the bench during which it is understood the motion of J. J. McAnarney, counsel for the defendant, to have the complaint changed to simple assault and battery was overruled.

During the conference Acting Chief McKay informed the court that Sammon was under indictment in New York and was a fugitive from justice. A telegram with that information and containing several requests was exhibited. The telegram follows:

Chief of Police, Quincy:

Hold Edward Sammon now under arrest in your city. Wanted here for assault and robbery. Warrant and copy of indictment will follow by mail. If he has large diamond ring hold same. Advise us status of your case.

Faurot, Inspector Detectives.
New York City.

Last Tuesday Sammon was arraigned and pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Miss Munson came to court this morning unaccompanied. She was allowed to sit down while she was on the stand. In response to questions by Acting Chief McKay she pointed out Sammon as her assailant.

Judge Avery asked her if she was absolutely sure and she answered: "Yes, sir."

She told of meeting Sammon and how he, another fellow and herself walked home with another girl.

She then told of Sammon escorting her home. She said she only knew him by sight, and that the assault took place about nine o'clock a short distance from the kitchen entrance to the Ogden home on Presidents hill where she was employed. She said that while she lay on the ground where she had fallen Sammon said: "I might just as well kill you now" and then kicked her on the mouth.

Dr. F. Raymond Burke, who examined her the next day, testified he found three teeth knocked out, two broken and one loosened. He said there were marks on her neck and throat and a bruise under her eye. He said it was his opinion considerable force had been used.

Miss Munson was recalled to the stand. She was given a short cross examination, during which she said she slapped Sammon's face because "he was fresh," and that he said he never let a girl strike him before, and then grabbed her by the throat. She said in reply to questions that Sammon made a noise that sounded as though he was sobbing.

Dr. W. H. Blanchard who treated the girl after she was found wandering around City square by Patrolman Riley, in a weakened condition and with blood streaming from her mouth, arrived late. His testimony was taken at the bench during another conference.

In closing the hearing Judge Avery said he found probable cause to hold Sammon for the Superior Court session in September.

Sammon, who was in the prisoner's dock, leaned forward during the testimony of the girl. Her speech was unintelligible to many of the spectators because of a slight accent and the low voice in which she spoke and he also appeared to have some trouble understanding her. He sat unmoved when he was pointed out as the assailant.

Sammon has been photographed since his arrest and his finger prints have been taken and filed in the records of the local Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

On Wednesday afternoon he was interviewed by Lieut. Wyman of the New York City police force and according to the police admitted a part he played in the New York holdup. He is said to have told the whole story of how an old man was held up at the point of a revolver and robbed but exonerated himself from several of its features.

Lieut. Wyman has been in Lawrence awaiting the disposition of a case so he can return with a prisoner to the metropolis. He was accompanied to Quincy by a Boston inspector of police. He said Sammon boxed in New York under the names of Eddie Mullen and Eddie Dougherty.

Acting Chief McKay said this morning he would make application for a fugitive warrant which will be filed at the Dedham jail and served in the event of bail being furnished for Sammon.

INITIATE SIX AT MEETING

John Adams aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, initiated six members and received several applications in Electa hall, Wednesday evening. Pres. John Faircloth presided and among those present was Frank J. Duffy, who was head of the organization last year.

The aerie's communications included a letter of thanks from Abigail Adams lodge, I. C. of A., for the appearance of its degree team at the recent dance in Alpha hall. Sec. Dackers announced that Edward Welch, treasurer who is in Canada, has recovered from his recent illness and that James J. Mellen, chairman of the entertainment committee, is at his home where he is convalescent from illness contracted in Canada.

The following were reported ill: Daniel Gray, Washington street, and Allen Miller of Quincy avenue, confined to their homes with rheumatism; Frank Lawler, Glover avenue, Atlantic, at his home under treatment for eye trouble; Charles Towne Carruth street, recovering from a recent operation for appendicitis performed at the Quincy City Hospital; Adams Slavin, 50 Broadway, thought to have lead poisoning.

DIRTY POLITICS.

Among the habits which legislative bodies have acquired is that of cutting down the budgets submitted to them by the executive. Sometimes this is justly done, but sometimes it is done without thought or investigation. The Quincy City Council in the past has not been altogether free from this unfortunate tendency. It is right that the deliberative body should have the right to cut expenses, even running expenses, but the pruning should be done intelligently, fairly, without regard for political consequences but with every regard for consequences so far as they touch the efficient conduct of the business of the nation, state or municipality.

In Wednesday's Ledger appeared an illuminating article entitled "Attacks Pork Barrel System." The article was written by Burton K. Standish, a staff correspondent of the United Press Associations (with which this paper is now affiliated.) It consisted of an interview with Asst. Secretary of the Treasury Byron R. Newton in which Mr. Newton said: "Regardless of politics the way this country of ours runs its postoffices is absolutely indefensible."

Mr. Newton, in his capacity as supervisor of the public buildings program, had just ordered 4753 employees to take eight days off without pay before June 30.

"A big part of these employees are charwomen and janitors," he said. "The women get $320 a year, the janitors, $660. They can't afford to lose that eight days' pay. But what are you going to do? In the face of our exact estimate of the amount of money needed for salaries Congress appropriated just $150,000 less than is needed. The law forbids our creating a deficiency—makes it a penal offense, in fact—and all we can do is to take eight days' work away from every employee in the department

"Every Congress that ever met, probably, has urged more employees and higher salaries in the public building department and every one that ever met has ordered the construction of buildings that ought never have been built. It is thinking of the waste of money in this respect that makes me sore when I have to slash into the meager pay of the women who scrub out the postoffices in the various cities of the United States."

This is an example of the pruning habit of legislatures at its worst. It is playing politics in the dirtiest of ways. It ought to open our eyes.

A STRANGE SITUATION.

It is a strange situation which confronts former Lieut. Charles Becker, of the New York police department, condemned to die for instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler. Press reports indicate that only executive clemency can save him. And the governor of New York is former District Attorney Whitman, the man who prosecuted Becker and his gang, thereby gaining a renown which eventually placed him in the governor's chair. It remains to be seen whether the former district attorney will recommend clemency to himself, the governor.

We trust that readers of this paper are reading the up-to-date telegraphic news which we print each day. The Ledger at considerable expense has secured the United Press service so that we can serve our readers a brief but up-to-the-minute survey of world news. They will note that in Wednesday's paper we had a concise but intelligent resume of the torpedoing of the American liner "Nebraskan."

Citizens of this city must have read with pleasure in Wednesday's Ledger that the torpedo boat "Cushing," built at the yard of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation for the United States Government more than made good during her official trials off Rockland, Me.

It is interesting to contemplate what would have happened Tuesday night if someone had stolen into G. A. R. hall and changed those thirty babies about, after the manner of Owen Wister's hero, "The Virginian."

Judging by the enthusiasm displayed that lawn party of St. Mary's church to be held in June will be a huge success.

One hundred and twenty-five years ago the centre of population in the United States was near Annapolis, Maryland. Today careful calculation sets it along the western boundary of the State of Illinois. Young men must have "gone West."

The purple season of the spring has arrived with its wealth of blossoms—the fragrant lilac, clusters of wisteria and the modest little violet. No season is quite as beautiful.

The Jolly Tars who congregate at the Squantum Yacht club certainly had a royal good time in their "opener" Saturday night.

Reserve Officer—Theatre Owner—Prospective Bridegroom. Fortune is surely smiling on you, Mr. Falfon.

THE TOWN KNOCKER.

An exchange defines the town knocker's creed as follows, and it is not far from the truth in its connection with the person who is continually finding fault about their own town, never for a moment taking into consideration a comparison with other localities, and blindly berating the place which they call home because their brain is dead to the advantages which it furnishes to them for peace and happiness in surroundings and associations. The knocker's creed is thus defined: "I believe that I alone have the right. The town is wrong, the editor is wrong, the people are wrong, the things they are doing are wrong, and they are doing them in the wrong way anyhow. I believe that I could fix things if they would let me. If they don't I will get a lot of other fellows like myself and we will have a law passed to make others do things the way we want them done. I do not believe that the town ought to grow. It is too big now. I believe in fighting every public improvement and in spoiling everybody's pleasure. I am always to the front in opposing things, and never yet have I advanced an idea or supported a movement that would make people happier or add to the pleasure of man, woman or child. I am opposed to fun and am happiest at a funeral. I believe in starting reforms that will take all the joy out of life. It's a sad world and I am glad of it. Good bye."—Foxboro Reporter.

TURNING OUT SUBMARINES.

A Government expert, as he is called, is quoted as saying that in the event of warfare and the need of additional American submarines they could be turned out in this country at the rate of fifty in eight months, and thereafter if necessary the American plants could put them forth at the rate of one hundred every six months. This news is cheering if true. The submarine is a very essential feature in modern warfare, and if it took a great length of time to build one and a nation lacked these vessels that nation might find itself in trouble. A period of merely eight months might not be too long in case the United States was involved with a nation already busy and which would not be likely to get any vessels over here anyway for the time being. It seems likely in view of the fact that the submarines are so tremendously important in warfare that this government will see to it that the undersea force is quickly and largely strengthened.—Brockton Enterprise.

NUMBERING HOUSES.

The things we see about us every day we often take as a matter of course, and haven't even curiosity enough to question how we came to have them. Every single convenience, even the simplest, is the product of some man's brain or of natural evolution.

Take for instance the numbers on the houses. Four hundred years ago there were no such things. The idea struck the fancy of a Parisian architect in about 1513 but it was three centuries before it was generally adopted.

In Germany at first the houses all had numbers but not by street. For instance a tenant's address might be 5600 Berlin.

In England the numbering of houses was not looked upon favorably because so few could read. The houses were identified by ornamentation on the gate post and it wasn't until the reign of George III that an act requiring numbered houses was passed.

GRANITE MEN UNITE TO PROTECT PROPERTY

Determined to Stop Operations of Vandals

The granite manufacturers of the city are making an organized attempt to prevent further vandalism to their property and several of the industrial centres of South Quincy are now patroled by a night watchman in addition to the regular police protection.

The action was taken because monuments have been destroyed, gay wires cut, fires set and lives and workmen and passersby endangered by the conditions resulting from the operations of the vandals.

Hardly a year passes that there is not more or less destruction during the several weeks before Memorial day.

The usual amount of vandalism has been committed this year and the damages have amounted to thousands of dollars.

The biggest loss was caused by the $10,000 fire which swept through the sheds of McDonald and Tinkanen a few weeks ago. The following Monday morning the guys supporting the derrick in the yard of Guido Serafinelli on Quarry street were found sawed and all that prevented their snapping was a small strand of wire of which the guy is made. Many monuments have also been damaged.

One of the watchmen covers the property in the vicinity of the sheds of Peter Zoia, where an incendiary fire was discovered at midnight two weeks ago. The other watchman covers around the Brooks road section.

The patroling of the watchmen has been justified in at least one instance for at about 4.30 Wednesday morning a fire was discovered in a shed between the Marnock granite plant and the polishing shops of Shyne and Finn, and was extinguished before it made much headway and without the aid of the fire department

The fire was in some sawdust and is thought to have smouldered eight or ten hours before its discovery. The shed was used as a shelter for lumber used in boxing monuments that are shipped. The lumber was sawed there and the sadust swept into a corner. A spark from a pipe or a lighted cigar or cigarette butt carelessly thrown into the sawdust Tuesday probably caused the fire.

The origin of the fire has opened an investigation by manufacturers and there is a general impression that fires the past year in various sheds have been due to similar causes. It is probable that rules preventing men from smoking in lumber sheds will be posted in conspicuous places in the granite district.

GRADUATION AT QUINCY MANSION

The graduation exercises of the Quincy Mansion school were held Wednesday afternoon in Livermore hall, which was filled with pupils, alumnae, teachers, parents and friends.

Soon after two lavender cords were drawn down the aisle and the processional, "Angel of Peace," was taken up by distant voices accompanied by Mr. Cutler, pianist and Mr. Howard, violinist. The voices became more distinct as the juniors and undergraduates entered and continued to the front where they faced the audience asthe white gowned seniors made their appearance.

The class followed the usual custom of the previous graduates of massing all the flowers on the platform and it was a veritable bower roses predominating.

Mrs. Willard read a few messages of congratulation of the many sent and spoke briefly on her regret that the time had come for leave taking. They had done their work well, she said, they liked the old fashion graduation.

Dr. Isaiah W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church offered the prayer.

The chorus rendered, "The Forest Sunset" by Abt and "O Golden Days" by Schubert. The pupils showed the results of Prof. Marceau's instruction and they were enthusiastically applauded by the audience.

The salutatories were delivered by Miss Orcutt in French and Miss Roy in English in which they bid all a hearty welcome. They paid a loving tribute to the noble character of Dr. Willard and noble aspirations given them by Mrs. Willard.

Miss Holland gave an excellent description of the Charles river which Captain John Smith discovered and told of places where there still are traces of the Indians. She graphically told of its source, the falls, Echo bridge where the voice repeats 18 times, Cambridge basin, and closed with Longfellow's poem "To the River Charles."

Miss Cornish's rendering of "Rustle of Spring" by Sinding showed the result of careful instruction combined with natural talent.

Miss Kendall's essay on "Historic Litchfield," that delightful country town in Connecticut with its beautiful elms situated on a ridge of the hills of the Berkeshires, its old houses, first law school in the coun-

How Gold Dust actually works for you

The active principle of Gold Dust is a valuable antiseptic cleansing agent.

It actually works. It gets into the corners and crevices where fingers and washcloths can't reach. It permeates and dissolves dirt, grease and grime everywhere and it cleans and brightens everything.

Gold Dust does all this—does this actual work—because it is made for that purpose.

Millions of women all over the country use Gold Dust three times a day in washing dishes. They use it also for scrubbing floors, washing windows, etc.

But they do not realize all the uses of Gold Dust. Gold Dust is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

Gold Dust cleans metal work, nickel, enameled ware, etc., without scratching or marring the surface—leaving it sanitarily clean, bright and new-looking.

The use of Gold Dust is an economy. There can be no waste when you use the exact small quantity required for each specific purpose. It is at once taken up by hot or cold water, forming the perfect cleansing solution.

No soap or other cleansing help is needed. Gold Dust does it all, and Gold Dust does its work far better than anything else can.

Use Gold Dust not only for washing dishes, but for washing bathtubs and bathroom fixtures, cleaning oil mops, cleaning and freshening linoleum and oilcloth, cleaning and brightening pots, pans and cooking utensils, giving luster to glassware—for every cleaning and brightening purpose.

Gold Dust is as inexpensive as it is indispensable.

COLONIAL DAMES RECEIVE PORTRAIT

A handsomely framed oil painting of Tutor Henry Flynt, a tutor at Harvard college in the first half of the 18th century and New England's earliest humorist was presented to the Massachusetts society of Colonial Dames at its spring meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Dorothy Q. Mansion on Butler road. There was a large attendance at the meeting, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, members and guests being present from all over the state as well as from Rhode Island, Augusta and other Maine cities and St. John, N. B.

Mrs. Barrett Wendell presided after the informal reception which opened the meeting and the speakers were Brooks Adams, Esq. of Quincy and Prof. Barrett Wendell of Harvard. Mr. Adams spoke very briefly conveying the thanks of the Quincy Historical society for the work of preservation of the Dorothy Q house.

Prof. Wendell spoke of the period from 1636 to 1775 and at the conclusion of his informal but interesting talk, he presented the portrait of Tutor Flynt. The portrait is a copy of the portrait at Harvard and will later adorn the walls in the Tutor Flynt room at the Dorothy Q house. Henry Flynt was a tutor at Harvard for fifty-five years and in a second story L, which had been provided for him at the mansion, he found rest from his labors at college and here he did much of his writing.

Following this there was an informal social hour during which tea was served. Mrs. Dwight Prouty and Miss Madeline Lawrence presiding at the tea table.

Another interesting event at Wednesday's meeting was the placing of a bronze inscription plate on the sun dial presented to the society by Mrs. Caroline L. Daniels. The sun dial rests on a granite pedestal in the yard near the side entrance to the mansion.

The bronze inscription plate which was attached to the dial by Dr. Daniels, reads as follows:

Presented to
The Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames
By
Caroline LeFavor Daniels.
May 28, 1912.

It was intended that the speaking should have been held on the spacious grounds surrounding the mansion but the inclement weather prevented this. Never have the grounds looked more attractive that at this meeting and today it is one of the beauty spots of the city.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

Children's Room.

Just at present many of the boys and girls of the Children's Room of the Thomas Crane Public Library are very much interested in the "Library Game." This game is very simple, the object being to teach the children how to use the card catalog. Each week a new set of questions is made out, the aim of these questions is to bring to the children's attention three kinds of cards in the catalog, the author title and subject. Each child is given paper and pencil to answer the questions. At the end of the week the papers handed in are corrected, and the names of those who have answered all questions correctly or made but slight mistakes are put upon the "Honor Roll."

Before commencing this game many of the children knew nothing of the use of the catalog, or of the classification of the book. This little contest not only gives them a clearer insight into the use of the catalog but increases their knowledge of the resources of the Library.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS.

In view of the fact that Quincy may experiment with the movement toward Junior High schools it is of interest to note the advantages claimed for them by Prof. Thomas H. Briggs of Teachers' college, Columbia.

"There are four major claims made for the Junior High school: first, that it provides better for individual differences; second, that it makes easier the transition to the high school; third, that it decreases the number of pupils eliminated from the school system, and fourth, that it furnishes an opportunity for various reforms in instruction."

There are at the present time nearly 200 such high schools in operation in this country and the number is increasing very rapidly. Buildings designed for use by such upper grades admit of wider variation in size of rooms and larger use of basement rooms than the usual grade school. It is quite probable that the School Department in giving its approval to plans for the new buildings to be erected will bear this in mind.

The probabilities for a large increase in high school attendance are such that relief in the near future will be imperative. If the city should decide to try the Junior High school plan it will have the satisfaction of being preceded in the field by other conspicuous municipalities.

PROMOTIONS.

In view of the close approach of promotion time, the following statement will be of interest. This statement is in line with the usual practice in this city and elsewhere.

"The problem of determining the fitness of a pupil for promotion is one which must be solved primarily by the teacher. The purpose of grading and promotion in our schools is not that of punishment or reward, but an intelligent, sensible assignment of a pupil to the place where he can do the best work. The teacher after having had a pupil in her class for a half-year, or a year with opportunities for the daily inspection of his recitations, and his written work in the different subjects, and for the observation of his physical characteristics and mental attitudes, ought to be better qualified than any one else to decide what is best for the child. The teacher's judgment should of course be based upon a reasonable system of records, and not upon mere temporary or spasmodic opinion. Any plan of promotion, however, that makes the teacher a slave to classbook markings and per cents. is distinctly bad. The determination of the promotion of a child is not a matter of adding and averaging percentages. The teacher should be permitted to recommend for promotion all pupils in her class about whose ability to do the work of the next grade there is no question. There will remain a certain number in each class whose cases should be considered by the teacher and principal together. There will be an occasional pupil about whom the superintendent will be called into consultation. In all instances the question to be decided is, what is best for the child Any plan which provided for an examination for the doubtful minority as a final test of what shall be done with them is an inexcusable dodging of professional responsibility. In the light of modern knowledge of the relation of physical to mental conditions it would be far better to call in the doctor and the specialist.

"Due consideration should also be given to the physiological as well as the chronological age of the child, to his general health conditions and vital power to resist disease and fatigue, to the degree of mental maturity, and to habits in school attendance, study, and performance of assigned work. With our highly intellectualized notions of school work, and mechanical standards of measuring the progress of children, too much fuss has been made about scholastic marks and promotions. Re-classifications and promotions should be brought about by normal and quiet methods without any upsetting or serious disturbance of the individual pupil and without any noticeable agitation of the school as a whole. The supreme aim in assigning a pupil to his place in a school system is to provide him with a maximum of opportunity. This assignment is a matter of judgment to be exercised by those best acquainted with the capabilities of the child. The teacher in consultation with the principal can most accurately and wisely determine when the pupil is prepared to advance to a higher grade."

Fire Commissioner O'Keefe of the Metropolitan District has requested the School Department of all the towns and cities in the district to appoint committees to advise with him in the matter of fire prevention and fire drills in school houses. The local committee has already complied with the request.

The sheet metal department at the Industrial school is to be equipped for the new class which enters in September. The amount of equipment has been decided on and will probably be in place before the close of the present term.

SUMMER DANCE FROCK.

The summer dance frock is wide of skirt and abbreviated as to bodice. The frock is embroidered net over pale blue satin. The skirt is ornamented with bands of blue satin caught up on the side with tiny bouquets of apple blossoms. The bodice is in surplice effect.

FROCKS FOR ALL FUNCTIONS

Novel Callot Wedding Gown—Commencement Dresses—Materials and Combinations—Trimmings— Checker-Board Blocks—Spats—Summer Foxes.

Wedding gowns, Commencement frocks, dainty practical attire for many Spring demands, and for the Summer that is in such a rush that it cuts in with 90 degrees in April forces even the most dilatory planner to devote time and attention to things sartorial.

GRANDMOTHER REVIVALS.

Fashionable assemblages look as if our grandmothers had suddenly been rejuvenated and appeared in the frocks and fallals that they wore in the early 60's, when short dresses showed a daintily formed ankle and trim slipper below the fullest and flounciest of skirts. They never wore anything, however, as abbreviated as the present Russian Ballet types. The high fancy boots carry these short daring frocks off with comparative propriety now, but one wonders a bit how it will look when Summer makes the low shoe a necessity.

SPATS

Spats are the answer now with many of the women already wearing low cut footwear and a very smart and practical answer it proves both as to looks and expenditure. Sand and light greys are rivaled by white in these accessories. The latter spat often of white canvas, which is again practical because easily cleaned, and inexpensive.

CALLOT WEDDING GOWN.

Novel and pretty and practical is the new Callot model wedding gown with its white satin deachable bolero with court train, to be worn over a foundation frock of white chiffon-crepe combined with lace. This in a moment may be converted into an adorable dancing frock with detachable colored girdles.

COMMENCEMENT FROCKS

Marquisette, organdie, net batiste, and many other suitable white fabrics make most girlish and dainty frocks for Commencements which loom importantly at this time of year.

The season's models are fertile in suggestions for this type of gown. Flounces and frills and surplice bodices for especially slender wearers, and simpler straight designs with hem-stitched finishes and touches of simple embroidery. Organdie tucked or ruffled with finishes of dainty French Valenciennes makes exquisitely attractive dresses, and while all white is correct for these momentous functions, variety of effect can be introduced for after-wear in dainty little silk coats of colored taffeta, as well as in girdles and sashes.

SELF TRIMMINGS.

Self-trimmings of the dress material are very modish Puffings and ruchings tucks, flounce and smocking are all to the fore for adornment and embroidery in a number of quickly done styles. Some of the prettiest are simply braided, with heavy silk threads or with beads strung as one buys them.

CHECKER BLOCKS.

Stripes and checks are fashionable, the latter especially fetching in checkered blocks printed on silk or cotton tissues that make pretty blouses and combination effects.

WHITE FOX CRAZE.

All over the town one meets white fox scarfs worn over thinnest of frock and blouses, even when the altitude of the mercury must make their wearers decidedly uncomfortable. Becoming and dainty and the tip-of-the-mode are these, so we will see them all through the Summer for they will be both worth while and pretty when sea breezes blow and winds are cool at high resorts.

THE MOTHER WHO SMILED.

The Boy's Mother was always smiling. Said the mothers of others boys, "She has the same worries that we have, she is as poor as we, and yet she keeps on loking cheerful. Her mind must be weak."

The Boy's Mother heard this. "They may be right, my mind may not be as strong as theirs. All the same, the sk and the earth smile; even when clouds and darkness veil them the brightness is underneath," and she kept on smiling.

After awhile the Boy, who had all of the boy's perplexities in learning life, said to her, peevishly, "I have things happen that make me unhappy or angry, and you seem never to have them."

"When you weep in unhappiness or frown in anger," she replied, "does it better fit you for doing your best in the world?"

So the Boy became thoughtful, and in time his face was as hers, cheerful, and his school tasks seemed lighter to him in consequence. Friends were annoyed, and for her child's good came to the Mother and asked her if she were doing right in letting the Boy take nothing seriously.

"The most serious thing I know," she made answer, "is to keep up cheerfulness when discouragement clogs our endeavors."

"Suppose death of a dear one came to you" demanded they, "would you smile then?b

And death came. The Boys father had long been an invalid requiring much care, and the end came.

"Wife," he said, "you have helped me more than you know. Not only with your hands, but with your cheerful face, you have led me heavenward."

The woman smiled through her tears, in thankfulness for his words. Then came a great plague in the land, and people fled to the country where health was more assured.

The Boy's Mother stayed where she was. "I am needed here," she said.

"You are not strong enough to nurse," was the argument put to her, and care of your husband has weakened you, besides!"

"I can do something," she said. So she stayed and went among the suffering stricken ones, and while she could do only the lesser services the doctors and the nurses and the sick ones said that she encouraged them when they seemed at the end of their resources and gave them renewed hope.

Then the Boy became ailing. "Have no fear," smiled the mother, "Fear destroys many safeguards. God does not willingly afflict. Try to shake aside the mist that appears—beyond it the sun and stars are bright Smile!"

So the Boy smiled, pondering over what he heard, and in time he was well as he had been. He was now much older than a schoodboy, a youth and was working at the world's work. It was, moreover, hard work, hard for hands and for brain, and often he thought he could make small headway in it.

At such times the mother said, "The battle is to the brave, and it is not cowardly to smile."

The youth became a man, and the world took note of the work he did. Said many, "He had no better advantages than we, and yet he outstrips us."

The Man's mother was not young now; her hair was whitening; her face had wrinkles in it; and her step was slower than it used to be. But the smile was still hers in spite of all the years.

There came a day when the Man was called to a high office among his fellows.

"Why not?" asked the mother. "Greater things than these shall ye do,' said the greatest man who ever trod the earth."

The Man, whom the mother saw was hesitating, accepted the office, and those around him said, "His constant cheerfulness gives us confidence in him."

When the Man was chosen for still higher offices and filled them, and people called him middle-aged, the mother found her bodily powers lessening. She had become a very old woman and had survived many of the mothers of those other boys, those women who thought her mind must be weak because of her smiling face. Her hands bore the marks of toil and her body was bent with the work of other years. She said to the Man who had been the Boy,

"I tried to do what I could in the heat and labor of the day. I honed to make those about me see the smiling face of God. If I have succeeded in any wise it is God, not I, who did it."

"You gave yourself to your belief," returned the Man, "and the oLrd loves a cheerful giver. I find that I am cheerful all the time, as you ever were. oYu have done well, and now you enter into your rest, a good and faithful servantf—or what is a mother to the world and her child but a servant? It has been your cheeriness that did it all."

"Nay," she said, fondling his hand as though he were still the littlest of children, "not my cheeriness, but the effort to give to all the Love so freely given to me. God sends us His sunshine and His starshine, His clouds and tempesta—ll of them His smiles, for His care abides in one of them as in another. For God is Love, and Love is ever smiling."

The cheerful look was in her face even as she passed aside from earth and the Man who had been the Youth and the Boy smiled through his tears, and uttered the word that expresses the ineffable meaning of God and of Love.

"My mother!"—Robert C. V. Meyers

GRANITE NEWS

Memorial Day will be a thing of the past in a few days and the local men have had a pretty good slice of the work this spring. Very few cutters are idle in the city today and from indication there is considerable work still on the books to be cut for later delivery. A call has been received from Barre, Vt., for two hundred cutters which indicates that even though business may slack up a bit in Quincy there will be a chance for the cutters to get steady work the coming summer. There is also a lot of work to be cut on the Cape for the new dry dock and several building jobs in the state of Maine

A great deal of interest has been aroused among the Granite men of this city as a result of the complaint made at a meeting of the School Committee by Peter T. Fallon relative to the so called nuisance which he claims adjoins the Willard school in the shape of a granite shed. It is claimed that the noise and dust prevents the teachers of the rooms on the side of the building adjoining the shed from opening the windows. The matter was turned over to the sub committee of the Willard school which will investigate the matter and report at the next meeting.

A similar case came up several years ago in Rockport, Maine, and the Supreme Court of Maine decided in favor of the school board and the nuisance was abolished.

The shed in question is owned and operated by D. F. Fitzgerald and he has just expended nearly ten thousand dollars in repairs and installed new machinery. The shed was formerly occupied by Miller and Lewis and has been in constant operation for over 25 years.

When the ordinary citizen is disturbed from his slumbers by a heavy truck passing his residence late in the evening he does not think of the poor laborers who by the neglect of customers to order their memorials early have to work day and night to set the work before Memorial Day. This year despite the large number of new trucks in the city and the cry of the manufacturers to order work early, is the same if not worse than in past years. Many manufacturers are finding to their sorrow that it is very hard to get a truck or even a horse drawn vehicle to go to the cemeteries. All of the local horses available are in service on some work in the city and horses and teams are now at a premium.

Workmen are at work building the chimney for the large addition to the engine room of the Granite Railway Company on Bates avenue. The chimney is now about 25 feet high and when completed will stand 100 feet high. The base of the chimney is thirteen feet square.

Two huge boilers requiring separate cars arrived Saturday at the yard and will be placed in the new plant. The boilers came from Dillon Bros., Fitchburg, Pa., and measure about six feet in diameter and about thirty feet in length.

The Willard Granite and Polishing Company of Willard street is clearing away the debris from the fire and planning to erect a new and modern shed. This is the plant which was burned to the ground recently, destroying several thousand dollars worth of valuable memorials. The firm hopes to be able to resume operations in a short time as it had considerable work on the books when the fire occurred.

Shipping has slowed up a bit during the past week owing to the fact that the manufacturers have been busy setting up work in the cemeteries. Nevertheless a large amount of work is being shipped at both stations every day and several carloads of granite are being received from Westerly and Barre. A large amount of rough stock has also been shipped during the past week.

It is hoped that the finance committee of the City Council will report favorably on the investigation it made last Saturday as to the erecting of a sea wall at Houghs Neck. This improvement will mean some work for the local teamsters and quarrymen.

Several Quincy cutters are reported ready to leave for Cape Ann as soon as the work begins cutting the granite for the new dry dock. Several Quincy men are now in the employ of the Rockport Granite Company and will benefit by the victory won by the company when the contract was ratified.

The polls for the election of National officers of the Granite Cutters International association for the ensuing four years will be open only five days more. Have you, Mr. Granite Cutter, voted for Mr. Duncan of your home town. Don't think he has victory won as many elections have been decided by but a single vote. Do your duty to Quincy and cast your vote before June 3rd.

Will the appointment of Alex Russell to the Public Burial Board bring to life the Mount Wollaston Chapel?

A fine Quincy Granite memorial has been erected in St. Mary's cemetery to the memory of Rev. Howland J. Harkins in the family lot. The design is a cross monument and on the die a chalice is very artistically carved.

WANT SCHOOL STREET TO BE CAR TERMINUS

Merchants Also Agitate Granolithic Sidewalk

As a result of the agitation started among the merchants on the westerly side of Hancock street between Granite and School streets over the matter of a brick or granolithic sidewalk the finance committee of the city council when it meets tonight will be presented with a petition signed by all the merchants, praying that a granolithic sidewalk be built along the entire westerly side between these two points. The finance committee now has before it the general sidewalk order and what the merchants hope to accomplish is to have the committee amend the order so as to include this particular sidewalk.

It will be pointed out that unless a granolithic walk is built the whole length it will make a bad looking job. For instance, starting from City Hall one first finds a piece of granolithic walk which runs to Granite street, then a brick sidewalk running to Tirrell court, a granolithic walk running to Kincaide's theatre and a brick sidewalk from that point to School street. The petitioners want a whole stretch of either brick or granolithic, preferably the latter, but object to the patchwork layout.

This is not the only theme that stirred up the merchants Wednesday for another movement was started, to have the street cars running between Quincy and Neponset make School street their terminus instead of City square.

As now operated the line of elevated cars make their terminus in City square which is made a central transfer point. It is argued that if the terminal point was extended to School street it would not only relieve the congestion in City square but would be a benefit to the merchants along the upper end of Hancock street, as well as being of great convenience to passengers residing, or desiring to go, beyond City square.

It is understood, therefore that as a result of the agitation started Wednesday a petition will be presented to the street railway officials asking that they make School street the Quincy terminus of the elevated cars instead of City square.

In connection with the congestion of City square it is well known that the city planning board is considering the condition of City square in the vicinity of City Hall and while the Board has not as yet made its recommendations public it is rumored about the corridors of City Hall that it is desirous of removing the granite fountain erected some years ago by the citizens and which for several years has not been put to practical use. The reason for this is that the Cattle Commission has prohibited the use of public fountains for animals and the Board of Health has prohibited the use of public drinking fountains of this sort. The result is claimed to be that this massive fountain is taking up a lot of valuable room in City square that could much better be used for street purposes.

Should the fountain eventually be removed it is understood that the plan contemplates moving the street car tracks at this point a little to the east, which it is said would be a great improvement. As now located the tracks are too near to the sidewalk in front of the Hancock house it is contended and if moved a few feet to the east there would be a general improvement all around.—The Oracle.

D. F. Fitzgerald of Miller street has just erected a fine Westerly tablet to the memory of Thomas Brady, Co. F 24 Mass. Inf. Mr. Brady was well known in the Atlantic district where he resided.

M. C. Monahan of Copeland street has purchased a seven passenger automobile.

Many Quincy Citizens Have Profited By It.

If you have backache, urinary troubles, days of dizziness, headaches or nervousness, strike at the seat of the trouble. These are often the symptons of weak kidneys and there is grave danger in delay. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for kidney ailments — are endorsed by over 30,000 people. Your neighbors recommend this remedy—have proved its merit in many tests. Quincy readers should take fresh courage in the straightforward testimony of a Quincy citizen.

George R. Williams, supt. city work, 32 Chestnut street, Quincy, says: "In my work I have considerable heavy lifting and I also get on and off a wagon a great deal. My back and kidneys were affected and I suffered from severe pains in my back. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years. They have always fixed me up in good shape. I keep them in the house and am glad to recommend them."

New Year's Night, Ladies' Auxiliary Physical Department exhibits, etc. have resulted in getting the members nearer together and doing good work The boys' department has been in my opinion in itself worth all the cost of the association, as manifested at various times when I have personally visited this department, and I was particularly gratified with the committee of ten boys with our boys' director at the meeting held at Pawtucket, wherein most of our boys, with about 250 others, stood up for Christ and promised to lead a Christian life under the severe conditions of the call. The work has been performed in this department to the satisfaction of the president. The Women's Auxiliary has been of great assistance, also in keeping the boys and young men, as well as the Board of Directors in a cheerful frame of mind, with their nice suppers so neatly prepared. This is a great factor towards the successful work being performed in the various departments. The membership has been somewhat increased over last year, but there is large room for increase in this department, and will have more careful consideration during the next six months. A visiting committee has not been established in the senior department, evidently but has been more or less attended to in the boys' department . There will probably be a real established committee during the next year which can work in conjunction with the membership committee.

As your president, I would make the following suggestions: That where it is impractical for the executive committee to get together promptly for small matters and expenditure, tht same shall be left to the geneal secretary to decide, but to be checked up as soon as convenient by the president, without having the full approval of the executive committee. In order to run any business successfully it is necessary that reins of government be trusted to some officer, and not tie his hands too closely when matters must be attended to promptly. Where large expenditures are necessary, this of course will come not only before the executive committee, but before whole board for their approval. Also would suggest that there shall be exact appropriations made for various expenses which are absolutely necessary for the running of the association and also a separate budget for miscellaneous things which in the total run up to a considerable amount. This of course will be left to the discretion of the executive committee, with full powers to act.

In regard to the physical director, which you are no doubt anxious to know about, I have put considerable of my personal time on this matter, and expect to give some definite reply, with the assistance of Dr. Diehl, within two weeks from date if possible. I have at present quite a number of names under consideration, who are likely candidates but would prefer to be a little slow in order to get a person who will stand thorough investigation. In this way we would hope to get a very efficient man for the position and one well trained who next to the secretary will, determine greatly the efficiency of the association work.

It is a suggestion of the president that we have greater activity in religious lines during the next year, and would like to see greater co-operation with the ministers of the city, assisting the committee in this line and believe that the association can be a clearing house for religious work throughout the city of Quincy, and not only for the good of the association, but for all the churches. I believe that there should be more meetings of the ministers with our secretary to devise methods for increased religious work to be done in a city as large as Quincy is now becoming. Would suggest that there also be greater number of shop meetings held as last year only one shop was represented. In Worcester I understand there are about 30.

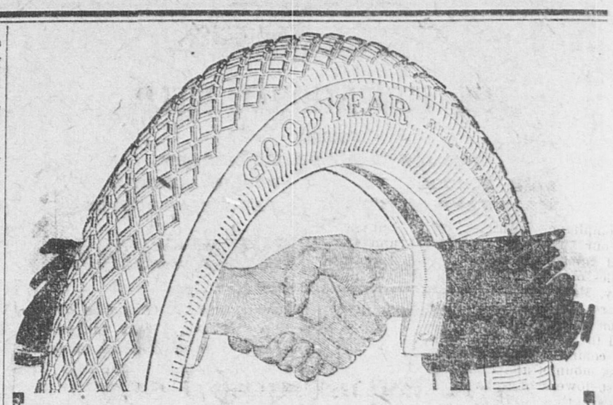

In the educational department would suggest that we have a greater number of practical talks from members of the board, as well as well-known men running successful businesses and who can give excellent talks on various important subjects such as those given on the Panama Canal by our secretary of the board. Mr. Hamilton. Believe that talks by the Supt. of schools, bankers, merchants, manufacturers and leaders of temperance campaigns, would bring back to the association the senior members who have more or less drifted away the last few years. I believe in encouraging lectures and practical talks which are in vogue in other associations. Would suggest that we have a motion picture machine starting Oct. 1st, as a part of our educational work.

The physical department I believe could be made as good as any other in the state, for its size, and would suggest that several hundred dollars be expended in improving the bath rooms and some method of tiling. Would suggest that there be an addition to our bowling alley if possible, and would suggest for the summer there be a small sum of money invested for fixing up the yard for lawn tennis and other out-door sports, in order that the summer activities may be increased over those of last year. Would suggest that there be lights put in the fire-side room to makeit more cheerful than it now is without proper lighting facilities, especially during the day. Would encourage a larger number of public meetings in our association hall, which as been used mostly for the boys' department. Would recommend that we have more citizens of Quincy invited to serve on the various committees.

Personally I feel that the work performed throughout the world by the Y M C A is a work that can not be measured, yet it has a great influence over the lives of the young men, in holding them for better citizenship. In this association the young man entering in city life from the country, has a home to go to, where he influence over his life is upward. It is also a good thing for the travelling man who enters a strange city with a membership card in his pocket, to receive the cordial welcome of the secretary or his assistants. I know how gratifying this is from my own experience in various cities from the North to the South. It is of course the aim of this association to build up young men physically, mentally and morally, and with this aim in view I trust that every dollar that is invested in this association work will produce gratifying results and that each officer, each member of the board of directors, and each chairman of the various committees, will feel his personal responsibility, and the opportunity to give service, wherein they will receive their reward daily by the happiness attained through such service, which can not otherwise be attained. I therefore look to the worthy citizens of Quincy to assist this association in their midst, by helping the young men and boys to grow in strength and efficiency, and to make better citizens, more altruism, more patriotism and more unselfishness. I wish for the Y. M. C. A. of Quincy a greater increase in efficiency for the coming year, for the uplift of the young men.

Respectfully submitted.
FRANK BURGESS.

The Co-operative Tire

Goodyear has always built co-operative tires. Every saving has gone to the user. The more men bought the better we built them, and the lower we sold them.

That is why Goodyear has held top place, outselling any other tire.

3 Reductions

Note that in two years we made three big price reductions. The last—on February 1st—brought the total to 45 per cent.

Yet in costly ways these tires have been bettered. In not one iota were they ever skimped.

Our Fortified Tire is still "On-Air" cured to save blow-outs. Yet that one extra costs us $450,000 yearly.

It still has our No-Rim-Cut feature. It has in each base 126 braided piano wires to make the tire secure. It embodies hundreds of rubber rivets, formed to combat loose treads.

Our All-Weather tread is still double-thick. It still has the sharp, tough, resistless grips.

Those extras—all exclusive to Goodyear—are all retained, despite our price reductions. And we still spend $100,000 yearly to discover new ways to better them.

Your Ally

In all these ways, Goodyear is your ally. You do injustice to yourself when you fail to secure this advantage. Never in tire history was such value given as you get in Goodyear tires today.

No smaller makers can ever give so much.

Any dealer will supply you. [337]

GRADUATION AT

try, the governor's house where George Washington and General Lafayette were entertained, Lyman Beecher homestead, was interestingly told.

"Adoration" by Borowski by Messrs. Howard and Cutler followed. They were heartily applauded.

The senior class presented "Pyramus and Thisbe" from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," their rendering of Shakespeare's play delighting the audience.

Miss Bull, who had filled Miss Hadley's place during her absence on account of illness, prepared the scene.

"Madrigal" by Simonette and "Melodie Viennese" by Kreisler by Messrs. Howard and Cutler delighted the audience.

Miss Orcutt gave an excellent paper on Quincy, the home of two presidents named in honor of Col. John Quincy. She told of the Adams houses, Penn's hill where Abigail Adams watched the smoke of the battle of Bunker Hill, of the Cairn which marks the spot, burial place of the presidents their wives, Old Quincy homestead, where Dorothy Q. was born. It is rich in Indian lore and history and the fastest growing city in new England, she declared.

Miss Roy was unable to sing her vocal solo "Mon Coeur s'ouvre a ta voix" by C. Saint Saens.

Miss Cornish's class history told of many good times. They had enjoyed Mrs. Pitts, Mr. Speaight, John Sanborn, Madame Durant, President Murlin, Daniel Crawford, Dr. Hedlin, and others. She told of the Promanade, class dinner and so on.

The chorus, "To Thee O Country," followed.

Miss Collings expressed herself most sympathetically in the valedictory, grateful for the years spent at the school. The love and reverence for Dr. Willard's memory, the example of Mrs. Willard's true Christian character, the helpful teachers and ever faithful Annette and sorrow of the class in leaving Quincy Mansion school. Mrs. Willard then presented the diplomas, handed her by her assistant, Miss C. Belle Kenney. The class picture was presented by Miss Kendall and unveiled by Miss Holland. Miss Mary Sheffield accepted the picture for the alumnae of which Miss Frances Minor is vice president and Mrs. Frances Patterson Cook is secretary and treasurer. Dr. Sneath pronounced the benediction.

In the studio was a very attractive exhibition, the work of the Art students.

At 5 o'clock the Alumnae held an informal reception in the mansion.

Those receiving diplomas were: Clarinda Blackman Collings, Eva Maude Cornish, Irene Frances Holland, Dorothy Kendall, Marion Josephine Orcutt, Mabel Edith Roy, Ruth Murless Morton, and Evelyn Domenica Richards.

GAMES FRIDAY.
Lincoln annd Gridley.

Only a few games remain unplayed in the grammar school base ball leagues and the world series for the championship of the city, with the winners of the two divisions as contestants, will in all probability be played the second week in June.

The Gridleys, Massachusetts Fields and Willards are in a triple tie for first place in the American league. If Coddington wins another game there will be a four place tie, providing one of the leaders is not eliminated before then.

The Montclairs and Washingtons head the National league with three wins each and one loss. The Cranch team, in third place with one lost and one game won, is not considered out of the running but its prospects are not the brightest.

Several games have been postponed because of rain and Dr. J. Gardner Smith, physical director of the schools and director of the leagues, is rearranging the schedule for the balance of the season.

Genuine surprises have been sprung in the league this season, particularly by the Lincoln team which came into the limelight, after losing four straight games, by defeating the strong Willards.

ABOUT THE MODISH VEIL.

Veils occupy a prominent place in fashiondom, naturally, since they are meant to adorn milady's fair face. The one in the picture is of fillet net, with an attractive daisy pattern sprawling over it.

CABARET

A decidedly attractive young woman she was, in her picturesque street singer's costume, sweet of voice, winning of smile. Who could resist her? Few did. After singing a few bars of an Italian street song she began to wend her way down the aisles among the tables, still singing, holding out her tambourine for the coins which flowed most freely. No one escaped and yet she was encored with terrific enthusiasm. Her contribution to the Associated Charities was a rare treat and $13.62 in collections. (The reporter is puzzled to know who contributed the other cent.)

Then the floor was cleared for dancing and Miss Florence Barker and her brother delighted the company with one of their graceful fancy dances.

Music for the dancing was furnished by Quincy's Quintette: Hon. Russell A. Sears, Albert F. Schenkelberger, Earl Simons, Miss Ninon Lacey and Sam Sears, augmented by Messrs Harry and Charles Smith, Everett, Hall and Sturgis.

Refreshments were served by: Misses Stella Barker, Irene C. Dasha, Marguerite Davis, Dorothy Edwards, Miriam Faulkner, Ruth Faulkner, Mary Faxon, Vera Hale, Barbara Johnson, Norma Johnson, Ruth Keach, Gertrude Lacey, Carolyn Lewis, Florence Mead, Dorothy Packard, Judith Page, Theodosia Park, Catherine Saville, Natalie Saville, Lilian Schenkelberger, Maria Schenkelberger, Roxana Schenkelberger, Constance Sears, Helen Seavey, Gertrude Thorne.

Those in charge were Mrs. Thomas Lacey, refreshmetns; Mrs. Nathaniel S. Hunting, entertainment; Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., tickets; and Delcevare King, securing of club house and master of ceremonies.

WOODWARD HAS MAY FESTIVAL

Stormy Weather Prevents Outdoor Feta

The annual May festival of the Woodward Institute was held Wednesday afternoon. It was planned to hold the festival on the grounds but the stormy weather obliged the festival to be held in the gymnasium. For this reason the May Pole dance which was to have been a special feature had to be omitted.

There was a large attendance of parents and friends of the pupils and the entertainment was of a very pleasing nature. It was given under the direction of Miss Martha E. Maccarty, teacher in physical training, and included a series of dances by groups of pupils from the different classes upwards of sixty of the girls taking part. All of the dances were given in costume and each was greeted with applause. In addition to the group dances there were two solo dances given. One was by Constance Fryer, a Shepherdess dance in costume. Miss Fryer has often appeared in solo dances and her execution of the dance as usual was perfect. The second solo dance was given by Eleanor Stuart, a Highland Fling. This was also given in costume and was finely rendered.

The program opened with a grand march and the group dances were as follows: Three Crows, Little Bo-Peep, Ribbon Dance, Irish Lilt, Bleking Dance, Pease Porridge, Matinee Waltz, Dutch Dance, Highland Schottische, Grasshopper Dance, Norwegian Mountain Dance, Summer Dance, Spanish Dance and Indian Dance.

The program closed with the singing of the class song after which light refreshments were served.

PRESENT PLAY AT WOLLASTON

The play "Sally Lunn" was given at the Wollaston Methodist church on Wednesday evening by a party of young people from the Hall Place Methodist church.

The title role was taken by Miss Mary Williams who acted her duel part with charm and skill. Robert McCormick as Leo Randolph was a typical diffident school boy. Edward Newcomb and Arthur Williams as John Randolph and Morton Glynn respectively impersonated the worldly wisdom of the under classman at college. Miss Hilda Frances and Miss Rita Hunter as mother and daughter showed the same sharpness of disposition except that in the daughter it was exhibited with an air of charm.

Miss Bessie Nichols in the part of Marjorie Randolph showed versatility as she ran the gamut of emotion from indignation to relief. The play was very well done.

Wesley Williams sang a tenor solo. He was accompanied on the piano by eRv. F. Germany. Mrs. Henry M. Henderson played the "Valse Styrienne" by Wallenhaupt, "Titania" by Lefebure-Wely and "Saluta Pesthe" by Kowalski. Both Mr. Williams and Mrs. Henderson received hearty applause.

ADAM AGAIN.

Visitor—What brought you here?

Prisoner—I owes me downfall to a woman.

Visitor—How was that, my poor man?

Prisoner—She y[illegible] for the police.—Philadelphia Ledger.

DO YOU BLAME HIM?

Teacher— Willie, what is your greatest ambition.

Willie—To wash mother's ears.—New York American.

A WISE POLICY.

A witty political candidate, running in an agricultural district, after making a speech announced that he would be glad to answer any questions that might be put to him.

A voice came from the audience.

"You seem to know a lot, sir, about a farmer's difficulties. May I ask a question about a momentous one?"

"Certainly," replied the candidate nervously.

"How can you tell a bad egg?" went on the merciless voice.

The candidate waited until the laughter died away. Then he replied:

"If I had anything to tell a bad egg I think I should break it gently."

We won the place.—National Monthly.

IRISH THERE TOO.

A distinctly Irish story is told by the comedian, Thomas Murray. A mushroom town in America started with a single block of houses and a theater; three months after it was a flourishing hive of humanity.

"So it's going on well," said the comedian to a man from the place whom he met in New York.

"I guess it's just bounding," was the reply. "It's just Cosomopolis. Includes all sorts—English, Greeks, Russians, Germans, Chinese, Italians—yes, and some Jews."

"No Irish?"

"No."

"What!"

"Waal, now I come to think of it, there are two Irishmen there. One's mayor and the other's chief of police."—New York American.

CAUSE FOR WORRY.

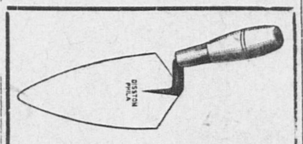

Doctor—I am slightly in doubt as to whether yours is a constitutional disease or not.

Patient—For goodness sake, doctor, have I got to go to the expense of appealing to the United States supreme court to find out whether it is or not?

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

Hub—Yes, my dear; I long ago discovered that if you carry one match it will go out while if you carry two it won't.—Boston Transcript.

ENTERTAINS SENIOR CLASS.

Mrs. Chase Hostess to Students From Maine Town.

Mrs. Charles M. Chase of Upland road entertained the graduating class of the Woodland, Me., High school Thursday and Thursday night. The party arrived in Quincy Thursday afternoon and made a tour of the city taking in the points of historic interest. The class, consisting of two boys and three girls, were chaperoned by Mrs. Harry P. Townsend, sister of Mrs. Chase and a member of the school board of the Maine town. Among the five was George M. Townsend, son of the chaperon and a nephew of Mrs. Chase.

Woodland, Me., is a new town and the young people whom Mrs. Chase entertained constitute the first graduating class which ever went out of the Woodland High school. The class celebrated its graduation by a trip to Washington, where they arrived last Friday. President Wilson was too busy to be seen but the class enjoyed themselves hugely nevertheless, going the usual rounds and seeing about all there was to be seen. They reached Boston Thursday morning and devoted the first half of the day to a tour about the "Hub of the Universe."

Woodland, Me., is a paper manufacturing centre turning out more paper in a day than any other place in North America. The class were entertained over night by Mrs. Chase, leaving this morning for Boston where they will take the boat to their home.

The minstrel show of the Squantum Boys club will be held Saturday evening.

Q. H. S. LOSES TO WEYMOUTH HIGH

Seven Errors Contribute To Defeat

Quincy High school lost to Weymouth High at Weymouth Thursday in a South Shore league game by a score of 9 to 7. The game was loosely played, by both teams each of which had seven errors. Dwyer was knocked out of the box by Quincy in the sixth inning.

Vender was knocked unconscious in the second inning when he was hit on the head by a pitched ball. The ball was a high inshoot and travelled at high speed. It struck Vender above the forehead and went into the air at least 25 feet. Vender dropped in his tracks. First aid was rendered and he was able to continue in the game.

The sensational catch of the game was made by Baker who speared a high line drive with one hand in the first inning. Gorman played the star game for Weymouth, stealing four bases. In the fourth inning he stole home.

Three runs were scored by Weymouth in the second inning. O'Connor hit two men in succession and passed another. A hit and an error by Di Senso opened the way.

In the fourth inning Weymouth got five runs from four hits and a base on balls, mixed up with two errors by DiSenso, one a poor throw to third and the other the dropping of a long throw home by Hamlin. DiSenso scored Dorley in the fourth on a two base hit.

In the sixth inning Quincy scored five runs. Dorley led off with a hit, Borley; DiSenso hit, Baker and Desmond reached first on an error, O'Connor hit, Reardon was caught stealing second and Dwyer reached first on an error. In the meantime Dwyer was yanked out.

BRUTALLY ASSAULTS 76 YEAR OLD WOMAN

Police Arrest Alexander Bullock In Connection With Assault

Mrs. Margaret Whiting, 76 years a respected resident of Braintree and mother of Herbert Whiting, telegrapher at the Braintree station, was the victim of a brutal assault at 5.35 this morning by a man who awakened her from her sleep by pounding on the door. She is suffering from internal injuries and severe shock and is in a serious condition.

Alexander Bullock, 34 years, employed at the Fore River shipyard on submarine construction, has been captured after a five hours search and is held in connection with the assault. His capture was effected by Chief of Police Jeremiah Galvin and Albert L. Hollis.

The woods were searched and by 11 o'clock over 100 men, women and children had joined forces with the police and fire departments. The posse spread out in various directions but no trace of the man was found for several hours.

Chief Galvin and Hollis were beating through the South Braintree side of the woods and in taking a cut through underbrush Hollis saw a bald head flashing in the sun. The man was seated on a large rock. Both

ZEALOUSNESS, GONE MAD.

Any community is fortunate in possessing a public servant who is industrious and conscientious in the administration of his office if these qualities are guided by sound sense. Fire Hazard Commissioner O'Keefe appears to be wholly conscientious and surprisingly industrious, and for this he should be praised. It is evident, however, that he is singularly lacking in common sense, he is the personification of zealousness developed to the point of madness. Dur- his term of office he has accomplished much good but the good is likely to be nullified by the absurdities he has committed, the mistakes he has made.

Mr. O'Keefe's latest order, explained in Thursday's Ledger, prohibits all bon-fires (save one for which a special permit is issued) on the night before the Fourth of July. This is absurd. It deprives Young America and old America, too) of some real enjoyment which is harmless if properly supervised. The Fourth has had its claws removed most wisely, but most wisely, too, something resembling the original has been left.

Bon-fires, under proper supervision, afford an outlet for superfluous enthusiasm and the closing up of the outlet does not remove the enthusiasm, which is sure to break out in other, and more harmful ways. The principal effect of the Commissioner's order will be the lighting of small bon-fires all over the city, most of which the police will be powerless to prevent and some of which may work injury to property.

It seems useless to seek to show Mr. O'Keefe the lack of wisdom in some of his acts. The only remedy is a drastic one but it should be employed. Fire Hazard Commissioner O'Keefe should be removed.

STREET CAR TERMINAL.

Thursday's Ledger has an interesting article by the Oracle regarding the desire of a number of City square merchants to have the Elevated cars make School street their terminal.

That this would result in an increase in business to the business men who conduct stores on Hancock street between Granite and School streets cannot be doubted. The increase in business probably would be greatest at the terminal itself but it would also be considerable all along the line.

The influence of street car terminals upon business development is great. During the building of the Cambridge subway surface cars were diverted from Harvard square, Cambridge, and merchants in the square suffered an enormous loss of business. In the same way, the recent laying of a car track on the street south of Centre street, Brockton, brought a considerable shifting in the centre of out of town shopping.

It is good for a city to have its business centre extended as much as the city can reasonably stand. It is fair that the shopping centre should be as large as possible. The first consideration is the welfare of the city as a whole; then the advantages which will accrue to individuals can be considered. The question which should be answered is: Would it benefit the city to extend the business centre to School street? If this is answered in the affirmative, then the question of making School street a street car terminal might well be considered and, if it appears practicable, might well be urged.

"My guess—and my guess is just as good as anybody else's, is that Germany will refuse to abandon her program of sinking neutral ships with her submarines, but that she really will abandon it, and that she will somehow convey the intimation, either written or oral, that the practice is at an end." Report in Boston Globe of a portion of the address of Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard University at the Harvard Union Wednesday night.

Now, really, respected contemporary, did he say, "anybody else's?"

There is something mightly impressive in the singing of the Marseillaise by three million French soldiers as they did the other day, standing in their trenches along a five hundred mile battle line, when they heard the news that Italy had entered the war on the side of the Allies.

"Who said Quincy was slow?" inquired a stranger at the Quincy yacht club Wednesday night when Miss Godfrey was circulating among the spectators of the cabaret show with great financial success. "They think up more ways to get your money here than any place I know of."

The death of Robert T. Johnson will be a source of the deepest grief to citizens of this city of all ages, creeds, and walks of life. Mr. Johnson did a great deal of good in an unostentatious way and his memory will be deeply revered.

EX-CONG. POWERS AT MEN'S CLUB

Mayor Campbell is Also Speaker

The last meeting of the season of the Atlantic Men's club was held in the vestry of the Memorial Congregational church. The usual first class dinner was served at 6.45. After the dinner Congressman Samuel W. Powers of Newton was introduced as the speaker. His topic was "Men I Have Known."

Mr. Powers started his address by stating that the growth of the church clubs throughout the state had been impressive in the last few years.

He told how he was a hero worshipper as a boy and that his memory went back to the days before the Civil War, and that during the war he was very much interested in the campaigns of Grant, Sherman and Sheridan. He said as a boy he longed to see the men, and when the privilege came to him he was impressed by their youthfulness and that the Civil War was fought by young men—the average being under twenty years of age.

He compared the ages of Field Marshall Von Hindenberg of Germany, General Joffre of France, and Sir John French of England with the generals of the American Civil War, and said that while we look at the military systems of Europe at the close of the Civil War a million men took part in the review, and no army was ever more efficient than those Northern soldiers. He said Sir John French of England says his constant reading today consists of the campaigns of Grant, Sherman, Lee and American generals.

Grant was a man who was absolutely undisturbed. He said he knew the other fellow was as scared as he was.

The speaker told of his meeting Sherman and of Sherman's nervousness, his Irish wit and good humor. Mr. Powers related some of his experiences in studying law in New York.

He spoke of the preachers he had known, and said he had heard almost every American who had the reputation of being an orator in the last fifty years but had never heard any like Beecher. His oratory had such a tremendous variety in it. Parts of his sermon would fire one with indignation at meanness, then he might change and tell a story that would be a fair after dinner story; then describe some pathetic story of poverty by some poor, struggling woman in a garret.

Mr. Powers said he used to have to wait outside of church two hours to get a chance to hear Beecher and that he was always repaid.

Mr. Powers said he had known all the presidents of the U. S. since Andrew Johnson and expressed his admiration for Grover Cleveland as a great man, free from conceit and simple in his tastes, a man who never spoke ill of any one. He said Cleveland's early life was not good, but when elected mayor of Buffalo the responsibility made him think deeply of the public trust.

The speaker told of his first meeting Pres. McKinley when McKinley was planning his campaign four years before election and was confident of both the nomination and election. He said McKinley had no personal enemies, and all admired his devotion to his invalid wife.

Anecdotes of Tom Reed and Samuel Barrows were told to the amusement of all.

In describing Theodore Roosevelt he mimicked Roosevelt and those who had never seen him could judge fairly accurately of the ex-president's personality. He said Roosevelt was a remarkable man, and did not act as impulsively as some supposed, but got opinion of all classes on questions. He had a remarkable memory for names and faces.

Mr. Powers said that he had taken up Mr. Taft's campaign at the request of Roosevelt, and Taft was a most lovable man, and had conducted himself in such a way that he has steadily grown in the estimation of the American people.

He spoke last of Woodrow Wilson. He said he did not vote for Wilson but had the greatest admiration for him as a man, and he felt it the duty of every true American to stand by the President in his efforts and keep the country out of war. Because war he said never settles anything. In civil life all questions are settled by arbitration even court progedure is arbitration. Nations can settle difficulties as do individuals. If two men have a quarrel and one is bigger than the other and hammers the smaller man who may be in the right the question has not been settled or the smaller man convinced.

He said his belief is that this will be the last war if anybody is alive in Europe after it is over—that the nations will demand that war cannot be declared only by the vote of the people. Education and religion had not prevented war. There is not a crowned head in Europe that did not think he was in partnership with the Almighty.

In the United States we do not want war, but we need a navy the equal of any navy in the world.

The address was closed by a description of Uncle Joe Cannon, and expression of confidence in him as a congressman. There was hearty applause at the close of the address.

Mayor Campbell was then introduced and spoke of the administration of city affairs, expressing the same optimistic sentiments as he showed previous to his election. He stated his confidence especially in the chief of the fire department, and his belief in having all the department on autos.

He also paid a special compliment to Councilman Beeman of Atlantic as a broadminded man who was working for the good of the whole city, and said that with few exceptions the city council was made up of men of that large type. The mayor received hearty applause and handshakes from the men.

President Harry Read announced that the club will have its usual outing this summer either at Marblehead or Salem Willows.

STANDISH CLUB HAS BIG SOCIAL

The Standish club held its first social in its Atlantic club rooms Thursday evening with an attendance of more than 150. Post prandial exercises followed with William P. Young, president, acting as toastmaster. The principal speaker was Edward J. Fegan, president of the Board of Trade and a member of the Boston Terminal Zone association. He spoke of the study now being given transportation about Boston and the efforts to be made to eliminate transfer shipments. He also invited the members to attend the Board of Trade session.

During the evening there were vocal solos by Miss C. Butler and Gus Kendall and piano solos by Mrs. J. Wilson. Whist closed the evening.

RUN OVER BY HIS OWN TEAM

John Bissett of Nelson street, who was picked up unconscious after he was run over by his oil team on Nelson street Wednesday is at his home recovering from injuries received. Bissett was thrown under the wheels when the horse broke away, after the harness parted. The wheels passed over him, bruising him about the body. He was also cut about the head

MISS HOOPER PASSES AWAY

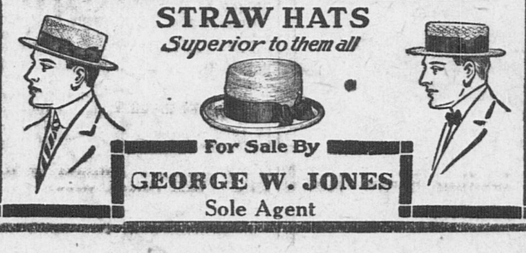

Miss Mary Hooper who up to a few weeks ago was employed as a clerk in the office of City Auditor Fairbanks at city hall, died Thursday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Faunce, in Norway, Me., where she was on a visit. Miss Hooper resigned her position at city hall to accept a position with the Christian Science Publishing House in Boston, and at the time of her death was having a brief vacation. She was taken ill with heart trouble last Tuesday and her mother, Mrs. Mary D. Hooper of 90 Glover avenue, Atlantic was telegraphed for. Mrs. Hooper was with her daughter when she passed away.

Miss Hooper made many friends while at city hall by her quiet, yet pleasant manner and was most faithful in the performance of her duties as clerk in the auditor's office. Always affected with a weak heart the work was too confining for her and she resigned to accept a position with the Christian Science Publishing House.

She was the daughter of the Rev. Washington Hooper, who has passed away, and Mrs. Mary D. Hooper, and made her home with her mother at 90 Glover avenue. She was about 23 years of age and besides her mother is survived by a brother Raymond F. Hooper. Her burial will take place at Norway, Me.

BRUTALLY ASSAULTS

men crawled up on him and taking every precaution to guard against his having a revolver they jumped and landed their man with a struggle.

Bullock lives on Ashtonwell avenue. When arrested he is said to have been partly under the influence of liquor, and according to the police he has no recollection of the affair. The past week he has been working at East Boston and said he was at work Wednesday. He is unable to account for his actions during the night.

Mrs. Whiting is one of the best known residents of Braintree and for some years has lived alone in the Whiting homestead, quite a distance off the main road and in a heavily wooded section. She is fairly active but very deaf

This morning she was awakened by someone pounding on the door of her home On looking out of her window she saw a bareheaded man, kneeling on the step When he saw her he took a pad of paper from his pocket and through motions coaxed the old lady to the door. After making more motions Mrs Whiting decided he was in need of a hat and stepping to one side she pointed to one hanging on a hook at the head of the stairs. The hat was formerly worn by her son when he made his home with her.

The man ran up the stairs without delay and she stood at the foot He immediately returned and when near the bottom step suddenly jumped on the old woman who had attempted to befriend him.

Mrs. Whiting fell to the floor and the man, as far as can be learned, assaulted her by punching and jumping on her.

Leaving the house on the run he was seen by S. F. Hawes, who lives a quarter of a mile away, across a large open space. Suspicious that something might have happened. Hawes started toward the house and the man disappeared into the woods. As Hawes neared the house the old lady staggered out of the doorway and toward him. She had gone but a short distance when she collapsed

Realizing the serious possibilities of the assault Hawes lost no time in summoning the police and doctors. Dr. F E. Gile on examination said he found the aged woman internally injured and suffering from a severe shock.

Chief of Police Galvin was one of the first to arrive and with Patrolman John Shay raised a posse. The fire department was called out and all immediately took up the trail

LARGE NUMBER AT PIANO RECITAL

The pupils of Miss Celina Belivean entertained nearly 300 people in Colonial hall Thursday evening at a piano recital. Miss Rose Lizotte McCarty was the accompanist and Carl Ashton the violinist. Miss Belivea also rendered several vocal selections

The audience was a most enthusiastic one and heartily applauded the artistes as they appeared. One of the pleasing numbers of the evening was the "Valse de concert." Wienawski, by Miss Margaret Hartery, who also accompanied Miss Beliveau. Miss Esther Bergfors and Miss Leontina Del Lucca also did exceptionally well. Mr Ashton, who is an accomplished violinist, was well received.

Among the young women who ushered were Miss H E. Moeser, Miss Louise Dunn, Miss Mildred Moyle, Miss Esther Sutherland, Miss Alice Sullivan, Miss Gertrude Deane and Miss Josephine Savoie.

Those who participated were the Misses Mary McGinty, Margaret Craig Helen Genero, Ivy Vinton, Cordellia McLennon, Elizabertha Tobbenboske, Marcia Merrill, Elizabeth Coughlin, Anna Irvine, Gertrude Shevlin. A duet was rendered by Miss Dorothy McLennon and Miss Miriam Hutt.

JURY BREAKS WILL.

State Officer Scott Wins His Case.

The jury of the Norfolk County Superior Court, Judge Keating presiding, has returned a verdict in the case of State Officer John H. Scott of Braintree who appealed from the decision of the probate court allowing the will of his brother Charles J. Scott of Milton. The jury found that Charles J. Scott was not of sound mind and that there had been undue influence on the part of Bradford O. Hamilton and Ianthe Hamilton. The estate, which consisted of about $5,000, was left to Mrs. Hamilton who was a sister of Mr. Scott and the wife of Bradford Scott the executor of the will. Under the original will John H. Scott received a bequest of $100 but will now receive considerably more.

LARGE NUMBER AT WHIST

Mrs. F. J. Wade, 19 Cherry street, Quincy Point, entertained more than 50 at whist Thursday evening in aid of the Quincy Point Catholic church. The winners were Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. DeYoung, Miss Lena Smith and Miss Mary Bruton. Joseph Moriarty was awarded the consolation. Refreshments were served at the close of the party and a social hour was enjoyed.

POSSE HUNTS MODERN ADAM

Stark naked and with all his clothes under his arm rolled into a good sized bundle, a middle aged man knocked at the door of a house on Hancock and Beale street early Thursday evening and was chased away.

The man made an attempt to enter through an open door When threatened with arrest he ran. Several who were in the vicinity gathered and formed a posse. The police were notified and men were sent to the scene. No trace of the amateur Joe Knowles has been uncovered as yet.

THURSDAY'S COURT

Joseph E. Burke pleaded not guilty to assault and battery. Continued to May 29. Bail $1000. Pleaded guilty to drunkenness. Same continuance.

John D. Sedgley, on complaint of Officer C. H. Johnson of school board charged with neglecting to send children to school. Fined $20 and given probation. Officer Johnson testified to unhabitable conditions in home.

GET PERMIT FOR BUSINESS BLOCK

Inspector of Buildings Thomas issued a permit Thursday for the business block that is to be erected near the Wollaston depot by Forrest W. Norris of Cambridge at an estimated cost of $30,000. Ernest W. Campbell is the architect of the building which will be one story high and will be built of brick and terra cotta by Morgan & Bolt. The front of the building will be circular in shape having part of its frontage on Beale street and part toward the railroad track and will contain twelve stores.

The frontage of the building is to be 275 feet while the rear is to be 160 feet and the depth will be 60 feet. As has been stated work will not be commenced until it is definitely decided by the City Council what changes are to be made in the grade of Beale street at this point. This will be determined at the public hearing to be held June 7.

TO GIVE DRAMA.

"The Irish Rebel," the three act drama to be given in Hibarnian hall Tuesday and Wednesday evening under the auspices of Div. 5, A. O. H., has created considerable interest among members and friends. The play is being coached by Alexander McGhee and James McArdle, formerly members of a dramatic society in Scotland. They will also participate. The title role will be played by John Donahue, president of the division. Others in the cast will be Miss Bessie Burke and Miss Helen Connor, James Carlin, Dennis Coughlin and Allen Connor.

The base ball team of R. E. Foy's stores will play at Forest Hills Wednesday with the Ferguson Bakery combination of Boston as its opponents. The team is well equipped and the members will wear their new uniform of gray and crimson. The team is managed by L. Tenney and captained by George Gustin. The team was to have played the police Wednesday but were unable to on account of rain.

HOUGHS NECK TO HAVE NAUTICAL GARDENS

It will be of interest to residents and visitors to Houghs Neck to know that the old 'Telless' ball room, corner of Fensmere avenue and Sea street, has changed hands. T. M. Taylor of Hyde Park who recently purchased the property is sparing no efforts to make the hall appear all that its new name (The Nautical Gardens), implies. The interior of the building has been completely renovated, under the suspervision of Mr. Mosely, of Dedham, who is well known to dancers. The floor has been entirely resurfaced, and the ball room is being draped with imitation flowers of various descriptions, giving it the appearance of one huge garden.

Music for the dances will be furnished by Clark's Waltham orchestra of six pieces, which is completing its most successful winter season around greater Boston. The opening dances May 29 and May 31 promises to be one of the salient events at Houghs Neck during the coming season, and preparations are being made to accommodate a large number of people. Dances will be held every Wednesday and Saturday evenings during June and also June 17. Commencing July 1 the summer schedule will commence and dances will be held every evening except Sundays until Labor day.

CONFERS WITH R. R. OFFICIALS

At a conference held by Mayor Campbell with the officials of the New Haven railroad changes in the train service between Quincy and Boston about which there has been several complaints and petitions to the Mayor were discussed. The particular changes desired are two in number and include an inward train in the morning and an outward train in the evening.

The time table as now arranged, provides for inward trains leaving Quincy at 10.04 and 10.17 and from then there is a wait of over an hour before there is another inward train. The next inward train does not leave Quincy until 11.24. What is desired is a train which will leave Quincy about 11.04. There are several inward trains about this time but they run express through Quincy.

Another train which is much needed is one that will leave Boston somewhere about 8.25 or 8.30 in the evening. Under the present schedule there is an outward train making the Quincy stop which leaves Boston at 8.04 P. M. Then there is a wait of an hour and a half or until 9.34 before the next outward Quincy train. As with the inward trains there are several leaving Boston about the time desired but they all run express through Quincy.

The Mayor did not receive any definite promise at the conference that Quincy should be given these trains although he believes that they will be put on if possible.

In addition to the train service the Mayor also took up the matter of the gates at the Robertson street crossing on the Granite branch and the foot path across the tracks south of the Quincy Adams station.

In relation to the gates it was said that unless the crossing was one largely used by teams and automobiles it could be better protected by a flag man. If gates were put in the gate man would have to stand near one side to operate them and there was always a tendency for people to go under the gates, especially children In the case of a flag man however, as at present, he stands in the centre of the crossing and can readily reach out and pull back any children who start to cross when a train is approaching.

However, the officials informed the Mayor that they were having a count made of the number of foot passengers and teams using the crossing and on this would depend what action would be taken. This count will be made three or four days a week and will continue for two or three weeks.

In regard to the foot path over the tracks at Quincy Adams the Mayor said this was against the law. He also said that the railroad had men on duty near where citizens are now crossing to warn them that they were violating the law. However, Mayor Campbell says that when the elimination of the grade crossing at Water street is put through the railroad promised that it would take up the matter of building a tunnel beneath the tracks at some point south of the Quincy Adams station for the accommodation of the travelling public.

HOSPITAL AID HAS MEETING

The Hospital Aid Association met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. Henry Emery on Adams street. The members spent the afternoon in sewing sheets and coverings for hot water bottles. It was reported that the society had been admitted to the Federation. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Among those present at the meeting were Mrs. William B. Rice, through the generosity of whose husband the hospital was established and Mrs. Hill, superintendent at the hospital. The next meeting will be held Thursday, June 24, with Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur.

We merely want you to see for yourself that for $15.00 you will get here precisely the same values, the same styles, the same fabrics and the same tailoring, for which the ground floors ask $25, and they are worth $25. They were made to sell at that price everywhere—but just the same, every man who pays $25 is losing that $10—which the ground floors are compelled to tack on to the actual cost of the garments—in order to get the money to pay their own big running expenses—their enormous rents, floor walkers, office force, expensive deliveries, and for the goods sold on credit and never paid for.

But we haven't any of these expenses---and instead of adding $10 to your cost---we take off $10---and you save more by getting guaranteed $25 clothes for only $15.00.

TRY Be Well

It isn't Nature's design that your joy in life should be spoiled by little ills—that you should continually suffer from biliousness, nervousness, constipation or indigestion. Live as Nature requires and you will never have an ache or pain—live under artificial conditions, neglect yourself, and Nature unaided cannot make you well.

Assist Nature and she will do her share. Take the harmless vegetable remedy—Beecham's Pills. They clear the system of impurities, stimulate the liver, regulate the kidneys and bowels.

BEECHAM'S

Take Beecham's Pills whenever the system becomes sluggish and clogged with poisonous matter. Beecham's Pills will quickly remove the poison from the system, clear the skin and make you feel normal. They will put the organs of digestion in good working order, so that the food you eat, instead of causing discomfort, will really nourish you and build you up.

Millions of people keep Beecham's Pills always within easy reach. With a box at hand, they not only make themselves well by at once righting disordered conditions, but keep so, because with every organ working as Nature intended, they remain free from disease. THE THINNING RANKS.

(By Charles L. H. Wagner.)

The bugles sound, the rolling drums
Have signaled break of day.
Arise, O comrades, and again
Greet this Memorial Day;
Attention! Fall in line and count,
One, Two, Three, Four, begin!
And answer to the roll-call now,
O, God! the ranks are thin!

Where's Smith, who fought at Seven Pines?
Where's Jones, who was with me At Gettysburg for three whole days
And saw the rout of Lee?
What dead? No, boys, it can't be true
They marched with us last year
They seemed as well and strong as I,
I thought they'd sure be here.

Old Adams gone? And Sergeant Green?
And full two score or more
Who answer not unto their names
As in the days of yore?
All dead and lying 'neath the ground?
Yes, boys, it must be so,
Or else they'd march with us today
And answer "Here," I know.

I fear me, boys, it won't be long
Before our time will come.
We'll have to recognize the call
When Death shall beat the drum.
Our ranks are few, and fewer still Another year will find.
It won't be long ere not a one
Of us is left behind.

But while we're here, O comrades, show
Our colors all unfurled.
God bless that flag; We've saved it, boys.
It's honored o'er the world.
And once again today we'll think
Of those who fought and died
To keep our Union all intact
And bled on Freedom's side.

Now, forward march; right shoulder arms!
Forget your years again.
The band leads on; acquit yourselves
Today like valiant men.
Another year, maybe, we, too,
Will sleep in Mem'ry's bed.
But here today we're privileged
To honor noble dead.

STRICKEN WHILE WORKING ON SHIP

Charles Willmott, 41 years, collapsed while at work Friday on the battleship "Nevada," under construction at the Fore River shipyard and died within two hours after his admittance to the Quincy City Hospital. Death was probably due to heart trouble. Willmott lived at 19 Cherry street, Quincy Point. After he collapsed he was carried off the ship and given first aid at the Red Cross Hospital in the yard. He was then taken to the City Hospital in the police ambulance.

GRAND ARMY READY FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Program of Day Differs Little From That of Other Years

Clear skies and seasonable temperature is indicated for Monday, the day which the members of the Grand Army and kindred organizations will devote to decorating the graves of those soldiers of '61 who gave up their lives on the field of battle that the union might be preserved and to those who have in the days of peace answered the last roll call and are now mustered in the Grand Army above. The program for Paul Revere Post 88 G. A. R., according to general Order No. 1, issued by Mark E. Hanson, commander, differs but little from that of other years.

On the morning of Monday, Memorial Day, the post will assemble at headquarters in full uniform at 7 o'clock.

Details will immediately be dispatched to the several cemeteries in the city to decorate the graves of comrades. Other details will visit Mt. Auburn and decorate the grave of Col. Paul J. Revere, for whom the post is named, and that of Samuel W. Spear.

At 7.15 Senior Vice Commander Thomas Ring, accompanied by the chaplain of the day, Rev. Merrill C. Ward and two comrades will proceed to the National Sailors' Home and hold services.

At 9.30 the Post will form on Hancock street in front of headquarters and escorted by the Sons of Veterans, the Spanish War Veterans and the Wollaston band will march to the junction of School and Franklin streets where cars will be taken for West Quincy, to visit the Hall and St. Mary's cemeteries.

At 12 o'clock noon the post will stand uncovered and at attention for 5 minutes. This ceremony will take place wherever the post happens to be at that hour.

During the noon hour beginning at 12 o'clock or as near that hour as possible dinner will be served in Faxon hall.

At 2.30 o'clock the Grand Army will form in front of headquarters and the line for the afternoon parade will be formed.

The line of march is down Hancock street to the grounds of the Adams Academy where appropriate exercises will be held.

Exercises by the Woman's Relief corps in memory of the unknown dead will follow the exercises of the Grand Army.

The commands then return to headquarters where they will be dismissed.

ROCKLAND BOWS TO LOCAL BOYS

High School Team Wins Hard Game

QUINCY 4, ROCKLAND 2.

Quincy High school in a South Shore league game at Rockland Friday afternoon beat Rockland High and Umpire Connolly of Brockton 4 to 2.

The feature of the game was the umpiring. Equipped with everything an arbitrator should have, from the rule book to the little brush to sweep the plate, Connolly performed to the satisfaction of Rockland and made biased returns against the local boys. Another feature was the batting of O'Donnell who got two hits and a sacrifice. Quincy played the follow-up game, the seven hits registered off Sproule coming in proper order to annex a win. The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Q. H. S.	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	4	7	2
R. H. S.	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	5	5

Batteries—Hamlin and DiSenso; Sproule and J. Caine.

MORNING GAME.

The old rivalry between the Rail and the West Quincy factions will again be threshed out Memorial Day when the St. Mary's will meet the West Quincy boys at the Ward Four playground at 10.30.

THE GRAND ARMY.

In these troublesome days, so fraught with peril to the nation which watches with anxious eyes the great struggle across the water, never knowing when it will be involved Decoration Day, or as we prefer to call it Memorial Day, will impress us even more deeply than in the past.

The members of the Grand Army of the Republic are no longer young the ranks of blue clad veterans are sadlydepleted but he spirt which in spired those citizen sodiers is stil alive in their breasts and let us hope in ours. Answering the frantic cal of their country the noble men of the 60's saw their duty and went to the aid of the republic. They fought and died for the preservation of the union they loved so well, not, as the butchers of Europe, to give their country a larger place in the sun.

We honor those who have gone and those who are with us still. The soldiers of Europe may march with a firmer tread but they cannot touch the hearts of men as does the tramp of the Grand Army of the Republic.

BLOODTHIRSTY DEMOS.

It is frequently said by persons more optimistic than thoughtful that it is not the German people who were war mad but the German government, as if governments today, even monarchies were something wholly above and apart from the people. Of course the evidence clearly shows that the German government acted with the full approval of its subjects.

However, that may be, it is at least quite clear that Italy's entry into the whirlpool of international passion and greediness was not the action of a war-like government which imposed its will upon an apathetic people. The shoe is on the other foot. Victor Emanuel's very throne would have tottered had he resisted the tremendous popular and passionate demand for war on Austria. Demos can be quite as blood-thirsty as any monarch in the world.

POUR ON WATER.

It appears to be a delusion of our city government that a street in process of construction does not need sprinkling Hancock street largely closed to vehicle traffic between Granite and School streets still possesses sidewalks which are utilized and stores which are patronized. Dust can sometimes be stirred up by the wind without the assistance of automobiles or carriages. Quincy's water bill may be large but this should not lead to an economy which will leave unsprinkled a portion of the highway as important as the section in question. The clouds of dust which have been covering everything and everybody caught within the area now being transformed into an up-to date street seem hardly necessary.

GUARD THE CEMETERIES.

In past years there have been persons in this city, for whom the dictionary provides no suitable name, who have visited the cemeteries the night before Memorial Day and have stolen flowers placed on the graves. That persons so base should breathe seems unbelievable but so it is, and every effort should be made by the authorities to prevent such dirty business. Adequate police protection should guard the cemeteries of the city Sunday night and Monday morning.

New York has a new marvel. A Capitalist is to build a seven story building there on an important corner. The ground squatter may yet drive out the skyscraper.

This surely is pessimistic. The Cleveland Plain Dealer says: "If the Nobel peace prize is cumulative, it will be a nice fat fortune for the next one who wins it."

Some British subjects are frank in expresing the wish that General news could get past the censors as easily as Kitchener's views on the use of alcoholic beverages.

California suggests an "Olive-day" olives being so much more aristocratic than the revenue producing prune.

It is said that ghosts enter haunted houses with the aid of skeleton keys.

BELIEVE FIRE WAS INCENDIARY

The fire was discovered by Charles C. Foster, who succeeded in extinguishing it before the department arrived. Mr. Foster found a lot of old papers and rubbish piled on the steps which leads to the belief that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

Weekly Market Review

When one parts with 12 or 15 cents for a box of strawberries and takes them home in anticipation of a feast, only to find when served that they are not fully ripened or are sour and tasteless it is a little exasperating to read in the Weekly News Letters, issued by the department of Agriculture at Washington, that every year thousands of bushels of strawberries go to waste in the larger producing centers of the United States because of the low prices or some adverse condition. In many regions of the south 20 to 25 per cent. of the crop is never gathered because the prices are too low to justify picking. With the ever increasing demand for the fruit for jellies, preserves and marmalades, this loss should be reduced. If the berries could be placed upon the local markets at lower prices than at present the result would be that many housekeepers would preserve a large amount of them for use during the winter months.

One of the best methods of handling the fruit according to the report is to wash the berries thoroughly in cold water, put them in tight barrels with sugar in about equal parts, in which condition they can be shipped to refrigerating plants where they may readily be kept in cold storage until needed. If the fruit is in good condition when placed in cold storage it can be kept for a long time without any great loss to its flavor and fresh color.

Reports from the big markets in Chicago are that the hog market is five cents higher, the cattle market ten cents higher, and the sheep market strong. This probably means that one need not look for any reduction in the prices of meat in the local markets at present. In the same markets wheat is reported as having received a setback due largely to reports of the torpedoing of the Nebraskan and because of the absence of export sales.

Butter is higher and firm, due to the lifting of prices of the producers prompted by the recent advances in the outside markets. The local demand however is anything but brisk, and the wholesalers are storing considerable, waiting for a favorable opportunity to unload at a good prices.

Flour quotations in Boston are practically the same as a week ago and there is no change in the retail prices. Flour at the mills is quoted at $7.75, and $8.25, rye flour at $6.05 and $6.55 and graham flour at $6.10 and $7.75.

Wholesale fish prices are pretty much the same as a week ago and consequently there is no perceptible change in the retail prices. Halibut is a little higher than a week ago owing to but little coming in. Mackerel is a little less plentiful this week but is of better quality. Salmon is gradually working down with the result that the sales are increasing. The market is also fairly well supplied with blue fish and the price of this fish as well as other fancy varieties is a little lower than it has been.

Coming to fresh vegetables, the markets today are teeming with appetizing spring vegetables. Of course the majority of these are Southern grown but there are some native vegetables in markets and prices are reasonable. To quote a few prices it might be said that string beans are selling for 15 cents a quart and butter beans for the same price. Nice looking cucumbers are quoted at 7 cents or four for 25 cents. Tomatoes are selling for 15 cents a pound. Cauliflower, small and tender, for 10 cents each.

Native radishes can be had at the rate of two bunches for 5 cents, native lettuce at 5 cents a bunch, bunch beets at 8 cents a bunch and asparagus at 10 cents a bunch. Some fine looking strawberries are also listed at 15 cents a box.

In fruit there is also a great variety and prices are reasonable.

AT KINCAIDE'S.

The bill at Kincaide's theatre for the balance of the week which opened Thursday night is one of the best seen here in a long time. The leading vaudeville number is the Southern Serenaders, composed of a trop of eight colored people, four men and four women. They made a great hit on the opening night. Other vaudeville features were Harry Sydel, talking comedian, and Monsieur Albert the shadowgraphist. The pictures shown were "The Governor's Lady," a political play with a moral and the twenty-first episode in the "Exploits of Elaine."

SONS OF VETERANS

Quincy, Mass., May 24, 1915.
General Orders, No. 1.

MEMORIAL DAY: Forty six years ago the beautiful custom of strewing flowers on the last resting place of the comrades of the Civil War was first observed. Memorial Day is the most sacred day in the year to every true patriot, and it furnishes us, the Sons of those noble men, with a valued opportunity to show the Veterans, and the citizens of Quincy, what our order stands for. It is plain to be seen that this task will soon fall upon us entirely, so let us show the Veterans, by our co-operation and willingness to serve, that the customs of Memorial Day, which they have so faithfully carried out, will be as sacredly performed as they would have them.

Every brother of this Camp is expected to conduct himself in a dignified, reverent and military manner, to render prompt, efficient and obedient service to his superior officers; to use his influence in making Memorial Day more of a holy, and less of a holiday: to do all that he can to give a more general observance and a deeper significance to the day, by a personal participation with his Camp in the religious service of Memorial Sunday, and the various public ceremonies of Memorial Day, and to discourage at all times the growing tendency to make May 30th a day for excursions, picnics and ball games.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY, MAY 30

The Camp will assemble at Headquarters at 9.30 A. M. and proceed to the Washington street Congregational Church to attend memorial services. In the evening the Camp will meet at Hearquarters at 6.45 P. M. and will march to the Universalist Church to attend memorial services.

A detail in charge of J. V. C. Porter will accompany P. C. Phillips of Post 88 to assist in decorating the graves in the Hancock and English cemeteries.

A detail in charge of Treas. Stratard will be assigned to duty at Faxon hall.

Brother Willey Stoddard will accompany Comrade Luther H. Parrott to Mt. Auburn cemetery to decorate the graves of Paul J. Revere and Comrade Samuel W. Spear.

All details will report back at Headquarters not later than 9.00 A. M.

At 9.15 A. M. line of march will be formed, and Camp 95 will escort Post 88 to School and Franklin streets, where cars will be taken for West Quincy.

On returning from West Quincy, collation will be served in Faxon Hall.

Immediately after lunch the Camp will assemble and proceed to Hancock Cemetery where services will be held at the grave of Col. Abner B. Packard; thence to Headquarters and take position in the line of march to the Adams Academy Grounds where services will be held for the Unknown Dead.

After the services, Camp 95 will escort Post 88 to Headquarters.

S. V. C. Walter M. Packard will have charge of the Past Commanders and the first platoon of the Camp.

J. V. C. Lester A. Porter will have charge of the second platoon of the Camp, and visitors.

POLITICAL POT IS BOILING MERRILY

The latest developments in the political situation are of interest for they affect municipal as well as state politics.

"Nothing to say," was the answer of John W. McAnarney when asked if he was to be a candidate for mayor this fall. Joseph L. Whiton has announced that he may be some day but not this year.

Senator Langelier is to be a candidate for reelection although it was stated earlier in the year he was to devote his spare time to a congressional campaign. Kenneth Nash, representative from the Weymouth district who was to have been a candidate will not enter the race until next fall. Rumor also couples the name of Rep. Edward J. Sandberg with the nomination.

Councilman James O'Dowd of Ward four has announced he will enter the lists this fall as a candidate to succeed Rep. Sandberg. He is now serving his second term as a city father.

An effort is being made it is understood to induce Michael T. Sullivan to run again this year. He was beaten last fall by Rep. Charles Ericson who will in all probability seek the office again.

Councilman Charles Ross prominently mentioned in connection with the Republican nomination in the fifth district has declined to run. Col. A. L. Whitman of the Point is the only avowed candidate so far for Rep. Ericson's berth.

Only 5% PLUS for the Best "Non-Skid"

PRACTICALLY all Non-Skid Tires that make serious claims to non-skid efficiency cost you 10% to 30% more than Plain Tread Tires of same brand and material.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our plain tread tires.

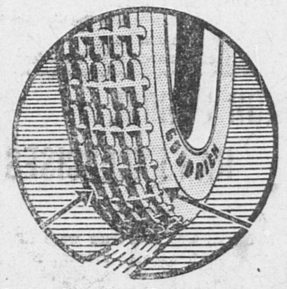

Here's how and Why!

o o o

FORTY-FIVE years of Rubber working (in what is now the World's largest Rubber Factory) has taught us a few Kinks and Short-cuts that are not common to the Trade.

One of these now comes to the help of your Pocket-book.

Through the simple process of Thinking Hard (and being Candid with ourselves) we have found a Short-Cut to make the best Safety Tread ever put on a Tire cost us only about 5% more than it costs to make the Plain-Tread of similar quality.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our own or any other plain tread tires.

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columnsheaded "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly advertised tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES "A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30 x 3	$9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$18.10
30 x 3½	12.20	13.35	14.20	21.70	23.60
32 x 3½	14.00	15.40	16.30	22.85	25.30
34 x 4	20.35	22.30	23.50	31.15	33.55
36 x 4½	28.70	32.15	33.60	41.85	41.40
37 x 5	33.90	39.80	41.80	49.85	52.05

By testing out these Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires on a large number of Taxicabs (where they could be competitively observed and carefully checked up at the end of each day's use) and by comparing their actual performance with that of our own, and other Plain-Treads, of much higher price, we have had this fact forced upon us—

Viz:

—That there is SURPRISINGLY more Mileage, in Goodrich Safety Tread Tires, than in our own, or any other, make of Plain-Tread Tires.

So MUCH more Mileage, for only 5% more Cost looked so good to us that we decided to give Car Owners the benefit.

Here's what we now offer you!

The best Non-Skid Safety Tread ever put on the market, and it costs you only 5% more than our best plain tread tire.

Taps! Lights out!
The silent camps are sleeping now,
The soldiers are at rest;
No battle cry
Sounds where they lie
Upon the still earth's breast.
No more for them are war's alarms,
No vigils need they keep
For flowers are the sentinels
That guard them as they sleep.

O'KEEFE SPEAKER.

Addresses Norfolk Downs Improvement Association.

At a meeting held by the Norfolk Downs Improvement association in Poland's hall Thursday evening James A. O'Keefe, state fire commissioner, spoke on "Fire Causes and Their Prevention." Mr. O'Keefe paid a glowing tribute to Fire Chief Billings because of his tireless energy and absolute fearlessness and he expressed the hope that Mr. Billings would be retained in that office for many years.

Mr. O'Keefe expressed his pleasure at having a large number of women present as many fires were due directly or indirectly to women. Among those causes for which women were responsible, he spoke of children being allowed to play with matches, spontaneous combustion caused by rags saturated with inflammable material used in cleaning floors and stoves, gas jets placed where lace curtains can blow into the flames, accumulation of rubbish in attics and cellars and cleaning of gloves with gasolene near fire. The commissioner said that in the fall there would be lessons given in the schools in Quincy upon the prevention of fire.

The president of the association, Edward Palmer, introduced Harry E. Lake who spoke briefly upon the "Preservation of Life and Property" as it is being carried on by the Massachusetts state commission. A business meeting of the organization was held following the close of the speakers.

DID HER BEST.

Mrs. Lane's mother taught her that it is a waste of money to send less than ten words in a telegram. Mrs. Lane's husband taught her that in sending a telegram one should stick to his subject to avoid confusion. On Mr. Lane's first absence from home he sent a telegram saying: "Are you all right? Send answer to Chicago." After a few minutes spent in agitated thought Mrs. Lane wrote the following message: "Yes. Yes. Yes. I am very well indeed, thank you."—Christian Register.

"THE FORRESTER'S DAUGHTER," A SERIAL OF THE EVER WELCOME KIND

If you want a story dealing with adventures in the great west, don't fail to watch for the new serial to start next week in the Ledger, "The Forester's Daughter," by Hamlin Garland. It's the kind of serial that is full of thrills, and holds ones attention from beginning to end. There is nothing tawdry about "The Forester's Daughter." You don't find impossible situations in it and its author hasn't allowed his mind to weave wild fantasies that could never happen in real life.

Instead of these the story is replete with human interest, love, adventure. It is a romance of the great forests of the Bear Tooth range of Colorado.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

At the banquet of the Quincy Republican City committee last week a Boston paper included among the list of speakers Charles S. Baxter. Our contemporary was in error. The speaker was Jesse B. Baxter of Milton. This correction is made by request as Charles S. Baxter has Progressive affiliations.

The student body of the Milton High school very appropriately recognized the approaching retirement of Clarence Boylston from the faculty of the school when exercises were held Thursday in the assembly hall Principal Charles L. Curtis spoke briefly of the excellent example Mr. Boylston has set for the youth of today. Kenneth D. Johnson, president of the senior class, as chairman of a committee chosen to draw up resolutions, presented the same to the school. He then gave Mr. Boylston a handsome bunch of crimson tulips as a gift from the school to Mrs. Boylston who is confined to her home by illness. Mr. Boylston received them and assured the pupils that everything had come as a sudden but extremely pleasant surprise.

Mr. Boylston has been connected with the public schools of the town for forty years and is at present sixty-two years of age. In 1835 he was appointed to the faculty of the High school. Besides his duty as head of the science department he has also served the past several years as assistant principal.

He is a teacher who is especially loved and respected by the pupils and is highly esteemed by all who ever had acquaintance with him.

He is now retiring so that he may have an opportunity to travel and to spend more time on his farm in Duxbury.

Cornelius Van Ham, the popular letter carrier, is receiving congratulations on all sides today upon the arrival of his fifth child, a girl.

Samuel S. Gilbert and family are to move to Braintree the middle of June.

The Agenda club of the First Baptist church held a banquet and social Friday evening in the vestry. The president, Miss Edith Davidson, presented Mrs. J. Hamilton Woodsum, and Charles Goucher the able director at the recent concert, with gold pieces. Games and singing were enjoyed.

Under the direction of the Bird club bird day will be observed next Thursday afternoon at Cunningham park. Waldo Forbes, the town bird warden, Jesse B. Baxter of the directors and Miss Mabel Turner, instructor in school gardening, will speak.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robie of Hope avenue are the proud parents of a baby girl.

The choir boys of the First Baptist church are to hold a supper this evening in the vestry.

The usual Memorial Day formal service at the Town hall Monday morning is to be held under the direction of the Grand Army assisted by the Women's Relief Corps, Daughters and Sons of Veterans, and by the citizens in general. Nathaniel S. Barry, commander of Huntington F. Wolcott post 102, G. A. R., will preside and there will be the usual ritual service. A new feature in the program will be a drill by Troop 4, Boy Scouts of this town. Peter J. Barry of the Belcher Grammar school will deliver Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

The usual oration will be delivered by Rev. A. A. Rideout, pastor of the Blainey Memorial church. Singing will be furnished by a quartet. Following this service the members of the Post, escorted by Col. Oliver W. Peabody camp 74, Sons of Veterans, Emma Forbes, War tent 57, Daughters of Veterans and several troops of Boy scouts and led by Rollins brass band will march from the town hall to the Milton cemetery, where the customary exercises will be held on Soldiers' lot and Col. Peabody's grave. Upon their return to the Town hall, luncheon will be served by the Huntington F. Wolcott W. R. C. 147, assisted by Boy Scouts.

AMUSEMENTS

TREMONT TEMPLE.

Commencing Monday afternoon there will be exhibited at the Tremont Temple, Boston, for the first time in America, a wonderful collection of natural color motion pictures of the armies and navies of the great warring Nations of Europe. These remarkable pictures were taken with Government operation by over forty Kinemacolor moving picture camera men costing over $200,000 and representing $3,000 feet of film. The submarine and torpedoes as well as the Zeppelin fleet of the German Navy and Army are shown at Kiel with the balance of the Prussian main fleet with Admiral Von Virpitz and Kaiser Wilhelm on board the Hohcazollern; King George of England and General French are pictured "somewhere in France," as well as all the kings and generals who have taken an active part in the present terrible war. From an educational point of view these pictures should be seen by everyone. There will be daily matinees and popular prices of 25c, 35c and 50c will prevail.

MODERN THEATRE.

William Farnum, the highest salaried and most popular actor of the silent drama, will be the headline attraction for the coming week at the magnificent exclusive Modern theatre, Boston. Mr. Farnhm, supported by a cast of superlative favorites, will appear in the latest and most stirring Fox Film production of Roy Morton's "The Plunderer." The piece is offered in five parts replete with tense and exciting situations. The story is a thrilling romance of the lure of yellow gold. Many of the scenes were photographed in a deserted gold mine region in the southern part of the country. Mr. Farnum is seen as Bill Matthews, a character that fits the brilliant actor to a T. The leading feminine role is in the capable hands of Claire Whitney. The rest of the bill includes the fourth installment of "The Goddess," several of the latest comic and dramatic photo-plays and some high class vaudeville. Bear in mind that the Modern theatre is the recognized photo-playhouse de luxe of Boston and has an exclusive clientele. The prices are 15 cents and 25 cents. High grade concerts are given every Sunday evening.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Next week's offering at the Castle Square Theatre, Boston, is to be a "costume piece," a step back into the romantic drama following farce and comedy drama. "A Celebrated Case" is a play of more than national fame; written in France and produced there first, it has become one of the classics of the stage.

Its story tells of the adventures of a French soldier at the time of the Battle of Fontenoy, when the French and Irish were arrayed against the English. This soldier, John Renaud, left his company at night without permission, to visit his wife and child. Crossing the battle field, he found a wounded nobleman, the Count de Mornacy, in the hands of a camp follower named Lazare, who was robbing him. De Mornay gave Renaud his papers and jewels, and three hundred louis for himself.

These Renaud left with his wife, but Lazare, who had followed him home, robbed and murdered the woman, managing to make her declare in her child's hearing that she was with her husband. Because of this Reaund was next morning convicted of the murder and sentenced to death by his colonel. The sentence was however commuted to imprisonment for life in the galleys.

His little daughter was adopted by the Duke d'Aubeterre and grew up with Valentine de Mornay. In due course, Lazare, who had by means of the Count de Mornay's papers, seized that nobleman's title and estate, presented himself for the purpose of taking away his "daughter." At the same time, Adrienne, John's daughter, recognized her father in a gang of convicts who happened to stop near d'Aubeterre's estate.

Lazare had carried off from Renaud's house, among other things, a certain necklace which the Duchess d'Aubeterre had given Adrienne's mother, and the recognition of this among the jewels which he now presents to Valentine is in the end the means of the guilty man's being brought to justice.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

A feast of beauty and talent is promised for B. F. Keith's Theatre the week of May 31st. Three famous female stars will head the bill, the youngest of whom is Ruth Roye, the princess of ragtime. Little Miss Roye is a mere slip of a girl whose ability to "put over" ragtime songs has made her one of the most talked about headliners in vaudeville in the past few months. Maggie Cline, the Queen of All Ireland, whose kingdom lies in the hearts of variety patrons of all ages and races, will be another big star attraction, with a repertoire of new Irish songs, and of course, the perennial favorite, "Throw Him Down, McCluskey." Miss Cline will wear her famous necklace of emeralds and her green gowns. Valerio Bergere, the distinguished actress, will offer her very latest one-act dramatic playlet, "The Locks at Panama," with its scene laid in the powder magazine near the Gatun Locks. Miss Bergere has the part of an American secret service agent, and the play abounds in thrills and sensations. Other strong features will include the Scotch Lads and Lassies in a glittering revue of highland songs and dances.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The offering for the next week at the Majestic Theatre will be "Polly of the Circus," with Florence Martin in the title role, as the visiting star. The scene is in a small town in the Middle West. A circus has come to town, and Polly, the bareback rider, has been thrown and hurt. Polly is a true daughter of he circus. She knows no life beyond that of the tent.

The accident brings her into the home of a clergyman. During her convalescence Polly learns to love her new life, and lose her desire for the glamor of the circus through her love of the minister. However, the minister's congregation objects to her presence, and insists on her being sent back to the circus. The pastor refuses to give her up, but suggess that she go away to school, a proposition which she rejects. Learning of the congregation's objections to her, she returns to the show. Back in the circus, she is in bad form, and after repeated failures in her riding she is threatened with dismissal. The minister comes to hunt for her, and learns from Polly the reason she left him. He asks her to marry him, and just as she accepts she is called for her turn in he ring. Polly falls from her horse and is caught by the minister as a climax to the scene. The circus leaves, and Polly and the minister stand hand in hand watching the wagons fade in the distance.

Miss Florence Martin will be remembered for the interpretaion of the title role in "Peg o' My Heart" at the Cort Theatre early in the past season. Matinees daily.

PARAGON PARK.

May 29th, Paragon Park, Nantasket, and its famous Palm Garden begins its eleventh and what promises to be its most successful season. For the past ten years this popular summer seaside resort has stood alone among the pleasure resorts for which New England is famous and year by year it has anticipated the public's desires and presented new features to meet the public taste, until today it is without a peer in the field of amusement.

The Palm Garden noted for its excellent cuisine and service and its unsurpassed entertainment, the Cabaret and Dansant, will this season merge these two unique forms of entertainment into one grand round of pleasure, guests may from any part of the immense dining room seating 3000 witness the Cabaret features, or join in the modern dancing between courses at will.

Outside the Palm Garden in the Lagoon the chief amusement feature will be Alker's 8 trained polar bears who perform all sorts of marvelous feats and conclude their performance by shooting the chute into the Lagoon from a height of ninety feet. The free open air circus will include many new features this sunemer. There will be hourly Plaza and Lagoon concerts every day by Mace Gay's military band and each evening from 8.30 to 9 there will be a concert on the Lagoon stage by twenty pretty girls.

THE POP SEASON.

The annual season of "Pop Concerts" in Symphony hall, Boston, opens Tuesday evening, June 1 and will continue until Saturday evening, July 3. The season is unusually short this year owing to the trip the Boston Symphony orchestra made to San Francisco where it has been giving a series of thirteen extraordinarily successful concerts at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

Owing to the fact that there will be only five weeks of "pops" instead of the usual eight or nine, the regular patrons to get in their usual number of concerts will doubtless come more times in a week than has been their wont and everything points to a most successful season. The orchestra will comprise 65 members of the Symphony orchestra, as large an organization as many of the real Symphony orchestras in Europe and in this country. The programs, as they have always been will consist of music in its lighter and more attractive phases, waltzes, marches, selections from comic operas the musical comedies as well as a few standard pieces now and then from the classical repertoire which time has made very popular.

During the first two weeks the conductor will be Andro Maguarre, conductor of the "Pops" for several years and one of the most popular men who has ever held that post. The conductor for the following two weeks will be Ernst Schmidt, the assistant conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra. As last year and the year before the third conductor will be Clement Lenom also one who has had great success at this work and in his term always comes the popular "Request Night," this year set for Wednesday, June 30th which is one of the most crowded nights of the season.

Owing to the shortness of the season the number of "special nights" while in a sense curtailed, will come in quite close succession. For the opening night, Tuesday, June 1st, the Women's City club has taken the entire house as it did last year. Boston University has taken the entire house for the second night, so that the first general night for the public will really be June 2.

HOLD EXERCISES AT WOODWARD

Exercises appropriate to Memorial Day was held Friday noon at the Woodward Institute. The exercises were attended by Past Commander George L. Phillips of the Grand Army, Mrs. Kate Hayden of the Woman's Relief Corps and Miss Annie Merritt of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary. The program was similar to that of other years, opening with the singing of patriotic airs. This was followed by brief introductory remarks by Horace W. Rice, principal of the school, and brief remarks on the significance of Memorial Day by Past Commander Phillips. Miss Powers then read the introductory of Lincoln's speech at Gettysburg and the speech was read by Miss McKenzie of the freshmen class. The exercises closed with the singing of America.

ANOTHER APPEAL.

Mrs. Nina L. Duryea, who has been doing most efficient and praiseworthy relief work in France ever since war began, sends the following appeal for more help, as the field of her endeavors has been greatly extended. She says:

The scope of my relief work has so widened that, to be in touch with every need, my headquarters are now in Paris at the Hotel Roosevelt.

The Commission for Belgian Relief has officially announced that Belgians need no more clothing. But after months of war new and unconsidered conditions claim your pity.

Near Nisch in Serbia, there is a hospital where 1400 typhus patients lie on the plank floor, without even straw beneath fever-racked bodies. In Paris enough money has been acquired to pay 100 war-impoverished women twenty cents per day to make ticks for cot mattresses, which will be filled at their destination. But—it is impossible to buy either ticking or spools of cotton in sufficient quantity. No shop will now sell more than one spool to an individual. I beg you to gather together your friends and send ticking and numbers 30 to 50 white cotton, that these penniless women may earn, and that victims of war may lie on beds while fighting a second grim battle against death. Or send ticks all made!

After months in hospitals, thousands of soldiers are now creeping out into the sunshine, without legs and arms. They sit in brooding despair facing a future of poverty and incapacity. Wooden arms and legs are impossible to get here, as only one small factory remains unburned by the Germans.

Can you collect a quarter of a dollar from each friend, or send this letter to your local paper, asking it to start a subscription? Then with that money please buy wooden stumps and arms with hook in end (for hand) and ship them to me here? The simplest will do. Help these mutilated heroes.

Anything you send wil be welcome; disinfectants against not improbable pestilence; old clothes, either, and tonics. Address thus, and they will come free and quickly, Duryea, American Relief Clearing House, Pier 57, North River, N. Y.

Please be sure to put on outside of cases also your name and address, and what is in case (not detail), that I may acknowledge their receipt. What you send will be forwarded without red tape, with your name, to those whose gratitude will be yours.

The Quincy women's clubs through the Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs materially aided Mrs. Duryea a few months ago and will doubtless be quick to respond again.

HOLD MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES IN SCHOOLS

Delegate From Local Post, G. A. R., At Each School

In accordance with a time honored custom, Memorial Day exercises were held in all of the public schools of the city Friday afternoon as well as at the Woodward Institute, and St. John's Parochial school.

Comrades of Paul Revere Post 88 G. A. R. were detailed by Commander Mark E. Hanson to attend the several exercises and in addition to these there were present members of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, who had been detailed by Mrs. Cora Johnson, patriotic instructor. Comrades from Col. Abner B. Packard camp Sons of Veterans were also present at some of the schools.

The exercises in the main were held on the school grounds about the flag pole and included the singing of patriotic songs by the school children, declamations which in most cases included the reading of Lincoln's address at Gettysburg and a brief talk on the civil war by a member of the Grand Army. Assisted by the veterans the school flag was run to mast head and the children in unison gave the salute to the flag and repeated the oath of allegiance, the exercises closing with the singing of "America."

The delegates from the Grand Army and the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary detailed to each school were as follows:

High School, Past Commanders George L. Phillips and C. M. Marston and Mrs. Annie Merritt.

Adams School, James W. Pierce and Mrs. Idella Savage.

Atherton Hough School, William C. Baker and Miss Carrie Glover.

ASSOCIATION'S LADIES NIGHT

Members and Guests Enjoy Musical Program

The second annual ladies' night of the Wollaston Improvement association was most successfully held, Friday evening in Wollaston Yacht club hall, when a large number of members and guests enjoyed a musical program of unusual merit arranged by the entertainment committee.

The entertainment was furnished by the Sterling Entertainers consisting of Bertha Putney-Dudley, soloist; H. Fabrizio 'cellist and Grace Sage, reader. The musical program was pronounced by those present as second only to the concerts of the Wollaston Glee club.

In addition to the solo numbers, a solo number with 'cello obligato received well deserved applause. The readings of Miss Sage also found favor with the audience and several encores were given.

Following the program an order of ten dances was enjoyed, which included an assortment of the old and new steps. Music was furnished by the Keystone orchestra, W. J. Hayes director.

Refreshments were served during the evening. Responsible for the affair was the entertainment committee consisting of Maurice A. Kerins chairman; Harry M. Watts, Arthur J. Bartlett, Fred H. Chase, Charles E. Weeks, Russell T. Anthony.

This pleasant social event closed the meetings of the association for the season.

Fields 6, Willard 4

TWO TEAMS LOCKED.

Elimination is surely planting a team in first place in the American eague, and not only are grammar school pupils interested in the outcome but adults as well.

Until Friday afternoon the Gridleys, Massachusetts Fields and Willards were in a triple tie for first line. The latter lost to the Fields' combination and dropped out, while the Gridleys beat the Lincolns and kept in. The games next week will produce an entire change on the horizon

The Montclair team will undoubtedly continue to head the National league. The world's series is in sight and another unusual possibility exists. If Gridley and Montclair finish first in their respective leagues, Mr. Johnson, principal of both schools will be in a peculiar position. On the other hand, if it comes down to the Fields and Montclair combinations it will be old rivals bucking each other again. D. H. Goodspeed against Mr. Johnson. All teams are neck and neck when possibilities are considered.

WILLARDS NOW THIRD.

Fright Aids Massachusetts Fields To Win.

More than 150 men, women and children rooted at the Merrymount park lower field Friday afternoon while the Massachusetts Fields outgeneralled the Willards, winning by a score of 6 to 4, and entered a strong claim to first place in the American league. The damage was done in the second inning when two poor throws a two base hit and a real error, with a little stage fright thrown in, sent across four runs. Two more followed in the third.

Ganzel and Pagnano each fanned five men but the former was the steadiest and was given the best support. Incidentally he secured a couple of assists.

Ganzel was the victim of one of the unexpected happenings in the national game. In the fifth inning, with two out he shouted to a batter to hit it and started from third on the run. The batter swung and drove a ball down the base line. It struck Ganzel when he was less than 10 feet from the plate. The incident retired the side. The score by innings:

Fields	0 4 2 0 0 0—6
Willard	0 1 3 0 0 —4

Batteries—Ganzel and Morris; Pagnano and DiBona. Umpire, French.

GRIDLEYS AGAIN CONQUER.

Win Over Lincoln and Stay in First Place.

The defeat of the Lincolns by the Gridleys shoved that team still further into last place. The Gridleys made their runs in two innings, the second and last. Lincoln streamed theirs over three innings. Errors had much to do with the result The Lincoln boys were game however and fought hard, but overanxiousness made the ball slippery. The score by innings:

Gridley	0 5 0 0 0 5—10
Lincoln	3 1 0 0 4 0— 8

Batteries—Crowley and Carella; Raymond and Penfelli.
